KILLED AT SANDSTONE.

J. H. Hawley Meets Death in a Terrible Manner—Train Severed Limbs.

Last evening at 5:55 o'clock J. H. Hawley, father of Sheriff Hawley, died at Sandstone from the effects of an accident which occurred in the G. N. railroad yards at about 1:30 p.m.

From reports received at this office the wire the accident appears to have been accidental although there seems to have been no witness to the fatal occurrence.

A freight train was being made up in the yards at Sandstone. A brakeman was riding the steps of a car when he discovered the tragic form of a man lying alone in the sunlight about 20 feet north of the car. An investigation into his death was found to be Mr. J. H. Hawley, and that the train had run over him, completely severing the left arm and left leg, the former four inches below the shoulder, and the latter just below the knee. A cut was also discovered over the left eye.

The unconscious man was immediately taken to Dr. W. A. McEachern's office where everything possible was done to save his life, but he never recovered from the shock and died at the time aforesaid.

Mr. Hawley was a strolling, and it is surmised that while strolling along the track he was struck by a car and whirled about in such a manner as to cause the injuries sustained.

The accident was a most deplorable one, and is deeply regretted by many near and dear friends throughout the country. He was well known here, having visited his son, R. J., on various occasions. Three years ago he removed from Blackley to Sandstone to reside with his son John. Mr. Hawley was 50 years of age and the son of his wife and wife and two children were left to mourn his demise, these are Michael, Washington State, R. J., Pine City; Mrs. W. F. Walsh, Mrs. S. C. Scott, Mrs. Walter Scott, Nellie and John Sandstone; Mrs. Dennis Dunn and Esther Hinckley; James, St. Paul.

The bereft family have the sympathy of a host of friends.

Strike Delays Blanks.

The following communication was received by Capt. Blankenship, from State Capt. J. W. Olsen, yesterday:

"The Department desires to offer an explanation in regard to the delay in sending you blanks for the teachers term books and clerks report cards. Order for these items were given to the state printer the first week in October, and ordinarily they should have been ready to send out about October 20th. The job printer gives, as a reason for the long and unnecessary delay, the statement that he has been printing. We hope, however, to be able to send them to you not later than the first of January."

Hairy Flake Application.

B. G. Corry of Benson, this state, has been to the city of Pine City, and is now engaged in the interests of the A. O. U. W. Lodge.

He has succeeded in convincing about twenty-four of the young men in this town that the Order is an ideal one, which is evidently so, and therefore about twenty-four of the young men have also accepted in the course of the next six weeks. To be accurate the date will be the 27th inst. Grand Master W. B. Anderson of Winona, and Grand Trustee Alex Van Paasch of Duluth, have been invited to be present at the meeting, and there are more than thirty that he will come here to see the town and its surroundings.

Those who have registered their intentions of joining the Lodge are: Andrew Carlson, Chas. Almstrom, Elmer Brown, Fred Carlsson, Wm. Curtis, Andy Custer, Wibert Cummings, Edwin Gullekson, Bob Hamlin, M. H. Herter, Jim Karan, Fred Loring, Carl Larson, Fred Norton, John H. Nelson, John Olson, Fred Olson, George Olson, Jim F. SAW MILL SOLD.

Jerry Collins Disposes of Mill to James E. McGrath. Deal closed Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon a deal was closed whereby Jas. E. McGrath of Stillwater, became proprietor of the Collins saw mill which is located on the west bank of Cross lake. Negotiations had been pending for some time.

Mr. McGrath intends enlarging the mill to handle a larger quantity of timber as complete and convenient as possible. The mill is situated next to the log loading works and is in close proximity to the planing mill, so that Mr. McGrath's lumbering industries in Pine City will be all together and complete from the receipt of the logs at the mill to the finished boards ready for shipping.

Takes Own Life.

Erica Davis, 17, daughter of Capt. Davis, received word yesterday afternoon of the death of Wm. McLaughlin, which occurred in the Moon Hotel at Superior between ten and eleven o'clock yesterday (Thursday) morning.

No particulars could be received other than he had committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid and that he had been under the influence of alcohol.

Mr. McLaughlin was an old Pine City boy and lived here prior to nine years ago. He had resided at different places since and about two weeks ago left Superior for Superior.

He was about fifty years old at the time of his death.

His nephew, John McLaughlin, of Rusi City, went up on Thursday's limited and accompanied the remains to that place this morning, where they will be interred tomorrow.

The relatives have the sympathy of all at this time of affliction.

Brake Through Ice.

Last Saturday morning H. P. Davis, one of Houghton's hauling farmers met with an experience which he does not care to repeat.

He was engaged in hauling wood to town and was crossing Cross Lake when, about forty rods from Poole's Point, the ice gave way and the horses fell through.

He was left helpless for Superstition.

He was about fifty years old at the time of his death.

His nephew, John McLaughlin, of Rusi City, went up on Thursday's limited and accompanied the remains to that place this morning, where they will be interred tomorrow.

The relatives have the sympathy of all at this time of affliction.

A Fish Story.

Wednesday, from Faribault, came a stormer weighing 36 pounds.

He captured it near his home at the mouth of Pokegama, and pulled it out of the water with an ordinary fishing hook and line which the monster fish had sucked in while touring the bottom of the river.

Thursday morning he sold it to Newbauer for $2.00. Joe had it hanging out in front of his butcher shop, while at supper some one took the fish, which naturally made Joe a little warm under the collar. The fish has been returned, and Joe is enjoying the joke as well as the rest.

Rack Overbalanced by Sheep.

Pat Connor was in desperate straits Tuesday morning and was put to a great deal of inconvenience by a herd of sheep on his part.

He started out on the morning mentioned with an enclosed hay rack full of sheep, and was bound for Willow River. Just as he reached the railroad crossing near the McAleney lumber yard the sheep began to run and the ponderous stock car by shifting to one side, and down went the whole load, jarring a man's growth out of the bleater. Mr. Connor straightway made arrangements for the removal of the sheep and the removal of the load, and the same was soon done from the highway, and after securing another more convenient cage for his live stock, he departed for his northern destination Wednesday morning.

DIES AT ANOKA

Mrs. Ida M. Lawson, Formerly of Pine City, Passes Away—Society Leader.

Mrs. Ida Mira Lawson died at Anoka last Monday, and the sad intelligence was received with regret by her many friends in this place.

She was a prominent leader in women's societies and has done interesting work while serving in different organizations for her chosen work.

As an entertainer she had few equals, and was the author of many lines of helpful prose and poetry.

A couple of years ago she was in Indianapolis as a delegate to the National Convention of the R. N. A., and while there she sustained injuries in a street car accident from which she never fully recovered.

Mrs. Lawson was a resident of this place for a number of years before taking up the work which so deeply interested her. She taught school at Grassian and Mora for several years.

Her husband died some years ago, and four children are left orphaned by the sad demise of their mother.

Interesting Story.

"The Pogekama Trout Club" is the title of a sketch in an average of $40 per acre. At the time of the sale (May 1, 1902) there was standing upon the lands described in the answer, large quantities of growing timber; and the lands were at that time worth the full amount for which they were assessed. Between May 1, 1902, and May 1, 1903, the timber was cut down.

In 1902 the lands described in the answer were worth $40 per acre, and the lands were what are commonly called "cut-over pine lands," and were actually worth about $6.00 per acre.

The assessed value of those lands for 1902 was taken as the taxable value of the year.

No application was made to the county board of equalization in 1903 to have such valuation lowered, nor had any application for an abatement of the taxes on account of any overvaluation been made to the state auditor or to the tax assessor.

Much as has been said concerning the Club's many good features, nothing has struck home with such pleasing effect as the story at hand, and we will wait impatiently for the publication of the Pogekama.

The photographs were taken by L. H. McCullough and are greatly to the interest of every one.

Much as has been said concerning the Club's many good features, nothing has struck home with such pleasing effect as the story at hand, and we will wait impatiently for the publication of the Pogekama.

The story is as follows: The condition of the lands is such that everybody about here cannot read the story, which so excellently portrays Tuxedo, and Pine City's connection with it.

Forced to Slay.

At the instigation of one of the coming brilliants, now located as a high school student, a feature that was not in the program was inserted—the Little Gem Society at a regular meeting in the Pine City kiva edge tabernacle last week. The rendition of "Little Gypsy Girl" and "Teasing," by a number of the instructors, was the feature, and was the result of a motion put in the Russikin kiva, and the instructors did their best to make the audience forget the fear.

The songs were sung after a rousing demonstration that bordered on a Russian riot, and the instructors did themselves proud, even though they did not sing well enough to please the heart, which very easily affected their vocal grinding and made them sing a prime donna's high C effort.

It was really kind of the instructors to do so well, and the teachers should have a warm remembrance of the well-meaning "charges" who so kindly brought them forth to do the stellar stint of a conservatory chorus.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

The State Supreme Court Denies the Appeal Made by the Atwood Lumber Company.

Last Friday the supreme court filed a decision affirming the ruling of the district court in rejecting an appeal made by the Atwood Lumber Co., in regard to the taxation of cut-over pine lands.

The decision is very important and it especially appeals to those who own or lease timber lands, and, although it may not affect timber lands, it is important to affect this rapidly developing country, other counties with large quantities of standing timber should sit up and take notice. The validity of the law governing the taxation of cut-over pine lands has been tested, and those who want taxes equalized will have to wait until the seventh hour, but will avail themselves of the remedies provided by law in such cases.

The case in question was for the enforcement of taxes delinquent on the first Monday in January, 1903, for the county of Pine, in which the Atwood Lumber Co. had objections raised related to the taxes for 1902 upon certain lands in the town of Kerrick.

In 1902 the lands described in the answer of the Atwood Lumber Co. contained timber with an average of $40 per acre. At the time of the sale (May 1, 1902) there was standing upon the lands described in the answer, large quantities of growing timber; and the lands were at that time worth the full amount for which they were assessed. Between May 1, 1902, and May 1, 1903, the timber was cut down.

The assessed value of those lands for 1902 was $40 per acre, and the lands were what are commonly called "cut-over pine lands," and were actually worth about $6.00 per acre.

The assessed value of those lands for 1902 was taken as the taxable value of the year.

The State contended that insufficient evidence was offered to prove that the Atwood Lumber Co. could not be compelled to use the available remedies provided by law if it could not set up the question of unconstitutional law in making a defense.

Clapp & McCartney, of St. Paul, were the objectors' attorneys. The trial court held that the suit was brought by M. B. Hurley, county attorney, and that young man is to be congratulated for the able manner in which his side was presented. He took pains to see that the county received its just due in the trial, and the court for his pains rewarded by a victory of importance.

We are all the more pleased pleased with "our native son."

The syllabus as handed down by Judge Brown is as follows:

In proceedings to enforce payment on real estate in Pine County, Atwood Lumber Co., object.

Real property is required by the statutes of this state to be assessed annually, and for the year only, the assessment for the succeeding year given the property the way it was assessed the previous year.

The valuation given the property the year only, the assessment for the succeeding year given the property the way it was assessed the previous year.

The trial court held that the facts showing the reduction in the value were presented in evidence, but that the court did not accept the evidence adduced by the objectors.

The officers referred to could have the power if it was in their duty to do so.

Whether in a case where the original assessment of real property was erroneously made in excess of the true value of the property owner would be required, as a condition precedent to the right to interpose such a defense to an application for a reduction in the assessment, is a question which has not been decided.

The officers referred to could have the power if it was in their duty to do so.

The court held that the objectors' contention was well founded.

IN CONGRESS.

Brief Synopsis of the Proceedings in the Senate and House—Rate Measure Introduced.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The Esch-Townsend railroad rate bill, which was introduced in the Senate yesterday, has been withdrawn and was reintroduced in the house Wednesday by Mr. Townsend. The bill embraces all of the features of the former measure. In addition it has a publicity feature and gives the commission jurisdiction over refrigeration and terminal charges. It also directly prohibits the carrier from advertising a lower price than the village of collecting his bill and then getting a special rate under the short-term provision for changing rates. As explained by Mr. Townsend, the bill "expresses the ideas of the president in his message and will, if enacted into law, amend the interstate commerce law so as to make it more effective in the regulation of rates between the carriers, shippers, producers and consumers." The house spent the greater portion of the session in consideration of the bill to appropriate $16,500,000 for Panama canal work.

The session of the senate was of only little more than two hours' duration, but in that time several hundred bills were introduced, introduced and referred to committees. There were resolutions dealing with the question of the national regulation of insurance companies, the incorporation of interstate railroad companies, and the distribution of power to participate in national banks.

Washington, Dec. 8.—An appropriation of $16,000,000 was voted Thursday toward the construction of the Panama canal.

A resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to report whether the banks have been making loans to the banks having the effect of showing that the banks have made campaign contributions in recent years was adopted in the senate Thursday.

Washington, Dec. 12.—Speaker Cannon announced the committee of the Fifty-ninth congress Monday. The following are the names of the members:

Adjutant General Ward, of Indiana, Resigns—Shortage in His Accounts Charged.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 8.—John R. Ward, adjutant general of Indiana, resigned yesterday on the demand of Gov. Hanly, as the result of an investigation of his accounts.

The investigating committee claims there is a shortage of $76,750, which it is alleged was secured by padding the totals on the books of the pay of the 44 companies of the Indiana national guard and on warrants for supplies for the troops.

Adjt. Gen. Ward has turned over to the treasurer of state two checks, one for $10,000, a sum in excess of the amount of the shortage, the other for $66,750, which represents the amount of state funds paid to the adjutant general for 1904, total $164,982,267.15.

The aggregate strength of the organized militia of the states and territories, as shown by the annual returns for 1905, consisting of 9,154 officers and 117,754 noncommissioned officers, numbered 150,909 men.

DEFICIT SHOWN BY SECRETARY SHAW

EXTRACTS FROM ANNUAL REPORT ON OPERATIONS OF TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

During the Last Fiscal Year Government Expenditures Exceeded Receipts by Over $20,000,000.—Report of Postmaster General.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The revenues of the government for the fiscal year 1904 aggregated $907,151,200. The total was an income of $1,209,856 a day, or $1,326 a minute night and day throughout the year. The total expenditures, however, were $1,255,042,228 in excess of the receipts, the expenditures being $720,105,198.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Secretary Shaw gives the figures in his annual report for the treasury department, submitted to Congress. Compared with 1904 the revenue increased $12,555,856 and the expenditures decreased $55,757,445. In the two years expenses have been more than $4,000,000 in excess of receipts.

Increase in Circulation.

During 1905 $1,000,750 was added to the money in circulation. The per capita circulation advanced from $30.77 July 1, 1904, to $31.23 November 1, 1905, and at the close of the year, June 30, 1905, stood at $31.03. By October 1, 1905, the total money in circulation had advanced to $32,634,251, a per capita circulation of $31.39, 42¢ per cent of which was gold.

The Public Debt.

The interest-bearing debt of the United States outstanding November 1, 1905, was $395,158,940. Of this amount, bonds of the various classes of the national banks held in the treasuries of the United States in security for national banks as security for circulating notes and deposits, leaving $45,559,350 in the hands of other individuals.

Postmaster General's Report.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Postmaster General Corcoran. In his annual report for the past fiscal year, says that while a self-sustaining condition of the post office department would be gratifying, he is less concerned about the deficit than the efficiency of administration. For the fiscal year 1905, the total receipts from all sources were $162,236,587, and total expenditures $167,159,959, leaving a deficit of $4,923,344. In connection with these figures the postmaster general directs attention to the increased amount of free master handled, which he says averages 10 per cent of the entire weight carried or less in revenue of $12,522,000. "Manifestly," he says, "had the master now carried free been required to have been prepaid, notwithstanding the large expenditures for the rural free delivery service, the world would have been dead."

Answering some of the criticisms which he says have been directed against the postal service, he says that much of it overlooks the unusual conditions existing in this country, its great extent of territory and its widely scattered population. With the introduction of rural free delivery, the postmaster general says, the rural areas will be more completely supplied with the latest news and information.

The work of purifying the mails is not confined to the suppression of frauds and lotteries but includes as well the exclusion of obscene, indecent and profane matter from the mail.

At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, there were 1,000,000 in operation 8,121 post offices. The postmaster general employs 10,000 persons in the service and in balanced physical condition, rapidly succumbing to inevitable weakness following such violent hemorrhages and lapsed into a state of semi-consciousness early in the evening from which he never recovered.

THE RACE OF WESTERN RAILROADS IN DAKOTA

WHO WILL BE FIRST TO GET INTO A GREAT NEW FIELD.

PASSING OF THE UNFENCED RANGE

The Building of New Lines Lures the Pioneer, Revives the Scenes of Early Days and Warns the Cowboy That the Free Range Will Soon Be Ended.

THE BRIDGE TO THE RANGE.

For a score of years a pontoon bridge over the mud Missouri's tide had served as the tramping boats from the south. Then, lured by swelling waters, it has borne the herds to rail.

Now, however, the river is spanned.

But now the row of money boats has yielded to railway tracks.

For a score of years the range beyond was tamed by the tramping herd.

Now with rail men bridge the streams across Dakota's great divide, Twin realm of farms and sturdy towns, from the prairie to the mountains.

To westward grass by thousands, in great meadows, just heaven.

And where the prairie meets the towering wind-swept ridges, green-sprouting grasses grow.

"Thus the railway days go before us, and the plow and plow in the virgin soil, their happy home rulers rear!

For years beyond the meading bridge, blue roofs of St. Paul have built the line of line west of Chamberlain.

Its line has been located to White Clay Buttes. Its engineers are scouting for a permanent line, from White Clay Buttes to the hills. It will be close to the north wall of the Bad Lands, the region of wild country to scientist and cowboy and Indian.

In advance of the trains over the new line hundreds or perhaps thousands of new settlers poured toward Chamberlain during 1905. Some homesteaders sold their claims and they were sold and resold several times in many cases.

Men who had come west, some by land, some by water, some by air, some by land and claim shacks by hundreds rose like mushrooms. Those who got land plowed for crops, harvested enormous yields of corn, grain and vegetables from the new ground. Abundant rains aided the rush, for newcomers saw wheat stand as high as their shoulders.

Intense excitement prevails in the Black Hills and vicinity over the uncertainties as to the route which will be followed. Will it pass the hills at the north as the Ellsworth line of the Northern Pacific does, or at the south, in the valleys which the government engineer proposes to irrigate? That is a question.

The Northwestern extension came as an abrupt surprise. Throughout the summer the Milwaukee's agents, having run and performed the work of men and track-laying machine were busy. It was believed the Milwaukee would only push a spur line to secure cattle and sheep shipments beyond the zone of settlers' fences.

Suddenly Northwestern officials announced that 100,000 tons of steel for track and bridges had been purchased Homestead mine at Lead direct to the state capital, Pierre, and to the lusty towns and cities which have sprung up on the railroad line. What a scene of activity panned at the Missouri river!

Soon the line to Wyoming will be sent by the most direct route to the stores and bellers of the coalless regions east of the Missouri. Soon the long drives of sheep and cattle from the ranches will be of the past. The fenceless range is being fenced and the roundups soon will be within pasture posts and rails.

hundreds going to the claims or the ranch homes along the Bad river or on the rolling prairies of the "divide."

The covered wagons, like the prairie schooners which crossed the great American desert in caravans of sixty teams and sometimes the thousand South Dakotans in the eighties will lumber, creaking slowly on their way.

There is the herd of cattle from some farm house further east, driven by the father or a son of the rancher. The woman and child face scenes from the drama as cover, and the mother among the swathed furniture piled within. There is often a woman driving the laboring team. So, too, there is the second wagon loaded with farm machinery and tools, with an excited flock of chickens and turkeys following. Hopped on behind me in the baby cab. There are racks of seed and some pigs.

But always there is the determined, anxious face. The young man and his bride may be going to a home "ahead of the railroad," hopefully, bravely, but their faces tell the painful separations and self-denials and hardships. The man is leaving his wife and children to a "farm of his own," but his face is clouded with fears and anxieties that he cannot avoid when he plods through the grammar grass at the side of the trail in knowing the sacrifices and hard work it requires from 10 to 20 hours.

adventure, hardship and freedom which is quite apart from the commonplace existence of milking ten cows and plowing in the east 40. There is among them a high percentage of the stuff of which the world is made.

These new purchasers of the Dakota range and conditions changed, but they still "ride their line" Centaur-like by day with lariat at saddle horn, and stand night guard for two hours to hold the bunched cattle against stampedes or snakes. And the prairie dog's nests are full of his pony's blood. The "head in head" the stampeded herd may end in the dark with a broken neck in a "cut bank" over which he and his horse tumble headlong. His trap and a "wugin" or two may serve for a bed when the ground is cold and wet, or when the trail is so bad that he must travel a half day's ride. But he shows the stern if usually rough stuff of a hero when he crawls out of a steaming bed with the mercury at zero and a blizzard whipping the mess tent, that he may stand his ground twice as long as the rest of the party.

From the day in early spring when the roundup wagons start out, perhaps toward Twin Buttes in the cut bank country of Butte County, or down the White river to the Bad Lands, his life is a hard and busy one. The night is not gone when the roundup cook calls the men. It requires from 10 to 20 hours.

PINE COUNTY PIONEER.

ED. C GOTTRY, Editor and Prop.

Entered in the Post Office at Pine City as Second Class Matter.

PINE CITY, MINN., Dec. 15, 1905.

EXCHANGE NOTES.

The Pine County Pioneer, after a prosperous career completed, last week, its 20th year. In one more year it will have completed its infancy. May it live long and prosper.—Hinckley Enterprise.

o o o

The Pine County Pioneer has just entered upon its twenty-first year, stronger and better than ever. The Pioneer, like all other good papers, insists that it pays to advertise.—Stillwater Gazette.

o o o

The Pine County Pioneer has attained its majority, having closed its 20th year with the last issue. The Pioneer is one of the most welcome exchanges that comes to our table. It is strictly up-to-date and is a credit to the town and county whose interests it champions.—Kanabec County Times, Mora.

o o o

The Pine County Pioneer completed the 20th year of its existence last week, and took occasion to felicitate a little on the event. The Pioneer has always been earnest in its efforts to keep the wheels of progress moving in Pine county, and the Pioneer wishes that journal all the good luck that age brings, and hopes to see it with a century of birth-days.—Pine Pioneer.

With the next issue, the Pine County Pioneer reaches the age of maturity, as it will be starting on the twenty-first year of its existence. The Pioneer was one of the early papers in this part of the world, and has always maintained a high standard in newspaper work. Here's hoping that they may have many more prosperous birthdays.—Pine County Courier, Sandstone.

People who are inclined to patronize catalog houses when they have cash to spend should not forget the months and years they have been carried by the local merchants, when times were hard and crops poor. If the home dealer is deprived of business and loses money he will not be able to carry customers along through another series of bad years. Observe the difference in the price of land near a good town and ten miles away. A farmer is shortsighted who fails to build up a far-away city to the detriment of his home town. The better and larger his home town, the greater the value of his farm, the smaller and dearer his town, in proportion, the less his farm is worth.—Farmington Sentinel.

Complete news of the world, gathered by over one thousand special correspondents, given in the Daily St. Paul Dispatch at $3.00 per year. The St. Paul Dispatch has become the leading Northwestern daily by reliable news and market quotations. It maintains local correspondents at St. Paul, the recognized northwestern stock market, and at Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, Chicago, Kansas City and New York, the world's wheat markets. To Those Who Dare.

Here's to the man who says "I can," And holds his hand uplifted; And lets a smile to his face, For those who are higher rated; Who never regrets, and never forgets; The lessons he's learned thru his labor; And who are not afraid of consequences— To start the crest of his calling.

Here's to the woman who says "I will," Regarding what befalls her; And doesn't despair at her load of care; Or the road there which fate calls her; Nor lets a tear fall from her eye, As she faces whatever her station; That the sweet and pure are the things that make Her the nobler of God's creation.

Last Saturday, while playing in an upstairs room at the residence of John Johnson, three of his children were placed in a very dangerous position. One of the children opened the door, and the dog bolted out and almost immediately the child was enveloped in flames. The oldest one of the trio grabbed a blanket and succeeded in smothering the flames, but in so doing caught on fire and before help arrived, he was badly burned. The boy, later on, got out of the barn, and the mother was in the kitchen. Both heard the appeals for help, and but for their timely arrival the result would have been awful. The bed had caught fire and the floor was burning, making the aspect serious, but help arrived and the fire was quenched before much damage was done.

Grip Quickly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago, during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which rapidly developed into the worst case of grippe with all its terrible symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Eggers, of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose streaming, stiffened limbs, chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Remedy, aiding the same with a dose of Chamberlain's Salve, and soon completely knocked out the grippe." It is a good plan to take a dose of the Tablets when you have grippe. These prevent really any attack of the bowels, liver and kidneys which is always beneficial when the system is congested by a cold or attack of the grippe. For sale by L. E. Breckenridge's.
