WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27th, 1902.

Washington, having no local elections to occupy its attention, is now turning to the President's forthcoming message to Congress as a subject of speculation and, although of course, Mr. Roosevelt has confided his intentions to no one aside, perhaps from his cabinet officers, a careful collaboration of his and their utterances on various subjects makes it possible to forecast the President's views with considerable accuracy. There is little doubt but that the trust and the tariff will occupy the leading positions in Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations. It is believed that the Attorney General is now engaged on a measure which will be presented at the forthcoming session of Congress and which is designed to perfect the legislation inaugurated by the Sherman anti-trust bill. It is almost needless to say that the bill will contain no provisions identical to, in republican parlance, are "good trusts." It will be in line with the recent recommendations of Mr. Knox and will merely supplement the the Sherman law by authorizing legal proceedings not only against corporation instituted for the purpose of restricting trade but also against those which incidentally take measures calculated to effect that end. Opinion differs as to what Congress will do with Mr. Knox's bill but that it will receive the endorsement of the President is generally conceded.

The news of the campaign which reaches Washington is variously interpreted according to the person retailing it. It is rumored, however, that there is some anxiety in administration circles regarding the outcome in New York. A man who stands high in the counsels of the republican party told your correspondent that recently a pitiful story of apathy among the "in state" republicans and of an overweening desire on the part of the city democrats "to share in the pie," in other words, to secure some of the offices. Senator Hill and Tammany Hall are once more working together and Mr. Cleveland is sending letters of commendation so that there is likelihood of the democratic organization effecting more than it has been capable of for some time past. Chairman Babcock has so far refrained from making any definite predictions and until he does Washington will be in doubt.

Attorney General Knox, and Secretaries Moody and Root will both speak in New York state in the course of the next ten days, however, which is taken to mean that the state needs attention.

A most extraordinary error in connection with the President's new offices has just been discovered. They are about finished and the President expected to move this week but it was found that the architect had completely overlooked the heating apparatus. A contract had been placed for a furnace but no room had been left for it, no place had been provided for the storage of coal or the temporary disposition of ashes. The contractors are now engaged in remedying these defects but the oversight will seriously delay the occupancy of the building. It is regarded as probable that the President and his family will be compelled to occupy the temporary White House as a residence until December first.

That there will be some pertinent suggestions in regard to the anthracite coal situation is a foregone conclusion but whether they are included in the first message or will be made the subsequent message will depend upon the cleverly with which the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission completes the task before it. The Commission, after meeting at the White House and receiving its instructions from the President on Friday, adjourned until Monday, when the first actual meeting was held. President Mitchell and the coal operators have been invited to be present for the purpose of setting dates and places when and where the hearing will be held. Bishop Spaulding, of the Commission, told your correspondent that the time which would be required for the work was variously estimated at from one to three months but he hoped that it would be completed by the fifteenth of December at the latest.

The President will, of course, herald his views in regard to the necessity of reciprocal legislation for Cuba, although legislation to that end is practically assured. The condition of affairs in the Philippines will be made the basis for congratulation and it is possible that some legislation supplementing the Philippine bills of the last session will be asked for, especially a new currency provision. The various insular sessions will be dealt with at length. Secretary Shaw is now at work on a review of the financial system of the government with the hope of being able to make some concrete and feasible recommendations to Congress and if he succeeds the President will embody them in his message. The section devoted to an isthmian canal promises to be full of interest although its character will depend on the report which Attorney General Knox will bring to the White House possibly today, at least in the course of a few days. Forest irrigation and reservations, irrigation, etc., will also be comprehensively discussed.

There is no bird carrying in Japan. The native builders have a method of transferring mortar which makes it seem more like play than work to the onlooker. A fuel called briquette, composed of coal, peat and waste from coal mines, was manufactured in Germany last year at the cost of $69,230 and sold for $4.17 a ton. These briquettes are the principal domestic fuel in Berlin and other German cities. They are clean and convenient to handle, light quickly and burn with a clear, intense flame without smoke. Their use in Berlin, though a large manufacturing city, one of the cleanest in Europe.

Upper House of Danish Parliament Decides Not to Sell Islands to United States.

THE VOTE ON THE QUESTION A TIE:

Result of the Ballot Caused Great Excitement—Sentiment Throughout Denmark Undoubtedly Favors the Sale—The News Causes No Surprise in Washington.

Copenhagen, Oct. 22.—The landsting Wednesday rejected the second reading of the bill providing for the ratification of the treaty between Denmark and the United States in regard to the cession of the Danish West Indies to the latter country. The vote stood 100 to 98. The announcement caused the greatest excitement in the house, and demonstrations on the part of the spectators.

In voting there was one abstention, the rightists and two independent conservatives opposed the bill. Leftists and socialists supported the measure.

PEOPLE FAVOR THE SALE.

The sentiment which is predominant throughout Denmark is undoubtedly pro-sale, and the rejection of the treaty is attributed chiefly to a domestic political effort to keep the government from bringing about the reorganization of the ministry. The question of the sale of the islands may not remain dead for any length of time. The inability of the rigsdag

Rejection of Treaty Expected.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The state department was Wednesday advised of the action of the landsting in rejecting the treaty of cession. The news caused little surprise, for it already appeared in the dispatches, the advice from Copenhagen indicated that the fate of the treaty hung upon the slenderest thread, and only in case the foreign ore or coal members of the landsting were ill had so far recurred as to be able to attend the sessions, would it be possible to succeed with the measure. From these accounts of the issue, it appears that one of these days the cession will be definitely ratified, probably within two weeks. It will become minister of commerce and will also be a member of the joint commission to negotiate commercial treaties.

VAN SANT WINS WORLD-WIDE FAME

Valiant Fight for the Rights of the People Makes His Name a Household Word Throughout the Whole Nation.

Fearlessly Braves Bitter Opposition of Great Railroad Combine That Is Now Doing All Money Can Do to Defeat Him.

Will Be Re-elected by an Overwhelming Majority as an Indorsement of His Action and a Rebuke to Monopoly.

Five men are as well known today in the United States as is Samuel R. Van Sant, governor of Minnesota. There are not many people in this great land who cannot give the name of the governor of Minnesota, and yet there are but few other governors of all the states in the union whose names even the best informed citizens know. To be one of the distinguished men of a nation is a high compliment, but to be one of the best liked is to be highly blessed. It is a matter of great pride to every loyal Minnesotan that our governor is known and honored throughout the country. He is a man of great courage and determination, and yet he has not been able to satisfy those of distant states speak in high words of praise of the official head of our state.

Gov. Van Sant deserves the honor and this recognition for what he has done by being true to the people. That he is a man of courage every incident in his life shows. Never has a man in the history of our country ever has turned his back on a public or private duty. He is every inch a man and a fighter. Yet full of fighting blood as he is, he never seeks for battle, and there is no trace of the spirit of revenge. He is as gentle as he is brave, and as kindly as he is courageous indeed. If there could be any doubt of that, it has a faint it is his too human heartlessness. He will often do himself injury or injustice in an endeavor to help others, or to avoid doing either a man of the people, or like that other great champion or popular rights, President Roosevelt, he never hesitates in the face of an emergency, no matter how great the personal risk may be to himself.

The Democratic campaign is not a campaign for Roaring, but is a campaign for Van Sant. No men are being given by Mr. Roaring should be elected; he outlines no policy, and has no record. But every effort has been made to discredit Gov. Van Sant and personal abuse is the chief weapon used.

When the question of the merging of the three great railroad systems of the west was before Congress, President Roosevelt, coming to his official notice he did not shrink or temporize. He grappled at once with the question and the danger to the state. He saw that two of the Minnesota, the territory the most rapidly developing, was completely in the grasp of two of the roads; that in all that vast portion of our state there are no other roads than those controlled by them. He saw that the combination of these two roads meant a shutting out of all other roads and an absolute monopoly of the transportation business in two-thirds of the state. He saw that it was the death of railroad competition. He knew, too, the power of such a combination to wreck the political future of any citizen who was possessed of or involved. As on the field of battle he saw before him only his country's flag and the state's welfare. He was elected to stand between the roads and save a citizen, and he instantly decided upon the action. The letter of the law of the state was plain. There could be no question as to its intent, and that was to prohibit passage to meet just such an emergency. The only question was the ability of the state to break down the barriers of test. The law gave power to the corporation lawyers, and so force the master to the plain issue. The machinery of the state's law department was at once set at work on behalf of the state. The state's great problems and not discouraged by temporary failure, nor deterred by threats, he pushed the suit until he had won it. He had no money, but he had time, and time is the great factor in such cases. There are three well under way against the merger company, the Northern Securities Company of New Jersey. That there will be will be no trouble to establish a majority of Gov. Van Sant is re-elected. He has braved the bitter opposition of the railroad combination, and it is doing all money can do to defeat him, but he has done his duty and enforced the law. The people know this. They know that if he is re-elected the state's will be most feared by the railroads, will not be driven away. And they are going to elect him by an overwhelming majority as an indorsement of his action in their defense, a right to the roads that the roads control, not alone the transportation of the state, but also its politics.

Mr. Roaring says that the railroad merger question is no longer a political issue, but that it is in the courts and the courts may be trusted to take care of it. Through his committee, however, he says that there is a strong interest in continuing the merger question. How easy it would be for Mr. Roaring, if elected governor, through the support of the railroads, to merge the roads, to repay them by having the suit brought by the state, which is the suit most feared by the roads, dropped. The people will take no chances on that.

LOOK OUT FOR THE ROORBACKS

Democrats Resort to Despicable Tactics Early in the Campaign—More False and Startling Tales May Be Expected.

This next week will determine the full extent of Democratic roorbacks. They have been using this sort of argument freely in the campaign, and will probably fill the last week with them. A roorback is simply a falsehood used for two purposes: First, to keep the other side off balance, and second, to make the people will believe it. It is safe to take it for granted that any startling tales, especially in the campaign, are likely to find their way into print much earlier than has been used earlier.

As samples of a Democratic roorback up to this time, the interview with Gov. Van Sant. Gov. Van Sant has been using this sort of argument freely in the campaign, and will probably fill the last week with them. A roorback is simply a falsehood used for two purposes: First, to keep the other side off balance, and second, to make the people will believe it. It is safe to take it for granted that any startling tales, especially in the campaign, are likely to find their way into print much earlier than has been used earlier.

There are two men in the United States who can stand out conspicuously in public life for the protection of popular rights; those two men are Theodore Roosevelt and Samuel R. Van Sant—Oscar Hallam, St. Paul.

As samples of a Democratic roorback up to this time, the interview with the Globe, in which Gov. Van Sant was represented being offered to the coal miners. The Globe did not stop to ask if this interview was true or false, though Gov. Van Sant's well known friendly attitude with the miners, both his public and private acts in behalf of labor, marked it as false to all who knew him. The Globe published the tale, and the state and the country largely accepted it. It was compelled to retract the next day, and to apologize editorially; but was earned that no such edition of the retraction was sent out.

Next was the assertion that the anti-monopoly suits were all "bluster," and that not until the trial was over would the railroads be forced to consent against this railroad combination. At the same time everyone knew that there were three suits pending in the federal courts, and that the largest of these was in the course of trial in the courts.

Next was the tale that Gov. Van Sant and the Republicans had taken "extra" steps to give effect to some new laws. This was put in a Swallow paper, and 100,000 circulators containing the tale were sent out of Mrs. H. Hanson, secretary of state, was Swedish-born, and is on the ticket

BID FOR SUPPORT OF THE RAILROADS

Democratic Party Comes Out Strongly Against an Increase in Gross Earnings Tax on Railroads.

The St. Paul Globe, the Absolute Property of J. J. Hill, Wages Fierce Warfare Against Proposed Amendment.

Utter Fallacy and Inconsistency of the Arguments Put Forth by the Democratic Organ Against the Amendment.

Even more than on account of his merger stand, the farmers of the state endorse Gov. Van Sant because of the record of his administration in regard to the prison blinding twine and the state grain inspection. These two issues are sweeping the rural vote into the Republican column. It is almost a certainty that upon these identical issues that the Democrats won their single victory in Minnesota. Under the Lind administration, the grain inspection department lost over $3,000. Under the first year of Gov. Van Sant's administration, the department showed a profit of $9,482.82.

Under the second Van Sant year the profit was $25,453.67. No other argument is needed.

The prison twine plant, since 1894, has made a net profit each year ranging from $20,000 to $70,000, with the single exception of the first year under the Lind administration, when the plant made less than $15,000, after paying the farmers to pay 2 cents per pound higher than trust figures, where in all other years it has ranged from 2 to 4 cents lower than the trust price.

These two facts alone deserve every claim that the Democrats might put forward in behalf of their candidates.

Multitudes are singing praises of Kodak, the new discoverer which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat. Kodak is a wonder worker, it digests the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes one feel good all over. Dr. C. Smith, of Troy, N.Y., writes, "For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and despiration which gripped into the womb, form that I could not stand upright. And after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodak to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. It digests what you eat after meals. It digests what you eat." John W. ## DEMOCRATIC FALSEHOODS LAID BARE!

Personal Abuse and Villification of Governor Van Sant Their Only Campaign—Republican Campaign of State Issues Impregnable and Unassassable.

The state campaign is about to close and we briefly review the contest. On the Republican side it has been straightforward, manly and above board and dignified and honorable politics.

The Republicans have frank and openly given an account to the voters of what the party has done while in power in the state, and Governor Van Sant has aided resolution on his record—a record so good that the Democratic has not been able to find a flaw in it.

On the other hand the Democrats have made their three months' campaign on canards, roosticks, personalities and straightforward trifling and lies.

The word "it" is a strong one. It is a good old Anglo-Saxon word, however; and no other fits the occasion. We will advantageously propose to prove that it applies to the stuff the Democratic campaign is made of, and we will bring that they are now sending out broadcast over the state in big posters.

WHY MERGER RAILROADS HATE REPUBLICANS.

Soon after the campaign opened the Republicans found that they did not have Mr. Rosing as their Northern Securities party, but the merger railroads foreign corporation simply made a tool of Mr. Rosing and his committee with whom they try to pull Governor Van Sant and the Republicans for opposing their great stock jobbing. The railroads were adding $200,000,000 of water to the stock of those railroads and proposed to add another $200,000,000 to clear out front on the already burdened properties of the Northwest. When map of the state was shown showing $200,000,000, they naturally curse the law, and all there is in it. In this instance the railroads are trying to get an attempt to turn $200,000,000 of water into two hundred million gold dollars.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN DICTATED BY NORTHERN SECURITIES CO.

The Northern Securities company put itself in the place of Mr. Rosing as the chief agent for governor of the state of Minnesota. Its organ, the St. Paul Globe, owned and edited by the Northern Securities, became the Democratic organ. One of its reporters paid to the president of the Northern Securities company, wrote the full page biography of Mr. Rosing. A man paid by the president of the Northern Securities company has for weeks accompanied Mr. Rosing all over the state as his confidential adviser and to send in glowing accounts of his meetings.

This paper, directly representing and personally owned by the president of the Northern Securities company, has descended to the politics of the railroads, who are the world's greatest big business men and for replying to its attacks, we perhaps owe an apology to the people of the state. We will not appeal to the self-sacrifice and assassin-like methods of this "trustbound organ" containing it were sent out.

A BOGUS INTERVIEW.

This Democratic trust-bound organ prints with No. 10. It was a bogus interview in which Governor Van Sant was quoted in opposition to the Pennsylvania coal miners. A large extra edition was sent out and they prepared to plaster the state with it. Governor Van Sant's prompt and vigorous denial of the lie, however, forced an apology but no extra papers containing it were sent out.

PUBLIC FRANCHISE ASSESSMENTS.

No. 2 accused the governor of voting against an increase of the Twin City Street Railway assessment, but the records show just the contrary and that he voted for an increase of $822,000 in the assessment of last year, making the total assessment $5,072,000 and increasing taxes about $56,000. In 1902 this assessment was $4,916,000 and this immense increase was made possible by the law passed in 1897 by the Republican legislature, permitting the state board of equalization to raise individual assessments. This is the same law that the Democratic law passed to reach just this case. This great increase has been made. Minnesota has been taxed so much that the governor voted to increase the Minneapolis Gas company's assessment $100,000, making a total of $900,000, and the St. Paul Gas company's assessment $125,000, making a total of $300,000. So much for that lie.

THE RAILROAD GROSS EARNINGS TAX.

No. 3 was the statement that every railroad and the Republican committee so worded the proposed gross earnings tax law that it would reduce the tax on railroads. This opposition to railroad taxation was a part of the bargain whereby the Democrats got railroad money to run Mr. Rosing's campaign. It was also well known that ex-Governor John Lind was one of the men who drew the line and who was responsible for wording they were obliged to drop this effort to keep down the tax on railroads.

THE ASSESSMENT OF LANDS.

The next lie was that Governor Van Sant voted to increase the assessed value of farmland 50 per cent. In 1902 the assessed value on lands was largely increased in the state because of the great reduction of values caused by Democratic tax laws. The assessed value was increased this year to bring back the assessment on lands to what was considered a right value. The total increase on all real estate made this year over 1904 total was $21,925,800. Of this $20,000,000 was on iron ore lands alone, and the rest was on the city and village property, leaving but about $1,500,000 on acre property. This is the reason of the total assessment for 1904, which was $283,157,461, and less than 12 per cent of the total for 1904, which was $190,327,017. Instead of 50 per cent, as the Democrats say. Moreover, the assessment on farm lands for 1903 at not to exceed one-fourth of their selling value.

EXTRA SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The trust organ next attacked Governor Van Sant for calling the extra session of the legislature and repeatedly called attention to the fact that this session of the legislature did not pass the tax code, nor the Jacobson bill. Yet Mr. Rosing at that session did not have time to lobby persistently against these bills and against any bill that would have hurt the Northern Securities. In his speech made in the city of St. Paul submitted it and said he was proud of it. Day and night he worked to this end. Whose interests did he represent and what room has he now to speak for those interests?

GOVERNOR VAN SANT'S TAXES.

Finally after seeming to have won the gamut of lies and nasty politics they accuse the governor of failing in his duty. They sent detectives into Governor Van Sant's personal business affairs, and their trust organ, in faring headlines declares that he does not pay his taxes. Huge posters with the Detectives paid for with railroad money make the same charge.

When Mr. Rosing told them that they did not tell the whole truth? Why did they not tell the truth? Why did they not tell what the real story? Why did they deliberately publish and send to the people a bald lie about the governor of their state and hide the facts?

GOVERNOR VAN SANT'S STEAMBOAT TAX.

They foolishly think that Governor Van Sant had no interest in any company of that kind in Minnesota, but he had, but they also found that he was interested in and a president of a company that owned the Lake Superior steamboat, the Great Northern. This company owns the Calumet, Iowa, which owns steamboats, and they found that this company pays taxes and has paid taxes for years on these steamboats, which are the only steamboats that have any interest in any kind. They found, too, that these taxes are paid in the state of Iowa because the law says that that is where they must be paid.

OTHER THINGS THE DEMOCRATS DISCOVERED.

They found that for several years, moreover, the governor has invested in all his savings in Minnesota, and he has built up his residence in his own state and loyalty to it, while far from it he has been holding out the savings from a long and active business life in which he has and holds, the state board increased the steamboat taxation and the governor sustained that increase because he thinks it fair and right.

LOOK UPON THIS PICTURE.

And what of Mr. Rosing's record in public life? On what besides personal abuse of Governor Van Sant does he base his claim to the "honesty" of government of Minnesota? What has he ever done for the farmers? What has he done for the laboring men? How has he been shown sympathy with the needs of the poor? The Jacobson bill was a Democrat bill until 1898, when he was a delegate in the Republican convention of that year, and when he could not dominate that convention, his biography says, he walked out a Democrat. He changed his political principles as most can change their wives. What would he do if he never got what influences would be behind him and control his acts?

AND THEN LOOK UPON THIS.

But the people of Minnesota all know Governor Van Sant. They know what he stands for and what he represents. They know that he stands for enforcement of the law, against great and powerful corporations and combinations of capital and labor, and against the poor and honest citizen. They know that under his leadership the dairy and meat commission has been active and practically helpful and has done a great deal for the people. The insurance department, that has won for Minnesota the name of the "Iowa and Boston State," is in the governor's hands, through his appointive power, is in the hands of practical men, thoroughly sympathetic with the needs of the wage-earners. They know that the dental and medical commission has done earnest, honest work for the schools of the state. They know that the insurance department, the bank examiner's department, and every branch of this department, the trust organ is being recommended to do justice to the citizens.

The view of the people is not the same as these two pictures. This is honest, expeditious administration to the state's entire welfare. This is Democratic abuse and vilification of the state's entire welfare. This is the foreign railroad trust. Has the public a right to vote, not for the candidate of the Northern Securities company, but for their friend, Samuel R. Van Sant.
