WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, AUGUST 10, 1901.

The Navy Department continues to be the center of public interest owing to the preparations going on there for the Schley Court of Inquiry, although as a matter of fact, those preparations are largely routine and are by no means exciting or sensational. One of Admiral Schley's counsel, Capt. Parker, is diligently securing the official records for facts bearing on the matters that will be brought before the Court. He objected to having everything he did overlooked by a Naval officer, but was shown the Naval regulation that forbids any person outside of the service having access to the official records except in the presence of an officer. Capt. Lenby, Judge Advocate General of the Navy, who is Judge Advocate of the Schley Court, has just gone away for a four weeks' vacation, but during his absence, his assistants will get everything in shape for the hearing before the Court and there will be no delay on that account.

tion and disbursement of the pension fund. It is claimed that the United States is the only one of the great civilized nations that does not provide in some way for the pension of aged civil service employees. France has a system something like the one proposed. The rest of the nations pay the pensions from public funds.

"A Brief History of American Journalism" is the title of a book which will shortly be published by the Library of Congress. It will cover something like 2,000 pages, and will include the name, founder, and such information as may be of interest, of every publication ever printed in this country up to the close of 1900. The compiler of the book, Mr. Ralph M. McKenzie, of the Library Staff, said of his work: "When it is remembered that a thousand periodicals become extinct in this country every year, and that nearly 22,000 were issued in the year 1900; you will understand something of the task which I have just finished. The first newspaper was printed in America in 1704, and I have gone over the field for the whole two centuries since that day."

According to a report from the United States Consul at Vancouver, B. C., labor strikes have paralyzed business in that section. He says the truckmen of the Canadian Pacific Railway are on a strike and the employees of the Northport smelter, at Rossland, which has been shipping ten thousand tons of ore weekly, many of whom are American citizens are also on a strike. The latter he thinks is a very serious affair.

University of Minnesota.
President Northrop of our State University used the following words in an address delivered in Boston last June at the Jubilee Convention of Young Men's Christian Association:

"With us in the University of Minnesota where not many of the students are wealthy and many are dependent on their own efforts for support in a greater or less degree, the Christian Association welcomes the new student when he comes a stranger to the University, it helps him to find a home suited to his means and proper for him to live in, it surrounds him at once with pleasant friends who help him to shake off the creeping homesickness of the first days; it relieves his pressing needs by temporary loans that shall be speedily repaid; it finds employment for those who must do something for their own support; it furnishes free classes in which students deficient in preparation may be trained without expense; it cultivates a spirit of benevolence among its members, doubly necessary where education is free and students are not rich and where there is danger of forming the habit of getting everything free—salvation and everything else. It gathers the new students into the Bible classes, the prayer meetings, the social meetings. It calls to its aid the best talent it can get in the University or the Twin Cities to make addresses. It gives delightful receptions, to which the whole body of students are invited. It keeps open house with books and papers where all may rest or work as they choose and it seeks in every way in its power to make its members more ready, more loving, more earnest, more Christ-like, and in all this work it meets with a good degree of success."

A work of similar character is done by the Young Women's Christian Association.

Correspondence is solicited with prospective students, a hand-book of general information will be sent to those who apply to the General Secretary of Y. M. C. A., care of the Y. W. C. A., care of the University, Minneapolis.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson Makes a Prediction and Gives Some Excellent Reasons in Support of It.

(Special Washington Letter.)

"I WILL give you a 'statement and prophecy,' said Secretary Wilson, of the department of agriculture.

"There is a combination of all Europe against the United States, commercially, if not criminally, in order to keep us from becoming a great power."

"The department of agriculture

"is to increase the production of all sorts of grain, especially wheat, and the production of cotton and tobacco."

"The production of cotton will "be increased by 25 per cent. This year we will supply all demands."

"We know that the department of agriculture has been encouraging the "production of all sorts of grain."

"The object of all the work of "the department of agriculture is to enable the United States to produce, as near as possible, everything which our people require, under the American flag. It will only be a reasonable number of years when we will produce our own woolen and cotton cloth, and when we will have everything that we can buy in foreign countries."

A GLIMMER OF HOPE.

A Slight Chance That the Strike May Be Settled.

THE POLICY OF PRESIDENT SHAFFER,

We Will Give Every Possible Opportunity for Renewal of Peace Negotiations Before Ordering General Strike.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 6.—Just a faint glimmer of hope that the great steel workers' strike will be settled was embodied in a statement given out by President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association Monday night. When asked if he would pursue the same policy in ordering a strike in the mills of the Federal Steel, the National Steel, and the National Tube companies as he did in calling out the men in the mills of the American Plat Company, he replied: "If it had not been for this determination on my part, the general strike would have been ordered on Saturday night." Before calling out the workers, and after failing to get any satisfaction from the officials of the American Steel Hoop company, President Shaffer sent a telegram to Vice-President Warner Arms, of the American Plat company, notifying him that under Article 29, section 55 of the constitution of the Amalgamated association, he is obliged to call out the men workers in all the mills controlled by the United States Steel corporation unless the dispute was settled within a period of ten days. As a result of this notice Mr. Arms succeeded in getting together another conference, and a valiant effort was made to settle the dispute and prevent a strike which would involve the timber mills. That conference was the one that broke up in the Hotel Linton about two weeks ago Saturday. In order to be equally fair to the other constituent companies of the United States Steel corporation, and accord them the same treatment given to Shaffer has seen a regular notice to the officers of the Federal Steel company, the National Steel company, and the National Tube company, giving them the same time in which to make any effort they may desire to bring about a settlement, or he will return to the same clause as he did in addressing his organization. It is presumed that the delay in issuing the general order will be at least until the end of the present week. Possibly it will not be issued until nearly next week. In the meantime the men in the mills of these three companies will be prepared to come out when the strike order is issued.

The possibility of a settlement of the strike is based on the hope that the officials of the three additional companies will bring to bear their influence to urge settlement of the difficulty before the strike order is issued. President Shaffer did not express any hope that this would be done nor did he even discuss the matter, but the inference was quickly seen that there was a faint ray of light in sight. It is a faint ray, though, and but little interest was taken in it in the general offices of the association.

Mondays' Developments.

The strike history of the day in Pittsburgh was not productive of results. Most of the workmen were doing no more than was being done in the city, all of the oil mills are in the same condition as before the failure of the conference to settle the strike, and no apparent move is being made by the manufacturers to start it. Consequently there has been no break in the oil tanks. The most important strike point Monday night seems to be Leechburg and Wellsville, with McKeesport a possible trouble spot.

All day yesterday afternoon the Hough mill at Leechburg, which has been idle since the first of this year, was started. E. S. Parson, manager of the American Steel association, Henry Davis, district superintendent, and two or three workmen were on the ground. At 3:45 in the afternoon a train arrived at Hyde Park, coming from Saltsburg, Vandegrift and Apollo. The train stopped at the works, took on coal, went back to the mine and carrying dinner buckets, left the train and hurried into the works. There was no excitement, and the mill owners and managers claim they now have full control of the mine and the top one-half of the five-mile mill. Sandwiches are out and no one is allowed to get into the mill without a pass-word. Late Monday afternoon, six mill men from Leechburg scattered down the hill, passed the guard and walked into the mills, where Monday night they were at work. This makes 61 men now employed at the works. By orders of the mill owner, the mill must not be operated the night it fails; but however this may be, the mill was running Monday night in good shape. The Amalgamated men, however, are on the ground, making desperate efforts to prevent its running.

To make the bold ascription that in two days after President Shaffer issues his general strike order, a "wheel will be turned" either Vandegrift, Apollo or Hough mill.

At McKeesport.

The condition at McKeesport is reported as terrible. Many strikers are on the streets around the National tube works. Men and women, who are the wives of leaders, from strikers before going out. Organizer Flynn of the Federation of Labor was here Monday, looking over the situation and conferring with leaders.

McPherson is the effect that the mine workers will refuse to furnish coal for the run coke furnaces or mills. An advertisement has been drawn up by Common Councilman

James N. Wampler, of the Fourth ward, appropriating $500,000 for additional paving and sewerage McKeepsport. Only taxayers are to be employed at the work. It is intended for the benefit of the strikers in case the struggle is prolonged. Labor leaders will bring great pressure to bear on councilmen to have the ordinance passed. It would furnish work for most of the strikers for almost a year.

Disassociated with Morgan.

The Chronicle-Telegraph says: One of the officials of the La Fayette Lodge, Lawrenceville, of the Amalgamated association, Monday morning announced that he had been notified that there would be a general strike ordered. He is authority for the statement that organizations of the steel corporations are disassociated with J. P. Morgan's attitude and are making every effort to open negotiations with the strikers. The official is one of the leading steel workers of the city, and the inference is that he has received an inside tip from the higher officials of the association.

Attitude of Federation of Labor.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Secretary Morris, of the American Federation of labor, who is in charge of the headquarters here in the absence of President Gompers in Philadelphia, said Monday that it was impossible to forecast what the organizations affiliated with the federation may do to assist the strike of the Amalgamated association.

The antagonism of the trusts reaches such proportions that the American Federation of labor is forced to remain in a protective attitude toward the organized labor, continued Mr. Morrison. "President Gompers undoubtedly will call this meeting on Friday to take the necessary steps to take care of the situation when the necessary measures. The affiliated organizations of the Amalgamated association have not yet joined the federation for the present.

The executive council consists of President Gompers, Secretary Morris, Treasurer, and three vice presidents. Sheet Gompers, in addition, he is to be obliged to call out the steel workers in all the mills controlled by the United States Steel corporation unless the dispute was settled within a period of ten days. As a result of this notice Mr. Arms succeeded in getting together another conference, and a valiant effort was made to settle the dispute and prevent a strike which would involve the timber mills. That conference was the one that broke up in the Hotel Linton about two weeks ago Saturday.

An Offer of Aid.

Simon Burns, president of the National Miners' association, and its treasurer and general master workman of the Knights of Labor, made a proposition Monday afternoon to the Pittsburgh Leader that he will agree to pay as high a price for miners as the steel mill managers do, the miners of the Amalgamated association have not asked the mine workers for assistance, but he expressed the opinion that the miners' organization, which considers the Amalgamated as laborers, would stand ready to help the members of the Amalgamated association in whatever manner it thought advisable.

Old Exposition Building at Kansas City Burns—Was to Have Been Torched Down.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 6.—At one o'clock Monday afternoon, the prince of the Amalgamated association was dead, given out officially at Homburg castle shortly after noon. Copies were posted in half a dozen windows of the town. The blinds dropped down, the windows of many houses half-masted. It was a sad sight.

By early evening news of the death of Emperor Frederick had spread through the city, and the public had gathered and walked into the mills, where

Monday night they were at work. This makes 61 men now employed at the works. ## EMPEROR BEREAVED

Mother of William, of Germany, Dowager Empress, Dead.

PASSES AWAY AT FRIEDRICHSHOF.

Most of Her Children Present When the End Came—No Arrangements Yet Made for the Funeral.

Cronberg, Aug. 6.—Dowager Empress Frederick died at 6:13 p.m.

The death of the empress caused much sorrow in the streets of Berlin. The press gave way to a sudden outburst of sympathy for the deceased. Emperor William and her majesty's other children were in the sick room most of the day.

At 11:30 a.m. she was fully conscious and all her children with the exception of Prince Henry, who is in Cadiz, were assembled in the sick room.

Closely following the announcement of the death from the castle church bells were tolled and the Emperor and his wife and all the royal family and many of the officials were out to pay their respects. The official announcement was not made until 7:30 p.m. The newspaper at the Hague, in Holland, received the news of the death of the dowager empress before morning. The bells of St. Paul's cathedral will be tolled when the home secretary, Mr. Ritchie, officially informs the lord mayor of the death of the dowager empress. The officials of the German embassy will be there.

It is probable that the official recognition will be made at 10 a.m.

King Edward's Plans.

Cowes, Aug. 6.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra will leave here for Marlborough house to-day. It is not likely they will start for Berlin until Wednesday.

The usual gathering of Cowes riggers, sailors, etc., began Mondays are almost entirely absent. By royal order, masting the flag will take place during the week.

King Edward received the official news of the death of Dowager Empress Frederick on board the royal yacht, almost simultaneously with the receipt of the press dispatch in London. The yacht's flag was immediately half-masted.

President McKinley Notified.

Washington, Aug. 6.—A dispatch was received at the state department Monday from Ambassador White announcing the death of the Dowager Empress.

The dispatch was sent to the president at Canton.

Official announcement of the death of Empress Dowager Frederick had not been received at the German embassy here up to a late hour. It probably will be communicated to McKinley Tuesday evening, when he will be in town.

The Eleventh company of the Eighth regiment of infantry, of which Dowager Empress Frederick was a member, was disbanded.

STATE FAIR OF 1901

This Year's Fair to be a Record
Breaker. Vice-President Russel will Visit It.

A Livestock Show of Gigantic Proportion. Beautiful New Agricultural Building.

It seemed as if the Minnesota State Fair of 1900 would be "hard to beat" but the plans for the 1901 fair quite set last year's into the shade.

Not content with last year's cattle show—the largest yet held in the world—the fair managers have secured for this year the national exhibits of both the American Shorthorn Breeders Association and the American Hereford Breeders' Association. These are the two great cattle breeding organizations of the world and they will each aim to have the finest display at Hamline. They will offer large premiums which will be supplemented by offers of the fair association. Auction sales of prime animals will be an attractive feature of these exhibits.

Naturally the other classes of stock will be much in evidence as none of the breeders will like to be left entirely out of sight. Prized Cooper assures us that the stock display will excell that of Chicago last winter. This will make it still the greatest live stock show in the world.

Vice President Roosevelt will open the fair on Monday, Sept. 11, making an address from the grand stand and afterwards attending a luncheon and reception.

Premiums have been increased and a total of $40,000 in prizes is offered for distribution during fair week. Much of this money will go to agricultural exhibits. The new Agricultural Hall for which the legislature appropriated $25,000 last winter, will be occupied and will give the displays of fruit and agricultural products ample space for first time in years. This building is a beautiful one and will be worth seeing in itself.

Each evening during fair week there will be racing by electric light and a program of amusements ending with a magnificent spectacular protestant drama put on by the Prins of Chicago. The afternoon races will also be supplemented by specialties of the highest class.

Altogether the fair management is keeping up its reputation for making the best fair in the world.

Half-price railroad rates have been secured from all points within 200 miles of Minneapolis and St. Paul for the week of Sept. 2 to 7.

Pine City vs. Mora.

Saturday evening the Base-ball team accompanied by C. A. Nason, J. A. Miller and Arthur Schultz departed for Mora, overland. The team left here with the ball boys about 7:30 and arrived in Mora at about 11:00 without accident. The game of ball was called at 2:45, with Pine City at the bat. Will Hurley was the first man up and struck out. D. Payne got a base on a little single. F. Brooks advancing him to third on a single while Mike Hurley tried to make a two base but got caught at second. Chas Griffith singled and stole second. Mike Hurley failed to reach first although he connected with the ball. In the second the locals went out in order. Ben Hurley and J. Lambert fanned the air and Henry Hoefler got out again, the third resulted in one out for the locals. F. Brooks getting home by stealing second and coming home on Mike Hurley's single. In the fourth the locals took the measure of Chas. Neumann and ran in seven scores each one scoring. The team but W. Hurley and E. Brooks. In the fifth the Mora boys changed pitchers and the locals were presented with a fresh egg. In the sixth one more score was added to the locals run getting. Mike Hurley getting his base on ball stealing second and third and scoring on C. Griffith's single. In the seventh the locals all scored but D. Payne but Will Hurley ran in two scores making nine in all. In the eighth one more was added. Mike Hurley getting first home a single stealing second and third and scoring on Griffith's two batters. In the ninth the locals all scored but Brooks and Ben Hurley, but H. Hoefler ran in the two making eight in this inning. In the first inning Mora got one by Wescott the first man up, getting a single and scoring on Conger and Neumann's singles both failing to reach first. In the second they were blanked, in the third through errors on the part of the locals three scores were added to the Mora column putting them one ahead at the end of the third but after this the locals steadied down and for the next three innings they went out in one two three order, in the seventh Mora got one. O'Brien singled and scored on an out at first by Wescott and Conger. In the eighth Hoefler got up a little and the Mora boys took advantage of it and ran in four scores one each by Neumann, O'Reilly, Burgeson and Bergland. In the ninth Neumann scored and this was the last of the score getting for Mora.

The locals clearly out classed the Mora boys playing and a no 1 game of ball from start to finish bearing a couple of wild throws when let in seven of the ten scores that Mora received.

H. Hoefler of the locals pitched gift edged ball although he was suffering from a very sore finger on the pitching hand that would have laved up, almost my own. Dan Payne for the locals caught a fast game his throwing to second being a feature of the game as after the first two or three were caught stealing not one of the Mora boys attempted it. The following is the score by innings:

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Mora	1	0	3	0	0	0	4	1	10
Pine City	2	0	1	7	0	1	9	29
Neumann, Wescott, O'Reilly and D. Payne were the batters for the two teams, unripe King.

I sit alone with my heart to-night.
Where the gloom is dark and deep,
Across the portals the shadows roll,
But over my sad heart's darkness
Stands a radiance still and rare,
I have a soul who died at play,
I had a sunshine there.

The harp is silent, the chords are dead
And I listen in vain for the silver strain
That made my life complete;

Like the leaves of autumn, a child,
With my thoughts of sadder things,
I nestled a soft-bird in my breast,
The lark will bring him back again.

The guitars are faded and old now,
And the laurels that came with the years
Have gone with the dreams and the perhaps forever.

I buried them all with tears;
The roses bloom so fair,
For long ago, when a little child,
I buried some in Chicago Evening Post.

The Robber's Cross

By David Kerr.

"They call Spain the land of adventure," muttered Harry White, as he strolled before breakfast around the castle of his adopted home in the little town on the southern slope of the Sierra Morena; "and I've been in it three weeks, and not had one adventure yet. A man gets no show at all in traveling nowadays. Hello! here comes a robber."

Very much in a hurry, certainly, seemed the sturdy Spanish peasant who had just appeared on the top of the steep ridge above. He stopped for a moment, from out of fear as recklessly as a wildcat, and at times even swinging himself over some deep cleft by the bough of a tree, as if in such haste that he had no time to think of such a trifling as the chance of being stuck.

But in this case it was "most hastie, worst speed," for all at once a large stone gave way beneath the Spaniard's feet, and he tumbled headlong down the road amid a whirling of dust.

Harry—whose sympathies were already enlisted in favor of a man capable of such feats of strength and daring—flew to the spot, feeling as if he had really seen something that would amaze "the world." But when he reached the fallen man he stopped short in sheer amazement.

And well he might. The man whom he had seen bounding along the ridge had had long gray hair and beard; he was quite sure of that for he remembered wondering that an old man should be so active. The hair of the man before him was short, thick, and black as night, and had he not heard of it.

Nevertheless, the stranger had managed to sit up, and was wiping the blood from a bad cut on his forehead. In doing so, he discovered the loss of his fair hair and beard, and met Harry's eyes fixed wonderingly upon him.

"Well," asked he, fiercely, answering the boy's glances with a defiant stare at the sunburned face.

"No, and I don't want to know you!" said Harry, in broken Spanish, rather nettled at the man's impudent tone. "I suppose you're a smuggler by your disguising yourself that way."

"Yes, I am," replied the other, with a strange smile. "Are you going to give me the post?"

"Not it," cried Harry. "It's not the style of us Americans to give away a man who can't stand up for himself."

"Ah, you're an American, then?" said the smuggler, looking curiously at him. "Well, if you are willing to help me, I'll tell you how you can do it. Give me a ride as far as the chimney of St. James, and then walk down the road—for I find I've sprained my ankle too badly to walk alone—and then I'm all right."

"Come along, then," rejoined Harry, offering his arm.

And the strangely assorted pair set forth.

On the way our hero told his new friend, who seemed in too much pain to talk himself, that he was traveling through Spain with his father, that he had picked up in Mexico what little Spanish he knew; that his tour had hitherto been provokingly bare of adventures, and that the one thing in the world which he most desired was to fall in with a gang of real Spanish brigands.

And they reached the chapel, and, at a peculiar whistle from the smuggler, five wild-looking horsemen, with long guns on their shoulders, started out of the encircling thickets, Days.

one of whom led by the bridle a fine black horse, on which they at once mounted the crippled Spaniard, not without casting more than one painful and despondent look at the wounding limb.

"Take this for your good deed," said the tall mountaineer taking a knife from his belt and giving it to Harry. "It may be of use to you if ever we meet again. And, as you seem anxious to meet with some Spanish brigands, may I please you to tell me that you have seen half a dozen of them to-day?"

So saying, he spurred his horse and vanished into the forest with his companions, while Harry, limping back to the town, hardly knowing whether he was awake or only dreaming.

"Just like my luck!" The tool was very sum enough. And this strikes me as the very place to fall in with that nice man, Pedro Gonsalves, the brigand captain, who seems to be terrorizing the whole country at this time."

The speaker was no other than our friend, Harry White, now grown into a tall young man, and revisiting, after a five-year absence beyond the Atlantic, his former haunts in southern Spain.

He had certainly good cause to feel uncomfortable just then. To lose one's way in a foreign country, among the unknown mountains with light at dawn and a storm-cum-ing on, is not a pleasant experience in any case; but when to all this is added a very strong probability of falling into the hands of robbers, you can see that a captive is as bad as his master or worse to his anxious friends as a hint that "speedy payment is requested." He must indeed be a brave soul who can face the situation without flinching.

But Harry feared came only too soon. A horse about sound was suddenly heard among the bushes, and before he could draw his revolver, he was surrounded by a gang of six armed men, who, however, scarcely faces and wavy-eyed looks hid him no good.

A smart stroke from the butt of Harry White's heavy whip felled the foremost man, but the rest at once dragged him from his saddle and, with a yell of ferocious struggles, bound him hand and foot.

"Let me kill the dog!" roared the injured robber, whose head was bleeding freely. "I shall never strike a Spaniard again."

"Not so fast, Brother Juan," said Harry. "He looks like an Englishman, and the English are all rich. We'll make him pay a fat ransom!"

"And if he don't pay it quickly," put in a third, with a significant whisk of smoke, close to the prisoner's ear.

"His friends won't find him quite so handsome the next time they see him."

Harry shuddered at the horrible threat and the roar of brutal laughter that followed. He was not completely, however, a man to be cowed, and the courageous bandits of his boyish days were utterly different from these ragged, hangdog ruffians, who almost choked him with the stifling odor of garlic and bad tobacco.

The bandit chief had a rage at the thought of being plundered and insulted by these brutal rascals, and he inwardly vowed that when he did get free he would spend all the money he had in hunting them down. But, as we shall see, he never got the chance of doing so.

The robbers laid their prisoner on the horse and led him up a steep, zigzag path to a kind of rocky platform, walled in on three sides by unscalable cliffs, while on the fourth lay a precipice of several hundred feet.

Here about 20 more brigands were encamped, and Harry White was led along by his silver cross, looked eagerly to see if the man who had given it to him was one of the band; but he could see no one in the least like him.

"Has Capt. Gonsalves come back yet?" asked one of his conductors.

"No," was the reply, "but we are expecting him every day."

Just then a party shot was heard behind a tree, and a tall, dark figure springing up the rocks as nimbly as a mountain goat, came bounding on to the platform.

"Up with you, comrades!" shouted the newcomer, who was no other than the formidable Pedro Gonsalves himself.

"We are here to release the soldiers from La Iglesia are upon our trail. We must retreat at once. Hat who is this—a prisoner?"

"We took him in the valley yonder, and have kept him for ransom," replied one of the bandits.

"There is no time to think of ransoms now, when our very lives are at stake," said the robber chief sternly.

"Take what money he has on him, and then finish him off."

Instantly Harry's eager hands were rifling Harry's pockets, and the brave robber, the silver cross that hung to his belt, giving himself up for lost, prepared to die like a man. But, as his watch was dragged forth by the robbers, the silver cross that hung to its chain caught the eye of Gonsalves, who sprang forward and asked, hurriedly:

"Where did you get that cross?"

"It was given to me five years ago by a smuggler of these parts, whom I helped to escape when he was crippled by a fall," replied Harry, looking fixedly at him.

"And I am the man who gave it," said Gonsalves, grasping his hand warmly; "and for that good deed you shall depart free and unarmed. Comrades, give him back all that you have taken. Follow that path to San Pedro, where the sun sets."

Harry, who seemed in too much pain to talk himself, that he was traveling through Spain with his father, that he had picked up in Mexico what little Spanish he knew; that his tour had hitherto been provokingly bare of adventures, and that the one thing in the world which he most desired was to fall in with a gang of real Spanish brigands.

And they reached the chapel, and, at a peculiar whistle from the smuggler, five wild-looking horsemen, with long guns on their shoulders, started out of the encircling thickets, Days.

A NOXIOUS PLANT.

LAW CULTURE BEST.

To the Editor:—
Sir:—
Will you be kind enough to inform me whether the following plant is injurious or not?—
C. H. G.

This plant illustrated is a smooth, much-branched annual one, to three feet high. It bears red flowers and blooms in May and June. The plant is a noxious one of European origin, and is becoming quite common in all parts of the United States, the seeds being carried in grain and the plants.

The plant illustrated is a smooth, much-branched annual one, to three feet high. It bears red flowers and blooms in May and June. The plant is a noxious one of European origin, and is becoming quite common in all parts of the United States, the seeds being carried in grain and the plants.

Ridge, which spuds the surface of the ground for pasture and meadow unless it is repeatedly worked. If you should sow clover in the corn and lay the latrine with ridge-tillage, since the clover plants always would be a series of humps, which would aggravate the driver of the moving machine, cause the hay loader trouble and annoy other work.

In rolling pasture where, strange to say, ridging is common, the practice is of greater advantage than in the prairie country, since in the frequent turnings common to surface avenues for the wagon wheels, which in a short season transforms them in small ditches and skins of the cream, as it were, of the land and deposits it in the creek or stream leaving the farmer a veritable new bottom.

Level culture is not only easier on the corn, team and workman, but it is decidedly better for the land. It avoids root pruning, which is serious, and causes no wear. Experiments have shown that it also will give larger yields than ridge culture. Then why ridge your corn?

We find one of the principal reasons why our farmers do not ridge up over a large number of weeds growing in the hill and thus makes the field appear clean. We are convinced that if left unridged cannot do so much injury to the land as the plants will inflict. At between the two evils choose the lesser.

Don't ridge your corn. Adopt that simpler system—level culture. No kind of seed, when raised in a ridge, will stand, and demands a soil that is inferior to the one in which it grows. P. W. Wilcox.

AGAINST THE DAM.

A Mass-Meeting of Farmers and Citizens Makes Most Vigorous Protest.

Measures Taken to Obtain Redress For the Damages Inflicted.

A meeting was held in Rath's hall on Monday evening, at which about forty of the more influential of the farmers living contiguous to the flowage of the Snake river, and a number of townpeople discussed ways and means whereby the extreme high water could be checked. A committee of others around Pocogama and along the upper Snake, could be alighted. The meeting was called to order by County Attorney Roberts, and Mr. Rath chosen chairman, while Mr. Norstrom was selected to take the minutes of the meeting. Mr. Roberts made the first speech of the evening, during the course of which, after detailing to some length the inconveniences and loss suffered by the farmers affected, suggested in a way whereby the dam Company might be compelled to carry a lower load of water, so that it was desired by the greater number present, although a few of the extremists insisted that the dam should be removed entirely. The remedy suggested by the speaker was that the townships of Pine Town, Chengwatah, Pocogama and the village of Pine City should immediately begin suit against the Company for damage done to the roads and bridges built by these towns, which the excessively high water had either greatly damaged or destroyed totally, and also for an injunction to compel them to carry the head of water. He pointed out that while the Supreme Court had decided in the case of five individual farmers, who far or five years ago brought suit for damages, that the Company, by reason of occupation of the flowage for more than fifteen years, had acquired a prescriptive right to same, during the months of April, May, and June, but did not mention July and August, as heretofore the drives were cut much nearer here, and were put through the drain in the former months, and during the latter the water was at a low stage, and in the opinion of the speaker the Company had acquired no rights whereby they could flood the country after the month of June. Mr. Ellison, of Pocogama township, road overseer for his district, told off the work he had in order to make the road possible for pedestrans by hauling on stones, with his horses in water half up to their sides, and then hauling in logs and laying them upon the stones, thereby providing a precarious passage for the people foot from whence they could escape the isolation of their earthly island homes, and procure meat and supplies. Mr. Hodge spoke feelingly of the many inconveniences to which the settlers were compelled to submit, to satisfy the selfish greed of a few Stillwater lumbermen and the people who derive a revenue from shelling of the logs. He pledged his assistance and influence in the work. Others also made remarks, and it was the general conclusion that immediate action should be taken, and there are but fourteen days remaining in which to enter the suit for the September term of court. On motion the chairman was instructed to appoint a committee from Pine Town, Chengwatah, Pocogama and the village of Pine City, to consult with the various town boards and induce them to instruct the chairman to begin action on the lines suggested by the County Attorney. The following were appointed:

Pine-Messrs. Brandes, Anuson, and Greer.

Chengwatah.—Messrs. Talbott, Husted, and Glavine.

Pocogama.—Norstrom, Tyler, and Gregor.

Village of Pine City—Greig, Kirk, and Hodge.

It was then moved that the various supervisors and as many others as could come, should meet at the same place at 2:30, Saturday afternoon, when the proper action would be decided upon and begun, and the meeting dispersed.

Herman Tieke has a splendid action against the Dam Company, according to County Attorney Roberts, as he has a piece of land partially submerged, the patent to which was granted by the Government less than two years ago, and doubtless there are many others similarly situated, who can compel the Company to pay them for the destruction of hay and other crops by the stage of high water. Two of the resident attorneys unavoidably were absent from the inauguration meeting on Monday evening, but their other practitioners concurred in their fears, and a voice in any action which might be begun. Clerk of Court Rath told them that his fees would be dispensed with in the action.

BE HUMANE ALWAYS.

A Jerseyman who went out for a pleasure-drive with his sweetheath not long ago received a needed though rather severe lesson on the necessity of being humane to animals in this day and generation. It was a very hot day, and when the drive was about half over, the horse became balky. The driver thereupon lost his temper and gave the animal an unmerciful beating. Then the trouble began. A constable saw him and promptly arrested him for cruelty to animals. He was unable to pay the money, and his companion settled the bill for him. Then she went home and wrote a note, and this was what it said: "When a man will so brutally beat a horse and so easily lose his temper, a woman marrying him would take the chance of the same treatment."

And the rest of the note released him from the engagement. Most people will be of the opinion that the young lady in question did exactly what was right, and that she was fortunate in discovering the disposition of her fiance before instead of after marriage. Insecurities to the pain of another is not a trait which is particularly desirable in either a husband or a wife. While, of course, it is not to be inferred that every man who will beat his horse will also beat his wife, cruelty to animals so violates the moral nature that those perceptions upon which a sense of justice depend are blunted. The intimacy of marriage is so close that happiness can only exist where there is mutual forbearance, together with a certain sensitiveness to feelings of others. The man who does not be actually cruel to either wife or children, so far as physical maltreatment is concerned, but he will say and do things which are quite as brutal as a blow with a whip would be. There are a dozen considerations which are likely to restrain him from wife-beating, the opinion of his neighbors, custom, fear that his wife may invoke the law, fear of retaliation by her relatives, or merely the fact that it is not usual for American husbands to express their sentiments in that way. But if his nature is essentially cruel he will find ways to torture those dependent upon him, which are worse than any physical pain. The true test of a man's character is not to be found in his actions when he is restrained by public sentiment or fear of consequences. He is his real self when he is free to act, to indulge meanness, or passion, or cruelty, toward some creature which cannot retaliate and has no means of defense. The Jerseyman who is the inevitable hero of the incident above recorded, was subjected to this test, and apparently he failed. He may have had an idea that by his lack of consideration for his horse he was showing a manly and stern strength of character which would impress the girl in the seat beside him. Some men have an idea that women rather admire those who are capable of cruelty. These men are trying to fit sixteenth century civilization. It cannot be done. It is true that women admire a brave man, and often the man in question is a soldier or a hunter, but there is as very fine distinction between the brave man and the man who is ever ready to inflict pain. What the modern girl sees to admire in the soldier is not his willingness to shoot other men, but his readiness to shoot himself, not his murderous impulses but his sacrifice of personal safety. The kind of woman who would like a man better after seeing him act cruelly toward a helpless animal is not fit for a civilized society.
