RUNNING DAY AND NIGHT

A Night Shift Has Been Put on at the McGrath Saw Mill and Much Work Is Being Accomplished.

This week a night crew of about forty men was put on at the McGrath saw mill and now there is a continual hum at the Pine City mill.

The day crew consists of 45 men, making a total of about 90 men dependent upon the mill for their livelihood.

The yards are illumined at night by numerous electric lights, and the piling of lumber goes on without a break—meal hours excepted. The crews work on ten hour shifts, and they are kept on the jump from start to finish, as the sawyers are busier, and shove the logs through at a giddy rate.

Schedule Changed.

The schedule of the steamer "Frits" has been changed by Captain Fritzen. Hereafter the morning boat will leave the dock at Fritzen's at 8:30 every morning and will leave Pine City for the return trip at 11:30 a. m. excepting Sundays. The afternoon boat will leave the dock at the head of Pokegama at 2:30 and leave Pine City at 5:00 p. m. as usual. The steamer will leave the dock at 9:30 every Sunday morning, and the Sunday limit will be met regularly. Special runs will be made when called for.

The new coal grates arrived this week and regular time is now being made. It was impossible to keep up steam under the old conditions when it was necessary to use wood and, therefore, accurate schedule was impossible. Despite the adverse circumstances under which it has been found necessary to run, the boat has been found very satisfactory, and the present schedule will be lived up to miss unavoidable circumstances arise to prevent the same.

Fishing Good

Reports from reliable sources say that fishing is exceptionally good at Pokegama lake. A gentleman who respects fish stories, we learn that two St. Paul anglers were out about two hours one day the first of the week and in those two hours of fishing time they succeeded in landing 25 nice sized pike. The gentlemen were E. R. Stafford, a broker, and James McClure, a railroad man. They were registered at Witke's Island Hotel. McClure is the true type of an Isaac Walton and is strictly in his element when engaged with rod and reel in coaxing the finny fellows. He stated that he expects to go to Ireland next fall to do some "real" fishing. The gentlemen were delighted with their sport at the lake and will go there often.

Died at Superior.

Jemima Gilmore, the 15-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Gilmore, died at her home in Superior, Wis., Wednesday morning at about 6 o'clock. Heartier fever was the cause of her death, and she was sick only three days. The remains were brought here yesterday and interred alongside the remains of her grandmother, Mrs. F. Furstenburg, who died some three years ago. She had many friends here who deeply regret her demise.

Mrs. E. Spittatorow and children departed for Pine City Thursday.—North Branch Review.

DIES AT HOSPITAL

John Faulkner Succumbs to a Complication of Diseases After a Two Weeks' Stay at Asbury

Word was received in this town Tuesday announcing the death of John Faulkner, which occurred at Asbury hospital, Minneapolis, Tuesday at 3:30 a. m. He had been in the hospital just two weeks, and it was thought that he would recover his health and be able to return to his home. Thus was the announcement of his death a complete surprise to many of his friends here. The cause of his death was nephritis and heart trouble.

John Faulkner was a sturdy old-timer who, in his boyhood days, used to fish in the waters of the St. Lawrence river, which coursed by his home 40 miles above Montreal. He was born about 65 years ago and has resided hereabouts during the past 30 years or more. He was a carpenter by trade. During the past six years he had resided a short distance from the mouth of Pokegama lake, and had during that time devoted the greater part of his time to fishing, and there was not a fishing hole in the lake or river but what he was familiar with.

The death of Mr. Faulkner is felt with deep regret by his many friends. He was always kind, considerate and generous to a fault, and we believe his friends could have been numbered by his acquaintances. The remains were shipped to this place Wednesday morning, and the funeral was conducted in Birchwood cemetery, Mrs. Matthews, of the Presbyterian church, officiating.

Lodged in Stillwater.

Stillwater Gazette: John A. Cammie of Pine county, was committed to the county jail here today for safe keeping until the convening of the grand jury in that county. He is accused of personating a constable, to get a horse and buggy in a hurry, with the avowed purpose of pursuing two men, that he asserted had committed a criminal assault upon a woman at Partridge, Pine county. It is asserted that he was implicated in the crime and was making his escape. He was arrested in Superior, and came back without requisition papers.

Farewell Party.

On Tuesday afternoon Comrade and Mrs. J. E. Nelsor were pleasantly surprised by their friends, the members of Emily J. Stone Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., at their home on the north side of the river, the occasion being the eve of their departure for California. Mrs. Nelsor is a charter member of the Circle, has acceptably occupied the chairs of president and chaplain, and her departure is deeply regretted. A beautiful repast was served, at which Mrs. Stephan, president of the Circle, in a few fitting remarks, presented Mrs. Nelsor with a gold past president's pin, in token of the esteem in which she is held by her fellow members. Also a piece of silverware, for the joint use of herself and Comrade Nelsor. Only good wishes follow them to their new home, hoping they may return at a not far distant day.

Medlams A. J. Shaaki and Hilda Olson of Brookpark, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norton last Friday.

HURRAH! HURRAH! HURRAH!

Pine City Will Celebrate the Fourth in Grand Style, and the City Keys Will be Hid for the Day.

Talk about the "Gates Ajar." Nothing to it with what is going to happen to the gates and bars and keys and locks of the village of Pine City on the glorious day known as the 4th of July. Mayor Dosey has already given orders to have the keys of the city transferred to the visitors on that day, and there'll be things doing when the visitors cut loose.

It is going to be a gala day, and one hard to beat for real, solid joy. The committees have come to realize that they have a big task before them, in the manipulation of the minor details which go to make a celebration successful. But each and every man knows no such word as fail, and it is likely that the time will be a record breaker in point of entertainment; and, provided the weather man doesn't get a grouch on, the crowds will be here to get the time of their lives.

The general executive committee consists of J. Y. Breckenridge, chairman, F. A. Wiley, secretary, and Ernest Dosey, treasurer. The chairmen of the different sub-committees appointed are: Parade, N. Perkins; sports, Wm. Lambert; music, H. J. Rath; advertising and printing, W. P. Gottry; singing and speech, S. G. L. Roberts; fireworks, J. Y. Breckenridge. D. Greeley was appointed marshal of the day. If that crowd, together with the merited support of every Pine City denizen, the local Brass Band, and other importations, can't furnish the goods for a happy day well spent, we'll threaten to nose to Norway Point and take our friends with us—next time.

Everybody should get into the game. Leave your work for one day, and if by doing so you will lose a few tainted shakels, the loss will be forgotten in a hundred years from now, but the good time you will have may live in your memory for a long time to come.

N. B.—After we had put the above article into type we learned that the mayor had given the keys of the village gates—and the lock-up—to Jas. Nelsor, and the same are now traveling toward Los Angeles, so they can't possibly be returned until after the Fourth.

The "Cannon Ball"

George Harto, a St. Paul business man, is one of the cutters at Witke's summer resort. If there is anything that he likes better than out-door life, it is more outdoor life. He is the owner of a gasoline launch which is guaranteed to roll along at the rate of four miles an hour. No, that isn't a misprint, 4 miles, we said. However, it is said to run like "sixty," and its owner has christened it the "Cannon Ball." The launch holds a two-horse power gasoline engine and four people. Wednesday the "Cannon Ball" took a deep interest in the workings about the Splitstoser repair outfit; it just had to meet the launch doctor. After feeling about to find why the kaplanker wouldn't run, the kaplanker was discovered that the name was too heavy for the power, and another horse had to be added. The engine has worked lovely ever since. Before taking treatment it bucked every time it would run into a sea of bubbles. Wilhelm Ade Lambertus is the fellow that should get his head holed for this story. The editor was out out when it happened.

Last Sunday at Mora the Pine City ball team met defeat at the hands of the Morates. The game is said to have been a splendid exhibition up to the 6th inning when rain interfered causing some loose playing. The score at the end of the game was 6 to 2. Nevary, the Willow River twirler, occupied the box for the locals, and Mireh, eighth. Among those from here who witnessed the game were, "Cape" Cranton, Robt. Harto and Wm. Gottry.

EQUITY FARMERS TO MEET

The Pine County Union of the American Society of Equity Will Hold Big Meeting in Pine City.

The Pine county union of the American Society of Equity will hold its regular quarterly meeting at the court house, Pine City, July 6th at 10 o'clock a. m. State Secy. R. H. Aldrich will address the meeting, and J. A. Elroy, of the State Federation of Labor, will be one of the speakers. All local unions should send full delegations as there will be important business to consider. Every farmer and friend of farmers interested in the cause of equity are invited to attend.

This meeting is called by G. A. Robinson, President of the Pine county union.

THE FARMER DECLARES HIS INDEPENDENCE.

The American farmer is about to declare his independence of the Wall Street speculator and the movement has not been initiated a day too soon.

The farmer has worked and worried and his profit has been small. The bad crop worries were all for him. He stood the loss alone. The speculator in life's necessities can do as well on a bad crop as on a good one.

We are glad to be able to tell our readers that the farmers have made up their minds to put an end to this system and that they have gone to work intelligently.

Hitherto the farmer alone has had nothing whatever to say about the price to be paid for what he actually produced.

Some man in Liverpool, some mill owner in the North, might settle the price that the southern cotton grower must take per bale of cotton. Some other man thousands of miles away could settle the price that the western farmer should have for his grain.

The farmer alone had nothing to say about it. The railroads decided what they should charge him. Banks decided what they should charge for the use of the money. Trusts decided on their extortions. Tariff builders decided what tax the farmer's wife and daughter should pay on their dresses.

But the farmer was forbidden to have anything to say in fixing the price of his goods.

This is to end; the work has been already begun in the farmers' organizations.

The farmers are the back bone of the country. They develop the nation's real wealth, which is the wealth of the soil. They are entitled to a full share of that wealth and to the national prosperity. By combination, by insisting on fair prices for their cotton, their wheat and their other crops and by refusing to sell the non-perishable products except for a fair price they have already added tens of millions to the annual return from the farms. They will add tens and hundreds of millions more annually as their unions increase in power.

The isolated human being whether he be farmer or mechanic is at the mercy of every form of greed and cunning. The farmer has too long plowed, harrowed, sowed, reaped, sweated and fretted to build up bank accounts for others and pay interests on mortgages. We are glad that he has decided by union to keep for himself and his family, which means for the people of America, that to which they are entitled.

High-Speed Steel.

"Bigness in everything is become so characteristic of the material things that go to make modern civilization that only underlings of tremendous magnitude attract more than passing notice." Thus writes O. M. Becker in the Technical World Magazine. "Thirty story buildings, three mile dams, and Panama canals show are able to hold the public eye long enough to be even a seven-days' wonder. Next week it is an old story and not at all wonderful. The great engineering feats which appeal so strongly to the eye undoubtedly have an important part in the remarkable industrial and commercial development now writing its story in such bold letters into the history of civilization. There are, however, other agencies at work in this development, some of them scarcely destined to bring about great changes in methods and efficiencies now regarded as superlative, and one of these agencies, yet quite unknown to the general public, but nevertheless already exerting a powerful influence upon industrial efficiencies, has made its place for itself in the modern machine shop. The essential function of the machine shop is to fit accurately the various metal parts which are to be assembled into other machinery of one sort or another, and this is generally done by cutting or parting away any excess of unevenness of metal left in the casting or forging. This sort of cutting obviously is something very different from that seen in the wood shop, for example. Special tools and machines, the former strong and hard enough and the latter rigid and powerful enough, are necessary to remove the excess of material from steel, iron, or other resistant metals. Ordinary cutting edges, as they are commonly understood, would not do at all. An account of the processes by which high-speed steel has been perfected and the uses to which it is put, forms subject matter in an exceedingly interesting article of some length, simply illustrated.

Kaiser as Art Critic.

Kaiser William adds to his many other accomplishments that of an artist and art critic. In a book just published in Berlin, Prof. Seidel, curator of art in the royal palaces, praises the sovereign's activity in "church architecture, forestry, landscape gardening, game preserving, and decoration and the applied arts." If he indeed is proficient in all those branches, it can readily be understood that he has no time, even if he had the inclination, to disturb the peace of Europe. As a critic, the Kaiser is catholic, although sometimes he is severe in his judgments. While he has no prejudice against impressionists, he "hates still life and uninteresting subjects which lack movement." His opinions are given at random, sometimes in the form of maxims, notes. When some South German amateurs undertook to decide what kind of monument should be erected for Wagner in Berlin, the Kaiser criticized his displeasure by writing "senseless" at the end of one of the maxims. He noted even a Winckelmann could have expressed an aesthetic opinion more concisely and forcibly.

Good, If True.

Has a cure for cancer actually been found? If so, fear of one of the most dreaded enemies of mankind would be greatly diminished. Discussion has been aroused in Europe by the appearance in a Berlin medical journal of high order of an article testifying to the merits of a recently tested remedy, and in which it is said: "One of the foremost authorities on cancer in the world, Prof. von Leyden, has expressed opinions which do not appear to err on the side of optimism when the work of Prof. Morton of New York and other students of cancer is considered." The article goes on to specify what has been done in various experiments to prove the effectiveness of the remedy in destroying cancer germs, and concludes with the declaration that what has been learned is "sufficient to create hopes of the great results in the minds of all study the problem of cancer." Of course it would be unwise to be over-optimistic, even in the face of testimony such as this. But, remarks Troy Times, the best way to show what progress the medical world is making in getting a cure of cancer is to wait until it is made.

A Cleveland scientist announces, with the aid of making a great discovery, that there is an advantage in being tall because the tall man's head is higher above the noise of the street. This is neither a new nor an original idea, says Indianapolis Star. Long ago when "Venerable" was prevalent in the valley of the Rhine, the women of the extreme tallness of the natives of the region was accounted for as being a provision of nature to lift their breathing apparatus safely above the miasmic emanations of the soil.

HAYWOOD'S DEFENSE STATED BY DARROW

GENERAL DENIAL OF MUCH OF ORCHARD'S CONFESSION WILL BE MADE.

No Murder Conspiracy—Mine Owners Accused of Plot and Miner Crimes—Explanation of Draft Sent to Simpkins.

Boise, Idaho, June 25.—In an address that occupied two sessions of the district court Monday, Clarence Darrow, who is to be denied the right to jury the defense of William D. Haywood to the charge that he murdered former Gov. Steuneger. In broad denials, he is to deny the existence of any material content in the testimony of Orchard, with a showing that Orchard killed Steuneger because of a private grudge borne by the loss of a rich share in the great Hercules mine, and explanations of the independent circumstances that tend to connect three co-defendants with Orchard's life and operations. Haywood will take the stand to make a personal denial of Orchard's accusations; Darrow may be called to testify solely in connection with circumstances affecting the Western Federation of Miners; but Pettibone will not be a witness in this case. Mr. Darrow explained that Meyer and Pettibone must stand trial for this same crime, and declared that every lawyer knew the danger, whatever the circumstances, of exposing men awaiting trial under like circumstances.

Darrows Alleged Conspiracy.

Mr. Darrow denied the existence of the great conspiracy to murder alleged by the state with Orchard's testimony as a basis, denied that the federation was anything but an earnest fighting labor organization with higher wages, shorter hours, tolerable working conditions and the care and safety and education of its members and their wives and children as its high and only motives; denied the intimacy with the three co-defendants that Orchard laid claim to; denied the several conferences and conversations that Orchard swore to; denied that Orchard had ever committed many of the crimes he had boasted of, and promised to make proof of his contentions with many of the men named by Orchard who stood by him, and many witnesses of credible character not connected by any tie with the federation or its leader.

ASLEEP WHEN HE KILLED

STRANGE STORY OF AN ITALIAN WHO SLEW MAN ON A TRAIN.

Dreamed He Was Being Robbed, and Awoke to Find Himself Shooting.

Goodland, Kan., June 24.—John Bello, the Italian who killed a man and wounded two women passengers on a Rock Island train east of here, told, through an interpreter, the story of the shooting. Bello asserted that he committed the murder in his sleep as the result of a dream. His story, dramatically told, with many and almost tearful protestations of honesty, follows:

"My wife and children and Patsy Leganbrat and his wife and children lived in Genoa. We decided to come to the new world and grow rich, as we thought it was easy to do. We landed in Boston from the White Star liner Cymric a few days ago and took a train for the west. We were on the way to California.

"We were in a strange land among people whose languages we could not understand. I had been nervous from the time I left home. Last night I went to sleep in my seat and I had a terrible dream. I dreamed that a man with a white handkerchief over his face had me by the throat and was trying to rob me. I fought with all my strength. Finally I managed to throw my assailant off. The robber turned to run. I had a revolver in my pocket, and I seized it and began to shoot.

"All of this was in my sleep. The report of the weapon awakened me, and I found myself on my feet with the pistol in my hand, shooting right and left. God knows I did not mean to kill anyone. It was all a terrible dream."

Carl V. Topp, the tailor, who was killed by the Italian, was asleep in his seat with a white handkerchief over his eyes.

Bello is in the county jail here. He sits rocking to and fro with his face in his hands muttering in Italian.

KIDNAPED BOY FOUND

SLAUGHTERED IN SWAMP

HEADLESS BODY OF WALTER LAMANA, OF NEW ORLEANS, IS RECOVERED.

Suspect Tells of Crime—Says Italians Who Stole Lad Became Frightened and Strangled Him—Threats of Lynching Heard.

New Orleans, June 24.—Two miles in the interior of a big swamp near this city the headless body of Walter Lamana, an Italian child between seven and eight years old, who was kidnaped and held for $6,000 ransom two weeks ago, was found by police and vigilantes just before daybreak Sunday. He had been strangled to death, according to the confession of one of several Italians held by the police.

The boy's neck is supposed to have been broken when he was strangled, causing the head to become separated from the body when decomposition set in. The body was found a short distance from the body.

Police Protect Prisoners.

Five Italians, two of them women, are under arrest charged with being accessories to the murder and extra details of police and deputies are maintaining order in the excited Italian quarter of the city.

It is said that the Mafia lynching 16 years ago has New Orleans been so stirred with threats of violence and some of these threats are made by those who participated in the disorders at the time. The law and order element is much stronger than it has been heretofore, a large number of leading citizens having pledged themselves to prove violence.

Italian Tells of the Crime.

The murdered boy was found near St. Rose, about 30 miles from New Orleans. A sweating process swung a confession from one of the Italian suspects which was taken from his home in St. Rose about midnight Saturday night and carried into the woods by a combined force of officials and police.

The search in charge. This man, Ignazio Campicchio, was kept in the woods an hour, when he confessed, charging four Italians with the crime. He said that about the time of a mass meeting in New Orleans more than a week ago, held for the purpose of prosecuting search for the body, these men, who were in a creek house in St. Rose, became frightened and consulted about what to do with the child.

The boy was crying, begging to be taken home to his parents, said Campicchio, and one of the quartette of kidnapers grabbed the child and strangled him to death to stop his noise. Later two of the kidnapers, he said, came to him, carrying the body in a blanket, and after threatening him with death if he told, took the body into a swamp.

Leads Police to Body.

Campicchio, in relating this story, led the police through some miles of swamp where the searchers sometimes waded in water nearly waist deep and in other crawled under tangles of briars. In the shallow pool at the end of this search the body was found in the blanket in a clump of cane.

Returning to the city, the police arrested Neolina Gebbia, an Italian woman, who is alleged to have confessed that she knew of the kidnaping plot from one of the four kidnapers whom she expected to marry.

MEDALS FOR TWO HEROES.

President Roosevelt Decorates Men for Railroad Life Saving.

Washington, June 25.—President Roosevelt, through the interstate commerce commission, Monday awarded railroad life saving medals to Charles A. Frazier and George W. Teas, and Edgar E. George, of Parsons, Pa.

Mr. Arns' heroic exploit was saving the lives of Mall Clerks J. G. Martin and Thomas A. Frazier and baggage man Robert L. Morris, whose train on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was derailed by a draw bridge over the Cumberland river at Clarksville, 50 feet down into the stream, which was at flood stage. The three victims clung to the rails and became fastened to the rails.

George saved the life of a Polish lad whose father and mother had been a railroad frog at Parsons. Unable otherwise to extricate the boy's foot, he seized the boy's body, bent it down outside the rails and forced the imprisoned leg under the engine until oil boxes and steps on cars. They escaped uninjured except for the boy's badly sprained ankle and slight bruises sustained by George.

New State Fair Buildings.

Hamilton.—The State Fair grounds will be about the largest in this part of the state from now until the fair opens on Sept. 2, with the work laid out by the board of managers. Awards were made to the contractors for $75,000, and other work was put in line for immediate commencement.

Most important was the main dairy building which is to be a handsome pressed brick structure of very substantial construction and will stand on the eastern edge of the grounds near Shilling Avenue. It will be the present farm machinery building. As it is to be equipped with a mammoth refrigerator and completely lighted, the total cost will be several thousand more than the main contract.

Next comes the poultry building which will be of pressed brick and will be very large in ground area. It will stand as high in facade as some of the structures. The main idea is to secure space and light. It will stand on the new forty acres purchased this spring and north of the present machinery building.

The construction of these new buildings will force the farm machinery division of the fair to the north and at the fair of 1907 it will extend from its present beginnings near the grand stand quite to the extreme north end of the grounds.

The other counties receiving fair amounts were: Beltrami, $948.50; Otter Tail, $742.50; Roseau, $667.50 and Itasca, $667.50. Logger Drowned.

Sandstone.—Ben Elstad, a riverman, while loading logs here, accidentally fell off a log and although he was an experienced swimmer he was drowned. He was only five feet from the boom. His brother-in-law and six other men were near when he fell, but they at first refused to help him to him, as it is a common occurrence for the men to fall off the logs. He rose to the surface and swam enough to keep his head above water, but he did not get nearer to the log. Mr. Jay noticed this and started to give him assistance with a pole, when without any outcry he went under and he did not rise again. The body was recovered and shipped to Grantsburg, Elstad's home. The man was unmarried.

Saves Own Life.

Minneapolis.—With his clothes covered with burning oil, David Christensen saved his life by jumping into a large vat of water in the shops of the Northwestern Store company, 212 Hennepin avenue. With other workmen Christensen was boiling an oil preparation when it tipped over and the oil caught fire and was thrown to all parts of the room. Christensen's clothes took fire, but his prompt action in plunging head first into the vat prevented injury, although he lost both eyes. The flames did slight damage to the building.

LAW ROUGH ON CAMERA ARTISTS

New German Act Puts Them in Constant Danger.

Berlin, June 25.—The snapshot photographer in Germany is threatened with extinction after July 1, owing to the great risk he will run of being mugged in heavy lines of the new act which goes into force on that date.

The right of all persons to the exclusive reproduction of their own portraits or those of their houses or belongings, by the new enactment, made absolute. There is danger ahead for the amateur or professional who snapshots someone or something without procuring a permit with the necessary authorization. Prosecution and punishment may quickly follow.

Even when requested by a friend to take a photograph of a room, or its contents, which the owner may desire to use as a postcard, the danger is still great, for the room may contain pictures, and if these are recognizable in the photograph, the photographer is liable to prosecution by the artist.

St. Paul.—While riding in an automobile driven by Walter Hill, son of James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, Fred Schroeder, a fireman, was accidentally killed by falling out of the automobile, the wheels of which ran over his head. It is thought Schroeder was seized with an attack of epilepsy.

Ereth.—While a party of young men were out on the lake in a rowboat they intended to change places. The boat was overturned, but all managed to cling to the bottom. A gasoline launch picked up all of the party but Martin McNulty, who was taken with cramps and was drowned before assistance could reach him.

Clifford, who was watching the accident, waded out from the shore and succeeded in dragging the half-drowned youngster to dry land.

NOW BIRDIE GETS HIS.

Of all the things that swim or run,
Now beats in easy race,
He gives big odds to fly and fur,
And wins in every race.

He hops into his auto car
And lurches the horses;
Or takes the automobile for a try,
And licks him even worse.

Perhaps the whale or shark get gay
And want a little go,
St. Alan dives in his submarine
And does them down below.

And now the cheery feathered chap
Must close his say before,
For man puts up his flying gear,
And wallops birdie, too.

—Judge.

Advances.

"Hiram," said Mrs. Kornkob to her husband, who was reading the Weekly Serech, "they say that Jones man who has taken the farm next to ours is richly entertained."

"I guess he is," replied farmer Kornkob. "He knows four different sinneres by heart." — Milwaukee Sentinel.

NEED FOR SPEED.

Table Centerpiece for the "Fourth." Scarlet geraniums, white carnations and blue larkspur make a delightful combination for this great holiday table piece. Make the place cards of scarlet paper to resemble giant firecrackers, if it is too expensive to buy them at the flower counter. The snapping cracker motto caps come in red, white and blue; some of them have tiny metal cannon attached. A novel way to distribute these trifles is to put them in a tissue paper bag made from red, white and blue and suspended by tricolor ribbons. Give each person a chance to break the bag by striking it with a cane; when the bag bursts there will be a shower of these gay papers and a merry scramble to get one.

June is the season when these luscious berries are in their prime and a luncheon with them for the basis is a very pretty affair. Use a brown rustic basket for the centerpiece filled with large red berries, vines and leaves. If possible to obtain, get the real plants. At each place have a white candle with a shade of crushed strawberry color. Serve first five un-hulled berries on a leaf-covered plate, with a neat pile of pulverized sugar in the center. Instead of plates use small baskets are suitable for these berries, standing them on a service plate; the place card may be tied to the handle. Tomato soup comes next, then a salmon croquette, new potatoes and beet salad. The last course will be individual strawberry shortcakes. With these pass a bowl of whipped cream.

When all has arrived there was a contest to see who could gather the most flowers in a half hour; after the spoils were counted the boy and the girl having the most were crowned with dandelion wreaths. Then they made rings, chains and bracelets out of the stems and told fortunes by the full blown blossoms. At five o'clock this delicious spread was unpacked from a huge hamper and the children pronounced it the "best ever." Bread and butter sandwiches, egg salad, dainty cutbacks, new potatoes, machine cake, oranges and bananas, and a beautiful supply of lemonade.

MADAME MERILL.

Seemed to Prove It.

"Do you believe that ignorance is bliss?" one asked a chap.

The girl said, with scornful glance, "Well, you seem to be happy!"

What He Feared.

The dishonest gardener, just discharged, eyed his late master gloomily, and shook his head at him.

"You will miss me, sir," he said, with sad smile. "You will miss me before I be gone 'alf an our'."

"That," replied his master, nastily, "I shall bear with fortitude, so long as I don't miss anything else." — Chicago Journal.

By the Porter.

"Train holds," said the old traveler, "are nothing new for me. I've been in lots of them."

"How do you mean they are covered with a revolver?" asked the listener.

"Can't say," replied the old traveler. "I've always been held up with a whisk broom." — Milwaukee Sentinel.

Happy Thought.

"Wilkins has a great scheme for giving his baby an airing this summer."

"Proceed."

"He's going to attach a box to the top of the lawn mower and let the kid ride in it when he mows the lawn." — Milwaukee Sentinel.

A New Idea.

"It is a wonder these society people who are always trying for a new sensation in their functions don't give dried apple parties."

"What put such an idea into your head?"

"They would be such swell affairs." — Baltimore American.

What Attracted Him.

"Stop!" commanded Miss Nuroz, with a dandified air. "The idea of your proposing to a lady in my station of life! You ought to know better!"

"Well," replied Mr. Hamler, "I do know better, but no richer." — The Royal.

Merely an Income.

"Why didn't you accept Jack when he proposed?"

"Because I didn't know what his financial standing was, my dear."

"I didn't know you were marrying for riches."

"I'm not my dear, merely income." — Milwaukee Sentinel.

He Took It Badly.

"You are quite rich down," said the facetious cyclist to the man he had knocked over; "you ought to take something."

"I will send the victim jumping up, 'I'll take it out of your blade!'"

And he did.

Too Much Exertion.

Cholly—"Why do you wear a top hat all the time? You look so much better in one."

Fred—"Dear boy, to be always conscious that one is looking one's best is a most important thing, you know." — Chicago Tribune.

Forbidding the Banns.

"Do you think it is right for a woman to marry a man of fifty?"

"Certainly not; pity and love are too near akin." — Baltimore American.

IDEAS IN ENTERTAINMENTS

Two Good Suggestions for Fourth of July Parties--How to Get Up and Serve a Strawberry Luncheon--Dandelion Party That Was Voted a Great Success--For Golf Players.

For those who wish it, as it is a good rule never to serve any fruit with cream on it, as many people dislike milk of cream with a fruit acid. During the afternoon lemonade may be served with strawberries floating on top.

A miniature luncheon in the decorative scheme in the center of the table, golf bags and sticks were the personal souvenirs at each place, and the guests came directly from the morning game, so were hungry for the plain but appetizing meal. The maid serving had her cap adorned with the colors of the club to which all belonged, and a party was made in round balls. Iced bouillon was served first, followed by cold tongue and jellied chicken, hot rolls, shooting potatoes, asparagus salad, barley and cheese. Chocolate ice cream was served in ball molds and the cakes were sponge drops rolled in grated coconut.

Was there ever a child who did not love dandelions? This gorgeous little flower is first with us in the spring and even stray blossoms may be found late in the fall. A field fairly carpeted with these yellow stars gave the idea for this party. No sooner thought of than a dozen children had received notes written in white ink on round pieces of yellow paper asking them to assemble in Parsons' field at two o'clock one June afternoon. Sewing tables were set under a couple of trees covered with white crepe paper table cloths. In the center of each was a round of dandelion bunches were at each place and there was a basket for guest.

When all has arrived there was a contest to see who could gather the most flowers in a half hour; after the spoils were counted the boy and the girl having the most were crowned with dandelion wreaths. Then they made rings, chains and bracelets out of the stems and told fortunes by the full blown blossoms. At five o'clock this delicious spread was unpacked from a huge hamper and the children pronounced it the "best ever." Bread and butter sandwiches, egg salad, dainty cutbacks, new potatoes, machine cake, oranges and bananas, and a beautiful supply of lemonade.

Pretty Rustic Fern-Stands

For the decoration of a dinner-table, or for placing on small occasional tables, the little rustic fern-stands, of which we give a number of sketches, will be found both useful and ornamental. They are easily made, and can be constructed in a great variety of designs, and decorated in many ways; and it is well within the power of any nimble fingers to make them.

The first sketch illustrates a stand made of thin twigs of wood in the shape of a five-barred wooden gate, and mounted on a square piece of wood at the base. On the left-hand side a wire contained in a little round jug, and this is decorated with the ends of the sticks to finish them off. Narrow ribbon can be twisted round and round the sticks to entirely cover them, or they may be decorated in the same manner as the stand previously described.

The fourth stand is for enclosing a fern contained in an ordinary flower-pot and saucer. It is made of short sticks of wood in their rough state, and fastened together with thin nails. The spaces between the stand and the pot should be filled with moss.

The second sketch illustrates a stand in the form of a tripod, made of slender sticks of wood, bound together where they cross. The pot containing the fern is supported by the upper portion of the stand, and the sticks are decorated with the leaves of a creeper, or vine leaves, twisted round and round them.

The third sketch is of a stand made very much on the same principle, but in this case the pot containing the fern is suspended with the wire or string in the center of the stand. A bunch of ribbons fasten the sticks together at the top, and pine with colored beads are inserted at the ends of the sticks to finish them off. Narrow ribbon can be twisted round and round the sticks to entirely cover them, or they may be decorated in the same manner as the stand previously described.

The fourth stand is for enclosing a fern contained in an ordinary flower-pot and saucer. It is made of short sticks of wood in their rough state, and fastened together with thin nails. The spaces between the stand and the pot should be filled with moss.

THINK MORE - SPEND LESS

Why is it that the average man is worth so much less in money and property than we have a right to expect him to be? It isn't because he doesn't make the money, for the average man is industrious and has earned from $10,000 to $30,000 in the past ten years. It is because he doesn't give much serious thought either to his income or his outgo. Serious thought would teach him the true value of a dollar; then he would spend carefully and save steadily. That system soon places any man ahead of his fellows.

UNCLE PETER'S FOURTH
BY GEORGE V. HOBART.

UNCLE PETER passed the Fourth of July at his old home in Ohio. I have shown you a letter he wrote me a few days after that noisy event.

"Dear John, I had a nice, quiet time on the Fourth, with the exception of my ankle, which was somewhat dislocated because my nephew had exploded for my benefit."

"I like the idea of the Fourth with the exception of the noise."

"I believe that if our forefathers had suspected that their great-grandchildren would make such an infernal racket on the Fourth of July they would have wanted for a snowstorm on the 16th of January before stealing their John Hancock, because then it would be too cold to set off those crackers under your neighbors' eyebrows when he least expects it."

"We had a nice, quiet time at home on the Fourth, John. With the exception that a little Oscar Maddy, who lives next door, presented me with a roman candle which I threw between the third button on my waist-coat and the solar plexus."

"I acknowledged the receipt by falling off the front step and barking my shoulder."

"You should always remember, John, that the Fourth is the day when your patriotic voice should climb atop of your throat and make the welkin ring, but it isn't really necessary to get up a row between a stick of dynamite and a keg of giant powder to prove that you love the cause of liberty."

"You will find that some of our best citizens—men who love liberty with an everlasting love—are hiding in the cellar with both hands over their ears from July 31 to July 5th."

"We had a nice, quiet time at home on the Fourth, with the exception that your second cousin, Randolph, tried to explode a toy cannon and removed the apex of his third button on about half of the dining-room window."

"It may be necessary to celebrate the birth of freedom by bursting forth into noise, but my idea, John, is that Old Glory would fly much better if we were more subdued and kept our children on the earth instead of letting them go up in the air in small fragments."

"We had a very quiet time at home, John, on the Fourth, with the exception of your distant relative, Uncle Joseph Carver. Uncle Joe answered about six mist jumps and then went to sleep on the front porch with five packs of fre crackers in his coat pocket."

"Full of the spirit of liberty, your uncle, Randolph, set fire to your cousin's pocket, and when last seen your Uncle Joe was rushing over hill and dale in the general direction of Hartford, Conn., with the fre crackers cheering him on."

"Liberty, John, is the only real thing in this world for a nation, but just why the glorious cause of freedom should be slugged in the face with an initiation of the bombardment of Fort Arthur is something which I must have misremembered."

"We had a very quiet time here at home on the Fourth, John, with the exception that another interesting cousin of yours my young namesake, Peter Grant, had a small fre cracker to the cat's tail, and that went to the kitchen to have her explosion."

"I took two hours and seven neighbors to get your good old Aunt Maggie out of the refrigerator, which was placed selected for her by the catastrophe."

"The stove lost all the supper it contained. Little Peter Grant lost his eyeglasses and his Buster Brown hair;

LITTLE CAUSE FOR WORRY.

More or Less Glittering Bait Held Out to Cow Punchers.

Over in the Salmon river meadows country, in Idaho, ranged a wild and woolly bunch of long-haired cow punchers, whose knowledge of the world was confined mainly to trips after cattle into surrounding counties. Into this reckless but verdant community there came the smooth-tongued representative of a wild west show who hired several men at a high salary to do a half-raising act, the chief feature being that they should appear to be thrown from their horses and dragged by the foot.

After they had practiced in a corral for a while one of them loosened himself and rising from the dirt, disheveled and dazed, inquired:

"Saw, mister, ain't this ruther dangerous? We might get killed."

"That's all right," chirped the show's representative cheerfully. "Your salary will go on—just the same."—Lippincott's Magazine.

THE REORGANIZED NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

The new Board of Trustees of the New York Life Insurance Company, chosen by the policyholders under the Armstrong laws, has taken charge of the company's affairs and has begun the work of reorganization.

In choosing the principal officers of the company, the Board has adhered to the idea that a life insurance company should be managed by its insurance men. The new president is Darwin P. Kingsley, a college bred man of good New England stock, who has been in the company's service in a variety of capacities for a period of nearly twenty years. In the parlance of life insurance, he "began with the rate book" and has advanced step by step to his present position.

The first vice president of the company is Thomas A. Buckner, who has served the company for more than a quarter of a century, and has never had any other business connection.

Associated with these men are others long trained in the company's service, each an expert in his own department of work. Wm. E. Ingersoll, who has for many years been in charge of the company's great business in Europe, is one of the second vice presidents, and will continue at the head of the company's office in Paris.

Rufus W. Weeks, who has been in the company's service for nearly forty years, ranks next to Mr. Buckner as vice president, and continues as chief actuary of the company.

The policyholders have expressed their belief in this company in no uncertain terms. The upsurge in life insurance within the last two years has resulted in a great increase in the number of policyholders, alarmed on matters which were not very clear to them, have been disposed to give up their contracts at a heavy sacrifice. This has not been true in the New York Life to any great extent. The company had $2,000,000,000 insurance on its books when the life insurance investigation began, and while the laws of the State of New York now do not permit any company to write over $150,000,000 a year (which is about one-eighth the New York Life's premium), the company's outstanding business still exceeds $2,000,000,000.

Policyholders generally will be still further reassured by the action of the Board, as it places at the head of the company to protect their interests men of thorough training and unexceptionable character.

Injury from Mosquitoes.

New Jersey has many places ideal in situation and accessibility, and one such place developed rapidly to a certain point and there it stood, halted by the mosquitoes that bred in the surrounding marsh lands. Country club, golf, tennis and other attractions ceased to attract when attention was necessarily focused on the biting or stinging pests that intruded everywhere, and the tendency was to sell out without a fight, and an improvement society was formed which consulted with my office and followed my advice. In one year the bulk of the breeding area was drained, mosquitoes have since been absent almost entirely; one gentleman, not a large owner, either told me his property had increased $50,000 in value, and new settlers began to come in. This year one of the worst breeding areas of the olden day was used as a camping ground, and 100 new residences are planned for next year.—Prof. John B. Smith, in the Popular Science Monthly.

But, They Had Not.

At a public meeting the chair man asked at the end of the candidate's speech whether "any gentle man has any question to ask?"

Some one rose and propounded an inquiry mainly critical of the prevalent political belief. A politician he had raised a club and struck him to the floor. The chairman looked round and asked mistily: "Any other gentleman a question to ask?"

Advanced.

"Hiram" held up Korzhob to his husband, who was reading the Weekly Beech, "they say that Jones man who has taken the farm next to ours is mighty intellectual."

"I guess he is," replied Farmer Korzhob. "He knows four different almanacs by heart!"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Evidently.

Tom—Pech had his eyes glued on Miss Pechley during the entire evening.

THE DAY THE EAGLE SCREAMS

ONE GIANT CRACKER

TO CONTAIN 187,500 POUNDS OF GUN POWDER.

This is What It Would Be If All the Little Crackers of Our Fourth Were Put Together in One Tube.

There are—to be exact—1,048,537 boys between the ages of four and 20 years in the United States who are going to celebrate the Glorious Fourth. And this takes an account whatever of the old boys, between the ages of 20 and 80, with a few verging on the edge of 90 for good measure. These boys are going to celebrate in the good old-fashioned way with fre crackers and toy pistols and cannons and skyrocket and nigger-chasers. They are going to make a lot of noise, and a good many boys are going to get their fingers and thumbs blown off and their faces filled with gunpowder. They are going to make a lot of noise, and a good many boys are going to get their fingers and thumbs blown off and their faces filled with gunpowder. GROWTH OF THE FLAG.

The flag of 1777, adopted by congress June 4, 1777, and first unfurled by Capt. Paul Jones on the Ranger, to the command of which he was appointed on the day the resolution adopting the flag was passed by congress.

The flag of 1877 illustrates the expansion of the nation, its 46 stars representing the 46 states of the union, including Oklahoma.

Nebraska Parrots Disappeared. Only a few naturalists and early tourists to Nebraska are now left to tell of the hundreds of parrots that were once numerous in Nebraska. Fifty years ago they were still seen along the Missouri river in southeastern Nebraska, but disappeared very suddenly after the first settlement in that region. The Nebraska parrot was the Carolina parakeet (Corvus carolinensis), a beautiful green and yellow plumage, so striking in appearance as to instantly arrest the attention of the early hunter.

For many years there have been legends of a bird gathered in the force of various grades of explosives. The experts call it potential energy. Some time ago two famous Frenchmen—Louis and Savary—made a series of experiments to determine the exact extent of the potential energy

NERVOUS COLLAPSE

IS OFTEN PREVENTED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Taken When the First Warning Symptoms Are Heeded, Much Nervous Suffering May Be Saved.

Are you troubled with pallor, loss of sleep, waves of dizziness over the body, shortness of breath, slight excitation, a peculiar skipping of the heart beat, poor digestion, cold extremities or a feeling of weight and fullness? Do not make the mistake of thinking that these are diseases in themselves and are satisfied with temporary relief.

This is the way the nervous system weakens. It is a breaking down. It is simply means that the blood has become impure and cannot carry enough nutriment to the nerves to keep them healthy and able to do their work.

Rest, alone, will sometimes give the needed relief. The true remedy is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, however, presents the final breakdown of the nervous and muscular systems. Diseases follow, because the pills act directly upon the impure blood, making it rich, red and pure.

Mrs. F. O. Bradley, of 123 Parson's Avenue, Rochester, N. Y., says:

"I was never very healthy and some years ago, when I had a run-down condition, I suffered a nervous shock, caused by a misunderstanding. It was so great that I was unable to work."

"I was just weak, low-spirited and nervous. I could hardly walk and could not bear the least noise. My appetite was poor and I did not care for food. I couldn't sleep well and for two weeks got scarcely an hour's sleep. I had severe headache most of the time and pains in the back and spine."

"I was treated by two doctors, but under the care of one of them for six months. I got no relief and then decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon began to feel better and the improvement was general. My appetite became hearty and my sleep better. The headache and pains in the joints disappeared. I was able to go back to work. I fell right to work and as though I had never been ill."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are invaluable in such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and general debility.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of 50 cents per package for $2.00. Write to Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Historic Island for Sale.

Haasay Island, the inner Hebrides, which lies between the mainland of Scotland and the Isle of Skye, has failed to find a purchaser at the upset price of £25,000 placed upon it. Its name is the Scandinavian for "the place of the red deer," and the shrouds, with the mansion house and grounds on the southern end, constitute the chief value of the island. Near the northern end are the ruins of Brochel castle, the residence of the ancient Jarls, and the place where the colts bred Haasay has a place and in England literature it is mentioned in Samuel Johnson's "Journey to the Western Islands of Scotland."

Good for Evil.

One Sunday a teacher was trying to illustrate to her small scholars the lesson, "Return good for evil." To make it practical she said:

"Suppose, children, one of your schoolmates should strike you, and the next day you should bring him an apple—that would be one way of returning good for evil."

To her dismay one of the little girls spoke up quickly:

"Then he would strike you again to get another apple!"

DAIRY IMPROVEMENT.

The Cream should be cooled and Aired Immediately After Separating.

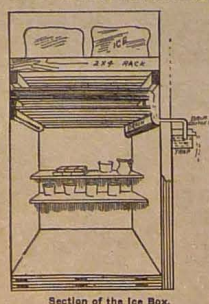

Great improvement could be made in the quality of cream if producers were more skilled in the process of cream separation. In nine cases out of ten improvement could be made with very little, if any, extra work or expense. The simple fact that cooling and straining cream immediately after separation and maintaining it at a low temperature will preserve its quality does not seem to be generally understood among cream producers.

The lack of cleanliness through all the operations is another great drawback to quality, and this is one of the hardest things to correct by careful grading and rewarding for good quality much of the trouble could be overcome.

Plan of Construction Which Will insure Good Results.

In building an ice box for storing butter and milk the first requirement is proper insulation. If a room is to be fitted up for this purpose make the flooring of ordinary inch lumber with 2x2 inch strips nailed across 18 inches apart, and on them lay two thicknesses of best odorless building paper and on these strips nail the flooring:

turn the floor over, so noked strips will be uppermost. The strips are three inches shorter all around than the flooring; now put on two more thicknesses of paper, and lay flooring flush with strips, cut another set of strips three inches shorter than the floor. Lay on these two more thicknesses of paper and put on a last course of flooring.

There are now two perfect dead air spaces, which is a better non-conductor than any filling, and will always be sweet. Inside the room, sides are put on the same as bottom, except at the corners, where, as a matter of precaution, an extra thickness of paper is placed. In height of building leave enough room overhead for ice chamber (two feet, six inches is about right).

Now comes the principal feature of the room, namely, the ice racks. Four inches below, where the 2 ft. 6 inch line is from ceiling to cooler, nail securely a 2 in. x 4 in. scraggling on long way of cooler, both sides alike, on inside of rear.

EXAMPLE OF TRUE CHIVALRY.

Modern Lover Proves Himself Equal to Heroes of the Past.

There was a moment of profound silence. He was the first to speak. "You are richer than I am," he faltered, with emotion.

She bowed her head, replying nothing. But now the true nobility of his character manifested itself.

"Yet for all that I am no better than you are!" he cried, and folded her to his breast.

And when her conscience accusing her, she tried to tell him that not only her father but four of her uncles were Pittsburgh millionaires, he scolded her as lips with kisses, and would hear nothing—Puck.

THOUGHT CHILD WOULD DIE.

Whole Body Covered with Cuban Itch—Cuticura Remedies Cured at Cost of Seventy-Five Cents.

"My little boy, when only an infant of three months, caught the Cuban Itch. Soon broke out on his head, neck, arms and legs, and he would cry all the time. He could not sleep day or night, and a light dress is all he could wear. I called on one of our best doctors to treat him, but he seemed to get worse. He suffered so terribly that my husband said he believed he would have to die. I had almost given up hope when a lady friend told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used the Cuticura Ointment and in about a week I could sleep, and he slept with ease for the first time since two months. After three applications the sores began to dry up, and in just two weeks from that day I commenced to use the Cuticura Remedies my baby was entirely well. The treatment only cost me 75c, and I would have paid half that if I could not have got it cheaper. I feel safe in saying that the Cuticura Remedies saved his life. He is now a boy of five years."—Mrs. Zina Miller, Union City, R. P. D. No. 1, Branch Co., Mich., May 17, 1906.

DOCTOR'S FOOD TALK.

Selection of Food One of the Most Important Acts in Life.

A Mass. doctor says: "Our health and physical and mental happiness are so largely under our personal control that the proper selection of food should be, and is one of the most important acts in life."

"On this subject, I may say that I know of no food equal in digestibility and more powerful in point of nutriment than the modern Grape-Nuts. Our hepatic organizations of what is sufficient for the cerebral part of a meal, the energetic demand, state that the user is perfectly nourished from one meal to another."

"I am convinced that the extensive and general use of high class foods of this character would increase the term of human life, add to the sum total of happiness and very considerably improve society in general. I am free to mention the food, for I personally know of its value."

Grape-Nuts food can be used by babes in arms, or adults. If it is ready cooked, can be served instantly, either cold with cream, or with hot water or hot milk poured over. All sorts of puddings and fancy dishes can be made with Grape-Nuts. The food is concentrated and very economical, for four heaping teaspoons are sufficient for the cereal part of a meal.

TREATMENT INDUCED A CHILL.

Nemedy Given in Hospital Tent Must Have Been Pleasant.

The captain tells a story which runs something like this: In camp one morning the first sergeant reported that Private B— had a chill. "Is it a serious case?" asked the captain. "Well, sir, I don't know just how serious it is, but it's a big one, for it seems to be all over him, and he weighs 150 pounds. On seeing him the captain found him looking rather blue, and instructed the first sergeant to send him to the surgeon in charge of a corporal.

After breakfast the captain saw the corporal and asked him how the man was getting on. "Oh, he's all right now," was the reply. "I took him up to the hospital tent, and when I saw what kind of medicine the doctor gave him I had a chill too."—Army and Navy Life.

The Mules Understood.

A story is told of Senator Knute Nelson, who spent some of his early years in the mule country. He there discovered the necessity of certain emphatic language in order to make mules move. "All varieties of tongues were in demand in that camp of Scandinavian, German, Italian—but none of the words used seemed to have the explosive force to adjust the tempo of the mule to the desired pace. Along came a strapping Irishman, who used some popular expressions, usually indicated in print by black dots. The mules understood. "There's a language all mules understand," said the Irishman—"and it's not me mother tongue, either."—Joe Mitchell Chapple, in National Magazine.
