A PROCLAMATION

Governor Johnson Designates Friday, April 26th as Arbor and Bird Day.

Governor John A. Johnson has issued the following Arbor and Bird Day proclamation:

"When, following the law and custom of our state, I hereby proclaim Friday, April 26th, as Arbor and Bird Day for 1907, private pleasure celebrates with official duty.

"The place and purpose of the tree in history, its dignity and worth, are they not set forth in the chronicles of christiandom that all the world may read, from its first mention in the first chapter of the first book to that last Revelation of the world unseen, where, in the midst of the street of life  was there the tree of life  and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations?"

"Throughout all time man has been the tree's sincere worshipper. In his boyhood he sought its green heights; in his youth he walked beneath its whispering branches; in his age he sat content in its sympathetic shade; after life's fitful fever, he slept well—at the foot of it. The influence of this lifelong companionship is deep lasting and visible.

"Quite apart from the indirect force in the pass as a factor of climate, we have daily testimony of its power to mould in the character of the Norseman austere, independent, strong as his native pine; the Briton, rugged, honest, outspreading as his mistle oak; the German, the forester and forest-lover that he is full of sentiment as his linden, musical as his fir, sturdy as his beeches. Out of a state peopled by such races, what may we not hope for? Surely, the righteousness of the forest will be rewarded; surely, the forest will make royal returns!

"Let the day of this proclamation be observed far and wide among us, in deed and in spirit, in school, home and mark. Let the highways be embellished; make crooked paths straight, rough places smooth. Let concentration of aim unite with concentration of effort toward making of Minnesota one vast landscape garden, where the workings of nature are conspicuously aided, not held in thrall by man, where song sparrow may sing in the hedgerows, while meadow lark and bobolink tell their sweetest from the topmost locusts, and none shall make them afraid."

LAURENCE POFERL DIES

Death Occurs at Two O'clock Thursday Morning After a Brief Illness—Funeral Services Saturday Morning.

After an illness lasting but a few days Laurence Poferl passed to the great beyond Thursday morning, April 11, 1907, at 2 o'clock. He had been suffering from a severe cold for several days but did not think seriously of his ailment until Sunday when he commenced doctoring. Monday afternoon his case took a turn for the worse and gradually sapped his strength and life. The direct cause of his death was a complication of diseases bordering on pneumonia.

Laurence Poferl was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Poferl and was born in Germany on the 10th day of August, 1875. He had spent practically all of his life here since coming to this town some 25 years ago. At one time he was a very promising young man and held several positions of trust. He was a pacer in the state senate during the days when Hon. L. H. McKusick represented this district, and later held a good position with the Great Northern Ry. Co. at St. Paul. He was justice of peace of this village for two terms.

About 7 years ago he was married to Miss Anna Slough, of Arlington, and a son, now 3 years old, was born to them. Besides his wife and child, a father and mother, one sister and three brothers survive his untimely demise.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from St. Mary's church with interment in Calvary cemetery. Rev. Fr. Koerner will read the Mass.

The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Just Like Most Men.

The Virginia Enterprise says, "A man will play billiards half the night and pay 25 cents a game and drink 15-cent whisky without expecting any part in the management of the saloon. But if he pays $2 per year for a newspaper—or even if he gets it on the deadhead list—he thinks he ought to have something to say as to its policy."

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the friends, neighbors and members of the Pine City M. E. church for their kindness toward us during our sad loss in the death of our daughter, Lydia.

We take this method of thanking our friends for their kindness in contributing toward the fund for the purchase of a span of horses to replace those which were drowned in Kettle River. J. M. MACADAM.

Corrects Statement.

Conter, Sacquette, Rep. H. P. Weto was home Sunday and while here said that he wished to correct the statement made by one or two of the city papers that he voted in favor of the Continental bill as it was an error. Mr. Weto stood with the other legislators from this district and voted against the proposed bill.

DIES SUDDENLY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wickland, of Pokenama, Succumbs to Hemorrhage of the Lungs.

Lydia, the 12 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wickland, died at her home in Pokenama town Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. She had been suffering from whooping cough and during a fit of coughing she broke a blood vessel and died of hemorrhage of the lungs before a doctor could reach the home.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. J. Parish officiating, and interment took place in Birchwood cemetery.

The Noble Outcast.

At this late hour it is impossible to give any detailed comments concerning the play given by the high school stars at Stekl's hall last evening. The musical numbers were rendered by Miss Bessie Lambert and Arthur Olsen with Miss Kate Barnum at the piano.

This was the last of a series of entertainments which have been given during this season for the benefit of the high school library. The cast of characters presented in the play last evening was as follows:

JIM BLACKBURN, JOHN HUNT

GRAND JURY MEETS

Judge W. C. Williston Presides at April Term Which Convened Thursday—Several Indictments Returned.

The grand jury for the spring term of the district court has met, deliberated, acted and adjourned, and the petit jury will meet next week to take its part in the proceedings. Judge W. C. Williston, of Red Wing, presided over the deliberations of the court, and instructed the jurors as to their duties. After the body had been formally organized Douglas Greenley was selected as the foreman and then proceeded to consider the different matters brought to its attention.

The Grand Jury returned two indictments, viz. The State of Minnesota vs. M. S. Watt and the state vs. Jac. O'Neal. The former is accused of selling a team of mortgaged horses, and the latter, it is alleged, made a criminal assault at Sandstone. Their cases will be presented for trial next week.

In the case of the State vs. Peter Jones, the jury could not find evidence to sustain the allegation that the accused had committed arson and he was ordered released. Jones was accused of having set fire to a house and a barn at West Rock.

Alonso T. Spicer went before the court and plead guilty to the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon and was sentenced to one year in state's prison. It is alleged that Spicer threatened to shoot his wife, threatened to commit suicide, and also resisted an officer. His home is at Flaylayson, and it is claimed that on the 3rd of this month he became intoxicated and was taken home by the marshal, Henry Lyons, a number of times, each time returning for a fresh start. He finally went to his home and began tearing up things generally; it is said, and securing a revolver, threatened the life of his wife. After that threat he is said to have pointed the gun to his own head when the officer attracted by the fracas appeared upon the scene. Spicer at once turned the weapon toward the officer and warned him to keep away, but in some way he was unarmed and placed under arrest.

Among the cases in the civil calendar the following have been set to be heard on the 16th inst.

E. M. Barre vs. Northern Assurance Co., L. H. McKusick and Thos. McDermott for plaintiff, M. H. Boutelle and N. H. Chase for defendant. Lavinia Richardson vs. W. G. Davidson, L. H. McKusick for plaintiff, Schmidt & Newman for defendant. Gustave Luedke vs. Kettle River Quarries Co., W. E. Dodge, McElwee & Hallehan for plaintiff, E. C. Kennedy and H. Bailey for defendant.

For the 18th the following have been set: John F. Fitzpatrick vs. P. W. McAllen, John F. Fitzpatrick for plaintiff, M. B. Hurley for defendant; John T. Craig vs. W. C. Warren, M. B. Hurley and L. H. McKusick for plaintiff, Philip Nesel vs. Wm. Greenlee, L. H. McKusick for plaintiff and P. H. Stolberg for defendant.

The case of Wm. H. Barnick vs. John Mickles et al., with Samuel C. Scott as attorney, has been set for the 19th inst.

There was a total of 24 civil cases on the calendar but quite a number were determined or disposed of.

A Farewell Party

After the regular meeting of the Degree of Honor lodge last Saturday evening a farewell party was tendered Mrs. A. H. Rice, who will leave on Monday for Thier River Falls. She has been a faithful member of the Order for a number of years and held the office of Chief of Honor for a couple of terms. The evening was spent in a social way and a splendid luncheon was served. The honored guest was the recipient of a beautiful gold bowled berry spoon, which will serve as a souvenir and as a reminder of the high esteem in which she was held by the donors.

We Don't Keep Paint, —We Sell it.

Paint is physical insurance. It prevents decay. Property that isn't painted soon runs down, the wood decays and its value is lost. The wise man uses paint and keeps the wood pores closed and his property increases in value.

There is nothing that makes a house look well kept as does the use of good paint. It is economy to paint if you use the right kind, but as it costs as much for labor to put on poor paint as it does to put on good paint, you should investigate the paint you buy and know that it is pure, honest paint. You won't have any trouble if you use FORD & COMPANY'S PAINT, for that is 100 PER CENT PURE, and won't fade, peel or chink off.

It is made of pure white lead, pure oxide of zinc, pure turpentine dryer and pure Old Process linseed oil. The lead covers the surface, fills the pores, and zinc hardens the combination, makes the paint stay on and holds the color fast. The linseed oil is a preservative of the wood, while the turpentine dryer takes out the moisture and leaves a hard, glossy surface that the sun, rain or snow does not affect any more than it does glass.

Let us tell you more about this pure paint before you buy.

Holding our own!

Well, we should smile.

Any time we can't "hold our own" in the matter of Price and Quality on Lumber and Building Material it will be a cold day. We want to sell every bill and every foot of lumber used in this community, and if the right stock and right prices will do it, we will. The envious and foolish man grows lean at the success of his wise neighbor who buys his lumber from us and saves money.

NO DEFENSE MADE AT PUERTO CORTES

HONDURAN TROOPS LEFT, HAVING DECIDED THAT THE WAR WAS OVER.

Marines Protest Ceiba—Commander Fullan Acts Promptly to Preserve Order—He Forbade Bombardments of Coast Towns.

New Orleans, April 9.—That Puerto Cortes was surrendered without fighting and that about 1,500 Honduran soldiers abandoned the port two days before the Nicaraguan troops appeared, was the information brought here by a steamer from Puerto Cortes.

The Hondurans did not desert their post through cowardice, according to these dispatches, but decided that the war was over. They returned to the banana plantations where most of them had been employed as laborers before the war began.

United States Marines Keep Order. United States Marines closed all saloons in Ceiba after the abandonment of the port by the Hondurans. The following proclamation was issued by Commander Fullan of the Marietta and Virgil C. Reynolds, United States vessels:

"To the people of Ceiba. The general of the Honduran army having left Ceiba, the civil authorities will assume charge of the city government. All liquor saloons will be immediately closed and will remain so. Saloons in the United States and Marietta will patrol the streets and assist the civil authorities to preserve order and protect property, foreign and domestic. No arms are to be carried or friends of Honduras. Persons are warned that there must be no disorder or violation of the laws of Honduras and all are advised to report to the authorities for the present. In case Nicaraguan forces concentrate at Ceiba, they will not interfere with law-abiding people and there need be no alarm raised."

Fullan Steps Bombardments. Puerto Cortes, Honduras, April 4, via New Orleans, April 9.—An authoritative statement of great moment in the history of the United States and Central American republics has been given here. It is to the effect that bombardments of coast towns cannot be permitted during the frequent wars and revolutions in Central American states.

The statement is by Commander Fullan of the United States subunit Marietta and is part of a letter to Gen. Juan J. Estrada, general commanding the Nicaraguan expedition engaged in capturing Honduran ports.

Commander Fullan notified Gen. Quirós, commanding the Honduran forces near Ceiba, that it would be necessary to defend the town from a position outside the city.

Havana, April 9.—Secretary of War Taft met the conservatives Monday afternoon and discussed the insular situation. He said that owing to economic conditions he considered a national election at an early date to be unwise, and recommended that such a matter be postponed until the result of the municipal and provincial elections be known.

The conservative representatives expressed willingness to leave all to the good judgment of the United States. Secretary Taft probably will meet the conservatives again on Wednesday.

After this interview representatives of all the leading banks of Cuba called upon Mr. Taft and asked him to give them one or two years' notice before the holding of national elections, assuring that unless this were done the effect upon commercial conditions in the island would be disastrous.

MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE

St. Paul, April 4.—The house today passed the bill to reduce the salary of the governor from $5,000 to $7,000 a year. This is a large necessary majority of one vote—40 in its favor, and 51 opposed. There were some interesting explanations of votes.

The bill came to the senate committee of the whole with its original provisions. The bill was approved by the senate by the yeas and nays, 20 in its favor, and 17 opposed.

The senate today devoted most of the time to two measures also. One was the bill by Senator James Johnston of Bertha, to compel railroads to run livestock trains at a speed of 15 miles an hour, with an allowance of 10 minutes for each stopping or feeding or transfer point. The bill was opposed by Senators Darment and Works, not on the ground that they did not approve of the measure, but that they did not believe it would be possible for the roads to maintain a minimum speed of 15 miles an hour.

The senate also passed the bill by Senator James Johnston of Bertha, to compel railroads to run livestock trains at a speed of 15 miles an hour, with an allowance of 10 minutes for each stopping or feeding or transfer point. St. Paul, April 6.—A man of Brainerd won against the finance commission late today and a commendable bill was the senate committee of the whole to establish another liability to be located at.

The bill came to the senate committee of the whole with its original provisions. The bill was approved by the senate by the yeas and nays, 20 in its favor, and 17 opposed.

The senate today devoted most of the time to two measures also. One was the bill by Senator James Johnston of Bertha, to compel railroads to run livestock trains at a speed of 15 miles an hour, with an allowance of 10 minutes for each stopping or feeding or transfer point. COUNTY PIONEER.

GOTTRY, Editor and Prop.

In the Post Office at Pine City as Second Class Matter.

PINE CITY, MINN., April 12, 1907.

Some way some people apply the golden rule naturally leads us to believe that their rule is not more than a "gold filled" at best.

The Chicago judge who said that the three best words in the English language were, "mother home and heaven," certainly knew what he was talking about, but then there are different kinds of mothers, different kinds of homes, but only one heaven.

It is said that the American populace eats half the weight of each individual in sugar each year. That may be so, and yet there are a great many people who go around looking as though they had eaten twice their weight of wormwood, and then saturated themselves with vinegar.

It may be that the mere fact that a man has entered public life and is holding a public office gives the public press a license to libel him all it pleases but we think not. Some of the jaundiced articles appearing in the public press about some of our public men are disgraceful. The papers of the Hearst stripe should be sat down upon so hard that they would never forget the lesson taught them by an outraged sense of common decency.

A LITTLE booklet entitled "Great Opportunities in Minnesota" has just been issued from the state auditor's office. It is full of information pertaining to the sale of state lands which will be held during June and July. In it are descriptions of the different counties where land sales will be held, and the booklet is replete with half-tone pictures. The sale in Pine county will take place in Pine City on Wednesday, July 31, commencing at 1 o'clock, when 10,000 acres of state lands will be sold at public auction.

The defeat of Mayor Dunne in the Chicago municipal election last week was due largely to the fact that the people were disgusted with his talk of Municipal Ownership. This municipal ownership idea, like government ownership, is one of the false "break" politicians who throw out the glittering promises of "reform" for the purpose of gathering in votes for himself. There are hopeful signs which indicate that the people are recovering from their hysteria and are getting down to sober second thought along many lines, and the municipal ownership fad is one of these.

Our pessimistic friends who are perpetually living under the shadow of an impending financial panic should take heed. A high official in the treasury department says he is convinced that with the treasury's supply of gold mounting up at the rate of a billion dollars every ten years, the United States has little to fear from "hard times" or indol-trial collapse. The increasing production of gold is calculated to inflate prices, and with prices rising, rising industry is stimulated. "We may have occasional furies in the speculative market," he says, "and the industrial brakes occasionally will have to be put on, but this nation has become the golden grave among the nations." We don't know just what is meant by the "golden grave" and think the words "treasure-house" would have been a happier expression, but without standing on terms employed, we are willing to take the facts as they appear and make the most of them. So let's get out of this nation of looking on the gloomy side of things, anyway.

Two friends of Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, who are having so much to say about the bill he introduced into the senate to exempt from sale all coal, oil and asphalt lands should not overlook the fact a similar bill was introduced by Senator Wilson, of this state, three weeks before the Wisconsin man thought of it. The only difference is that the Minnesota member introduced his bill as part of his senatorial duties as he understood them, and then said nothing to the press about it, while the Wisconsin man sought to make a "grand stand play" out of his bill. This shows the difference between a statesman and a demagogue.

DURING the past week Minnesota has lost one of its greatest pioneer journalists in the death of Harlan P. Hall, which occurred at St. Paul Tuesday afternoon. He had a long and honorable career, was identified with all of the early public efforts in St. Paul and the state at large, and founded both the Globe and Dispatch at St. Paul. He was born in 1838 and at the age of 8 years learned to set type on his father's newspaper. The state senate in paying a memorial tribute, eulogizes him and among other things, says: "The story of his life is a lesson of unselfish devotion to the public good, with little thought of self advancement or self interest. He was a pleasant comrade, an unselfish friend, a patriotic citizen and an honorable man."

The discussion of railroad rates has brought out emphatically the practical common-sense methods adopted by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission. After going over the railroad business carefully it decided that the four great roads of the state could stand a cut of one half cent per mile or a 2½ cent rate. This the commission ordered and immediately all the other roads of the state met the cut. The commission also recommended that a 500 mile book be placed on the market good for use by the purchaser and any member of his family at the rate of $10.00 or a two-cent rate. For a month now these books have been on the market and the number of sales indicate that their popularity was so great that the roads will practically lose nothing by the cut in their rates. There is no reason why a similar law in Minnesota would not bring about all of the reform in the matter of railroad legislation that is needed. The man of ordinary means can afford the $10.00 ticket and it is good for any member of his family. Of course it may be said that there are those who do not have a family, and that the mileage book scheme is a discrimination against the single man. But come to think of it the man who doesn't support a family hardly needs the protection of the legislature. The bachelor (male or female) should be taught that they are not the special objects of protective legislation.

THERE should be food for reflection in the words of Judge John R. Newcomer, who recently said: "Of 9,000 criminal cases in which I was interested as prosecuting attorney—seventy per cent of them were boys and young men—I could count on my fingers the boys who came from Christian families and were members of Sunday schools." It may be considered quite "smart" for some people to criticize the Christian home and the Sunday school boy, but the man who is brought in contact with the "soamy side" of life soon learns to appreciate the value of christian training either in the home or the Sunday school. If more money was spent in bringing the boys of the land under proper influences during the formative period of their lives, the world would be the better for it.

A RECENT writer says that the United States is full of such men as Stanford White and that the girls of the Evelyn Nesbit type are far too numerous. He goes on to say that mothers who permit their daughters to attend cheap theatres and attend public dances at the ages of from sixteen to eighteen are but opening the door for the flood of vice that comes as the result of a life of vice. While some of the statements of the writer were probably overdrawn, the man had sufficient experience with criminal classes to make him an authority of more than average authority and reliability. If mothers were more careful in selecting the surroundings for their girls and boys there would be less trouble in families, as the children grow up, and fewer old people going down to their graves in tears.

Congratulations. "Cards have been received announcing the marriage of Miss Anna M. Peterson and Mr. Carl Sommer, which took place at the bride's home at Bloomington Prairie, March 27. Mr. and Mrs. Sommer will be at home at 1315, 5th Ave. S., Minneapolis, and Rush City friends will wish them all their share of happiness." Mr. Sommer has a number of friends in Pine City who second the Post's well wishes.

Which CREAM SEPARATOR is Cheapest?

Several catalogue houses are offering "just as good" cream separators for sale at a lower price than the U. S. Cream Separator sells for. But before the unfortunate purchaser of one of these "small order" separators gets through paying the repair bills he finds that first cost isn't the only difference. The "cheap" separators soon get out of fix because they are built of cheap material, and loosely put together. The cost of repairs alone in the first year or two would pay the difference in price between one of them and a U. S. two would pay the difference in price between one of them and a U. S. but more important still they do not skim clean, they waste cream at every skimming.

U. S. CREAM SEPARATORS

have stood the test of time. Many of them have been in use for 10 years or more, and have cost their owners next to nothing for repairs. They are easy running, skim cleaner than any others, have a simple easy-to-wash bowl; enclosed, safety gearing and a convenient, low milk tank. See a U. S. Separator for yourself—that's the best way.

The following progressive farmers have bought U. S. Separators, and are using them to-day. Ask any of them how they work.

The Ashes of Love

By D. E. Johnson

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Shall I read another?" he asked, turning the pages of the rare little volume of prose poems.

"Yes, please do," she answered in her soft voice, half coaxing, half commanding.

Suddenly he paused in his fingering. "Here is one named 'The Ashes of Love'."

He settled back and began to read. "It was noon time and all the land was warm with the kindly sun and sweet with the fragrant flowers. The man and the woman passed to feel the pulse of life. They had come to the end of the road."

"Let us tarry here a while, love," he whispered, the fire of his soul gleaming through his eyes.

"No, dear, I cannot stay. I have come to the end of my path and I must go back." Idly she plucked a red rose that brushed the border of her mantle.

"Darling, come with me!" he cried, and drew her to him, covering her mouth with flaming kisses. "I cannot stay, I cannot stay, I cannot stay," she sobbed, and her lips trembled and her voice broke in a sob.

"The man sat still a long time, tense with the frenzy of his emotions. The sea was slowly, I shall go, he said, but the fire of my love shall never die." She put the red rose into his hand and left him standing there long, as if dazed, at the edge of the wood.

"Time passed and the woman's heart began to ache. It was hunger that made it ache and not love. For the pain grew more intense. The only relief she found was to go to the end of the road by the edge of the wood and look across the long, straight road, as if she could remain no longer, so she set out in search of her love whom she had sent away. She journeyed a long time, over roads and through dark woods, and after many days came upon a deserted beach. Being tired and foot-sore she entered it to rest. But when she emptied and bare, save for a crudely built hearth, on which was a heap of dead ashes. In the baked clay above was scrawled 'The fire of my love' and the woman looked again. There was a dead rose half hidden in the ashes."

The reading came to an end, but with the book still open before him, the reader looked absently into space. Presently he drew out a pencil and wrote something in the margin.

"The girl, too, had been in thought, but broke the silence by saying with a touch of bitterness in her voice. "How like a man's love to burn and send, then die. I have always believed it to be a thing of madness and pain."

"Pauline!" the man cried fiercely, between set teeth. "You speak like a child that has not yet known the first faint awakening of love. He has been leaning forward to look her in the eyes, but now he sank back slowly, an expression of ineffable sadness coming over his face. "But then, how do you know, if you have never felt its relentless call if you have never known its infinite measure?"

He paused a moment. She was quite still, the stillness of love in the presence of power. "When I came here to-night, I came with the burden of my love filling my heart—my love for you. I was contented with the fire of it, mad with the joy of it, and transfigured with the glory of it. But now more words would be on my lips. They say love kills, but they are wrong; for then, surely, my love would have burned into your soul."

"The girl looked tensely at the floor. "Perhaps I cannot, she said simply. 'I care for you, I know—yes, more than anyone else. But I do not love you. I can feel nothing of the passion you have put into me.'"

"The man arose. "No, that is true. I shall carry away no illusions. You were kind, very kind. Some day, I hope, you may find a measure of that infinite life of life."

James Farnsworth and Pauline Cotton shook hands and parted, nor did they meet again before the latter sailed for Europe.

In the meantime Farnsworth passed through a stormy period of self-discipline that went toward the development of the muscle of character, albeit at the expense of that transcending quality, idealism. His was not a sufficiently practical nature to accept a situation as one of the inevitable decrees of fate and adjudge itself accordingly. On the contrary, up to this time he had never really taken serious account of fact but had dwelt in the rarefied atmosphere of theory. And now the order of his existence had been reversed. He was brought to earth with a jolt.

To the troubled spirit there is one avenue of escape—work—and this Farnsworth seized with avidity and in it found sanctuary. From the literary dilettanteism he had served the discipline he now gave himself to really serious work. He was writing a play begun with no other object than to occupy his hands, and which was destined ere long to absorb his entire being. It is often just such an occurrence—the sudden upheaval of a chestnut idea that raises a victim like the phoenix bird out of the ashes of sorrow to soar far away into the unexplored regions of highest achievement. But the plumes that carry him in the flight upwards are work, relentless untiring work.

JUST HINTS OF ALL SORTS

Information of Fashion's Fancies Gleaned from Those Who Know the Art of Dress.

The stiff embroidered linen collar so odily worn with all sorts of dress toilettes is now being relegated to its natural place on the blouse. For the dressy occasions there are newer ones in fashionable favor of soft material edged with high extra deep of fine tucks and lace with falling lace and exquisitely fine embroidered ribbons. For swaggy morning wear is the black silk stock—some are even wearing it with lingerie blouses as we have been the linen collar. This also is finished with a white lace or a tiny black silk bow. It's awfully knowing looking.

A band of three-inch wide black velvet ribbon makes a charming neck finish. It is passed through several narrow gold, pearl-bar and two to keep it well in place, and then tied in a small bow in front.

Amber for the hair is the latest thing. All sorts of lovely shades in knobs and balls are available in excellent imitation. If the real is better one's purse; and for the first time the imitation is shown in truly exquisite carved combs built high after the Spanish ones. Curving, wonderful convolutions, and piercings, after this Spanish pattern, are chic.

One of the most expensive items of our toilettes is the acquiring of the small and smart accessories. Just now, for instance, we are all on the lookout for something new in the way of belts. I've found it! A very wide supple one of white silk braided, the mesh loosely woven and unlined, and fastened by a strip of open mesh of the same material, through which is run a strip of white kid. Long clasps of white kid are at the back, and two slides, quite ornate and touched by gold, and a long wide clasp is at the front. It's awfully nice with white blouses.

Little collar sets to be worn with the now tailored blouse—mean shirt—are being exploited. They are ever so pretty! For those linen collars that are placed in front with two eye-lets, there is a pair of links consisting of two jeweled balls connected with tiny chains with cut links to match. All the semi-precious stones, such as amethyst and coral, are used, the colorings to match the costume.

Tortoise shell has quite ousted silver from the toilet table. Of course it is frightfully expensive, but by bit. Gold begins to collect a bit, but tortoise being quite out of the question, except for a few, and silver having become natural to its own price. It won't be long, no doubt, before it has not been for toilet articles, so that it has an air of taste and refinement that is most desirable. It so well speaks its intrinsic worth that it hardly needs a gold or silver mount, but most of those that I have seen have had one. It was rather gliding the lily. Tiny jewels set in platinum are also seen on these shell necklaces, which, of course, add to their price, and enhance their beauty. Up to date, all the necessary pieces have not been made, but the largest pieces like brushes, mirrors, combs, boxes, etc., are ready.

It may sound like a trifle to say that soap and water will clean anything. But, I mean, that one may dare to use on the most delicate fabric with reckless confidence. A very elaborate crepe de chine blouse covered with Chinese embroidery was cleaned so thoroughly before it could be worn again, so it was felt that it should be tried on a hot radiator. It looked as fresh as possible. I should hesitate to immerse such a bodice entirely in water, but this method, I gladly recommend.

CARE OF THE SICK ROOM.

Above All Things the Walls Should Be Kept Dry.

When the bedroom becomes a sick room there is an added reason why extreme precautions should be taken to keep the room in a thoroughly sanitary condition.

Above all things, the bedroom should never be damp. It should be nice and dry, always warm and comfortable in winter, cool and airy in summer, and bright and sunny some parts of the day.

If there is any suspicion of dampness in a bedroom it is probably due, if there is wallpaper on the walls, to the absorption of water by the paper which frequently acts as a blotting paper and holds quantities of water in it. The use of wallpaper on walls is to be deplored; it means disease, ill health and unhappiness. It is frequently the cause of lung trouble, not only because of its dampness but also because of its power to retain infection of many kinds.

The desired method of treating a bedroom wall is to treat it for the plastering wall is a perfect wall. It never flakes off, chips or peels. It absorbs moisture and expels it. It opens the pores of the plaster and makes a room livable and breathable.

The floor in the bedroom should have light, cleanable, dainty rugs that can be easily shaken and a floor that is thoroughly tiled or varnished, that will not absorb moisture. The cracks in the floor should be thoroughly filled and covered. Woodwork in the bedroom should be treated to carefully, window sills should be thoroughly varnished or waxed, and the window casings kept in perfect order. The doors should be wiped off frequently as also should be all the standing woodwork in the bedroom, as the presence of dust on woodwork is a menace to health as an evidence of poor housekeeping.

WOMEN IN NEW FIELDS.

British Smart Society Takes to "Hopping"—Woman Veterinary.

Work in the hop fields is the latest "rest cure" fad for London's smart set, and the luxurious society "hoppers" claim that a week's hopping is far better and more pleasant than a rest at any well-known health resort.

The tents of these well-to-do pickers are extensively furnished, and camp chairs, soft beds and up-to-date camping outfits are among their hopping apparatus.

In fact there is a woman veterinary surgeon who is an official inspector of animals. She rides through the streets on the lookout for animals suffering from any disability, and before reporting to the authorities for work, she examines its infirm and whenever possible applies remedies to alleviate its pain. She carries a leather case filled with bandages and other surgical appliances.

TIED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and nervous troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved from you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Mo., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, and almost continuous in the loins and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."

Disliked the Word "Death." "Decease" is now a regular form of word for death. But it began as a general synonym for "decease" (the departure of the soul), and it is not so harsh to the Romans than "mors." All languages abound in euphemisms of the kind, which go back to a superstitious reluctance to mention death plainly, that gradually passed into a kindly desire to soften the idea. "Passed away," "departed," "gone," "expired" (breathe out), "no more," "demise," and even "the late" are expressions of this nature. Most striking of all is the Roman euphemism for "he is dead"—"twit," which has lived.

Could Not Afford Title.

Many of the German emperors press the title of prince upon Herr Von Bulow before the latter would accept. The statesman wanted the title, but could not afford to live up to it. Of this the Kaiser knew nothing, of course. At length, about 15 months ago, a relative of Von Bulow died, leaving him $1,000,000. A few days later he showed the Kaiser a legal notification of his good fortune. The monarch granted, "So that was the reason—my prince he said, he had been living on the title. 'Why did you not say so before?'"

EMBROIDERED HINTS

Happy the girl who did not listen to voices that whispered of the short life in store for English eyelid embroidery, but who perfected herself in this most effective branch of needlework. Instead of being behind in the procession, the eyelid work is more popular this season than it was last, and it is appearing in fabrics of every possible weight. The bit of embroidery gives distinction to a blouse, and the rapid needlewoman can outline her sister who can afford imported frocks if she will bend her energies at once on the embroidering of summer rainfall.

Quite as important as embroidery this season is the ability to insert lace. Some of the smartest summer trappings show lace insets or medallions in front, back, German and French necklines, and on the bodice, set into machine embroidery such as muslin or Swiss.

Prudent Women Are Now Planning Summer Outfits

It is becoming more and more the custom to arrange for the summer outfit far in advance. After all, it is but a return to the old days when the prudent housewife planned the family wardrobe months ahead, employed the family seamstress and settled down to handwork. The dressmaker, the friend of the family, is now rarely known, but there is no end of dressmakers and seamstresses who work by the day and who at the present moment are absorbed in making the simple gowns of muslin and wash materials that are included in every outfit.

All white costumes are always smart, but this year the striped ones are the fad. White with a hair line of black or collar and cuffs, is a favorite pattern, and there is an endless variety in the width of the stripes, or lighter shade is far smarter than the shadow check or plaid of last year, and the colors are most charming.

Circular Veil for Picture Hat the Newest Thing

Truly the fashionable woman's veil gives her as much concern these days as any of the more important articles of her wardrobe. No longer will she piece of druseel net, malines or other fancy material do, purchased by the yard and tied over her face. Her veil must be made and nearly always the veil must be made in all cases is an expensive luxury. The circular veil for the large picture hat is the newest thing. It is fashioned somewhat like the old tara frames, that adorned skirts a few years ago and has its center cut out so as to fit better around the crown of the chapeau. Where the opening is thus formed

Prudent Women Are Now Planning Summer Outfits

There are not many long coats this season; the shorter length in the fitted cutaway design with rounded fronts is a favorable model, while the much shorter half-fitting poncho coat is also a favorite.

White serge costumes are always effective, and this spring will be more elaborate than usual, for they are being handled, often two kinds, this trimming being used; the jackets are almost invariably short, the longest hip length, and while apparently loose fitting, the distinction of the cut is sharply. White linen and all wash materials are made with the short coats also, and these last are extremely fanciful in effect, the plain linen and the embroidered also being made on the same lines. It is rather a fad just now to have a plain linen skirt, waist and jacket, the only decoration being on the jacket, a narrow fanciful banding on the lapels and the lower part of the sleeves. The different varieties of braid afford an excellent effect, a pretty and attractive fancy elects, but the braided revers are charming, and they are not difficult or tedious, nor do they require any special cleverness.

There is usually a casing or else a narrow lace banding of the same color as the veil, through which baby ribbon of the same shade is run to its depth in the back. The bottom of the veil is edged with a narrow plisse of lace or a band of two velvet of the same color as the veil. Any clever woman with a yard and a half of this veil or lace can easily make one of these veils herself at a fraction of the cost of the ready made variety. The material should be folded in the middle and then folded in sections so as to simplify the process of cutting out the circle of the outer edge and the smaller one which fits around the crown. There are a few things to be noted: It depends upon the size of the brim of the picture hat with which it is to be worn. This should be measured, and sufficient material allowed to enable the veil to fall below the brim.

Danger in White Lead.

At a recent meeting of the senate in Paris Prof. Drouot, commissaire du gouvernement, recommended the prohibition of white lead as an ingredient of paint, and concluded his remarks by saying that to permit the use of white lead in painting the interior of houses was the same thing as knowingly to expose painters to the risk of being poisoned, although the painter is not a member of the profession of humanity gave them a right to protect themselves.

A Merry Suggestion.

"Do you think that government ownership of railways will ever come to pass?" "That has!" said the man who decried laws a pun; "in my opinion the pass will be the principal feature of it."—Washington Star.

Sheep Raising in Australia.

The greatest industry of Australia is sheep raising, not only for the sake of the wool, but also in part, of course, for the meat. Australia now ranks second among the great sheep-raising countries. Argentina being first with 92,000,000 sheep, Australia second with 72,000,000, and Russia third with 72,000,000. Only a few years ago Australia was first, possessing no less than 105,000,000 head of sheep. That was in 1891. Prolonged droughts were the cause of the destruction of many millions of Australian sheep, but since 1902 there has been an annual gain. Yet these sheep were not indigenous to Australia. They were first introduced in 1797, being of the Spanish merino species.

STUMBLING HORSES.

Why They Acquire the Habit and How to Cure Them.

Some horses are naturally addicted to stumbling, others acquire the fault, and still others have the stumbling habit thrust upon them, says an exchange. In the first, it is almost incurable, but the second and third causes can be remedied by the driver or driver. If the ground is rough or uneven, horses with a low action are prone to stumble. Other horses which are naturally slipshod, generally stumble because they do not lift their feet high enough from the ground. Laziness is another cause for stumbling, and horses that are heavy in front, or whose fore legs are weak or unsound have the same fault. Very often carelessness on the part of the driver causes horses to stumble. This makes it necessary always to broken legs, by being caught between a horse which he was riding and a timber wagon which he was attempting to pass over.

GRIT SAVED HIS LEG.

Ranchman Rede Far After Most Serious Injury.

Jack Farland, a ranchman living at the base of Pike's Peak, and whose post office is Midland, in this county, was severely injured by a broken leg, by being caught between a horse which he was riding and a timber wagon which he was attempting to pass over.

GROWING GOOD BEEF.

It is Possible for the Small Farm to Produce It.

It is possible to produce good beef on small farm, and much of the beef of the future will be thus produced. The demand for beef will never be less than it is at the present time, but the great ranges on which the beef of the past has been produced must grow smaller as the land is brought under irrigation.

Peers' Queer Privilege.

Two British peers, Lord Forester and Lord Kinsale, enjoy the curious privilege of being allowed to wear their hats in the presence of their sovereign. This quaint right, granted centuries ago, is only exercised on rare and entirely formal occasions.

FIND OUT

The Kind of Food That Will Keep You Well.

The true way to find out what is best to eat and drink, and then cultivate a taste for those things instead of poisoning ourselves with improper, indigestible food, etc.

Reset the Shoes.

Don't let the shoes stay too long on the work horses. It is not hard in the winter time to keep shoes on horses for three or four months, but if allowed to stay on for more than four or five weeks the shoe is likely to contract the foot and make trouble. So we would advise having them reset at least once a month or twice in three months.

Trim the Hoof.

Take a chisel and good block of wood and cut the long crown out too of the hoof. After going through the winter without attention the feet are likely to be in bad condition in the spring time, and when the col starts running over rough ground he is likely to stumble and break into the quick or twist a pastern.

PROPER MANNER OF READING.

Writer Sees Much Harm in Multiplicity of Books.

It seems to me that with the multiplication of books we are losing all sense of literature. Shakespeare, a White Horse, might write a man truly wise if he seeds of wisdom were in him. I do not know even a wise man whose instinct for wisdom would not be dazzled by the presentation of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Books should be taken in doses no bigger than music or pictures; they are even better to digest. There is more drunkenness in a book than in all the vineyards of France. A book may make a man's soul. Books should be treated with reverence or cast out as dirt. They are in danger of passing out of the service of the temple into the "parcel delivery" of the grocer.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

The New York Medical Journal wisely remarks: "The colon bacillus is usually ranked in the saprophytic group of bacteria rather than placed among the organisms distinctly pathogenic for man; but we know that it is far from being devoid of virulence, and that it is capable under certain conditions of gaining increased powers of invading the organism and of manufacturing very definite pathogenic effects."

Ida Lewis recently celebrated her fiftieth year as keeper of the Lime Island Lighthouse in the harbor of Newport, R. I. As a girl and woman Ida Lewis has lived a remarkable life. Her bravery and skill in handling a boat are well known and her fame is secure as the bravest woman life saver in the world, for she has the credit of having saved no less than 18 lives. Most of her rescues having been effected in the face of extreme danger and in winter. As keeper of the Lime Island Lighthouse, to which post she was appointed in recognition of her bravery and record as a life saver on the death of her father, Miss Lewis has shown herself as careful and efficient as a man could be. She is one of the few women in such a position.
