Getting Down Behind a $

There are a lot of men in the world (of course they don't live around here) who get down behind a dollar very much as an ostrich sticks his head in the sand and imagines he's completely hid.

When it comes to making improvements on the farm they're the same way; get down behind their dollars and let things "go to pot" for lack of a few boards to fix 'em with.

Wise men—NIT!

Guess we could show 'em some lumber that'd make their eyes water, if they'd come over here and prices to tickle 'em, too.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE

The Bootlegger House Burns to the Ground Early Tuesday Morning—Alec Wyman Loses Everything.

The alarm of fire started our citizens at about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning and although the thermometer was away below zero the fire ladies promptly responded.

Upon investigation it was found to be the Bootlegger property back of the court house, occupied by Alex Wyman, being in the woods for Capt. Seavey, the loss was quickly laid but all hope of saving the building was given up and the firemen worked hard to save the adjoining property.

The work done by the firemen was of a miraculous order, saving a shed that was less than 15 feet from the burning building. The house was burned to the ground, and all that Mrs. Wyman saved of their household goods was a trunk and one or two articles of furniture, as they were lucky in getting out alive. Mr. Wyman's father, Homer, who is millwright for the Pine City Lumber Co., and who boarded with his daughter-in-law, lost all his belongings. Mr. Wyman carried an insurance on his household goods but even at that, fire burns things that money can not replace, so Mr. Wyman's loss is a severe one and coming in the dead of winter makes it doubly so.

The firemen had gotten the hose and engine taken care of and had gone to their homes when another alarm was turned in, and they were called to the same place to put out the fire which had again started up.

The second alarm was turned in about six o'clock.

POKEGAMA.

Mrs. Jos. Wilke spent the latter part of last week with friends in Pine City.

Geo. Dahl left for Scanlon the first of the week, where he will work in the woods.

Joe. Dahl jr. had the misfortune to cut his hand quite badly with an ax while splitting wood.

The sad news of the death of Dr. Barnum came as a great shock to the people of our town, to whom he was ever ready to respond in time of need.

Mrs. John Anderson returned home Wednesday after a weeks visit in Minneapolis. Miss Edna, who accompanied her, will remain in the city the balance of the winter.

The funeral of Mr. Seymour, who died on Friday last, was held from his late home, on the Jarvis Bay road Tuesday. Rev. Matthews, of the Pine City Presbyterian church, officiated.

We congratulate our young friend, Eddie Peters, on winning the first state prize on oats, at the state contest at St. Paul the first of the month. The prize was $200 in cash. Pretty good for a Pokegama boy.

R. H. Blankenship made a few fitting remarks, thanking the brothers for the honor bestowed upon him, and asking their hearty co-operation in making this the banner year for Pythianism in Pine City.

Mrs. Kavanaugh was called on and after thanking the Sisters for their fond remembrance spoke for about ten minutes on the two orders, and commended the manner in which the Sisters performed this installation ceremonies.

Mrs. Saunders thanked the Sisters for their gift, and said it would bring back many happy memories when they reached their western home.

Pine City Co-operative Creamery Holds Annual Meeting—Elected Officers for Year, and Hear Report.

On Tuesday the 15th inst. the stockholders of the Pine City Co-operative Creamery held their annual meeting, elected officers, heard the report for the year and transacted other business.

A. C. Elliott a representative of the firm of Bridgeman & Russell, the cream buyers, of Duluth, was present and made a proposition to vote the creamery, which, after a rest was taken, was promptly rejected.

All of the old officers with the exception of the trustees were re-elected, and are as follows: Herman Johnson, president; Irgus Cimchik, vice president; Anton Wanous, secretary; George Kiek, treasurer; Max Hoffman, John Nordstrom and H. W. Daley, trustees.

The following is the report of the secretary as read before the meeting, and although not as good a report as some of the other creameries, it shows a marked improvement over the report a year ago, and shows conclusively that it is growing and doing well under the present management, hence their re-election.

BIG FOUR TRAIN BLOWN TO PIECES

CAR OF POWDER EXPLODES AND TWENTY-EIGHT PERSONS ARE KILLED.

Horrible Accident at Sandford, Ind.—Victims Torn to Bits or Cremated in the Wreckage—Thirteen Perish in Collision at Fowler.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 21.—Twenty-eight charred, broken and mutilated bodies have been taken from the wreckage of the passenger train No. 3 on the Big Four railroad which was destroyed by the explosion of a car-load of powder at Sandford, Ind., nine miles west of here, Saturday night. The number of injured will total at least 25.

The cause of the disaster has not been fully explained. The result was terrible. The shock was felt for 30 miles, many believing it an earthquake.

Entire Train Destroyed.—The three coaches of the passenger train were blown to pieces, including the engine, was demolished on the track, the coaches derailed, the engine hurled 50 feet and the passengers either blown to pieces, consumed by fire or crushed in a more or less injured condition.

At least 30 injured, some fatally, are at the hospitals in Terre Haute and Paris, Ill. Several are also being cared for at Sandford.

The full extent of the disaster was revealed at daylight Sunday morning, but the debris will not be completely until the workmen now clearing the debris, have finished their task.

The dead, so far as known, are: William Thompson, Sandford, Ind.; J. W. Sutherland, Paris, Ill.; John Franklin, Mattoon, Ill. (brakeman on No. 3); A. D. Hector, farmer, address unknown; Charles Clark, Paris, Ill.; Noah Wolfe, Sandford, Ind.; A. A. Plicks, Sandford, Ind.; Frank Fielder, Bellefontaine, O.; John A. Rowan, Ashmole, Ill.; George F. Wolfe, Sandford, Ind.; and her two children, J. W. Southcott, express clerk; A. Kykendall, fireman, Peoria division, Vandellia, Ind.; Clark Bloch, Sandford, Ind.; Paul Kiever, Indianapolis, Ind.; James Fenton, Sandford, Ind.; J. W. S. Miller, Sandford, Ind.; ten unidentified bodies.

Misling and believed to have been burned to death: Mrs. Bud Wolfe, Sandford, Ind., two daughters of Mrs. Wolfe, aged eight and six years, respectively.

Theories of the Cause.—According to trainmen of the freight, the explosion of the powder was caused by a fire in the engine, passing passenger train, which was slowing down for the station at Sandford. Another theory is that gas escaped from an engine near Sandford, entered the car containing the powder and a spark from the passing engine ignited the gas.

The disaster was expressed by one or two persons that the disaster was due to the act of a tramp or an intoxicated man who may have fired a shot into the train.

Not a home in Sandford escaped. Windows were shattered, dishes and furniture broken, and in some instances doors were torn from their hinges.

The train was an accommodation passenger, running from Indianapolis to Mattoon, Ill., and was destroyed at 5:50 p. m. It was a dark night and heavy rains had converted the streets and tracks at Sandford into a sea of mud and water. As the passenger engine went by, a powder car of the freight train standing on an adjoining track the explosion came.

Noble Work of Citizens.—By the light of the burning coaches the people of Sandford did their best for the injured. The residents of the village threw open their homes to the injured and worked heroically all night.

Under the wreckage of the baggage car was found the trunk of a man which had lost all human form. The only means of identification were a linenman's belt and tools about the waist. Four frightfully mutilated bodies were found in the woods several hundred feet from the tracks.

Engineer Welch and Fireman Jarred of Mattoon, Ill., who were in charge of the engine on the passenger train, were at the scene and hurried a distance of nearly 100 feet and fell in a muddy field.

The wreckage was cleared up Sunday evening and traffic was resumed over the road.

Thirteen Killed at Fowler.—Fowler, Ind., Jan. 21.—A most horrible railroad wreck occurred on the Big Four railway a quarter of a mile east of this station at 2:15 Saturday morning. Chicago City special No. 78, which left Chicago at 11:30 Friday night, going at the speed of 50 miles an hour, crashed head-on into a west-bound freight and at least 13 lives were snuffed out. The tender of No. 78 in front of the day combination coach crashed into it and reduced it to splinters. The coach caught fire and a high wind from the southwest fanned the flames. Inside of half an hour many bodies were cremated.

Three Trainmen Killed.—Desoto, Kan., Jan. 21.—The locomotive drawing eastbound Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe train No. 36 exploded at a high speed on Saturday. The engineer, fireman and brakeman were killed.

OHIO RIVER IS FALLING

FLOOD IS SLOWLY SUBSIDING AT CINCINNATI.

Total Damage Will Be Enormous—Water at Shawneetown Continues to Rise Slightly.

Cincinnati, Jan. 22.—After being stationary at 65.2 for a time during Monday morning, the Ohio at this point began to recede slowly, and at dusk had gone down to 65 feet, with all indications for a continuance of the fall.

By the end of the week it is thought the danger line will be passed on this way down and some estimate of property losses will then be possible. At the present all that can be stated positively is that the aggregate damage will run far into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, this being distributed along several hundred miles of the river and its tributaries.

The cold weather, which largely assisted in the ending of the high water, was the cause of much suffering among thousands of homeless people whose homes were under water or had been isolated by the rising waters. The work of rescue and relief went on steadily and for some time to suffer, the work being so organized that speedy help was given to all sufferers who could be found. The greatest damage from this point will come from possible wrecking of buildings as the falling water pours through them.

Shawneetown, Ill., Jan. 22.—The Ohio river continues to rise slowly the rapidity of the rise the past few days having been somewhat checked by the cold, clear weather. The levee was still intact Monday night, but people continue to move to the hills. Owing to the prompt supply of necessities there is very little suffering among the refugees. Business is at a standstill.

St. Louis, Jan. 22.—The Mississippi river is rising steadily and Monday night the gauge registered 25 feet, which is within four feet of danger line. The lowlands above and below East St. Louis, Ill., are flooded.

MERGER OF FREIGHT LINES.

Many Concerns Soon to Be Operated Under One Head.

Milwaukee, Jan. 19.—The most important and by far the most sweeping consolidation of freight lines in the great railway systems and combinations of the country that has been brought about in years is booked to be made within a short time by the Vanderbilt system. The plan, it is learned, are now practically matured.

The plan is the absolute consolidation of the Great West, the Erie and "dispatch" lines which have for years been operated under the general Vanderbilt system, and will place all the lines under one corporation—the Merchants' Dispatch company.

HALDANE REBUKES GOV. SWETTENHAM

WAR SECRETARY CABLES TO ROOT THE THANKS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Mayor of Kingston Asks New York for Money, Lumber and Building Material to Help Reconstruct the Stricken City.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The state department late Monday afternoon received the following telegram from London under Monday's date: "Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of State, Washington—Have read in newspapers this morning what reports to be a letter from governor of Jamaica. Can only say that on materials before me I entertain, as a responsible minister, the deepest feelings of deep gratitude to American admirals for generous assistance tendered at most critical time. Haldane, Secretary of State for War, London."

To this the following reply was sent: "Haldane, Secretary of State for War, London—The president greatly appreciates your cordial telegram and is glad if the proximity of this country has made it possible to be of the slightest assistance to the stricken people of Jamaica in this crisis. If, because of this proximity, and pending the arrival of your own warships and transports, we can render such aid as further aid whatever, the president earnestly hopes you will call on him without hesitation. We know how cheerfully you would render such aid to us were the circumstances reversed. Bacon, Acting Secretary of State."

Kingston's Mayor Asks Aid.—New York, Jan. 22.—The mayor of Kingston, Jamaica, in his official capacity, Monday appealed to the generosity of the American people on behalf of the earthquake sufferers.

In a cablegram directed to Mayor George B. McClellan of this city, the mayor of Kingston asked for money and building materials, which, he added, were urgently needed. The cablegram, received late in the day, was as follows: "Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 21.—Mayor, New York—On behalf of stricken people, I appeal through you to gentlemen of American people to help. Every home destroyed. Money, lumber and building materials most urgently needed. Tall, Mayor."

Some Vivid Descriptions.—London, Jan. 19.—The partial restoration of communication is bringing a number of belated dispatches from Kingston which give additional details of the calamity. The city is described as "rocking like a ship in a choppy sea during the quake, and when the fire started the scene became hellish."

The only wharves left are those of the Hamburg-American, the Direct Mail and the Royal Mail Steamship companies. All the lumber yards and stocks have been destroyed.

Many painful sights were witnessed as rescues were being made, and when dead bodies were being extricated from the ruins. A number of negroes trying to escape through open windows, were jammed therein by falling timbers and were either killed outright or burned to death.

Bodies of the dead are being transported by lighter across the harbor to the Fallades and buried well away from the city.

Many Flee to Ships.—Immediately after the first shock there was a mad rush of refugees to the city and 700 persons were rescued by being taken on board vessels in the harbor.

Since the fatal Monday the visitors to Jamaica for hundreds of days have been leaving the island as fast as they are able to secure passage. This thinning out of the population tends to relieve the anxiety of the authorities by reducing the number of mouths to feed.

Among others killed are Dr. Savage, a prominent medical man and a councillor of the city of Birmingham; Mr. Machado, a tobacco exporter; and Isaac S. Brandon, a merchant. The Daily Mail and other newspapers pay a tribute of gratitude to the splendid and prompt help given by Admiral Evans at Kingston, and the Mail adds regretfully why there was not a British warship at hand to render this service.

BUILT OF FOSSIL BONES.

Queerest House in the World Is in Wyoming.

The queerest house in the world, said a zoologist, "is undoubtedly the famous Bone cabin of Wyoming, near the Medicine Bow river. This cabin's foundations are built of fossil bones."

"Bones of dinosaurs jaws of the diplocodus, teeth of the brontosaurus, knuckles of the ichthyosaurus, vertebrae of the camarasaurus, chunks of the barosaurus, the cetosaurus, the brachiosaurus, the stegosaurus, the ornithomimus or bird-catching dinosaur—all entered into this wonderful cabin's foundations, making it the most curious and the most costly edifice, not excepting the Pennsylvania capitol, in America."

"This hut was built by a Mexican sheep-herder, who had happened by chance on the grandest extinct animal bone in the world. This was a plot of about 50 yards square wherein lay in rich profusion the bones of all the animals of the reptilian age. The heaviest and the lightest, the largest and the smallest, the most tranquil and the most ferocious lay side by side."

"The place was evidently once a river bar, and the dead bodies that floated down the stream were here arrested, to lie for hundreds of thousands of years till a sheep-herder came along, and, rooting about the bones as big as bowlers, set about the building of the world's queerest cabin."

Slightly Mixed.—A traveling salesman died suddenly in Pittsburg, Pa., and some of his friends telegraphed the undertaker an order to make a large wreath. Investigation showed that the telegram ordering the wreath read as follows: "Rest in peace; on both sides of the ribbon; if there should be room 'We shall meet in heaven.'"

The undertaker was out of town, and the new assistant handled the job. It was starting funeral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide, and it bore the inscription: "Rest in peace; on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in heaven."

Judges on Their Dignity.—The ceremony of the United States supreme court judges marching from their robing room across the corridor to take their seats on the bench, which occurs at high noon every week day, is always a matter of interest to the average visitor at the capitol. Every day there is a small crowd waiting to see the stately procession. The other day Justice Moody, as the youngest member of the august body, brought up the rear. A flicker of a smile appeared on his face as he noted the black-robed figures ahead of him, but it passed away instantly and he became as solemn and grave as the others.

Re-elected.
The board of managers of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society have re-elected E. W. Johnson secretary for the year 1907. This will be Mr. Handall's thirteenth year in charge of the state fair, which has been a continuous success under his direction. E. L. Malmgren, cashier of the Swedish-American National Bank of Minneapolis, was chosen treasurer, vice F. J. Wilcox of Northfield, who has served in this capacity for many years, and secretary with the respect and regard of the entire board.

Practically the same list of superintendents and committees as in 1906 was announced by President C. N. Coe. Col. W. M. Largent remains in charge of the exhibition, a which he has handled for 16 years. G. W. Patterson is superintendent of harness; J. M. Gustafson of carriages; H. W. Peterson, R. F. Nelson of the exposition and woman's buildings and C. M. Griggs of the amusement buildings. The law will manage the manufactures and farm machinery divisions.

Although the fair will not open for nearly nine months, a very large list of amusement attractions was laid before the board, which will be able to choose from the best that the country affords. The needs for several new buildings were discussed at some length and various requests for changes in the premium offers were received, but action on all these matters was deferred until after that the market gardeners secured a raise in the amount of their premium offers and the board would receive the offers for fat cattle in carload lots made last year, with much satisfaction to the breeders and cattle men.

A New Campus.
Hamilton, according to E. B. Johnson's estimate, 1906 will be the net cost of the new campus extension which is being so strongly urged by the alumni and faculty of the University of Minnesota.

The proposed tract includes seven blocks south of present campus, and four blocks north of the campus along University avenue. Mr. Johnson estimates that the cost of the campus, not including the buildings, would cost $211,000; for that on the north, $140,000, making a total of $351,000 for both.

On this property there are 208 houses, which, it is thought, could be purchased for an average of $2,000 each, or $3,000 at the most, bringing the total cost of the houses up to $616,000, and the cost of both land and buildings to $1,000,000.

Important Decision.
St. Paul.—A decision of great importance to the game and fish commission was handed down in the supreme court in the case of the Wisconsin Tower Lumber company, in which the right of the state to prohibit the running of logs in a stream in order to protect the fish commission is engaged in gathering fish spawn is upheld.

The decision affirms an order of Judge Lewis in the Ramsey county district court, overruling the demurrer of the company that the act of the state in the suit brought to recover $25,000 damages for the loss alleged to have been sustained by the state on account of the company's running logs down Pike river, after having received notice that the commission was then engaged in gathering fish spawn there.

Deckage.
St. Paul.—Members of the legislature will be "doomed" for many days if they are absent without excuse. This is the requirement of the revised statutes, a "wreckhouse" which got away from the members two ago, and is likely to create all sorts of trouble at this session. The discovery will cause a large number of members to be absent from the opening day, and the early repeal of the objectionable section is predicted.

There was only one member absent on the opening day of the session, but on the second day, Wednesday, there were five senators and ten representatives absent without excuse, as shown by the journals of the two houses. Thursday, the third day, there were six senators and fifteen house members recorded as absent without excuse.

Inheritance Tax.
Minneapolis.—An amendment to the inheritance tax law by which the county treasurer would have in the tax is advocated by State Auditor S. G. Peterson in his annual report to the legislature. He believes that if the county officers in the tax the county officers, who are interested with the collection of the tax, would be more vigilant and energetic in collecting the full amount of the tax. He says:

"Up to Aug. 1, 1906, a sum of $159,454.81 had been collected under the law. From Aug. 1, 1906 up to the present time, Dec. 1, 1906, $199,748 has been collected. Several estates are now being administered in our probate courts, which will add goodly sums to the state's revenue."

SOUTH CAROLINA SENATOR CALLS OUT RETORTS FROM SPOONER AND CARMACK.

Lively Day in Senate—Compromise Resolution on Brownsville Goes Over 700 Tuesday—House Passes Political Purity Bill.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Few features of the spectacular were missing from the proceedings in the senate Monday. The Brownsville affair was the subject of controversy, and the day began with the announcement of a compromise resolution. Bacon brought the republican and democratic senators together on the basis of ordering an investigation of the facts of the affair without bringing into question the authority of the president to dismiss the negro troops.

The resolution was submitted to and approved by the president at a conference Sunday.

When the "harmony" testimonials were all in, Senator Tillman took the floor, read a speech in reply to the recent criticism of himself by Senator Spooner. This speech began with a satirical picture of the senate as a minstrel show, which Mr. Tillman later said was his first and last attempt to be "funny," an attempt which at its conclusion brought a stinging denunciation from Senator Carmack in resentment of allusions to him.

Senator Tillman Apologizes.

This was preceded by a serious reply from Senator Spooner, who in the race taken by Mr. Tillman on the race problem, all finally resulting in a session of nearly two hours behind closed doors.

The secret session was followed by a brief open one in which Mr. Tillman made a profuse apology to Mr. Carmack, and Senator Spooner, who he brought into his "first essay in the light of humor," and finally to the entire senate. "I very much regret that I ever uttered a word which would offend in the Record," Mr. Tillman then withdrew all he had said in his "funny essay" and said it would appear in the Record.

This apology was at once accepted by Mr. Carmack, who regretted he had questioned the motives of his fellow senator, but to withdraw words he had uttered in protest.

Goes Over Tuesday.

Mr. Foraker made a final attempt to get a vote on his resolution, but objection was made, and the matter will be taken up Tuesday immediately after morning business has been disposed of. Mr. Carmack remarked emphatically that there were not more than 15 or 20 senators desiring to talk, and Mr. Foraker, feigning seriousness, retorted that the senate need not think the democratic side of the chamber could monopolize the talking.

Mr. Carmack explained that he was only trying to be funny, that it was his first attempt and he would never make another. As senators were laughing heartily over this parting shot, adjournment was taken at 6:15 o'clock.

Political Purity Bill Passed.

Discussion of the senate bill to prohibit corporations from making contributions in connection with political elections took the form of a stampede in the house, but this did not prevent the passage of the measure. Democrats, under the lead of Messrs. Williams of Mississippi, Robinson of Arkansas and Harvill of Tennessee, introduced the activity of Republican National Chairman Cortelyou during the last presidential campaign in soliciting funds from corporations.

Mr. Mann of Illinois, opposed the bill on the ground that corporations should be permitted to contribute to election expenses if rich individuals were to do so, and he asserted that the effect of the bill would be to keep poor men out of office. The Democrats applauded a question by Mr. Williams as to whether anyone doubted President Roosevelt's ability to bring about a return of contributions by insurance companies, if he exerted his great power, influence and popularity.

Mr. Robinson replied it is a well-known fact that the Republican chairman has been promoted in office, and he did not expect to make restitution of the funds "taken from widows and orphans."

The house pronounced unanimously in favor of enlarging and making more efficient the field of coast artillery.

A bill was passed authorizing the secretary of commerce and labor to investigate and report upon the "industrial, social, moral, educational and physical condition of workingmen and alien workers in the United States." The measure has already passed the senate.

Fred V. Burford entered a bill importance to Northern Minnesota, to permit town supervisors to construct and maintain drainage ditches. The ditches are to be constructed on petition of property owners of property to be benefited. J. B. Marston of Wapeton with a view to aiding voters to retain their health, has introduced a bill to prohibit political candidates from distributing cigars or intoxicating liquors.

Up to today, there have been introduced 118 bills in the legislature. In the senate 41 in the house. Two years ago on the same legislative day, the 6th, there were but 39 bills presented. At the last session the total number of bills was 440. If the increased ratio of the present session compared with the last, continues, the number of bills this session will reach 1,410.

Wm. H. Williams, state labor commissioner, has been investigating the employment of pages in the senate. He has found that boys under 16 years of age employed, which is in violation of the child labor law. The senate is going to patch the matter up by getting special license permits for the three boys in question during the three months of the session.

St. Paul.—T. H. Bacon, assistant chief engineer of the Chicago Great Western, has resigned, and will enter the employment of another company.

St. Paul, Jan. 17.—An important bill put in an appearance in the legislature today. Senator F. C. Cram, republican, democrat, of Winona, introduced Senate File 78. The bill established the investigation and referendum relative to legislative petitions. A petition of five per cent of the voters may propose any new law or constitutional amendment desired, and be accepted or rejected at the polls the following general election. Or, on a petition of a like number of voters, any legislative act of the legislature will have to be submitted to a vote by the people. The bill was referred to the judiciary committee. Senators Ellwell and Johnson have today introduced bills to authorize the state board of control to establish stone crushers to be operated by convict labor. The bill would be given to counties applying through their county commissioners, for the improvement of county roads. Senator E. C. Clague introduced a bill two years ago, presented a measure to create a new judicial district, the Nineteenth, composed of Lincoln, Lyon, Murray and Pipestone counties. Senator Thorpe introduced a measure to abolish private banks in state, a duplicate of a bill he fathered two years ago but which went down in a strenuous battle in the senate.

In the house today, Walter W. Case of Cloquet, introduced a bill, prompted by the increasing number of railroad accidents, to compel the installation of safety devices on railroads wherever the state railroad commission may think such devices needed. PINE COUNTY PIONEER.

ED. C. GOTTRY, Editor and Prop.

Entered in the Post Office at Pine City as Second Class Matter.

PINE CITY, MINN., Jan. 25, 1907

SLANG may be expressive, but it is also offensive.

MANY people love President Roosevelt for the enemies he has made.

WHEN a boy gets so big that he cannot obey his mother he is so big that other people have but little use for him.

AN Ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. It is always easier to stop bad habits before they are contracted.

THE automobile has come to stay—until it gets so cheap that we can all afford one and then—well we have "Dobbin" still.

THE public school is the bulwark of American liberty, but a virtuous, well disciplined, christian home beats the public school all to death.

MENTS to the naturalization laws of the land which should do much toward remedying the evils from which we have suffered in the past.

THE little boy was well acquainted with his mother who, when introduced to his new twin brothers remarked, "There, two of them—ma must have found them on a bargain counter."

MINNESOTA isn't suffering much because of her laws. We don't need more laws as much as we need better laws. If about one third of the statutes were repealed the state would be the better for it.

WHEN you expect to get something for nothing, because you see a "catch penny" advertisement in some newspaper, you must remember that somebody is expected to pay for the advertising and that there are but few people in business for their health.

DOWN in Milwaukee the other day a boy was sent to the workhouse for stealing newspapers from the doorstep of his neighbors. If all the people who obtain newspapers under false pretenses in Minnesota were sent to the workhouse, there would be a large number of public institutions to build within the next few years.

WILLIAM HORLICK, the man who manufactures Horlick's Malted Milk at Racine, Wis., has just made application for his "second papers" under the new naturalization laws after living in this country for thirty-six years. Just think of it, for years and years we have been raising our babies on Horlick's food manufactured by an Englishman. How shocking! Maybe that accounts for the epidemic of "Anglo mania" that has swept over our beloved land in the last few years.

The constitutional provision which many of the western states adopted years ago prohibiting the appropriation of state funds for internal improvements is antiquated and should be repealed by the people. Money spent by the state or national government in building good, permanent roads is a proper use of the public funds, and should be encouraged rather than discouraged.

SAN FRANCISCO may be right in excluding the Japs from the schools in which she educates her white children, but we would rather take our chances in this country with a large Japanese population, than with a large Russian population, and no one has ever raised any question as to the rights of Russians to send their children to the same public schools other children attend.

THAT "the wages of sin is death" is illustrated every day in our courts. The sentence of a man to a term in a state prison is always a solemn act and should not be without its lessons. The boy who starts out to disobey his parents and whose evenings are spent on the streets, or sitting on a beer keg, is pretty apt to graduate on some day as a felon in front of the bar of justice, receiving the sentence of a court as a just penalty for his misdeeds.

IF THE tax-payers when they get together at town meetings would take up some practical live question, such as proper road building, and would see that their town was properly organized so as to handle systematically their road work over the entire town, and not left to district supervision, there could be much good accomplished along the lines of proper highways in this state. The present system has proven a failure in every sense of the word.

SOMETIMES it seems that a few of the Connecticut blue laws would be a good thing in this neck of the woods. The common use of profanity on our streets, and other language equally disgusting is a source of annoyance to many people whose ears are not attuned to such disgusting sounds. The man who habitually uses language he would not like to use in the presence of his sister or daughter should remember that somebody's sister, daughter or son is hearing it.

THE United States is the wealthiest country in the world. In the brief span of its young life this infant nation of ours has broken all records relating to the accumulation of riches, and we are beginning to think in billions instead of millions. Take it any way you like, and the measure of our affluence outstrips anything that has ever been known before. Our country has more actual money, more gold, a larger volume of experts, greater banking facilities, richer farms, more internal commerce, more millionaires, more well to do tradesmen, more independent farmers, more highly paid laborers, and a greater distribution of luxuries which riches bring than any other nation has ever enjoyed since time began.

JUDGING from the reading of the messages that the governors of the various states have sent to the legislatures lately, the people of their respective commonwealths have been oppressed of late, and have lived under a terribly weak system of government. But then the average governor should not be taken too seriously. He has got to make campaign "thunder" and his message is the most effectual means at hand. They don't believe more than half they say themselves.

At the dispersed anarchist meeting in the city of New York a few days ago at which Emma Goldman was arrested, it was found that several boys were taken in the police dragnet. This is the dangerous feature of the meeting held by the anarchists. It is not to be expected that the unwashed uncombed "philosophers" who expound doctrines of free love and opposition by force to all forms of government will do much harm when their message is delivered to men and women of mature years and ripe understanding but the seed of anarchy sown in the youthful mind are apt to bring forth a crop of blood-shed and sorrow. Emma Goldman was probably directly responsible for the death of President McKinley and in her audience at the time of her arrest were men and women direct from the hotbeds of anarchy in Russia who would probably have rejoiced had the speaker announced from the platform the assassination of President Roosevelt. Russia is today furnishing to the United States a class of immigrants unsuited to our institutions and undesirable in every way and such immigration should be restricted. One of the hopeful signs of the times is the resent amendment.

THE National Congress of Mothers, which has been said to consist largely of antiquated spinsters is about to establish a department for the education of parents. This is certainly very kind of the ladies and it may not be altogether useless as there certainly seems to be a demand for more careful rearing of children judging by some of the stories that are going the rounds of the press today. There can be no question but the home is the training school from which citizens graduate and many of the homes could be improved by a little careful training of the parents, but the difficulty seems to be that the parents most in need of such training are the ones that could not be reached by the department. The settlement houses in our great cities are doing wonderful work along the lines of suggesting training for parents by example but until this work has reached a much broader field than it has yet attempted its influence is and will be almost imperceptible. From all appearance at the present time the Slum, Mission and the Christian church offer the only solution of the problem of the proper education and training of the rising generation. This is one of the big questions of society and when it is considered that the largest families in this country are usually found among the classes least qualified to properly rear children, the question becomes not only important but appalling.

ONE day last October Uncle Sam had gathered into his money store-house in Washington the greatest amount of gold ever collected at one place in the history of the world—gold representing $871,893,899. This was indeed a high water mark. We had there in one little room more gold than was in circulation in Great Britain, that proudest mistress of the seas, who boasts much of the sun never setting on her domains. What thoughts this statement must have raised in the mind of the self-opinionated Britisher! The largest receipt ever given, the greatest money trust ever undertaken in history was when the present treasurer of the United States, Charles H. Treat, went into office. He reported to Ellis H. Roberts, the retiring treasurer, for all the money and securities in the vaults of the treasury, a total of $1,259,598,278.58. It required from July 1 to Sept. 5 to count the money, and at the completion of the task the accounts balanced to a fraction.

Essay by Fourth Grader.

ROY AND HIS GRANDMOTHER.

(By Hugh Gaulty.)

One Saturday afternoon Roy was going fishing but it rained so hard that he could not go, so he began to cry. His grandmother saw him and asked what was the matter; he said he wanted to go fishing but it was raining. Then his grandmother said "Let us play store." So Roy went and got books, papers and all that he could think of, made a counter out of chairs piled things up on it. Then he put a pencil back of his ear and got on his rocking horse and went to Mrs. Jones' house. He rapped at the door. "Come in!" Roy went in and said, "What will you have this morning?" Oh "I want lots of things." "Have you any pennies?" "Yes." Well then I want a dozen pennies and a yard of butter." "But I do not sell butter by the yard," said Roy. "I sell by the pound." Well then I want five pounds of butter and a pint of blue ribbon." Oh, but we do not sell by the dozen, we sell then by the pint, and I sell ribbon by the yard." Well I will have to learn a great deal before I play store again." And with that the sun came out. Roy said, "May I deliver your goods some other time?" Mrs. Jones said, "Yes, you may."

FROM HOME TO FAIRYLAND

A STORY OF CHILDHOOD

By Henry Edward Rood

(Copyright, 1916, by Joseph B. Morley.)

Ethel and I paused at the door before entering the dining room. A single lamp cast soft light on the old-fashioned hallway, mingling with moonbeams that floated through the window halfway up the stairs. From these bedrooms above came the children's voices.

"Bless their baby hearts!" cried Ethel in subdued voice. "I wondered what they were up to this afternoon when they came to me twice and asked so seriously whether they were really fairies."

"And what did you say?" I inquired.

"I told them to find out for themselves," she replied, promptly. "I didn't have the courage to disillusion them utterly."

"And they're going to find it out, I suppose."

"I wish we could help them," she remarked.

"Maybe we can," I replied, hopefully.

Thereupon we turned our attention to dinner. We were sitting there nearly an hour later, finishing our coffee, when we heard the stairs creak distantly.

Then Ethel put her hand on one side, and listened intently. There was no mistake this time; the stairs certainly did give out a continuous series of creaks. Likewise did we hear a faint patter, as of chubby, bare feet, and hard breathing, and half-filled giggles and exclamations.

"Merry!" Ethel whispered under her breath. "Those babies are actually going outdoors in their night-clothes!"

"Sh!" I warned. "Don't be alarmed. Maybe they'll put on their coats and hats. Anyway, wait until they get to the back hall; then we can creep upstairs and see them through the window at the landing."

In another minute the door separated the front from the back hall closed, and a little later we heard excited whisperings from the clothes-dresser far in the rear.

"Now's the time!" Ethel cried. "Let's hurry up to the window while they're putting on their coats and hats." We tiptoed out of the dining room, and up the stairway. For a long time we looked and listened anxiously at the little window, and I was about to go down again when the back door creaked, and an odd little figure appeared in the moonlight just below us. Buzzer's fluffy goodness was hidden by an old hat of mine, a shapless gray felt. When he had gone a yard or two from the door he turned around and called, in a loud whisper, "Come on, sister! Hurry up, 'r' the fairies'll get away!"

"I didn't answer, for just then Buzzer spoke again.

"We'll go quietly past Jason's house on 't' barn," he explained, "down 't' lane to where 't' fairies live, in 't' wood."

"Quietly, so not frighten 'em!" Beesy inquired, in anxious tones.

"Yes," said Buzzer; and away they toddled, hand in hand, through the moonlight.

"Quick, Ethel!" I said, running downstairs as rapidly as was noiselessly as possible. "Follow me, and we'll see the fun!"

"Poor little chap!" she responded. "It doesn't seem fair to take advantage of their innocence."

"We won't take any," I said, holding open the door, so they could run through. "We'll find out where their fairy land is, and then we'll peep in for them."

"What a splendid plan!" the dear girl cried, giving my shoulder a pat of approval. "How did you think of it? And which way shall we go?"

"Around the house here and through the orchard back of the corn-crib and wagon shed—then we'll reach fairy land ahead of them."

So on we ran as fast as we could, through the shadows of the apple orchard, and hid near the stone wall, just as the little folks came down the grassy lane. It is a long march and a hard march for hours, so they could run through. I was wearing a man's big slippers, that persist in coming off every five yards, or when one is almost lost in father's coat and Nora's sunbonnet. But they came on bravely, indeed, hand in hand, Buzzer shuffling on ahead a little, Beesy dragging her waddly rubber boots with slow steps. All at once they stopped, with sidelong "Hush!" from Buzzer. "Don't make any noise!" he added, kicking the slippers from his feet and tossing aside the big hat.

"No, too!" Beesy exclaimed, sitting plump down in the lane and pulling off her boots. Then she slid out of my coat, the sunbonnet fell to the earth, and on they came to the stone wall, half in ruins, in very truth a pair of apron dancing gaily in the moonlight, through the soft, sweet-smelling night air. Trembling with excitement, they reached fairy land, and peered in crevices, and in the little caves where two or three great roots hung in a heap. But alas!

"Me-me done!" she said, in a hoarse voice, "Does oo, Buzzer?"

THOSE GOLDEN LOCKS.

There had been a love-match pure and simple in fact, they had eloped, and flint-hearted parents had proved obdurate. Therefore they had nothing to live on but love, and they grew thin on it. At last starvation stared them in the face.

"Oh, George," wailed the young wife, "what shall we do? I am so hungry!"

"Alas! I know not, darling!" he sighed, fondly but sadly through his luxuriant tresses.

"If I know, George," she suddenly exclaimed, after a pause, "I will sell my hair!"

"What!" he almost shouted. "Hark! those golden locks for loose bread? Have them cut off by a scoundrel barber! Never—never! I will starve first!"

"But George," she assured him, "they do not require cutting off, see!" And she detached the glistening three-guinea switch from her head and laid it in his hand.

"That night the young couple supped luxuriously, but still he was not happy.

BOY WAS SOMEWHAT MIXED.

Deacon Allen Rhedden, who recently passed away, was universally respected by all whom he met, and his strictness was lauded with much delight, says a writer in the Boston Herald. He used to tell the following with a great deal of interest:

"When a very small boy he asked his father to let him go with him to the town meeting. He went, with the promise that when returned he would tell the folks what happened.

In those days the church was supported by a tax on every property holder. Whatever of interest came up for church had to be voted on at the town meeting.

"The pastor being feeble and his voice not strong, an article in the town warrant called for the removal of the sounding board from over the pastor's head, since it acted as an extinguisher, and not as originally planned. When Allen returned he told his mother about the sounding board, and said:

"I got up and said, in his squeaky voice: 'Mr. Moderator, I make a motion that we remove the sound from under the board.'"

Mrs. Mary Wagner, of 1347 Knolls Road, Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I was so weak, and general weakness, and I had kidney disease that for a long time I could not do my work and was five weeks in bed. There was constant bearing down pain, terrible backaches, headaches and dizziness, and at times dizzy spells when everything was a blur before me. The passages of the kidney secretions were irregular and painful, and there was considerable sediment and odor. I don't know what I would have done but for Doan's Kidney Pills. I could see an improvement from the first box, and five boxes brought a final cure." Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Before his illness his hair was luxuriant, but after it a bald spot began to show, which was noticed by a deputy, who spoke to him about it.

"Fardon me, Jim," he said, "but you are getting bald, and you know a head of hair like yours is quite a novelty these days."

"Yes," said Maguire, "I have been bald for some time, but I don't know why, but do you know," he said, "I notice since my illness, that every time I run all sick and tired, the top of my head the novelty is wearing out."

AWFUL EFFECT OF ECZEMA.

Covered with Yellow Sores—Grew Worse—Discovered—Cured—Cura Drive Sores Away.

"Our little girl, one year and a half old, was taken with eczema of that was the doctor called it. We called in the family doctor, and he gave some tablets and said she would get well in a few days. The eczema grew worse and we called in doctor No. 2. He said she was teething, as soon as the teeth were through she would be all right. But she still grew worse. Doctor No. 3 said it was eczema. By this time she was nothing but a yellow, greenish sore. Well, no one could help her, so we let him try it about a week. One morning we discovered a little yellow pimple on one of her eyes. Of course we called in doctor No. 4. He came over and looked her over, and said that he could not do anything more for her. He said we had better take her to some eye specialist, since it was an ulcer. So we went to Oswego to doctor No. 5, and he said the eye was gone, and that he could help her. It was thought that would try doctor No. 6. Well, that proved to be a mistake, only he charged $10 more than doctor No. 4. I saw one of the Cuticura advertisements in the paper and thought we would try the Cuticura Treatment, so I went and purchased a box of Cuticura Remedies, which cost me $1, and in three days our daughter, who had been sick about eight months, showed great improvement. In a week all the sores had disappeared. Of course it could not restore the eyesight, but if we had used Cuticura in time I am confident it would have saved the eye. We think there is no remedy so good for any skin trouble or impurity of the blood as Cuticura. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abbott, P. O. Box 2, Falls City, Wis., Oswego Co., N. Y., August 17, 1906."

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

DRAGGING THE ROAD.
The Use of the Log Drag Again Emphasized.

The use of a simple log drag, made as shown in the cut, drawn lengthwise of the road over the ruts when the front is coming out, will fill up the hollows, smooth the lumps and make a bad road passable. The drag is made as follows:
The two halves of a split log, a nine feet long, ten to 12 in. thick, set on edge 30 in. apart, both flat sides to the front. Strong oak or hedge haws, h. h. the ends of which are wedged to two-inch auger holes bored through

Outline of Log Drag.
The slabs. Dotted line, chains or strong wire. D D, rings to connect double-tree elevs. Hitch at D and stand at C on a plank laid on the cross-haws for ordinary work, or hitch at DI and stand at E for ditch cleaning or to make the drag throw more dirt to the left. To move dirt to the right, reverse position of driver and hitch. If working a clay or gumbo road, put iron, old wagon tire, or something of the sort, on lower edge of drag at end of six months, for softer soil, at the end of 12 months.

EVERYBODY DRAG!
When the smiles of spring appear, Drag the roads!
When the summer time is here, Drag the roads!
When the corn is in the ear, In the winter cold and drear, Drag the roads!
When you've nothing else to do, Drag the roads!
If but for an hour or two, Drag the roads!
It will keep them good as new, With a purpose fit for the use of you!
Drag the roads!
Would you do the proper thing? Drag the roads!
Set the system on a wing: Drag the roads!
City: The drag is lively swing, Toss the laurel wreath to King! Hail the old, Everlasting Spring!
Drag the roads!

SINGLE YEAR EXPERIMENTS.
They are Not to be Relied on for Conclusive Evidence.

Single year experiments are little to be relied on. There are so many conditions that enter into the growing of crops that it is impossible to say that a certain thing comes from certain elements or factors. If the experiment is conducted for but one year, if the experiment when repeated gives the same results through several years we may be sure that the results are produced by some causes which can be well defined. It is a mistake, says Farmers' Review, for experimenters to report experiments all they have been carried on far enough to mean something. In the cases of certain fields there is always a variation between different fields, which is sure to affect the yield. How great this variation is it is difficult to tell, and we do not know that any one has tried to measure this variation. Thus if a field is manured and seeded in a certain way it will not produce the same amount of seed on both sides of it or on the two halves. It would be possible by cutting each half up into small squares to find the amount of natural variation.
Single year experiments therefore are of little value as determining the value of processes. Yet some of our farmers have allowed themselves to be directed in the future course in farming by the outcome of a single experiment on their farms. This is extremely unscientific.

BALM OF SCRIPTURE

HEALING PROPERTIES OF PINE KNOWN TO ANCIENTS.
Oil of the White Pine Tree Used Successfully by Physicians in Treating Consumptive Patients.

The Oil of the Pine Tree is supposed to be the balm of Scripture. It contains great medicinal properties and was regarded with the utmost esteem by the ancients, and to the present day is peculiarly prized by the people of the East.
A noted authority on diseases of the throat and lungs, who established a camp for consumptives in the Pine Woods of Maine, says that his entire treatment consisted of fresh air, nourishing food and the Pure Virgin Oil of the White Pine Tree, mixed with Whisky and Glycerine in the following proportions:
Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) 4oz.
Glycerine 2oz.
Good Whisky 8oz.
Used in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

It is claimed the above mixture will heal and strengthen the lungs, break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.
The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost, and can be easily mixed in your own home.
Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case with engraved wrapper with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O.—and is printed thereon. There are many cheap imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put out under various names, such as Compound, Compound, Compound, Compound, Compound, etc. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired result.

SURELY WINS THE PALM.

One Mean Man Who Outdoes Some Others.
Many stories have been told of mean men, such as he who used a wart for a collar-button and he whose birthday gift to his son consisted in washing the windows so that the lad might watch the cars go by. This man, however, seems to have won the palm.
There was an extremely mean man in New Hampshire, who was the proprietor of a hotel. By his direction raffles were given in the hotel for the bidding almost every conceivable privilege to those not guests of the hotel. There was absolutely no chance for the hotel-keeper, who had a pen, ink, stationery, etc. There were not even free seats in the office.
One day relates the Success Magazine, he chanced to observe a chronic loafer gazing at the clock that hung on the wall. The next day a sign was placed over the clock. It read: "This clock for the use of the guests of the hotel only."
Birth Was Reserved.
Franklin K. Lane, Interstate commerce commissioner, went west last week. He wanted to reserve a berth on the Chicago and St. Paul. He wired the request and this reply came back: "Can't do it. Interstate commerce commission will not allow it." He wired back reading: "By what authority do you say interstate commerce commission will not allow you to reserve a berth in a sleeping car?" The man never answered. "By the authority of a recent ruling," Mr. Lane was interested by this time and he telegraphed: "I am a member of the interstate commerce commission and am not familiar with the ruling. Give me a reference." And a short time afterward he received this telegram: "Birth reserved."

WHITE BREAD

Makes Trouble for People with Weak Intestinal Digestion.
A lady in a Wis. town employed a physician who instructed her not to eat white bread for two years. She tells the details of her sickness and she certainly was a sick woman.
"In the year 1887 I gave out from overwork, and until 1901 I remained an invalid in bed a great part of the time. Had different doctors but nothing seemed to help. I suffered from cerebral congestion, female trouble and serious stomach and bowel trouble. My husband called a new doctor and he was giving me nothing but my food for 10 days the doctor ordered Grape-Nuts for me. I could eat the new food from the very first mouthful. The doctor kept me on Grape-Nuts and the only medicine was a little glycerine to heal the alimentary canal.
"When I was up again doctor told me to eat Grape-Nuts twice a day and no white bread for two years. I got well in good time and have gained in strength so I can do my own work again.
"My brain has been helped so much, and know that the Grape-Nuts food did this. I feel I must have been made ill because I was not fed right, that is I did not properly digest white bread and some other food I tried to live on.
"I have never been without Grape-Nuts food since and eat it every day. You may publish this letter if you like as it will help someone else. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Get the little book, 'The Road to Wellville' in pks.

Slightly Mixed.
A traveling salesman died suddenly in Pittsburgh, Pa., and some of his friends telegraphed the undertaker an order to make a large wreath. Investigation showed that the telegram ordering the wreath read as follows:
"Rest in peace, on both sides of the ribbon; if there should be room: 'We shall meet in heaven.'
The undertaker was out of town, and the new assistant handled the job. It was a startling floral piece which turned up at the funeral. The ribbon was extra wide, and it bore the inscription:
"Rest in peace on both sides, and if there is room we shall meet in heaven."
Makes Plea for Dance.
It seems a very great pity that some determined effort cannot be made to make dancing more popular. Nowadays, when exercise is a kind of religion to men and women alike, it is sad that one recommended by all doctors and recognized all the world over and in all ages as an attractive pastime, into which the art of fascinating largely enters, should be more and more neglected among us.—Lady's Pictorial.

Life of Horses and Dogs.
The statement has been made that horses average from 40 to 45 years of life, and dogs from 12 to 14 years. A French encyclopedist credits the horse with 30 to 40 years, the dog with 20 to 25. There is a sufficient range of uncertainty in these figures to cause doubt whether detailed study has been made of the subject.

Washington a Shingle State.
The state of Washington produced 10,000,000 shingles in 1900, fiscal year, or 64 per cent of the total output of the United States. Washington has 459 mills, with a daily output of 47,040,000, or 18 per cent more than in 1900. In no other state does the yearly output approximate 1,000,000,000.

Developing the Sudan.
There is talk in England of the proposed development of the natural resources of the Sudan through scientific methods. The Imperial Government has the banks of the Blue Nile along its upper reaches, extending to the Abyssinian frontier. The ebony tree is met with along that river and also near the Sobat. Along the White Nile the India rubber creeper, a valuable source of rubber, abounds. There are large forests in the Bahri-Ghazal province and gold has been mined in some of the mountains. Search will be made for fuel.

Scrupulous Senator.
Senator Spooner of Wisconsin surprised some members of congress when he was chatting the other day by announcing that he has never taken part in a congressional junket of any kind. "I never shall undertake such a journey at government expense," he said. "There is something very objectionable to me in members of congress going on such expeditions." For the same reason that made him sidestep a congressional junket Senator Spooner said he had never been shaved by a senate barber-shop, which is maintained at Uncle Sam's expense.
Priscilla's Revenge.
It was in the days of old when knights were bold and dressed in gleaming armor.
"George, dear," said Priscilla, over her daily task, "will that not help me with my skirts?"
"By the tower of London—no!" roared George, as he sharpened his lance. "You haven't a spinning wheel for a husband!"
Two hours later George returned from the fray with his armor battered and torn.
"Dearest Priscilla," he said, softly, "will thou not put a few patches on my dress suit?"
"No, George," replied Priscilla, sweetly. "You haven't a blacksmith for a wife!"
And the bold knight was so humiliated he went over to Ye Frozen Heart tavern and stood the tavern-keeper off for a tankard.

WOMEN SUFFER
Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have immediate assistance.
How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? The cause may be easily traced to some feminine derangement which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, headache, disagreeable sensations, flatulency, nervousness, and sleeplessness.
These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded, a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result. The best remedy for all these symptoms is
