DO NOT EXPERIMENT

You Will Make no Mistake If You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Pine City residents demand further proof than that contained in the following testimonial?

Geo. W. Register, 805 S. Fourth St., Stillwater, Minnesota, says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly as I used them with good results for kidney complaint from which I had suffered for years. I attributed the cause of my trouble to the exposure required in my work. I had pains in the small of my back and became so tired and weak that I could scarcely stand. I tried many remedies but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy went to the seat of my trouble and before I had taken the contents of one box, I felt better in every way. I know of many other people in Stillwater, who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with equally as good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Mr. Ryan moved his family and household goods up to the lake Wednesday, and they will be nicely settled in their new home in a short time. We are glad to welcome them back to Pine county.

Lawrence Daniels' Choice

By Andrew Dexter

(Copyright, by W. G. Chapman.)

It was purely a question of caste from the beginning. The lines of social standing were very severely drawn at Adam's Ferry, as Pearl Ambroyne discovered very soon after her first visit to Lake Linwood. She was a good-looking girl of a practical turn of mind, who had worked her way up to a fairly lucrative position in the service of a New York clothing firm and was spending her vacation with her mother at a short distance from the great metropolis.

Everybody at Adam's Ferry goes to the landing to inquire for mail, and, incidentally, to see what manner of people are going up to Lake Linwood. Lawrence Daniels was holding a parasol over his aunt's august head, when he saw Pearl Ambroyne hastening over the gang plank. Before he could best a retreat the girl had nodded to him, and he was compelled to acknowledge her salutation with a perfunctory dip of his hat.

"I was not aware," said Miss Eva Jolliffe, sister of Lawrence Daniels' mother, recently deceased, "that you had an acquaintance among the hotel people."

"Well," returned the young man, nervously, "a man who is a reporter on a big newspaper, as I am, is bound to meet a few persons who are not eligible to the select set at Adam's Ferry."

"I trust, nephew," said Miss Jolliffe, "that you remember that it is improper to mingle your social and business acquaintances. She is rather handsome, too, and has her mother ly blame him. He has a career before him. If I had loved him less, I would have married him when he asked me two years ago."

"That was one day in the calendar when all differences of social standing were forgotten. That was Beetle Rock day. On that day the great rock which rose from the middle of the bay near Adam's Ferry was piled high with driftwood, it was the funeral pyre of the season which was gone of chronic beetle. It was a matter of ceremonies that day, directing the movements of the army of transports which all day long was busy conveying logs and packing boxes to the rock. In the center of the pile were trunks of giant trees, placed on end and held in place by small logs. In the midst of the pile a log was laid with light kindling wood, covered with pitch and tar. This was the time from which was to ascend a ton of flame."

The night was falling when from the point a flotilla of boats swept toward the rock. A single boat shot out from the group and grated upon the edge of Beetle Rock. A gleam of light shone from beneath the shelter of a cap, then the flame from a torch flared high in the air. Lawrence Daniels, his chin illuminated by the jet of fire above his head, turned to the crescent of boats and bowed. He hurried the torch into the center of the pile and turned to the right. His foot caught upon a root and he lurched forward. In trying to save himself he half turned, then fell upon his back.

From the top of the pile of timbers there burst a blinding flood of light. Beneath its glare those who sat in the small boats could see that a thin stream of blood was trickling from the right temple of the man who lay stretched upon the rock. The agonizing moans which he uttered as the blistering heat compelled the spectators to pull back from the nest of flames. A pine log rolled from the side of the volcano of wood and fell, spouting fire within six inches of Daniels' head.

"Why don't somebody pull out to the rock?" yelled a voice far back in the flotilla.

"Why don't you do it yourself?" came the response from half a dozen throats.

A light skiff shot out swiftly from the landing near hotel. In it sat a girl, wrapped in a cloak and rowing with desperate energy. The glow from the flaming pyre revealed the features of Pearl Ambroyne. She drew her boat steadily toward the prostrate figure, and as the bow grounded seized the unconscious man with firm hands and dragged him aboard. A wild cheer burst from the spectators as the girl bent to her oars and rowed out of the fire zone to safety.

"I understand," said the night editor of the Clarion to his assistant a few days later, "that Daniels surprised his friends by marrying a Miss Ambroyne quite unexpectedly the other night. What was it, a money match?"

"Not at all," rejoined the other man; "they tell me she's just a pretty working girl. Everyone thought he was in the market for a rich marriage, but this seems to have been a sure enough romantic affair. Miss Ambroyne saved his life during his vacation at Lake Linwood, and he evidently made up his mind to dedicate the balance of it to her."

"He did right," said the night editor, emphatically. "It's refreshing to meet with a bit of romance once in a while in these prosaic days."

NEW RAT TRAP A SUCCESS

Rodent Caught by Flypaper Frightens Tipplers in a Philadelphia Barroom.

Several men who happen around the thrifling establishment of Edward Carmany, which holds forth its allurements at Marion street and Kaighn avenue, Camden, decided yesterday that it was time to join the "tolerators' ranks. Carmany has had some rats in his place, that is, of the minor kind. There was a hole in the floor by which they made their way to the barroom, much to the annoyance of gentlemen who might be getting on the outside of highball or a large, foamy glass of amber. Carmany had an inspiration the other day. Flypaper catches flies, why not rats? The idea was too good to lay on ice, so he put it to work.

Close to a hole through which the rats came the saloon-keeper laid a sheet of sticky flypaper and awaited results. They came fast and in a bunch. A man who was enjoying the best effects of a rickety saw something moving across the floor. He dropped the glass, jumped to the bar and cried, "Holy Moses!"

The bartender thought the man had his head stuck in the flypaper and caught sight of the sheet of paper eying about the floor in the most ungracious way he threw the bartender as if he were a piece of paper. The man gave the room a wide berth, and attracted by the commotion, Carmany ran in. He laughed and said: "The paper worked all right. The rat, which had been so long in the sticky mess that it could not see his way to its hole, was killed."—Philadelphia Record.

PREVENT GAD-FLY ON SHEEP

Effective Method is Smearing Nose with Tar When Animal Reaches in Hole for Salt.

An effective way of preventing annoyance and consequent loss of sheep by the gad-fly is to smear the nose with a compound of grease and tar. This is applied with a brush. When there are many sheep of course this plan would not be feasible and dipping would probably repay the fly so long as the odor of the dip was strong on the fleece. As the odor will not continue to be an effective repellent throughout the season, and as the fly is active until late in the summer, a more effective treatment is necessary. Some time ago one of our readers recommended the plan of boring holes into a log and placing salt in these holes, which, of course, should be about the size of a sheep's nose. This is set up on high ground, shown. A small tuft of rag or rope is tacked at the upper edge of the hole, and every time the sheep are salted tar is smeared on the tuft.

While of course the tar is disagreeable to the sheep, in their avidity to reach the salt they will accept it, and the tar smeared on their noses. At this time it might be well to describe the symptoms indicating the presence of the gad-fly in the flock. When attacked the sheep generally rushes towards the flock with its nose close to the ground. It shakes its head violently and sneezes. This is due to the sting caused by the gad-fly in the nostril in its effort to get a foothold and deposit its eggs. The eggs immediately begin to hatch in the head until mature, when according to those who have worked out the life of this fly, it falls out of the nostril and completes development in the soil. Where a sheep's head contains a number of larvae a catarrhal discharge will be noticed coming from the nose. In bad cases the sheep is inclined to lie down and point its nose into the air, and is also restless and unthrifty. A single sheep may be infected over and over again by the fly and have in the end a number of different ages, the annoyance from which may last a large part of the year.

ERRORS IN HORSESHOEING

Three or Four Irrational Practices Followed by Country Blacksmiths That Cannot Be Tolerated.

There are three or four most irrational practices followed by many country blacksmiths in the shoeing of horses that cannot be too strongly condemned, says Farm Horshoeing. First, the butting away of the frog, which is done by a majority of the country smiths, is a most positive injury to the foot, and can have no reasonable argument in its favor. The frog is the natural cushion and extender of the hoof and was placed there by an all-wise Creator. To cut it out means not only to rob the foot of the cushion that should soften the concussion of every step, but to allow the foot to contract at the heel and become misshapen and crippled.

Another mistaken idea is that the sole of the foot should be trimmed till it will yield to the pressure of the thumbs. The sole preparer should never be touched by the knife. All loose scales may be trimmed away, but the knife should never cut either the sole or the frog. All trimming on the bottom of the foot should be done by the rasp, which will trim the edge and not the sole.

Cutting of a frog or sole in any way works an injury by causing the tissues to shrink and become hard and dry. A frog that has been trimmed by the knife often dries so as to become detrimental to the foot as a stone or other foreign body. There is never any good excuse for touching the knife to any healthy frog. It will wear away fast enough! Let alone the writer never saw one that was too large.

Hot fitting of shoes to horses' feet should not be allowed by the horse owner. While it may be possible, as claimed by some horsehoers, that a better fit is obtained in this way, and that no real harm is done, the foot is properly trimmed after touching with the hot shoe, it is also possible that a good fit may be obtained by cold fitting, and the latter process is certainly safer. If the foot be perfectly leveled with the rasp, and the shoe be made perfectly level there is no trouble about making a fit.

Cultivate the Colt. If the colt becomes ill or suffers any injury, doctor it and work with it. Your working with the young animal will make it learn to love you. Trim his hoofs if they grow too long or become broken in any way. A horse with poor feet is a poor horse, but proper care of the feet of the colt will give him good feet for the mature horse. Lambs grow faster if they can get plenty of good feed. A prick is a pointer for the man who is in a hurry to get his lambs to market.

CONCRETE FOR HOG TROUGHS

Fast Displacing Wood on Large Number of Farms—How It is Easily Constructed.

Concrete hog troughs are fast displacing those made of wood on a large number of farms, and we are told in "Concrete Construction About the Home and on the Farm" that a desirable hog trough can be made by building a bottomless box, six feet long and 12 inches broad by 12 inches deep. From a two-inch plank saw out two triangles having a base of 12 inches and a height of eight inches. Place these five feet six inches apart and nail a plank one inch thick on the edges to make a square edge. Fill the space left with concrete mixture, one part Portland cement and three parts clean sand or sandy gravel, tamped hard and smooth off to top of box. Let stand until dry. In one week remove the outer forms and paint with a mixture of one part cement to three parts of sand, and mix with a little cream, turn the block over, remove inner form and paint inside with pure cement. Should a trough with a round center be desired, an inner form can be made by sawing a log the right length, stripping it of bark, and splitting in half. Put this in the bottom of the box described above, fill side down, grease well and proceed as with triangular trough. Woven fencing can be used for re-enforcing the concrete.

SLING FOR INJURED COLTS

Can Be Made From Large Cottonseed Meal Sack Sewed Tightly Over Steel Tubing.

A good way of caring for injured colts is given by a writer in an exchange.

I recently had a ten-month-old colt suffer a severe wire cut on its breast and forearms so that it could not lie down, so I set about to devise a sling to ease the colt. I had none on hand, so made one as follows: For the cloth part, I secured a large cottonseed meal sack wide enough to support the entire surface of the colt's body. The ends of this sack I stitched securely over ordinary one and one-half inch steel tubing. The box described above, fill side down, grease well and proceed as with triangular trough. Woven fencing can be used for re-enforcing the concrete.

Sling for Colts.

I did not want to cut the rope I had on hand, for hanging this sling from the ceiling, I threw one end over a beam just above the colt's withers and shoved each end through the gas pipe and drew them up so the sling rested snugly against the colt's chest. The ends of the rope were then thrown over a joist above the colt's loins and drawn up so as to bring the other end of the sling against the colt's abdomen and then fastened securely. In a few minutes the colt caught on and was soon resting comfortably in the sling.

TIMELY LIVESTOCK NOTES.

The rung log cannot root for a living. Look after the watering places in the pasture. Some of them may be dried up or have become filthy and unfit for use. Experiments with alfalfa as a feed have proved beyond a doubt that it is far ahead of any other roughing for sheep. The pig and cow pasture should be separate.

It is a good plan to keep a good brood sow as long as she will raise two good litters of pigs each year. The sow is not at her best till she has raised several litters, and she should remain profitable till six to ten years of age.

There is a good market for your lambs; never fear about that. Top them off as quick as you can. Put a small quantity of copperas in the drinking troughs and tanks for sheep. It purifies the water and rid it of the green scum known as algae.

There are 800,000 horses in the United States, of which the area of South Dakota. Never mate a big ram with a small ewe. Best to breed animals of the same type. A horse is more liable to scare with than without blinders. Fly-hogs in a bunch will thrive better than a large bunch. See that the water supply is pure and clean. Be sure that the supply of salt does not get low. A horse suffering from cells should be kept quiet.

spray the Cows. Spraying the cows with disinfectant will keep up the milk supply. Too much trouble! Well, trouble of this kind usually pays big.

For the Hostess

Chat on Topics of Many Kinds, by a Recognized Authority

An Animal Party. This clever animal party may be utilized for guests either old or young. It is also adaptable for the needs of church societies, which are always in search of schemes to break the monotony, especially at the very commencement of an evening affair. As each person enters a slip of paper containing the name of an animal to be pinned upon his back and he is told he must guess from the conversation of those around him what animal he is supposed to represent. Then names and books are ornamented with cute little "Teddy" bears and pencils. On a door have a poster of the animals going two by two into the ark and the world. This way to the Greatest Show on Earth. Admit the guests in groups to this room, where the cages containing the animals will be found allowing ten minutes for each group to guess what the cages contain. Here is a list of animals which may be added to by individual hostesses: "Kid" (a glove of kid), "Lynx" (links of a chain), "Rat" (hair rat), "Monkey" (letters M O N and a door key), "Chamois" (a piece of chamois), "Lion" (a doll's pillow), "Goat" (a small piece of butter), "Cock" (a dried pea and a toy rooster), "Bear" (a tiny undressed doll), "Eagle" (the letter E and a picture of a sea gull).

A Good Guessing Contest. The answers to each question are words ending in "age": What is the age of a ship? Voyage. What is the age of a pocket-book? Coinage. What is the most musical age? Bandage. What age is necessary for a soldier? Courage. What is a railroad's age? Mileage. What the earliest age to express? Package. What age is always ahead? Cabage. What's Uncle Sam's age? Postage. What age does the ostrich attain? Plumage. What age do single people never reach? Marriage. What age does a lady prefer? Manage. What's the best age for a horse? Carriage. What is said to be a mean age? Damage. What age should a king have? Homage. What age is always before us? Dotage.

FANCIES OF FASHION

Green belts are stylish. Grays are to be fashionable. Never has lace been so universally used. Red is a prime favorite with black. Yellow is more to be seen than for years. Full tones are generally soft, dull and faded. Small buttons are more used than large ones. Pockets in motoring coats and ulsters are huge. Close fitting styles will continue through the winter.

Paris Models

THE WALKING costume of the left is of old blue cloth. The back and sides of the upper part of the costume simulate a sort of jacket ornamented along the edge with buttons of the material. These buttons also ornament the long front which fastens on one side. The turn-over collar, the wide revers and the cuffs are all faced with black liberty, of which the girdle is also made. The latter is knotted in the back with long ends. To this upper part the lower part is mounted with plaits forming a deep flounce. The cravat and sleeve ruffles are of lace. The evening gown at the right is of crepe de chine trimmed with a beautiful metal and jet embroidery. The upper part is in princess or cuirass style, and to this the lower part is gathered. The bertha and little puffed sleeves are of mousseline de soie.

At a meeting of the Pine City Fire Department, held in the council chamber of the village hall, it was decided to enforce the by law in regard to the firing of members failing to attend meetings and absenting themselves from fires. This is a move in the right direction, as there are members on the muster roll who have not attended a meeting for months and if they will not attend they should step out and give the department a chance to take in members who will.

Our creamery only takes milk and cream two days in the week, Mondays and Fridays. Mrs. M. Doran will shortly have the pleasure of seeing all of her sisters and brothers as they are expected here from all quarters. Granima Doran, who is well along in the 80ties says she will be surely glad to see them, and to have all of her grown up children around her once more before she departs from this world, as there will be a reunion of the family during her brothers and sisters visit.

We understand that last year the county commissioners only allowed $600 for Rock Creek township for road purposes. Last week we noticed in the columns of the Pioneer that the honorable commissioners had allowed several townships several hundred dollars, but Rock Creek did not receive a dollar. This looks very funny to us, that Rock Creek one of the largest, and that pays more taxes than any other township in the county, cannot get money from the county road and bridge fund to at least fix the roads leading to Pine City and Rock Creek. We cannot see why our honorable commissioner, who represents our township cannot get an appropriation for road purposes. If the honorable gentleman is so busy that he cannot attend to the wants of our town, it is time for the town to find one that will. No offence gentleman.

Rudolph Polanka is unable to attend school owing to injuries received from a gun. The accident occurred in the western part of town, the weapon being an over loaded musket. The charge burst the barrel and a piece of the metal pierced his coat and shirt, and cut his left arm quite badly between the elbow and the wrist. Some of his companions bound his arm above the wound, and took him to the doctor as soon as possible. It was a very unfortunate accident, but might have been much worse had he been alone at the time.

GALLANT DEEDS OF TWO GREAT WAR CAPTAINS

By EDWARD B. CLARK
COPYRIGHT 1909 BY W.A. PATTERSON

WASHINGTON—Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles comes to Washington at intervals to visit his son, Lieut. Sherman Miles, who is stationed at Fort Myer, just across the Potomac. Gen. Miles does not show his years. He was in the capital when Mr. Roosevelt made his 100-mile ride and he was deeply interested in the performance.

Just before Lieut. Gen. Nelson Appletton Miles retired from active service he rode a horse 90 miles in nine hours. It is more than barely possible that Gen. Miles did this thing in order to show that at 64 he was still fit to do something which would have put many a younger man on the sick report for a month. It was rather a spectacular feat. Miles' friends admit that he is a little fond of the spectacular. It is a weakness, a minor weakness, of a strong man and of one of the finest soldiers that America ever produced.

There is no parallel—no exact parallel at any rate—to the career of this Massachusetts soldier. In 1861, when he was 21 years old he was a clerk in a Washington street store, Boston. He knew absolutely nothing about military affairs save what he had learned from taking a few "drill lessons" from an old French soldier named Calignac. Miles' father, a fairly prosperous farmer, had given him $1,000 in cash. The boy promptly spent it in the work of raising a company of men whose services he intended to offer to the government. He raised his company and was made its captain, as he should have been. Promptly the governor of Massachusetts told Miles he was too young to command a company and that he must give way to another man and take the place of first lieutenant.

As some one else has put it, Miles concluded that he was in the military business for the purpose of fighting Confederate soldiers and not for the purpose of

GENERAL NELSON A. MILES

They were holding of an apparently overwhelming force, when a bullet struck the major—that was Young's rank at the time—in the elbow, shattering the bone. He kept on fighting, but finally the surgeons made him submit to first-aid-to-the-injured treatment.

While they were at it, the horses of the squadron, the men being dismounted, stampeded and went through the line, doing much damage with their heels. Wounded as he was, Maj. Young succeeded in keeping up the heart of his troopers, who now had no means of escape from the tremendous force at their front, except their own legs, and he succeeded in holding them to their duty until they were enabled to draw off in something like order. It one wishes to get an idea of the hell of war let him know that on that day the losses of Maj. Young's command were 80 per cent. of the men engaged.

A writer in the Washington Herald some time ago told a story of Gen. Young at the time that he was in Germany, on assignment from the war department, to watch the maneuvers of Kaiser William's army. It seems that the general on his way to Berlin had stopped for a day at Dresden, and while there he was told that it would not do to let Emperor William know that he had made a visit to any town in Germany before paying his respects to the kaiser at the capital. The general met the emperor, and as the newspaper writer has it, the first question the emperor put was: "Is this the first place in Germany you have visited?" The general was startled by the suddenness of the attack and he blurted: "Oh, no, your majesty!"

"Indeed," said the emperor, surprised, "what other German towns have you visited?"

fighting the governor of Massachusetts. So he relinquished his commission as captain, took his place as first lieutenant and went to the front. In four years he was a major general and one of the best known soldiers of the world. What became of the captain the histories at hand do not relate.

During the war of secession Gen. Miles was shot four times. He never received a wound that Not one person in a hundred knows that he ever received a scratch, yet one of the bullets that reached him nearly ended his soldierly life. It was at Chancellorville that Miles received the wound that the surgeon said would kill him. He fooled the surgeons, got well and received a medal of honor from congress for conspicuous gallantry on the field of battle, and with the medal came a commission which gave him the right to wear a star in his shoulder knot.

On that day at Chancellorville, Miles was holding a line of shells and life pills against a tremendous force of the enemy. He was in command of the skirmish line in front of the first division of the Second Army corps. In order to lighten his men Miles constantly exposed himself to the fire of the enemy. He stood upright in the open, courting bullets and possible death. The Confederates couldn't hit him for a long time. The inspiration of his conduct enabled his men to hold their ground long after it seemed certain that the enemy would drive them back. Finally a bullet found its mark, and Miles fell with a wound that ranged downward through his body into his thigh, producing an injury that the surgeons say "death," but nevertheless, death did not come.

At the battle of Fredericksburg, Miles was shot in the throat. It was a jagged wound that bled profusely and caused great pain. He was ordered to go to the rear. The order came from a superior, and so, soldierlike, Miles obeyed, though he didn't want to go. At the time of the Fredericksburg fight Miles already had won considerable fame as a soldier. He was known to all the generals of the service. While on his way to the hospital he came up with Gen. Hancock.

Miles put his hand to his throat so that Hancock wouldn't know he was wounded. At the front was a stone wall, behind which a force of the enemy was located. This force was doing great damage to the Unionists. Miles pointed to the wall and told Hancock that "well-directed charge would take it, and then he said: 'General, I want to lead the charge.' Hancock knew courage when he saw it, but he also knew a wounded man when he saw one. He made Miles go to the rear, because of his condition, but he took good care that his courage was made a matter of mention.

It is probable that military men regard Gen.

MILES CONSTANTLY EXPOSED HIMSELF TO THE FIRE OF THE ENEMY

Miles' career on the plains with more wonder than they do his career in the war of secession. History has shown that some men lacking in early military training can spring full-fledged into warriorhood when the time offers. This has held to be true, however, only of certain kinds of warfare. It was always supposed by the old regulars that no soldier could make a successful Indian fighter until he had been for years on the plains and had learned the ways of the savage. Miles went through six great Indian campaigns, and carried every one of them to success. He was one of the greatest Indian fighters of American history.

Not many years after the civil war the Cheyennes, the Arapahoes, the Kiowas and the Comanches formed a league and raided the frontier. Miles went after them. It was his first great Indian engagement. He completely smashed the reds in a hard, driving, fighting campaign. He did that which was prophesied he could not do, and he did it so effectively that these warlike plains Indians never again took the warpath.

Later, Gen. Miles took up the trail of Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse, with the Fifth infantry, and a few companies of the Twenty-second infantry. Crook and Terry had accomplished comparatively nothing against the bands of these chiefs, but Miles followed them relentlessly with his handful of men, fought them victoriously time after time, and finally captured 2,000 of them and sent them into the agencies.

It was Gen. Miles who overcame the greatest Indian general who ever fought west of the Mississippi river—Chief Joseph of the Nez Percés. It was Miles who broke the power of the Apaches, and it was Miles who made the Hanocks and the Minneconquos sue for peace. This clerk who became a soldier, battled for peace on the frontier, and won his battle.

Lieut. Gen. Miles wears gold braid and the whitest of shiny gold buttons. Again, it is the one weakness of a great American soldier.

Gen. Young's Great Record.

Another retired lieutenant general, Samuel Baldwin Marks Young, has a name long enough, but not nearly so long as his army record.

Gen. Young has served in every rank known to the military organization, barring only that of general, a rank which stands by itself and which stands in the American service by only a few men. When he was a boy Lieut. Gen. Young was a private of volunteers. He was as proud when he was made a corporal as he was on that day five years ago, when his commission as lieutenant general of the army of the United States was signed by Theodore Roosevelt who had fought on the Cuban battlefields under the eye of the man he was commissioning.

It took Gen. Young only six months to reach the grade of captain. He was given the command of a troop of the Fourth Pennsylvania cavalry, and his liking for the mounted service was such that he stayed in the saddle all through his career as a regular. The general served four years with the Pennsylvania volunteer cavalry, and before he left his ranks he had led it in battle as its commanding officer. In every fight from that at Mechanicsville to the skirmish which preceded the surrender at Appomattox, the Pennsylvania soldier had a part.

Only one or two officers in the United States service received more brevet commissions for gallantry in action than did Gen. Young. The list is a long one, and it includes recognition for gallant and meritorious services at the Battle of Sulphur Springs, Amelia Spring, Sallors Creek and a final brevet as mounted general "for gallant and meritorious service during the campaign terminating with the surrender of the insurgent army under Gen. Robert E. Lee."

At the battle of Gaines Mills, Young's squadron of the Fourth cavalry was cut off from the rest of the command by a large force of the enemy. He ordered his men to dismount and to fight on foot.

THE HORSES STAMPEDED

By this time Gen. Young had pulled himself together, and he said quickly: "I have visited Chicago and Cincinnati." The emperor roared and went over and shared the joke with the empress.

When Young came out of the civil war he dropped his brigadier generalship of volunteers for a second lieutenantcy of regulars. At the beginning of the Spanish-American war Gen. Young was sent to Cuba as a brigadier general.

Prior to the outbreak of the war Theodore Roosevelt had said to Gen. Young that he would like to go to the front with the cavalrymen—to the real front, where there were bullets flying.

After the battle of Las Guasimas, the man who afterward became president of the United States, came up to Gen. Young with a look of joy all over his face, held out his hand, and said: "My George, general, you certainly made good on those bullets."

Yellow fever laid its hand on Gen. Young in Cuba. As soon as he had recovered he went to the Philippines and was there in active service in the field for several years. He succeeded Gen. Miles as chief of the general staff and as lieutenant general of the army. He retired from the service about four years ago after having followed the flag for 42 years.

NOLLED BY COURT

OFFICIAL ABSOLVED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL, EXCEPT ONE COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

COULD NOT SECURE CONVICTIONS

Was the Opinion of Attorney General Simpson—Commissioner Wright Arraigned on Road Contract Case.

Bemidji—On the motion of Attorney General Simpson, which was concurred in by County Attorney Chester McKusick, just before adjournment, Judge Wright nolle the indictments which had been returned by a grand jury last June against County Auditor John Willman and Commissioners Wm Wright, F. O. Sibley and A. W. Danaher.

The indictments returned against County Auditor Willman were for not reporting certain fees received by him and for failing to give the directions of the public examiner, County Commissioners Wright, Sibley and Danaher were indicted for allowing a bill, which had not been fully itemized. The bill showed that work had been done by a team, indicating the number of days' work; but because it failed to state the kind of work done the grand jury saw fit to return true bills.

"If I were county attorney," said Mr. Simpson, "I would move to annul these indictments. Now, as attorney general, I do move that they be annulled. As to the county commissioners being indicted for failing to itemize the bill, I am free to say that if these hold good the members of every town board and city or village council of the state would be subject to indictments."

Mr. Simpson said that as a matter of public economy it would be to the condition of the county, these indictments should be annulled. Furthermore, he believed it was impossible to secure convictions.

Mr. Simpson stated that there was another indictment which had been returned at the same time to which he wished to call the attention of the court. If the allegations in that indictment were true, he said, they might constitute a crime.

Mr. Simpson then called for the arraignment of Wm Wright, who appeared and asked that the matter be laid over a day.

The indictment against Mr. Wright charges that as county commissioner he was interested in a road contract entered into between the county of Beltrami and John W. Maybray.

The indictments which are annulled and the one on which Mr. Wright was arraigned are the same which were given publicity in the two cities. This information advanced by M. F. Kain, deputy public examiner, who testified before the grand jury.

MINNEAPOLIS MAN SUES

W. H. McGrath Asks Damages for Alleged Fake Contests. Council Bluffs—Two more civil suits were filed in the federal court by George $25,880 alleged to have been lost as a result of fake wrestling prize fights promoted by Maybray, now under indictment for alleged illegal use of the mails. Twelve of these suits have been filed, involving $140,000.

The first case is that of W. H. McGrath, a lumberman, of Minneapolis, who sues for $10,000. The suit is directed against the First National bank, Ernest E. Park, a national republican committee man for Ohio, Benjamin Marks, a local capitalist, whose name also figures in the Maybray indictments, Maybray himself and P. C. Connors, formerly cashier of the First National bank and now connected with the City National of this city.

The other suit is brought against Benjamin Marks and Maybray, by E. George, of San Antonio, Texas. He charges that he lost money in New Orleans, where, after losing $7,580 on a fake wrestling match he was induced to return home on a secure $4,000 more which he also lost in a similar manner.

LITTLE BOY HANGS HIMSELF

Noise About Neck Causes Strangulation When He Falls.

Duluth—While he was playing on the veranda in front of his home, Ferris Buchner, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Buchner, of Proctor, accidentally hanged himself.

The child was playing with a noise made of heavy cord. He attached the cord to a nail on the post of the veranda and tied the noise about his neck. He was running about the veranda playing horse, when he slipped and fell off the edge.

The noise instantly tightened about his neck and he was strangled before he could make an outcry. His mother went out on the veranda a few minutes later and found her boy's dead body dangling to the rope.

CAR INSPECTOR KILLED

Louis Sampson Thrown From a Car in the Crookston Yards.

Crookston.—Louis Sampson, aged 34, died at St. Vincent's hospital as the result of a fall from the top of a refrigerator car in the local yards, his legs and arms being crushed by the wheels. He was a car inspector and a switch engine bumped into the car, knocking him off. He leaves a wife and four small children. His parents reside at Virgo, Wis.

RALPH W. WHEELOCK

Appointed by Governor Eberhart as Day's Successor.

Minneapolis—Ralph W. Wheelock, of Minneapolis, has been named as private secretary to Governor Adolph O. Eberhart. He will succeed Frank A. Day, who will retire Nov. 1.

The choice of Mr. Wheelock was made at a conference in the office of A. Eberhart, Governor Eberhart's brother. Present at the conference were Governor Eberhart, Lieutenant Governor E. E. Smith, and other republican leaders.

Wheelock has been prominent in the fight for the private secretaryship from the start. After a conference in St. Paul last week, the place was offered first to Chester S. Mitchell, of Duluth, with the understanding that Mr. Wheelock was to have the place should Mr. Mitchell refuse. After a talk with Robert C. Dunn, of Princeton, whose political manager Mr. Mitchell was in the Dunn-Johnson gubernatorial campaign, Mr. Mitchell decided that he would not accept the place. In this decision he followed Mr. Dunn's advice, and his own private wish not to re-enter politics. The decision of Mr. Mitchell left Mr. Wheelock's appointment a certainty.

Wheelock Best Man

In announcing the appointment of Mr. Wheelock, Governor Eberhart said: "I believe him to be the best man for the place. He is not entangled with any political faction, and has been allied with no political interest or interests."

Mr. Wheelock is now engaged in the advertising business in Minneapolis and as a newspaper man he has worked on many of the twin city papers, and before he came to Minneapolis he had worked for the Standard in South Dakota. He was private secretary to Mayor David P. Jones, of Minneapolis.

St. Paul—Harvey Grimmer has declined to be Governor Eberhart's executive clerk.

In a signed statement, Mr. Grimmer, who this time is a Republican, has been a staunch supporter of the late Governor Johnson, says that Governor Eberhart asked him to remain as his executive clerk, but because of the light he had been placed in by certain members of the press, inference having been made that his acceptance of the position of the governor would be construed as a surrender of loyalty to the memory of one to whom he was so close, he thinks it is his duty to retire.

TAX LEVY DROPS HALF MILL

State Funding Tax Levy Has Come to an End.

St. Paul—Notices were sent to the county auditors by State Auditor S. G. Iverson directing them to make the tax levy for state purposes for the coming year 2.8 mills. Last year it was 3.3 mill. The decrease is due partly to the wiping out of the $600,000 road and bridge fund, partly to the increased valuation of personal property and partly to the increased revenues from special taxes. The tax levy of 2.8 mills on a total valuation of $1,100,000,000 will bring approximately $3,000,000 into the state treasury to be divided among the various funds.

The rate in mills for last year and this year for each fund is as follows:

Revenue	1.00	1.00
Soldiers relief	.10	.10
Funding tax fund	.00	.20
State road and bridge fund	.05	.05
University campus fund	.17	.15
Prison building fund	.25	.20
State school and university	1.23	1.23

Total 2.80 2.80
The funding tax levy which has been made for a long term of years, has come to an end. This fund was used to pay the old railroad bonds issued by the state in 1837. There is still $140,000 of these bonds outstanding, but there is enough money in sight for this fund to pay this amount. The prison building fund is the new item added to the list of funds for which a levy is made.

A NURSE'S EXPERIENCE.

Backache, Pains in the Kidneys, Blotting, Etc., Overcome.

A nurse is expected to know what to do for common ailments, and women who suffer from backache, constant languor, and other common symptoms of kidney complaint, should be grateful to Mrs. Minnie Turner, of E. D. St. Ansgar, for pointing out the way to find quick relief. Mrs. Turner used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run-down condition, backache, pains in the sides and kidneys, blotched limbs, etc. "The way they have built up is simply marvelous," says Mrs. Turner, who is a nurse. "My health improved rapidly. Five boxes did so much for me I am telling everybody about it."

WHERE THEY LEARN ECONOMY

Matron Knew What She Was About When She Went to Engage Maid.

The manager of the employment agency was used to hearing women in search of maids ask applicants all sorts of queer questions, says the New York Tribune, but this matron made him mildly curious. Of 14 girls in turn she had inquired: "Have you worked in a minister's family?" None of them had. "Too bad," said the matron to the manager. "None of these girls will do."

"May I ask," said the manager, "why you are anxious to know if these girls have worked in ministers' families?"

"Why, the fact is, we're very hard up just now," said the matron, candidly. "I want a girl who knows how to economize, and those who've worked in clergymen's families, I've discovered, have learned that lesson."

CHILD ATE CUTICURA OINTMENT.

Spread Whole Box of it on Crackers.—Not the Least Injury Resulted.

Cuticura Thus Proven Pure and Sweet.

A New York friend of Cuticura writes: "My three year old son and heir, after being put on a trip across the Atlantic, investigated the state-room and located a box of graham crackers and a box of Cuticura Ointment. When a cracker was made for the box, it was found empty and the kid admitted that he had eaten the contents of the entire box spread on the crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."

No more conclusive evidence could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura Ointment is absolutely pure, sweet and harmless. If it may be safely eaten by a young child, none but the most beneficial results can be expected to attend its application to even the tenderest skin or youngest infant.

Come Home, Mother.

Mother, dear mother, come home from the club, and make some supper for me; 'tis time you were here working over the grub and getting things ready for tea. The table's not set, and I've applied to even the vegetables are not prepared; no wonder my temper and feelings are rolled, though 'tis doubtful, indeed, if you care to do my bidding. Come home, ho-ho-ho! Yes, cut your symposium down a wee bit, dear mother, and hustle right home!—Los Angeles Express.

On a Time Limitation!

In spite of the reputation for fatalism which is gained from his early trial for heresy, the late Prof. Jewett of Oxford was intolerant of pretentiousness and shallow egotism. On one occasion, he was asked to read a paper on the master one day. "Master," he said, "I have searched everywhere in all philosophies, ancient and modern, and nowhere do I find the evidence of God." "Mr. —" replied the master, "after a shorter pause than usual, 'if you don't find a God by five o'clock this afternoon you must leave this college.'"

"But I don't love you," objected the young woman.

"Then why," howled the indignant youth, referring hastily to the dividers in his pocket diary, "did you set up a total of 65 boxes of chocolates I bought you during the past year if you didn't love me?"

"Because," she said, with a rapt expression on her lovely features, "I do love chocolate."

DO NOT NEGLECT THAT COUGH! It indicates a weak system and may run into pneumonia, if neglected. It is a sign of weakness and may lead to a fatal result. It is a sign of weakness and may lead to a fatal result.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. The ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. The germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, in the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whiskey or harmful drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of success. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Wm. Stevens and wife visited their daughter, Mrs. Jesse Gillig last Sunday. They report having had a very pleasant time.

Mr. Franston and family had several visitors last Sunday, who came early and stayed late. They report having spent a very pleasant day at the Franston home.

Miss Sarah Stevens did not go to Minneapolis with Mrs. Heineman as we reported last week, but instead departed for Rush City, where she has secured employment in a hotel.

Our new school house is completed, and Miss Pearson, the lady that has been engaged as teacher began school Monday. Miss Pearson is boarding at the Perrin home, and says that she likes the clean roomy school room.

Mrs. Maria Heineman has returned from a visit to Minneapolis, but we cannot say that she enjoyed her trip, as she went down to have some dental work done. After the dentist got his work completed she was very ill for several days, and came home feeling none too good.

Wolves are quite numerous around this neighborhood, they having killed several of Mr. Dannes' sheep. We had better organize a wolf hunt and rid the Valley of these animals. The bounty on them will well repay the time and money used in capturing them.
