OUR VILLAGE ELECTION

Old Councilmen Re-Elected With Practically No Opposition--A New Street Commissioner Chosen.

The election in this place Tuesday passed off very quietly, there being but very little excitement, as there was only competition in the councilmen, justice of the peace for 2 years and the street commissioner, the latter in fact being the only fight on. The following is the result of election as given by the clerks:

President—	Julius Dosey	192
Councilmen—	J. W. Collins	121
	Hugo Wickstrom	121
	August Larson	198
	Adolph Kaim	190
	Math Prochaska	189
	Ed Madden	81
Treasurer—	J. D. Boyle	198
Recorder—	E. H. Dosey	194
Assessor—	C. J. Heywood	195
Justice of Peace, 2 years—	John Atkinson	135
	Wm. Engler	61
Justice of Peace, 1 year—	A. H. Lambert	194
Street Commissioner—	Jos. Kunz	100
	Jas. Karas	60
	Chris Koleiske	26
	J. E. Netser	14

The vote was the largest ever cast here at a spring election there being 202 votes cast, and there were only bona fide citizens voted, no floating population. There was over 60 votes cast that were not on the poll list, if all the citizens had turned out and voted we would have polled over three hundred votes.

Pine City village will be heard from at the election this fall, when they will turn out a vote that will make the quarry city look to her laurels if she would continue to be the metropolis of Pine county.

Northwestern National Leads a Good Man.

A. J. Armstrong, Field Manager for the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of N. Y., stopped over here for a couple of days this week in the interest of his company. Mr. Armstrong has been associated with the Northwestern National Life of Minneapolis, in the capacity of General agent for the past two years, from which he severed his connection on March 1st, to return to his old company. The Mutual Life, of N. Y., is one of the giants in the insurance world, and Mr. Armstrong seems delighted to get back with the old company with which he was formerly connected.

The Northwestern National loses a good man, but Mr. Armstrong's many friends in this place are glad to know that by the change he has bettered himself financially.

THE MONKEY-WRENCH.

The editor once had occasion to look up the origin of the name "monkey-wrench." In response to the request of a young friend of his, who, quite naturally, could not understand what connection there could be between a wrench and a monkey. Unless you have made the same search, you would be surprised to hear how long it took to get the information. Dictionaries and encyclopedias were consulted in vain, but a well-informed mechanic at last answered the question. It seems that the wrench was invented by a man named Charles Monkey, and it was at first called a "Monkey-wrench," but the e was dropped after a time, and it became plain "monkey-wrench."

REPUBLICANS MEET

Republican County Convention Met at Hinckley Yesterday, and Transacted the Necessary Business.

Thursday afternoon the republicans of this county met at Hinckley and elected delegates to the State convention at Minneapolis on the 16th, and to the Congressional convention to be held at Pine City next Wednesday.

The convention endorsed the candidacy of Wm. Taft for president, and instructed its delegates to vote for delegates to the national convention at Chicago, in June, that would support Taft for president.

The following delegates were elected to attend the state convention: Peter Peterson, Chas. Olson, H. S. Akin, F. E. Smith, W. P. Hogan, Wilbur Campbell, W. H. Williams, A. M. Challenor, and Banker Mecholson, of Finlayson.

The convention also endorsed the candidacy of J. Adam Bede for congress, and pledged to him the hearty support of the republicans of the county. The delegates elected to represent the county of Pine at the congressional convention to be held in this place next Wednesday were as follows: Henry J. Rath, J. Y. Breckenridge, Adolph Sommers, John Lindgren, Chas. Olson, John T. Craig, J. D. Johnson, H. S. Akin, Dr. Dredge, and Peter Peterson.

A straw vote was taken on Governor, the candidates being Young and Jacobson, Young receiving 14 votes and Jacobson 44 votes, showing in what manner the republicans in this part of the state take the candidacy of the two men. If Jacobson is the republican candidate for Governor it is a foregone conclusion that Pine County will give him the largest vote ever given a republican candidate.

The convention passed off pleasantly with an interesting discussion of any kind. The delegates all report having had a pleasant time in Hinckley and enjoying the meeting together of the republicans of the county and exchanging ideas and plans for the coming fall election.

The Old Plantation Quartette

The Male Quartette that held the boards at Stank's hall last Monday evening was the last of the entertainments given under the auspices of the Pythian Sisters, who should receive the hearty thanks of the citizens of this place, for furnishing them five or six fine and elevating entertainments as ever given in Pine City.

The Old Plantation Quartette and Jubilee Singers gave a fine entertainment, which consisted of quartets, instrumental music and solos. The solos by each one of the four gentlemen were well received, especially the tenor solos by Mr. White, and the bass solos by Mr. Thomas. Mr. White has a musical tenor voice, and the manner in which he used it at the above mentioned occasion shows that he has had a good deal of training and reached the high notes with perfect ease.

Mr. Thomas, the bass singer and director of the Quartette has a very deep as well as musical voice and he carried the large audience by a storm and received encores, his first solo was "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," which he sang by request. He answered to an encore by reciting a poem, but that did not suit the audience and he had to sing another solo.

If the Quartette are ever billed to appear here again, they will be met with a larger crowd than greeted them on Tuesday evening.

HIS WHEAT WENT 22 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE.

HE REALIZED $18 PER ACRE FROM IT, WHILE OTS GAVE HIM $17 AN ACRE.

Moore Jaw, Sask., Nov. 18th, 1907. Writing from Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Mr. S. K. Rathwell says: "I have much pleasure in stating that on my farm this year I had 699 acres in wheat, and 120 acres in oats. My wheat averaged about 22 bushels per acre, and I had 500 acres out before the frost, which I sold at 85 cents per bushel, thus realizing on that wheat $18.00 per acre, not counting cost of twine, seed and labor. With regard to the other 300 acres of wheat, it got touched with frost but is worth 60 cents per bushel. It will net me $12.00 per acre, but I do not intend to sell it at that price, as I can make more money by feeding it to hogs. My oats turned out about 5 bushels to the acre, and at 35 cents per bushel will give me $1.75 on the acre, not counting cost of twine, seed and labor. There are some consistent features of nature in this rural landscape," he said, as he scrutinized the picture.

"What are they?" asked the anxious critic. "The brow of the hill, which, I assure, is placed above the mouth of the stream," was the illuminating answer. —Youth's Companion.

Gazetteer of India. Many specimens of unconquered humor are received by the editors of that monumental work, the new Imperial Gazetteer of India. A district was said to be "an extensive rolling plain, consisting of alternate ridges of bare stony hills and narrow fertile valleys."

An interesting item of natural history was afforded by the remark, "the buffalo differs from the cow in giving a milk which is richer in fat, in volume, and in having no hump."—London Globe.

Restaurant Prize Suing. A novel method of advertising a table d'hôte has been used by a New York restaurateur. Every Saturday night he selects a certain chair in his restaurant and places its number in a sealed envelope in the charge of the cashier. All the guests select their own seats. The person who is lucky enough to occupy the selected chair receives, as a present, a handsome gold watch.

Evidently Strange. "A gentleman to see you, sir," announced Mr. Struckitt Wright's new butler. "At-tell him I'll be down in a minute. I guess it's my brother, probably. I'm expectin' him. Does he look anything like me?" "No, sir—at all. He is very gentlemanly in appearance."

Perils of Fence Mending. "I understand that member of congress hurried home to mend his fence?" "Yes, but he doesn't appear to have made a neat job of it. His prospects look as if he had gotten into a tangle with a lot of bad wires."

THEY GROW. Good Humor and Cheerfulness from Right Foot. Cheerfulness is like sunlight. It dispels the clouds from the mind as sunlight chases away the shadows of grief.

Anything that interferes with good health is apt to keep cheerfulness and good humor in the background. A Washington lady found that letting coffee alone made things bright for her. She writes: "Four years ago I was practically given up by my doctor and was not expected to live long. My nervous system was in a bad condition."

"That I was I began to look about for a cure of my chronic nervous system. I used to have nervous spells which would exhaust me and after each spell it would take me days before I could get up in the morning."

"I became convinced my trouble was caused by coffee. I decided to stop it and bought some Postum. "The first cup, which I made according to directions, had a wonderful effect on my nerves and built up the system. For a time I nearly lived on Postum and ate little food besides. I am today a healthy woman."

"My family and relatives wonder if I am the same person I was four years ago. When I look in the mirror I am a different person. Now I am doing my own household work, take care of two babies—now twenty, the first two months old—and to say that I hardly get time to write a letter, yet I do it all with the cheerfulness and good humor that comes from enjoying good health."

"I tell my friends it is to eat Postum every day." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in plus. "There's a Reason."

THE INGRATE

By EDGAR WHITE

So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself and said unto them, he that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.

In the days of his youth he was going the part, and she was proud to travel with him, and ask no questions. The glorious day was theirs and it was a shame to lift the veil of tomorrow. So hand in hand, with airy feet they trod the primrose path and all the world was light, air, flowers, and one glad, sweet song.

One day the eastern brokers called for margins. To stop where he was meant a heavy loss. To put up might mean salvation. So he put up. Crash came and he was left with his hands empty and his pockets empty. The market had fallen and he was left with a hundred dollars a month cash on hand, zero. Down came the air castle. Eddie Darrell, assistant cashier of the National Bank of Standfield, it out for Mexico.

In the morning details were in the hands of a great detective agency and by eight the bloodhounds were on the trail. The chase did not last long. It was showing in the leaden dawn of a winter morning when three men stepped upon the platform at Standfield. All wore great coats, closely buttoned up. The younger of the trio glanced wistfully at the receding red lights on the rear stepper of the train and bitterly remarked:

"What a fool a young man can make of himself if he wants to."

To this self-venting proposition there was no answer. The man on the back and the stern-faced man of the three indicated the destination to the driver by a word of four letters. After a dive of seven or eight blocks the vehicle stopped in front of a composite building of brick and stone. The stern-looking man motioned the younger one to get out and he did so quickly followed. A few resounding knocks on the door brought out a man whose dangling suspenders, bare feet and mussed hair indicated a hurried evacuation of his bed. After a rapid scrutiny of his caller with his alert eye he ejaculated:

"Eddie Darrell! By the great Lord Harry! Where'd you catch him?"

His curiosity was satisfied and after a few laconic directions by the leader, the two returned to the carriage, leaving the younger man in charge of the keeper.

The man of the stern countenance was a United States detective. His companion was the cashier of the National bank. The young man who left at the jail was the defaulting assistant.

At the ensuing term of the United States court the young man pleaded guilty to embezzling the bank's money, which he had hoped to return if his wheat deals hadn't gone wrong. There didn't appear to be any mitigating circumstances, save that the prisoner was closely related to one of the best families of the town, and had always borne an excellent reputation. And he was young. His lawyers referred to this in their plea for mercy and stated that for seven years past the prisoner had been a trusted employe of the bank and the faithful treasurer of a leading church of which he was a member. The court spoke of the parole of the stern man and made it five years at hard labor.

The assistant cashier donned the stripes and began his long term of servitude. He was a model prisoner, the warden said.

Soon after the convict reached the penitentiary a young woman sought employment at a hotel in the prison town. She was well-formed and fairly good-looking, but extremely reticent. She belonged to a class Hugo speaks of as "too miserable." It was noticed that she was frequently in the cook room after hours preparing dainties of some sort, which she took to her room. On many occasions she was observed late at night by the aid of a candle, sewing on material for a man's garments. It soon leaked out that she had a lover in the penitentiary, who was the recipient of these favors created during the hours she should have been asleep. A metropolitan newspaper that makes a specialty of such cases sent an investigator to the penitentiary and he took his paint brush along. An extract from his report ran like this:

"With a love more lasting than that of Mercedes for Edmond Dantes, and a devotion as unselfish as Juliet's to Romeo, Nell Thorne waits outside the grim walls of the state penitentiary for the release of her convict lover. When he walks through the great doors to the freedom of a scornful world he will find her leaning against him and a heart that sympathizes with him."

There were many paragraphs of that sort and pictures galore. It was a sensational article and attracted attention. A round-faced old gentleman of a philanthropic turn visited the penitentiary to see if it all were true. He knew that reporters were sometimes given to exaggeration. But in this instance the yarn was built upon the foundation of verity. The round-faced gentleman, Thomas Brewster, by name, was manager of a big concern in Ohio, and he promised Eddie a good job when he got out. He also met Nell and spoke a few words of cheer which lighted up the girl's dark eyes in the course of time Eddie received his discharge and went out into the sunlight. He had entered dish while in the penitentiary and looked more like a man. It was in the very prime of life, cheerful and strong. Being well-dressed and of fine appearance he was keenly aware of the favorable impression he created. In his confidence he had made his mistake—the glad hand was extended on every side. He was invited to social functions, attended his old church and was smilingly received by the young women. The prodigal had returned and all, in the goodness of their hearts, were bent on forgetting the mistake and encouraging him in his efforts to retrieve his reputation.

The ex-convict began to feel that he hadn't been so bad after all, and when the subject of his term in the pen was broached he spoke bitterly of the "excessive punishment" given him. But that was just now and he hadn't thought to buckle down and show the old father and mother and his many friends that he was worthy of their confidence. He would begin by cutting out all his evil associates and practices and start in fresh.

Nell resigned her job and returned to Standfield. Then she waited with a woman's confidence for the completion of the romance the paper had talked about. But there wasn't any. With the offer of employment by a wealthy and highly reputable old gentleman it would be folly to approach him with a Maschen and his bride. Anybody with both eyes shut could see that. So he told her gently but firmly that matters between them were over and advised her to seek some honest employment and try to be good. It was a little odd that she should break down and place near the treasury; but now it seems that the excellent representation of the man and a thoroughly creditable work of art is not to receive the recognition which his grateful countrymen so earnestly and honestly tried to secure for him. The originators of the Spinner Memorial association have come to the conclusion that the statue never will be given a conspicuous place in the city of Washington although they have not ceased their efforts to have the memory of Gen. Spinner so honored.

The statue was completed early in the administration of President Cleveland. Mrs. John A. Logan and others made application to Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle to have the statue placed upon one of the approaches to the treasury building, guaranteeing that the government should not be put to one cent of cost in having the work done. Mr. Carlisle refused the appeal and the committee, seeing that they were satisfied that he did not have the authority to grant such a request, and that there never had been a statute erected to any of the men who had served as the head of the department.

The sculptor, Mr. Elliott, died and the statue was removed from his studio to the Corcoran Art gallery, with the understanding it could be removed at any time the women found a suitable place for it. From that day to the present the work of art has occupied an obscure place in the basement of the gallery, where it seldom would be seen or recognized if not pointed out by some one familiar with its history.

The women of the treasurer's office adored Gen. Spinner. His was their meeter, guide, philosopher and friend. But for his stalwart appeals there might have been no women in the departments. And he had much to contend with Salmon Chase, who was secretary of the treasury at the time, was lukewarm over the proposition. Chiefs of several of the bureaus actually sneered at what they called a visionary and wild conception, and predicted all sorts of evil results from it. The old treasurer was not dissuaded, however. He was fighting a good fight and he won.

MRS. SCHOFF IS RE-ELECTED.

Again Made President of National Congress of Mothers.

Philadelphia.—Mrs. Frederic Schoff, who has been re-elected president of the National Congress of Mothers, has been president of the organization since 1902. She has a beautiful home in this city and seven children, to whom she is devoted. For many years Mrs. Schoff has been a leader in societies that have for their object improvements in the laws relating to the care of children. The Pennsylvania juvenile court law, passed in 1899, was largely due to her efforts and reforms have been to remove children from appearance in criminal courts.

"The girl who seems 'a dream' now may later recall to us the saying that dreams go by contraries.

NO PLACE FOR HIS STATUS.

A Memorial to General Spinner Left in Obscurity.

Washington—Standing in the basement of the Corcoran Art gallery in this city is the splendid bronze statue of Francis Elias Spinner, former treasurer of the United States and the man who first opened the doors of the government department to female citizens.

Statue of Francis Elias Spinner.

CHIRP freshness, daintiness and brightness should be the dominating features of Easter dishes. Luncheons or whatever special feast marks the passing from the mazy regime of Lent to the luscious time of rich plentifulness. Special flowers, fruits and vegetables at this season make it feasible to mark the change in a pecuniary attractive manner.

Pussy willows will give the right touch if one lives where they can be got so late in the season. The blossoms of fruit trees—apples, peaches, pears and plums—make extremely beautiful Easter decorations, and the flowers anticipate nature sufficiently to provide them at this time. Equally beautiful are flowering shrubs, such as Forsythia and the bird cherry, which the accommodating florist also has in stock now. The most seasonable of flowers for decoration, and therefore the most desirable, are the bulbous plants like the narcissus, the daffodil, the jonquil, the freesia, the Thais in the iris, and above all, the lily. Beautiful as are pure white lilies, many persons prefer not to use them because they have become so hackneyed. There is a striking contrast of lilies of various sizes this season; flaming red ones, yellow ones and some that are striped or spotted.

These make a good addition to the use of lilies—one must necessarily have a somewhat formal arrangement if they are used alone. They will be obligated to a certain extent by using them in combination with some other seasonable flower.

A daffodil luncheon makes one feel as if the room were flooded with sunlight, and the table can be made to look as if it were in a garden. Natural flowers are used for the center and corner baskets, with a bit of green asparagus or maidenhair fern. The center shadings may be fashioned in the form of the flower from yellow crepe paper, and little boxes for bonbons may be had to match. Yellow will be the predominant color of the food, too, if desired. The following menu includes much yellow and is appropriate for an Easter dinner:

Deviled Canapes, Garnished with Pineapple.
Breaded Shad, Carrot Soup.
Roast Chicken.
Glazed Sweet Potatoes.
Lettuce Salad with Cheese.
Crisp Potatoes, Garnished with Parsley.
Cheese, Crackers.
Fruit and Nuts.

Some of the prettiest for a yellow luncheon or dinner, having a narrow gold border as a foundation for slight outlines in the form of another color.

Details of the Menu.

To make cavare canapes take some small slices of bread that have been previously dried and thoroughly buttered and spread them with cavare. Serve with a bit of cress and with lemon out in fanciful designs.

Plats of Chicken.—Put the breasts and first and second joints of two young chickens in a saucapan and cover with water in which is an onion. When the chicken is soft take it from the stock. Also remove the onion. Thicken the stock with three tablespoonfuls of butter rubbed up with flour, and as soon as this comes to a boil add a half cup of cream and the yolks of three eggs. Season and pour over the chicken.

Cheese Baskets may be made by mixing a cup of grated cheese with a scant tablespoonful of flour, a little salt and a dash of cayenne pepper with the flour, and as soon as this comes to a boil add a half cup of cream and the yolks of three eggs. Season and pour over the chicken.

Orange Baskets Filled with Jelly.—With a sharp pointed knife cut out a piece from each side of the top half of an orange, so as to leave a strip for the handle to the lower half, thus forming a basket. The pulp can easily be removed. Make jelly from this and fill the baskets, or some other favored jelly may be used if preferred.

A large basket may be carried out in green and white, it may be better to use a pot of white hyacinths or something of that sort for a centerpiece with the white. Strips of aged well for the purpose. The lilies may then be made to radiate from this centerpiece. This is especially pretty for a round table. There is table linen that comes with a handsome lily design, and this may appropriately be used for the lily luncheon if one uses a cloth at all. Little baskets filled with painted eggs make a pleasing novelty. The menu given is suggestive and can be abridged or added to as modulated according to taste and circumstances:

- Baking Beans—Broad Beans with White Sauce.
- Roast Birds on Toast.
- Creamed Potatoes.
- Butter Sauce.
- Platichio Ice Cream—White Cake Coffee.
- A Barbet and a Salad.
- Mint Sorbet—Bruise mint leaves, pour over them boiling water and let stand ten or fifteen minutes. Add a cup of sugar and strain. When cool add the juice of two lemons and freeze. Serve in glasses with sprigs of fresh mint.
- Mixed Salads—Lettuce as a foundation, or romaine will do, and add to it almost any kind of green vegetables liked. French beans and peas make a good addition. French dressing is used.
- Platichio Ice Cream—Mix four cups of milk, one of cream, 1/2 of sugar and 1/4 of starch with a jacket tablet dissolved in cold water, and set away for several hours. Add a quarter of a cup of finely chopped platichio nuts, a little green coloring and freeze.

Snowdrop Oddity.

Some of the most charming are very charming in their combination of cheerfulness and warmth. For instance, there is a smart lily three-cornered arrangement in cream-colored cloth, with a knot of brown velvet at one side, holding in place a bunch of snowdrops, violets and a high center of shaded hyacinth and jonquil.

A large picture hat in Parma violet silk crowns all over the crown with white and colored violets tied with silver ribbon, and catching up at one side a cluster of marabout in shades of cream and mauve.

Then there is a little round toque with a crown of snowdrops put closely together, with about a quarter-inch of blue tulle skirt erect beneath, so that they have almost the appearance of growing, and have none of the stiffness which spoils a good many flower toques.

IN VOGUE

Kirts are both longer and narrower than last year.

The new silks conventional patterns are the most prevalent.

The pretty and practical jumper dress still holds its own.

Charming are new linen collars with broad or narrow stripes on white or cream.

Many early hats are of net with silk bound rims.

A big bow is the most usual adornment of the pioneer silk hat.

The spring almost surely will see the separate coat restored to its own.

New pattern robes carry a great deal of colored embroidery on a white ground.

Exit the Plaits.

The plaited skirt is rapidly disappearing. New designs are cut circular and circularly general. As for the trimming, the bias folds are disappearing with the plaits and circular folds are taking their place. This change is most remarked in the walking costume, which for so many seasons has been modeled on the plaited style with little or no variation other than in the grouping of the plaits and the width of the bias bands. Skirts are longer, too, and walking length now barely reaches the floor, while for a costume inclined at all to formality the skirt is long and trailing.

BADLY MISTAKEN.

Hobby (disgustfully)—The doctor is fool.

THE TROLLEY RABBIT

AN EPISODE IN WOODS AND WATER EXPLOITS

By Ernest McHaffey
Author of Pieces of Gun and Red, Etc.

There's more than a dozen ways of shooting rabbits, but the boys generally wait until there's snow on the ground. Of course a man runs across rabbits when he's out shooting, hunting for ruffed grouse and prairie chickens but the real time to shoot them is along about from November until say the middle of December. Then they are foraging around among the corn shocks and fattening up the fat just lay in wait all day and down their backs, and their kidneys are always smothered in talow. Fat! You take a corned rabbit in the middle of November, and he's as fat as a seal, and tender as chicken.

But that isn't what I started to tell about. The Nimrod Gun and Rod club was composed of about as crafty a bunch of jokers as ever sat up nights trying to "put it over" some unsuspecting devotee of the rod and gun. It was about an even bet that they would rather fool some fellow into doing something ridiculous than to make the record "base" for ducks along the lake. "Big Jack" Mulhally was willing at any time to spend

One time we got word from "Jack" that he had a fresh victim in tow who he had on hand the next day, every night at the spot, and for all he be sure to come down and meet Wilbur. This Wilbur was along his side with a pocket full of money, and it was figured that he would do the handsome thing by the boys when we have him in an interview with our rabbit.

All the way out we sat in the "smoker," and this Wilbur won about a dollar and so cents playing "chick" with three of us. He was green enough hunting, but he seemed to know how to play "chick" all right. We talked a bit about the rabbit shooting around the lake, but we didn't tip off our game by any remarks about rabbits in the orchard. Then "Big Jack" says: "We'll make up a purse of five dollars for the fellow that gets the first rabbit," and everyone agreed to it and clipped in 50 cents each.

When we got to the station Old Man Carnody met us, and when we asked him about rabbits the old man says: "Blathers of em. I see em playin' 'round the yard on moonlight nights, and they're gnawin' at the old cabbage left in the garden an' chasin' each other in the orchard. You'll have the sack tomorrow, there hasn't been a gun fired at 'em yet."

Well, of course this was a grand "steer" for Wilbur, and gave him an idea that these were rabbits just by the million in the country, and he wanted to get his gun out of the case and stick in a couple of shells, cause we saw any rabbits on the way over. But Old Man Carnody put a stopper on him by declaring that the fellows wouldn't stand for shooting from the road, and so we coaxed Wilbur to keep his artillery under cover until later.

We arrived at the house and Wilbur introduced all around and we had our first supper waiting for us. We showed our prospective member the gun-racks, the mounted ducks, jackknives, woodcock, ruffed grouse, prairie chickens and other specimens in the front room, which was our "show

WHY DON'T YOU FIRE?

$50 for something that could take in a veteran "sport."

Just so this particular winter "Jack" had fixed up the slickest scheme you ever heard of. The club's headquarters were at a farmhouse about a quarter of a mile from the lake, and we used to go out there as soon as there was a good snow on the ground and take some beagles along and shake the country up for rabbits.

"Big Jack" who was a clever mechanic and an electrician besides, went out there and built a little trolley track in the orchard that ran up and down hill and around among the trees, and that worked as slick as one of these little tracks that they use to send cash back and forth in the big stores. Well, etc. he next shot a rabbit and got it mounted all stretched out, and then he fixes the rabbit on the track and gets the wires and pulleys arranged so that he could keep the rabbit on a steady swing around this track, up and down, in and out, by sitting under the kitchen and working the dings from down there.

Well, say, now! Didn't that take some of the real "wispy" boys? I guess not. Every Saturday night when we'd go out to the lake, we'd take some hunting along, and after the boys would get to playing "chick" in the sitting-room, some fellow would dig in sort of excited and say: "Where's my gun?" and commence to fumble around the gun rack. The fellow who was in the deal would say: "What do you want with your gun?"

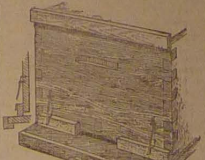

Then the Nimrod would say: "There's a rabbit out in the orchard." By a little smooth work we could generally get the new arrival to dig out into the night with the felt intent of destroying the rabbit; and if he was a real hunter, even he would usually take a couple of shots at the trolley rabbit before he would "catch on" to the joke. But if he was a green hand he would stand there and hang away for the dozen shots. The boys always went along and fed shells to him and encouraged him to shoot, and after he had finally "tumbled" to the hoax, it was worth a supper next week in town.

POULTRY

FOR THE BEE-KEEPER.

Springs to Hold the Entrance-Blocks in Place.

I have a very simple device to use for keeping the entrance-blocks in place, which is a composition of Bee Culture. I have found the blocks so often moved, and perhaps a weak colony robbed out, that I tried the plan I now use, and find it works perfectly. I use a spring for each block, made from a piece of No. 8 steel wire, 8 inches long, with one-half inch at one end bent at right angles. The short end is driven into the front of the hive about 3/8 inches from the side, and held close so that the lower end is just above the bottom. A small staple straddles the spring an inch from the top, leaving about six inches clear. The entrance-block (3x1 1/2 on edge) slips between the free end of the spring and the front of the hive. The springs are perpendicular when in place.

The Device on the Hive.

FEED FOR HENS.

If They Have to Be Kept Shut Up Supply Green Food.

If the fowls have to be kept shut up to keep them away from the garden, feed them green stuff as early as possible. They have been deprived of green stuff during the winter and will need the new ration.

Show some rape seed for the poultry. If they are turned out to range, so the rape seed is in the poultry yard, if the ground is soft, the seed may be scattered over the yard. It will take root and will frequently grow as well as if the ground had been sowed up. Rape grows rapidly and in a few weeks will have made an immense amount of leaf surface. The fowls eat it greedily, especially if they do not have access to green stuff outside.

After the plants in the garden have gotten a good start, the hens will do no damage. If they scratch in the garden they will but cultivate the ground.

Lettuce is a good plant to raise for the fowls. They like its succulent leaves. It has in it more value than is indicated by the food elements.

POULTRY NOTES.

Clean the droppings from under the roosts frequently.

Buckwheat is excellent for both young and old poultry.

A laying hen should have constant access to lime or gravel.

Ort is the hen's tooth. Provide her with plenty of it, so that she may digest her food.

If you expect the hen to lay freely, you must feed her the kind of stuff that will make eggs.

Feed only what the hens will eat at once. Any kind of feed left from one day to another is apt to start disease.

Watching the incubator carefully is the way to get the best hatch. A little carelessness is sure to produce disastrous results.

Charcoal or burned corn occasional ly is a good conditioner for the fowls. It prevents indigestion and other diseases to which they are heir.

Scaly Leg.

Scaly leg should not be permitted to develop among the fowls. We see many young fowls with scaly legs in the Chicago market. The scales are raised by an insect that burrows under them and causes the irritation of the flesh. The suffering of the fowls must be considerable, and their thrift is affected, for the insects live by sucking the blood of the fowls. Grease and kerosene are death to all insects. Dipping the legs of the birds in kerosene will kill the insects. The kerosene should be washed off in a few minutes, as it will make the legs of the birds sore if left on too long.

Salt for Poultry.

Salt in small quantities, is beneficial to poultry, but it should be mixed in the feed. Large amounts are apt to cause serious illness or death. A salt of half a dram to a dram of salt is fatal to the average adult chicken. This quantity will cause loss of appetite, great thirst, inflammation of the membranous lining of the mouth and throat, and diarrhoea; if the fowl is speeded after death the intestines will be found in a condition resembling somewhat that resulting from arsenical poisoning.

The Good Hen.

If the cow is not by nature a heavy and rich breeder the fattest and fattest hens can not prepare will not make her such. So with the hen. She will only return for food and attention up to her original capacity.

PRESCRIPTION PURIFIES BLOOD

Neutralizes Painful Acids and Stops Rheumatic Pains and Catarrhs.

The following prescription is very simple, but is the most effective obtainable for neutralizing acid poisons in the blood and relieving rheumatism and all its kindred ailments. It will also quickly restore the system to a healthy condition. Any one can prepare this simple mixture. The ingredients here can be obtained at any well stocked drug store:

"One ounce Compound Tonic or Sarsaparilla; one ounce Ferris Root Compound; half pint high grade whiskey. Mix and use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time. The bottle must be well shaken each time. Tonic Root Compound is a product of the laborator, the Globe Pharmaceutical Co., Chicago.

The good effect of this treatment is said to become apparent after the first few meals and that it is a remarkable system builder and renovator.

PROBABLY HE WAS.

Doctor—Can't you put your tongue out a little further, Mrs. Mugg?

Mrs. Mugg—Are you one of those people, doctor, who believe that there is no end to a woman's tongue?

HOW TO APPLY PAINT.

Greatest care should be taken when painting buildings or implements which are exposed to the weather, to have the paint applied properly. No excellence of material can make up for carelessness of application, any more than care in applying it can make poor paint wear well.

The surface to be painted should be dry and scraped and sandedpaper hard and smooth. Pure white lead should be mixed with pure linseed oil, fresh for the job, and should be well brushed out, not flowed on thick. When painting is done in this manner with National Lead Company's pure white lead (trade marked with "The Dutch Boy Painter") there is every chance that the job will be satisfactory. Will lead is capable of absolute test for purity. National Lead Company, Woodbridge Building, New York, will send a testing outfit free to any one interested.

SKIN TROUBLES CURED.

First Had Itching Rash—Threatened Later With Blood-Poison in Leg—Rellied on Cuticura Remedy.

"About twelve or fifteen years ago I had a breaking-out, and it itched and stung so badly that I could not have any peace because of it. Three doctors did not help me. Then I used some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent and began to get better right away. They cured me and I have not been bothered with the itching since, to amount to anything. About two years ago I had a gripe and pneumonia which left me with a pain in my side. Treatment ran into my leg, which then swelled and began to break out. The doctor was afraid it would turn to blood-poison. I used his medicine but it did no good, then I used the Cuticura Remedies three times and cured the breaking-out on my leg. J. F. Hennen, Milan, Mo., May 13, 1907."

A Feeling Answer.

"Teacher—Tommy, can you tell me the name of the hardest word?"

"Tommy—I can't tell you just the name, but it's the kind you make chingles out of—Yonkers Statesman."

To insure the direct and quick cleansing of the system, take Gardol Tea, the Mild Herb Laxative. It purifies the blood, cures dandruff and itching scalp, and cures the breaking-out on the face.
