AN EXCEEDINGLY LIVE PASTOR

A Former Popular Pine City Priest Officially Announces the Indefinite Postponement of His Funeral.

All of the older residents of Pine City have a warm spot in their hearts for Rev. T. L. Rabastein, who for several years was pastor of St. Mary's church, in this place. Father Rabastein is now pastor of a large and flourishing church in Dickinson, N. D., and the following, clipped from the Press, will prove of interest to his many friends in Pine County.

Quite a little excitement was caused early Saturday evening when it was reported that Rev. Thonas Rabastein was dead. As a matter of fact, Fr. Rabastein, at the time of the report was being circulated was very seriously ill, the result of a complication of conditions, nervous excitement and overwork. In the early morning during the electric storm, Fr. Rabastein was at work in the printing office, and at about the time the church was struck by lightning he and his assistant were given quite a shock from the machines. For several hours he worked in the office with the doors closed and during that time inhaled the fumes from the gasoline engine. Fr. Rabastein's rooms at the rear of the St. Josephs. church have been under repair, and the fresh paint, varnish and gases from these had been obnoxious to him. These circumstances, together with the unusual excitement of the day, were to blame in a large measure for the nervous-collapse, which took place in the early evening. A physician was in attendance for several hours and Fr. Rabastein regained consciousness. He has since practically recovered and is enjoying good health. Fr. Rabastein has had the pleasure of answering the telephone and telling his friends that he has not fully decided at what time Fr. Rabastein's funeral would be held.

THE POEM.

Alh! the enemy of my reign,
With besting drams advances,
Their clanking armor soothes my pain,
My very soul entrances.

My sword in hand, and with mine eye,
I'll measure every girth,
And each and every soul must die,
To carpet this, my earth.

Replying to the above, which came to hand a few days ago, "Kib" begs to say that the lines suggest very strongly the ravings of a pampered or prepared food "young lin,"—one of those "kids" whose shriveled little veins are so barren of good red blood that in his presence would scare all the teeth out of his head. What the evidently needs is a good, sound spanking every now and then for thirty days. This, however, should not be administered until after he has partaken of a pint of raw cow's milk, into which has been stirred two sure enough hen's eggs.

The writer has in mind a case very similar to the one above, where by giving the above treatment, the boy was permanently cured of his idea that he had a right to strut about on the highway, smelling and howling for "blud."

For goodness sake, gentlemen, don't undo the work of immortal St. Patrick by making this a second Ireland of the reptile period! For the good of the community, the Snake and his kind should be exterminated.

If it be true, as I am informed it is, that the farmers along the Snake river purchased their lands subject to the overflow, then why all this legalizing over it, especially agreed and mutual understanding?

How long the Messrs. Gottry intended paying the writer $10 per inch for his "snipe" was a question at present unanswerable. Let us hope, however, even if the duplication be a vain one that the publishers will at least continue the stipend until "Kib" has gotten the whole load off his stomach.

When asked a few days ago whether or not he believed in reciprocity, "big" had well met Scott's Claw replied that he thought it was all right, provided one wasn't in a hurry to catch a train.

It is really too bad that Brother Adam could not have lived till last Sunday, to witness the popularity of his famous ale.

VANDALISM AT BIRCHWOOD

Numerous Complaints of Lawlessness Committed in Pine City's Sacred City of the Dead.

Considerable complaint has been made of late, of depredations committed in Birchwood cemetery by unknown parties. Plants, flowers and decorations placed over the last resting places of the departed have been ruthlessly destroyed or carried away bodily. This has been done not only once, but time and again, and no lot is exempt from the sacrilegious hands of the marauders, and the matter is becoming so serious that the lot-owners feel compelled to make some effort to abate the evil.

Surely this vandalism in our city of the dead should be put put a stop to. The Pioneers can hardly believe that the offenders have been committed maliciously but rather through carelessness or lack of appreciation of the respect due to the memory of the silent sleepers resting there.

It is reported that children frequently make the cemetery their play grounds, and perchance, in the happy thoughtlessness of childhood they are the ones who have committed the mischief. It scarcely seems possible that any one of mature years could be guilty of so serious an offense as that of robbing the dead of the tributes left on their tombs by sorrowing relatives or friends.

"Old Subscriber" Answered.

I reply to "Old Subscriber" I would bear the privilege of saying that either reformation or charity are not by men of his particular stamp, a man whose bushwhacking principles will prevent him from signing his real name to what he writes for publication. Reformation is not led by men whose backbone is a cotton string.

All men of common sense know that reform is needed everywhere, and especially in Pine City. With regard to the institutions which we may be heading, and "Old Subscriber" seems to think needs reform, which may be a fact to some extent, but to what extent "Old Subscriber" is probably incompetent to judge, as it requires backbone to judge righteous judgment.

I would like to hear from you again, but please sign your real name like a man.

Yours Respectfully,
Joas Artress.

A Friend of Auld Lang Syne.

Judge C. H. Egan, one of the old timers of Route Creek, was a Pine City visitor Tuesday, and passed a pleasant half hour with the Pioneer boys while here. Comrade Egan's visits to Pine City have been rather infrequent of late years, but he says this to the growing influence of advancing age. He is as it may be, a very young old man. His eye is as bright and his tongue as glib as they were eighteen or twenty years ago, when as justice of the peace he used to marry off love-lorn couples at the out-rate of ninety cents per tie-up, to the great discomfort of other J. P.'s in the county, who all carried union cards and stood up for tall legal rates for their services as "jokers."

Mr. Egan reports that affairs in Brook and vicinity are flourishing, and the prospects for all kinds of crops are good.

THE STATE FAIR OF 1907

48th Annual Display of Minnesota's Products Opens Sept. 2nd—Every Department to be Enlarged.

With many new buildings, great changes on the grounds, wonderful improvements in lighting and sanitation, and a large area added to its exhibit space, the Minnesota State Fair will this time be indeed "the greatest fair in America."

The fair is to open Monday, Sept. 2 (Labor Day) and continue through the week, closing on Saturday, Sept. 7. Unusual efforts have been put forth on the part of the managers to make the fair a great one and, on this point, date very largely increased exhibits are assured in all divisions of the fair.

The opening of the mammoth Livestock Amphitheater last year attracted the attention of stockmen all over the country and they are coming in great numbers this year to show their animals in the best equipped stock division of any fair in the country.

The new Dairy Building is an adequate structure to represent the enormous dairy industry of the state. Near it is the new Poultry Hall—the largest building for the exhibition of poultry in the world.

A new Manufactures Building will supplement the one erected a few years ago. The Grand Stand has been rebuilt and made perfectly safe and now accommodating 5,000 more people have been erected. The new sewer system and public comfort stations make the grounds perfect for the fair.

At night the grounds and buildings will blaze with electric light and races under an lights and wonderful fireworks commencing with "The Siege of Jericho" spectacle will furnish a magnificent entertainment.

A mammoth air ship will sail about the grounds daily and visit each city in turn. The races will be of the best and will be "pulled off" amid absolutely clean surroundings.

Dan Patch will appear again on Monday in an endeavor to break his record made last year at the Minnesota fair, when he reduced the best time of a harness horse to 1:35. On Thursday, Sweet Marie, the champion trotting mare will again set her record of 2:02. Saturday will be another big day. A hundred other great amusement features will fill up the programs and there will be something doing every hour of each of the ten days.

E. P. Nelson, president of the fair and C. N. Cosgrove secretary, the fair grounds are located midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis and easily accessible from each city by electric cars.

An Interrupted Cruise.

Wednesday evening a party consisting of L. E. Welly and wife, John Gurley, Frank Gottry and two members of The Pioneers force, started out for a tour of Lake Pokegama. They reached the Pokegama Sanatorium at about seven o'clock, and through the kindness of Gust Ebbert and his estimable wife were shown the beauties and conveniences of this famous resort for tuberculosis patients, of which they have at the present time twenty-seven. After spending about half an hour at the Sanatorium, they went to The Inn, where they just arrived when it began to rain and the cruise had to be abandoned. The Inn, under the management of Miss Host Slocumb, is enjoying a good patronage, last week they had twenty-seven guests and at the present time they have sixteen. On account of the rain Mr. Welly and wife remained at the Inn but the rest of the party came back to town where they arrived at about 10:30.

Must not Ship Bass.

The law governing shipment and sale of fish does not seem to be clearly understood.

The sale of all fish is permitted during the open season except bass and trout. All fish permitted to be sold may be shipped by common carrier, if properly marked with the name and address of the consignor and consigned to the number or weight of each kind of fish in the packages. Bass and trout, however, must not be sold or shipped, except that they may be shipped as baggage, or even by express on the train with the owner personally to destination. The purpose of this stringent regulation is to prevent the sale of bass and brook trout, which is necessary if fishes and streams are to be kept stocked.—Hutchinson Leader.

Pleased With Pine City's Growth

W. C. Devereaux, of Milwaukee, Wis., who at one time was a teacher in the school at Rutledge, and who ran for superintendent of schools in this county seven years ago, was a Pine City visitor Sunday. He departed for Grantsburg Monday morning. Since Mr. Devereaux left Pine County he has been employed by the United States government in the weather bureau at Havana, Cuba, and is now an inspector of the different weather bureau stations of this district, with headquarters at Milwaukee. Mr. Devereaux said he was surprised to see how Pine City had grown since he was a resident of the County.

Accident at the Sawmill.

Another accident at the Pine City Lumber Co.'s mill caused it to close down Saturday night at about 10 o'clock, and gave the day crew a rest Monday, but the mill started up again Tuesday morning. It was reported that the sawmill operator on the "midge" blew out, smashing the cylinder head and throwing small pieces of iron all over the mill. It is thought a woman that no one was hurt.

An Old-Time Game.

Last Sunday the locals met the Finlayson ball tossers on the ball grounds on the north side of the river, in what was an old-time game of ball tossed and pitched to the way scores ran up. The locals, after a slugging match accompanied by numerous errors by each team, finally captured the game, 10 to 8. It was a basting the ball was all the fans were looking for, they certainly got their fill, for in almost every inning there were one or two long hits made. The locals did the best batting, John Lambert and John Axtell taking the lead. John Lambert was five times at bat, and made two two-baggers and a home run, and was hit by the pitcher twice. John Axtell was at bat seven times, and made a single, two two-baggers and a three-bagger. Axtell pitched a good game up to the seventh inning, when he went to pieces, and John Lambert was put on the rubber. John had had pitched to the way since summer, but for part of the seventh and the eighth inning he kept the sluggers from up the line guessing, but in the ninth he was hit by two more scores were added to the visitors' list. Taking the game from beginning to end, it was a close one, but the locals were victorious. The locals did go skyward. The locals go to Sandstone next Sunday to play a return game with the boys at the quarry City.

Long Prairie Lumber.

The exchanges are telling about a new kind of game called ball swung at their "afternoons" and "at homes." It is called the white-elite party. Each lady is requested to bring with her the biggest "two elephants" she has about the house, and down at Faulk Center, where the game finished, the amusement was for the afternoon, thirteen women brought their husbands.

Pure Bred Cattle.
The auction sales of pure bred cattle are always very attractive features of the Minnesota State Fair. City and country people alike through the green amphitheatre when the beautiful cattle are brought into the arena to be knocked down for literally under the auctioneer's hammer. Whether a judge of animals or not everyone likes to see them. This year's sales of Hereford cattle will be in charge of Thomas Smith, better known to the breeders as "Tom Smith," of Crest Hill. In a letter to the fair management received yesterday Mr. Smith says that there will be about 1000 head of Hereford cattle consigned for the Minnesota State Fair.

"We will have," says Mr. Smith, "sons and daughters and granddaughters and grandsons as well as international champions than any other bull living and also progeny of the 1896 champion 'Perfection' and his roll brother.

"There will also be grandsons of 'Prize' and 'Woodward' and the international champion 'Wood Principal.' G. W. Way & Son of New Sharon, Iowa, and the new yearling show bull of Beta Brumel breeding, and J. C. Robinson & Son of Evansville, Wis., will also be in the sale. Section and will enter in the sale four animals. These breeders have 'Prize of Levenger' and 'Star' and 'Lad' blood strong in their herd, and always make a good showing as well as topping the averages in any sale. The Hereford sale will take place on the afternoon of Wednesday, Sept. 4, of fair week.

Nearly Lynched.
St. Paul—Capt. J. E. Hille and Police Officer Henry Holland, 177 Fuller street, and a young man known as Johnson were in a scuffle at the hands of an infuriated mob who made desperate efforts to reach them and were only saved by hard work on the part of the police. Holland, assisted by Johnson, attempted to kill a mobster and was nearly lynched. He was rescued by Johnson, who succeeded in carrying her as far as the ferry stable when the mob overtook them.

Holland was badly beaten in spite of the efforts of the police before he was taken to the Rondo street police station. Both he and Johnson were released on bail for the next evening. Holland and his wife have not been living together for some time. Holland resides at 177 Fuller street with his wife with the child has been living at the home of Charles McGuire, 41 Central terrace. Holland made several attempts to secure the child and had threatened to carry her away.

Gold Watch Found.
Mankato—The gleam of gold attracted the attention of Mrs. William Koles when she examined the roof of a summer bungalow that she had pulled up on a lot adjoining her home in the east part of the city. She had recently purchased. Close examination showed a gold watch about which the seams were of the same metal and twisted. The time piece was in good condition, although it had evidently been very much used. The watch was found in a box in the case, which was found in the clearing up of the mystery of how the watch happened to be there of its ownership.

Body Found.
Brainerd—The body of John Collins, a helper at Parker & Topping's foundry, was found in the river north of the Laurel street bridge. The discovery was made by some boys who hauled the body ashore and notified the chief of police and coroner. Collins was a man of irregular habits. Whether he fell into the river while under the influence of liquor or committed suicide is not known.

PROSECUTOR UNABLE TO INQUIRE MAGILL'S

STATE'S ATTORNEY FAILS TO LINK PRISONERS WITH DEATH OF WOMAN.

SUICIDE NOTES IN HANDS OF DEFENSE

Telegraph Companies Refuse to Produce Messages Sent by Mervin to E. B. Banker. Whereabouts of Daughter Still Unknown.

Clinton, Ill., July 31.—A multitude of obstacles confronted State Attorney Miller Tuesday when the special grand jury probing into the death of Mrs. Fay Magill resumed its investigation. These obstacles include the chain of evidence he expected to forge in the case against Fred H. Magill and Faye Graham Magill, who are accused of hastening the first wife's death, were swept away after futile attempts on his part to confirm them. His principal hope was to get possession of the suicide letter attributed to Mrs. Fay Magill, which the state contends are forgeries. These letters are now in possession of the defense.

Thwarted in his attempt to obtain them, Mr. Miller made a new move and endeavored to get hold of the private telegrams which passed between Magill and Arthur Mervin, the gambler who aided him to leave the city secretly.

Upon the refusal of the telegraph companies to produce copies of the messages he turned as a last straw to a solution of the mystery of the whereabouts of Margaret Magill, Fred Magill's 19-year-old daughter, which the 19-year-old girl is still being kept in hiding by Attorney R. A. Lemon, Magill's counsel, and an all-night search failed to reveal any clue to her hiding place.

The state believes that if she could be brought before the grand jury her testimony would disclose incriminating evidence against the accused pair and prove a trump card for the prosecution in spite of the assertions of the lawyers for the defense that she would hold her father and Faye Graham Magill.

One of the principal witnesses who appeared Monday favored the defense. It was C. G. Glendinning, a veterinary surgeon. Glendinning chloroformed a horse belonging to the Magills several weeks prior to Mrs. Fay Magill's death. He told the grand jury that Mrs. Magill at the time asked him many questions as to the painlessness of death by chloroform. Nothing but positive proof was obtained from any of the score of witnesses who appeared during the day. Charles Cline and John Rogers, mechanics, were called for the purpose of learning when Magill and Faye Graham had been out riding alone before Mrs. Magill's death. But they testified that Margaret Magill always accompanied her father.

Faye Graham's Friends Called.
A number of women friends of Magill's second wife were questioned. They were Gertrude Mottet, Nettie Carr, Mrs. James Cline and Annie Sullivan. None of them was able to enlighten the jury on Faye Graham's conduct. Restaurant men were interrogated as to Magill's demeanor toward Faye when the pair took meals in their places.

Clinton now has settled down to a sane consideration of the case against the prisoners, who are passing lonely hours in the county jail. The feeling that the couple had gathered about and abated, but all talk of violence has disappeared. Hardy a person outside of the lawyers interested in the case came near the jail for the first time of the day, but Magill and his bride having declared that they do not want to talk to any of their former friends or associates.

BIG LEAGUE SCOUTS TURN TO AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

List of Players Eligible for Draft This Season Smaller Than in Former Years.

The American association season is more than half over now and the major league scouts and managers are casting about for the season club for 1908 material. The association is without doubt the strongest of all the minor leagues, and it is only natural that the big league men should look to the association for available talent. During the last three seasons the association has sent a great many players to the major league ranks, and while many of them have been returned, still there have been many more who are there now and who have become stars. The crop will not be as large for the big leagues this year as heretofore, for the reason that there are many ex-major leaguers in the association, and as a result the big fellows do not want the same men back again unless they happen to have a strong attachment. Already the major league scouts have been following the association teams about in order to get a correct line on the best men for various positions. The association owners as they want to keep their teams tight, but just the same they are more than willing to sell when they get good fair prices for their men. Under the new drafting rules the major league can draft only one man from each club in the association, which means that only eight players all told can be taken by draft at the close of the present season. However, there will be many sales just the same, but the number of players to go up will be greatly reduced, according to the showing thus far this season. The major leaguers are not looking for the best men in the association—that is, where they have been up in fast company, and as a result they want in the young and promising players.

AMERICAN LEAGUE NOTES

The Boston club has sold Pitcher Joe Harris to the Providence Eastern league club. Pitcher Brockett, of New York, is said to be as fast as anybody going down to first base. The Detroit Tigers brag of the fact that they have so far this season four times worked the ancient conked-out trick. Herman Schaefer has been b'd up with a strained shoulder ligament, due to sliding. The New York club has sent Pitcher Brockett to and recalled "Doc" Newton from the Montreal farm. Clarke Griffith is reported to have lines out for Pitcher Pitt, of Brown, of the Detroit club. Catcher Spencer is playing with the St. Louis Browns. Jimmy McAlester would have raised the suspension. Pitcher Flaherty has rejoined the Boston team. While disabled he acted as scout for the Boston club. Capt. John Gansel, of Cincinnati, has just named a brother who was lost to the family for 12 years.

NATIONAL LEAGUE NEWS

Jack Chapman maintains there is no one in the country who can outthrow Touss Wagner. The Brooklyn club has transferred Pitcher Henley to the Rochester club of the Eastern league. Pitcher Flaherty has rejoined the Boston team. While disabled he acted as scout for the Boston club. Capt. John Gansel, of Cincinnati, has just named a brother who was lost to the family for 12 years. Al. Burch of the St. Louis Cardinals has been purchased by the Brooklyn club. He is a native of Brooklyn. A new pennant-like, stout enough to box the world's pennant in any game. Frank Lelli of the White Sox, says he will retire after this season to become a magnate. He intends to purchase the Wichita club, of the Western association.

PINE CITY MINN. *Aug. 2, 1907

The Independent has absorbed the Press at Cambridge. Cambridge can give good support to one first-class newspaper, and Editor Kleiartz is able to deliver the goods.

EDITOR ELBERT DEBE, of the North Branch Review, who came up to Pine City this week to enjoy his annual bath, looks much improved by the operation, and his already bright paper will no doubt gleam increased effulgence on account of its editor's ablation.

The Osakis Review last week published a handsome four-page extra, containing forty-three fine half-tone illustrations of residences, business places and beauty spots in and around Osakis. The publication is truly a work of art, and being printed right at home in the Review office, is a credit to Osakis and to the Review printers.

A MINNESOTA chemist claims there is no difference in the harmfulness of high grade whiskies and the cheap concoctions dispensed over the bar at the lowest groceries. To prove that his assertions are true, we would suggest that the worthy chemist should absorb about five libations of the far-famed "squirrel" whiskey indigenous to the range country, and if by some miracle he should chance to recover from the effects he would be qualified to give a reliable opinion, based on experience, which is the only school in which some people can acquire any wisdom.

ROBERT C. MITCHELL, the last of the grand old pioneer newspaper men of the state, the Lion of Minnesota journalism, passed away quite suddenly a week ago today. Death resulted from an acute attack of indigestion. Although in his seventy-fourth year he enjoyed the vigor of youth, mentally and physically, up to within a few hours of his death, doing his last editorial work the day before he passed away. For thirty-seven years he had been one of Duluth's foremost and most progressive citizens, founding the Duluth Tribune, which afterwards consolidated with the News, and is the News-Tribune of today. His writings were peculiarly characteristic. He used a vigorous English that was uninfluenced by the countrified room. He fought for principles, and not for or against the men who upheld those principles, and it often happened that he entertained the warmest personal feelings for those who were apparently the objects of his righteous indignation. His positive personality is permanently impressed upon the scenes of his activity, and friend and foe unite in mourning his loss. The funeral was held Sunday at St. Paul's Episcopal church, under the auspices of the Elks, of which order he was Duluth's oldest member. For the past ten years Mr. Mitchell has edited the Duluth Tribune.

Those who have stomach trouble, no matter how slight, should give every possible help to the digestive organs, so that the food may be digested with the least effort. This may be done by taking something that contains natural digestive properties—something like Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Kodol is a preparation of vegetable acids and contains the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It digests what you eat. Sold at Breckenridge's Pharmacy.

TAKE IT IN TIME

Just as Scores of People Have

Waiting doesn't pay.
If you neglect aching back,
Urinary troubles, diabetes, surely follow.
Doan's Kidney Pills relieve back ache.
Cure every kidney ill.
Philip Jacob, wood carver, of 747 Fifth Street, Milwaukee, Wis., says: "I have had no cause to change my good opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills that I formed in 1898 when they cured me of kidney complaint. That cure has remained permanent. While I was never confined to my bed from the trouble I was not very far from it, and for a while I did not know what was the cause, but finally I concluded that it was kidney and bladder trouble. There was a soreness in the small of my back and considerable pain. I tried ruin on for a time, thinking that it would get better, but found that I had to do something. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store and I noticed in a few days that there was a great change for the better, and in a short time I was thoroughly cured. I have not felt any pain or soreness since that time. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

THINK MORE - SPEND LESS

Why is it that the average man is worth so much less in money and property than we have a right to expect him to be? It isn't because he doesn't make the money, for the average man in industry has been earning from $10,000 to $30,000 in the past ten years. It is because he doesn't give much serious thought either to his income or his outgo. Serious thought would teach him the true value of a dollar; then he would spend carefully and save steadily. That system soon places any man ahead of his fellows.

A BANK ACCOUNT helps you to realize the value of money, makes it easier to handle your financial affairs and to have a growing balance after paying necessary expenses. We invite your account and will help you save.

BRIEF ROMANCE

By ELLA RODMAN CHURCH

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Miss Dilkes and Cousin Phil's mother were cousins, which seemed to Miss Dilkes quite a near relation, as the most distant ramifications of her family were predicated by her, as much as to other family, in her opinion, quite equaled it in importance.

Left now with a very small income, and a very inferior house to that in which her childhood and youth were passed, Miss Rebecca received as inmates a cousin of the same type as herself, and Saldie Porter, whom 22 years of life found very little congeniality in these somber surroundings. Cousin Rebecca frequently complained to get along with Phil's peculiarities, while Cousin Phil was mysterious and confidential over "poor Rebecca's strange ways." Thus these two elderly maidens were constant thorns in each other's sides, and likewise in Saldie Porter's.

There was a delightful home a few miles out of town, an "Italian Villa," it was called, and to this villa went Miss Saldie daily in the morning train, and spent four hours there, in the English branches to two lovely little girls favored frequently with the company of their very charming mamma. It was just enough employment, and it was generously paid, while the young teacher was treated in all respects as became her birth and breeding.

This was just the kind of life that Saldie enjoyed. Her mail from Mrs. Osbrook's brother did not lessen the pleasure of it. He was very elegant, and had such grand ways and ideas, and involved every word in a few weeks. She had never been particularly fond of "Cousin Phil," but she felt that she loved her less than ever that morning. For "Cousin Phil" had not been at all well, and unmistakable symptoms of varicoid were now developed. It was the slightest possible type of the disease, the doctor said, and scarcely worth calling by any name at all; but, nevertheless, he recommended prudence, and meanwhile, as a necessary precaution, every member of the family were vaccinated.

Not long before this untoward illness of Cousin Phil, there had arrived at the house a distant cousin of the family—a single, gentlemanly cousin, whom Saldie pronounced disagreeable before she had seen much of him. Herman Dilkes was a bachelor of 35, a very quiet, reserved man, who seemed to understand every subject in the world, and who gave the young lady the unpleasant impression that he was continually reading her thoughts. He certainly did not find them very complimentary to himself.

The next day she sat down and wrote Mrs. Osbrook a letter instead of an orthodox note, as she intended, setting forth in detail her trouble and loneliness, and "pining after little Laura and Annie."

Perhaps that lady's sharp eyes detected another sort of "pining," but that as it was, no answer was ever received to this epistle. Not even an inquiry was made, and the doctor said it would have been so easy to send that lady Thomas when going his city that day. Once only did Saldie get a glimpse of the family faces round the square, while her period of quarantine. Mrs. Osbrook and the children were in the carriage, Mr. Lathrop was on horseback beside them, and the party were drawn up in front of one of the shops, while an obsequious clerk brought out bales of goods for the lady's inspection.

A very graceful bow and smile from Mrs. Osbrook, a sudden demonstration from the children, that was evidently repressed at the door, and while Mr. Lathrop lifted his hat with a gleam of white teeth under his dark mustache, and somehow poor little Saldie felt empty-handed and empty-hearted as she pursued her way on the aimless walk she was taking.

So strange she thought, that Mrs. Osbrook did not mention her to the carriage door, and ask when there was a chance of having her with them again—there could surely be no danger of contamination in the open air. The children, too, were strange, and there was an unexplainable something about the whole party that was far from satisfactory. It was very disagreeable to be shunned as a dangerous object, condemned for days and weeks to the society of Cousin Rebecca. There was Mr. Dilkes, too, he was sure the had never asked her to call him cousin, but he was rather settled and steady.

The invalid had been mingling with other people for some time before an intimation was received from Mrs. Osbrook that the young governess' exaltation was remembered. It came at last, in the shape of a very polished note, including a handsome check, thanking "Miss Porter for her most acceptable services," and "unvarying

NEW IDEA IN SALAD.

Always Popular Dish Put Up in Newer Manner.

This salad is arranged on individual plates. Take six small lettuce leaves, and arrange them around the plate; in the center of them leaves put about one tablespoonful of salad dressing; this makes the center of the salad points, which have been made by cutting in narrow strips the whites of hard-boiled eggs. Take the yolks of the hard-boiled eggs, and by mashing them through a strainer and scattering them over the lettuce leaves and dressing, it will give it a rough appearance, and will give the finishing touch to quite a good counterfeited of a real salad. The dressing for this salad is made by beating together three eggs, adding to this one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of salt, the same of white pepper, two teaspoonfuls of mustard, beat the size of an egg, made into a smooth paste by mixing with two teaspoonfuls of water. Beat for about 20 minutes, or until it thickens; when cool arrange on the lettuce leaves.

CARE OF TABLE LINEN.

Here is Truly Where a "Bit in Time" Does Wonders.

Too little attention is paid to the wear and tear on tablecloths and napkins as a rule. They are washed and ironed and put away, regardless of the state that they are becoming thin, and worn until these spots become holes and it suddenly dawned on the dismayed housekeeper that her tablecloths are getting all the pieces.

If tiny holes are found in table linen the first thing to do is to darn them neatly, selecting the numbers of thread or cotton best suited to the material to be darned, using as fine a needle as possible. If the material is darn worn it is best to lay a piece of muslin under the hole and darn down upon it. This gives strength, though it does not look quite as neat as it would without the extra piece of material, and saves an extra piece beneath.

Chicken Cheese.

Vogue says that to make chicken cheese boil two chickens in water to cover until the meat will fall from the bones and remove all bones. Boil the meat very fine, season with salt and pepper, and return to the water in which they were boiled, adding a tablespoonful of butter, one of salt, celery, and half an onion sliced. Cook until the liquor is nearly gone, skim out the onion, and pour into a deep dish. Put a plate over it with a weight on top, and set away in a cold place until firm. When ready to be eaten cut in neat slices, and serve with a little red currant jelly or some apple mayonnaise.

Old-Fashioned "Sprinkles."

Beat to a cream one cup of butter and two cups sugar. Add three tablespoonfuls sweet milk and two tablespoonfuls caraway or anise seed. Sift one cupful flour and two eggs into spoonfuls baking powder together three times, then beat into the butter, sugar and milk mixture. If the batter is not as stiff as you can beat it, add a little more flour and stir out on a floured board. Dredge lightly with flour, and roll out until almost as thin as a wafer. Cut into round or oblong cakes, sprinkle with seeds and bake.

Carolyn Contard Pie.

Line a deep crockery plate with lady fingers or any stale cake. Pour over this a few tablespoonfuls of cognac or any good wine and cover with a custard made of one quart of milk, the yolks of two eggs, one-half cup white sugar, and thicken with corn starch till quite thick. Upon this place pecan nut meats—these are preferred, as they are less likely to have an oily taste. Make a meringue of the whites, stiffly beaten, and sweetened. Brown in oven and serve cold with whipped cream.

Fourth of July Gingerbread.

A good, old-fashioned Fourth of July gingerbread is made in this way: Rub to a cream one-half cup molasses, one-half cup milk, with one-quarter teaspoonful soda dissolved in it, a salt spoonful salt, one beaten egg and flour to mix stiff, with two teaspoonfuls baking powder sifted with it. Divide the dough in portions, pat into a sheet, place on a floured and buttered baking tin, run a fluted roller over it, if you have one, otherwise mark in parallel rows and bake.

Mending Gloves.

Mending the finger tips of long gloves with court plaster is the trick of the young woman makes use of to lengthen the life of this dress accessory which is such a luxury. She writes the court plaster, white on white and black on black, on the small side of the finger tip, with the result that the gloves will last immeasurably longer.

Doing Up Ruffled Curtains.

To do up ruffled curtains, stretch out on a sheet after starching. Run first to the top and then to the middle. Take up and run only the ruffles, dampening as you go along. This will leave the curtain perfectly straight.

Pressed Meat.

Cold boiled beef chopped, cold boiled eggs sliced, beaten hot with salt in which it was cooked; season with salt and pepper. Put lay of beef in jar, then eggs, alternately, until all is used. Press.

TETHER FOR HORSE.

Will Not Permit Horse to Get Tangled in Rope.

The form of tether illustrated here does away with the danger of entanglement. Take a piece of timber, A, six feet long, fasten at one end to one and a six inches from the lower end. Take a pole of C, making it long enough to extend back of the animal's head three or four feet, and fasten a ring to each end. An iron spike D, with a ring in the end is driven in the ground. The irregular line represents a cord or wire of any desired length. Fasten the rod A, B, to the holder at A, with a leather strap, also C, to A, B, in the same way at C; in one end of the cord in the ring at D, and the other in the ring in the end of the iron spike. The ring at C, six inches from the lower end, prevents taking up the cord when attaching the animal. The end B will slide over it as the animal grazes.

FEEDING AT A PROFIT.

How It Was Done at Washington State Agricultural College.

Feeding of beef steers on corn fodder at a profit in the Palouse country, south of Spokane, Wash., has been fully demonstrated by the Washington state college experiment farm at Pullman, which sold 18 steers fed as an experiment. These steers were bought at random throughout the Palouse country at $12 to $20 a head. They were cut into three lots and fed under slightly different methods. The total cost of 14 steers was $520 and they were fed eight tons of corn, 17,855 pounds of fodder corn at $45.00 a ton; two and a quarter tons of wheat at $17.50 a ton; making the total cost of the steers and feed $624.50. They were sold for $817.75, leaving a net profit of $193.25.

The steers were fed two months, all being fed alike for the first month, during which time they were given three pounds of wheat daily. After the first month lots two and three were fed six pounds of wheat daily, while lot No. 1 continued at three pounds each. During the month in which the two lots were fed six pounds each daily, lot two gained 490 pounds, while lot three gained 450 pounds. Lot No. 1 only gained 370 pounds during this period. The net cash gain per head of lot No. 2 over lot No. 1 in this period was $35.00, but three pounds more of wheat daily. This is an increase of more than ten cents a day, or ten cents for three pounds of wheat, which is at the rate of $3 a bushel for wheat fed to steers in this way.

The experiment, explains the Draft Horse Journal, was carried on under the direction of E. E. Elliot, professor of agriculture in Washington state college, but was under the great supervision of Professor W. A. Lick-linger, head of the department of animal husbandry, and W. D. Foster, superintendent of the college farm.

The Farm Stock.

Sunlight should be welcomed to every stable in which farm animals are kept.

It is to be paid to keep sheep if for other reason than to get rid of the weeds.

Shearing in the middle west will be lost again this year on account of the continued cold, rainy weather.

Keep as much sulphur mixed with the salt as possible and have the sheep eat it, and they will not be troubled with worms.

A wet season is always harder on sheep than a dry one. Look to their feet and keep them out of muddy yards as much as possible.

FEED FOR HOGS.

Cleanliness of the utmost importance in Summer.

Every farmer knows that clean food for hogs is of the utmost importance, especially in hot weather. Still, a great many will often permit the swill barrel to become filthy. This is very dangerous to the health of the hogs during summer. Doubtless diseases often start among many hogs from this source. There are many flies that affect hogs besides the hog cholera, though some may think that hog cholera is the only thing to be guarded against. By the decay of vegetable and fleshy matter various diseases are distributed, and we must guard against these as well as hog cholera. There is no doubt that animals as well as human beings are often killed by ptomaine poisoning.

Rotten swill is unfit for hogs as certainly as other rotten food. Some feed their hogs hogs brought from the cheese factory. Often, as factory men know, the whey tanks are very dirty, not having been cleaned, perhaps, for months. The farmers who use this whey should be told that a vigorous protest against dirty tanks that are the factory men will see that they are cleaned often.

Some of the factories do not even have tanks, but have a row of barrels near the factory buildings into which the whey is run. These, says Orange J. Farmer, are allowed to become almost putrid in the hot sun of summer. They swarm with flies, which may have been visiting the carcasses of dead hogs in the pastures of adjoining farms. Sometimes these hogs have died of cholera and sometimes of other contagious diseases. It is not a difficult matter to clean barrels often, and this should be done. It is all the easier to do if the cheese factory has a steam pipe, from which a hose can conduct the steam into the barrels.

If disease is to be kept off the farm, food of the hogs must be carefully watched, at least in summer. The matter is not so important in winter, as the flies are not carrying germs from one place to another, and contagious diseases will not spread with the same rapidity. Animals take in disease germs mostly through their respiratory organs or through the organs devoted to the elaboration of food. If the food is protected, much will be gained in the way of protection against disease.

TAKE CARE OF THE COLTS.

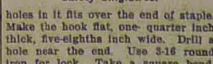

Faithfulness Now Will Be Repaid at Maturity of Animal.

Proper care and feed will increase the conformation, the constitution, and the size of horses fully as much as can be obtained by making stallions and brood mares with a view of producing these qualities in the colt, says Spirit of the West. Good breeding is a valuable attribute and is demanded at the present time, but feed and care when the animal is young, is required to lay the foundation for a substantial structure that will not quiver or become exhausted with only moderate taxing of the constitution. Muscle and substance must be grown and developed strong and healthy to support stamina and energy, or these two qualities will give way when extra strength and hardihood is required. The well fed and well cared for colt will show to advantage and sell to advantage any time. It is offered alongside a colt that has been allowed to drift along for itself, without proper care and feed, favorable in some sections of the country, but deep crop hays, but sunshine and balm breezes alone will never take the place of fine blue grass pasture, bright heavy oats, corn and fine clover or timothy hay, and a clean stall well bedded and well ventilated.

holes in it fits over the end of staple. Make the hook flat, one-quarter inch thick, five-eighths inch wide. Drill a hole near the end. Use 3/16 round iron for lock. Take a square bend, put in hole and rivet just enough so it will work rather tight. When it wears and works easy tighten again. Note it fits also on "curse" ready for litching. I have used this on cultivator for ten years, writes a Pennsylvania farmer to Missouri Valley Farmer. The lock part is my own invention.

Poor Paint is Expensive

If one is rich enough to repair his buildings every year for the pleasure of having a new coat of color scheme, the quality of the paint used may cut little figure. But if it is desirable to cut the painting bills down to the least amount possible per year, it is of the utmost importance that the paint be made of Pure White Lead and the best of Linseed Oil. There are imitations in the form of alleged White Lead, and there are substitutes in the form of ready prepared paints.

We guarantee our White Lead to be absolutely pure, and the Dutch Boy on the side of every keg your safe safeguard. Look for him.

FIVE FALL INTO GRAVE.
Remarkable Incident That Disturbed Solemnity of Funeral.

Instead of the accustomed quiet which prevails at the burial of the dead, great excitement and fear attended the funeral the other day of Michael Devan, a prominent citizen of Westport, when by the collapsing of a grave the coffin and several persons attending the services were hurled into a small pit.

The final prayer was said by the preacher, and the assistant to the undertaker stepped to the foot of the coffin to arrange the ropes for letting the coffin into the grave. At that moment one of the pallbearers accidentally kicked out the crosspiece that supported the coffin. The coffin quickly descended to the grave, the body going first. The assistant hastened its descent by tumbling on it. Several persons rushed to the edge of the grave, causing the soil to yield, and in a few seconds five persons were lying in the pit half covered with dirt.

They were pulled out, the coffin was dug out and laid flat, and after the grave had been re-dug the burial was completed.—N. Y. Press.

Chinese Jews.
American interest in China since the Boxer rebellion has extended to the Chinese Jews who settled at Kalfungtu during the Han dynasty, that ruled China from 209 B. C. to 209 A. D. The Kalfungtu colony is mentioned occasionally by European travelers, among them Marco Polo in the fourteenth century, while in 1600 and 1704 they were visited by Jesuit missionaries. Today a number of them, according to Alfred K. Glover, writing in the Overland Monthly for May, the Chinese Jews are almost extinct, but their records and historical tablets are carefully preserved.

Diversified Existence.
An old brick laboratory in Middletown, Conn., which was torn down Saturday, has been put to many uses since its erection in 1825. Originally it was a gunpowder mill, then a distillery, then a hospital, an eating-house, a carpenter shop, an icehouse, and an electrical laboratory.

Have Trouble with Your Food?
Try Grape-Nuts
Perfectly Cooked. Ready to Serve. Delicious and Healthful.

"The ordinary breakfast cereal cooked a few minutes in a half-cup of water in time weakens the stomach of anything short of an ox."
"Any preparation of wheat or oats put into water that is below the boiling point and cooked as mush is usually served, remains a tough, indigestible mass. The cells are partly and unopened. In addition, the stomach of a person sensitively constituted refuses to do anything with the party mass. It is sent into the second stomach, the Duodenum, where in consequence of the long time of the first process of digestion, is fermented and soured. As an eminent medical man pertinently states, the stomachs of half the people going about the streets are about in the condition of an old vinegar barrel."
"Intestinal dyspepsia is the direct consequence of such feeding."
Knowledge of these facts and a wide experience in the preparation and use of cereals brought out the product known as Grape-Nuts, manufactured with special reference to having the nitrogenous and starchy parts of the grains, of which the food is composed, perfectly and scientifically cooked at the factory, ready for immediate use and therefore not subject to the manipulations of any cook, good or bad.
The starch of the grains, changed to grape-sugar, can be seen glistening on the little granules, and gives forth a delicate sweetish taste, very palatable. Children and adults obtain fine results from the use of Grape-Nuts food. It is so perfectly adapted to the wants of the human body and so easily digested that many cases are on record of nursing babies being fed very successfully on it. "There's a Reason."

Madame Merri Describes Aster Party Given Last Year Which Was a Distinct Triumph—New Way to Choose Partners.

Aster will soon be in their prime and are a most decorative flower for table use. An aster luncheon given last year was so pretty that I am sure a description will be very welcome to our readers.

An aster means a "star" the centerpiece was a star-shaped form made of tin; it was filled with delicate pink and lavender asters. Ribbons of pink and lavender radiated to each place, where they were attached to star-shaped cards cut from lavender cardboard and the names were written in white ink. There was a corsage bouquet at each plate with a long violet-headed pin. Pinkish lavender is a charming day-time color, but it does not light up well, so as the day was hot no artificial light was used, not even candles. There was no attempt made to carry out the color scheme in the food, except candied violets were sprinkled over the top of the pineapple pie, which was served in tall glasses with pink lace paper doilies underneath; the plates were decorated in violet and the effect was lovely.

For diversion the hostess provided easy chairs, hammocks and cushions, a box of delicious candy, a bowl of iced tea made strong with lemon and pineapple juice, and then she proceeded to read aloud the most fascinating story, entitled, "Her Ladyship's Elephant." It was time to depart all too soon, and one of the guests facetiously remarked that "she was so glad the hostess 'aster,' and every one was kind enough to forgive the horrible pun, as it voiced the sentiments of all present.

Old-Style Chairs
Perhaps the most interesting and informative part of an old chair to collectors of antique furniture is the leg. Almost every period or great maker of chairs was distinguished by some peculiarity of leg or foot, and these the probable age and maker of a chair may be discovered.

A chair of about the period of 1600 is shown in the first drawing. It is a Chippendale, showing Dutch influences. One of the particular features of the Dutch chair, apart from the solidity of frame and ball feet, is the sinking curve in the top line of the back. The curve always means Dutch character or influence. Chippendale filled in this curve with decorations.

MEADOW LAWN.

A baby girl was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith. Frank Hoath, of Beroun, called on friends in the Lawn Sunday.

Stephen Smith, of Sandstone, spent Sunday with his family in this place. W. H. Hamlin and H. J. Rath, of Pine City, were Sunday callers at the Lawn.

Miss Ida Hathaway, who has been visiting friends here, departed for Sandstone Friday.

A number of the telephones are in the line and are working fine. The line is busy most of the time.

A number from here attended the party given Saturday night in honor of Alice Collette, of Hustletown.

Miss Elizabeth Hart, who has been spending the past two weeks at the Hamlin home, has returned to her home in Pine Island.
