ON NEW PRINCIPLE

Brookpark Man Invents a Stump Puller
 Which Raises Stump Directly up—
 Simple and Effective.

Hinckley Enterprise.—Andrew Sell, who lives near Brookpark, has a stump puller that is now in successful operation that is constructed on an entirely different principle from those heretofore used. This machine instead of pulling the stump over, thereby wasting a great deal of power against the resistance of the surrounding dirt, raise the stump directly up. After raising, the stump is held firm from the ground until the dirt can be knocked off and fall back to the hole made. This is another advantage for the ground is left in better shape.

Mr. Sell has applied for a patent that no doubt will soon be granted him.

The machine is very simple in construction and can be made very cheaply. It can be seen in operation on the farm of B. J. Kelsey where Mr. Sell with the aid of C. G. Mosher and one team is pulling, knocking the dirt out from the roots and piling 20 stumps a day.

Weighing Mail.

Commencing July 1 every post office will be required to keep tab on the weighing of the different classes of mail originating at its office, together with the mail pouch and lock. This will continue through six months, and will entail some little extra work, especially in the larger offices. It is done to get figures for the letting of contracts to the railroads a year from now. The government is now paying double what it should for this service and the recent congress took steps to put a stop to the exorbitant price paid for the railroad transportation of mails.—Ex.

GOOD SHEEP COUNTRY

This Part of Minnesota Well Adapted for Stock Raising, and Sheep are the Most Profitable.

In an article relating to the raising of stock in this corner of Minnesota, T. E. Sullivan contributes to the Sandstone Courier as follows:

"I have heard a lot concerning northeastern Minnesota as a country well adapted for the raising of stock, and after looking the matter up I have reached the conclusion that the claims have a good foundation, and that of all the varieties of stock, sheep could be raised with the greatest profit. The climatic and other conditions prevailing are agreeable to the successful and profitable raising of sheep.

"In all essentials of sheep raising, this region closely resembles Ontario, Canada, which is considered one of the best mutton producing regions of America. The effect of a cold climate on the fleeces is to increase its density and to render them finer and more durable than the wool fibre. But the most important influence of the cold weather is on the health of the sheep. Here they are less subject to contagious and parasitic diseases than in warmer climates as the origin of nearly all diseases of sheep is traceable to dampness and want.

"The food products of this section is also very favorable; for all that is needed in the way of food grows in the greatest abundance. It has been argued that the expense of raising sheep in this section is too great to make it profitable, but when it is considered that one acre of common grazing land will feed only three sheep during the summer, while if the hay is allowed to mature, this same land will furnish two and a half tons of hay, which will feed ten sheep throughout the winter, it will be seen that winter feeding is not as expensive as summer feeding.

The market afforded in Duluth and the Twin Cities is as attractive and profitable as any in America, and when one considers the long haul from some of the western ranges the advantages of this section will be readily appreciated."

From Prof. Hay.

Prof. J. H. Hay, writing from Thief River Falls, says that he is about to leave for Bemidji where he is to charge of a summer school and camp out on the shores of beautiful Lake Bemidji. In his letter to the editor-in-chief of this paper he states that he is "going to fish, row, swim, loaf and teach in summer school," and incidentally he wants his address changed on the greatest family journal what is. You may all rest assured that the former Pine City mind bender will derive a great deal of real pleasure and wholesome recreation out of his summer's outing.

Woman Granted License.

Last week Mrs. John Fisher successfully took an examination to become a steam engineer. Inspector Sauer, of Sunrice, conducted the examination. The fact that she passed the examination is a distinction that Mrs. Fisher can take a great deal of pride in, for it is said that she is the first woman to have passed the examination in this state, several have tried for papers. She has the congratulations of her friends.

WILL CELEBRATE

Business Men of Pine City Have Subscribed an Amount Sufficient to Warrant a Rousing Time.

A grand, glorious, rousing, roaring old fashioned Fourth of July is in store for those who elect to celebrate the Natal day in Pine City this year.

It has been decided to spare neither time nor money in an effort to provide a sufficiency of pleasure for every man, woman and child whose good fortune it will be "to be present."

All manner of sports and athletic games will be furnished to entertain the masses, a good speaker will be engaged, the Rush Lake band has been spoken for, a good game of base ball has been booked, and there will be an unlimited amount of peanuts, lemonade, orangeade and other good things to satisfy all.

The morning of the Fourth will be heralded with a grand salute of booming guns and the celebration will close with a monster pyrotechnical display. After the fireworks a grand ball will be given and this promises to be a feature.

Plan to celebrate the 4th in Pine City. A good time will surely be provided.

A Deplorable Fact.

There are more young men in the penitentiaries in this country learning trades than there are outside of them learning trades. The principal cause of this is that we are educating our young men for idle gentlemen, trying to make lawyers, doctors, preachers and clerks of material that is needed for blacksmiths, mechanics, carpenters and other honest "hewers of wood and drawers of water." It is a mistake and a big one, to teach boys and girls to believe that labor is disgraceful, and to nothing to living is more becoming to society.—Exchance.

One on the Major.

The St. Paul Trade Journal tells of the following good one on Maj. Cool, formerly manager of the "Tuxedo Club": Maj. W. W. Cooley of No. 50, was in Mexico last summer. He went into a cafe. The waiter came to him and he ordered mushrooms and a glass of milk, but could not make the waiter understand. He drew the picture of a mushroom and a cow and handed them to the waiter. The waiter was gone a few minutes and brought back an umbrella and a ticket for a bull fight.

ROCK CREEK.

Carl Stutman, of Pine City, is visiting Eddie Gill for a few days.

Rev. Mr. Hays will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock instead of Sunday evening.

Misses Maynard and Deliah Erickson left yesterday morning for a few days visit in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The Ladies Aid of Rock Creek, will have an ice cream social on the lawn at the church, Friday evening June 21. Everybody come and have a good time.

Go West Next Week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Netzer will leave Thursday for California where they intend to make their home for a year or more. They will make their home with their son, Harry Willard, and family at Whittier. Their many friends here will miss them. It is hoped that their journey to the far west will be a safe one and that their residence in the "sunshine climate" will afford them much pleasure.

PRETTY JUNE WEDDING

Miss Nanna Charlotte Caesar Becomes the Bride of Frank M. Smith at Stillwater Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Miss Nanna Charlotte Caesar and Frank M. Smith were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Caesar, in Stillwater. Rev. Palmer, rector of the Episcopal church at Stillwater, read the service. Miss Bertha Caesar, a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and Dr. K. W. Knapp, of this place, stood up with the groom. The bride wore a beautiful white silk dress and carried sweet peas. The rooms were tastefully decorated with ferns and large white snowball blossoms. Misses Caesar, cousins of the bride from Chippewa Falls, rendered Lohengreen's wedding march and Mrs. Olin, of St. Paul, contributed a vocal selection. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were the recipients of numerous costly and beautiful presents.

The bride is a young lady who has been very popular in the social circles of Stillwater. She has visited here at different times and has made many friends who will be glad to welcome her as their neighbor. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Smith. He is an industrious, steady young man and has the esteem of a host of friends. They returned here yesterday and after a brief stay at Lake Pokegama will make their home in Pine City. Their many friends with them a long and happy married life.

POKEGAMA.

(Received last week too late for publication.) Grass is growing at a rate that promises hay in abundance.

Mrs. Fred Norstrom visited at the home of her brother, P. H. Anderson, last Sunday.

Fred Norstrom lost his fine gray mare the other day; a disease of the lungs was the probable cause.

Mr. Gervay our road overseer in district No. 1, with his crew is doing good work on the road as lately altered, from the head of the lake to P. H. Anderson's.

Launces are to be seen daily on the lake, and frequently may be heard evenings cavorting on the gentle billows of Pokegama. Irreducable and sparkling under the beams of the silvery moon, all tending to call out and beguile the coo-ers and the woos-ers, Oh my!

The beautiful steamer Fritz, owned by J. S. Fritz, of the popular sanatorium, at the head of Lake Pokegama, is out for business. "Fritz" looks newer and brighter than ever, and there is good reason for it. The "Fritz" has had such an overhauling, remodeling and painting that it's quite excusable yes it's really the proper thing that "Fritz" looks proud, and as onlookers would judge feels proud, and are proud too, and justly so, why not? For "Fritz" is the boat of all boats that ever plowed the sparkling waters of Pokegama lake and the sinuous Snake.

Miss Bessie Lambert returned from a brief visit with Rush City friends Wednesday afternoon. She went down Tuesday to sing at the wedding of Miss Mamie Murray and John Collins. The bride is quite well and favorably known in this place where she has often visited. The couple will make their home in Rutledge where the groom is employed.

There is no case of indigestion, no matter how irritable or how obstinate that will not be speedily relieved by the use of Rodol. The main factor in curing the stomach of any disorder is rest, and the only way to get rest is to naturally digest the food for the stomach itself. Rodol will do it. It is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids containing the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It conforms to the Pure Food and Drugs Law. Sold by Breckenridge Pharmacy.

Survival of the Fit.

What will induce the well-to-do to have more children is an increasing sense of their own individual welfare. The considerations which prevent such persons from having families of more natural size are those of crude material amusement or else those of half-baked ideas of culture and development. If our well-to-do people are on the eve of a somewhat ripe education, as we believe they are, the size of the family will increase just as living in the country, travel in beauty, freedom from the need of hectic amusements and other signs of choice standards are increasing. We have been rather grossly preoccupied with material accoutrements, says Collier's. We have had a fierce attack of "gadding." Our women have been carried into fantastic absurdities by the novelists that have become accessible to them. We prophesy that the wealthy woman whose thought is devoted to chasing "interesting" things to do, or wishing she could write books or paint pictures, will soon be as ridiculous among educated Americans as Dr. Johnson's dancing dog. Let those families die out which are most interested in luxury or vanity or shallow freedom from responsibility; why not? Their place will be taken by those which tend, like evolution, toward differentiation of the sexes, not toward a fight against the difference and its consequences.

Aerial Transportation in 1914.

When Prof. Alexander Graham Bell says it is only a question of a brief period when there will be a perfected type of airship, by which it will be possible to cross the Atlantic in less than 20 hours, the rest of humanity will have nothing to do but consider the not-withstanding the apparent wildness of the prophecy. For Prof. Bell is a dreamer who has had a remarkable dream to come true. The United States supreme court decided that he is the inventor of the telephone. The man who conceived the telephone, and brought it to a degree of perfection that rendered it adaptable to every day uses, will be listened to with respect when he declares that swift and controlled air navigation is only a little way ahead. Very likely, remarks Baltimore American, there will be lines of airships delivering passengers in our Exposition in the year 1914. Prof. Bell predicts that the perfected airship will rush with a speed of 200 miles an hour. At such a speed of getting there New York will be only one hour from our fair grounds, and London and Paris not over 16 hours away.

The American women are giving increased attention to athletics and to outdoor exercises of all kinds, with corresponding benefits physically, is evident. The fact that the American lady who won the tennis championship in England last year, has gone over again, hoping to be equally successful this year, is made additionally interesting by the further announcement that a party of English women will return with her to compete in a number of contests here, including that for the international tennis cup. That will put American players on their mettle. Women are making records on the golf grounds, also, and in every form of sport in which they choose to engage are developing experiences and getting practice which assure the most beneficial results.

Hussia is advancing in liberality, notwithstanding reactionary influences. A son of Count Tolstoy has been acquitted of the charge of high treason, brought against him because he published his father's writings, which are under the ban of the year's empire. The Russian edition, however, was burned and the paper destroyed, but the young man was set off. A few years ago it would have been Siberia if, indeed he had escaped with his life.

Hundreds of thousands of cattle in the west starve to death every winter. When the snow is deep the number increases. The fatalities were unusually large during the past winter. The cattle run wild, and no provision is made by their owners for feed or shelter in the cold months. The American Humane Association is attempting to secure such a strong protest against the neglect of the cattle as to force the owners to change their method of doing business.

Bolton, Idaho, June 15.—The prosecution in the Stenberg murder trial, entering in earnest upon the second international peace conference, opened here Saturday, lasted hardly 20 minutes, when the conference adjourned until Wednesday. Tea was served in the main hall and the committee room after the adjournment.

M. Neildoff opened the conference by affirming that universal peace and disarmament were unattainable. The deliberate utterances of the Russian statesman, although pessimistic to the extent referred to, were hopeful when later he said he believed that a better method for the judicial adjustment of international disputes than arbitration conflicts between nations were no more unavoidable than conflicts between individuals.

In the course of his address M. Neildoff greatly pleased the American delegation by the high tribute which he paid to President Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie, not mentioning any other countries or rulers.

The dissolution of the drama and the pronouncement of a new election system in Russia has created a pronounced interest in the discussion at the peace conference. The news reached The Hague Sunday morning and spread rapidly, becoming instantly the topic of discussion. There is general disapproval as to the wisdom of the dissolution.

The Russian delegates at the conference were not surprised by the news. They deny that there is any connection between the government's decision and M. Neildoff's utterances Saturday. Extra precautions have been taken by the Dutch police to insure the personal safety of M. Neildoff, who is reported as having been warned of a plot to kill him.

A demonstration against the peace conference was held Sunday afternoon in a field on the outskirts of the city, but it was not a great success.

Governor of Alabama Appoints Former Congressman to the Senate.

Birmingham, Ala., June 18.—Gov. Conner, who was in Birmingham Monday, nominated sophomore Congressman John H. Bankhead to the vacancy in the United States senate from Alabama caused by the death of Senator Morgan Toga.

Judge McPherson's Ruling.

Judge McPherson, of the United States district court here Monday afternoon, after handing down an opinion maintaining the court's jurisdiction in the premises, ordered the promulgation of the above stated facts, which had been agreed to by the attorney for the state that it is a general railroad involved. The court in its opinion had suggested that the two-cent fare should be first given a practical trial before injunction proceedings preventing its enforcement be considered.

Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general, said regard to the recent bill.

"At the end of three months the railroads want to litigate the reasonableness of these rates, the matter of jurisdiction of the state and federal courts to determine the question will be fought out and the state has lost none of its rights and prerogatives," he said.

St. Paul, Minn., June 17.—Two lives are reported lost and considerable property damage done by a severe electrical storm which raged for nearly six hours in this vicinity Sunday. Many houses, barns and windmills were struck by lightning and badly damaged. A man and a boy, names unknown, are reported to have been killed by lightning at Denmark.

The consideration is stated to be $200,000.

SOCIALISM may furnish an ideal economic condition, but ideal economic conditions depend upon an ideal of citizenship, and the highest ideal of citizenship is that taught by the founder of the Christian religion. Then why not throw away the dogmas of socialism and get right down to the christianizing of the world?

If one half of Harry Orchard's story is true, he is the worst criminal of the present century. It should take rather strong corroborative evidence to support his testimony before the jury vote to convict Haywood, but still there are facts well known which go a long way toward corroborating his story. Should the state furnish the evidence they promise by way of substantiating Orchard's story, no punishment is severe enough for the inner circle of the Western Federation of Miners. There has been a set of political freebooters in this country from north to south who have screened the crimes of men in high circles in labor organizations for the purpose of catering to the labor vote. It is time that murder instigated by a labor organization should be punished as murder and that destruction of property by striking workmen should be punished as the destruction of property would be punished if done by anyone else. Crime is crime whoever perpetrates it. There can be but one rule in this country and the law should be applied the same whether the criminal is a millionaire or a member of the most powerful labor union in the land.

Now Hicks, the weather prophet, says that the recent wet cold weather is going to continue up to the first of August. If that is true we would advise the farmers of this section to substitute a crop of rice for their corn, and plant oysters in their potato patches.

There is a good deal of useless talk just now going the rounds of the press about "tariff reform" and tariff revision. There is no demand for any sweeping tariff revision or tariff reform. Some of the schedules should be adjusted to meet the changed conditions and that is all there is to it. This country has not forgotten its last "tariff reform" epidemic which swept over this land of ours in 1892, nor have we forgotten the times which followed. Let's not lose our heads again. All we need is a conservative readjustment of the changed conditions, and the best people to make this readjustment is the party that has been the friend of the laboring man's tariff and has insisted upon levying the import duties on the principle of protection.

THINK MORE - SPEND LESS

Why is it that the average man is worth so much less in money and property than we have a right to expect him to be? It isn't because he doesn't make the money, for the average man is industrious and has earned from $10,000 to $30,000 in the past ten years. It is because he doesn't give much serious thought either to his income or his outgo. Serious thought would teach him the true value of a dollar; then he would spend carefully and save steadily. That system soon places any man ahead of his fellows.

EMILY'S LEGACY

By CARROLL WATSON RANKIN

(Copyright by Joseph H. Rankin)

On one side of the street, in a little white cottage, lived Prof. Miller, whose amaranth-hair was grey. Opposite him, across the dusty brick walk, where everything in the garden was planted in pairs, lived old Jacob Porter. Although Emily was almost 25, her was the distinction of being the youngest person in the block; and the "block" was Emily's world.

All the neighbors loved her, but if crabbish old Jacob Porter felt any affection for her, he kept it well concealed.

One other person also loved her—a serious-minded, straightforward young lawyer, Mr. Miller, whom Emily had known in her school days, had returned, after his admission to the bar, to hang out his shingle in a neighboring town and to court Emily, who, however, refused to take his mild attentions with a proper seriousness.

Contented Emily, whose time was pretty well occupied with her house keeping and just one ungratified longing; but then after all, considering Emily's environment, she was a sensible girl. She had no expectation of owning one—no one in the block except Mr. Porter had ever owned one.

"When my ship comes in," Emily would say, as she sat sociably on the veranda or another of the block's doorsteps, "I shall have a beautiful horse with a flowing black tail—I've always loved horses."

When Mr. Porter died suddenly in April, the neighborhood learned, with considerable astonishment, that the shabby old man was the owner of a considerable property, but relative to inheritance there was one clause in his somewhat remarkable will that was of especial interest to the block. He had left $125 and an ancient buggy to astounded Emily. She was, however, to have no choice in the spending of the money, but on the condition she was to purchase a trustworthy cook-book, with two hundred she was to procure hay, and oats, with the remainder she was to purchase a good horse, and that without delay. Unless the animal was selected within a fortnight, she must forfeit every thing but the cook-book. This was eccentric Jacob Porter's way of making it certain that Emily's ship should reach port.

Mr. Brown, who had once possessed a cow and still owned a barn, advised Emily to advertise in the weekly paper for such a valuable horse. The seemed sensible advice, and as soon as the will was probated and the legacy turned over, Emily advertised.

The paper was issued Saturday morning, and the ink was not dry before forty persons to the advertisement began to come. Emily, smiling, called from the breakfast-table to examine the first candidate, but one glance at the proffered steed was enough.

"No," said Emily, to the man that stood on her doorstep, "I can't possibly buy a white horse."

The man glanced from Emily's glowing eyes to the palely white deportment, grimed sheepskin, and dejected air. He understood, for his own head was as red as Emily's.

John understood, too.

"You see," Emily had explained to John the Sunday before, "I'd as soon think of getting married as to a colorless horse."

"Do think about it?" John had urged, seizing the opportunity that Emily had inadvertently provided. "I'm doing so nicely now that there isn't any reason why we shouldn't be married—next October. For instance, I've been writing all winter for you to give me a little encouragement."

"I'll give you a little now," denure Emily had returned, suddenly displaying the rare dimple that John so loved to see. "When I buy a white horse I'll begin to think about marriage."

Apparently all the horses in Mansfield were for sale. Before the first day was over, Emily had inspected 32 alleged likely young horses—four of which, however, river horse dealers declared to be on the brink of dying of old age. Nineteen times that day Emily and the professor drove, or were driven, around the block, but night found them still horseless.

The fortnight, as well as the legacy, was growing beautifully less. Horses continued to assemble at Emily's gate—all kinds but the kind she wanted.

The last day of the fortnight dawned. The owner of the white horse had never failed to appear at least once a day, but was as regular this morning as ever.

Just 't' shadow of that last day as fine a chestnut horse as Emily had ever seen was tied to the fence beside the taffy-horned nar; Emily, contrasting the two, felt a pang of dismay.

"Oh, you beaut!" she cried, rapping on the saddle. "I've got to have you. You're probably a 4000' horse, and I haven't—b'h w me it be?"

"One hundred, seventy-five," murmured the man.

"Oh, I'll credit Emily. Do let me try him around the block." Mr. Brown, what do you think of him? Mr. Miller, father—don't you both think he

IDEAS FOR THE HOSTESS

Manufacture of Potato Dolls Afforded Amusing Entertainment at One Luncheon—Celebration of Crystal Wedding—“Rag Party” a New Form of Diversion.

After a most delightful luncheon given by a talented hostess, this novel entertainment was provided. The repast had been served at small tables and we were told to return to the room while the sole occupant of the house was shown each a well-washed potato of rather long, slender shape. Then each was given four small wire hairpins, four black-headed tacks, two fancy paper napkins with gay colored borders, and a supply of pins. There were scissors and tubes of library thread.

The instructions were brief: build a doll; a prize was offered for the best and poorest specimen. The ladies worked with amazing zeal for this going-back to childhood days was fun and cugly enjoyed. Next came the “potato” dolls were built; nearly every one confessed to the clothechip variety, and it was surprising to see the array of attractive little figures that emerged from the hands of these erstwhile creative artists.

The hairpins were used for arms and legs; the tacks made eyes, nose and mouth, and it was astonishing the variety of facial expressions achieved. All sorts of garments were made from the napkins, which were pinned and pasted into shape. These included knitted fripperies, ruffled blouses, waistcoats, hats, bonnets, bodices, ladies of high and low degree, all acknowledging a common pototo for their origin.

When the dolls were displayed upon a table the collection was so fascinating that one of the guests begged for it to be taken to a charity kiosk. The women who had labored over these treasures were delighted and the teacher received an inspiration for a new diversion. The prizewinner for the best doll was a large sweet potato pie piled high with fluffy meringue, made by a Kentucky “auntie”; the consolation offering was several quarts of new potatoes in a green basket tied with ribbon.

For a Crystal Wedding.

From a Canadian correspondent this time comes a request for the description of the “Crystal wedding” which is the fifteenth anniversary. The invitations should be written, or better still, engraved as for any evening party; if desired, the date of marriage and the present date may be at the head of the sheet so the guests may figure out themselves the occasion of the company.

Of course the dining-room table will be the center of attraction, and it should be kept as nearly all white as possible. Use a glass bowl filled with white roses or carnations sprinkled with diamond dust for the centerpiece; glass candlesticks with white stems and bases; rock crystal should the hostess be fortunate enough to possess it should hold salted almonds and bonbons.

Serve a salad, sandwiches, ice cream or an ice in tall glasses. The candles placed around the room may be coated with diamond dust by first dipping them in mucilage; the effect is very pretty. In the same way, also tiny boxes filled with wedding cake, the monogram and date or name may also tiny boxes filled with wedding cake, the monogram and date or name may be cast on with white paint and then decorated with gold leaf.

Toasts to the host and hostess and a programme of well selected songs add much to the enjoyment of the evening. If desired, the bride and groom's cake may be baked in heart-shaped tins; they are newer than those of square tins.

If expense does not enter into consideration in preparing for this occasion, the small hand mirrors (dolls size) would be charming souvenirs. The date or name could be written on the glass or a card tied to the handle of all Mansfield.

“It isn’t the horse,” sobbed Emily, as she sat on John's shoulder. “John, I’ll never speak to him again as long as I live. Oh, I couldn’t have believed it of him!”

The next day was Sunday. John appeared, as usual, and was genuinely surprised at the cold reception accorded him. He took some time to comfort the tony young woman who sat on the couch with her chin held unnecessarily high with a scarlet spot blazing indignantly in each pale cheek, that he had no hand in deceiving her, beyond making the solitary, unpremeditated offer of which he had been so apologetic.

Once convinced of the truthfulness of his words, John was so relieved that she did not mind that she was glad that she had bought the white horse.

“When?” asked John, emboldened by the happiness in Emily's satisfied eyes, “are you going to begin to think about that other mother?”

“I’ve been thinking about it all day,” confided Emily, blushing an unlascivious pink that told its own story to even obtuse John.

“By the way,” asked John, an hour later, “if that rascally horse-dealer ever gets up for me, what’ll he say?”

“He’ll do what he’ll do,” John said.

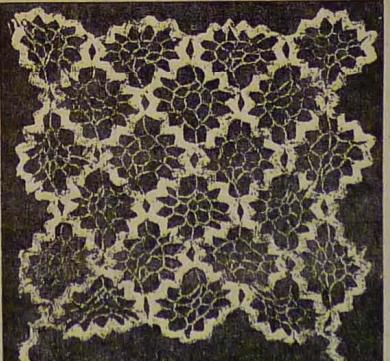

“I’ll make it a hundred,” breathed Emily, softly, but John was not too far away to catch the words.

“One hundred, seventy-five,” murmured the man.

“Oh, I’ll credit Emily. Do let me try him around the block.” Mr. Brown, what do you think of him? Mr. Miller, father—don’t you both think he

Pretty Idea in Rick-Rack Lace

In making, count the points; there are 14 in sample. Join the last two, Make a hemstitch-stitch from point to point around circle, then twist needle in and out of the stitches (the same as overcasting a seam) all the way around. Draw smooth. It will look like a lace bar. Now make a button-hole stitch between every two points over bar, then run needle through stitches before and draw tight. You will see by the sample how to turn the points. If you want larger circles count of more points. You can use a needle hook the same as a needle.

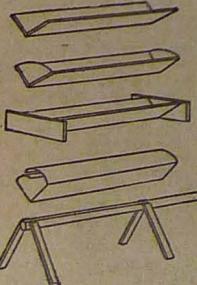

HEALTH NOTES FOR JUNE.

MAKING TILE CEMENT.

It Is Easy Work When the Knack Has Been Learned.

It is surprising how fast one may make tile cement once the knack is learned. Make a half dozen little troughs two feet long inside and three inches deep if you are to make a three-inch tile, and four inches deep for four-inch tile. These are quickly nailed together and are begun like No.

Forms for Making Cement Tile.

In the illustrations, and completed to look like No. 3. No. 2 shows a trough or mold that has a half inch of cement and sand laid over its inside and the tin form is placed ready to cover the top of the material. After the tiles are filled with the help of her friends at one or two “sewing bees” may furnish her chamber with very artistic and up-to-date rugs at small expense.

MADAME MERILL

IN EMBROIDERED LINEN.

Cuffs and collars of embroidered linen to be worn with this summer's shirt waists.

Mourning Hats.

Mourning hats have entirely changed in the last three years. Bonnets have given way to hats in every width. We are wearing hats with bows and net or macramé veils, and not or macramé veils, after three months of mourning. It is not considered necessary any longer for a woman to wear a flat top to a wide bonnet that just fits the head with its white ruching and strings tied under the chin.

For Tender Feet.

Rest the feet as much as possible by changing the shoes several times a day, even from one to another. The new pair is a great help. The muscles of the foot tire in one position, and it is wonderful how a frequent change of shoes rests them. A few drops of ammonia added to the water in which you bathe your feet at night will help to make them comfortable.

Treatment Which Will Secure Protection Against the Pest.

As a means of replying to very many requests for information concerning directions for the treatment of seed corn as a protection against injury by the root aphid, the Illinois state entomologist, Dr. S. A. Forbes, has prepared the following careful directions. The quantities mentioned are sufficient to treat the seed corn necessary to fill over 45 bushels. If a larger amount of seed is to be planted, each can easily figure the necessary amount for himself.

1. Mix one pint of pure oil of lemon with one gallon of denatured alcohol or wood alcohol.

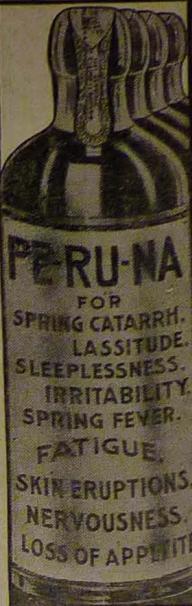

2. Pour a bushel of seed corn into a tub or half a barrel, or similar vessel large enough to allow vigorous stirring of the corn.

3. Measure out one and a half pints of the mixture of oil of lemon and alcohol.

4. Gently stir this mixture on the corn, at the same time stirring the latter vigorously with a stout paddle or stick. Do not let the oil collect at the bottom of the vessel for lack of stirring and thorough mixing. Stir vigorously until the oil is well distributed. It will require five minutes to prepare a bushel of seed.

5. Put the corn thus prepared into a grain sack and it is ready to be used for planting. Keep this sack in the shade.

6. Do not prepare more than can be planted in a half a day, unless it is convenient to return to the crib at

Paint Buying Made Safe
White Lead and Linseed Oil are needed for advertising to maintain them. They are the best and most durable paint known to man. The difficulty has been for the manufacturer to always sell the paint at the price of the whitewash and oil.

We have registered the trade mark of “Paint Buy” painter to the first firm of paint manufacturers and purifiers everywhere. When this trade mark appears on the kegs you can be sure that the contents are Pure White Lead made by Old Dutch Process.

WAR HEROES HONORED

MONUMENTS ERECTED TO NOT-ED SOLDIERS AND SEAMAN.

Statue to Gen. Lawton, Who Fell in the Philippines, Unveiled at Indianapolis by Pres. Woodrow Wilson.

Indians, Ind.—That patriotism in this country is not at a low ebb is indicated by the number of memorials to heroes and statesmen recently erected. There is a close connection between patriotism and art. One is especially reminded of this in the study of ancient histories and art, it being commoner and more usual of Americans to honor their heroes and statesmen with statues than with monuments. The fact has been emphasized within a short time by the unveiling of a statue of Commodore John Barry in Philadelphia and the completion by Karr Bitter of a statue of Gen. Franz Sigel for a site on Riverside Drive, New York. Another example was added with the unveiling on May 20 at Indianapolis of a statue of Gen. Henry W. Lawton, at which the president made an important address.

Gen. Lawton was a soldier of the civil war, saw service in the Spanish-American War, and died while fighting in the Philippines. The republic has many memorials of soldiers of the revolution and the civil war, but as yet few erected in honor of heroes of battle for the flag in the faraway islands of the east. Special interest attaches to the Lawton monument for the reason.

Gen. Lawton, who was born at Manhattan, O., in 1843, began his military career as an enlisted man in a volunteer regiment in 1861 and held the rank of major general of volunteers until on November 15, 1869, he was commissioned as a brigadier general in the regular service was being prepared when he was shot. When war with Spain broke out he was in demand in the field, for he had enjoyed not only a civil service, but also a military career as an Indian fighter on the plains of the west. One of the famous episodes of his career was his pursuit and capture of Geronimo. He was in command of the second division of the fifth army corps before Santiago, and on the conclusion of peace was transferred to the Philippines.

He captured Santa Cruz, a Filipino stronghold, April 10, 1899, and San Isidro on May 15, and on June 1 was placed in command at Manila. He had begun an offensive against the rebels toward the end of April when he was killed while directing an attack upon the insurgents in an engagement near San Mateo, about 15 miles from Manila. A monument was erected by American soldiers at the spot where he fell. This memorial is in the shape of a pyramid is feed.

GRANT'S OLD HOME IN ST. LOUIS.

Cottage Once Occupied by Great Solider and Traded for a Farm.

St. Louis—While modern brick dwellings have sprung up on all sides in the vicinity of Tenth and Barton streets, there remains standing two doors west of the corner an antiquated little wooden cottage, guarded by memories so sacred that the hand of the despoiler has never dared to raise against it.

The venerable structure was the abode of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, soldier, statesman and president of the United States, and it is believed, was the birthplace of Gen. Frederick Grant, the revered soldier's son.

The fact that the cottage was once owned by the great Grant was brought to light by a recent article in a St. Louis paper stating that a patriotic wave of reverence for the name of Grant had started in St. Louis and was being fostered by the Grand Cables association, which plans to restore Grant's log cabin on the farm grounds to its original site on the Grant farm in St. Louis county, near Hollweg.

Miss Philomena Hollweg, of 102 Barton street, one door east of Grant's former abode, which she owns, noticed the article and communicated with the paper, stating the fact and giving what scraps of its history she recalls.

This little structure has a ground floor containing four small rooms. An attic room is reached by a narrow flight of rickety wooden stairs.

The house was occupied by Mrs. Hollweg and her husband for nine years and was acquired in 1865, for $1,000, by the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. White.

White obtained the house from Grant, according to the tradition, in exchange for the farm in the county high. On the top an old Spanish cannon is mounted, surrounded by four modern shells. The brave commander was greatly beloved by the soldiers who fought with him. His character was most highly esteemed by President Roosevelt, his comrade in Cuba, a fact that led the latter to accept the invitation to make the principal address at the unveiling ceremonies at Indianapolis.

MUST HAVE BEEN ASLEEP.

Mr. Hickman was much concerned about her youngest son. He had developed a peculiarity of which he had previously shown no trace—that of walking in his sleep. In great distress of mind she told her husband, "What?"

"A what?"

"A somnambulist. He walks in his sleep!"

"When did he begin to do that?"

"I never noticed it until last night.

After he had got up and was soon out to the coal cellar, and brought up a scuttle of coal."

"He did it in his sleep?"

"He did. I watched him. He didn't know a thing about it this morning, either. How can you explain such a thing?"

"Gloomy!" ejaculated Mr. Hickman.

"I can't. But if he had gone up there while he was wide awake, Lucinda, and done such a thing as that voluntarily, it would have been a good deal harder to explain!"

Here is a Novelty.

A street hawker recently introduced a novelty in kerchiefs.

He said: Here you are, gentlemen; the greatest invention of the age.

Pazer (stopping to listen)—What is it?

Hawker—A magnetized keyhole-plate for front doors. It will attract an ordinary latch key from a distance of two feet. All you have to do is to find the keyhole is to take out your key and hang on to it.

Three men are reported to have been injured in the crowd which gathered to buy the novelty—The Royal.

How It Happened.

Uncounted ages ago, while the Egyptian sphinx was young and tempestuous came a scene much like this one.

The day being unusually warm, with a promise of warmer days to come, the sphinx changed her garments and put on lighter ones.

Within a few minutes the weather became 40 degrees colder.

The sphinx awoke with great violence and her nose dropped off.

Trifified with astonishment, she remained rooted to the spot.

And has remained there ever since.

Not a Trouble.

"The trouble," said the reformer, "is that people cannot be persuaded to think for themselves."

"That's not a trouble," answered Senator Sorgum, "that's lucky for people like you and me who hire out to them for thinking for them."
