A surprise party was given Mrs. Pappin last Friday. A large company were in attendance, some coming up from Harris.

Albert Alander departed for the south last week. He said before leaving that he did not know where he would stop.
Rev. A. J. Hayes was unable on account of illness, to preach in the M. E. church last Sunday. But he hopes to be with us next Sunday.

MEADOW LAWN.

Miss Lina Loveley, of Fairhaven, is visiting friends in this place.
Miss Hattie Wright spent Sunday with her sister, Miss Alice, of Hustletown.
Olson Bros. wood sawing machine is in operation in this vicinity this week.

Clarence Holler and Mr. Welch, of Millbourn, were callers in the Lawn last week.
Mrs. D. W. Scofield and son, Alonzo returned from their visit at Beaver Creek Tuesday.
Miss Leppink, of Hinckley, arrived here Saturday to accept the position as teacher in district No. 80.

Quite a number from this place attended the hat social in Hustletown Saturday evening in spite of the rainy weather.
Miss Gertrude Witttrapp returned to her home in Pine City Saturday. She has been teaching in district No. 80 during Miss Loveley's absence.

The debate which took place here Tuesday evening, resulted in a victory for the negative. A large crowd were in attendance, the school house being packed. The next debate will be held at the school house in Hustletown, and the question, Resolved, "That there is More Gained by Reading and Meditation than by Traveling and Observation." The leaders are affirmative, Mrs. W. Cutler; negative, Mrs. Clarissa Bell.

GRASSTON DASHES.

Farmers are patiently waiting for snow, as they have a lot of hauling to do.
Miss Anna Luckow, of the town of Royalton, is attending school at Cornell.
Adolph Borris is busy fishing and trapping these days; he is making money hand over fist.

Chas. Lafourcille is going to build a house on his farm in section four, in the town of Royalton in the spring.
H. L. Wallace has taken the job of breaking a colt for Louis Cotes. H. L. is quite a broncho buster.
The Hustletown correspondent asked whether the Graston writer captured his net during Leap Year. We are sorry to state that they were much harder to catch than he thought.
The Jewelry store at Graston burnt last Saturday morning; it was a lucky thing that the wind was not blowing, for if it had the whole of the town west of the depot would have gone. Graston needs good fire protection, for all our ways now is a few small spit guns that would hardly put out the fire in your pipe.

WILLOW RIVER.

Mr. Krueger has moved to Park Falls, Wis., where he is employed as blacksmith by the Atwood Lumber Co.
A moving picture show visited us last Tuesday. It was about as good as any of them, and proved fun for the boys.
The butcher is putting up his new ice house. As soon as he has it finished and filled, he will move into his new location.

What kind of a winter is this? Lightning and thunder in January is something that the oldest settler never remembers of.
A new shingle mill will be started here in the spring if every thing goes all right.
Ed. Clough made a business trip east of Bruno one day last week. He says that the settlers in that locality will make money in the near future on their timber.

The new blacksmith arrived last week to take charge of the old blacksmith shop. Be sure and call at the old shop before going elsewhere. All work guaranteed.
Chas. Delin and Annie Stephan, who were married at Park Falls, Wis., arrived in Willow River Saturday, to visit friends and relatives. They are both well known here. Mr. Delin was clerk in the Willow River house, for the Atwood Lumber company, and Miss Stephan was dinner room girl in the same hotel. Mr. Delin is now clerking for the Atwood Co. in a hotel at Park Falls, to which point he returned Tuesday. His wife will remain here for a week or so.

The M. B. A. Lodge held their regular meeting last Friday evening. At the close of the proceedings the members were surprised by a party of about a dozen citizens marching into the hall unannounced. Dancing ensued, and a good time was enjoyed by all. Mr. Mottle played the phonograph, and a pleasing feature of this part of the program was the reproduction by the phonograph of the voice of John A. Goar, the founder of the Twin River Lodge, which was organized some five years ago with 20 members, but now numbers about 50. Mr. Goar will never be forgotten by this lodge. He is now State Manager for the state of Washington. Mr. Mottle has four or five records of Mr. Goar's voice, which he will gladly reproduce on request. Refreshments were served at midnight. Six new applications were received. The M. B. A. is an excellent order; its members are protected in case of accident and old age, at a very reasonable rate. Look up your nearest lodge and find out what they will do for you.—A MEMBER.

HUSTLETOWN.

Mrs. C. B. Gibson has been on the sick list this week.
D. L. Whitcomb has been busy cutting logs the past week.
Gedric Olson is staying with Louis Fuhrmann, who is laid up with a sore leg and sprained ankle.
The hat social which was held here Saturday evening was well attended. A jolly time was had by those present and almost six dollars raised which will be spent for the benefit of the school.

Quite a crowd from here attended the debate at Meadow Lawn Tuesday evening. Four of our debaters took the affirmative, the question being, Resolved, "That the steam engine has done more to enlighten the world than the printing press." The discussion was good on both sides and the judges' decision stood 2 to 1 in favor of the negative. The next debate will be held in the school house in this place in two weeks, when the question, Resolved, "That there is more to be learned by reading and meditation than by traveling and observation."

DEER VALLEY.

Chas. Lafourcille started up his sawmill Monday.
Chas. Heinemann went to Minneapolis Tuesday on business.
Frank Cancere is working for E. J. Heinemann this winter, hauling logs. Unice Barton departed for Randall, Wis., the fore part of the week to remain for the winter.
A surprise party was given Amber Ore's last week. Those present reported having had a good time.
About nine o'clock Saturday evening a slight load of merry young people drove up in the road at Archibald. Rings and gave them a serenade with bells, tin pans, kettles and all kinds of such musical instruments. They were invited in and served in a fine luncheon at noon, a very pleasant evening with Archie and bride.

News of the Week.

Chips Picked Up Around Town and Vicinity

W. P. Gottry was a business visitor in St. Paul Wednesday.

Don't forget the Sunday school at the M. E. church next Sunday morning at 9:45 sharp.

Louis Gundlach, the popular cigar maker of Rush City, was calling on customers between trains on Wednesday afternoon.

Today is the worst of the season. A regular Dakota blizzard is raging, and no one ventures out unless it is absolutely necessary.

The Farmers' cooperative store on the Wisconsin side of the track is doing a hand office business, and is increasing every day.

Regular services at the Methodist church next Sunday morning and evening. Preaching by the pastor, and good singing by a chorus choir.

We are pleased to state that Louis Stepaiz is improving as the result of the triple le-takes-three-times-a-week to St. Paul, where he is receiving medical treatment.

We are pained to report that F. E. Smith, our genial hardware man, is under the weather this week with severe attack of stomach trouble. At the present time he is somewhat improved.

Thunder and lightning, sunny skies, balmy days, rain, sleet and snow, winding up with a genuine old fashioned blizzard, has been the order of excesses this week, in the weather department.

A. S. Gottry, who went to Stevens Point, Wis., a week ago last Sunday, being called to attend the funeral of his only sister, Mrs. D. C. Brown, returned to his home in this place on Tuesday's limited.

The snow is about all gone, and we are having regular spring weather.

Go to The Smith Hardware Co. and buy one of those guaranteed fluting mills. The kind that cleans.

The special meetings that have been held in the M. E. church for the past four weeks will close this evening.

Epworth League meeting at the Methodist church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. All people young in heart are cordially invited.

All members of Pokegama Lodge, No. 77, K. of P. are requested to be present next Wednesday evening, as there is work in the first rank.

On account of the large advertisement of the Pine City Milling and Electric Company, which appears on the fifth page, our space for news this week is somewhat limited.

When passing LaPage's hardware store stop at his north window and see the nice display of clocks, watches, jewelry, and when in need of any thing in that line, give him a call.

H. J. Rath, secretary and general manager of the Pine County Farmers' Union Co-operative Mercantile Co., went to Hibbing on business Tuesday, returning home on Wednesday's limited.

Don't forget the Woodmen's bouillon next Friday evening in Stead-out hall. All Woodmen and their families are cordially invited. Come and spend a pleasant evening with the wood choppers.

FOR SALE—Strawberry plants, J. Dunlap and Warfield's, grown direct from the Kellogg thoroughbreds Dunlap's $5.00 and Warfield's $4.00 per thousand. Address, Wm. Lewis, Pine City, Minn., Route 4.

J. Y. Breckenridge spent Monday at Hinckley, and in the evening gave a concert in his drug store at that place, with his large Edison phonograph. During his absence J. Y. Jr. of Hinckley, was tending out at the store in his place.

Both of our boat building shops are running in full swing. Capt. F. A. Ingelstrom having commenced the building of boats in the Glasgow building on Tuesday, and Ed. Kendall, in the McAllen building has several in course of construction.

Marshal John D. Wilcox went to White Bear Lake on Wednesday's early morning train after the man who stole an overcoat from Liveryman Gray, of Hinckley, Tuesday. John brought him up on the noon train Wednesday, and from here he was taken to Hinckley by Sheriff Hawley.

The basket social and dance that was to have been held at Wilkie's Island hotel last Saturday evening, was postponed until to morrow evening, January 30th, on account of the inclemency of the weather. The proceeds will go to theasmus school. All those who enjoy a good time should be sure to attend. Ladies are expected to bring baskets.

Next week will begin the county work and every one of our readers should scan every word of the financial statement and then they will know what is done with the county funds that they are paying taxes to help keep going. After the financial statement will follow the delinquent tax list, which will also prove of great benefit to most all of our readers. Read every word of that, also, as it may mean money in your pocket.

Chas. Spickler, of North Branch, has purchased the bench and tools formerly owned by Abe Swanson, and is now located at the hardware store of J. LaPage, where he is prepared to repair watches, jewelry, etc. He is a jeweler of many years experience, and guarantees all his work to be done in short order and in a first-class manner. When your watch or clock is out of order, or your jewelry needs repairing, give him a call.

Don't forget the meeting at the town hall tomorrow afternoon in the interest of The Pine County Agricultural Society. Your presence is requested whether you are a stockholder or an exhibitor. The Pine County fair is a county institution and every citizen in the county should have an interest in it. The fair is growing to interest each year, and the meeting tomorrow is to see if the fair of 1899 can not be made a record breaker. In attendance. Come and give suggestions, if you have any, what is the best way to conduct the fair, so as to draw the largest crowd, and the best and cheapest method of entertaining them after they do come. Turn out tomorrow and show the management that you are with them in trying to make the Pine county fair, what it should be, the best in this part of the state.

Last Wednesday evening Pokegama Lodge No. 77, K. of P. had the largest turn-out it has had at anything but a special occasion for over a year. The reason of the large attendance was to hear J. Y. Breckenridge's paper on the postoffice department of the United States. Those who did not bear the talk missed a treat, as it was both entertaining and instructive. At the close of his talk, Knight Breckenridge treated the boys to about two and a half hours of concert on his large Edison phonograph. Among his selection of records was a speech by himself, vocal solos by Knights Knapp and Olsen, and selections by the Presbyterian church choir. The concert was fine and the boys thoroughly enjoyed the treat furnished them by Knight Breckenridge. The paper and concert were not given until after the lodge had closed, so as to give those who had to leave a chance to do so.

Horton, the photographer, is in his studio every Tuesday and Wednesday.

FLOUR TALK.

When you buy Flour do you look at the name on the sack, or do you just say "Flour?"

If you go into a store and order a sack of Flour, you can't blame the merchant if he gives you the kind of flour that he makes the most money on, for that's his business. But if you order a sack of Pine City Flour and he gives you another kind, you know he has done you wrong.

Should he tell you the flour he is pushing is worth more than Pine City Flour, don't believe him. Just insist on him giving you Pine City flour.

PINE CITY FLOUR is without doubt the best Flour you can buy. It is made from Pine County Wheat, and every time you buy a sack you furnish a market for 2½ bushels of this wheat, as well as the labor it takes to make it flour.

No mill in this section has made the same advancement in manufacturing and distributing its product as the Pine City Mill has. New machinery has been added as soon as it was put on the market, and everything has been kept strictly up to date in every respect.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DISTRIBUTING HOUSES have been built at Hinckley and Willow River, where large stocks of the products of this plant are kept and sold to merchants and consumers.

PINE CITY FLOUR is sold by all the leading merchants in every town tributary to Pine City, and those interested push this Flour because they know it is better value for the money than any other kind.

When you buy a sack of Pine City Flour every dollar you spend for that flour is left at home, and sooner or later it will come back to you.

We want you to buy our flour, and if you are not more than satisfied with the results, let us know and we will send a man to get it and refund your money.

The Art of Vengeance

By FERDINAND MOORE

(Copyright, by Shorrtary Pub. Co.)

Matias could see the soldiers building the gallows. He, Matias Bunagan, heretofore an honest rice cutter of El Puro and a peaceable subject of the great American president of the Philippines, and willing to pay his taxes to the crown of the United States, must be hanged.

Matias understood everything fully. He had killed Pascual de la Cruz. It was the result of an old family feud, which had started long before the Americans had come to the Philippines. In fact, the feud was so old that Matias could not remember what it was about, except that the Bunagan family had sworn to the blessed Virgin to kill all the members of the de la Cruz family in the province of Cavite, and that was all he cared to know.

The Americans could not understand it. He had been right in killing Pascual; it was as much his duty to kill Pascual as to pay his land tax and cut rice. But the Americans were going to hang Matias to-morrow, and would see the walls of his nipa prison he could see the soldiers driving the nails and cutting the beams.

He squatted on the ground and smoked and listened to the music of the hammer. The children were playing in the plaza, and he could hear the chatter of the women in the market, and the hum of the Chinese tailor's sewing machine in the barrio. The leaves of the palm trees were swaying in the breeze like the arms of so many windmills—swaying as Matias would away in the breeze to-morrow afternoon, with the black cap over his head and the matias over his neck, and his legs and arms bound

There it was again! It was almost at his feet and just outside the split bamboo wall. It was a boring sound, and it came when the sentry was at the farther end of his beat. He put his hand on the wall and felt it tremble. What could it be?

It stopped as the sentry came past again. Then the steady sound began again when the sentry was at the other end of the guard house.

"Matias," came a gentle whisper.

"Yes," hissed Matias, quivering with excitement.

"Here is a bolo—meet me at the dead palm tree in the barrio—be careful—you have a long time to cut out—it will be waiting for you."

By all the holy saints! Who could it be that was bringing the much desired bolo? Who was bringing him sweet help? With a sharp bolo he could cut his way to freedom easily.

Matias felt along the wall cautiously and his hand encountered the hilt of a great bolo, thrust through a hole in the wall. Inch by inch he drew it inward, and the blade cut its way through the bamboo strips noiselessly.

Sometimes he took ten minutes to cut through a strip of bamboo the size of his finger. When a dog barked he gained a couple of inches—when "Taps" sounded he cut a slit a foot long in the wall. In an hour his little hand was in the compound, and when the sentry went around the guard house he crawled through and slipped away in the darkness.

Jesus of Anselm! It was good to be free again, and here he was under the very gallows which had been built for him. He stopped to curse the tigers and the Americans, spat on the steps, and then stole through the palm grove to meet his unknown friend at the dead palm.

"Is that you, Matias?"

"Yes. Who are you, anyway? Forever I am your slave."

"Come," said the unknown, "Follow me. They will miss you in a few minutes when the watch is changed, and you must hide."

Matias followed on in the darkness, afraid that it was all a dream, and that he would wake up to hear the guard calling him to make ready for death.

On through the jungle they went, toward the hills, and Matias knew his rescuer was taking him to a cave somewhere in the great canyon, where he could hide until an opportunity presented itself to escape to Manila.

Soon he heard the sound of dripping water and he was guided into a small cave, and he could feel the damp and silky walls of rock.

"Now," said the stranger, "give me the bolo, for I must go back through the jungle and I need a weapon. Lie here until I come in the morning with food. Don't stir outside or make a noise, for the soldiers will be seeking for you everywhere, and if I am long in coming do not fear, for we must be cautious. Good-by."

"Who are you?" asked Matias.

"You must not know until you are safe—I am a good friend—fear not."

"May God bless you," said Matias, and he kissed the hand of the stranger.

"Ten thousand blessings on your head and I am your slave for life."

The unknown glided away and Matias heard him roll a stone in the entrance and then he heard the water, it was better than the guard house, he thought, with the sentry pacing outside and the dreadful grunts with the rope swinging from the beam, in the prison yard. He rolled a cigarette and smoked, and sat on his heels.

All night he stared into the blackness, burning his hand at times with the fire of his cigarette when he found himself wondering if it were a dream. Finally, the light shined through the crevices, and then a fire snaked in, crept, in through the entrance of the cave, but he did not move from the place where he had sat all night.

After a long time he heard some one at the stone and a form came in, and after his eyes had become accustomed to the light he saw a well-dressed nuncio standing over him with a bolo.

"Juan de la Cruz!" he cried, drawing back in terror.

"Yes—Juan de la Cruz. The brother of Pascual, whom you killed. It was I who helped you to escape last night."

"The feud!" roared Matias. "You have come to kill me! You dog, you took me from prison to help me here. Why did you let me have this bolo? I would rather be hanged a thousand times by the hated Americans than die by your hand."

"I have not come to kill you," said the other. "That was my plan last night, for a de la Cruz must have his vengeance. But the American colonel has offered 500 pesos for your capture. Five hundred pesos! Many many names for the end of my brother. The Americans will hang you and I will have no blood on my hands. Come—the hanged man is waiting."

He led Matias back to the village. The soldiers put the irons on his hands and he saw the blood money paid to Juan. He saw the rope swinging in the breeze. The priest prayed He hung from the trap and swung late eternally.

There is a half a dozen of them, and when you see them, you will find them in the habit of feeding hogs. They are in the habit of feeding hogs. They are in the habit of feeding hogs.

LIVE STOCK

CLEANLINESS IN FEEDING.

Keep Troughs for Hogs as Sweet and Clean as for Other Animals.

The hog responds as readily to cleanliness and care as any other animal on the farm. Not long since a man was greatly impressed with the lack of sanitary conditions around the yards and houses of a man who had been growing hogs more or less successfully for ten years. His feeding troughs were foul with decayed food, the floors were damp and ill-smelling, and the yards were wet and full of mudholes that good drainage would have prevented.

All fixtures in a hog house should be movable, declares the Farm and Home. It is advantageous to have the troughs where they may be washed or scalded twice a week at least. Foul troughs are good breeding places for parasites that may be taken into the body of the hog and cause sickness or death. Damp floors may be overcome if the house is well aired and windows enough are in it to let the sunshin in on the floors.

At feeding time use care that no soil will be slopped into the bedding or on the floors. It is also injurious to the health of the hogs to allow dust to accumulate on the partitions and in feeding pens.

If any are in the habit of feeding hogs corn scattered in the mud or dust of a dry yard, they should build a feeding floor and use it. Go into any herd that is fed in the dirt from through-down corn and much wheezing and coughing will be heard. This is injurious to all hogs, and especially those kept for breeding purposes.

My feeding floor is shown in the sketch, and is built solidly of good material. It is set 6 inches above the level, and around the edge a 2x4 piece is nailed, which prevents loss of shell of ear corn being blown out into the dirt and dust. It is swept off each time before feeding.

A floor of this kind can be used for feeding alfalfa or clover hay. In feeding my hogs alfalfa I cut it into 4-inch lengths and soak it a few minutes in a tank of hot water. This does not kill the alfalfa, but just heats it enough to make coarse stems tender and tender ones more toothsome.

It is lifted from the tank on a fork and allowed to drain well, when it is thrown upon the feeding floor. This never leaves much of it. For brood sows it makes an ideal feed, keeping them in good flesh, but not fat enough to hurt their breeding proclivities or injure their ease of farrowing.

HOME COUGH CURE.

Go to your druggist and get one-half ounce Concentrated plus compound, two ounces glycerine, half a pint of good whiskey, mix it up, and use it in doses of a teaspoonful to a table-spoonful every four hours, shaking the bottle each time. Any druggist can supply ingredients.

The Concentrated plus is a fine product refined for medical use and comes only in half ounce bottles, and enclosed in a round case which is airtight and preserves the fluid in its full strength, but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated." A prominent local druggist says he has filled this prescription hundreds of times and has seen it work wonders.

The Use of a Fat Man.

"I don't know whether I'll like Jack or not when I see him again," said she. "He wrote me he was getting fat. I hate a fat man."

"A fat man is all right," said the boy who was playing cards on the floor, "when a burglar gets in. A fat man will scare a burglar."

"I do," she demurred, "I'm not marrying a man just because he's good to scare burglars with, am I?"

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one graded chicken that seems to have been able to cure all its diseases, and that is Ostrich. Early Ostrich Corn is the only positive cure known to date for all poultry diseases, such as cholera, typhoid, and various forms of diphtheria. Its Ostrich Corn is taken on the outside of the system, thereby destroying the germs by heating up the condition and sensitizing the body to all diseases. It is a most reliable cure for all diseases, and is sold by all druggists.

A HANDY FEED BASKET.

You Can Make One Out of Canvas and Wood.

Here is described a way to make a feed basket to strap upon the nose of a horse when giving the animal feed while away from the stable.

It is simple to make and make the round basket, and has an added advantage: when not in use the two sides press together and occupy scarcely any room. Cut out two circular pieces of wood from a 4 inch board in the shape suggested in the cut. Setting them at the proper distance apart, tack a strip of canvas, or other stout cloth around the curved partition, as shown in the accompanying illustration. Nail a strap and a buckle at the sides, to go over the head, and the basket is complete. Orange Judd Farmer, more nearly fits the shape of a horse's head, and besides, because of its oblong shape, gives the horse more freedom in opening his mouth than does the close-fitting round basket.

LIVE STOCK IN THE FARM.

It costs no more to keep a flock of well-bred sheep than a flock of poor ones that return no profit.

The natural life of sheep is about ten years. Up to this time they will live and breed well.

The age of sheep can be told by their teeth. When they are a year and a half old they shed their two center teeth—and two wide ones grow out in their place.

The next year the two next are shed, and the four central teeth are fully grown when the sheep are three years old.

A place should be provided in every stall for a water bucket, with an arrangement to fasten it in place. Watering should always be done in buckets, which should be used for nothing else.

A bucket of water should be left in each stall to catch at night, when the last round of the stables is made
