FOR WINTER RECREATION

A Series of High-Grade Entertainments Provided for Pine City Through the Efforts of Local Societies.

The Pythian Sisters, in conjunction with the Knights of Pythias, have made arrangements for a course of entertainments to be given in Stebb's hall during the coming winter. The course is composed of five first-class entertainments, the first of which will be given one week from tomorrow night, Saturday, Oct. 12. The course tickets are placed at the remarkably low figure of two dollars. The ladies were out the first of the week selling the course tickets. If they failed to see you, and you wish for a course reserved seat, you can secure one by calling at this office or seeing Mrs. F. E. Smith or Mrs. Dr. Froehlich. The reserved seats will be on sale at the drug store the first of the week. Call early and get your seats reserved. Single admission reserved seats, 50 cents. Straight tickets, 35 cents for adults, and 25 cents for children.

The course is composed of three splendid musical presentations, one lecture, and one entertainment by a cartoonist. Each entertainment of the series comes well recommended, and should receive the hearty support of all who like to hear good music, singing or reading, or who like to listen to a good lecture.

Don't forget to reserve your seats for the entertainment a week from tomorrow night, (Oct. 12.)

Work Begun on New Bridge.

Hewitt Bros. of Minneapolis, who have the contract for building the new steel bridge across the Snake river below the Chegwatawa dam, began work Saturday, and on Sunday their foreman, who is to have charge of putting in the cement piers, arrived Monday morning they were accompanied by Surveyor John Mullen, who went down and found the level for the bridge and also helped stake out the places for the two spans. The bridge will be a two-span structure, and will be situated about fifty yards below the present one. It will be completed before spring. When finished it will be one of the finest bridges that spans the Snake.

Case Will Be Appealed.

The case of the Home Lumber Co. vs. the Pine City Lumber Co., that was tried before Judge Stebbert the latter part of last week, was decided by a verdict of $4,500 against the local firm. Attorney W. H. McGrath is authority for the statement that the case will be appealed. This case has been before the courts a number of times, having always before been decided in favor of the defendants.

A list of those who received prizes at the county fair will be published in full as soon as the necessary can furnish it.

STRICKEN BY DEATH

George Hudak, of Pine Town, Suddenly Passes Away—Miss Nina M. Miller of Pine City, Called Home.

GEORGE HUDAK.

On Monday night at 12 o'clock, occurred the death of George Hudak, a young man 24 years and 8 days old, after an illness of but two days, with acute Bright's disease. Mr. Hudak was born in Austria Hungary in 1873. He moved with his parents to Streator, Illinois, in 1874, where he later worked in the coal mines until he came to Pine City, and to the farm of his father, 9 miles east, five years ago last March. He attended the schools in this county until three years ago, when he began teaching. He taught the school in district No. 53, near his home for two years and was engaged to teach one of the schools in Pokegama town, where he taught until last Friday afternoon. When he dismissed school Friday afternoon he told his pupils that there would be no school Monday. He went to his home Friday evening, and Saturday morning a physician was called, who pronounced his disease acute Bright's disease, and gave the family but very little hope of his recovery, and he passed away after a very terrible agony. He had been ailing for two weeks, but it was not supposed he was dangerously ill until the doctor was called.

The funeral was held from St. Mary's Catholic church, yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Koerner officiating, with interment in Calvary cemetery.

The pall-bearers were, Frank Kotek, Jos. Kotek, Chas. Minias, Chas. Anderson, Andrew Judin and Cyril Hoyorka. The last three were school teachers, and chums of the deceased.

He leaves a father, mother, two sisters, three brothers and numerous friends to mourn his loss.

THE PIONEER extends its sympathy to the bereaved ones.

NINA MAY MILLER.

The citizens of this place were surprised and shocked Thursday afternoon Oct. 3, to hear of the death of Miss Nina Miller, which occurred at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. C. mother at 12:30.

Miss Nina May Miller was born in Pine City the 27th day of March 1889. Three years ago the 10th of this month she had a stroke of paralysis, which paralyzed her right side and she has been an invalid ever since. Wednesday evening she had another stroke which paralyzed her left side, rendering her unconscious, in which condition she died.

Mrs. Miller and family have the sympathy of the entire community, in this their third affliction, in so short a time. First the husband and father, then the son and brother, and now the daughter and sister.

Miss Nina was a bright, cheerful young lady, and although a great sufferer she always had a kind word and cheerful smile for her friends.

The funeral will be held from her late home Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Matthews officiating, and the body laid to rest in Birchwood cemetery by the side of her father and brother.

The pall-bearers will be George Wandel, Gus Breckenridge, Elmer Peterson, John Hunt, Ernest Parish, and David McLaughlin.

THE PIONEER joins with the many friends of the family in extending sympathy.

Home From Their Wedding Tour

Dr. K. W. Knapp and bride returned to this place on Wednesday (finished) after a two weeks sojourn in Dubuque and other cities in Iowa. They report having had a fine time on their wedding tour. They were surprised on their arrival at the home of the groom at Dubuque by an informal reception. The doctor wishes to inform his friends that he is at home and ready for business in the village of Birchley where he will be pleased to see all those in need of dental work.

TWO RATTLING GAMES

Rush City and Pine City Senior Nines, and Hinkley and Pine City Juniors Play Interesting Games of Ball.

The base ball game between the Rush City and Pine City teams Friday afternoon, resulted in a victory for the home team by the score of 9 to 4. The Rush City boys came up with blood in their eye, and determined to win the game at all hazards. They sent to White Bear Lake and engaged D. Collette to do their twirling. Dennis is considered one of the best amateur pitchers in the state, but the youngsters here made him look like three cents. He got nine strike-outs, gave three or four bases or balls, and hit several of our boys. Geo. Nevers, the coming pitcher of Willow River, although but a boy, had such old-timers as Collette, Curtis Johnson, W. Sommers, and F. Bowen on his string, striking out Johnson twice, Bowen twice, Collette three times, and Sommer three times. He gave three bases on balls, and struck three batsmen. Nevers got 15 strike-outs to his credit, which is not so bad for a kid, especially against a team like the one Rush City brought up to win the big of the purse given by the fair association.

The game would have been much better if the weather had not been so cold, there being a strong north-east wind blowing, and, as we heard some of the players saying after the game, that their hands were so cold that they could hardly hold the ball when they came to the plate. Taking the weather into consideration the game was a very good game. The purse was for $20 and $15. This will very likely be the last game of the season and the Pine City team have made a very good record considering the fact that they have had to change players so often, not being able to play the same team in more than two games, as one player or another could not be on hand when a game was to be played.

The game of ball played by the juniors of Hinkley and the juniors of this place last Friday forenoon resulted in a victory for the Pine City lads. The game was called in about 10 o'clock, and was played in about an hour and a half, the score standing 3 and 11. Young Biernied did the twirling for the Hinkley aggregation, and David McLaughlin was in the box for the Pine City boys. The game had several fast plays, one of which was made by the Hinkley boys and resulted in a triple play in which the Pine City boys were retired in one play. This is the only triple play that has taken place on the Pine City grounds this year. The youngsters from both towns played a very good game of ball, and if the Hinkley boys had been able to connect with McLaughlin's curves the game would have resulted differently, as the boys from up the line played a much better fielding game than did the locals, but the local bunch were altogether too strong at the bat for their opponents.

Taking the game from start to finish it was a very nice one, and those who witnessed it were well repaid for their time. We would like to see the same teams play again when the weather would be more favorable.

Fruit Can Be Raised in Minnesota

(communicated.)

The display of fruits of all kinds at the Pine County Fair, recently held at Pine City, proves that, although orchards in Central Minnesota are not as yet very plentiful or prominent, fruits of nearly all varieties can be grown here with care and attention in the selection of the varieties adapted to our climate and soil, and proper care in planting, soil, slope and drainage always to be taken into consideration. Diamond Robbery.

Minneapolis—Smashing a heavy plate glass window at M. L. Cohen & Co.'s jewelry store 23 Washington avenue south, Minneapolis, early in the evening, a hold thief seized $1,380 worth of diamonds and made his escape. The robbery was one of the boldest on record, the streets being crowded at the time and the store full of people.

In making his escape the robber held M. L. Cohen and Toby Dobrin, one of his employees, at bay with a revolver. He then ran through the saloon of George McMahon, 37 Washington avenue south, spreading terror with his revolver, and was then lost in the darkness in the alley at the rear.

A dozen or more detectives and a large number of uniformed men were placed on the case at once by Chief Gordon, but up to an early hour this morning no trace of the hold thief had been found. When he broke the window he cut a letter-scoring contraption which was used to make a trail through the McMahon saloon. How serious the cut cannot be ascertained.

The robbery was committed about 10 o'clock. Every clerk in the store was busy showing goods to customers when they heard a crash as the thief broke in the window. Every one looked and saw the man reach in and seize the diamonds. Toby Dobrin, a clerk, and M. L. Cohen, one of the proprietors, dashed out onto the street and pursued the thief about fifty feet.

Butter Scoring.

St. Peter—Buttermakers of Minnesota have issued a challenge to the better judges of the country to prove their competency. They have done so by announcing that when the fourteenth annual convention of the Minnesota State Butter and Cheese Makers' Association is held in this city on Oct. 29 and 31 and Nov. 1 they will offer prizes for a letter-scoring contest which will be open to every butter judge, butter maker, or dealer in the United States. This is a new feature for buttermakers and the contest will be the first of its kind ever held.

Members of the Minnesota society and of other state citizens have been sought to devise a way to test the efficiency of the men who test the butter. Butter scores and judges' opinions are not always in agreement, but competitive matches have been frowned upon because there was no standard by which to judge the judges. This obstacle has been overcome by pitting them against standards established by themselves.

Under the rules of the contest each participant will be required to score twenty-five tubs of butter and then rescore the same samples. A careful record will be kept of the markings, and in rescoreing any deviation from the first set of grades will be counted against the participant. Where there is no dissimilarity between the two sets of scores the judge will be awarded a perfect grade of 100 points.

To Keep Money at Home.

St. Paul—A plan to combine the smaller banks of Minnesota and other Northwestern states to handle commercial paper of the large mercantile and manufacturing institutions of the state has been suggested by A. Schaefer, public examiner, which is meeting with the approval of bankers and brokers who handle this paper in considerable quantities.

The plan suggested is that the notes be issued for amounts as low as $1,000, instead of $5,000, as is now the custom. The object is to enable the smaller banks whose capital will not allow them to purchase the larger notes to keep their capital active without sending large sums of their surplus to the New York and Eastern banks.

Killed by Lightning.

Bertha—The large new barn belonging to Peter Messer, Sr., was struck by lightning. One of Messer's sons was killed and the barn and contents, as well as several straw piles and seventy tons of hay stacked outside the barn, were burned.

The two sons of Mr. Messer had taken out the horses to go plowing when it began to rain. After returning the horses into their stalls, Emil Messer went to the barn door when the lightning flashed in, setting fire to the barn and killing him instantly. The lightning ignited his left leg, his remaining leg and his face, and then tore his skin from his right foot.

PRISCO WELCOMES CRUISE BOAT

FOUR VESSELS JUST FROM THE ASIATIC STATION ARRIVE IN PORT.

Created by Big Crews—Rear Admiral Dayton Brings in Fighting Ships That Have Made a Cruise of 25,000 Miles.

San Francisco, Sept. 28.—The first division of the Pacific fleet, the first guard of the American navy which is assembled in Pacific coast waters Thursday or Friday, steamed through the Golden Gate at sunrise Friday morning.

The four armored cruisers passed the heads in line formation, led by the flagship West Virginia flying at her masthead the two-starred flag of the Navy commander of the fleet—rear Admiral James H. Dayton. Five hundred yards to the rear came the Colorado, followed at a like distance by the Maryland and that by the Pennsylvania. The arrival of the four big sister ships marked the end of a 25,000-mile cruise, which began at Newport, R. I., last September.

Greeted by Big Crews. The squadron was sighted outside the head at daybreak, steaming at half speed out of a coast fog. Bringing his ships to anchor off the city front a few minutes before eight o'clock Admiral Dayton fulfilled his duty by welcoming the night before "Arrive some time in the early forenoon." Thousands of people, anticipating the event, were gathered along the water front and on the hills, shouting a welcome to the big ships. Oblivious of the fact that they could not be distinguished from the decks, they signalled a welcome to the big ships by waving hats and handkerchiefs, and as fleecy puffs of smoke rose and drifted from the muzzles of the six-pound saluting guns of the West Virginia they cheered.

Admiral Swinburn Calls. Opposite North Beach the cruisers slowed down to allow Chief Quarantine Officer Bobby to come aboard. In quick succession the West Virginia, Colorado and Maryland submitted their health certificates and were given clean bills and allowed to proceed to their anchorages a mile farther on, passing some of the other cruisers of the fleet on the way. Admiral Swinburn put off with his flagship, the cruiser Charleston, as soon as the West Virginia moored on board the latter the card was given and the hand struck up a lively air as Admiral Swinburn stepped onto the quarterdeck to greet the commander-in-chief of the fleet.

At one o'clock in the afternoon a joint committee of 100 men prominent in political, business and social life of San Francisco and nearby cities met at the West Virginia to greet and welcome Admiral Dayton and the other officers of the fleet. United States Senator Perkins made a brief formal address of welcome.

SOUTH DAKOTA PIONEER SLAIN. John O'Grady Murdered Near Sioux Falls—Widow is Held.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 1.—A mysterious murder was committed late Sunday night at a point six miles north of Sioux Falls, the victim being John O'Grady, one of the oldest pioneers in this section. His widow is being held under restraint, pending the result of the coroner's inquest. She declares that a hunter she supposed to be her husband was with her that night, but was refused, and that he afterward returned to the house and fired a shot through the window, killing her husband.

JAP WRESTLING HERO

CHAMPION HIDIACHIYAMA WILL VISIT UNITED STATES.

Is Six Feet Tall and Weighs 308 Pounds—Would Show America All His Countrymen Are Not Weaklings.

Boston—Hidiachiyama, the champion wrestler of Japan, is soon to visit America.

Hidiachiyama is the one hero who is widely known in the United States and affectionate regard of his countrymen. Wrestling is the national sport of Japan, and Hidiachiyama is more than the champion of his nation.

By his infinite superiority over all his rivals he has been granted the privilege of wearing the Yokozuna, a hat in the form of a rope, an honor bestowed on but 16 wrestlers in the past 400 years.

There are two distinct kinds of wrestling in Japan. Jujitsu, a muscle yielding system, and sumo, whose victories rely on personal strength and weight of body and much as on knowledge of the various trips and falls.

As weight and size are considered to be of much advantage to sumo wrestlers, they are systematically fattened. Their physical exercises consist mainly in butting at post with shoulders and chest and in lifting, catching and flinging about large sacks of rice and the like; they also go through a good deal of posturing with a view to making their limbs supple and as a sort of balancing practice.

Hidiachiyama has been planning to visit America for several years. He is quoted as saying that the thought first came to him when the late Prince Konoze complimented him on his physical development, and said:

"In America the Japanese are supposed to be weaklings, but if you would show yourself to the world you would convince them to the contrary, and they would give you a great reception."

The prince invited him to accompany him to America, but his untimely death upset our plans. I could not give up the idea, however, and now that the May tournament is over, I am prepared to go with two or three young wrestlers. I am bearing letters of introduction from Marquis Ito and others and hope to receive courteous consideration from the American people."

There is at present a movement to erect a permanent structure for the semi-annual tournaments for many hundreds of years these matches have been held in Tokyo on grounds set apart for the purpose, named Ekoma. As the time approaches for the January preliminaries, these aprons are marvelous affairs, made of plush or velvet, on which designs are worked in oriental gold and are frequently worth as much as $500.

A champion wrestler is the hero of all Japan. His admirers present him with garments of finest silk, and for a week he remains in Tokio the guest of the people. On the seventh day he may leave, but is pledged to return in time for the next tournament, and in the history of Japanese wrestling no champion has been known to break his word.

Hidiachiyama has arranged to extend his visit to America until February of next year. Being a poor sailor he is allowing himself plenty of time to regain any weight lost in his sea voyage and get into condition for the May tournament.

Nothing beats the soul kiss, which she was taught by her ally on the planet Neptune.

Though It Weighs 540 Pounds, the Diver Feels Light and Airy in It.

Brooklyn—At Eaton's Polar, L. I., the other day, O. E. Gandy made a plunge into the sound included in a diving suit of a new pattern, reaching a depth of 230 feet. As a result of the experiment an expedition is to be sent within a few weeks to Venezuela to get the $3,000,000 in gold and jewels aboard the ill-starred San Pedro de Alcantara. This ship, which sank in 1915.

The plunge was made from a scow about six miles off Eaton Point. At the greatest depth the diver contacted with persons above by means of a telephone, told how light and airy he felt in his 540-pound suit, and jokingly added that he was so comfortably cool that he would like to remain down the rest of the summer.

At the top is shown a section of the chain by which the diving diver is lowered to the floor of the ocean. The costume in which the diver performed this astounding feat consisted

WOMAN DISCOVERS "SOUL KISS." Vesta La Viesta Declares It a "Delirium of Ecstasy."

New York—Vesta La Viesta, mystic and cosmologist, after two years of silence, has emerged to unfold to us the wonders of the soul kiss. No such rapture is known to humans in the present state of knowledge, she says.

Asked what it was like, she answered that when you have been properly prepared and try on the soul kiss, your whole being responds to a perfect delirium of ecstasy. It is the feeling of two great forces when the respective souls meet in this exercise.

It may last for hours, but whatever the length of it you do not breathe except mentally.

What's that? Education of the skin, of course. Education makes a man a man. Education speaks of various ways of breathing, but they do not know of the cellular.

Another strange feature of the soul kiss is its vitality. When you have learned it you can send one of your affinity through mountains and over seas.

The trouble with most people is that the soul plexus is not aroused, and for that reason they are unable to enter the higher spheres. La Viesta is to enter the higher spheres. La Viesta is to enter the higher spheres. La Viesta is to enter the higher spheres.

La Viesta has made a tour of the planet and is mingling with the inhabitants made many interesting discovery for May tournaments temporary structures of bamboo poles, covered with matting, are put up.

The entertainment begins at 10 in the morning and lasts all day. The audience bring their lunch boxes, besides which itinerant vendors of tea and sweets ply their trade. The wrestling classes and foreigners occupy small bamboo boxes, which extend around the amphitheater, the rank and file squatting on their haunches on the floor of the pit.

The wrestling takes place in a 12 foot ring, covered by a canopy, supported by four posts, from two of which are suspended small baskets of salt.

First-class wrestlers wear no clothes but a loin cloth and an embroidered sash, which is discarded after the preliminaries. These aprons are marvelous affairs, made of plush or velvet, on which designs are worked in oriental gold and are frequently worth as much as $500.

A champion wrestler is the hero of all Japan. His admirers present him with garments of finest silk, and for a week he remains in Tokio the guest of the people. On the seventh day he may leave, but is pledged to return in time for the next tournament, and in the history of Japanese wrestling no champion has been known to break his word.

Hidiachiyama has arranged to extend his visit to America until February of next year. Being a poor sailor he is allowing himself plenty of time to regain any weight lost in his sea voyage and get into condition for the May tournament.

WOMAN DISCOVERS "SOUL KISS." Vesta La Viesta Declares It a "Delirium of Ecstasy."

New York—Vesta La Viesta, mystic and cosmologist, after two years of silence, has emerged to unfold to us the wonders of the soul kiss. No such rapture is known to humans in the present state of knowledge, she says.

Asked what it was like, she answered that when you have been properly prepared and try on the soul kiss, your whole being responds to a perfect delirium of ecstasy. It is the feeling of two great forces when the respective souls meet in this exercise.

It may last for hours, but whatever the length of it you do not breathe except mentally.

What's that? Education of the skin, of course. Education makes a man a man. Education speaks of various ways of breathing, but they do not know of the cellular.

Another strange feature of the soul kiss is its vitality. When you have learned it you can send one of your affinity through mountains and over seas.

The trouble with most people is that the soul plexus is not aroused, and for that reason they are unable to enter the higher spheres. La Viesta is to enter the higher spheres. La Viesta is to enter the higher spheres. La Viesta is to enter the higher spheres.

How many parents take time to look over their children's school books?

If socialism is to be judged by the kind of men and women who preach the doctrine, the world would be the better for small doses of the stuff.

The undertaker has laid away the last fool who recked the boat, and will now have a rest until the annual crop of boys who get in a hurry to try the ice, gets ready for his services.

When you look into the face of your child and think of what you would like to have him be, remember that he is pretty apt to copy your example, and the best way to make him such a man as you would have him is for you to lead the way.

You may be able to fool the average man and woman of your acquaintance, but your boy and your girl know just the sort of a life you lead, and they know the little meanesses which you think you are covering up from day to day.

With dollar wheat, sixty cent oats, fifty cent potatoes, dairy products sky-high, and beefsteak a luxury, and the subscription price remaining the same old thing, the prospects for a joyous winter look decidedly dubious to the average newspaper man.

It is said that during the fly season the residents of our national capital deck out their horses in highly colored veiling, which is festooned about Dobbin's neck, and that the gay drivers of the city of "magnificent distances" have been trimming the hats worn by the horses as sunshades. If this thing keeps on much longer, they will be starting establishments in that famous city where horse millinery will be kept in stock.

There is not half so much danger to our country from the influx of emigrants as there is from a surrender of American ideals by the American citizen. Our consuls abroad over the sea can be assimilated by forcing them to come up to our standards. The American people should guard well American institutions, American ideals, and American standards of living. The foreigner comes here to become a part of us, and is ready and willing to adopt our standards when made to feel that we hold them up as the proper measure of fitness for citizenship. The danger lies more in un-American Americans, than it does in an influx of foreigners.

Out in Seattle the other day Clarence Darrow, the Chicago socialist lawyer, who defended Haywood at Boise last summer, chanced to be dining in a large restaurant recently when the orchestra struck up "The Star Spangled Banner," and every man, woman and child in the immense room rose to their feet with the exception of Darrow. His companions urged him to get to his feet, but he refused whereupon a lady (who by the way was of southern birth) commenced hissing, and the immense throng joined in with her. We would like to know the lady's name, we'd spend our last dollar on a bouquet for her. Such men as Darrow are decidedly "undesirable citizens," and should be made to feel the contempt of all true Americans.

Ask your children receiving any instruction in the things essential to good citizenship? The parent's duty is not half performed when he dresses his children up and sends them to the public school. There are many things that the parent alone has any business to talk to his children about, and the parent who neglects to see that the child has the proper instruction along lines essential to a proper understanding of his duties toward the country, the state and the people with whom he must come in contact, is neglecting the most essential part of the child's education. No child should be turned out into the world with no preparation for the duties and responsibilities of life, and the parent who neglects to give his child proper training along these lines is neglecting a serious responsibility.

The country is being flooded by letters written for the purpose of trying to arouse a public sentiment against the United States courts for their action in imposing a heavy fine upon the Standard Oil Company. It should be a useless waste of postage, as the people who think of the matter can easily see that the only way in which a corporation can be punished is by the imposition of a fine, and the fine must be heavy enough to smart a little, or it is no punishment. In the case of the Standard, the fine imposed will take less than one year's earnings of the corporation, while many a man has been punished for an infraction of the laws by being taken from his family and sent to prison for more than one year, and his family has been thus deprived of the earnings of the breadwinner during the period of his imprisonment. In this case there will be no children crying for bread because of the penalty imposed, and it is to be hoped that the company will be forced to pay the fine, and that other offenders will be specifically brought to justice.

A LAWYER recently said that the modern law office was the great clearing house for mis-matched marriages. There is much being said about the evils of divorce, of late, but the evil is not in the divorce laws, but in the ignorance of parties who enter the marriage relation unprepared for the duties and responsibilities of the family. What is wanted is a little more common sense talk by parents to their grown up and growing boys and girls, and a little less mock modesty, and there will be fewer homes wrecked and fewer litigants in the divorce courts. Any man or woman who sits in court during the average term, and listens to the evidence given in the divorce cases tried will be satisfied that many of the litigants should for the good of society, be separated by law. In fact they never should have been united in matrimony, and had they had the proper training along common sense lines, they never would have been. The present divorce court revelation is not an evidence of a decadent civilization, but is evidence of a higher standard of family ethics than ever prevailed before.

The National Magazine, in speaking of the frequent changes some districts make in their members of congress, says: "If more reasonable appreciation were shown of conscientious public service, it would be possible to obtain the services of men whose best work is of too broad scope and value to be sacrificed or slighted. The fleeting fickleness of the average constituency which usually measures the ability of a congressman by the local conditions that surround his election, prevents a great many able men from seeking re-election." This fact has been abundantly proven in this district in times past, and there is a constant danger of a recurrence of the error. One or two terms in congress but give the member an insight into his duties, and should be but the introduction of a valuable member. Many of the great men this nation has produced would have retired in obscurity had their public service terminated with one or two terms. Isn't it time that this district makes up its mind that it is bad policy to "swap horses while crossing a stream"? We have a man in congress from this district who should be kept there.

Capt. Bergman Visits Friends.
 Aug. Bergman, of Chelan, Wash., was a Pine City visitor Tuesday and Wednesday, he coming up to shake hands with old friends. He reports his family as being well, and says that they are happy in their western home. He informs us that the boating season is over for the year, and that his boys are packing fruit for when they receive good, big wages. The fruit packing will last until about the first of December. He also informed us that in one of the bottles near Chelan Lake they have struck a gold mine, and that some of the ore sent as high as $20,000 to the ton. He also says that Chelan Lake is surrounded by bushes heavy with copper ore. He says that the future of Chelan looks bright, and he is on the ground floor which has many friends in this place will be pleased to hear.

NIGHTS OF UNREST
 No Sleep, No Rest, No Peace for the Sufferer from Kidney Troubles

No peace for the kidney sufferer—Pain and distress from store till night.
 Get up with a lame back, Twinges of backache bother you all day.
 Dull aching breaks your rest at night.
 Urinary disorders add to your misery.
 Get at the cause—cure the kidneys.
 Doan's Kidney Pills will work the cure.
 They're for the kidneys only—L. D. Desotell, carpenter, employed at the Pillsbury Mill and 905 Twenty-first Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn., says: "In the fall of 1899 after using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the drug store, I felt warranted in recommending this remedy to sufferers from kidney troubles and backache. I had kidney complaint for years and the irregularity of the kidney secretions often caused me one night's rest. I tried a number of different remedies without effect, but when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I felt better from the beginning, and a few boxes completely rid me of all symptoms of any trouble. This led me to give a testimonial endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills and I have recommended them ever since." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McLellan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

News of the Week.

Chips Picked Up Around Town and Vicinity

Wm. Williams spent Sunday with his family at this place.

Hugo Wickstrom made a business trip to Grantsburg yesterday.

Frank Shultz, of Hinckley, was a Pioneer visitor Wednesday forenoon.

Chas. Stone, wife and child, spent Wednesday between trains at Hinckley.

Miss Gladys Buttrick, of Hinckley, was among last Friday's visitors in Pine City.

Mrs. C. F. Sephan departed on Wednesday's limited to spend a few days visiting relatives and friends at Friesland.

Evel Norton spent three days of this week at the Kanabec County Fair, which was held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Miss Bernice Huber has accepted the position of cashier at the Pine City Mercantile Co.'s store, and began work there last Friday.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pleasant, Tuesday morning, Oct. 1st, 1907, a daughter. The mother and child are doing well, and Fred is setting them up to the boys.

Miss Jennie McCormack, of Rush City, has accepted the position of bookkeeper at the Pine City Mercantile Co., and commenced her labors Monday morning.

Frank E. Smith and wife were cruising on Lake Pokegama last Sunday, even if the wind was blowing and the weather quite cold. They took dinner at the Island Hotel.

Court adjourned Saturday until the 14th inst., at which time the calendar will be cleaned up. The judge adjourned court so as to give the jurors time to do their threshing.

Ernest Gemmel, the able foreman of the Rush City Post, was in attendance at the fair last Friday, and found time to drop in and have a chat with the typographical artists of the Pioneer.

The dance given by the base ball boys last Friday evening was a success in every particular, the boys clearing about twenty dollars. The music was furnished by the Sandstone orchestra and gave good satisfaction.

Wednesday was the day set for the trial of Frank Swedberg, who slashed John Cain with a knife a week ago Saturday night, of which mention was made in last week's issue. The trial was postponed until next spring.

Dr. D. W. Cowan, Alvie Johnson and Alexander Gunn, of Sandstone, were here Friday to take in the county fair. The Doctor and Mr. Gunn remained until Monday afternoon, but Mr. Johnson returned to his home Saturday afternoon.

Louis Kowalke departed for the Veterinary College at Montreal, Ont., Wednesday afternoon, where he goes to take a three year's course of study in that noted institution. When Louis returns he will have "V. S." for a handle to his name. The Pioneer wishes him success.

W. R. Newman, the Hinckley real estate man, was a Pine City caller on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Newman is publisher of The Farmstead, a monthly paper devoted to the interests of the farmer, and his real estate business. It is a paper that should be in the home of every farmer in Pine county, and at the small price asked for it, it is within the reach of all.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Joseph Petschel, while canning tomatoes, had the misfortune to have a glass can break to atoms while holding it in her right hand, cutting the middle finger, and a gash in the wrist that took three stitches to sew up. Before medical aid could reach her she had lost considerable blood. At the present writing she was doing as well as could be expected.

In another column will be found the report of those who received premiums in the pure seed contest at the county fair. The judges from the state experimental station, who came up to judge the exhibit, said that it was the best that they had judged this year, and were surprised to see what Pine county could grow. Superintendent Blankenship and all those who contributed to the display can feel justly proud of the results of their labors.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lambert journeyed to Minneapolis Wednesday.

W. P. Gottry spent Wednesday and yesterday in the two cities on business.

Chas. Stone, who has been out in Montana since last spring, returned to his home Monday.

John Harbut, wife and two children, returned Sunday from a month's visit with relatives in Canada.

Remember the entertainment in Stekl's hall, a week from tomorrow night, given under the auspices of the Pythian Sisters.

Mrs. Herman Borchers and daughter, Vera, returned Friday from a month's visit with relatives and friends at Columbus, Wis.

Mrs. Wm. Peaslee returned to her home in Taylors Falls Monday, after a ten day visit with Mrs. Jonas Gray and other Pine City friends.

W. J. Monroe, of Duluth, post-office inspector, was a Pine City visitor the first of the week. He also inspected the postoffices at Beroun and Crook Creek.

Ladies of the Emily J. Stone Circle will meet at the O. A. R. Hall on Tuesday, Oct. 8, 1907. All members are requested to be present.

ALTA R. STEPHAN, Pres.

We are indebted to I. H. Claggett for one of the groups of pictures he had on exhibition at the fair. The handsome photographs now decorate the walls of this office, where they can be seen at any time.

Mrs. A. W. Piper, Mrs. A. Pennington and Mrs. W. P. Gottry left Wednesday noon for Minneapolis, where they are attending the annual conference of the M. E. church, and visiting relatives and friends.

Col. J. F. Stone, of the Rush City Post, made the Pioneer a fraternal call last Friday. Though the Colonel left at the time of his call, he was nevertheless suitably entertained.

Quite a party enjoyed a ride to Pokegama last Sunday afternoon on the "Penny Ante." The party was composed of Jas. Hurley, W. A. Lambert, Ed Thompson, Dr. Cowan, A. Gunn, Emil Hoeller and Nickerson Perkins.

The following pupils were perfect in attendance in District No. 13 during the month of September, ending September 27: Hjalmar Swanson, Lyda Rudquist, Nettie Benton, Nina Nelson and John Alguire.

COLICE M. LEE, Teacher.

A dance given by the boys who have worked in the mill during the past summer, in Stekl's hall, Tuesday evening, was well attended. The Sandstone orchestra furnished the music, and all who attended report having had a very pleasant time.

On Friday afternoon a number of the lady friends of grandma Brackett gave her a very pleasant surprise, the occasion being the 82nd anniversary of her birth. The old ladies enjoyed themselves during the afternoon, and about 4:30 a luncheon was served, after which they departed for their several homes, having spent a very enjoyable afternoon.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered grandma Teich last Saturday at the home of her son, Charles, at the copper mine, the occasion being her 74th birthday. It was in the form of a reunion, at which her three sons and their families, besides quite a number of invited guests were present. The evening was passed very pleasantly in dancing, and at midnight a luncheon was served, after which all departed for their homes, wishing grandma many happy returns of the day.

Prof. G. W. Hall, professor of geology, Prof. F. E. Clements and wife, of botany, and Prof. Frank P. Groat, of mineralogy, all of the faculty of the State University, were here Saturday and Sunday, and spent the greater part of the two days at the copper mine, and on the banks of the Snake below the Chagwata dam. Prof. Hall has been here a number of times before, but says he always enjoys studying the rock formations along the Snake river. The Professors took a large number of specimens with them for the students to analyze. Prof. Clement and wife are both botanists, and took home some flowers and leaves. They report having had a fine time and say that this will not be their last trip to this vicinity.

Popular Spectals.

FOR A FRIEND

By EMMA C. DOWD

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

As Helen Sargent stopped singing a sweet voice from the other end of the room said: "That is a beautiful song, dearie. It seemed as if I could see the Lord riding into Jerusalem, and the people casting their garments and palm branches before Him, and hear them crying, 'Hosanna!' You make it all so real."

"I am glad you like it, grandma. I feel as if I were there myself, perhaps that is why I can make it seem so real to others. I am to sing it at church to-morrow and I hope it will please my audience as well as it pleases you. But not everybody is as kind a critic as you are." Then stooping to kiss the smiling lips she stood up stairs.

The flush that her grandmother's words had called to her cheeks had not died out, and her face reflected the pure joy that filled her heart. Helen Sargent was very lovely as she stood there thinking her happy thoughts.

Presently she turned from the window and made preparations for a walk.

As she was ushered into the parlor of her friend, Mabel Emory, she saw that another caller was before her. "Oh, it is Millie Crawford!" she said sweetly, as she went forward to greet the girl, who had turned slightly at her approach. "I have hardly caught a glimpse of you since I came home, but we used to be good friends before I went abroad. I wish I might see more of you. I never forgot old friends, Millie."

The young lady thus addressed replied somewhat stiffly to this cordial greeting and then sat awkwardly on the edge of a large chair, nervously fingering the buttons of her jacket. "What ails Millie Crawford?" asked Helen as soon as she was alone with her friend.

"What Ails Millie Crawford?"

Mabel blushed. "Poor Millie!" she said, "she is going through a hard place."

"Oh, I did not suppose she was in trouble. I am so sorry. I wish I could help her."

Helen's voice was very tender and sympathetic, and she looked inquiringly at Mabel, expecting something further. But Mabel only seemed confused, and she avoided her friend's direct gaze.

"I'd like to tell you—that is, perhaps it would be best," she said, finally, "but I don't think Millie would want me to speak of it."

"Then do not," Helen hastened to say, "only wish I might be of use to her in some way."

Mabel opened her lips as if to reply, then she closed them lightly, with a pained expression, and the pain did not wholly leave her face during her caller's stay.

On Monday morning she started for Boston on business for her grandmother. As the train stopped at a way station, Helen looked up from her book to see a rosy-cheeked, smiling woman standing opposite her in the aisle, and she moved closer to the window and took the parcel beside her that the stranger might share her seat.

"Thank you," said the woman, "I don't see what makes the cars so crowded this morning. But I don't blame 'em any. It's pleasant enough to want to be gone somewhere."

Helen nodded a smiling assent, and then resumed her reading. At that moment she felt a soft touch on her sleeve.

"Excuse me," said her seatmate, "but I couldn't help seeing that point tag to the ticket that lay in Helen's lap, and I want to know if you live in Bloxmore?"

"Yes."

"I thought so! Wal, I'm real glad. Perhaps you know a young lady by the name of Crawford?"

Helen responded in the affirmative. "Wal, ain't I in luck! You see, I live in Boston. I've been over to my married daughter's to stay all night. Her baby has got the measles, an' they thought he was going to die sure, an' nothin' would do but I must come right over. But he's as bright as a button this mornin', an' there we're no need of my goin', only I hope Mary'll feel easier now. Wal, that ain't Solving the Problem of the Left-Over The Best Way of Dealing with the Porter-House Steak.

BY MILES BRADFORD.

"I'll share a steak with you, if you don't mind," the man announced, as he took his seat by the side of a friend at a table in one of the New York restaurants. "You see," he continued, apologetically, "we don't get these good steaks at our house. There are two of us, and the wife says that she can't afford to buy a big, thick steak when so little of it would be eaten."

It was not an unusual story that this man told, for there are thousands of women who take just this view of the matter. Because a steak must be large and thick to be appetizing, they feel that it is a luxury in which they cannot afford to indulge, so they either dispense with this kind of meat entirely, leaving the husband to satisfy his craving for such food at the New York houses and restaurants, or they purchase the small, thin cuts that bear about as close a resemblance to a real steak as an old fowl does to a spring chicken.

Instead of refusing to purchase an entirely thick steak, let the wife strike out boldly and order her butcher to supply her with a slice of beef that weighs fully four or four and a half pounds. Then let her cut this piece of meat into three pieces—one piece consisting of the tenderloin, the second, the stringy end, which will leave the third piece, the steak itself, in the form that is known as the "Delmonico" steak. This done, she can proceed to utilize all the meat most satisfactorily.

For the first day's dinner, for example, let the tenderloin be served as plain roast beef. To prepare this dish the tenderloin is carefully trimmed, after which it is cut into slices that will not be more than half an inch thick. They are then salted on both sides, after which they are placed in a sizzling mixture of butter and olive oil to cook rapidly for about five minutes, or longer if you do not like rare meat. When done, they are served, covered with a brown gravy, and, if desired, a garnishment of sliced button mushrooms.

Stewed tenderloin with oysters is another use to which the first day's cut of meat may be put. A thick, white, isle of butter that will not tax the ability of the most inexperienced cook. Let her first mix a little butter and flour in her stew-pan, and when the blend has browned, let her add a chopped Spanish onion and two pickled walnuts that have been cut into small pieces. A moment or two later two tablespoons of mushroom catsup and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce are added, after which the uncut tenderloin steak is placed on top of this mixture. Simmer for about an hour. It must be turned three or four times during the interval and at no period should it be permitted to come to a boil. A few moments before it is to be served, a dozen to a dozen and a half of oysters should be opened and drained free from all liquor through a sieve. When dry as possible add them; let them stay about two minutes; then serve the steak with the oysters and gravy poured over it.

For the second day's dinner the housewife has her choice between the "Delmonico" steak and the less inviting, but still juicy end. If it is the end of the meat that is selected, there are two dishes from which she may choose, either of which will be certain to prove enticing to the most fastidious palate. One is a potpie, the other English beef balls.

To make the potpie both the fat and lean of the beef must be used. The meat is cut into pieces of equal size, after which it is put over the fire, in some cold water, to stew, under cover, for fully two hours. About half an hour before the expiration of this time, a sliced onion is added, with some fat bacon cut into dice, and salt, just before the mixture has finished cooking, it is thickened with flour and ready lined with a baking-dish covered with another layer of the dough, and baked in a quick oven until the crust is done.

To make the beef balls, mince the fat and lean beef together with an onion and some previously boiled parsley. Add grated bread crumbs, with salt, pepper, a little nutmeg, and for fully two hours. New Hat Pins

There is nothing in the way of dresses, hats or shoes so fascinating to the average young girl as trinkets, and there seems to be no end to the supply of new ones that can be seen in the shops, and particularly pretty are the novelties that come to us from Paris. Most of them, however, are passing fads, and, unfortunately, cannot be worn long, as they become common. One of the novelties which seem to have remained the fashion longest are the small pins, and are in the shape of swallows, the bird holding a pearl in its mouth.

Quite the latest thing, however, and so recent that it can only be found in one or two shops as yet, are bird hat pins. At the end of the pin is this little feathery bird. Some of the prettiest are peacocks, cockatoos, swallows and birds of paradise.

The peacocks and birds of paradise can be detached from the pin and make lovely hair ornaments. The other birds are just the things to stick in the side of a Panama hat, and they look very sporty, besides being extremely pretty.

Speaking of pins, they have some very pretty sets, which are quite new. They consist of threefold bar pins of graduated sizes, with a stone in the middle of each; then there is a brooch and a necklace set with the same stones. You can have your choice of amethysts, emeralds, rubies or sapphires; the setting is solid gold, but the stones are very good imitations. The entire set is in a dainty little leather case and would make most acceptable presents.—New York Herald.

NIXON'S QUESTION.

Some young ladies like the starry-eyed, smiling, and smiling Mrs. Nixon is of this order. She was not a good cook, and she knew it; but after marriage she studied at a cooking class with much good effect that in due course she carried off a diploma.

"Yes," she said, enthusiastically, that evening, "I've got the loveliest diploma. It's on sheepskin parchment, with a big red seal. And just in honor of the occasion I cooked that dish you're eating now. It's my own idea entirely. Now, just you guess what it is."

Nixon went on with his meal in a choked-up for a moment. Then he looked up with a wry grin.

"I don't know," he said, hesitatingly. "Is it—oh—is it the diploma?"

METHODS OF FOREST PLANTING

Where Many Trees Are Needed Start a Home Nursery.

The best method of establishing a forest plantation is by the use of nursery stock. It is usually advisable to purchase plant material from a commercial nursery. In extensive operations, however, it may prove more profitable to produce the planting stock in a home nursery. Such a nursery, however, will demand the careful supervision and attention in growing young trees. Advice in regard to nursery practice is contained in extract 376 from the year book of the department of agriculture for 1910, which can be had upon application to the forester.

Forest planting must be done by simple and cheap methods. Preparation of the planting site by plowing and harrowing is not essential, but is best if the land has been previously utilized for crops. Such preparation

BITTER ROT OF APPLES.

Suggestions as to How the Disease Can Be Controlled.

The control of bitter rot of apples receives attention in circular 112 issued from the Illinois experiment station and prepared by F. J. C. Blair. The author takes advantage of the opportunity to repeat the conclusions that have been reached at Urbana by the authorities. Here they are:

1. Bordeaux mixture properly made and applied will save over 90 per cent. of the fruit liable to attack by bitter rot.

2. Fruit sprayed to such a manner as to be thoroughly coated with Bordeaux mixture when the first infection of the disease appears will be injured least by bitter rot.

3. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture until the fruit is thoroughly coated as soon as the first infection of bitter rot is discovered is of considerable value, but is much less effective than treatment mentioned in No. 2.

4. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture after bitter rot has become well established may control the disease to a considerable extent in some seasons. In other seasons its effect as a remedy is very slight.

5. Bordeaux mixture applied in the liquid form and made up according to the 4-4-50 formula is the most effective spraying material for the control of apple bitter rot.

6. Dust spray is absolutely ineffective in preventing bitter rot.

7. Pure solutions of copper sulfate failed to check the disease and caused injury to the foliage.

8. To coat the fruit thoroughly with the mixture it is necessary to make at least three applications of the spray mat.

9. Applications of 25 pounds of salt to the ground about a tree have no value in checking the disease.

10. The conditions most favorable for the development of bitter rot are accompanied by frequent rains and heavy dews at a period when the apple crop is approaching maturity, i. e., from August, (2) numerous sources of infection, i. e., cankers on the limbs and mummified fruits left hanging upon the trees.

CURING AND STORING ONIONS.

Care Must Be Taken to Prevent Spoiling of Crop.

Many an onion crop has been spoiled by improper curing. Old, experienced growers know how important it is to harvest, store and propagate them in the best manner.

The house is 22 feet wide and 36 feet long. It will hold about 2,500 bushels.

Onion Curing Shed.

Shed with Sides Raised.

Information regarding general nursery practice and planting may be obtained from publications of the forest service, which will be forwarded upon request addressed to the forester.

FOR THE FRUIT GROWER.

Last call to cut out the old blackberry and raspberry canes! And don't let the cuttings lie in a heap all winter. Burn 'em now.

Currents and gooseberries are often set out in the fall.

Continue to cultivate and hoe the strawberry bed. But don't let the runners set too thickly; cut off the surplus plants as if they were weeds.

The red raspberry is still the most popular on our markets, but it is difficult to grow in the west.

The strawberry beds at this time of year should be kept growing and weeds should be kept down.

Do not let the orchard ground remain bare all winter. If no cover crop was sown last month (as we then advised) attend to it at once.

Put the wood ashes in the orchard. Any place to which a good place, but if put around the trees it will help to keep the borers out.

Let no fruit waste this year. Light crops or crop failures in many places will surely result in increased demand and prices. Market what you can, can what you can't—Farm Journal.

The Groucher. "Father is complaining of feeling some better this morning," said the boy. His father had got so into the habit of grumbling and complaining at breakfast that he really couldn't help it.

HOME-MADE REMEDY

INEXPENSIVE AND EASILY PREPARED BY ANYONE.

Is Said to Promptly Relieve Backache and Overcome Kidney Trouble and Bladder Weakness Though Harmless and Pleasant to Take.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, in the following simple prescription, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and administer in spoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known authority, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles, and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause stiffness and suffering. Those who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

NOTHING HID FROM KAISER.

How German Emperor Keeps in Touch with World's Affairs.

The German emperor's interest in everything that goes on in the world is well known, but few are aware of the trouble he takes to keep in touch with current affairs. According to a Munich newspaper, the Kaiser reads at least three papers every day, changing the list several times a week in order to become fully acquainted with the ideas of all political parties. He has this by his information. Every day the ministry of foreign affairs, as well as that of the interior, has for three weeks newspaper cuttings, properly named and dated, and pasted on slips ready for the emperor's perusal. These he carefully reads, making marginal notes as he goes along. The cuttings are then scrupulously classified and put aside ready for immediate reference. Often, too, the emperor asks for cuttings relating to the particular technical subjects in which for the time he is specially interested.

PURE FOOD.

The pure food law does not prohibit the sale of Cream of Tartar Baking Powders because Cream of Tartar is pure Alum—but it is a well known fact that baking powder in which Alum is used instead of Cream of Tartar is less injurious. Dr. Herman Reinbold, the expert German chemist, in a recent official report concerning Baking Powders, declares that a pure Alum baking powder is better and less injurious than the so-called Cream of Tartar powders. He says that if the quantity of alum contained in a sufficient quantity of baking powder for a batch of bread or cakes for an ordinary family, be concentrated to one hundredth of its original quantity, the stomach of any one person, no matter how delicate, it could do no harm.

ON WIT AND HUMOR.

Man is the only animal that laughs and weeps, for he is the only animal that is struck with the difference between what things are and what they ought to be. We weep at what thwarts or exceeds our desires in serious matters; we laugh at what only disappoints our expectations in trifling ones. We laugh least from sympathy with real and necessary distress; as we burst into laughter from want of sympathy with that which is unreasonable and unnecessary, the absurdity of which provokes our spleen or mirth, rather than serious reflections on it.—William Hazlitt.

HAD A FELLOW FEELING.

Aunt Susan's Heart Went Out to "Pore Missus Astor."

Uncle Eli felt he knew the metropolitan pretty well. Had he not been there three times in four years—and twice he had ridden on the elevated. So when he brought Aunt Susan with him (on the fourth trip) he naturally assumed the role of guide.

She marvelled at everything until they sat down for luncheon. They had come into the Astor house for that meal, but all its other marvels seemed lost on the visiting country hostess as she looked on-eyed at the crowds that filled not only the corridors but the restaurants. Scarcely had they found seats, when this amazement took definite shape.

"Oh," said she in a stagey whisper, "I can't get here an' eat peaceably. I jest' so do downstairs an' help pore Missus Astor with the cookin' an' dishes."—Bohemian.

NO NEED FOR WORDS.

Brief Pantomime Told Everything to the Onlooker.

Harrison Grey Fluke discussed, at a dinner in New York, the art of acting.

"I believe," said Mr. Fluke, "in subtlety and restraint. A nod, a shake of the head, a slight pucker of the brow are often more effective than the most violent yelling and ranting.

"Life is like that, subtle and silent. What, for instance, could be more expressive than this scene, a scene without a spoken word, that I once witnessed in the country?"

"An undertaker stood on a corner near a noble mansion. He elevated his hand hopefully and inquiringly as a physician came from the house. The physician, compressing his lips, shook his head decidedly and hurried to his carriage. The undertaker with a sigh passed on."

FURIOUS HUMOR ON CHILD.

Itching, Bleeding Sores Covered Body—Nothing Helped Her—Cuticura Cures Her in Five Days.

"After my granddaughter of about seven years had been cured of the measles, she was attacked about a fortnight later by a furious itching and painful eruption all over her body, especially the upper part of it, forming watery and bleeding sores, especially under the arms, of considerable size. She suffered a great deal and for three weeks we nursed her every night, using all the remedies we could think of. Nothing would help. We tried the Cuticura Remedies and after twenty-four hours we noted considerable improvement, and after using only one complete set of the Cuticura Remedies, in five consecutive days the little one, much to our joy, had been entirely cured. KNEW WHAT PAPA SAID.

And It Was Something of a Variation of Old Adage.

"Tommy was stubborn and his teacher was having a hard time explaining a small point in the geography lesson. "Tommy" teacher began, "you can learn this if you make up your mind. I know," she continued, coaxingly, "that you are just as bright as any boy in the class. Remember, Tommy, where there's a will there's a way. I know all I do. My father's a lawyer, he is, an' I've heard him say it lots of times. "You should not have interrupted me," reproached the teacher, "but I'm glad that your father has taught you the old adage. Can you repeat it for me?"

"Sure," said Tommy, confidently. "My father says that where der's a will there's always a bunch o' poor relations."—Lippincott's.

Preparation is the basis of power and the whole secret of success in life for a man to be ready for his opportunity when it comes.—Disraeli.

As to the scorcher. "Do many endurance races" across the plain here" asked the city lawyer, peering down the road. "Yes, strange people" replied the old farmer. "They are all endurance races to us. "You are?" "Sure. It is an endurance test in the back and head, and almost continuous in the lotus and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until for a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful."
