OUR NATIONAL MUSEUM.

Better Known to the Public as the Smithsonian Institution.

Founded with Funds Left to the United States by James Smithson, an Englishman with a Terrible Grudge.

[Special Washington Letter.]

On that delightful reservation in Washington known as the "Mall" or Smithsonian grounds, there stands one of the most famous buildings in the world, namely, the "Smithsonian Institution." Although it is not one of the largest buildings in the world, it is architecturally remarkable. It is built of Seneca brownstone, and the Gothic style of architecture makes it resemble one of the ancient feudal castles with towers and battlements and embraures like loopholes, reminding one of the ancient battles of the nobles when they fought with arrows instead of guns.

Inside, the prospect is very different from that of an ancient feudal castle, for there one finds not fierce-bearded barons with their ladies crouching behind them in fear of the coming foe, with their army of soldiers, trenchmen, valets, serfs, servants, hangers-on, and minions. Next to the British museum, the greatest museum on earth, it is a museum not only of exhibits, but of education and for the diffusion of knowledge.

Here comes the peculiar and, one might almost say, the most important feature of this institution; for, at Genoa, Italy, on the 27th day of June, and in the year 1529, one of the noblest men that ever tutor of the will, James Hungerford Smithson's nephew (to whom he had left interest in his property and to whose children, if he should marry and have an heir or heirs, legitimate or illegitimate, he left all his property, except an annuity of £100 a year to one John F'fall, an old servant), had died at Pisa, Italy, on the 5th day of June, and in the year of 1535, without heirs, and that as the will runs: "In case of the death of my said nephew, without leaving a child, or children, I then bequeath the whole of my property, subject to the annuity of £100, to John F'fall, and for the security and payment of which, I mean stock to remain in this country, to the United States."

English attorneys, having advised the charge d'affaires at London that they would be proper for the United States government to send attorneys as their representatives to England to prosecute its case before the English courts of chancery, the secretary of state, having transmitted the reports to the president on the 17th day of December, 1832, Andrew Jackson, then president, sent a message to congress advising the appointment of a commissioner to go to England to get the money. After congress was accomplished, and Hon. Richard Rush was sent to England to prosecute the claim. Two years later a decree of chancery awarded the money to the United States and Rush came home with it in the ship Mediator.

Then how to apply the money was the question. Some used a public library, others a university. It was finally decided by the solons of congress that the most practical means was by knowledge among mankind was the

THE NATIONAL CIRCUIT.

It Will Probably Open in the South This Year.

The Crackjacks Are Training in Savannah, Ga.—Johnson and Michael to Ride in Competition—One on Eck.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

Indication is life now regarding the national bicycle circuit for 1897. The indications point to the probable starting of it in the south instead of in California as last year. President Fetters' unavoidable delay in appointing a successor to Chairman Gilson, of the racing board, who declined on account of his wife's illness to accept the office again when the reappointment was tendered him, made it necessary for the new appointee to extend the time for receiving applications for sanctions to April 15. Albert Mott, of Baltimore, ex-chief counsel of the Maryland division L. A. W., was tendered the appointment early in March at the fifteenth annual banquet of the L. A. W. Bicycle club. He was previously chairman of the Maryland division racing board, chairman of the national transportation rules and regulations committee, and a member of the highway improvement committee.

Going to the delay in selecting Mott, it will be impossible to start the circuit before the middle of May. That will be too late to make the start on the Pacific coast, since it would not allow enough time for the circuit chasers to cover the southern territory and reach Massachusetts in time for the Decoration day meet in Boston, which is an annual fixture and is practically the opening meet of the season in the north. Moves in the cities in California, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Louisiana will not apply for sanctions unless they can have the race on Sunday, as they cannot draw paying gates on working days, and since the league forbids that this is an additional reason why the circuit is almost certain to start somewhere in the south east of the Mississippi.

In all probability the first national circuit meet in '97 will be held in Tennessee in conjunction with one of the race meets on the southern indoor circuit, variously designated as the Calumet, or the Calumet circuit. This circuit opened at Memphis on the 2d of April, and it is likely that a number of the crackjacks will ride in this circuit on the opening of the national circuit, which may occur as a joint meet of a week's duration at any of the points named in the Calumet circuit. The two would then coincide, the Calumet circuit being followed through Memphis, Chattanooga, Atlanta and Montgomery to Jacksonville, Fla. Then, if time permits, national circuit meets may be given in Savannah, Ga., and Charlotte, N. C., where a new race track is being projected.

Already the crackjacks are gathering in the south to train for the season. The old cement tracks in Savannah will be the general training ground. James Michael, the little Welshman, and Tom Cooper are in training there under the care of "Mother" Webb, Cooper's trainer. The manager of the team of which these two stars are members, who is the largest team in the country, is also quartered in Savannah, where he is endeavoring to draw the other first-class speed merchants of the land. Dave Shafer, training manager of the team, who has just concluded a three-weeks' indoor tournament in San Francisco, is in Savannah with such well-known riders as Otto Ziegler, Fred Longhead, Charlie Wells, Fred Dyer, Fred Dyer, Fred Dyer, and Orlando Stevens. Fred Dyer and Orlando Stevens are already in condition and may at once enter the Calumet circuit. Arthur Gardiner, accompanied by James Fowler, is expected to join the training party, and Conn Baker, Charles Murphy and Frank Fein, who trained in Savannah last spring, are likely to go there again this year as soon as they secure engagements with manufacturers. It is even asserted that the great Arthur Augustus Zim, a German, will go into training on the Savannah track with the intention of leaving what amount to $100,000 to go to join the training in Louisville. Earl Kiser is in Tennessee, riding on the Calumet circuit.

One peculiarity of this season, from a racing standpoint, is the tardiness of the men in the path to represent their clubs. At the national meet in Memphis above, where the good men have heretofore generally secured engagements for the coming season, they were only from one manufacturer to other last winter. Even the very best of the men were disappointed, and Bald and Cooper were about the only racing men who had engagements at that time. Since then James Michael and John S. Johnson may be said to be the only very prominent riders who have made contracts to ride certain wheels, but a number of racing men on the Pacific coast have signed with Dave Shafer on the great team. Earl Kiser, one of the fastest men in the country, has not yet secured a position, but will go to training for the circuit, confident that when the time comes there will be a big scramble to secure crack riders. It is hinted that Tom Eck may secure Kiser for his team. This procrastination on the part of the makers, due no doubt to the ultra conservatism engendered by last year's financial disasters, has worried the racing men not a little, but they are gathering now hope as the season progresses, and now predictions are heard on all sides that the racing season of '97 will be a most successful one.

The ultra conservatism engendered by the New England and Eastern Atlantic states, where the National Cycle Track association is organizing a grand circuit extending throughout the early summer months, and will offer handsome purses for the professionals, in many instances exceeding the limit set by the L. A. W. for which, however, special sanction has been obtained. To add to the attractions of this circuit, special money has been donated to go to Europe and bring back some of the best foreign riders to compete on American tracks. From all appearances the eastern and western states will have no national circuit races before the 4th of July. There has been considerable talk of organizing two national circuits, one for the east and another for the west, to be followed separately during the early part of the season, but to come together at the national meet of the L. A. W. in Philadelphia in August.

Jimmy Michael and Johnny Johnson will ride in competition this year. The latter, a Wisconsiner, feels quite confident of success in this sort of work, inasmuch as he won sweeping victories in competition in Europe when riding as an amateur. He is now under suspension of the L. A. W. at the request of the National Cyclist's union of England, which suspended him in February for a failure to appear at a race meet in Leeds last summer, before he came to America. This difficulty does not seem to weigh very heavily on the boy, however, and he thinks the suspension will be quickly removed when his attorney pays an account demanded by the Leeds promoters for bill-posting arrears on his coming.

Johnson has almost wholly recovered from his nearly fatal attack of pneumonia at Bradford, Canada, and after spending some time at the invigorating baths at Hot Springs, will go to Savannah to begin training.

While in Chicago a few weeks ago, Tom Eck divulged to a group of newspaper men his age, who had a tender subject to the veteran for a number of years, possibly because of his snow-white hair and mustache, to account for which a very good story is told. When a boy, 16 years old, Eck went out rowing with two youthful companions on a small lake near his home. A heavy storm arose, and in the squall the boat was swamped and overturned. As it rolled over the three boys saw the angry water, and Tom saw his companions disappear in the waves. Eck, however, succeeded in grasping the keel as the boat rolled over. There was enough air under it to keep it afloat with young Tom at the stern of the bottom, and there he clung in desperation through all the weary hours of the blackest and most disagreeable of nights. The water dashed over him in a very warm and the sunken boat rolled triumphantly. He reached over and pulled with interest through the fate of his comrades, and thought that if he could get a similar fate overtaking him. When daylight finally stole slowly out from the east, Tom saw with amazement that the slight boat was only 100 yards away. He slipped off the boat, and letting himself carefully down into the water until he had reached the bottom, he found it only to his waist. Moreover, the anchor was firmly imbedded in the bottom, and had held the boat in place all night. When he reached home he found that his friends had promptly sailed to shore in the morning. At the national meet in Memphis above, where the good men have heretofore generally secured engagements for the coming season, they were only from one manufacturer to lived, James Smithson, bequeathed to the United States of America the whole of his fortune, amounting in American money to about $500,000. To found, according to the terms of the will, at Washington, under the name of "The Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men.

A death is an ordinary occurrence, and so is a bequest, but, for an exile from his own home, a gentleman by birth and education, and of the highest scientific attainments, laboring under the bar sinister (for he was an illegitimate son of the duke of Northampton), and with an almost broken heart at the odium cast upon him by his birthed name, to die in a foreign land and leave his whole possession to the government of another land than that which gave him birth, is, at least, a novelty. It is not a romance.

John in France, where his English mother had gone to escape the odium of her disgrace, he passed the early original scientific research, and the publication of the result of such researches for public distribution. In accordance with this view the Smithsonian Institution, as it now stands, was built, but not until the original Smithsonian bequest had seen various rounds of fortune. By act of congress, dated July 7, 1828, and while the discussion as to what should be done with the bequest was still in progress, the whole sum of $500,000, as it now stands, was built, but not until the original Smithsonian bequest had seen various rounds of fortune. By act of congress, dated July 7, 1828, and while the discussion as to what should be done with the bequest was still in progress, the whole sum of $500,000, as it now stands, was built, but not until the original Smithsonian bequest had seen various rounds of fortune. The first secretary, Joseph Henry, served from 1846 to 1878. The second secretary, Spencer Fullerton Baird, from 1878 to 1887, was the third and present secretary, Samuel Pierpont Langley, from 1887 until this date. The publications of the Smithsonian Institution form a library in themselves, and are called "The Annual Reports," "The Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections," "The Bulletin of the National Museum," "The Annual Reports of the Bureau of Ethnology," and "The Bulletin of the Bureau of Ethnology."

These books are given to educational institutions all over the world. In return for these, and by purchase, the institution has received a library of 10,000 volumes, which is deposited in the congressional library for safe keeping. In 1881, a new library was built, at a cost of $250,000, to accommodate the growing needs of the National Museum, whose collections of wonderful scientific books had become so large that the original building was no longer able to hold it. The Bureau of Exchange establishes communication with scholars in all parts of the world, by which their publications are exchanged for publications of similar societies.

Besides the original bequest of Smithson, congress every year makes an additional appropriation for the maintenance of the institution. SMITH PERRY, Turkey has but one line of battle ship and Greece has none.

According to the newspapers, an Ohio husband became the happy father of seven children not long ago. Of the seven all lived but one. Y. Breckenridge, Pine City.

-Martin Ring, of the upper quarry on Kettle river, was in this village on Wednesday, interviewing our merchants who were burned out, offering them building stone on board the car for $3 per car. This is no doubt the best offer that could be made for building stone, as it is a very low price, as a car load consists of about four cords, and if a car can be made with the railroad company, this would be a good place to secure the building stone.

-Herman Borchers has commenced the erection of a new house on his lots west of Chris. Voss' residence. Mr. Borchers intended to build during the summer, anyway, but the fire has made him hasten along with the building, so that he may have a shelter for his family. Mr. Borchers was going to build a fine residence this summer, but he feels too poor since the fire, and will only build the kitchen part at the present time, but in the fall or early spring he will complete the structure.

-The Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank McAvoy, for many years in the employ of the L. N. A. & C. Ry. here, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for ten years or longer--am never out of it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of the kind manufactured.' I take pleasure in recommending it as a specific for all stomach disorders." For sale by J. Y. Breckenridge, the Druggist, Pine City, Minn.

-All persons contemplating traveling, should call on our local ticket agent as he has coupon tickets for sale, and can furnish you transportation to any and all points in the United States. Don't forget to buy your tickets at this station when going traveling.

-W. F. Glasow has commenced the erection of a building on the northwest corner of the block that was burned and at the rear of the site of his old store, which he will occupy as a store until he can get things straightened out so as to build his new store, after which he will use the building he is now erecting as a warehouse.

-The night of the fire J. Y. Breckenridge telegraphed to Hinchley, asking the assistance of the fire department of that place. As soon as the chief of the fire department, Geo. Morast, received the dispatch, he ordered the alarm rung, and the boys all turned out, and were in readiness to come--had their engine and hose cart on flat cars, and were waiting for orders when they received another dispatch from President Breckenridge that the fire was under control and that they need not come. President Breckenridge wishes, in behalf of the citizens of Pine City, through the columns of the PIONEER, to thank the Hinchley fire department for their promptness, and if ever they should need the assistance of this place, they would be sure to receive it.

-At the meeting of the council on Monday evening it was decided to employ a marshal to go on duty at 4:30 in the afternoon and go off at 4:30 in the morning for which service he is to receive the sum of thirty-five dollars per month. After some debate it was decided that the application of Joseph Thomas should be accepted. Whereupon Joe was appointed marshal of this place, and entered upon the discharge of his duties on Tuesday morning. This is a move in the right direction, as we have never had any need of a marshal here during the day time, but we should have one at night, as many mischief that is done is committed between four o'clock in the afternoon and four in the morning. And beside the Village President is an officer with the same authority as a marshal.

DISEASES OF THE SKIN.
The intense itching and smarting incident to eczema, tetter, salt-rheum, and other diseases of the skin is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for sore nipples, chapped hands, chilblains, frost bites, and chronic sore eyes. For sale by druggists at 25 cents per box.

Try Dr. Cad's Gouillon Powders, they relieve what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge.
