FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

N. A. Crittenden, of Minneapolis Crosses the Great Divide to the Great Beyond Interment Tomorrow At 11 a.m.

Word was received in this village on Tuesday evening that N. A. Crittenden, a former resident of this place but now of Minneapolis, had died at his home in that city after quite a long illness. Mr. Crittenden has been a sufferer with asthma for quite a number of years, and for the past two or three years has been very bad at times.

Mr. Crittenden came to this place from Stewartville about nine years ago, and started a clothing store in the building now occupied by M. A. Soderbeck as a saloon. He remained here in business for a couple of years and made many friends who were pained to learn of his sad death.

While residing here Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden lost a daughter with black diphteria who was buried in Birchwood cemetery.

After leaving here Mr. Crittenden removed to Minneapolis where he embarked in hardware, coal and wood business, but late years he has been one of a firm of prosperous real estate dealers in the Flour City.

Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden and their only daughter Gertrude spent several weeks in this place visiting old friends.

Mr. Crittenden was a large, good natured gentleman and always had a cheery smile and a pleasant word for all his acquaintances.

The funeral will be held in Minneapolis this afternoon and the remains will be brought up on the morning train tomorrow and interment will take place in the Flour City cemetery by the side of his little daughter. The funeral cortège will proceed directly from the train to the cemetery.

BULLETIN NO. 60.

The Outlook For Northeastern Minnesota As Given By The Experimental Station at Grand Rapids.

The yield of farm crops are influenced by three factors: First, the natural conditions of the section of the country in which they are grown. Second, the season, and third, the system of farming under which they are grown.

Under normal condition the crop yield may be taken as a fair index to the productiveness of the country and its adaptability to the growing of different kinds of crops.

Due to the many inquiries regarding the yield of different crops in northeastern Minnesota it is deemed advisable to publish a general statement covering the yield of all the crops, instead of treating each crop separately as heretofore.

The yield of the different crops grown on the Experiment Farm under normal field conditions during the season of 1906, is as follows:

When 20 bushels per acre. Variety—University, 169. Soil—Sandy loam Manured and in potatoes 1905.

Oats, 40 bushels per acre. Variety—Improved Ligono. Soil—Clay loam. In clover and timothy 1905.

Barley, 19 bushel per acre. Variety—Manschurian. Soil—Clay loam. Low and very wet.

Peas, 21 bushel per acre. Variety—Canada Field. Soil—Sandy loam. Manured and in peas 1905. Manured lightly in 1906.

Hay, 25 tons per acre; single cutting. Medium red clover and timothy. Soil—from clay loam to sandy loam. Most of crop first year cutting.

Fodder corn from 5 to 10 tons per acre, green weight. (Put in soil) Spring wet and cold, unfavorable for fodder corn. Some fields were mostly drowned out. Soil varying with different fields from clay to sandy loam. Most of fodder corn grown in meadow (clover and timothy) 1905. Variety of seed—Minnesota 15.

Potatoes, 246 bushels per acre; 984 bushels on four acres Soil—Sandy loam. In fodder corn 1905. Manured lightly 1905 and 1906.

Variety—Carmen No. 1. A white potato, oval in shape, medium to late in maturing. This variety has yielded highest on the Experiment Farm for 8 years; 70 varieties tested.

Stock carrots, 151 tons per acre or 570 bushels. Soil, sandy loam. In roots 1905. Manured 1905 and 1906. Variety—Mastodon. Stock Carrot.

The above mentioned crops were grown under a system of practical farming and the yield the average of the fields, not of experiment plots.

Various varieties of wheat, oats, barley, rye, rye, speltz, millet, etc., were grown in experiment plots, but the yield of the fields is given as a better comparison of average crops.

Crops grown in plots for test of varieties, etc., will be taken up later.

The season 1906, while very unfavorable in many respects, was fair as a whole, so that the yield of the different crops with a few exceptions is about an average.

BUILDS STORE.

Herman Borchers is making preparations for his new stone building which will be built in the space between his shoe store and the saloon of Peter Engle. The new building will be occupied by Mr. Borchers for a shoe store and his present place of business will be for rent. This move of Mr. Borchers will fill up a blank space on our principal street and add to the appearance of our village.

Mrs. McLaren who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Hart went to Minneapolis yesterday to make an extended visit with her daughter Mrs. Frank Laird.

ICHTHYOLOGY

A Treatise on Fish as a Food Whereby the Writer Claims That Fish is as Substantial as Meat.

It should be well permitted to speak about fish in Lent season, since it is fish that must pay the expense of the 40 days fast edicted by the church, and the belief that fish is lean should not be disputed, but in reality I doubt whether this belief answers very exactly the spirit of the sacred ordinances.

For fish is flesh and eyen fat flesh and not at all lean in any right sense of the word. If it is true that codfish contains only 74 per cent of fat, yet the majority of fishes such as the pickerel, mackerel, herring are as rich in fat as the meat of beef or mutton of which 100 grammes contain from 5 to 6 grammes of fat and certain fish as for instance the salmon contain as high as 13 per cent and the river eel 30 per cent.

In other words fish meat is meat indeed, and wholly similar to meat of beef chemically that which characterizes meat in the elemental regime is its richness in albuminoids.

Therefor with this point in view there is practically no difference between a piece of choice steak and a slice of salmon; The proportion of azotized materials is the same, 14 to 20 per cent for beef or veal and 17 to 21 per cent for salmon, salted codfish however contains more albuminoids than any other meat as meat contains 80 per cent.

Fish is then not lean meat, perhaps it is because it is expensive that it has become a universal food for Penitents, as for me I think that trout fried in olive oil sautéed and fixed up with slices of lemon is a meal worthy to be offered to an Excellence. We must then admit that Penance is easy when we can breakfast with a "Soie Sauce nor maud" or a "Barbue a la Porte gaise". Afar of you may say for the public opinion is hardly favorable to fish, and willingly would argue that it gives but little strength and little blood. Is it because the flesh of fish is white and our blood red? Perhaps and many things that are judged in advance have not as serious a foundation.

Undoubtedly many of our readers will claim that fish meat is more exciting than substantial, that it less nutritious and sustains less strength. There are people who nourish themselves on fish mainly.

Are they less resistant than carnivorous people? After Moukou and Port Arthur, who will dare say that the Japanese lack in strength? Yet they live on fish and rice.

Lastly a German physician, Dr. Rosenfeld, recently stated the question of the relative value of fish as a food. His experiments reply vigorously to all objections and prove that physiologically the meat of fish is worth that of beef or mutton, 200 grammes of salmon were found equal to 200 grammes of beef meat. In another experiment 315 grammes of beef was replaced without any advantage by 360 grammes of pickerel. It was also found that fish was more easily digested. A detail which will interest the Arthropagous persons to whom fish meat is generally forbidden the quantity of uric acid eliminated under the fish regime was less than with beef which permits me to suppose that it should not be forbidden to urecognizing patients.

In conclusion and contrary to the public opinion fish meat is just as nourishing and just as substantial as beef meat, some people will yet say that it does not fill up so, and to these I will reply that ordinary meat takes two or three hours to pass from stomach to intestines and fish about same time. Salmon takes three to four hours and herring four to five hours. As for the comparative strengthening value I assure you that it is in no way inferior to beef. Good Roads.

The good cause of highway improvement is making steady advancement in this country, and still there is room for more of the same sort. This is a big nation, with a great territory, and much of the land is comparatively new to the business. But when a state like our own votes $10,000,000 for good roads and other states are putting forth creditable efforts in the same direction, the ultimate result must be satisfactory. And we need not be above borrowing practical ideas from other sources. American Consul Hamm, writing from Hull, tells of the roads in that vicinity and what the English do to keep their famous highways in trim. For 1,944 miles of road in Yorkshire last year the total of £10,750 was expended—£832.50 per mile. The consul adds: "It is a rare sight to see a rutty or muddy country road in this neighborhood. Most all of them are macadamized, well drained and kept in good repair. As a consequence one horse can draw a load which would require two or three horses over the usual country road in America." That last sentence speaks a volume. Good roads, declares the Troy (N. Y.) Times, mean economy, because when they are furnished the wear and tear on horses and vehicles are reduced by many per cent. This is a phase of the subject which is not kept in view as prominently as should be the case. The owners of light pleasure rigs and of automobiles and the other benefits of good roads. The greater benefit is that which comes to the farmer and teamster in lessening the cost of hauling loads over the high-ways.

The way to keep children in school is to make the school the most valuable place to them. The school must be made attractive. We must change front and recognize that the school-room is made for the child and not for the teacher. At present only the appearances of the teacher are placed in it and whatever may be done for the children is done only because the teacher can best be served by such. The schoolroom is the best place for children, declares Arens. As the business room is made attractive and fixed up for customers and whatever is done for the salespeople is done only because they are the best interests of customer can be cared for, so in the schoolroom the interests of the children must be consulted and those things done for children which will make the schoolroom, next to the home, the most attractive place.

The windfall of bencence to American education naturally arouses something akin to envy on the part of foreign institutions which are not so well favored by private munificence. The duke of Devonshire, chancellor of Cambridge university, issues an appeal for $7,500,000, which he says is sorely needed. British newspapers support the appeal, and in articles on the subject allude to the poverty of English colleges and the splendid gifts of Americans, and also lament the indifference of Englishmen of wealth. This is a matter regarding which outsiders should hesitate to comment. But it is not wholly out of order to note that some of the largest benefactions to education and charity in the United Kingdom have come from American citizens.

If anyone imagines that railroad expansion in this country has reached its limit, or that there is any sign of a check upon American industrial growth, he should not summon James J. Hill as a witness to support his pessimistic contention. Mr. Hill, one of the foremost railroad men of the age, is out with a declaration that the congestion of traffic is so great from one end of the union to the other that the only certain way out is to construct new track on an enormous scale. He says $3,500,000,000 could be spent to advantage for this purpose alone. Add to this the cost of a connecting equipment, and one may form some conception of the public need as seen by this keen and practical observer.

Chicago suffragists announced a meeting on the same day that 59 of their sisters in London were sent to prison. From them the men may learn a lesson in devotion to conviction.

Andrew Carnegie writes to an acquaintance: "I might have been a rich man, if I hadn't renounced not to spend an old age in the pursuit." Yet it is painful to see a man quite a rags when so near the mark as Mr. Carnegie was.

They found the military of an Egyptian queen who was buried in sheets of gold. Had to do it probably because all the other sheets were taken over on the other side to cover the sarcophagi at the funeral.

JEROME'S EFFORTS BLOCKED BY DELMAS

NEARLY ALL HIS REBUTTAL TESTIMONY IN THE THAW TRIAL EXCLUDED.

Day Spent in Argument—Attack on Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's Story Barred by Rules of Evidence—Police Officers on Stand.

New York, March 12.—On the first day of the state's case in rebuttal the trial of Mrs. Thaw began yesterday. Attorney Jerome Monday carried on a temporary standstill against the practically solid wall the rules of evidence have built around the story of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. Mr. Jerome began to attack this story as soon as court opened in the morning. Then ensued a well-nigh hour-long battle between the prosecutor and Delmas M. Delmas, the leading counsel for the defense, at the end of which Justice Fitzgerald upheld the rule laid down at the beginning of the trial—that young Mrs. Thaw's story was admissible only as tending to show the effect it might have in influencing the defendant's mind, and that its truth or falsity is not material.

Little Handway Made.

Nineteenth of Monday's sessions were spent in argument and in nearly every instance when the smoke of conflict cleared away Mr. Delmas had won his point to the letter, while Justice Fitzgerald in the very argument itself had got before the jury a perfect knowledge as to what his witnesses would have testified to had they been permitted.

The district attorney called ten witnesses during the day, but withdrew from the state's eye-witnesses to whom he had given his opinion that they seemed rational the night he shot and killed Stanford White, little real headway was made.

Lining up all his forces in rebuttal,

Mr. Jerome decided to open his fight upon the defense by attacking the story told by the jury by Evelyn Nesbit. He called in the stand Fred Longfellow, attorney for the defense, and asked him first concerning the case in which Ethel Thomas is alleged to have sued Mrs. Nesbit for damages because of cruel treatment. Mr. Delmas objected to questions along this line under the privilege of lawyer-client privilege, but before Justice Fitzgerald ruled out the evidence, Mr. Jerome declared: "The story of the girl tied to the bed post and whipped by Thaw is the story of Ethel Thomas. This poor girl is now dead."

Gots Nothing from Longfellow.

He showed Mr. Longfellow the photographic copy of the affidavit Evelyn Nesbit is said to have signed in the office of Abraham Hummel—alleging that Thaw treated her cruelly while abroad in 1903 because she would not tell him about Stanford White.

Mr. Jerome followed up this by asking the witness if Mrs. Thaw had not turned over to him certain papers to which she had subscribed. Mr. Longfellow said she had. There was a long argument between Mr. Jerome and Mr. Delmas as to the meaning of what Mr. Longfellow turned his entire examination to by declaring that Mrs. Thaw had never shown him a paper similar to the Hummel affidavit.

Police officers who saw Thaw the night of the tragedy declared he acted rationally.

In the afternoon Mr. Jerome called to the stand Richard W. Williams, a district attorney framed a hypothetical question covering Evelyn Nesbit's description of her night with Stanford White in the Twenty-fourth street studio house, and asked if there was an known reason which caused unnecessary immobility in two instances and permit of the quick recovery testified to by Thaw's wife.

Around this vital point, opening as it did a path through which the prosecutor could make his final attack, the trial court, after a series of legal skirmishes, the story, the storm of argument raged for an hour or more. Mr. Jerome pleaded with Justice Fitzgerald at great length. Mr. Delmas in reply, cited Mr. Jerome's own words at the beginning of the trial. At this point the defense moved to instruct the court to instruct the jury that young Mrs. Thaw's testimony was permissible only as tending to show what effect its relations to Thaw may have had in misleading his mind.

Justice Fitzgerald sustained the objection interposed by the defense.

SECOND COUSIN AND ADOPTED SON ARE NEW PLAINTIFS.

Beth Declares They Believe Christian Science Leader Incapable of Managing Her Affairs.

Concord, N. H., March 12.—Fred W. Baker, of Epsom, N. H., a second cousin of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, and Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy, of Waterbury, Vt., Mrs. Eddy's adopted son, have become additional parties plaintiff as "next friends" of Mrs. Eddy, to the bill in equity brought to secure an accounting of her property against leaders of the Christian Science church.

Dr. Foster-Eddy says in his petition that he has "become convinced that Mrs. Eddy is, and for a long time has been incapable of intelligently managing her affairs, and of conducting her business and property, and that the same is being managed wholly by the defendants without giving a proper accounting thereof."

Fred W. Baker, in his petition, says that he is a second cousin of Mrs. Eddy, and that in September, 1896, he was sent by his employer to examine and collect all the financial papers of Mrs. Eddy. He made known to Mrs. Eddy his relationship to her, and she treated him with cordiality, inviting him to remain in her house, which he did one night. She invited him to come to her home again, and did so at any time. Mr. Frye, however, told him that he ought not to make that visit. During the next three years he wrote to Mrs. Eddy twice, offering to avail himself of her invitation to visit her, but he received no reply, and he believes that she was not permitted to see either of the letters.

In September of 1905 he said he decided to make an effort to see Mrs. Eddy. He went to Concord and to her house, and was refused the privilege of seeing her by Mr. Frye. He believes, however, that Mrs. Eddy was then in reality a prisoner in her own house; that she is kept secluded by the defendants, Frye and others, and that she is not capable, under all her conditions, of managing her own business.

Mr. Eddy sent her carriage Monday afternoon for her counsel, former Congressman Frank C. Miller, and an interview Monday afternoon with George F. Street, attorney for Mrs. Eddy, but at its conclusion the lawyers refused to give any statement to the press.

Must Be Spared.

Mr. Foster, who came armed with a gun, may be sold in Minnesota at any time, whether in the closed season or not. This is the ruling made by Charles Avery, executive agent of the game commission of the Minnesota Game and Fish department, a Minneapolis dealer. He says that all birds and fish destined for sale during the closed season, and those not to be sold at this time, may not be sold as title to them. They will be illegally taken, and therefore cannot be sold, but there is no provision for the sale of game birds and selling them at any time.

Story of His Life.

Born of Scotch parents in 1847, John Alexander Dowie, an boy was a member of the Presbyterian church. Little is known of his early life. He became a coal miner at 14, and worked in the mines of Scotland until he was 31 years old, and then began his career as "divine healer" and evangelist that in little over a quarter of a century made him the head of the Zion church, with a following of over 50,000 in every country of the world.

He died in 1891 at 55 years of age.

According to one of the men who had been instrumental to Dowie to the end, he was buried in the end a huge tomb commanding Lake Michigan will be erected as an eternal monument to his memory.

Arrived in His Riches

Arrived in his riches, uninvolved in any religious calling for a white basket. Dowie will rest in stately Shiloh house from Tuesday noon until Thursday, the public being admitted from one to three o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Public memorial services will be held in the tabernacle later in the day, V. V. Barnes officiating.

Hay in the hold of the steamer Devonian took fire while the vessel was at the White Star docks at Charlestown, Mass. Little damage was done.

Bert Curtis was arraigned in New York charged with having entered the Misses Lockwood's school for girls at Scarsdale, N. Y., and stolen $6,000 worth of gems.

Leonidas M. Preston, who committed suicide in New York Thursday, is said to have forged notes aggregating nearly $100,000 and to have lost nearly $100,000 in the same bank.

The post office department will not sweep the color line in the matter of white and negro mail clerks working together on the same runs, as the white clerks of the middle west had planned to ask.

A bomb was exploded in Barcelona, Spain, injuring the man who was carrying it. Another bomb was discovered near the palace of Marquise Cambia, owner of the Spanish Transatlantic company.

Rodolphus W. Fuller, 85 years old, the inventor of the machine to make horse-shoes, died at Hanover, Conn. Fuller, who was married, had a fortune of $100,000, but the half million dollars he had saved through his life, he had given to charity.

In 1888 he left Australia and, with wife and son, moved to San Francisco, where he lived two years before coming to Chicago.

Real Career Begins in Chicago.

His real career dates from the day he reached Chicago. When he reached this city he was penniless and a hotel in Madison street where he stopped with his family during the first month he remained here, agreed to attach to his baggage in order to secure the payment of a bill of $37.

At first his evangelical efforts in Chicago were of limited kind. He passed two years laying the foundations of his work and it was not until the fall of 1890 that he was noticed by the police.

The indictment for subversion of purity against Frederick C. Fairbanks, son of the vice president, in connection with his marriage to Miss Helen Scott of Pittsburg, was quashed in a decision rendered today by Judge G. Richards at Minneapolis.

The grand jury at Peoria, Ill., returned indictments against ex-sheriff Daniel E. Potter, Deputies W. E. Peters, Robert Cohen and Sherman Hunt, and City Clerk Robert Josse, the latter being charged with embezzlement of city money and corruption in office.

Ex-sheriff Potter and his wife are accused of having embezzled $100,000.

The grand jury also indicted the county treasurer for the sum of $75,000.

Archie Roosevelt Getting Well.

Washington, March 12—Archie Roosevelt, the president's son, who is ill with diphtheria, continues to improve. There was no setback and he rested easily Monday. His condition Monday night was gratifying to the family and the attending physicians.

Founding of Zion City.

His first great business venture was the purchase of the old tabernacle building at Fourteenth street and Michigan avenue. After he had occupied this building for several years, filling it nearly every Sunday, he decided to build a larger one, which he did.

The new building is located on a tract of land consisting of 6,500 acres, having a frontage of two miles on Lake Michigan and a depth of six miles, being crossed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad.

In 1906 Dowie took a trip to Palestine, where he passed several months going over the Holy Land. A few years later he made a special trip to New York city, taking with him 6,000 of his followers. This trip was his first, and he was present at the opening of the World's Fair in Paris.

He also traveled through Europe, Australia and other places, and he was finally virtually driven from the city because of the hostile reception. The cost of the pilgrimage was enormous and was a never ending source of expenses, and when he returned to Zion City he was barely in health and spirit.

Health Fair, Revolt Comes.

It was shortly after this that his health began to fail him and he made several trips to the Bermuda Islands and Mexico, a company to be organized this spring to build a factory there, having a daily capacity of sixty to eighty tons.

Dowie—It can be shown that persons may be sold in Minnesota at any time, whether in the closed season or not. This is the ruling made by Charles Avery, executive agent of the game commission of the Minnesota Game and Fish department, a Minneapolis dealer.

He says that all birds and fish destined for sale during the closed season, and those not to be sold at this time, may not be sold as title to them. They will be illegally taken, and therefore cannot be sold, but there is no provision for the sale of game birds and selling them at any time.

MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE

St. Paul, March 7—County option today received its death blow in the senate, and the tune of its dirge was 36 votes against to 22 in its favor. The measure, which has become one of the foremost issues before the present legislature, was introduced by Senator Campbell of the temperance committee majority, that the bill be indefinitely postponed. Senator Elwell, the minority, presented an amendment recommending the bill be referred to a committee for discussion of the committee of the whole.

No other "titles" of importance or interest took place in the legislature today. It was case of "sawing wood." Each branch had a large number of bills, general orders and the calendar and they were grouped together and then voted on after roll call was taken. The senate cleared up its work, but the house still had about a hundred bills awaiting action of the committee of the whole.

St. Paul, March 11—The house held a short session Saturday, considered a few bills on the calendar and adjourned some of the calendar then adjourned until Wednesday morning. This was because many members desired to be at their homes Tuesday when town elections take place throughout the state. The senate, however, will consider Monday evening.

The resolution on redistricting the state judicially, has decided not to make any changes. George P. Wilson of Minneapolis, who offered the resolution in the senate creating the special committee, thought that districts were just as they were and added to less busy districts.

Judges in the less busy districts object to more work, and districts it was proposed to switch, object to the change. So the committee has decided to keep the districts as they are.

The two committees on appropriations have decided that appropriations for state institutions, which will come close to $4,000,000, will have to be raised by an adjustment of the state tax levy. Because of the fact that the appropriation which was originally carried at the last election may be defeated by a recent being demanded at Duluth, the finance committee are fearful of trusting to the voters more than the state institutions themselves which depend on the loyalty of the constituency.

Men who refuse to support their families either as a result of drunkenness or idleness, will be dealt with by the committee on the subject.

The senate committee on education met late today and decided to recommend for passage the C. L. Sawyer bill to abolish fraternities in high schools. Evidence produced before the committee seemed to demonstrate that fraternities have a deplorable influence.

The senate committee on education has decided to appropriate $10,000 for a silver service to be presented to the new battlefield museum by the state. The bill was introduced by Senator Schaller of Hastings.

President Roosevelt will sign an order restoring to the public domain approximately 30,000,000 acres of land withdrawn as coal lands.

The first oil well struck in Savoie was swept by a man-eater that forced the captain to tie it to for eight hours.

Hay in the hold of the steamer Devonian took fire while the vessel was at the White Star docks at Charlestown, Mass. Little damage was done.

Bert Curtis was arraigned in New York charged with having entered the Misses Lockwood's school for girls at Scarsdale, N. Y., and stolen $6,000 worth of gems.

The post office department will not sweep the color line in the matter of white and negro mail clerks working together on the same runs, as the white clerks of the middle west had planned to ask.

The senate suspended the rules to restore the bill to the J. E. Robinson bill relative to the franchise tax on railroads. For a first offense the court must give a sentence of 30 to 90 days. For a second offense the crime is declared to be a felony and punishable by imprisonment from one to three years.

The senate suspended the rules to restore the bill to the J. E. Robinson bill relative to the franchise tax on railroads. For a first offense the court must give a sentence of 30 to 90 days. For a second offense the crime is declared to be a felony and punishable by imprisonment from one to three years.

Another bill of St. Paul introduced a new bill in the house for submission to the people of a "wide open" tax amendment to the constitution, similar to the one voted upon at the last general election. The bill is introduced in view of the recent decision of the court that the amendment to the constitution is the demand of an equality in the "rate per ton, per mile," and it is possible the measure may have this section cut out.

St. Paul, March 12—The senate was in session but twenty minutes too long; just long enough for the introduction of half a dozen bills, the reporting of two or three committees, the vote for Senator George P. Wilson of Minneapolis, the most sedate member of the upper house, to crack a joke.

The most important action of the evening was the approval of a report of the committee on grain and feed, recommending for passage several bills for stricter regulation of the grain trade, S. F. 137, fixing a uniform method of buying and selling grain and to prevent combinations to control prices; H. F. 123, authorizing the state to store and market grain; H. F. 116, providing against fraud in the issuance of receipts or certificates for grain, hay or straw weighed; H. F. 116, authorizing the railroad and warehouse commission to fix the time when grain may be stored and instead of being stored. After lengthy debate, in which Calhoun charged the finance committee with "continually picking on my bills," the senate voted to refer the bill to the finance committee.

The only members voted against the reference were the country members with Senator Peterson.

A few minutes later, the bill to establish a farm machinery plant at the state fairground came up on calendar. Senator Calhoun save his opportunity, and voted it down.

"Mr. President," he cried, securing the floor "I believe this bill carries an appropriation for a plant at the prison; under our rules and the precedent just established, the bill should not be read. I move to table the bill." "I move to table the bill," responded O. O. Canestor of Elbow Lake and B. E. Sundstrom of Kennedy both seconded the motion and started to explain why the bill should not be read. A real opposition simply called for transfer of state funds from one account to another. It was a critical moment for the farm implement bill. If a vote had been taken, it might have been lost for it is not a popular measure in many

PINE CITY MINN. March. 15, 1907

If men and women were judged more by what they are and less by what they have the world would be the better for it.

Some parents do not visit the schools of their district any oftener than they do the circus, and some not quite so often.

A good thorough acquaintance with the children and other members of their household would reveal many surprises to most men.

The dude who would trifl with the affections of an honest girl should be whipped to death by the young women of the community.

The calendar says that spring is here and we are forced to believe it but it is pretty safe to keep close to a good coal fire and your winter underwear.

The parent who spends less time in attending to the moral, mental and religious training of his children than in gossip is the devil's best ally.

If the church is the moral thermometer of the community, some towns would not make a very good showing were it not for the ladies; God bless 'em.

John D. ROCKEFELLER says he has a surprise in store for the public—must be that he is going to give away one day's income without raising the price of oil.

"FAITH without works is dead." Don't spend all your time praying for social, moral and political reform, but go out and reform the community in which you live.

Some of the "freak" bills present ed in the different legislatures might be amusing were it not for the fact that the people's time and money are consumed in the consideration.

SUPPOSE that you shut yourself up in a room all by yourself and think over your conduct for the past six weeks. Should you be pleased to have the world know what you would see?

The man who never does anything never says anything and never thinks anything that he would be ashamed to have his wife and daughters know is leading pretty near the life he should lead and don't you forget it.

Seven entertainments at the school debate held in this village recently are not only educating in their nature so far as the children are concerned but the tend to give the presents some new ideas as to what is being accomplished in the schools. Like many of the athletic sports indulged in by the pupils of the schools these contests not only awaken a spirit of endeavor in the participant but the spirit permeates the whole school and has a good healthy effect.

The vote of the United States senate seating Reed Smoot is not a vote in favor of Mormonism or is it altogether a whitewash for Mr. Smoot but it means that the pro vision of the constitution separating church and state means just what it says. Mormonism is wrong as practiced in some of our western states and there is no question but that what Idaho and possibly other western states are controlled to a large extent by the Mormon church but that is no reason why we should deny a Mormon a seat in the United States Senate. Had Smoot been a pragmatist he would have been denied a seat in the Senate as sure as shooting but he was not. Mormonism is one of the great questions that this country has to meet within the next few years but until there is some law on the statute books disqualifying a man from holding office simply because he belongs to that organization, there is no justice or reason in expelling a man simply because his church is a powerful political organization as well as a social and religious factor. In the attitude of the Mormon church on political questions there is a lesson for the other churches. There are enough good, honest, earnest Christian men in this land of ours to control the elections of the officers of any state or congressional district, and it is because these letters will be sent to the dead letter office Mar. 23, 1907 if not delivered before. and a little energy.

We do not believe in sending high salaried men to your vicinity to sell pianos, but we are aware of the fact that we must offer some great inducements to people who live in outside towns, so as to place a few sample pianos. We want to place two pianos in every town in this state, and to do it quickly, we offer the above.

Great Sacrifice
This is a genuine offer

So as to prove that we can even afford to pay your railroad fare to Minneapolis and return, that is we will deduct your railroad fare from the $50.00. We will also pay the freight on the piano to your city. Write at once and obtain one of these sample pianos, which will come to your city. Remember only two pianos for any one town, at this remarkable offer. Address, Sales Dept., Seegerstrom Piano Co., Minneapolis.

SAINT PATRICK

A Bishop in Land Where He Had Been a Slave

It is said that no other people under heaven have so scattered to the four quarters of the globe as have the Irish. Wherever they have gone, there have taken root the seeds of the faith, the parades of the Emerald Isle, and upon the seventeenth of each recurring March have worn the shamrock and bit of green ribbon that tell their loyalty.

Saint Patrick was the greatest missionary. The next saint was Patrick, of whom a Protestant minister once said: "The Catholics cannot claim Patrick alone. He belonged to the church universal, and in any age, in any country, or under any circumstances, would have been a saint."

This is the story of this remarkable man.

While the Romans were masters of Britain (England) there was living near the Scottish border a Roman deputy or magistrate by the name of Calpurnius. His father was a centurion and a man of great wealth. A daughter and his wife Cochenus was said to have been a near relative of St. Martin of Tours. The son of these good people was named Sucat. He was sometimes called Patricius, i.e., patrician or descended from a prince. In time he converted the other, and became shortened into Patrick.

About A. D. 411 a band of Picts from Scotland raided the country just south of Severus' wall and captured a large number of men, among them Patrick, now a boy in his sixteenth year. They carried their captives sick with anxiety, but at last vowed to go when he at once began to mend. "I sold my nobility for this cause," he said. "I will never be a slave again." I am not ashamed, neither do I repent. I became a servant for Jesus Christ."

Now in those days Ireland had a high civilization. At the king's court of these had studied 12 long years before Patrick. He wore the white feather-trimmed robe of his order, or the colorless dress that it was lawful for none but the king or an Illinois fife master to wear.

Patrick saw clearly that, to convert the nation, he must first reach the learned men. His must be educated to do this. So for some years he buried himself at the school or church of Candida Casa, so called because Bishop Ninian had built it of beautiful white stone. This was in south Scotland, and North, nobleman, educated at home and what he learned converted the south. Pictos to Christianity, was one of the men best qualified to train ardent and enthusiastic Patrick for his life's work.

He was nearly, or quite, 30 when he reached Ireland. In which he would never leave. And after many years he was thrown into fetters. Nothing daunted, he preached on every hill and plain. He used to ring a hand bell to call the people together. This queer, four-square bell of Patrick's is still preserved at Belfast. It was long

THINGS WOMEN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT RULES OF BUSINESS

Promissory and Other Notes—Collecting Payments, Borrowing at the Bank, Etc.—System to Be Followed in Drawing Checks.

BY KATHERINE LOUISE SMITH, Contributor, New York Journal of Commerce

A promissory note is a written engagement by one person to pay another therein named, absolutely or conditionally, a certain sum of money at a time specified. This is the legal definition of a promissory note, but really the simplest form of written acknowledgement of a loan of money is a promissory note and as it is a species of paper one should always understand fully the conditions before signing it, as is well for a woman to know the exact meaning and the obligations involved.

It is an easy matter to sign one's name to such a paper, but the consequences of such an act involves a deduction from the value when paid off, unless the maker has given his acknowledgment of a loan of money.

Of course, the principal object seems to be to get a sum of money.

Send the note to a bank in the place where the maker resides and ask him to collect the money and forward it to you, and the amount received, less a small percentage for the collection. The note should be sent several days until it is due to give the bank time to notify the maker.

"Kindly explain to me in simple words the meaning of 'to order' on the back of a note,"—Interrogated Reader.

"If a note is drawn payable 'to order' you must sign your name on the back if you wish to transfer it. This is the same method used in writing checks. In signing your name on the back of a note you are liable for the full face of the note if you sell it and the maker fails to pay. Take, for instance, Sam, who borrows $100, giving security, not as you demand. You wish to transfer this note to Elizabeth Barton, so you write on the back: 'Pay to the order of Elizabeth Barton' and sign your name, Anna Gordon. When this note becomes due Sarah Slater does not pay it. You are then equally responsible for the amount. The way in which you can avoid this is, when signing to write 'without recourse' over your name on the back."

"Will you kindly explain simply as possible what is meant by 'Indorsement of a note?'"—A Dressmaker.

The indorsement of a note is any person who writes her name on the back and thereby guarantees its payment. Naturally, indorsements are not readily obtained, for it is not easy to borrow the credit of another. Note that the maker is usually held responsible for the amount of the note, such as 'without discount'; but as a general rule that fact is understood.

A bank is usually the best place to designate for the payment of a note and banks are provided for this purpose. The borrower may leave funds there and thus stop interest or protest, in case the note is beyond the date of payment. And the owner can deposit it for collection before it comes due, and the bank will notify the maker. In taking a note from a party who cannot sign her name, the person should be requested to make her mark. For example:

"Her
ELIZABETH (X) MORRISON.
Mark
'Witness to Marks'
JANE WENTWORTH."

In other words, Elizabeth Morrison has some one sign her name and she makes the mark. Jane Wentworth, who witnesses this proceeding, signs her name as witness. In some states two witnesses are required by law.

"I hold a man's note for $100. How shall I cash it? I need the money without understanding it?"—Mrs. L. M. Baker.

Write each time on the back, under the date the amount paid you and state if it is interest or a payment on the principal. This is called an indorsement of payment and should be made by the maker of the note.

When a crowd gathered, Patrick's want was to read his text in Latin, then to translate it into the Irish tongue. After this he preached a plain, earnest sermon, couched in language that all could understand. On one occasion while preaching in the open air, in the presence of the king, he perceived that the doctrine of the Trinity, the oneness of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, was not grasped by his hearers.

Sitting down, he plucked a leaf from a shamrock, and held it between his fingers. He showed that each of the three leaves was a perfect leaf in itself yet together they formed but a single leaf, a fit type of the Godhead. The illustration made a profound sensation, and to this day—

"When Eric's sons go marching down the street, and fall, one leans from the nail, with glowing cheeks to haul the nail up, and the other, while they love their native land, to run northward, they are a herd of swine, when a herd of swine, each St. Patrick's Day."

For five years Patrick preached the gospel with small success. Then King Leogaire McNeill and his court of sages became Christians. The common people followed them, so that the nation may be said to have changed its religion in a day. There must have been something stupendous about the man. The king heaped honors upon him; the pope made him a bishop, and the haughty Oimbabs, or court sages, submitted their rites and rules to him for revision.

There was nothing of the fanatic about Patrick. He prohibited the Druid mysteries, magic and incantations, but left everything else as it had been.

Patrick thought this dream a call to carry the gospel to the Irish, but his people besought him with tears and persuasions not to go. He grew the first sketch is of a morning gown of red cashmere. The waist sleeves and front breadth of the skirt are in one piece. The other breadth of the skirt are gathered to the belt under the head of heading and velvet. The buttoned openings at the side gave the needed space when the garment is put over the head.

The Japanese garment in the center of the picture is to take the place of the Chinese robe, when some added warmth is needed over a thin house gown. It is of rich yellow satin, hand embroidered in brown, green and rose, and on the side tides with a brown crocheted cord and tassels.

The second sketch is of a morning gown of blue China silk and lining of blue silk, trimmed with plaitings of blue China silk and loops of blue ribbon. The clusters of tucks at each side are arranged to show the blue stripes.

The third sketch is of a morning gown of pink and white China silk, embroidered with gold thread, the bodice of pink and white satin, and the bottom of the garment of pink and white velvet, embroidered with gold thread holding a band of the ecar cloth.

The baby's pajamas are of candy-striped red and white wash silk with red ribbon frogs.

Matrimonial Injuries.

Divorces are, happily, rare in society circles. Separation by mutual consent, however, grows more frequent every year. Every one has heard of the case of a husband and wife who never met if they could help it, but when both whom there has never been an open breach. Incapability of temper is the usual cause, and the reason for this is, one imagines, the still common custom of encouraging the young generation to marry before they have begun to appreciate years of discretion.—Long Don Throne.

"Can I borrow money at a bank when I need it?"—A Widow.

Some banks will lend on certain securities. Savings banks will loan for years on real estate security, but other banks make short loans of 60 to 90 days. These short-time notes are not good for you to cash, as the bank will not accept them.

A MID-WINTER VERDICT.

"Bright Sunshine All Winter" is What a Western Canada Lady Says.

G. J. Brinkley, Esq.,
Canadian Government Agent,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:
Being as well pleased with Canada we will send father and brother to come here, and we will send them reading matter on Canada.

We have been here nearly a year and are delighted with this country. We have lived in Illinois, Iowa, and Michigan and we find Canada away ahead of any of them. We have had light snow all winter, so it is only two nice, easy snow storms. It is not all right you know I would not want my father and brother to come here, but we think it is grand.

Yours truly,

STILE FOR BARB-WIRE FENCE.

Arrangement by Which Fence Can Be Crossed Without Tearing Clothes.

Everyone has experienced the nuisance of trying to cross a barbed-wire fence without tearing his clothes or scratching himself. The cut shows a safe way. Let one post be longer than the rest, and nail two cross-pieces to the end on the side of the fence, as shown. You can now step up on one side, over and down the other, with safety, says Farm Journal.

Two bits of board are nailed over the upper wires, as shown, to prevent the wires catching into one's clothes. If you must cross such a fence occasionally, try this plan.

POINTERS FOR THE FARMER.

It is not too early to start laying out the garden—on paper! Rural New Yorker.

We regard whole oats as a dangerous food for cattle. They often gather in the third stomach and make trouble.

Forage, do you? Just take the axe and go out into the woods and chop for a time. We have found it a good cure.

Save the money you spend without any good return and put it into some good farm tool or a good farm paper or magazine.

"Mulberries" is the title of bulletin No. 194 issued by the North Carolina experiment station, at Raleigh, N. C. Write there for a copy.

The New York department of Agriculture reports that 301 animals suffering with tuberculosis were killed last year. The compensation was $5,225, or about $17 per cow.

If the vegetable blight now showing put potatoes and a few elderly turnips or cabbage at this season, the men folks may be led to see the advantage of a good garden every time they eat their dinner—Rural New Yorker.

Alfalfa Cuttings.

The various cuttings of alfalfa differ somewhat in looks and value. The first is always the best, because the stems are will usually be rather coarse and there are some few weeds. We consider it valuable feed, but it has these two objections: The second cutting has smaller stems, no weeds and a very large proportion of leaves to stem. This is the kind we always try to sell. The third has stems which are thin and give the more attractive appearance than the first two, but, says Orange Judd Farmer, unless it has matured well before cutting, it is not as nutritious as the first two.

Exercise Farm Tools.

This is a good time to examine all the farm tools and to get any new parts that may be lacking. If you wait till you want the tools, you may have to make several extra trips to the shop or store before you can go to work. It is these extra trips that whittle the season away to no account.

Marking Bags.

How do you mark bags? We have a tin stencil plate that we like. But mother used to stitch father's initials on our grain sacks with stout yarn colored black or red, says a writer in Farm Journal. That worked well. The letters did not wash out nor the color run, as is the case sometimes when paint is used.

To Economize Space.

To economize space in the wagon house and elsewhere, Farm Journal suggests that bedding, straw, winter beds, sledges, ladders, etc., are often suspended overhead. Whenever this is the case, see to it that the fastenings are secure and strong enough for the load. Don't take any risks, since a human life may be the forfeit.

Cheap Sugar Bucket.

The price of a regulation sugar bucket, new, is 35 cents. I buy empty mince-meat buckets from my grocer for ten cents each, which, after a good rubbing, answer the purpose just as well. They are nice to keep meat or flour in, too.

Pear Vinegar.

The Texas experiment station has found out of 16 samples of vinegar tested only three that were legal. Surely any of this article is pure cider vinegar and fit to use.

VALUABLE FORMULA

WELL-KNOWN AUTHORITY CLAIMS IT IS MOST EFFECTIVE.

Says it Will Break Up a Cold in 24 Hours and Cure Any Cough That is Curable—Inexpensive.

A noted authority on diseases of the throat and lungs, who established a medical practice in the city of St. Paul, Woods of Maine, and whose remarkable cures there have attracted great attention from the medical world, says that his entire treatment consisted of fresh air, nourishing food and the Pure Virgin Oil of the White Pine Trees mixed with Whisky and Glycerine, in the following proportion:

Pure Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), 4 oz. Glycerine 2 " Good Whisky 6 "

Used in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

It is claimed that the pure mixture will easily disintegrate the mucus, break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost and can easily be mixed in your own home.

Inquiry at the prescription departments of leading local pharmacists elicited the information that Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case with engraved trapping and the name of the manufacturer (Puritan) guaranteed under the Food and Drug Act, June 30, 1906. Prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O.—plainly printed thereon.

Only the cheaper oils are sold in bulk, but these produce nausea, and never effect the desired results.

Never Overlooked a Chance.

When Bishop Talbot, now of the central Pennsylvania diocese, was "the cowboy bishop" of Idaho and Wyoming he never overlooked opportunities to make a contribution to the missionary work in which he took such delight. On one occasion, while attending a meeting of church dignitaries in St. Paul, he was chatting with some other clergymen on the steps of his hotel when several hooded men came along. One of them approached him and asked for alms. Bishop Talbot took him aside and after a short but earnest conversation the other tramps saw something pass from hand to hand. "What did he give you?" asked the other hooded man. "A dollar," was the disgusted reply. "I gave him a dollar for his blighted new cathedral in Laramie."

FEW KNOW THIS.

Gives Simple Home Prescription and Directions to Use.

A well-known specialist is authority that Kidney and Bladder Troubles of all kinds are in nearly every instance readily relieved by taking a few doses of the following simple home-made remedy:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargan, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sparassilla, three ounces.

The dose is a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. These ingredients can be obtained at good pharmacy and are mixed with water in a bottle. Victims of Kidney and Bladder and Urinary diseases of any kind should not hesitate to make this prescription up and try it. It comes highly recommended and doesn't cost much.

Surgeon Drivers Carry Candies.

In Mexico all vehicles, be they handcart, automobile, or anything between, must carry a light at night. This rule or law is rigidly enforced. Drivers of teams, or of poor little horse or mule carts, on their two wheels, must carry a light.

So, rather than buy lanterns, which cost money, they take a dip candle, and wrapping it in a bit of newspaper to shield it from the wind, carry it in front of them as they drive along homeward from work at evening has fallen. The effect is striking, as the light, falling strongly on the Indian driver, throws the face of the man into strong relief against the darkness.

Werth Knowing About.

If you need a first-class laxative, there is nothing better nor safer than that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pain-Relief Pill. It contains one grain of opium extracted from the poppy, and with other valuable vegetable products, make it a blood purifier of excellent character. If you are troubled with constipation, one pill at night will afford great relief.

Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic your grandparents used. They have been in use for over a century, and are for sale everywhere, either plain or sugar-coated.

Tone Up With Good Paint

It is good business to keep proprie- ties up-to-date.

A coat of Pure White Lead Paint not only makes things look better, and thus higher selling value, but it makes things wear better and gives them a higher value for long wear.

Pure White Lead gives an opaque, durable coat that protects and preserves from the ravages of time and weather.

Protective layers of Pure White Lead have heretofore been subject to much attempted fraud in adulteration and sub-stitution. You are now pro- tected by the new Pure White Paint mark which is found on the side of kgs containing only Pure White Lead, made by the Old Dutch Process.

Danger of a Cold and How to Avoid

Them

More fatalities have their origin in out cold than from any other cause. The fact alone should make people more careful as there is no danger whatever from a cold when it is properly treated in the beginning.
For many years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been recognized as the most prompt and effectual medicine in use for this disease. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by L. E.
Breckenridge.

THE CRAWFORD SHOE
FOR MEN $3.20 & $4.00

Thoroughness of construction, perfect comfort and fit, the very latest models, and the highest grade stock money and brains can procure are the important factors which have created the enormous demand for this famous shoe.

Pineapple for Consumption.

It has long been known by the natives of South America that the juice of the fruit of the ripe pineapple being of such antiseptic qualities, will thoroughly destroy the germs of catarrh, consumption and a grippe. A preparation known as Syrup of Pine apple Expectorant, prepared by Bea Brown & Co., contains these essential qualities. It is sold by L. E. Breckenridge for 50 cents.

eer only $1.50.

COAL!

IT'S the time of year to put in your supply for the chilly winter.

We are selling this coal—both hard and soft—and there is no better proof that we are giving our customers a square deal, the best coal of each kind and 2,000 pounds to the ton. We get our trade by honest effort and fair dealing—not by running down the goods of any competitor.

Give us your coal orders and get just the coal you want, the coal that will keep you warm at the least expense. We are always ready.
