Prominent Men Enthusiastic Over Possibilities—Yacht Lovers' Close Call—Star Boarder Leaves—"Topics."

H. S. Potts, of the City Water Dept., St. Paul, has a cottage at the Club, in company with Enos H. Hoard, of the real estate firm of Jefferson & Hoard St. Paul. They are both enthusiastic fishermen and large consumers of shrimp minnows.

W. J. Rouleau, of the St. Paul Trade Journal, is spending the week at the Club. Mr. Rouleau admits that he is the son of Capt. Rouleau who has been, for a generation identified with the St. Paul police dept. W. J. is a fair shot, a good feller and can sail a boat.

J. B. Jones, of Minneapolis, made a hearty business visit to the Club Tuesday. He made a careful survey of the Club, and was most enthusiastic over its possibilities. He urges the hearty cooperation of all the present members in reorganizing new members and selling the stock of the Club. He thinks the entire stock can be disposed of, if each will take an active interest, and feel a personal responsibility in placing the Club on a solid basis, numerically and financially.

E. P. Dickenson, late of the upholding firm of Schroeder & Dickenson, of St. Paul, is at the Club taking the "rest cure" for a recent nervous attack.

Miss Nellie Sheldon Sturtevant, of Red Wing, is occupying a cottage at the Club. Miss Sturtevant, a Lake Park sailor and is thoroughly enjoying the superior advantages afforded for her favorite sport on Lake Pokegama.

Chas. E. Osborn, of the N. P. general office came up for a Sunday visit. He is an enthusiastic worker for the Club, which he predicts has a brilliant future. He was accompanied by Mr. Donaldson, of the St. Louis Car Wheel Co., who stated that the Club would suit the tastes of the St. Louis people better than any Minnesota lake he had seen.

Nels Eagle, of the Minneapolis Board of Trade, and his wife have made their long deferred visit to the Club. He is a "deep water sailor" his ancestors having been "sea-faring folk" from the days of the Vikings. Naturally he lived aboard the "Lone" coming ashore only long enough to eat and sleep during his stay.

The Club steamer, Tuxedo Belle has gone out of commission for the season, and will be laid away for the winter. Historically the steamer has been satisfactory to the members of the Club, who insist that the boat should be under the direct control of the management, and not "farmed out" to irresponsible parties to run whenever they felt in the humor for making a trip.

Miss Ella Brundage, of St. Paul, left for her home on Tuesday, and returns there on Saturday. Miss Ella was the star boarder at the Club, having come before the opening of the Club three months ago. She carried with her not only the meridian good wishes of all who met

THE FAIR.

Good Weather Likely to Predominate—Exhibitors Come Early—Best Races Ever—Senator Clapp to Speak.

It is not absolutely known but it is very probable that the fair dates selected for the Pine county fair will fall on fair days, as good weather is the prediction of all the weather forecasters. At least if hoping for good weather does any good, we should have the real article, and record breaking crowds will result.

Each and every date advertised for the fair will be a day of events. The attractions Monday will be the equal of those falling on the second and on the last days of the Fair, and therefore none should risk missing the big time offered, by waiting a day or two.

It is very important that exhibitors bring in their articles as soon as possible, and the fair management is very desirous of having all exhibits in by Saturday night if convenient as to be fully prepared for the grand opening on Monday. The ground will be patrolled by watchmen Saturday night, all day Sunday and Sunday night so none need feel anxious about their valuables. Besides the regular premiums offered, special prizes will be given on various premium takers. The floral hall display should be by far the best ever exhibited at the fair, and the premiums offered will warrant a big and attractive display.

A number of business men have purchased a space at the hall and their different lines of trade will be represented. The horse races this year promise to be a feature and a string of good horses will undoubtedly make the contests worth while witnessing. The speed program can be found elsewhere in this issue.

United States Senator Moses E. Clapp has been engaged to deliver a speech on Tuesday afternoon. Senator Clapp has been heard a number of times before by Pine county people and he has always succeeded in pleasing his audiences. His subject will be entirely in keeping with the occasion and some rare treat is sure to be in store for those who hear him.

Plenty of amusements have been provided for to make the Fair an event of many pleasures. The free out-side acrobatic and athletic exhibits are said to be marvelous and the manifold features together with the balloon ascensions will be sufficient to interest the most versatile onlookers. A big dance is scheduled to occur in Rath's hall Tuesday evening and no doubt a huge crowd will repair to the hall to hop fantastically until early morn.

The fact that reduced rates on the N. P. Ry. have been declared for the occasion will tend to bring in a large number of visitors who otherwise would not feel able or disposed to make the trip.

Good! This is everybody's fair and here you will have a chance to study new ideas and business methods employed by others, an opportunity to get a broader view of the county as a whole, and will afford a change of scene, rest and amusement.

The bars are down, the gates are ajar and the keys have been buried for a week. Let none stay away from this, the greatest exposition ever held in Pine county. Everybody will be made to feel welcome so come early and stay late.

Sad Bereavement.

Mrs. E. E. Darnum went to Cloquet last night upon receiving the sad intelligence that her grand-child had died at that place. The child was the nine months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Darnum and died of diphtheria. Infants in majority that has struck Cloquet with alarming intensity. It is likely that the remains will be brought to this place for burial. The bereaved parents have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

IMPORTANT CHANGE.

The Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Co. Purchase Mutual Co. Interests—Big Switch Board Ordered.

Within the past two weeks an important business transaction has taken place that practically leaves Pine City with only one telephone exchange.

About two weeks ago a deal, which had been pending for some time, was closed whereby the Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Co. came into possession of Mutual Telephone Co.'s interests. The latter Co. was the first to install an exchange at this place, and a few years later the Consolidated T. & T. Co. secured a franchise and located a business here. Ever since that time local persons who interest themselves by looking ahead have deemed that just such a deal that has been effected would eventually come to pass.

The Consolidated and Mutual will therefore be termed the Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph Co. which is allied with the Twin City and Zenith City telephone companies. The Company has its general offices at Marriam Park, and Hugo Wickstrom will continue in the capacity of local manager.

The Bell telephone instruments will be replaced by instruments of the Stromberg-Carlson manufacture which are thought to be the best. A new 300-line switchboard has been ordered and the exchange now located in the Connor building will be moved into the Co.'s property between the Smith and Mercantile Co.'s stores.

As soon as the "red tape" and other trifling preliminaries can be done away with the best service this place ever had is promised. About 160 names are enrolled within the local toll book.

The companies directly affected by this consolidation are Carlton, Mil-lers, Kanabec, Isanti, Anoka, Chicago and Pine, and the additional holdings of the Co. will naturally enhance the service for patrons.

These are the First.

The Hotel Agnes has been wound up, and will be a "spectral motion" machine from now on until the perpetuity runs out, which time may not be seen by even our young generation. Saturday was the opening day, and the following names are honored by being the first placed upon the register in the order named.

John Salce, Duluth, George Greenville, St. Paul, M. B. Worst, St. Paul, J. B. Meyer, St. Paul, John A. Healy, St. Paul, and Sunday three more were added as follows: John Sall, Duluth, E. E. Parks, St. Paul, Jas. A. Sandberg, Waterloo, Iowa.

Since Saturday over a hundred guests have been received at the hotel, which fact indicates that the hostelry will become a popular stopping place.

The Truelles are excellent hotel people, which is already a noticeable fact. Pine City will be in line to entertain a great many strangers, on account of the hotel's desirableness and popularity.

"Just as soon as possible the hotel will be formally opened," is the information imparted to us upon inquiry, and on or about Oct. 1st, everything is expected to be in readiness and a big reception will probably be in order. Several lobby fixtures and some minor furnishings, together with the finishing touches, will complete the work, and make for Pine City an hotel to be proud of.

On the Market.

Adam Biederman has purchased the rights of a number of counties for the disposal of the new potato digger which our venerable fellow-citizen, J. D. Wilcox, recently received a patent on. The machine is a multifarious affair—simple and serviceable—and both Messrs. Wilcox and Biederman will undoubtedly make a good thing out of it, at the same time placing on the market a useful, labor-saving implement.

The Italian gambler's horror of the fact that a 13th card of one of his packs bears the figure of a woman in England, the superstition that one of a company of 13 must die within the year is traced to the old calculation of the insurance companies that 13 persons, taken indiscriminately, one will die within 12 months. Others trace the awe in which the figures are held to the Last Supper, at which 13 were present.

An appearance of a new island in the Japanese seas calls to mind other rapid findings of land in the ocean. An island suddenly came to light off the coast of Sicily, remaining for two months and as quickly disappeared. A steamer, near the Azores, retired from public life before it was fairly started. The Gulf of Mexico has witnessed the advent and subsidence of small islands. These appearances of the land of the ocean suggest all sorts of mysteries connected with the unknown depths.

EXPLOSION SETS FIRE TO A BIG FACTORY IN AVON, CONN.

Panic Among the Employees—Seven Lives Lost—Eleven Persons Injured—Spectators Helpless to Save the Unfortunates.

Avon, Conn., Sept. 10.—The explosion of a fuse, followed by a fire in a building of the Climax Fuse company here Friday afternoon caused a panic among 20 employees in the building and resulted in the death of seven and injuries that doubtless will prove fatal to several others. There was no way of coping with the flames, which soon spread rapidly, and in less than an hour after the explosion occurred the flames were in the hands of the fire.

The Victims. The dead are: William Burke, 40 years old, married; James Joyce, about 35, married; Mr. McCarthy, aged 18, James J. Walker, a resident; Mr. McCarthy, Miss J. Sullivan, Mrs. M. B. Tucker. Eleven persons were injured. The exact cause of the accident is not known, but it is believed that the explosion was caused by a fuse which may never be known, but it is accepted theory here that in an effort to burn out a stoppage in one of the machines a fuse was lit, and the explosion of a fuse with the hot iron he had in his hand.

Helpless to Save. As an officer of the second largest building left several bodies could be seen entangled in the mass of machinery in the basement, and in a short time they were reduced to ashes. Early in the evening the body of a woman was seen near the edge of the fire and an effort was made to pull it away from the flames, but on account of the heat this was impossible.

Soon after the building in which the lives were lost was consumed the fire spread to the new structure, which was just completed at a cost of $35,000, and in a few hours this building was gutted, only the four walls remaining. Two smaller buildings were reduced to ashes, making a total of four burned, the loss on which is estimated to be $100,000.

LOVER'S DEADLY REVENGE. Kills Beautiful Woman Who Had Jilted Him and Faked His Own Life.

Crown Point, Ind., Sept. 10.—Harry Hohman, of Hammond, Ind., son of a wealthy family, angered because his years ago he was jilted by Jeanette Charles Jeannette, of Steger, Ill., on Sunday, in the presence of many persons, fired four bullets into his former sweetheart's heart and then killed himself. Miss Ida Taylor had been betrothed to Hohman for five years, but two weeks ago she was married to Jeanette. She was a beautiful woman, and had been connected with a summer resort hotel before her marriage. She and her husband lived at this hotel. Young Jeannette was a student at the hotel where the Jeannettes stayed. Sunday afternoon Mrs. Jeannette went to the backyard and Hohman followed her. As she turned and faced him Hohman drew a magazine revolver and fired four shots at her. She fell full dead amid the startled cries of the summer boarders, who rushed to see when she shot. Hohman fired two bullets into his breast, and fell dead beside the woman's body. As Miss Taylor, Mrs. Jeannette had worked at a restaurant near the hotel, she was very much remarked for the striking beauty of her face and the symmetry of her form.

She fell full dead amid the startled cries of the summer boarders, who rushed to see when she shot. Hohman fired two bullets into his breast, and fell dead beside the woman's body. TO DISCUSS QUARANTINE.

Governors of Twelve States Call Conference at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 14.—A quarantine conference will be held in this city November 9. Governors of 12 states have signed the call for the meeting. Representative business men from all over the south will attend. Measures will be discussed for relief from the stringent yellow fever quarantine regulations, which, the call says, are crippling the great business interests of the south. The prosperity and growth of the southern states is retarded at length and the call is signed by Gov. Cox, of Tennessee; Blanchard, of Louisiana; Warfield, of Maryland; Dawson, of West Virginia; Morton, of Virginia; Broward, of Florida; Vardaman, of Mississippi; Beckham, of Kentucky; Hays, of Texas; Folk, of Carolina; Lanham, of Texas; Folk, of Louisiana; and Terrill, of Georgia.

New Orleans, Sept. 15.—The yellow fever record up to Sept. 15 in Louisiana is as follows: New cases, 34; total cases, 2,625; deaths on Monday, 6; total deaths, 341; cases under treatment, 311. President Roosevelt's telegram to Mayor Behrman, announcing his intention to come here as planned on October 24, if the people of Louisiana and New Orleans desired him to do so, subject only to the quarantine regulations of other states, is received as an additional indication of the president's sympathy with the people of the state and the city in the fight against the fever. It is the opinion of the authorities that the fever will practically have disappeared before the president is due, but there is some doubt as to whether the adjoining states and the county parishes of Louisiana will be willing to lift the quarantines until further guarantee is assured that there is no danger from the transmission of the disease.

BOSTON IN MOURNING.

Death of Mayor Collins Occurs Unexpectedly at Hot Springs, Va.

Boston, Sept. 15.—Patrick A. Collins, mayor of Boston, died Thursday at Hot Springs, Va. The immediate cause of his death was a hemorrhage of the bowels. A telegram received by Mr. Curran briefly reported the sudden demise of his chief. Mayor Collins left here about a week ago for Hot Springs to obtain a rest. His last night was spent at the hotel. He had completed more or less of being ill, and had kept to his room for the last three days but had not been confined to his bed entirely. He was sitting up talking with his son Thursday morning when seized with the attack, death occurring at once. Mayor Collins was one of the leading democrats of the country. He served in congress from 1883 to 1889, and was United States consul general at London from 1893 to 1897. He was the first president of the national democratic convention of 1888. For many years Mayor Collins devoted his time in behalf of the cause of home rule in Ireland, and he was the first national president of the Irish Land League in this country.

THE FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL.

POWERS TO CONFER ON WORLD'S PEACE.

CEAR OF RUSSIA WILL CALL ANOTHER CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE.

All Nations to be Invited to Participate—Belief That Such a Step Has Been Decided Upon—Date Not Yet Known. St. Petersburg, Sept. 15.—Emperor Nicholas again appears before the world as a promoter of universal peace. No sooner is the Russo-Japanese peace treaty has been ratified, than his majesty issues invitations to a second peace conference at The Hague. The emperor has done so, and it is officially announced that "the Russian government proposes to address the holding of a second peace conference at The Hague." It is known that negotiations preceding the proposed to address the powers" were entered into especially with the United States and were conducted with the slightest leaking that Russia contemplated anything of the kind.

The announcement created the greatest surprise here, and that Russia should plan a second conference, despite the fact already taken by President Roosevelt, was also heard with amazement. It is clear that the step could not be taken by Russia without first reaching a complete understanding with President Roosevelt. The fact that President Roosevelt is reported as being entirely in sympathy with the proposal, and that he is said to believe that to the initiator of the first Hague conference should belong the honor of convening the second, and really and gladly accepted that the conference has already been called, and that President Roosevelt relinquished his part in it to the emperor.

Date Not Yet Known. It is believed that the proposed date of the second conference, or to gain even an approximate idea regarding it, but it probably will not be great. There is strong reason to believe that the news even of the intention of the Russian government would not be given out unless invitations had already been sent to the powers and, possibly, that their answers had been received. In this connection an interesting question arises as to how the invitation was communicated to Japan in view of the lack of diplomatic relations, and it may be that the emperor's absence from St. Petersburg will probably delay the signing of the peace treaty.

May Be Delayed. St. Petersburg, Sept. 15.—Emperor Nicholas, with the empress and their children and Grand Duke Alexis, start of Sunday on a cruise in Finland waters. They are expected to return toward the end of the week. The emperor's absence from St. Petersburg will probably delay the signing of the peace treaty.

SOME MORE INSURANCE FRAUD.

THE WESTERN LIFE INDEMNITY, LIFE OF CHICAGO IS THE LATEST.

Scheming Promoters are Alleged to Have Grafted Many Thousands of Dollars. This Company was to be Sold Out.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—Stupendous frauds against policy holders in the manipulation of small mutual life insurance companies was charged in an injunction suit in the United States court yesterday.

The sale of the $10,000,000 Western Life Indemnity company, scheduled for the fall at the Masonic Temple, was stopped. It was charged that the company was to be grafted and sold out by shameful fraud. The policy holders were alleged to have been robbed for years. Now they were to be sold out like chattel, utterly against their interests, for the personal profit of a few scheming promoters.

E. I. Rosenthal, general manager of the company since last February, and W. Gray, the founder of the company, who retired in his favor with President George M. Moulton, were charged with manipulating the company for years and for the purpose of transferring the assets of the company, which is supposed to be a mutual benefit organization.

It is an assessment company, twenty years old, had 9,000 members with outstanding policies amounting to $20,000,000 and unpaid death benefits of $87,000. Rosenthal and Gray are charged with violating themselves money, making contracts with themselves, misapplying the funds, deceiving the members, transferring the assets on the policy of policy holders like so much chattel, and finally plotting to sell the entire company out and rush all assets and records out of the state.

This wrecking of small assessment insurance companies is alleged to have been the regular occupation of Rosenthal. Missikan for Deed. Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 20.—The remains of Sakaris Sjryd, the Finlander who was shot to death by unidentified persons while on his way to work on Birch river, the shot was brought to Ely by the coroner. It was found he had been shot in the back, the ball entering just below the shoulder and emerging from the left breast. The coroner verified the statements made by Pretilla, partner of the dead man, that the bullet which shot him was from the shore, a distance of about 100 yards. He also found that the shot was fired from a 30-30 rifle, the bullet being found on the point of land where Pretilla says he saw the man. The dead man was probably mistaken for a deer.

MADE TO CAMPAIGN FUND.

New York Life Contributed Many Thousands to Secure Victory for Republicans and Roosevelt. New York, Sept. 16.—On the stand Friday afternoon, in the insurance investigation, George W. Perkins produced a check for $45,000 drawn by New York Life insurance company December 30, 1904, payable to J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Perkins testified that this check was a contribution to the national republican committee and was promised to Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the committee. Mr. Perkins said the same thing was done in 1896 and 1900. The reason for these contributions, he said, was that the company feared its assets would be endangered in case of procrustean success.

Will Test Anti-Fraud Law. Plainfield, Wis., Sept. 16.—Charged with using his railroad pass in violation of the Wisconsin Central Railroad company, and holding a position as a notary public, was on Friday placed formally under arrest on complaint of W. Recover Two Bodies. Duluth, Minn., Sept. 15.—With the discovery of two additional bodies, the remains of fifteen persons who perished in the wreck of the steamer "Lion" and her consort, the Olin Jeannette, have now been recovered. Of these, eight have been picked up along the shore in the vicinity of the Lion, and the others in the neighborhood of L'Anse. One body found yesterday was of a man, and all hands were picked up in a row of the blue jean and white shirts and shoes of the common sort.

THE ROMANCE OF A POLE-HUNTER

The Long Wooing of Anthony Fiala Is Soon to End.

BACK FROM THE NORTH TO CLAIM A BRIDE

Wooded for Eight Years, a Pretty Southern Maid Will Wed an Ardent Lover—Her Word Given as He Sailed Northward Two Years Ago.

Nashville, Tenn.—Some time during the coming winter there will be solemnized in this city a marriage that will mark the climax of one of the prettiest romances this land of romance has known in many a year.

It will be a union of the north and south of that north represented by the frozen ice fields surrounding the north pole, and of this sunny southland.

Anthony Fiala, the hero of the Ziegler expedition in search of the pole, is the hero of this romance, and Miss Claire Puryear, a young lady prominent in Nashville society, is the heroine, and the story of their courtship is an interesting one.

It has been a long engagement, even a longer wooing, says a special writer to the New York World. It was eight years ago that Anthony Fiala, then a youngster of 27, first met Miss Puryear. He was a member of a gallant troop C, of Brooklyn, then. He had gone as part of the escort of the governor of New York to the exposition at Nashville. On New York day, just by chance, he was introduced to Miss Puryear, a guest at the governor's reception.

Of course the trooper did just what he ought to have done—he fell in love with her. They corresponded after he left Nashville for good, but that was all. Chance took young Fiala back again to Tennessee and he made bold to say what his heart had hidden him.

"No," said the young girl, thinking, of course, it was final.

But men who are fit to brave the torments of the arctic don't give up at one rebuff, and a hundred times more not an Anthony Fiala. He went away undaunted. Again and again he begged the girl to marry him, sometimes going to Tennessee just to make one more proposal; at other times sending his message by letter.

Then in seeming despair he gave it up.

"I am going after the pole," he wrote in 1901, and it wasn't a joke, either. William Ziegler was then fitting out his second expedition in 1903, he selected young Fiala, then but 33 years old.

"Northward, always northward," was Mr. Ziegler's injunction, as he intrusted the young man to the command of the America, the best ship that ever ground her way through Arctic ice.

Fiala promised that he would return to the members of his party. The other officers with him were: R. R. Tafel, of Philadelphia; Charles L. Seitz, of Evansville, Ind.; William J. Peters, of the geological survey, second in command; Francis Long, of the weather bureau; the meteorologist of the expedition; Dr. G. W. Shorley, of Camden, Me.; J. Collin Vaughn, of Forest Hill, N. J.; Charles E. Rellick, of St. Louis; John Vedco, of Boston; Spencer W. Stuart, of Brooklyn; and H. H. Newcourt, of Millford, Mass.

When he sailed there was a little party of women to see him off—his mother, one or two relatives and the girl from Nashville. She had relented at last.

"When you come back," she whispered, "as he started up the gangplank of the steamer that was to take him to Norway, 'I will marry you.'"

"When I find the pole," answered Fiala, "I'll be back."

But nobody knew that either had promised the other. It was only when the brief dispatch came on August 11 that Miss Puryear told her secret—she was to marry the intrepid young arctic explorer when he could come back to her. Wooded six years and his promised sweetheart for two years more, she had kept her secret well. For two years lacking less than a month she had not heard a word from him. Her last letter was dated in September, 1903, when the gallant little band passed out of reach of the mails for almost 12 months.

The expedition cost $250,000. The party were talking everything possible for the prosecution of the search for the pole. Everything that science or comfort could suggest found a place aboard the sturdy ship. There were 210 Siberian

But in 1904 he sent his secretary, William S. Champ, from Tromsø, on the steamer Fritof, but Champ returned without tidings. This year, just before he died, Mr. Ziegler sent two expeditions. One was commanded by Mr. Champ on the Terra Nova, the other by Dr. Oliver L. Fassig, of Johns Hopkins university, on the Belgica. On August 7 came a message from Shannon island, from Dr. Fassig, stating he had found no traces of Fiala. Four days later came word from Champ. He had found Fiala, and all were well. One of the Norwegians had died of natural causes, that was all.

It was a long weary wait for the girl.

It was not the wait of a girl who can reach her sweetheart by mail or telegraph. It was not the wait of a girl whose affianced might be on the other side of the globe and yet able to communicate with her. For two years she never knew whether he was alive or dead, whether he was achieving the same. The party knew it was doomed to pass another winter in the Arctic without any hope of rescue. Cold, ice fields stretched in every direction. It was plain that no help could come until another season.

But at home there was one girl who had hope. And when spring came again, there was one man who had made up his mind to obey to the letter the parting injunction of William Ziegler, even then doomed to death.

"Don't come back without Fiala. Bring him back dead or alive."

Mr. Champ knew what that meant, and he resolved to do it. While Fiala's men were fast losing hope, the Terra Nova was making her way northward by inches. She sailed from Tromsø, Norway, on June 13 last. She encountered tremendously thick ice all the way. She encountered perils that would have driven back almost any one save an American.

From Tromsø she shaped her course direct for the ice fields, which she

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Olmedast Wins.

Hannibal—Olmedast county receives the big end of the money for the best county exhibit, according to the state fair judges. The county was given a total of 110 points out of a possible 1,300. Houston comes second with 1,042.

In potatoes, culinary vegetables and fruit Olmedast was far ahead of the others, while in tame grass, native grass and forage plants the county was tied with some of the others. For Morrison on stock vegetables and also on arrangement.

Fully 300,000 people attended Minnesota's great annual exposition this year and the record was a high one for coming years to meet. The number of tickets taken up was 273,054, but this does not include the army of 3,000 or more people who slept on the grounds all night, nor the other thousands who were admitted through the gate without tickets. Every day was a big day, the smallest attendance being on Thursday, when the turnstile count was 35,003. Time was when Wednesday and Thursday were the only days which brought out satisfactory crowds, but the people of the state have been educated to the fact that the fair is really a daily attraction, and that it is fully as attractive on Monday and Saturday as on any other day.

Poor Care of Cows.

St. Paul—E. K. Slater, state dairy and food commissioner, reckons that the farmers of Minnesota are losing approximately $20,000,000 a year just because they do not take proper care of their cows.

In a series of tests conducted by the state department it was learned that one Minnesota cow in 1903 produced 470 pounds of butter, as compared with 166 pounds produced by the average cow. If the 475,740 cows which furnished milk to Minnesota creameries in 1903 produced as much butter as the best cow, the total would have been 227,300,348 pounds, instead of 73,200,348. This was a total of 135,145,800 pounds, or butter worth $27,029,178.40.

Mr. Slater estimates that the total production of butter this year will approximate 80,000,000 pounds, so that if cows produced as much this year as the best cow of 1903, the saving to Minnesota farmers will be about $30,000,000.

Want Model Returned.

Minneapolis—After nearly three years at San Francisco, Wis., the full-sized model of the historic Viking ship of Gokstad is to be returned to its former place in the Minneapolis public library, an agitation started by the Norwegian Society of America is successful.

The model is of great value, being an exact reproduction of the Viking ship unearthed at Gokstad, Norway, some twenty years ago. It was loaned three years ago to some persons in Eau Claire, to be used in a street parade, and has never been returned. Resolutions condemning those responsible for the loaning of the ship were adopted by the executive board of the Norwegian Society of America.

Plenty of Bears.

Duluth—Five bears, one of them was an old one, and two cubs were shot and one cub was captured on the edge of Duluth's residence section.

Mr. W. H. Sanford shot a half-grown bear while on a telephone pole in front of her house on East Fourth street.

O. A. Waldorf, at Duluth Heights shot an old bear and one cub while on a telephone pole near Arnold Pitzer captured a cub weighing thirty-five pounds in a yard on East Fifth street.

It is believed that these and other bears that have invaded the city of late were attracted by bee hives in a yard on East First street.

State Makes Loans.

The state board of investment, consisting of the governor, the state auditor and the state treasurer, at its monthly meeting approved loans to the amount of $179,993. Most of these were to school districts and a few villages, counties and townships. This makes a total of nearly $700,000 loaned by the state during the year.

Regarding the funds available for making the loans, State Auditor Iversen said that there is now on hand in the trust fund $192,000 available for this purpose and in seven or eight weeks there will be $250,000 or $300,000 more.

St. Paul—T. D. O'Brien, insurance commissioner, thinks that the Northwestern National Life Insurance company of Minneapolis has a perfect right to substitute its own policy contracts for those of the old Northwestern National Savings association of Iowa, which it absorbs, when the parties holding the former Iowa company's contracts request the change.

first expedition under Eirvin B. Balch was in his quest to attain the farthest north. When young Fiala departed for a place he was accepted. Mr. Ziegler found that the young man had already an available was record in '96, when he went to Porto Rico with troop C, and was also an accomplished artist, photographer and stenographer. So the young man got out of the coveted place.

Two years later he came back.

The expedition had been a failure. There had been discussion among the officers of the America, which finally entered up a spirit of mystery even in the men. Little was accomplished; the historians which has been bred in the Arctic were kept up when the expedition arrived back in New York. Mr. Ziegler was disgusted. He spoke his contempt for the men who had wasted his money in no uncertain words. But Anthony Fiala was not one of them. He had done good work, and when it came time for the baking powder millionaire to cast about for a man to lead a second expedition in 1903, he selected young Fiala, then but 33 years old.

"Northward, always northward," was Mr. Ziegler's injunction, as he intrusted the young man to the command of the America, the best ship that ever ground her way through Arctic ice.

Fiala promised that he would return to the members of his party. The other officers with him were: R. R. Tafel, of Philadelphia; Charles L. Seitz, of Evansville, Ind.; William J. Peters, of the geological survey, second in command; Francis Long, of the weather bureau; the meteorologist of the expedition; Dr. G. W. Shorley, of Camden, Me.; J. Collin Vaughn, of Forest Hill, N. J.; Charles E. Rellick, of St. Louis; John Vedco, of Boston; Spencer W. Stuart, of Brooklyn; and H. H. Newcourt, of Millford, Mass.

When he sailed there was a little party of women to see him off—his mother, one or two relatives and the girl from Nashville. She had relented at last.

"When you come back," she whispered, "as he started up the gangplank of the steamer that was to take him to Norway, 'I will marry you.'"

"When I find the pole," answered Fiala, "I'll be back."

But nobody knew that either had promised the other. It was only when the brief dispatch came on August 11 that Miss Puryear told her secret—she was to marry the intrepid young arctic explorer when he could come back to her. Wooded six years and his promised sweetheart for two years more, she had kept her secret well. For two years lacking less than a month she had not heard a word from him. glory of being the first to set foot on the spot that has been men's ambition for a century, or whether his bones were not whitening on some Arctic waste.

The first relief expedition started a year ago. She waited for its return. No news. A second went out and came back without finding a trace of the man she loved or his ship. A third went northward nearly four months ago—she waited again.

And then—the glorious news, alive and well!

It came first in the regular dispatches from far away Norway, and then in another message to Fiala's brother, Louis—"Returned, good health. Love from Anthony," the third dispatch—"went to Norway, but what was in it is not on record. It was then that Miss Puryear's secret became known to the world. She admitted that she would become the wife of this man who had twice risked his life in search of the frozen pole.

Up in Norway, r' anwhile, the young man was receiving the congratulations of men who know what it means to brave the terrible rigors of two Arctic winters. Though he had lost his ship and had failed to reach the pole, or even the farthest north, he had come back with an honorable record—every body knew that. Of the 38 men, all but one were safe and sound. The dead man did not succumb to anything that he might not have died of in his own home. It was a record far surpassing that of the other Ziegler expeditions.

Fiala spoke modestly of what had happened during these past two years, saying nothing for himself, though it was largely due to him that he had brought his men back all right.

Fiala didn't have much to say of what he had been through, but others told of it. The men were in fairly good shape, but some were so weak that they never could have withstood a third winter in the Arctic.

It was the terrible winter of 1902 and 1904 that was against them. When storms and grinding ice crushed the America like a pack-bow, the ship that had weathered many an Arctic winter before, Fiala did not give up. He saved 50 tons of provisions and 100 tons of coal, which he deposited on the ice for further use. Then he led his men out on the ice fields.

The last wreckage of their ship disappeared in the fearful storm of January 22, 1904. His ship gone, Fiala did not give up his search for the pole. Parties went out east, west and north trying to force a passage, but they were impossible ice everywhere, and much open water which forbade other attempts. Then the provisions began to fail. It was a forced march south of death for everybody on the ship.

It was a long, painful and terrible journey on foot and sleds to the southward. Ultimately the party reached the cutter at Cape Flora, Cape Dillon and Cape Ziegler. The men were distributed at these three places, and sleds of provisions were found by catching bear and walrus, on which they subsisted.

Everybody was hopeful until the autumn of 1904, when no relief ship found on June 19. Then she slipped along eastward until June 27, when she began to drive her way through the ice. On July 25, four weeks later, the Terra Nova struck open water, and this was only for a brief spell.

On July 28 she again hit the ice. Mr. Champ had experienced navigators with him and they were agreed they could never reach Fiala. Some even doubted that they could get back themselves until next year.

"Keep on," ordered Champ quietly, and the resolute men set their faces still to the north.

On July 28 they sighted Palm Island. Next day, after a 24-hour battle, they reached the island. Then they knew they had won. There they found six members of the expedition which Fiala's foresight had left there. Then Champ knew that his mission was successful, for the six told him where headquarters were at Cape Dillon, and that Fiala and the rest of his men were alive and well there.

But what was the story?

They bore joyful news to Fiala—a rescue ship was waiting! Fiala told them where the rest of his party were at Cape Ross, and on July 30 these were found, too. Some of the men were mere skeletons, worn down by the hardships they had endured for two years, but no one was in such bad way that good food and plenty of rest would not bring him and all right in August. All the parties were gathered together and the start made for Norway, where everybody arrived safe and well on August 10. It took six days hard work to get out of the ice-pack—the rest of the sail to Norway was easy. The sturdy ship that had rescued the men was unharmed.

Miss Puryear, the girl who has waited, has been teaching school in Tennessee for the past five years. She is strikingly handsome, talented and cultured. She moves in the best Nashville society. Maj. John Reid, of Virginia, is her grandfather; the family is well known through both Tennessee and Virginia.

Miss Puryear was too modest to say anything to a correspondent about her romance.

"We will be married in the winter," was all that she would vouchsafe.

In some parts of India the natives dig a crocodile pit, which they cover with sticks and leaves. The pit surrounds a little island or a mound of earth and is close to a stream where crocodiles abound. In this way they fasten a young goat, and its bleatings through the night attract the crocodiles who break the frail floor of sticks with their heavy bodies and fall into the pit prepared for them.

U. S. SENATOR TOWNE
Credits Doan's Kidney Pills With a Gratifying Cure.

Hon. Charles A. Towne, Ex-U. S. Senator from Minnesota, brilliant orator, clever business man, brainy lawyer, whose national prominence made him a formidable candidate for the presidential nomination in 1904, writes us the following:

"Gentlemen: I am glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. The remedy was recommended to me a few months ago when I was feeling miserable; I had severe pains in the back; was restless and languid; had a dull headache and neuralgic pains in the limbs and was otherwise distressed. A few boxes of the pills effectually relieved my ailment and I am glad to acknowledge the benefit derived.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes from Food.

If we get power from food, why not strive to get all this power we can. That is only possible by use of skillfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire, and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt I made to eat heart-burn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton, and in time was compelled to keep to my bed.

A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at how well it did. I got thinner and thinner until I was just what I needed. All my unpleasant symptoms, the heart-burn, much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 lbs. My figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy life. The Grape-Nuts food did it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show anyone facts about food.

THE DAIRY

POINTS OF A DAIRY COV.

How the Good Milk Producer May Be Told—Some Rules Which Must Not Be Held Too Rigidly.

In answer to H. L. Bowman, Cook county, Ill., who writes: "I want some information relative to the character points of a good cow for dairy purposes," the Prairie Farmer replies as follows:

"There is no series of 'points' by which it is possible to pick out a dairy cow and be perfectly sure of getting just what is desired. Good cows are not so numerous as they are ordinarily supposed to be. It is possible to get a few indications of superior quality. Before answering Mr. Bowman's question we are laying stress upon this point so that he will not read the 'points' we print below and feel contain that all that is necessary is to look for these outward indications. While the Prairie Farmer does not desire to unduly depreciate the value of the general characteristics of a good dairy cow, it is important to be forth by those who have advanced the physical method of determining good milkers and butter producers, we do wish to lay particular stress on the importance of testing by the pail and churn, providing a Babcock test is not available. In other words select your dairy cow according to her work.

Here are the points which are generally considered indicative of dairy quality: Head, small and compact; muzzle large; forehead straight or concave; neck long and thin without being scrawny; horns relatively small, eyes bright and prominent; shoulders thin; loin broad but not thickly fleshed as in beef cattle; thighs thin; hind quarters long, deep and powerful; flank high, best short and wide apart; tail long, slim, and loosely jointed; taper set broadly on abdomen; of generous size, extending high up behind, well held up to abdomen; not both under and belly; teats loose, pendulous or fleshy; milk veins large and prominent; udder thin, evenly placed and wide apart. A fleshy udder, firm to touch when mature, and retaining its size and form after milking, indicates predisposition to inflammatory disease. Skin clean, with a fresh bright color; hair fine, thick and soft; temperament active and docile; large feeder.

In the accompanying line drawing are given some of the main points notable on the exterior of a dairy cow. These are as follows: muscularity; face; 3, forehead; 4, poll; 5, lower jaw; 6, cheek; 7, neck; 8, back; 9, loin; 10, hip or hook; 11, rump; 12, pelvic arch; 13, wither; 14, thigh; 15, flank; 16, udder; 17, barrel or belly; 18, fore flank; 19, brisket; 20, dewlap; 21, heart girth; 22, loin girth. (Mumford.)

The main points in the selection of a cow are to secure large udders that are not fleshy, and large roomy bellies showing capacity for consumption of large quantities of food. Of course, great eaters and large producers are not always profitable cows, but generally are. Cows are seldom profitable unless they produce at least 250 pounds, or more, of butter per year.

The Cow Owner.

It has been frequently said that we need an improved dairyman more than we need an improved dairy cow. This emphasizes a great truth. The cow owner is the most important factor in the successful dairy. If this man wishes to produce clean products he must himself set the example in his dress and appearance. The farmer that had a sign stuck up in his dairy which read "cleanliness is my hobby" struck the foundation principle of successful dairying.

The By-Products.

The proper utilization of by-products is necessary if we are to get the most out of the milk from our cows. On the farm it is always desirable to have enough calves, pigs or poultry to take all the skim milk before it sours. The pigs indeed will use the sour milk. Where there is a sale for it, cottage cheese is profitable, for it utilizes all the skim milk, and the returns are always good.

—Farmers Review.

Don't Forget.

The dairy farmer should not forget that he is a manufacturer, and should manage his business accordingly. His raw material are the fanners and cows. He raises or buys his machines and his cows; his barns, stables and milkhouse are his shops; and his pails, cans, separator, etc., are his tools.

Summer Silos.

When dairymen get down to real, earnest work, they will have summer silos, as well as winter silos, and when the pastures fail, they will be able to feed ensilage, and thus be comparatively independent. This probably will be the best thing a dairyman can do better than anything—Midland Farmer. Cows are uncertain—Midland Farmer.

SMITH NEVER DISSENTED.
Was Always Agreeable No Matter How Tough the Story Related to Him.

See Shaw and Smarter ("Tim") Carter, of Montana, were swapping stories, says the Brooklyn Eagle, when the latter, told a good one about a man out in an Iowa town, who was never known to dissent with a statement of another, no matter how improbable it might be.

"One day a group of fellows determined to see if they couldn't get Smith to call him Smith," said See Shaw, "to express a dissenting opinion. So when Smith came along one day he said:

"I had a most remarkable experience the other day, Smith. As I was coming over a hillside through a tree eating grapes, so to speak, I saw a fellow on a buffalo up a tree eating grapes."

"Well, I can't say that I have," returned Smith, "but the story tells, never saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes."

"Well, no, I never saw a buffalo up a tree eating grapes, but I know they are very fond of grapes."

Could Get No Rest.

Freeborn, Minn., Sept 18th (Special)—Mr. H. E. Goward, a well-known man here, is rejoicing in the relief from suffering he has obtained through using Doan's Kidney Pills. His experience is well worth repeating, as it should point the road to health to many another in a similar condition.

"I had aggravating case of Kidney Trouble," says Mr. Goward, "that gave me no rest day or night, but after a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills put new life in me, and I feel like a new man."

"I am happy to state I have received great and wonderful benefit from Doan's Kidney Pills. I would heartily recommend all sufferers from Kidney Trouble to give Doan's Kidney Pills a fair trial, as I have every reason to believe they never be repeated."

Doan's Kidney Pills make you feel like a new man or woman, because they cure the kidneys. Cured kidneys mean pure blood, and pure blood means bounding health and energy in every part of the body.

There would be little trouble and few problems in the world if every man were as healthy as the average man, and personal relations, in public and private affairs.

Suffered 23 Years from Constipation and Stomach Trouble

Wilbert Thompson never knew a well day—he had been constipated all his life—many doctors treated him, but all failed to even help him—and recommended that a specialist be consulted—but he also failed to help the patient—NOW HE IS WELL.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cured Him

Mr. Thompson first wrote us as follows: "My husband, aged 22, suffers from sharp pains in his stomach and sometimes thinks it is his heart. Let me know by return mail what causes the pain, if you can. The pain has been treated by several doctors, but they have given him up."

"I promptly advised that a first-class specialist be consulted. We quote: 'We want to sell Mull's Grape Tonic, because we know it will cure constipation, but we do not wish to be subject to us when a human life is at stake, and if your husband's case is as serious as you state, we suggest you consult a reliable specialist. The best medicine we know of for constipation is Mull's Grape Tonic. We would like to see a bottle of it, we advised it to me until a physician could be consulted. January 25th, Mrs. Thompson wrote that a physician had been consulted. He diagnosed the case as being chronic constipation and liver trouble. We thought we had failed, but there was no perceptible improvement in M. Thompson's health. This he began taking Mull's Grape Tonic and on September 2, 1904, we received the following letter from Mrs. Thompson:

"You will remember that I wrote to you last January in regard to my husband's health. It is four months since he quit taking Mull's Grape Tonic for and is perfectly cured. He is much stronger and has gained considerably in flesh. I cannot thank you enough for Mull's Grape Tonic. It is worth its weight in gold. Just 212 cured him. I don't know if you did it all you claimed it would."

Very respectfully yours, MRS. W. H. THOMPSON, 301 Main St., Peoria, Ill.

HE NEVER "BOARDED."
Railway Term Carried with It a Suspension of Base Instincts.

"It was in the Boston subway that this occurred," said a Providence business man, according to the Journal, and frequently journeyed to the city and I was at the observatory. I don't know whether you call it an event or a tragedy. I suppose the woman in the case regarded her husband as a boarder.

"In alighting at that station near the Common, where I also happened to get off, a boardinger, a white-haired man of a passenger who was all feet stepped on her, and she made her skirt look as though it had been through a mangle."

"She was in a state of mind, of course, and no one could blame her; but the worst part of it was that she was not yet set to come. An alert official, one of the men in livery, hurried up to her, anticipating trouble for the road."

"What!" she exclaimed indignantly, with a rising inflection and speaking of her husband as though he were a boarder. "I never boarded in my life!"

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs. Chester Curry Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The pills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and all nervousness, are due to women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the sensations, and especially the most sensitive to light and sound; the shoulders bearing down upon the nervous system, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nervous system is shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

It is a monumental fact that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Suffered 23 Years from Constipation and Stomach Trouble

Wilbert Thompson never knew a well day—he had been constipated all his life—many doctors treated him, but all failed to even help him—and recommended that a specialist be consulted—but he also failed to help the patient—NOW HE IS WELL.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cured Him

Mr. Thompson first wrote us as follows: "My husband, aged 22, suffers from sharp pains in his stomach and sometimes thinks it is his heart. Let me know by return mail what causes the pain, if you can. The pain has been treated by several doctors, but they have given him up."

"I promptly advised that a first-class specialist be consulted. We quote: 'We want to sell Mull's Grape Tonic, because we know it will cure constipation, but we do not wish to be subject to us when a human life is at stake, and if your husband's case is as serious as you state, we suggest you consult a reliable specialist. The best medicine we know of for constipation is Mull's Grape Tonic. We would like to see a bottle of it, we advised it to me until a physician could be consulted. January 25th, Mrs. Thompson wrote that a physician had been consulted. He diagnosed the case as being chronic constipation and liver trouble. We thought we had failed, but there was no perceptible improvement in M. Thompson's health. This he began taking Mull's Grape Tonic and on September 2, 1904, we received the following letter from Mrs. Thompson:

"You will remember that I wrote to you last January in regard to my husband's health. It is four months since he quit taking Mull's Grape Tonic for and is perfectly cured. He is much stronger and has gained considerably in flesh. I cannot thank you enough for Mull's Grape Tonic. It is worth its weight in gold. Just 212 cured him. I don't know if you did it all you claimed it would."

Very respectfully yours, MRS. W. H. THOMPSON, 301 Main St., Peoria, Ill.

Mr. Thompson stopped taking Mull's Grape Tonic in June, 1904. He has not had a relapse and has had a permanent cure.

Rush City Fair.

An immense crowd attended the Oshingo County fair at Rush City yesterday afternoon, and was treated to a speech by Gov. J. A. Johnson. The fair, with our old friend Chas. Upright's of other similar grade, reminded us of other happy occasions spent at the pumpkin show, but we failed to see the pumpkin. The vegetables and horticultural and fancy work displays were very good. Among those who attended from here were: J. Y. Breckenridge, Jerry Connor, Ross Rath, Erick Colin and the writer. A host of traveling men were present to see and hear the Governor, and the more prominent Rush City republicans banqueted him at the Grant House at noon.

Fraak S. Webster, Mgr. Hotel Willard, St. Paul, accompanied by his charming wife are back at the Club for another week's outing. They are located in the north cottage and are enjoying every minute of the time. As indicating that he is not forgotten, the Secy. of the Club has received a card of full grown dimensions, presumably from Frank Fox, of St. Paul, adorned with eight fishes embroidered on black silk. Under each fish is his presumed weight marked in red ink. The fish are grouped about a neatly engraved card of explanations, as follows:

The yacht "Lois" had a close call on Tuesday, but being what the sailors call a "lucky boat," she escaped. It was a bad day on the water. One after another all the craft were put out of the running, except Mr. Hart's, who "took" up Mr. J. B. Jones, and started back with a party for the limited. At this juncture, word was received that there was a party coming on train 104, and Major Cooley started after them in the yacht. The "Lois" made the run in fifty minutes before a brisk west wind. Just as the boat was about to round up to the dock, something happened. Her progress was instantly checked, and she almost "turned turtle." It seemed as though a powerful "Genie" had reached out and grabbed her aloft. It appeared that some Corporation had placed a wire across the river, in disregard of the rights of water craft, and the towering peak of the Lois was caught about four feet down. Instant effort was made to "lower away," but the wire held tight—there was a moment of suspense, when the wire parted, and the sail came down. The boat drifted a few feet when the mast head caught the double wire of the Tri-State. There was a moment of uncertainty, but the wire and the mast held. A boat put out from the dock and carried the end of the 150 feet of "main sheet" ashore, and willing hands soon had the craft in safe position at the dock. A torn sail and a broken telephone wire are the only evidences of the incident—both can be "darned."
