WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 18th, 1901.

The Chinese Minister to the U. S. has been very fortunate in maintaining cordial personal relations with both government and people of this country through all the trying times in China, in fact, there is little doubt of his having made more personal friends in this country than any representative of any foreign country ever did before. But he is now in a fair way to make some enemies. He is strongly opposed to the re-enactment by Congress of the Chinese exclusion law, which will expire by limitation next May, and is doing some very bold wire-pulling to influence Senators and Representatives against re-enactment. He may find it a case of playing with fire. He is accredited to the Executive branch of the government and is very clearly exceeding his rights when seeking to influence the legislative branch.

It is understood that the President was notified that a fight will be made in the Senate against any reciprocity treaty with the new government of Cuba, the expectation being, now that the Cubans have accepted the Platt amendment unconditionally, that the new government will be established early in next year, and that its first effort will be to secure reciprocity.

Minister Conger is in Washington, and he says he is making preparations to China next month, which unless it is a bluff intended to force the hand of the administration, seems to dispose of all the numerous stories giving reasons why this government did not wish Mr. Conger to return to Peking.

Senator Burrows, of Michigan, who will be chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, has long been an advocate of Senators by the people. He has a new idea along that line, which he will propose as Constitutional amendment at the coming session of Congress. It provides that when a legislature fails to elect a Senator, the governor shall order an election by the people of the state to fill the vacancy. He says his idea will merely remedy an oversight on the part of the makers of the Constitution, who provided carefully for meeting failure to elect a president and vice-president, and for filling vacancies in the House but forgot about Senators. He thinks if the amendment were adopted it would seldom have to be put into operation, as its existence would be an incentive to legislatures to elect Senators.

Senator Aldrich, chairman of the Republican steering committee of the Senate, which has been credited with the intention to ignore precedent and the claims of ranking Senators next session of Congress, who was in Washington on private business said the story was ridiculous that the committee had no such right and that the ranking Senator on the several committees would get every vacant chairmanship, unless he waived his right thereto. This seems to make it reasonably certain Senator Cullom will go to the head of the committee on Foreign relations.

The Postmaster General has refused to comply with the law providing that postmasters at offices with annual receipts of $500,000 or more shall be paid salaries of $5,000 a year. In the cases of postmasters of Indianapolis and Louisville, he ordered the post office inspectors reported improper methods, principally persuading business men to buy large quantities of stamps, long in advance of their use, had been used temporarily to increase the receipts of those offices. The postmasters hinted that they might appeal to the courts to test the right of the Postmaster General to set a side a law, and official countered by informing them that no appeal to the courts was necessary to establish his right to remove postmasters, and so the matter stands.

Dyspeptics cannot be long lived because to live requires nourishment food is not nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach can not digest food, it must have assistance. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests all kinds of food without aid from the stomach, allowing it to rest and regain its natural functions. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good. J. Y. Breckenridge.

The above is a report of the result of the state exams held in Pine City, May 26 to June 1. It will be observed that there were examinations in 12 subjects, and that of those that wrote there were 42 papers whose markings were 65 per cent or above, and they will be forwarded to Minneapolis to be read by the state. If the markings are sustained at Minneapolis, the Pine City graded schools will be honored with 54 certificates this school year, this including Pine City schools ahead of any schools in the county. By the official report of State Inspector Rankin, last year Pine City took the lead of any school in the county, with Sandstone second. The record stands, Pine City 62, Sandstone 29. Let all people ignorant of the facts cease reporting out school second to any school in the county, and have local patriotism enough to at least represent our cause as favorable as it is.

The following is a list of those ranking 1 during the last three months:
Grade 10—Ben Hurley,
" 9—Emma Axtell,
" 8—Ellen Swedenborg,
" 7—Sadie Pennington,
" Mand Kendall,
" Delta Axtell,
" At—Rex Brown,
" B4—Henry Cherrier.

The above rankings were obtained as the result of a term examination, in which all had exactly the same chance. Attendance, punctuality, deportment and scholarship for the three months were taken into consideration in determining the above readings.

LINCOLN LIKED HER.

Story of Elizabeth Keckly, a White House Factotum.

Once She Had Scores of Influential Friends, Now She Lives in Poverty—A Victim of Man's Ingratitude.

(Special Washington Letter.)

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was a good friend of mine, but I never knew what a good friend of his I was, and have ever been.

Elizabeth Keckly, of No. 113 Fifteenth street, in this city, now 80 years of age, was seamstress for Mrs. Lincoln during the civil war. She was a part of the domestic family, as much as any cabinet minister was a part of the official family. After making the above quoted remark she said:

"I was Mr. Lincoln's friend, and his friend now, and will always protect his memory, by keeping my mouth closed concerning the many things which he unhappily suspected or imagined were going on around his official and unofficial life. I was a slave, but bought my freedom, and so was under no obligations to Mr. Lincoln for emancipation. He was kind to his kind manner towards me and for his great act of giving freedom to my race. I know what liberty is, because I remember what slavery was. When I was a young woman, modest as any young woman, I was stripped of the waist and flogged into insubmissibility. This was done more than once, simply on the pretext that my spirit must be broken." I know what undesired suffering was inflicted upon the slaves. Therefore I know what emancipation means. You who have never suffered cannot understand the full meaning of liberty. I was as good a girl as ever freed, and I wanted to live as good women live, but I was compelled to become a mother without marriage. Oh, yes, I know what liberty is, because I know what slavery was. Consequently I have almost worshipped Abraham Lincoln. He was as kind and considerate in his treatment of me as he was of any of the white people about the white house. In that he manifested the consistency of his belief that all human beings are created equal in the sight of God. He arose every morning as a good man and he went to bed every night as a God-fearing, Christian man. They say that servants do not receive their masters because they know their weaknesses, as the rest of the world cannot know them. But no servant failed to respect and revere that great man of God, and man of the common people. His life was pure. I cannot say that of all whom I know in those days.

"I have been honest and not avaricious, or I would not now in my days of feebleness and declining health with the needle to earn my daily bread. I never betrayed a secret in the days since secrets were worth gold, and gold was scarce. Nearly all of the great men and women who knew me are now away from earth. The members of the family that I served longest and best are useless of my age and infirmities and necessities, and unappreciative of my loyalty, a loyalty which I still continue to show. My life was sealed in death. I served the families of Douglas, Harlan, Breckenridge, Lincoln, Chase, and many others who were famous in history. If all of them, it seems, I am forgotten, else I would not be helpless and penniless in my declining years.

"Referring feelingly to Lincoln, she said: 'I know, and I know it well, that no unhappy was that great man, trusted for a few spoils of thread, which I do my sewing. In the old days I employed upwards of six sewing girls. My credit was good for hundreds of dollars' worth of goods. My services were sought everywhere, and I was always busy. I still have plenty of work to do, but I am too feeble to do it. I am only able to do enough work to keep me in bread and butter. Some days are dark, and I think of what you would not see me living in a rented room, struggling from day to day for food and clothing. If they were living, Wendell Phillips, Fred Douglass, Lloyd Garrison, John B. Gough and others would lecture for my benefit, or send me their cheques. But they are all gone, and here am I, a reminiscence of the glorious days and glorious men of whom I speak to you. But when I am in most distress, when they are dark, I think of what I often heard Mr. Lincoln say to his wife: 'Don't worry, mother, because all things will come out right. God rules our destiny.'

"I made lots of money when I was young and strong," continued the aged woman. "While I was a slave, I performed all of my duties and earned $1200 additional, with which I bought the freedom of myself and my boy; the boy I lost in the civil war; the boy who would to-day be my comfort and support."

"She also made money for a couple of sharpeners, in New York, in 1868. She took a girl, and her husband, and they employed stenographers. They published all that she said, and a great deal that she did not say, in a book entitled 'Behind the Scenes.' To-day she said: 'I never received a dollar from the publication of that book. They took it all. However, I need not regret that, because they printed many things which ought not to have been printed; many things which caused heartaches, because they were untrue. The book was printed, and my name was on the title page as the author of everything contained between the lines.'

"They told the story of how Mrs. Lincoln tried vainly to sell her expensive and costly wardrobe in New York, but they did not tell it right. I was with Mrs. Lincoln at that time and did my best to help her dispose of her valuable things, but it would do me no good now to say anything about the details of that venture. I merely mention it because they made it a part of the book which made money for them, but the publication of which brought me no money, while it made some enemies for me who should have always been my friends."

"I made dresses for Mrs. Lincoln, the ladies of President Andrew Johnson's family, and also for the ladies of the Grant administration. I was famous, in my line, for many years. I was proud, very proud, but fame and pride do me no good. I have found to my sorrow, when she is forgotten, that when her friends have passed away."

Concerning the public receptions in the white house during the civil war she said: "I dressed Mrs. Lincoln for every day. I made every stitch of clothing that she wore. I dressed her. I put on her skirts and dresses. I fixed her bouquets, saw that her gloves were all right, and remained with her each evening until Mr. Lincoln came for her. My hands were the last to touch her before she took the arm of Mr. Lincoln and went forth to meet the ladies and gentlemen on those great occasions."

Here, in the national capital, in a rented room in a small house, in an obscure neighborhood, Lincoln was growing gradually weaker and nearer the end of earth. In this born slave, who brought her own freedom, who became the most famous man in a wonderful period of the history of the republic, she saw a man whose life was a lesson to all, for not many more will escape before the inevitable consummation must come to Elizabeth Keckly.

so tired of life and its burdens, that if he could have expressed an opinion concerning the work of the assassin, he would have said: 'I am glad that it is all over.' He was always ready for death, and I knew him so well that I have always felt that death was welcome to him when it came."

Reminiscing with emotion this remarkable woman said: "The people whom I personally met seem to have forgotten me, but the government has not overlooked me. My only son was a soldier and died for the cause of liberty. The government has given a small pension. Thereby I am able to pay my room rent. I had one single friend with whom I can confide to relieve me. I know that they would give me a liberal pension because I have served my country while I was in the white house, and I helped Mr. Lincoln in many ways by my loyalty. Moreover, I served Mrs. Lincoln during the days of subsequent poverty. I looked after her interests and helped her to raise money when she was in dire distress. Then I was strong and vigorous. I had no hope of the future. I believed in my ability to take care of myself, and I used my own money. I would like to be forgotten and forgotten. I made no provision for old age, for I did not know I would be old. It was my ignorance."

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Trouble Exposed.

The burning of the Indian village of Mille Lacs lake by Sheriff Edmund Leggett is reported. It is also intimated that serious trouble will ensue owing to this destruction of property. As far as can be learned, it appears that recently the sheriff notified the Indians of the village to remove from the tract of land on which their tepees were situated. They refused, claiming ownership of the ground in question.

The sheriff, on May 26, according to reports, with a number of deputies, removed the effects belonging to the Indians, and then set fire to their huts. It is contended that the land in question is claimed by a man named Kennedy, and that it was through his efforts that the sheriff was induced to act. It is possible that owing to the wiseness of their chief, the Indians will permit the United States district attorney to adjust the difficulty. Gov. Van Sant advises this action.

Crop Bulletin.

Good rains fall in nearly all parts of the state during the week. The heaviest measured rains were 3.44 inches in Polk county, 2.01 inches in Wilkin county and 1.50 inches in Douglas and Chippewa counties. It still appears likely to have been in Hennepin, Dakota, Wright, Nicollet, Kandiyohi and Nobles counties. In a great scattered places, however, the soil is parched, and the crops are being injured to a considerable extent. The rains have been a great benefit to all vegetation, especially the late sown grains, grass and pastures, and all crops are now growing finely except corn and grass, for which the temperatures have been too low. The seedling of timothy and barley on lands in the Red River valley which could not be plowed last fall is going on, as is also the seeding of milk and corn for fodder. Winter rye and winter wheat are in head.

Fall of Dynamite.

A contractor named Michael O'Brien, engaged in directed excavations in Minneapolis, cleaned out a connoir the other morning very effectively. O'Brien told the man sitting next to him that he had over 40 pounds of dynamite in his pockets, and that was no idle jest. O'Brien had all the dynamite he claimed to have, and moreover his pockets were bulging with flint-vesting caps. The man and several acquaintances left the car. Three women on the car got off at the next crossing, and six men had business on adjacent streets. O'Brien took a transfer to Second street, northeast, but announced that he wasn't going to tip off his dynamite to the next car load. "Why, if they only knew," he remarked, "they'd travel round with non-packing dynamite every day in the week."

Home Wrecked.

The home of Henry A. Sauer in Minneapolis was partially wrecked by a huge boulder. Fifty feet from the house an excavation was being made and a ledge of rock was being lodged by the use of dynamite. In this particular instance a large piece, after sailing through space for a distance of 100 feet, struck the house, struck the roof and tore it through, and crashed through the floor near to where Mrs. Sauer sat with a babe in her arms.

Cruciated.

The remains of Mrs. Mabel Walker, a young woman who committed suicide at Lincoln, Neb., were cruciated in St. Paul. Her mother came all the way from Tacoma to implant the kiss of maternal love before the body was consigned to the funeral service to be held by Rev. C. D. Andrews, of Christ church.

According to the dispatches, Mrs. Walker's death was due to her drinking wood alcohol and cocaine.

Crushed to Death by Windmill.
George Krukeberg, a farmer living near Nibley, was almost instantly killed by a windmill. He climbed to the top of the mill to repair the gearing, and while there his clothes caught in the wheel and his life was literally squeezed out.

News in Brief.

The Methodist church at Homer was struck by lightning and destroyed.

John Hohelort, of Farmington, has been sentenced to four months in jail for assaulting his wife.

Sheriff Schlipin, of St. Cloud, took into custody a gipsy woman, who, it is claimed, victimized Mrs. Michael Atkinson out of $1,000. The gipsy pretended to treat Mrs. Atkinson's little girl for a serious illness.

The annual picnic of the Old Settlers' Association of Cook county was held at Laverne. The following officers were elected: E. A. Brown, president; H. H. Adams, secretary, and A. Jaycox, treasurer.

Judge Hochman, of Fairbairn, has decided that officers and justices were not entitled to fees for the arrest of vagrants under the state vagrancy act.

In the action brought to contest the validity of the bonds issued by the village of Detroit for the purchase of a $15,000 lighting plant, Judge Baxter has filed a decision sustaining the contention of the attorney for the taxpayers that the bonds are invalid.

Governor Van Sant has named J. J. Lonsdale, assistant secretary of state; H. H. Jewett of the auditor's office, and James Martin, executive clerk, as a board of appraisers to fix the value of certain tracts of school land at Spirit Lake, which the federal government is desirous of purchasing. The tract contains 1,000 acres and is situated on a portion of the Duluth harbor. The price agreed upon is $1,500.

A sad accident occurred at Solberg's Point Lake, Mandan, when M. E. E. Jacobson was instantly killed by the falling of a crane on Capt. Johnson's new dredge.

EARL RUSSELL ARRESTED.

Earl Russell Charged with Blame for Contracting a Marriage in the United States.

LONDON, June 18.—Earl Russell was arrested Monday on a charge of having contracted a bigamous marriage in the United States. The earl was met at the railway station upon his arrival from the country by detectives with a warrant, and was taken to the Bow street police court, where he was formally charged. The nobleman appeared to be quite unconcerned.

Earl Russell was remanded in $2,000 bail.

The prosecution proceeded to outline the earl's marriage to Mabel Scott (his first contract), their separation, his subsequent disappearance from England with a neighbor, Mrs. Somerville, and the discovery that he and Mrs. Somerville were together at Reno, Nev. On April 11, 1909, Earl Russell obtained a license to marry Mollie Cooke, otherwise Mrs. Somerville, and a judge performed the ceremony July 1.

Counsel for the earl pointed out that the prosecution admitted mention of the divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Somerville in England. In the event of a conviction the case will be taken to the house of lords, as Earl Russell is entitled to trial by his peers.

Will Form a Combine.

Saginaw, Mich., June 18.—Four of the largest planing mill box factories and lumber manufacturers of the Saginaw river valley are to form a combine, capitalizing at $1,000,000, and will be known as the Merston, Schutte, Parker & Co. Competition is the reason assigned for the new move of the lumbermen. They operate many lumber yards, handling 100,000,000 feet of lumber yearly, a dozen planing mills, and three box and sash factories. The company will begin operations July 1.

Fall From Horse Kills.

New Orleans, June 18.—Gen. Eugene May, a prominent wholesale druggist, died here Monday as a result of injuries sustained in a fall from a spirited horse last week while riding on St. Charles avenue. Gen. May served in the civil war with the historical Washington Light Cavalry, and at the time of his death was inspector general of the state national guard. He was 50 years of age.

President Disapproved.

Washington, June 18.—The president has disapproved an act of the Cherokee Indian council providing for a commission to execute a new agreement with the United States. The commission, the tribe by popular vote recently rejected by a majority of over a thousand, had the agreement which had been made by the executive and the Dawes commission.

Keen's Dist.

"I see that somebody says that Edmund Keen, the most famous of English actors, liked to adapt the kind of meat he ate to the part he had to play—choosing pork for grains, beef for murderers, and mutton for lovers."

"That's a great idea. I suppose when he had to play several parts in one evening he ate hash."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
