

THE MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

President Roosevelt on the Need of Legislation for the Cuban Republic.

WE ARE IN HONOR BOUND TO GIVE THE ISLAND TRADE ADVANTAGES

Says Proposed Reciprocal Arrangements Will Be to Our Advantage Also—The Whole of the United States Will Be Benefited—Sees Danger in Failure.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The following is President Roosevelt's message to the extraordinary session of congress:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: I have come to the conclusion that it may be considered the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba, which was ratified by the senate at its last session, and subsequently by the Cuban government. I deem such legislation demanded, not only by our interest, but by our honor. We cannot consistently abandon the course upon which we have so wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of congress of the United States, this government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position in the relations of the United States to the island. It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relations with us as to be treated as one of our possessions. It is not possible for this government to permit the strategic abuse of the plan by any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy and that naval stations have been conceded by her to the United States. The negotiation of the details of these naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there will be the intention of using them against Cuba, or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign forces, and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the western south of us.

These interests have been largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain, and will be further increased by the building of the isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations, and the cession to us of the most important from a military standpoint and is proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made no effort to injure her independence established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She already stands high among her sister republics of the new world. She is loyally observing her obligations to us; and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as these given to Cuba. Not an American interest is sacrificed. By the treaty the Cuban market is secured to our producers. It is a market which lies at our doors, which is already large, which is capable of great expansion and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be indeed short-sighted for us to refuse to take advantage of such opportunity and to force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on consideration of broad national policy as well as our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because of its importance from the broad standpoint of international policy and because economically it directly concerns us to develop and secure the rich Cuban market for our farmers, artisans, merchants and manufacturers. Finally, it is desirable as a guaranty of the good faith of our nation towards her young sister republic to the south, whose welfare must ever be closely bound with ours. We gave her liberty. We are knit to her by the memories of the blood and the courage of our soldiers who fought for her in war; by the memories of the wisdom and integrity of our administrators who saved her in peace and who started her so well on the difficult path of self-government. We must help her expand and upward; and in helping her we shall help ourselves.

The foregoing considerations caused the negotiation of the treaty with Cuba and its ratification by the senate. They now with equal force support the legislation by the congress which by the terms of the treaty is necessary to render it operative. A failure to enact such legislation would cause seriously and a repudiation of the pledged faith of the nation.

I transmit herewith the treaty, as amended by the senate and ratified by the Cuban government.

WALTER BROWN BROWNELL, White House, Nov. 10, 1901.

Columbian Record, Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Hay, during a call at the White House Monday morning, placed in the hands of the president the Colombian project against the course pursued by the Washington government in relation to the attitude toward the new government of Panama.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

For the Week Ending November 10. About 150 houses were destroyed by fire at Jernie, Hayti.

Mrs. Thomas A. Hendricks, widow of the late vice president, died at Indianapolis.

Nine men were arrested at Belleville, Ill., for alleged implication in a negro lynching on June 8.

The greatest Newport has been ordered to San Domingo at full speed because of rebellion there.

Terrible earthquakes have occurred at Turah, Persia, and 350 persons were killed and numbers injured.

A savings bank for negroes, with a colored woman for its president, has begun business in Richmond, Va.

Berlin dispatches announce that Japan and Russia are near a peaceful settlement of questions in the far east.

Frank Pickett, a Boston reporter, died at Detroit as a result of a 51 days' fast undertaken to cure stomach trouble.

Twenty-four Chicago state banks and trust companies report for October 15 an increase of deposits of $5,995,000 over August 15.

The president has appointed Daniel Whit Wright, of Cincinnati, to be justice of the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

Gen. General Young has decided that the garrison in the Philippines shall consist of four regiments of cavalry and nine of infantry.

J. W. Warr, secretary of the Mining (Ill.) Building, Savings and Loan association, is said to be worth $27,000 in his accounts.

The balance in the Cuban treasury on November 1 was $3,843,000, and the surplus accumulated during the last seven months was $1,206,000.

Election day in Kentucky was marked by scenes of violence, several men being murdered and others fatally wounded in clashes at the polls.

Forty persons were killed by railway in Chicago during the month of October. Steam roads killed 26, electric cars ten, cable lines four.

Lieut. Albert M. Beecher, ordnance officer on the battleship Maine, fell from the forward turret at a distance of 40 feet, at Newport, R. I., and was killed.

Samuel Adams, a negro, was lynched by a mob at Pass Christian, Miss., for assisting the wife of one of the most prominent residents of the place.

By a majority of 175,000 the voters of New York state declare in favor of depositing the Erie canal in the hands of a board, at a cost of $10,000,000.

A new counterfeiter's olive silver certificate, series of 1859, check letter A, plate No. 161, Lyons, registrar; Roberts, treasurer, has been discovered.

A plan to protect Denver, Col., girls from maulers has been launched by Miss Louise L. Harding, of the Eastern woman's club. A street patrol of girls is planned.

The Cuban congress met in regular session and during the month of October message expressed hope for speedy action on the reciprocity treaty by the United States.

Leonora Smith, aged 18 years, was shot and killed by her flit lover, Hoole Bowers, aged 30, at her home near Topeka, Kan., after which Bowers killed himself.

James Murry, Monongahela, Pa., aged 12, was shot to death, and John Johnson, aged 11, wounded by Earl Flory, 13 years old, who was angered by calling names.

A timber sale involving western Montana land worth $2,000,000 was settled by a Ruite court in favor of Senator W. A. Clark, defendant, over the United States government.

Two earthquake shocks were felt at St. Louis and buildings rocked and the telephone wires were disarranged. Shocks were also felt at Memphis, Louisville and in Illinois.

Mrs. Ida F. Guller, of Banker Hill, Ill., accused of giving poisoned candy to the wife of James W. O'Connell, causing his death, was acquitted by a jury in the county court at Carlinville.

Strike of iron workers employed on Iron League will benefit many industries in New York is ordered and iron workers' unions throughout the country are asked to quit work in sympathy.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

A New Industry. A new industry, which opens a new market for tamarack, a variety of wood that is common in Northern Minnesota, and which is abundant, is being established in that section. The timber is being sought for ship knees for use in the construction of wooden vessels at the Atlantic coast shipyards. It is said that the only supply of timber, oak and tamarack, has heretofore been procured entirely in Maine, but that the supply there is nearly exhausted and the prices are very high. Northern Minnesota has a vast amount of tamarack and it is abundant.

Three camps for the getting out of tamarack ship knees have been established in the vicinity of Columbia station on the Duluth, Michigan & Northern road, sixty miles north of Duluth, and the product will be shipped to Jiah, Me., all rail. Select ship knees at the Duluth shippers are worth $7 to $8 each. A tamarack tree twelve or more inches in diameter is selected. It is cut off from four to five feet above the ground, and the main root, always running at right angles to the stump, is cut off at about the same distance, forming an "L" shaped timber. The pieces measure at least twelve inches in diameter.

About 1,000 of these knees are required in a large wooden vessel. They are usually of the same length, and the angle, amount and the value of the ship knees. About 150 of the knees make a car load.

A Dual Life. A strange case of a dual life was revealed in the Minneapolis police court. Timothy Lammer, or Mr. Simpson, as he is known outside of business hours, was sent to the workhouse for thirty days as a result of the revelation.

A detective had been watching the man for some time. In the role of Lammer, a crippled beggar, he was well liked. Once in his room, however, he dropped the role, and would emerge an hour later resplendent in fine linen, diamonds and patent leather shoes. He was also well known in the downtown cafes as Mr. Simpson, where he spent the money he collected by begging.

On the street he was dirty, his face was wrinkled and, his body bent. He used a crutch, around which one leg was twisted to indicate a serious defect in his anatomy.

Probably False. John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

Too Much Foot Ball.

Death as the result of the big football game—not from injury but in the form of too much enthusiasm.

John Norburn of St. Paul visited the Minneapolis police headquarters and told the police of a plot to dynamite the Minnesota penitentiary. The man says his wife overheard two men discussing the plan, and he came at once to report it.

The police are decided to believe that there is nothing in the man's story, and say that if there is such a plot it is the work of a few hot heads and not of the larger part of the community.

The strike for one in which so many men were involved, was conducted in a most orderly manner, and at this date no violence is looked for.

THOSE EARLY GREEKS.

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

"Gee, no. I think it was great. I wish I'd been a brother to one of 'em, instead of a modern male. My back won't get over helping lift those double-deckers of yours all winter. Those old Greeks had a lot of horse sense, I think."

"The young girl admitted her green veil spotted with white and gave a contemptuous sniff."

"You're as bad as the rest of the men to talk, but notice you all pick out the girl that have the most fetching clothes, just the same. I expect you'd have egged on those Greeks in the rest of their treatment, if it wasn't enough to deprive the women of their extra clothes, but they went to work and had big statues made to represent the prisoners, and had them set up in front of their public buildings for pillars, so that future generations might remember the victory and know for sure some of the particular virtues of their captives. The early Greek male was capable of that. They called the statues Caryatides, after the city, so there could be no mistake about the insult intended. That was a great thing!"

"But, mercy, it's time we went to the train. Here, you can carry my coat and golf sticks and tennis racket and umbrella, and I'll see you at the depot and send the dress suit case by the expressman, but I ain't heavy. You won't mind, dear. I've got to carry 'em, and these flowers and my bag are."

"Gee," sighed the boy, "I wish I was a early Greek."

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

"Gee, no. I think it was great. I wish I'd been a brother to one of 'em, instead of a modern male. My back won't get over helping lift those double-deckers of yours all winter. Those old Greeks had a lot of horse sense, I think."

"The young girl admitted her green veil spotted with white and gave a contemptuous sniff."

"You're as bad as the rest of the men to talk, but notice you all pick out the girl that have the most fetching clothes, just the same. I expect you'd have egged on those Greeks in the rest of their treatment, if it wasn't enough to deprive the women of their extra clothes, but they went to work and had big statues made to represent the prisoners, and had them set up in front of their public buildings for pillars, so that future generations might remember the victory and know for sure some of the particular virtues of their captives. The early Greek male was capable of that. They called the statues Caryatides, after the city, so there could be no mistake about the insult intended. That was a great thing!"

"But, mercy, it's time we went to the train. Here, you can carry my coat and golf sticks and tennis racket and umbrella, and I'll see you at the depot and send the dress suit case by the expressman, but I ain't heavy. You won't mind, dear. I've got to carry 'em, and these flowers and my bag are."

"Gee," sighed the boy, "I wish I was a early Greek."

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

"Gee, no. I think it was great. I wish I'd been a brother to one of 'em, instead of a modern male. My back won't get over helping lift those double-deckers of yours all winter. Those old Greeks had a lot of horse sense, I think."

"The young girl admitted her green veil spotted with white and gave a contemptuous sniff."

"You're as bad as the rest of the men to talk, but notice you all pick out the girl that have the most fetching clothes, just the same. I expect you'd have egged on those Greeks in the rest of their treatment, if it wasn't enough to deprive the women of their extra clothes, but they went to work and had big statues made to represent the prisoners, and had them set up in front of their public buildings for pillars, so that future generations might remember the victory and know for sure some of the particular virtues of their captives. The early Greek male was capable of that. They called the statues Caryatides, after the city, so there could be no mistake about the insult intended. That was a great thing!"

"But, mercy, it's time we went to the train. Here, you can carry my coat and golf sticks and tennis racket and umbrella, and I'll see you at the depot and send the dress suit case by the expressman, but I ain't heavy. You won't mind, dear. I've got to carry 'em, and these flowers and my bag are."

"Gee," sighed the boy, "I wish I was a early Greek."

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

"Gee, no. I think it was great. I wish I'd been a brother to one of 'em, instead of a modern male. My back won't get over helping lift those double-deckers of yours all winter. Those old Greeks had a lot of horse sense, I think."

"The young girl admitted her green veil spotted with white and gave a contemptuous sniff."

"You're as bad as the rest of the men to talk, but notice you all pick out the girl that have the most fetching clothes, just the same. I expect you'd have egged on those Greeks in the rest of their treatment, if it wasn't enough to deprive the women of their extra clothes, but they went to work and had big statues made to represent the prisoners, and had them set up in front of their public buildings for pillars, so that future generations might remember the victory and know for sure some of the particular virtues of their captives. The early Greek male was capable of that. They called the statues Caryatides, after the city, so there could be no mistake about the insult intended. That was a great thing!"

"But, mercy, it's time we went to the train. Here, you can carry my coat and golf sticks and tennis racket and umbrella, and I'll see you at the depot and send the dress suit case by the expressman, but I ain't heavy. You won't mind, dear. I've got to carry 'em, and these flowers and my bag are."

"Gee," sighed the boy, "I wish I was a early Greek."

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

"Gee, no. I think it was great. I wish I'd been a brother to one of 'em, instead of a modern male. My back won't get over helping lift those double-deckers of yours all winter. Those old Greeks had a lot of horse sense, I think."

"The young girl admitted her green veil spotted with white and gave a contemptuous sniff."

"You're as bad as the rest of the men to talk, but notice you all pick out the girl that have the most fetching clothes, just the same. I expect you'd have egged on those Greeks in the rest of their treatment, if it wasn't enough to deprive the women of their extra clothes, but they went to work and had big statues made to represent the prisoners, and had them set up in front of their public buildings for pillars, so that future generations might remember the victory and know for sure some of the particular virtues of their captives. The early Greek male was capable of that. They called the statues Caryatides, after the city, so there could be no mistake about the insult intended. That was a great thing!"

"But, mercy, it's time we went to the train. Here, you can carry my coat and golf sticks and tennis racket and umbrella, and I'll see you at the depot and send the dress suit case by the expressman, but I ain't heavy. You won't mind, dear. I've got to carry 'em, and these flowers and my bag are."

"Gee," sighed the boy, "I wish I was a early Greek."

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

"Gee, no. I think it was great. I wish I'd been a brother to one of 'em, instead of a modern male. My back won't get over helping lift those double-deckers of yours all winter. Those old Greeks had a lot of horse sense, I think."

"The young girl admitted her green veil spotted with white and gave a contemptuous sniff."

"You're as bad as the rest of the men to talk, but notice you all pick out the girl that have the most fetching clothes, just the same. I expect you'd have egged on those Greeks in the rest of their treatment, if it wasn't enough to deprive the women of their extra clothes, but they went to work and had big statues made to represent the prisoners, and had them set up in front of their public buildings for pillars, so that future generations might remember the victory and know for sure some of the particular virtues of their captives. The early Greek male was capable of that. They called the statues Caryatides, after the city, so there could be no mistake about the insult intended. That was a great thing!"

"But, mercy, it's time we went to the train. Here, you can carry my coat and golf sticks and tennis racket and umbrella, and I'll see you at the depot and send the dress suit case by the expressman, but I ain't heavy. You won't mind, dear. I've got to carry 'em, and these flowers and my bag are."

"Gee," sighed the boy, "I wish I was a early Greek."

They Were Hard on Their Captives, But Some of Our Americans Are Worse.

"For downright, concentrated essence of mean, contemptible and unscrupulous male Greeks," exclaimed the summer girl, surveying with pride the array of trunks of all shapes and sizes with which she was plying the Atlantic coast steamer, at the seashore, relates the New York Times.

"Why particularly male?" queried her young admirer, but the large reason disappeared around the corner and he dropped wearily into a piazza chair, mopping his brow.

"Because I read the other day that their mean old things besieged a city, Carya, I think it was, to punish the people for having joined with the Persians against the Greeks. The city fell, and the Greeks burned it to the ground and murdered all the men."

"My, but that was tough, wasn't it?"

"Oh, that wasn't anything. It's what they did to the women that makes me furious. They took them all back to Greece as prisoners, and made them walk through the streets in a triumphal procession like cattle in a parade at a county fair. Worst of all, they made a law that the women should never have any more to do with men, but forever wear the same robes and ornaments in which they were captured."

"They did this for the cheerful purpose of eventually mortifying all poor creatures with the remembrance of their captivity, as if they were likely to forget it. Now, wasn't that outrageous? Think of having only one dress for years and years, and having to trudge through the streets in a yearly parade in it, at that."

WEST ROCK.
The Ladies Aid of the M. E. Church met with Mrs. Maiz Peterson on Tuesday afternoon.
Mr. A. Rydell left for northern points to spend a few days hunting deer (?)
Confirmation exercises were held by Rev. Johnson of Rush Point Sunday afternoon.
Mr. Ludgren, of Minneapolis, gave a lecture on "Temperance" in the M. E. Church Saturday evening.
Mr. Colovin and Mr. A. Rydell spent Saturday hunting east of Rock Creek.
Miss Buirgo, Mr. Corovin, Mr. Anderson and son, attended the Dedication Exercises in Pine City Friday.
Mr. Freeman and son, Swan, and Mr. O. P. Backlund are on a hunting trip for a few days this week.
Myrtle Solerbeck and Katie Thill have again resumed their school duties.
Rev. Chas. Rydell conducted service in the M. E. Church Sunday evening.

"INTEREST."
MEADOW LAWN.
The first snow of the season visited this section on Monday.
County Supt. Blankenship was a visitor at our school on Friday.
Mrs. August Spiering arrived here Monday, and was accompanied by Will. Hoan of Dakota.
Louis Cline and Ralph Scofield arrived home from the cities this week where they have been visiting their cousin George Scofield.
Miss Daisy Hathaway and Lillie Cline went to St. Paul this week to visit with relatives and friends.
Alice Hathaway and nephew Garfield Rose drove from Dakota, arriving here Monday.
Mrs. Ida Laneron who has been visiting her sister Mrs. Orson Scofield, departed for her home in Oregon, Wednesday.
Miss Kate Penhiter and brother John arrived here Tuesday, from Mapleton, and will remain here with their parents.
Mrs. W. H. Patterson went to Minneapolis Saturday.

POKEGAMA BREEZES
Miss Hawes accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schultz to Pine City, Saturday.
Wm. Harrigan entertained some of his Pokegama friends Saturday. Will has spent the summer in North Dakota.
Ole Wicklund journeyed to the county seat, Saturday.
Prof. Gotsen did some trading at Pine City Monday. Not a pleasant day for a five mile drive.
A. H. Anderson transacted official business at the county seat, Saturday.
E. Miller drove to Pine City Wednesday.
Fred Norstrom was in Pine City Wednesday. While stopping one of the stores in the village, his horse started to take a run for home all by its lonesome. He was informed in time to run out and stop it, and save a six mile walk.
John E. Norstrom has started the foundation for a new home, to take the place of the one destroyed by fire one week ago.

"PHILIPPI PHIPS."
BEROON.
About three inches of snow fell on Monday.
Everybody is out hunting this week.
The new bridge across Mission Creek on the Pine City and Hinkley road is completed.
Joseph Sebasta was in Pine City on business, Tuesday.
We read in the Hinkley Enterprise, in the Beroon column, that the Sebasta boys were hauling corn from their farm. How could they haul corn when they did not have it?
Posters are out announcing the Thanksgiving dance at this place. A good time is guaranteed all who attend.
Will Balanger of New Prague is visiting with the Chalapsky brothers here.
Anton Kopacek killed a fine wolf last Sunday.
Jos. Chalapsky has received a fine large stock for his furniture store.
Miss Elta Derr is visiting with her many friends here this week.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure
Digests what you eat.

SCHOOL NOTES.
Lucy Nevill, Robert Swedenberg and Howard Peterson were absent from school Monday and Tuesday, on account of illness.
A special meeting of the Webster literary society was held, Monday morning, for the purpose of electing program and music committees. The first program of the society will be given Nov. 25th.
The junior class are doing rapid work in literature. They have read "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night" and are now reading "Macbeth".
We understand that the eighth grade and freshman class are to have a "spread," Friday night. The juniors are wondering if they will be fortunate enough to be invited. It looks dubious.
Miss Wyman was absent from school Monday morning.
The dedication exercises passed off nicely. We hope to have Supt. Olson with us again during the school year.
A new rule was adopted, Wednesday, by which the school house doors will not be opened before 8:30 a. m. and 1 o'clock p. m.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

- B. E. BARNUM,
Physician and Surgeon.
Graduate University of Michigan—1878.
Office at Residence South of Court House.
Telephone No. 4.
Night calls promptly responded to.
Pine City.
- R. L. WISEMAN
Physician and Surgeon.
Office in Wiseman & Co.'s hardware store.
Pine City.
- A. LYONS,
Physician and Surgeon.
Office in the Hurley Block.
Pine City.
- A. J. STOWE, M. D.
Physician and Surgeon.
Graduate of the University of New York City, 1887.
Office in new building first door south of Post-office. Residence and mouse north of office.
Rush City.
- E. L. STEPHAN,
Physician and Surgeon.
Office at Drug Store.
Hinkley.
- G. L. ROBERTS,
Attorney at Law.
Pine City.
- ROBT. C. SAUNDERS
Attorney and Counselor at Law.
Office—Byhak Block.
Pine City.
- M. B. HUBLEY,
Attorney at Law.
County Attorney of Pine County.
Office in the Court House.
Pine City.

BARBER SHOP,
CARL BODLY, PROPRIETOR.
Two Chairs Quick Service
Everything New and Up-to-date.
Shop in Connor Block, next to Madden's Feed Store.

STENOGRAPHY
Taught right, in a way unknown to any other school.

BOOK-KEEPING
Simplified, made easy, accurate and no labor.

BANKING
This science thoroughly mastered at the New Era Business College. Write J. P. SIMON, General Manager, Superior, Wis.

PINE CITY
LIVERY STABLE
W. P. GOTTRY, Proprietor
First-Class Livery Rigs Furnished at any hour.

Teeth
Dr. Morgan, dentist, will be at the Wilcox House, Pine City, on the 21, 22 and 23, of every month. Teeth pulled without pain.

Jas. Hurley & Son
carry a full line of Bettendorf Steel and Rushford Wagons;
* Geo. F. Thompson & Son Buggies. *

Dealers in
HARNESS AND SADDLERY.

A complete line of Horse Blankets, Robes, Brushes, Curry Combs, Whips, Harness Oil, Axel Grease, and in fact, everything pertaining to a first-class harness shop.

REPAIRING NEATLY DONE.

James Hurley & Son, Pine City.

25 Cents
Will buy the
Weekly St. Paul Dispatch
One Year.

The Weekly Dispatch has no equal in the Northwest as a reliable news paper and includes
Telegraphic News of the World
General and Northwestern News
UNSURPASSED
AND RELIABLE Market Page

Send 25 cents in stamps and try it for one year (52 issues). Write for their premium list and free samples.

Weekly St. Paul Dispatch,
St. Paul, Minn.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS & C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description will quickly ascertain our opinion. Free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Address: MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 525 F. St., Washington, D. C.

WANTED—SEVERAL PERSONS OF CHARACTER and good reputation in each state (one in this county required) to represent and advertise old established wealthy business house of solid financial standing. Salary $21.00 weekly with expense additional, all payable in cash direct every Wednesday from head office. Horse and carriage furnished when necessary. References—Enclose self-addressed envelope. Colonial, 332 Dearborn St., Chicago.

REVIVO
RESTORES VITALITY
Made a Well Man of Me.

THE GREAT PRINCE REMEDY
produces the above results in 30 days. It acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will retain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using REVIVO. It cures and ever restores Nervousness, Loss of Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Loss of Power, Fading Memory, Weakness, Diseases, and all effects of self-abuse or excess and indolence. It not only cures but prevents the return of disease. It not only cures but prevents the return of disease. It not only cures but prevents the return of disease. It not only cures but prevents the return of disease. It not only cures but prevents the return of disease.

MRS. CECILIA STOWE,
Orator, Entro Nous Club.

178 Warren Avenue,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disagreeable place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Crebra Drou
WINE-CARDUI

Come to the
PINE COUNTY PIONEER
for your Fancy and Commercial Job Printing.

NEW PLANING MILL.
We are now prepared to do anything in the planing mill line, such as—
Surfacing, Flooring, Ceiling, Drop Siding, Ship Lap, Lap Siding, Window and Door Frames, O. G. Base and Casings. Saw gumming a specialty.
CALL AND SEE US.
J. W. AXTELL, PINE CITY, MINN.

Going for the Doctor
through the storm and darkness with the suffering one at home is in danger, perhaps of death, in a terrible trip. Why?—Because you more easily remedy in the house.
One that has proven a life savior to thousands of cases during the last forty years.

Watkins' Vegetable Anodyne Liniment.
Think what a world of terror and anxiety was saved this man.
DISPENSES WITH DOCTORS.
We have used Watkins' Vegetable Anodyne Liniment for many years and can give you the names of hundreds who have recovered from severe pain, but not named in Watkins' Liniment, and as well as for rheumatism. WATKINS' VEGETABLE ANODYNE LINIMENT is a sure relief in every case of neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, rheumatism, sprains, strains, bruises, cuts, burns, insect bites, etc. It is a quality that has been made only by The J. R. Watkins Medical Company
WINONA, MINN., U.S.A.

For sale by our traveling salesman or long team and address at your home. Drop him a line and he will look you up and give you a clinic from the heart of Watkins' Remedies.

Agent for Pine, Carlton and Kanabec Counties,
M. A. SODERBECK, ROCK CREEK, MINN.

Free Lunch Always on hand.
LOUIS STEINPATZ
Good Combination Pool and Billiard Table in Connection.

DEALER IN
PURE WINES, FOREIGN and FANGY LIQUORS. DOMESTIC CIGARS.

We carry a large variety of Bottle Goods. Baseline Beer always on Tap. Phone No. 35.

GEORGE SHERWOOD'S
Dray Line.
We are prepared to do all work in our line in a workman like manner.
Geo. Sherwood, Prop.
Pine City, Minnesota.

Herman Borchers
Carries the most complete stock of Ladies' and Gent's Fine Boots and Shoes Ever brought to this village.
Also Carries a First-Class Line of Rubbers and Slippers.
Boots and Shoes Made to Order. Boot and Shoe Repairing a Specialty.
PINE CITY MINN

F. C. Brandt
Painter and Decorator.
I have on hand a complete line of Red Mixed Paint, Oils, Leads and Varnishes. Brushes and everything kept in Painters' Supplies. Carriage Painting a specialty.
RADDEN BUILDING, Pine City, Minn.

Corner Store
New Goods!
F. J. RYBAK'S
Elegant Corner Store is now open and ready for business. Carries a full line of General Merchandise. Boots, Shoes, Etc.
Also Farm Produce, Flour and Feed, Lime and Plastering Hair.
F. J. RYBAK, Pine City, Minn.

MEAT MARKET.
JOS. VOLBENC.
FRESH, SALT and SMOKED MEAT.
Fish, Game and Poultry, In Season.
Telephone Number 44.
Pine City, Minn.
Kodol Dyspepsia Cure
Digests what you eat.

R-I-P-A-N-S Tablets
Doctors find A good prescription For mankind
The recent packet is enough for usual occasions. The family bottle (60 cents) contains a supply for a year. All druggists sell these.