AN ABLE AND USEFUL CONGRESSMAN

Pine County's Candidate for Congress, Hon. J. Adam Bede, Does Not Represent a Clique---He Believes in a "Square Deal" for Every Interest.

"FOR Duluth and the north country" is the slogan that is being used by a clique of Duluthians as a blind to make votes for Millar in St. Louis county of which Duluth is a part.

Sounds nice, doesn't it? Two years ago the total republican vote in this Congressional district was 22,095 out of which 9,817 represents the votes cast in St. Louis county. We must admit that Duluth has great interests that need much attention. We also admit that Duluth has every promise of coming greatness, but it is not the whole north---not by any means. Each of the other ten counties have interests at stake and it is largely conceded that Hon. J. Adam Bede is the best man to represent the district's interests at Washington.

Contrary to the New-Tribune's wool pulling tactics, Duluth has received all due consideration at the hands of Congressman Bede, and he is entitled to reappointment from the Zenith City. As it is, Mr. Bede has many staunch supporters at Duluth who are wide awake to the fact that should he be retired, the state would lose a member of the committee on rivers and harbors and on this account the opposition has lost some of its undue enthusiasm over Millar. Every straw that might savor of political capital is being used by Millar and his handful of lieutenant to force back the tide of popularity which Congressman Bede has earned since his election four years ago and since his amazing majority of two years ago. There is every reason why Bede should be returned to congress. Millar has done nothing that would indicate him to be of congressional caliber. Bede can speak certainly yet logically before any audiences. As yet Millar's repertoire has not reached beyond the imprudent stage.

Mr. Bede is very popular at Washington, and he is one of the most influential, able and useful men in Congress. He is popular and influential because of his ability and right doings. His ability is natural, and his conscientiousness to duty assists him to avoid error.

The support of the Millar interests by the New-Tribune is a mutual affair with the likelihood of a financial basis, and we place little stock in its candidness. A few country papers with sour breaths are also adding to the absurdity of Bede's opposition, and if his friends---the common people---will do their duty on the 18th of this month, he will succeed himself in Congress by an avalanche of votes.

Get out to the primaries.

Fair at Rush City.

The 35th annual fair of the Chicago County Agricultural Association will be held at Rush City, Sept. 19, 20 and 21st. There will be a strong display of farm products; the exhibits of horses and cattle will be a feature; prominent speakers will be in attendance, there will be aerobatic and startling vaudeville acts each day in front of the grand stand; races and ball game each afternoon; a number of side shows, a merry-go-round and other amusements will entertain. In the evening a play by home talent at the opera house, and music by first-class band, day and evening.

The N. P. railway Co. will sell tickets to Rush City for this fair on Sept. 19, 20 and 21st, at the special rate of fare and one-third for round trip from points between Hinckley and Wyoming, and from the Taylors Falls and Grantsburg branches.

For premium lists and programs address C. M. Johnson, secretary, Rush City, Minn.

Complete System of Routes.

The following bit of information is furnished through a special from Washington to the St. Paul Dispatch.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General P. V. De Graw has announced that a complete system of free rural delivery would be established in Chicago county, Minnesota, covering twenty-eight routes, on Sept. 15 next.

This, according to the statement at the department, gives the Fourth congressional district of Minnesota a complete rural route system with sixty-seven routes.

Washington county was the first in the state to receive a complete rural system. Congressman F. C. Stevens was officially notified of the Chicago county order.

The north bound 11:55 train was an hour late Monday owing to the congested conditions of the trains bearing state fair passengers.

WEDDINGS OF WEEK

Popular Young Couple Surprise Their Friends---Humt and Husted Nuptials---Dakota Couple Weds.

YOUNGBAVER---GLASGOW. Quite a surprise was handed the many friends of Frances Youngbaver and Arthur Glasgow when it was announced that they had "gone and done it." In other words, they tied themselves to St. Paul Monday and there were joined in the holy bonds of matrimonial bliss.

The young people are well known Pine City residents, the bride being the eldest daughter of Mrs. Joseph Youngbaver and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Glasgow.

They have practically been lifelong residents of this place and have a large circle of friends who wish them every joy. Mr. and Mrs. Glasgow will reside for the present at the home of the bride's mother, just north of the wagon bridge.

HUMT---HUSTED. Monday morning at 9:30 occurred the marriage of Miss Agnes Humt to David Husted. The wedding occurred at St. Mary's Catholic church, and the ceremony was performed by Fr. Koerner. Misses Annie Runa and Annie Humt attended the bride while Messrs. Frank Humt and Frank Runa did honors for the groom.

It was a pretty church affair after which the wedding party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, 1/2 mile south of Beroun where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

The young couple have many friends in Pine City. The bride had held the position of cook at the Hotel Agnes for several months prior to her marriage and the fortunate groom is a son of Mrs. Sarah Husted of this place. He is a steady, industrious gentleman and will "make good." They have the best wishes of their friends.

Monday evening at the Methodist parsonage in this place Rev. J. J. Parish united in marriage Miss Daisy Richardson and Arthur Russell, both of North Dakota.

Any who wish to hunt game outside of their home county must first procure a license from the county auditor. That, in effect, is the law. Don't take chances in being dealt with by its servants.

JOLLY PICNIC PARTY

Pine City Aerie of Eagles Soar to "Helen Blazes" and Take in the Sights at Pokegama Lake.

A merry party of men went to "Helen Blazes," Hurley's popular camp, last Sunday. Upon investigation we learned that the party was composed of Eagles of the variety that apprise one of the best lodges extant.

The Pine City Aerie consists of an aggregation of top notchers in the north provoking line and what they didn't do Sunday has been forgotten. The Pioneer's sporting editor went with the bunch and to say that he spent a "really" enjoyable time wouldn't be doing justice to his accustomed variety. Every two minutes brought forth a spontaneous combustion of happiness done up in good measure.

After reaching the haven of show-dam a few athletic stunts were indulged in while Herb Akin, the king B chief of Kanabec river, was plying his vocation in the wangan. As a result of Mr. Akin's efforts the hungry throng fed on fried chicken and other appetizing victuals which received a wholesome washing down with some of the best prepared coffee that ever man tasted.

The Eagles are bird-lovers and are also fond of the many art of self-defense and after dinner had settled a number of three-round boxing matches were witnessed. Light weights and heavy weights alike showed their skill, after which a few wrestling matches amused the on-lookers.

Whee! Old Sol was getting in his best likes on the island, where "Helen Blazes" is located, the crowd was enjoying an excursion on Pokegama Lake. The excursionists stopped at Willie's popular summer resort, and there indulged in a little game which we feel obliged to call mine, hit or sting. And then, tiring of waiting, the boat's lusty whistle set up a screech which brought the entire party aboard in eight jiffies.

On the return trip the party stopped off at the Pokegama sanatorium to view the beautiful grounds and to satisfy a little curiosity.

Supper was indulged in at the picnic grounds, and at about ten o'clock roll call showed that only those who had been excused were absent and the party returned to Pine City, much refreshed by their day's outing and voting it just a little better than the best picnic that they had ever attended.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
To the Voters of the 2nd Congressional District, Comprising Chicago, Kenabe and Pine Counties.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination at the coming republican primaries as one of the representatives from this legislative district.
I have nominated myself as a candidate for the nomination at the coming republican primaries as one of the representatives from this legislative district. I shall labor earnestly and faithfully for their interests and welfare. I am a true believer in state development and more just and equitable tax laws, which will place the responsibility of the state upon its citizens. I shall favor the extension of the primary election law so that I shall include state officers, and I will support ecological demerage legislation, laws for the reduction of freight and passenger rates, as well as for the abolishment of free passes to public officials.
Believing that the Hon. Knute Nelson has well and ably represented our state in the U. S. Senate, I shall vote for his reelection.

CLAS F. SERLINE.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
To the Voters of Kenabe, Chicago and Pine Counties.

At the nomination of many of the representative citizens of this legislative district, but more especially at the earnest request of many of the voters of Kenabe, my home county, I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination at the coming republican primaries, as one of the representatives from the 2nd district.
If nominated and elected I shall endeavor to merit the confidence placed in me by laboring for the best interests of the district. I am heartily in favor of and shall advocate and vote for the so-called "reciprocal" trade legislation, reduction of freight and passenger rates and revision of our present unjust tax systems, which makes the poorer classes bear more than their share of the burdens of taxation.
I believe that Knute Nelson has ably represented this state in the United States senate and is entitled to another term. If given the opportunity I will afford my clearest vote for his reelection.

HENRY HINKS.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.
To the Voters of the 2nd District.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the nomination by the republican party, as one of the representatives from this district, and respectfully solicit your support at the coming republican primaries to be held in September. Realizing the responsibilities of a representative of the people from this district, I have decided to take steps, long after giving the matter serious consideration, if nominated and elected, I shall endeavor to merit the confidence placed in me by the best of my ability, labor for the interests of the 2nd district, and the state at large. I believe that Knute Nelson has ably represented the state in the United States Senate, and that he should be re-elected.

HENRY P. WEBB.

FOR STATE SENATOR.
The undersigned, at the solicitation of friendly hereby announces himself as a republican candidate for Senator for the 2nd District. I believe my policy will be the best of my constituents and the unwavering support of Senator Knute Nelson for return to the United States Senate.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination at the coming republican primaries for the office of senator from the 2nd district, and respectfully solicit your support. I elected the interests of my home district, the 2nd, shall at all times be uppermost in my mind. I shall vote for the extension of the primary election law to include state officers, and to indicate a choice of the people for United States senator. I shall vote for a law to abolish free passes on the railroads for public officials, and above all, I shall earnestly work for a just tax law, which will be equitable to make, if the constitution is amended to be voted on this fall, is passed. As before announced, I shall vote for Knute Nelson for U. S. Senator.

VICTOR E. JOHNSON.

FOR STATE SENATE.
To the Voters of Chicago, Pine and Kenabe Counties.

I respectfully solicit your support at the primaries, Sept. 10th, 1906.

JOHN W. NELSON.

A WORD ABOUT MR. SERLINE.

At his request, we printed in our last issue an article of some length referring in a very flattering manner to Mr. Henry Rines, who is a candidate for Representative from this legislative district. This week we propose to say something of his opponent, Mr. C. F. Serline. Mora's population is 10,000. He, too, is a Swedish-American, but a Minnesota product, being born in Lahti county thirty-four years ago. His parents moved to Kanabe county shortly after his birth and were among the first settlers in Grass Lake township.

After receiving a common school education in that township we find Mr. Serline, at the age of 16, employed as clerk in one of Mora's leading business houses, where he was retained for several years until he entered the Canton Business College, of Minneapolis, where he took a general commercial course of study, including bookkeeping. On his return to Mora, he was re-employed as bookkeeper and general manager of N. H. Daurforth's general store until the year 1896, when his friends urged him to become a candidate for county treasurer, which he did. He was nominated and elected, and was three times thereafter re-elected, and as treasurer of this county for a period of eight years he filled the position with credit to himself and entire satisfaction to the citizens of Kanabe county. Two years ago Mr. Serline was unanimously chosen for mayor of Mora, and was re-elected again this year by a vote of two to one over one of Mora's most highly respected citizens. That he is a man of convictions, with the courage and backbone to carry out his ideas, is vouchsafed for by all of Mora's good citizens, who universally commended the action which he has taken as mayor on all matters of interest to the village of Mora as well as its citizens.

He has been a success in a business way, as well as politically. As a real estate dealer he has spent large sums of money in advertising the advantages and opportunities offered in this section of the state, all of which has resulted in the settlement and development of our country. The voters of Kanabe county know Mr. Serline and feel that their interests are safe in his hands, but to the voters of Pine and Chicago counties, where he is not so well known, we may say that he stands for a two-cent manager, for the enactment of "reciprocal demerage" legislation; he stands for measures that will reduce the exorbitant freight rates charged producers and consumers in this state; he stands for extending the primaries to state officers, so that the will of the people may govern in the selection of its highest officials as well as inferior officers; he favors legislation which will force the corporations and the monied interests to contribute their full share in taxes to the support of the government. In a few words, he stands on a platform, in which not a single rotten plank can be found, and being a man of push and energy and ability, as well as an unflinching worker, the people of this district may rest assured that, if elected, his earnest efforts in their behalf will bring results, and prove that he is worthy of their entire confidence and support.—The Ogilvie Sentinel.

How many who read this paragraph do proudly boast of royal blood ancestry? And still, the skid-doo every time an English earl or a Dutch count captures an American girl.

The state democratic convention at Minneapolis Tuesday was a ratification meeting pure and simple at which Gov. John A. Johnson of St. Paul was nominated by acclamation. Bryan was endorsed and a "team" of state candidates was put on the slate to work for the election of a democratic governor in a republican state.

It may be that persons who filed on the 29th did not do so within the time set by law. The law specifies that candidates must file twenty days before primary election day, which would make the last day of filing fall on the 29th of August. The question of the legality of filing on the 29th is being raised in Hennepin county, and, as there is no day of grace provided in this matter, it seems that the "foolish virgins" are up against it.

How noticeable it is that papers opposed to Bede are misrepresenting him by publishing some of Mr. Miller's strongest arguments alongside of Mr. Bede's most insignificant statements. That's what we call downright misrepresentation and something as virulent as the basest and slimmest. Be fair, and the citizens, who are entitled to a "square deal," will see the logic of Bede's candidacy against the emptiness of Miller's.

L. H. Claggett of Pine City has filed for the republican nomination for county auditor of Pine county. Mr. Claggett is well qualified for the office he seeks having served two years as deputy county auditor under A. E. Arness of Montevideo. * * * L. H. McFussick was a Finland visitor this week. He is a candidate for county attorney on the republican ticket and will receive a large republican vote at the primaries.—Finlayson News.

A railroad in Michigan has issued orders that no drunken man be permitted to enter its trains. The company deserves commendation for this act and other roads would do well to follow its example. A drunk man is disgusting even when one is not compelled to come into contact with him, but when he is permitted to board a passenger train and sit among self-respecting people he then becomes an abominable nuisance.—Princeton Union.

Just what license the republican managers have to mix up in the primary campaign will not appear clear to any republican who is interested in the state ticket. It is announced that some of the dissatisfied ones over in Atkin county, and in Duluth are organizing "Coke and Miller" clubs to bend the latter's congressional aspirations in the primaries. It is a rank injustice to Mr. Cole, and to the republicans of the state, to use the combination party candidate for governor to pull obstinate out of the fire for Mr. Miller.—Mesita Ore.

EVER since the opening speech of Hon. A. L. Cole at Kenyon last week, he has been giving a stronger hold on the people of this state, and rang out free in every particle, showing the sincerity of the man. He is to be commended for his stands on the questions of such vital importance to the people of this state as the drainage of swamp lands, railroad rates, insurance and timber and mineral land protection. He is a gentleman of action and the republican party of Minnesota will elect him to the executive chair at the November election.

Those Footprints.

Foot prints leading down Pine City's main pedestrian thoroughfare last Saturday put many to thinking that Jack's giant had been resurrected, but upon second thought we were led to believe that A. W. Piper, the chalk artist, had been doing a little advertising for the Ladies Exchange dinner which was given in the Burtick building. Those who followed the foot marks were amply rewarded with the best 50 cent dinner that was ever served for 25 cents. The menu was elaborate for its substantial oddities. Everything was cooked just right and the service could not have been better, even though mother wasn't there. Tomorrow (Saturday) another one of these dinners will be served and it is to be hoped that a goodly crowd will take advantage of the opportunity to diva into the goodies that are going to be served. Try a change of diet for one meal. The price, 25 cents, is not a pocket book breaker and the victuals will be served hot and strictly on time. Citizens, don't forget, the M. E. church property needs some improvements. Help improve the property while at the same time improve your bread baskets by giving them a treat.

Quite a number were present from Pine City to attend the memorial services at Hinckley last Saturday, it being the 12th anniversary of the frightful fire which visited this county. A large crowd assembled about the monument, which was erected by the state in memory of the stricken ones, and there listened to the exercises. Hon. J. John W. Nelson was up from Chicago county last Saturday renewing old acquaintances. He is commended by many to be the leading senatorial aspirant from this district, and if past campaigns are any criterion, he should have little trouble in gaining the nomination. While in town Mr. Nelson paid the PIONEER a pleasant call.

Word coming from J. J. Folsom in far away Spokane, Wash., says that "this is a great country but Minnesota is also great." He says he is feeling well and working hard. Mr. Folsom is on the editorial staff of the "Farmer and Homeseeker," a semi-monthly farm journal, and is doing very well. He is bound to succeed in his chosen work.

J. Y. Breckenridge and sons, John and Clint, went to Minneapolis Sunday for a few days stay. John will not return here for some time as he has gone to Des Moines, Iowa, to study the important profession of pharmacy at Highland Park College. He has had considerable practical experience in his father's drug store and should not find the study very difficult.

H. P. Webb, the Pine county candidate for the legislature from this district, was here from Sandstone Wednesday. His strength as a candidate for the republican nomination, which he seeks, is unquestioned. Pine county is entitled to one member in the lower house and as he is the only candidate for that position from this county he should gain the coveted goal. His supporters, however, are a little uneasy regarding the two candidates from Kanabec county. They are uneasy for fear that voters while in the booth will cast both their legislative votes for Kanabec county candidates. In order to prevent this bear in mind the name, H. P. Webb, and place the necessary X after the same.

Wednesday evening a party of young folk, charpered by a few old friends, were entertained at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Taylor, two miles south of town. A supper of expert preparation was served, and none were present but can testify to Mrs. Taylor's ability to dish up a wholesome variety of delicious victuals. The beans, meat, salads, buns, pickles, homemade bread, cake and coffee, all were just right, with more could man wish for. We have a standing invitation to call again and we're not apt to allow the invitation to tire but will take another run out there at the first opportunity. After thoroughly enjoying a social session the party were afforded a merry moonlight excursion home thanks to the efforts of Bert Taylor whom the party was given.

A CONFIRMED OLD MAID.

By M. M. COUPER.

Miss Margaret Brentwood and Montgomery had lived together near Union square.

Montgomery was over four years old, and was striped all over like a tiger, with the exception of an immaculate white shirt-front. Montgomery had his own particular chair and cushion in the drawing room and boudoir; this was Miss Brentwood's fancy, and Montgomery good-naturedly humored her.

When a man and woman set up house together a certain amount of give-and-take is necessary, and this particular instance resembled many others in that the giving was monopolized by one side.

It seemed to afford Miss Brentwood satisfaction to give Montgomery thick cream in dainty china saucers, and soft velvet cushions to lie upon, and consequently what could he do but gratefully accept the attentions? Montgomery was very fond of his mistress, he had grown accustomed to her, as he had to his respective chairs and cushions, and not being without experience of women in general, he placed her emphatically before any others of his acquaintance. He liked to see her graceful figure bending over her work, or the writing table, and to watch the cool white hands which were always busy over something.

Miss Margaret Brentwood was 40, and a confirmed old maid, so her friends and acquaintances declared, but the fact did not appear to trouble her in the least. There was nothing odd-mild in her appearance, and to the sprinkling of gray in her dark hair only lent an additional dignity to her face. Montgomery had never seriously considered whether his mistress might truthfully be described as handsome or fascinating, but he knew that every detail of her presence, from the soft tones with which she addressed him, to the delicate perfume she always affected, all went to make up an exceedingly pleasant personality.

Now, it so happened that one fine afternoon two friends of Miss Brentwood's met on her door-step, both purporting to honor that lady with a visit. They were ushered into the drawing room, where Montgomery was in sole possession, Miss Brentwood having only just returned home, being still engaged in removing her wraps.

"She Has Very Good Taste, Hasn't She?"

Montgomery's first idea on recognizing the visitors was to rise and leave the room; his second, that he might derive some amusement if he remained, for he had long ago made the discovery that the conversation of certain women was apt to become extremely pleasant.

"She has very good taste, hasn't she?" said Mrs. Otway Lashington, sending her glance comprehensively round the room through her gold pince-nez.

"Or the reputation for it, which amounts to the same thing," responded the other lady.

"Thought that was smart, didn't you?" murmured Montgomery, watching the speaker through his half-closed lids.

"Odd she has never married—so well off as she is, too!" pursued Mrs. Otway Lashington.

"Well, I don't know about it being odd," said Mrs. Brasher, pursing up her lips with much significance.

"Why, was there anyone?" she'd do tell me, dear Mrs. Brasher, she'd be down in a moment."

"Of course you understand it must go so further!"

"Of course, of course."

"Looks for all the world as if she saw a jug of cream," interrupted Montgomery with disgust.

Well, when she was quite a girl, one of old John Dorrington's sons fell madly in love with her, and she with him, but the old man, who was as mad as a hatter even then, vowed that his son should marry rich, and wouldn't hear of an engagement between them. Margaret Brentwood has always had plenty of pride, and she absolutely refused to marry young Dorrington against his father's wishes, and consequently they parted with the usual protestations of angry constancy, and I believe they have held no communication with each other since. She has long heard of, as you see."

"And he?"

"Unmarried, too! Refreshingly romantic, isn't it?"

"Surprisingly so. And where is Mr. Dorrington now?"

"Oh! I have no idea of his present whereabouts. I haven't set eyes on him for years. He was a very handsome boy, but I expect he is a gray-haired old bore by this time. I know she keeps his photograph, and looks at it every night. Oh! my dear! Wasn't she just admiring your beautiful cat. Quite unique specimen, I am sure!"

"It's you who are the unique specimen," said Montgomery. "Don't touch me, you make me sick!" he added sharply, every hair bristling with antagonism as a delicately gloved hand attempted to stroke his ear.

"The darling doesn't like strangers, does he?" cooed Mrs. Otway Lashington.

"No, he doesn't—when they are anything like you," said Montgomery, and stalked majestically to the door, file had not acquired the ethics of society, and considered his conduct worthy of commendation. He was also much excited by the news that he had just heard, and decided that the air on the roof would be soothing and conducive to thought. Mrs. Brasher's story was as new to him as to Mrs. Otway Lashington, and threw light on many circumstances which had hitherto puzzled him.

He had noticed that every night Miss Brentwood looked one of the drawers of a small iron cabinet in her boudoir, and took out a photograph. He had watched the performance with unalloyed interest, for he had no definite rule like the turning out of a lamp or the ringing of a bell, and he had come to look upon it as a mere idle habit on the part of his mistress. Some days he had seen her take from the same drawer a packet of old, faded letters and hold them tight in her white hands. He had thought the twilight she had never untied the ribbon which bound them, the simple reason that she knew the contents by heart not occurring to him.

That night, when Miss Brentwood took out the photograph as usual, Montgomery sprang on the back of the sofa where she was sitting, and looked at the picture over her shoulder. It was the portrait of a young man, whose form was only partially concealed by an incipient moustache. Montgomery studied the face carefully, but could not detect the good looks to which Mrs. Brasher had referred. When Miss Brentwood rose to replace the photograph Montgomery was industriously washing his already spotless waistcoat. It was his first step along the tortuous path of deception.

But if he had so far forgotten himself as to yield to the temptation of the moment to a vulgar curiosity, it was not likely that he was going to publicly acknowledge the fact.

One afternoon Miss Brentwood and Montgomery sat together in the boudoir. It was early spring, and outside in the square the trees were beginning to bud. The New York sparrows were discussing important domestic matters loudly among themselves, their noisy little forms contrasting oddly with the ethereal background. Montgomery watched them from the window-seat with the air of a policeman bent on to keep an eye on suspicious characters. It was evident that he considered them a blot on the landscape.

Miss Brentwood presently came to the window, and followed the direction of Montgomery's green eyes.

"One sparrow is a sparrow, Monty," she said, stroking his soft head. "Look at that tree— isn't it lovely? Much too pretty for New York. I wonder if the trees are the same in the old country."

Miss Brentwood seemed to be gazing through the trees at something which Montgomery could not see; her head was turned away from him, and they both gave a start at the pleasant sound of the front door bell.

"Visitors, Monty," said Miss Brentwood, a trifle wearily, "and I am not in the mood for them. You lucky little cat you can fly if you want to, and I can't."

"Why on earth do you let them in if you don't want to see them?" asked Montgomery's eyes.

"Duty, Montgomery," said Miss Brentwood. "To think you don't even know what that means. And then the door opened and the servant announced."

Montgomery turned sharply and saw a tall man with a bronzed, deeply lined face and iron-gray hair and mustache. He advanced quickly towards Miss Brentwood.

"Margaret," he said simply, "my father is dead!"

It was the strangest greeting Montgomery had ever heard. He looked quickly from the visitor to Miss Brentwood, who had turned very white and swayed a little where she stood, and her answer was only one word—

"Frank!"

"I have come to claim your promise," Margaret, said he haughtily. "Have you married, or are you mine still, after all these long years?"

There was a pause. Montgomery could hear the clock ticking, and a single fall from the fire, also the quickening of the two birds being taken. Then Miss Brentwood broke the silence—

"After all these long years," she repeated dreamily, and stretched out her hands to her old lover. He took them in his own and drew her towards him, turned his back and resumed his occupation with the sparrows.

Charming Adjuncts to Toilet.

Useful at All Times, and Can Be Easily Made by the Home Worker.—Simple Materials Alone Called For.

Each of these dainty little articles will be found most useful to every lady; they are pretty, simple, and, above all, can be easily made by the home worker.

The first shows in the group is a simple little sash for wearing over the

A Group of Dainty Adjuncts to the Toilet.

Next to the sash we have a "white canvas" collar, embroidered with white thread.

The bolero in the left-hand corner is in piece lace, and is edged with narrow some truly wonderful bathing costumes which have been prepared for Trouville and for Ostend. They were so wonderful that I imagine they will be seen more at Ostend than at Trouville, for the gay Belgian watering places is a meeting point for women who delight in things eccentric! At Trouville also one sees eccentric toilet-ets, but not of exactly the same order.

For example, I saw, last week, a tight-fitting costume, in black silk stockings, which was very amusing, embroidered down either side of the legs and with the bodice cut low as for a ball! With these "lights"—for they were really the lights of the straw was to be worn, with a bunch of red poppies under the brim and artificial seaweed round the flat crown.

Another bathing costume was made of white silk-alpaca—an excellent material for this purpose, as it does not cling to the figure unduly—with embroideries in silver washing thread and in brilliant red laces. There were full hankersbookers, like those of Turkish soldiers, and a short tunic; in this case also the bodice portion was cut quite low, and there were absolutely no sleeves.

I find it very hard to understand how women of good position can bring themselves to bathe in public in such extraordinary costumes as these; certainly the first one described was "created" for a popular actress, but it also has the property of a well-known leader of society.

Laughter and good will, on the other hand, are vigorous promoters of the digestive functions. The court jester, we may well imagine, was a piece of the king's dining table furniture, and the most valuable piece of all.

INKSTAND FROM CREAM JUG. Makes Pretty Ornament for Desk or Library Table.

In our sketch we illustrate a second use for one of those pretty little cream jugs which are sold. It is mounted with secotine on a small square of wood, the edges of which have been beveled all round, and two spaces hollowed out on each side to form pen-racks. If the wood is stained a nice dark green it will form a pleasant contrast to the brown paper portfolio on the jug. A small piece of wood is cut to fit the mouth of the jug and a head of fancifully called "falcon" on top, a little band of wood and iron may be fitted on. Narrow ribbon with little bows ornaments the neck, and the edges of the wood can be painted with small brass-headed nails, if desired.

HORTICULTURE

THE SURPLUS FRUIT.

Good Way to Utilize it is to Evaporate it.

An easy method within the reach of all fruit growers is to evaporate or dry the No. 2 fruit as well as the culls. There are various styles and sizes of evaporator racks from those which will handle a bushel a day and set on top of the kitchen range, to the commercial plants which will handle 100 bushels or more a 24 hours. Practically all fruits can be evaporated to advantage and with profit, but the greatest demand is for apples.

Advantage and profit can be used to evaporate fruit on every farm, even if it is only to dry the surplus of fruits and vegetables for family use.

Evaporators with a capacity of six to ten bushels per day will take care of the No. 2 surplus fruit on most farms. The expense of operating is not large and there is usually a good return. Apples will usually dry out from six to eight pounds to the bushel, depending on the variety, state of maturity, quality of the fruit and the care used in packing.

The evaporator shown in the cut is owned by George T. Powell, a well-known New York fruit grower, says the Farm and Home. It has a capacity of 100 bushels per day and cost complete somewhat less than $1,000. He averages 650 pounds of evaporated apples from 100 bushels of green stock, and 200 pounds of skins and cores. There are two kilns, the apples being spread out upon the floor and occasionally turned. It requires two boys to run the piling machines, six women to trip, one man who looks after the fires, the salpurgator and slicer, and another man works from noon to midnight tending the fires. It takes three tons of coal per week to run the evaporator.

HARVESTING ONIONS.

Care Must be Taken to Do it Just at the Right Time.

As onions approach maturity, the time of harvesting them should be carefully watched. When they are mature the stems will show if drying up and lodging over, and the onions should be harvested at this time to avoid a second growth starting in. It has been found by those who grow them under irrigation that the crop could be very easily spoiled. This was done by the heavy check in the growth of the onions just before maturity, and the irrigator thinking he would condense the development by an extra watering. The extra watering resulted in starting what is known as a second growth, a new shoot being set up from the onions and many of the onions dividing into two parts. This injures them for selling in the markets, and also injures their keeping qualities, says the Farmers' Review. If the onions stop growing for any cause, either because they have not been supplied with adequate water or because the natural rain fall is not abundant, it is better to harvest them at once, even though they are somewhat immature. The best keeping varieties are frequently the small ones, and among the varieties the small onions keep better than the large ones. This is due to the fact that the loss in weight causes free evaporation and sprouting. Therefore they should be harvested as soon as possible after they have obtained their first growth and put in a cool place, that is, a place not dry enough and warm enough to cause evaporation of moisture to start growth.

SHADING SUMMER HEAD LETTUCE.

When the plants begin to make good growth, mulch the ground among them with straw or manure. Then place a frame over the bed to protect the plants from the hot sun. Make the frame of lath nailed to solid strips at each end, leaving an inch space between laths. Drive stakes at the corners of the bed and rest the frame on them, leaving it 18 inches above ground. This shades them considerably and with the help of the much a good crop of crisp solid heads can be produced.

RIPENING PEACH WOOD.

Much can be done to make trees endure more cold and to ripen wood. Cultivate early in the season to make best growth possible. Last of August cut about one-third of this year's growth off to cause the ripening of wood and to make the fall rains help to cut off, leaving trees six to eight feet high. I use long handled fruit shears and cut trim from 60 to 100 trees.

Atmospheric Poisoning.

The protests against the automobile omnibuses of London have received a powerful reinforcement by a declaration of Sir James Dewar on the chemical basis. He is endorsed by among the high chemical authorities of the world, and his condemnation of the motor buses and freight vans seems conclusive unless investigation provides unforeseen motive power. Sir James Dewar states that the combustion of petrol or gasoline in these motors throws off vast quantities of carbonic gas. Some of these are absolutely poisonous and all injurious. He holds that the air of London is bad enough already without the addition of carbonic acid gas, the sulphuric gases, and, worst of all, the naphthalenic carbonic oxide. Moreover, while he admits that reduction can improve matters, he declares that it is impossible for it to burn petrol and render the resulting gases innocuous.
