

According to experiments conducted by Mr. Heaton, of the Minn. Mining Co., it is not necessary to exert poles or stringing telephone and telegraph wires in snow-covered countries. If the snow is several inches thick it serves as a good insulator; the wires can simply be laid down and ready for transmission of messages.

The laying of the trans-Pacific cable is now assured. It will complete the telegraphic circuit of the globe. The cable is being manufactured in this country, and will be laid by skilled American engineers and engineers. It will be the longest submarine cable in the world, extending 8,000 miles, from San Francisco to Manila, touching at Honolulu and Guam.

Submarine divers have not yet succeeded in reaching 200 feet below the surface with the apparatus now in use, and have only weights to sink them. The effort has been made to reach a wreck in 340 feet of water. The accounts state that at 120 feet the diver began to experience serious trouble. At 200 feet, after suffering terribly, he lost consciousness and was brought up. Divers cannot work much below 100 feet.

Alfred Edward Morgans, the now premier of western Australia, a Welshman by birth and close upon 60 years of age, died yesterday morning at his residence in Western where he was a personal friend of President Diaz. When the gold discoveries in western Australia began to attract the attention of the mining world he went there and settled at Coolgardie, for which constituency he was returned to the legislative assembly in 1887.

There are many curiosities in the book world, and some of them are known from Beersheba unto Dan, and prized highly by the people whose shelves they adorn. They are for the most part books of history, and are rather rare than their age. Among the western curiosities in this line is what is said to be the largest book in the world, made up a concern in Sioux Falls, S. D. It weighs 181 pounds, and is used to register the names of visitors to that state.

Alaska is as large as Great Britain, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and the German Empire. Compared to Europe, it stretches from London on the south to the North Cape of Norway, and from the Arctic on the west to the Ural mountains on the east. Nearly three quarters of this great region is in the temperate zone, and most of the present population live and the industries of Alaska are carried on along its long and mild seaboard in the temperate zone.

It is a curious fact that the first cannon was cast at Venice. It was called a "bombard," and was invented and employed by the Pisan Pisans to attack the Genoese. The original bombard, which bears date of 1380, is still preserved and stands at the foot of Pisan's statue at the arsenal. This bombard threw a stone 100 pounds in weight but another, a general, Francis Barde, improved it so he was able to handle a charge of rock and bombs weighing 3,000 pounds.

Lord Orerton, the millionaire peer of Glasgow, has conducted a Bible class of about 500 young men in Glasgow for more than 30 years, and is a man of great influence and high demand. He is specially interested in everything that has to do with the well-being of young men, and among other things he pays a well-known Scotch minister $5,000 a year to devote himself to the work of an evangelist. He is a keen fisherman, is more than a fair shot, and is not to be despised at golf.

Of all the small animals, the bluest at New Year's time is the mole. He must have at least 20 dinners or he will starve, for a mole is forever feasting on worms and cannot go for more than an hour or two without one. In cold weather when the ground is frozen he may retire to his underground fortress with a dozen colleagues leading from it and go sleep for a few days; but when he wakes up he has to rush off in frantic hurry and get a worm for dinner, for he cannot bear an empty stomach.

President Louell is well protected. His secret guard consists of 12 men, under the orders of a police commissioner. They are never far apart over his person. When he receives them mingle with the guests close by him, and when he goes out they follow him and have orders never to let him go alone from his side. They drive and escort him on his bicycle, and it is only then that they can be recognized. This guard of 12 men along costs the state the nice little sum of 75,000 francs a year.

An American firm has just secured a contract for 2,000,000 watches to be delivered in London within the next 12 months. This record order was obtained against the strongest competition of Switzerland and Germany, the price being such that British watchmaking firms will not be able to compete. Yet less than a decade ago the company in question was making only 100 watches in a year. Now the factory employs 2,000 hands, and has arrangements for an additional thousand more in order to complete this contract.

UNANIMOUS REPORT IS RETURNED.

The House Ways and Means Committee Prepares to Begin Consideration of Question of War Revenue Reduction.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Debate on the Philippine tariff bill will begin in the senate to-day. On behalf of the majority of the committee on Philippines, Chairman Lodge reported the measure, and gave no objection to its withdrawal on the floor. Senator Borland (Utah), acting for the minority of the committee, offered a substitute for the bill of the majority, and announced that he would submit some remarks on it at the conclusion of Senator Lodge's statement. The bill of the committee on Philippines is the principal item of the budget. During the greater part of the session the measure providing for the establishment of a department of commerce was under consideration. An effort was made by Senator Nelson (Minn.) to secure a vote of the opinion of the many of the members of the committee, after considering the changes made by the Senate, so strong to the effect that he had to be abandoned.

A house bill conferring upon Mrs. Ida S. McKinley, widow of the late President McKinley, the mail franking privilege was called up by Senator Mason, chairman of the committee on post offices and post roads, and passed.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The time of the house of representatives was occupied in general debate on the urgent demands of the country. The bill carrying $500,000 for a military post at Manila precipitated a long debate, on which some of the ablest debaters on both sides of the house took part. A semihumorous speech by Mr. Clark (Mo.) elicited a reply from Mr. Cannon (Calif.), who observed the fire of Mr. De Armond (Mo.). Others who participated were Mr. Richardson (Tenn.), Mr. Grosvenor (O.), Mr. Alex-mutes on ways and means met to-day and have taken up the subject of the war revenue. They decided to have a hearing on the full bill on Monday afternoon.

Thus, with the question respecting the duty on tea and the war revenue taxes upon tea, "the will hear the people speak in the subject of tea," as the tea tax at ten o'clock in the morning and those interested in tea, of course, have a chance to speak two o'clock in the afternoon. There will be no further hearings.

Some signal was attached to the question of the hearings to tea and beer, but it was explained that these were the only interests which had asked for hearings. The desire of the beer interests is to take off 90 cents from the $1.60 per barrel tax on beer, and to reduce the rates on tea to one dollar, where it stood prior to the Spanish war.

The reduction in revenues on this item would be $2,000,000. The reduction on tea would aggregate about $500,000.

Cuban Sugar Tariff.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Senators Foster and McElroy, ex-Representatives Price, J. D. Hill and Mr. Colecock, all of Louisiana, have introduced a bill to amend the sugar industry concerning the condition of the sugar industry in their state. They laid before the president facts tending to show that disaster would result to the industry in the south in case Cuban sugar is admitted.

A large delegation from Louisiana is said to be coming to Washington to present further facts to both the president and congress.

Pension for Mrs. McElroy.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The Senate committee on pension, Monday, ordered a favorable report from Senator Hanna's bill to grant a pension of $5,000 a year to Mrs. Ida S. McKinley, widow of the late President McKinley.

In a report on the bill, Senator Hanna says the pension is to be granted to the pensioner, provided she mingle with the guests close by her, and when she goes out they follow her and have orders never to let her go alone from her side. They drive and escort her on her bicycle, and it is only then that they can be recognized.

The company are notified that the government will entertain appeals if this action is regarded as unfair to them.

To the Patrons.

The mid-year promotion for the grades will be made on Monday morning, Jan. 27. This is a slightly new departure, and brings to some of the teachers a difficulty hard to surmount. But if we are to keep our school in line with the growth of the town and the requirements of the state, we must do it. At present the first, second and third grades are in rooms by themselves, and divided into A and B classes, each one-half year apart, but the fourth and fifth grades are in one room, and under one teacher. The same is true concerning the sixth and seventh grades. The work laid out by the state, and expected of us requires that the ordinary pupil spend one year in each of the grades, and that bright pupils shall be pushed forward at times; also that the duller pupils fail to pass at times. Now to allow the pupils to pass through the lower grades in one year, the grades in which the classes are one-half year apart, we must have two promotions a year; else it requires two years to pass through those grades. But the classes in the other two rooms are each one whole year apart, and require but one promotion a year at present. In the three lower rooms we meet with no difficulty. But at the fourth grade, the first grade containing but one class, we meet with much difficulty at this time. We must choose between two conditions, either to have three classes in that room, or to put the A 3d into the former grade at the middle of the year, and let them do the last half of the year's work from now until June, and the first half of the year's work between September and January of next year. As the first and second halves of the year's work are so little different, it is thought best to put the classes together and promote those who have spent a whole year in the fourth grade at June, 1902, and those who enter now at January, 1903. But there are some in all the grades who are so far ahead of their grade as to be able to do the work of the next higher grade. Those we will give an honorary promotion. But those who are left need not feel hurt because they are not promoted, as it will not be time for their regular promotion until June. This seems to be the best way out of a difficult position. It will fall most heavily on Miss Constance, but I feel that she is equal to the task. Yet I bespeak for her the sufferings of the patrons in her endeavor to do the best work under adverse circumstances.

E. W. CHAMBERLAIN,
Superintendent.

MIZPAH.

The Lord watch between me and thee, when we are absent one from another.
Gen. 31:49.

Go thou thy way, and I go mine—
Apart, yet not afar;
Only a thin veil hangs between
Our pathways where we are
And "keep watch 'twixt thee and me,"

This is my prayer,
He looks thy way, he looketh mine,
And keeps us near.

I know not where thy road may lie,
Nor which way we will be;
If we will lead through parching
sands,

And mine beside the sea,
Yet God keeps watch 'twixt thee and me.

So never fear;
He holds thy hand, he clasps thy mite,
And keeps us near.

Should we fall and faint, perchance
be stricken;

And my lot lovely be;
Or you be sad and sorrowful;

And glory be for me;

Yet God keeps watch 'twixt thee and me.

Both are His care
One arm round thee and one round

Will keep us near.

I sigh, sometimes, to see thy face,
But since this may not be,

I'll leave thee to the care of Him

Who cares for thee and me.

"I'll keep thee both beneath my wings."

This comforts, dear

One wing o'er thee and one o'er me,

So we are near.

And we will part, to separate;

And they way be not mine,

Yet, coming to the mecy seat,

My soul shall meet with thine;

And God keep watch 'twixt thee and me.

The program rendered last Friday by the members of the literary society was a success in every sense of the word. The debate was won by the affirmative side. Those present at the program were, Mrs. Breckenridge, Eldred, Dosey, Smuckler, and Miss Mae MacLean.

The Cicero, Algebra and Geometry classes had written lessons Monday.

The program which was to be four weeks from last Friday, will be given on February 12th.

There will be no special exercises in the High School department on McKinley Day, Jan. 29. The opening exercises, however, will be devoted to stories of his life and quotations from his speeches.

To the Farmers and Gardeners of Pine City.

GENTLEMEN:

The Citizens' Committee wish to announce to you that they have completed arrangements with the M. A. Gedney Pickling Co. to establish a Pickle Factory at Pine City. The City has made great expense to get this Company to do so, however, they know that the location of such a factory here will bring great returns to the farmers and gardeners who raise the vegetables for the factory.

As you know well enough that the soil around here is the best in the state for growing Cucumbers, Cabbage, Cauliflower and similar crops. This Company agrees to take all you can raise on 300 acres.

Now we want everyone who is in any way interested to attend a general meeting on Saturday Feb. 8th at 1:30 p.m. at the Hotel in Pine City.

Mr. G. A. Gedney and other representatives of the Company will be present to give full instructions for preparing the soil and caring for the crops. They will give a written agreement to take all you can raise on the number of acres contracted and you are not bound to deliver only what you raise. There is no penalty for failure, and under their liberal contract we have assurances that the entire amount of 300 acres will be contracted on that day, so if you want to know anything about it be on hand. Every farmer within 12 to 15 miles from town can afford to raise pickles for the factory. The farmers at St. Paul are hauling in as far as Hugo over 20 miles.

THE STORY TELLER

THE AFFAIR OF BUNKER THE BOOKKEEPER

The boys had made a butt of Bunker. Bunker was the bookkeeper, taciturn and rather solemn-looking at all times. The boys called him "the old man." Bunker was 40 and the office boy was 18 or 19 years about. All sorts of jokes were played on the old Bunker, but he never showed the slightest sign of resentment. If any of the shafts of weak wit hit him, he would huff at him day in and day out, pinched and was no whining.

Finally came to the conclusion that Bunker was dense physically and mentally.

How may have been nobody's perhaps but he was good bookkeeper, and that was as far as the real old man of the office cared to inquire.

"Teddy" Long, the office masher, who wore patent leathers from Christmas to Christmas, and knew all the latest things in fashion, had flourished his sword to say that if a woman should speak to the old man would fall dead. When it happened on rare occasions that a woman would drop into the office to make an inquiry about something Bunker would send one of the boys to answer her questions. Once or twice the cubs succeeded in getting Bunker to look at them with a female visitor, and then they lay back, metaphorically speaking, and enjoyed themselves hearing the old man stammer and stammer and in seeing him blush rosy red while trying to answer the fair visitor's queries. They came to the conclusion in the office that Bunker was a simpleton, simply because it wasn't in his disposition to hate anything or anybody. They put it down that with him it was a plain case of just won't go.

One office was on the twelfth floor and its windows looked out over the roof of a low building just beyond. Teddy Long had a desk at one window. Teddy frequently was more occupied with the office behind the windows in the twelfth story of the building beyond than with the business in his own office. There was a law firm that held the premises opposite, and the lawyers were known to the boys in the broker's office for the frequency with which they changed their typewriting staff. About once a month a new face, and after a month's time one would stand in front of the machine back of the legal windows. One morning Teddy Long cast his eyes across the way, and there he saw a new face behind the big window pane. As he told the other boys a few minutes after, this new face was the girl that had gone before "beast to death."

"She's a daisy," said Teddy.

"When you get a chance to the window and spy a look over there. She's got black hair, snapping eyes, red cheeks and a dash of freckles."

Long inspection by the other young members of the broker's staff fully confirmed Teddy's opinion of the new arrival. The next morning Teddy sat at his desk biting the end of a pencil and looking his lawyer up where the same was. "Papa," he said, "what sort of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen?"

"Mr. Bunker and I have known each other for a long time. We have been five months before I went to work in the lawyer's office. I can't conceive how anybody could be such a fool as to try to grab off a smile that wasn't intended for him—Mary Gilbert Bunker!"

—Edward B. Clark, in Chicago Record-Herald.

A Lot o' 'Air.'

The inhabitants of the little town of Somersby, in England, where Terence was born, are frank in giving their opinion of their distinguished fellow townsman. One old woman related her impressions of the poet to a visitor:

"E' was a very quiet man, 'E seemed as if 'e was 'alf asleep, with 'is eyes 'alf shut an' peepin'; an' 'e used to poke at ye, loike i' fun, w'is stick. 'E'd such a lot o' 'air and a long beard, an' (sinking her voice confidentially) 'e never looked very clean, no, a 'ellin'."

And this somewhat startling testimony was promptly confirmed by her husband, who added:

"If you'd met 'im gooin' along thus dusty road, you'd 'a' taken 'im for a tramp gooin' to Brigg for a night's lodgin'" — Youths' Companion.

Teddy half wheeled his chair around, the pleasurable little excitement still glowing within him. There at the next window stood old Bunker, leaning against a wall, with one foot and one hand resting on the other. "Great Scotts," said Teddy to himself, "the old man had his eyes on the charmer and thought she might that smile for him. He looks as though he was going to faint. That smile for him! Why, the poor old gasser. He's ad-dap-te-d. I'll put the boys next."

Teddy told the boys of how the girl had smiled on him and how he tended for him. Then he blushed like a girl and folded his fingers. "We'll have some fun with the old gaffer, fellows. I'm going to get an introduction to the girl over the way, and then I'll have a good time with her. And, lastly, if a woman comes to him he has a fit, and she can just lead him on a bit, and we'll have all sorts of fun here with the doings."

The next day there was another sweet smile from the typewriter, and Teddy responded in kind. Curiously enough old Bunker was at the other window again, and when that smile came across the araway he blushed like fire and cast a furtive glance at Teddy. "I only saw it," he said, "the old fellow's hit sure. I hope he don't die of apoplexy before he makes out the pay roll. He looks as though he were going to choke."

Three days afterward Teddy appeared at the office beaming. "I met the charmer last night," he said to the boys, "over at Brown's dancing school. Her name is Mary Gilbert. I was introduced by her cousin. Say, she's all right. When I led her through the araway she just smiled at me for him she laughed and laughed. I said I couldn't conceive how anybody could be such a fool as to try to grab off a smile that wasn't intended for him. She said, 'I'm not a girl, I'm a woman.' I said, 'Ain't it great?' he said afterward to the boys. 'Gee, the old man's an easy mark!'

So it went on for weeks. Teddy met the charmer occasionally and sent her into fits of laughter over the accounts of the fun they were having with old Bunker.

"Why, when you smile," he said to her, "the old man goes up into the nineteenth heaven. I'm glad you smiled over at me that morning for office work now is as good as ever."

One morning Mary showed up with a new garniture in his buttonhole. When Teddy looked through the window he saw that there was a bunch of the same kind of flowers pinned to the waist of the neighbor over the way. After Bunker had seen his morning flower, Teddy spread the ax wide. "The old man's got 'em bad," he said. "It'll be awful tough on him the way the girl gives him the thumbs-down. I saw her last night, and I told her to let the old fellow down easy when it came to a pinch, and she did. Teddie, you know, I'm not bad enough. Gee, but there's no fool like an old fool!" She told me she's going to take her vacation beginning to-morrow, and as Bunker's going, too, our fun's all up for a week. We'll rig up something else, though, when the old feller gets home again."

Then Mary went on her vacation, and the smiling face was also missing from the window in the lawyer's office. The Wednesday morning following Bunker's departure every man in the office found a square envelope on his desk, which was sealed and addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Joel Gilbert announce the marriage of their daughter Mary to Mr. Henry Bunker, Monday, October 7, at Christy's Church."

One evening a second envelope was sent, which was addressed to Teddy Long. Teddy read the marriage announcement with starry eyes, and then picking up the insertion read this neatly typewritten communication:

"Mr. Bunker and I have known each other for a long time. We have been five months before I went to work in the lawyer's office. I can't conceive how anybody could be such a fool as to try to grab off a smile that wasn't intended for him—Mary Gilbert Bunker!"

"A Lot o' 'Air.'

The farmer who has a good well and windmill, should not depend on a creek or pond filled from water drained off the surface of the ground. This can never be perfectly pure and is liable to be a source of danger. Water is never purified by freezing. It will require but little labor to scoop out a depression with surface enough to furnish ice for the average farm family, and the satisfaction of having pure ice is more than a recompense for the labor involved.—Farm Journal.

FILLING THE ICEHOUSE.

Unless This Work Is Well Done Dis-appoiment Instead of Comfort Will Result.

Mr. J. H. Brown, in Rural New York, explains the method he uses to store ice. The illustration shows a cross section of his icehouse, with boards nailed horizontally on the inside of the poles.

From 12 to 18 inches should be left between the ice cakes and the walls. Locate the ice where good natural drainage may be secured. Tie the cakes together with strong cords and set them in the drainage holes. Cut the cakes so as to break joints, and 18 by 36 inches, or 15 by 30, as conditions may require. It will be impossible to make the cakes fit together perfectly, no matter how expert the new manipulator may be. On this account we put in one layer, fit closely and pack it in, then lay another layer of ice on top of the cakes with a carpenter's adz. The shavings of ice are swept into the crevices between. When freezing cold, a little water is sprinkled over the whole surface to cement the layers solidly together. The sawdust should be filled in around the sides level with the top and solidly tamped down. Allow no sawdust to remain on top of the various layers until the icehouse is filled. The figure shows the sixth layer in and ready for the sawdust. Sawdust is the best insulator and away from the air. As hot weather comes on the ice will settle some. Be sure to keep the sawdust tamped down around the sides frequently during early summer and see that no air finds its way in.

When the ice is all packed in, cover with 10 to 15 inches of sawdust. Leave the gables open more or less to allow free circulation of air over the ice. I hope that this serial will, with the exception of the first part, be of service to many readers. Nine o'clock and the room was absolutely radiant with the smile that came through the window. Bunker sidestepped, wiggled his hands, bowed, smiled and then put on a face like a devilish fiend. "Teddy was in raptures. "Ain't it great?" he said afterward to the boys. "Gee, the old man's an easy mark!"

So it went on for weeks. Teddy met the charmer occasionally and sent her into fits of laughter over the accounts of the fun they were having with old Bunker.

The Bible Revised.

This revision of the Bible recently completed brings it up to date without changing the original text. Many people, however, who will always prefer the old original copy without any modifications, will be pleased to learn that those who, having once used Hostetter's Standard Bible, will never use any other medicine, because it is the best for all kinds of headaches, nervousness, indigestion, grippe, or liver and kidney troubles. Be sure to try it.

THE TAG ENDS OF THINGS.

Canada has 12 medical colleges. The advance in wireless telegraphy was the chief scientific event of last year.

The agricultural department now requires a large appropriation for its administration than any other department except the treasury.

Russia's census returns reveal the presence of 640,000 invalids in a population of 125,000,000, indicating which for the past ten years are increasing.

A new and effective treatment of tree scale is in use in California. The tree is sprayed with oil, which kills the scale insects, and the oil is then converted into soap by spraying with a caustic alkali solution.

THESE ARE PLAIN WORDS.

Marsfield, Mo., Jan. 20th.—Mr. J. F. King of this place is making the following statement:

"I have suffered untold agony for twenty years with Lamé Back and Acute Kidney Disease, and in that time have never been two days together without misery, and for some time I could not walk a step or even sit up."

"Last spring, after trying many doctors and every remedy that could be thought of, I engaged Dr. Dodd's 'Dodd's Kidney Pills' and took them faithfully. I have been more comfortable and pleasure than I have for twenty years before."

"Any one with Kidney Disease or Lamé Back that will not try Dodd's Kidney Pills deserves to suffer."

Rev. Marguerite St. Omer Briggs, 35 Mount Calm Street, Detroit, Michigan, Lecturer for the W. C. T. U., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—My professional work has for the past twenty years brought me into hundreds of homes of sickness and death, and I have had plenty of opportunity to witness the sufferings of wives and mothers who from want, ignorance or carelessness, are slowly but surely being dragged to death, principally with female weakness and irregularities of the sex. I believe you will be pleased to know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured more women than any other agency that has come under my notice. Hundreds of women owe their life and health to you to-day, and, therefore, I can conscientiously advise sick women to try it." —MARGUERITE ST. OMER BRIGGS.

5500 FORGE IN THE ABOVE LETTER IS NOT GENUINE.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhea, dislocation or ulceration of the womb, bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such symptoms.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.
