LOG LIFTING GRAPPLE

James T. Teary Has Device At Cross Lake For Last Two Seasons

On Tuesday morning James T. Teary, who is patentee of the Log Fishing Grapple, took a reporter of this paper down to Cross lake and explained the workings of the device and showed him some of the logs that had been lifted and brought ashore. Some of the logs are oak and have been laying in the bottom of Cross lake from 10 to 40 years, and are from 12 to 40 feet long and from 9 to 22 inches at the top.

The Log Fishing Grapple was patented by Mr. Teary on October 27th 1908, he having applied for a patent January 2nd 1907, it taking over a year and a half to get it through the patent office.

The device is so constructed that it will lift a log that is three feet in diameter or one only six inches. It has an automatic contrivance whereby it can be released at the bottom of a lake or river where the water is forty feet deep just as well as at the surface.

The manner in which the grapple is used is as follows: In the first place the log is found with a pike-pole, after which the grapple is placed over the spot where the log has been located and the pole ran down between the irons of which the device is constructed to the log in the bottom of the lake or river, the grapple is then lowered by means of a rope, and the four-hooks that fasten into the log are extended to their utmost capacity. When the grapple gets to its prey a rope fastened to the hooks is pulled and the hooks sink into the log and it is raised to the surface by means of a captain that can be easily operated by one man.

If the grapple should fail to catch the operator knows at once that the grapple is either length-wise of the log or it is over three feet in diameter, if it is thought to be the former the machine can be turned without raising it to the surface and another pull on the hooks made. When the grapple secures its prey it never lets loose until it does so at the will of the operator.

Mr. Teary last season, with the machine in a crude form, managed with the assistance of one man to raise 28,000 feet of logs, this season they have raised very nearly 18,000 logs.

The device will raise logs from any depth of water, the most of those raised this season were from water 18 to 35 feet deep. The logs shown us were mostly oak and were taken from Cross lake opposite the Pine City Saw Mill Co. mill in about 28 feet of water.

Mr. Teary showed us a letter of which the following is a copy and will explain itself:

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Nov. 2, 09.

Mr. James T. Teary,
Pine City, Minn.

Dear Sir:

We beg to advise you that your application in Canada for patent for Log Fishing Grapple has been filed in the Patent office under date of October 30, 1909, and the serial number is 189,775.

The case will be taken up for examination in its regular order.

Yours respectfully,
Williamson & Merchant,
Patent Attorneys.

Mr. Teary is to be congratulated in securing such a patent right, and the fact that it is a success has been demonstrated to his own, and those who are interested in logging operations entire satisfaction, this season and last on the waters around here.

We have always thought that there was a fortune in logs sunk in our lakes and rivers, and the only trouble would be in getting a device that would raise them without a great deal of expense. We believe that Mr. Teary has the device, and we also know that it works to perfection.

Foot Ball Game Saturday With North Branch. Score 38 To 0

Last Saturday afternoon the two High school teams, North Branch and Pine City met in a foot-ball contest on the gridiron north of Snake river at Pine City.

The game was called at two o'clock and for the first few minutes of play, the game looked as tho it would be very even, indeed, but then Pine City, by a series of long end runs, scored the first touch-down. This seemed to give Pine City new life, as they then scored two touch-downs in quick succession. One goal from these touch-downs was made in the first half, being kicked by Bartos, which resulted in a score of 16 to 0, in favor of Pine City.

During intermission, North Branch asked that the second half be shortened to 15 minutes. This was agreed upon and Pine City went in to get as many scores as possible in that limited time. In this half North Branch seemed unable to stay with Pine City at all, as they scored 22 points, the game ending with a score of 38 to 0, in favor of Pine City.

The main feature of the game was a 50 yard run, for a touch-down, by Stekl. Long runs were also made by Bartos and G. Wandel. Great work was done by the tackles, Hamlin and Kubieck, in assisting G. Wandel in line plunges.

North Branch could make no consistent gain on end plays, because of the good work of the two ends, Mc Kusiak and Heywood, who played a strong game all thru. Neither could they do anything on line plunges, as Pine City's center trio, "Sunshine" Dognman, Collette, and "Sub." Clark was there to see that no such thing occurred. Pine City's offense was very good, as the men played with each other at all stages of the game.

Clinton Breckenridge acted as referee and Dr. K. W. Knapp as umpire. Both men gave entire satisfaction.

Pine City's line-up:

Center	Collette
Right guard	Clark
Right tackle	Kubieck
Right end	Heywood
Quarter-back	Bartos
Left half-back	JJ Wandel
Right half-back	Stekl
Full-back	G. Wandel

MEETINGS OF AMERICAN PRESIDENTS

HAT the United States and Mexico are daily practicing the lessons of peace is shown in the thousands of miles of practically unguarded border which half a century ago demanded thousands of troops for protection. If any additional guarantee was needed it was shown in the recent change of visits between President Taft of the United States and President Diaz of Mexico. It required a special concession from the Mexican congress in order that the illustrious Mexican might cross the border to grasp the hand of the man who has been honored with the highest office of the United States. Taft set aside precedent and crossed over into Mexico to return the visit and the many pleasing incidents connected with his brief sojourn on foreign soil emphasized the friendly relations that exist between the two countries.

There have been meetings in the past between presidents of American republics which were fraught with much of historic significance to the people they represented. Great affairs of state have been discussed in a manner with consequences of great benefit to the countries involved.

In the year 1822 the port of Guayaquil, Ecuador, was the scene of one of the most notable events in the history of America. Bolivar, the liberator of the southern provinces, and San Martin, the liberator of the southern provinces, met together for a conference that decided the destiny of South America. Bolivar was certain that his genius would be rewarded by the honor of the election to the first presidency of the country which he had given. San Martin, had he but asked, it could have become the elected head of a new nation. San Martin withdrew, however. The war against Spain had still months to run before a constitution could be made effective and therefore this hoped-for first meeting of presidents was only a dream that might have been.

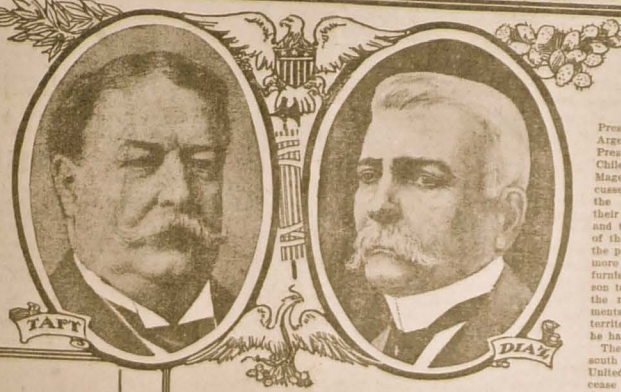

History shows that the struggle for liberty continued for a generation beyond the elections of the first presidents in many of the republics of the purpose of informal discussion unsettled policies of constitution and government, but there are scant evidences of any such personal communication. One meeting, however, is recorded, and that was the whole region of the river Plata. This occurred in the year 1863. At that time the war in Paraguay was in the year crisis. The Argentine Republic, Uruguay and Brazil had decided to combine the forces against President Lopez of Paraguay, but at the moment harmony of purpose among the three republics. It was then that President Flores of Uruguay crossed to Buenos Aires to confer with President Bartolome Mitre of the Argentine Republic. He was received in state, but the council was one for military deliberation rather than for official and diplomatic conference and these three agreed upon an offensive and defensive alliance, the consequences of which are seen in the national boundaries of today.

In disturbances of this nature a president was apt to be not only the constitutional but also the actual commander-in-chief of the army of his country. Experience on the field was an essential factor for such a position. The executive chair. A far-off reflection of the glories of the past might have been the ambition of many of these leaders. If the strong constitutional republicanism had not held them and the people in check.

Meetings of American presidents, therefore, have in the great majority of cases taken place as a matter of neighborhood and to strengthen the ties of friendship which must, as time passes, draw closer to each other the republics of the new world. Their purpose has been altogether one of peace. A notable instance of such a conference is shown by the meeting held at Corinto, on August 21, 1904, when the president of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador and a special delegate from the president of Guatemala assembled with the express intention of fostering by all honorable means the peace of Central America. The four governments thus represented manifested a decided moral resolve to harmonize the ambitions of each for the good of all. Despite the lead to beneficial consequences and undoubtedly the sympathetic expression of regard between these neighbors made easier the brilliant peace conference held by the five republics of Central America under Secretary Root's guidance in the closing months of 1907.

Central America probably leads in the number of cases when presidents have grasped one another by the hand and discussed among themselves, by oral communication, affairs and policies they were elected to guard. It is not a long journey from one capital to another, and between contiguous neighbors the distance is so short that informal meetings are easy of accomplishment. The president of Salvador and the president of Guatemala have more than once exchanged personal greetings. In fact, Gen. Rufino Barrios, while chief executive of Guatemala, was an attentive host for the presidents of Costa Rica and of Honduras, during two administrations, visited him. The presidents of Costa Rica and of Nicaragua once met on the borders of the republics, and so rapidly are the means of communication being extended in this century that undoubtedly many similar meetings will be arranged in the future for the benefit of this Central American confederacy.

With the growing demand for mutual understanding and the absence of all that danger which has so frequently attended the visits of European rulers outside the confines of their own nations, these international visits are becoming more and more frequent. Sometimes they are of an informal nature, the president traveling in his private capacity and being welcomed as a foreign guest. Simply some years ago President Salazar of Salvador came to the United States and was received as a national guest. President Iglesias of Costa Rica, just before his brother entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis, transferred his journey through the United States and Washington by President McKinley in that event with a kindly memory. More recently, however, Gen. Rufino Barrios, white president of Guatemala, visited the line Republic by the president of Brazil in October, 1909.

Gen. Julio A. Roca was in his second term as president of the Argentine Republic. He had served his country long and faithfully in many countries of trust and was recognized in Europe, where he had traveled extensively, as one of the most capable men of his generation. Dr. Campos

Salles had assumed the presidency of Brazil in 1908. His early life had almost passed under the empire, but the spirit of the age had fired his life with republicanism, and, despite all the traditions of an hereditary aristocracy, he had devoted his genius and his energy to the establishment of a republic in his native land. A squadron of the navy rated as their capitals are by 1,000 miles of ocean, or by an equal number of miles of almost untraveled forest, they have not always been able to find opportunity to meet in intimate friendship. For this reason, and because the times seemed favorable for expressions of personal and national regard.

The Argentine Republic and Brazil have long been on friendly footing, but, separated as their capitals are by 1,000 miles of ocean, or by an equal number of miles of almost untraveled forest, they have not always been able to find opportunity to meet in intimate friendship. For this reason, and because the times seemed favorable for expressions of personal and national regard.

MR. PLAZAZU'S RECORD

One of the Reasons Why He Couldn't Get Extension of Credit.

"We're pretty nearly sting proof," said a banker the other day. "Any time any one puts one over on us he'll have to operate with a mace. Nowadays a bit of information about a client's personal character is considered too pennyroyal for us to notice it."

The statement was called out of a large roll of manuscript reports, pinned together. The unfortunate who had been made a subject of a report to another, thought himself a very fair sort of a citizen. He hadn't done anything very objectionable, beyond getting stowed now and then, riding a bit too fast in autos and acting as a chronic host for Broadway's chorus girls, the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star says. It so happened that he wanted an extension of credit and had applied to his bank for it. And the credit man did the rest.

"We have here," said the banker, "the usual Don and Bradstreet reports on Mr. Plazazu. We have a highly entertaining series of clippings, in which our late client appears as the leading man in a lot of funny doings by electric light. We also have statements from every man he has ever worked for, and so far as possible every man he has ever done business with. And still we haven't enough. I have asked for a special report upon certain phases of his activity that are not shown here. Every bank in New York has been victimized at various times by men who offer us an apparently clean bill of health. We don't find out until it is embarrassingly too late that they are suffering from a moral palsy. Nowadays a man to get credit standing at a New York bank must pass an examination that would send the average ducon howling to the woods."

In Mr. Plazazu's case his request for a loan was refused and he was asked to get his account out. Not that it wasn't sound financially, but two years ago he had been jobbed by a bunch of shrewd fellows. "A man," said the bank president, "who tries to get money in that way expects to profit by a dishonest game. He's apt to try to hand us a queer check next time he puts back up. The experience of his previous firm to be not merely a fool, but a dishonest fool. We can't afford to waste time on one either class."

Attaining Friends.

The world will value you for what you give. If you invite friends by your manner, and are kind and cordial, you will have them. If you wait for the world to invite you, you will be disappointed.

Consequences of great benefit, for instance, followed the meeting, in 1910, between the Republic by the president of the Argentine Republic in October, 1909.

Gen. Julio A. Roca was in his second term as president of the Argentine Republic. He had served his country long and faithfully in many countries of trust and was recognized in Europe, where he had traveled extensively, as one of the most capable men of his generation. Dr. Campos

DO YOU USE LINIMENT?

Of course you do and of course you would like to know how to get the best and the most for your money. Here is the proposition right at home. Simply buy a bottle of Holler's White Liniment. A bottle as large as any $1.00 bottle for only 50 cents, guaranteed to give satisfaction for any external use and you only have to use one-half as much of this to get the same results as of others, as there is no waste when using. Not only that, but it saves you the expense of buying salve for cuts, galls, sore necks on horses, sore teats on cows, or, in fact, any external ailments.

When your liniment bottle gets low don't get hasty and buy the first liniment you can get, but just stop to think how you can save some money and go into Ryback's store and ask for a bottle of Holler's White Liniment, or go to Holler's residence in Pine City. It is also for sale at Bernick, Rock Creek and the Mercantile Company's store at Ruah City.

WILLOW RIVER.

The saw mill at White Pine is shut down for repairs.

We are now having rainy weather, but the next thing we know, it will be frozen up.

Dan Salady, who is running a saw mill at White Pine, is home for a few days visit.

There have been lots of hunters passing thru here lately on their way to Snake river.

Mr. Pimbleton and son, Fred Lockwood and Hal Sherick left Monday for Snake river, where they intend to hunt deer.

J. E. Zimmerman is carrying the mail on route 1, as Mr. Pimbleton has gone on a deer hunting trip.

John Fornek's boy shot off two fingers Saturday while playing with a dynamite cap. It seems that parties are rather careless about letting their children play with such things.

At the last meeting of the village council it was ordered that all wood be removed from the west side of the track between the depot and Main street. The wood is practically useless and good for nothing but a fire trap.

Mrs. Mottle recently received a very nice doll, which she has on exhibition in her store, and some one is going to get it for a Christmas present, as it is there to be raffled. Every 50 cent purchase entitles the purchaser to a chance. Guess the doll's age.

Last Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock a fire alarm was turned in, and when the department arrived upon the scene of conflagration, they discovered, as they supposed, Bachek & Halvya's store was ablaze. After a quick search no fire could be found, but within a more thorough search was instituted, great clouds of smoke were issuing from a nearby chimney. Therefore the scare.

STOP!
Wasting Fuel Money
by throwing out ashes unsifted—continued fusing with inefficient, dust-creating hand-shakers or waste of the good fuel in unsifted ashes is no longer necessary—now that you can get the complete, compact, cleanly, up-to-date

HILL'S HUSTLER ASH SIFTER

Hill's "Hustler" takes all the work and dirt out of sifting ashes. Fits snugly on top of ordinary flour barrel or iron can, and is entirely enclosed so that no dust escapes. Its use

Will Save About 1-3 Your Fuel

You simply empty the ashes into the hopper at top, close lid, turn handle a few times, and the cylinder sieve sifts ashes and dust into barrel while the unburned coal rolls out into scuttle. It is an absolute necessity in every home, especially where every dollar must do its whole duty. Why not try one?

Is This Why You Throw Out the Ashes?
Better throw out, instead, the old-style dust-creating, inefficient, back-breaking hand shaker. Get the clean, easy-running, up-to-date Hill's "Hustler" Ash Sifter.
Think of the expense of doing without the sifter you want for a few months to more than pay for the "Hustler". Sift a week's ashes in five minutes, clean, without dust, without fuss—so easy a child can do it.
Ashes are put in a hopper at top, lid closed down, handle turned a few times and sifter sifts into barrel underneath, while unburned coal rolls out into scuttle.
This ordinary barrel or iron can—costs little. Lasts a lifetime. Let us deliver one to your home today.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

The Hinckley High School Eleven and the Pine City High School Eleven will meet at this place on the north side of the river tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The Pine City boys play a strong game and if Hinckley gets the best of them they will have to play some games. We have been informed that Hinckley has a strong and fast team and a lively game is expected tomorrow. The boys deserve better support than they received last Saturday, there being only 40 paid admissions at the gate. If we are to have a football team the people in town must turn out and support it.

When the two teams lined up last Saturday the difference in equipment was very noticeable. North Branch had everything that was needed to help avoid accidents, while our boys had barely a suit and some had only a piece of one. The reason, did you say? Its as we said before, no support. You can't expect a man to live on hot air and hard tack nor can you expect a foot-ball team to play a good game without the necessary outfit. If any other town along the line had as good a team as we have, all the players would have to do is ask for such things as was needed and they would be forthcoming.

When the boys get a game and place the price of admission at the low sum of twenty-five cents and cant get enough people on the ground to form a corporal guard its time to wake up and attend. Everybody attend tomorrow.

Mrs. R. J. Hawley and son James and Mrs. P. Engle visited school Monday.

Mr. T. J. Snyder spent Sunday in North Branch, returning on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Asplund and Mrs. Aekton visited school last week.

The foot-ball game played Saturday between North Branch and Pine City resulted in a victory for the Pine City eleven, the score standing 38 to 0. The visitors were lighter than the home team, but put up a good game, nevertheless. Their deficiency in weight was clearly shown when Pine City worked the line plunges. You must attend these games in order to appreciate their full value, as they cannot be described satisfactorily. Our boys will play the Hinckley team Saturday, the 13th, on the fair grounds just north of the river at this place and a good clean game is assured to all those who attend. The team needs the support of the towns-people and anyone with the interest of the school at heart should turn out and help the boys in every way possible. Tickets are now being sold at 25 cents and there will surely be someone around to see you before Saturday.

Results That Remain

Are Appreciated by Pine City People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Pine City.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. Albert Glasow, Pine City, Minn., says: "For ten years I suffered from kidney trouble and was unable to find relief until my husband procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for me at Breckenridge's pharmacy. Prior to using this remedy, I was unable to do any hard work or stoop over as my back ached so intensely. I felt weak and worn out nearly all the time, could not rest well and arose in the morning feeling as tired as when I went to bed. Any sudden movement would cause excruciating pains in my head and I was also bothered by dizzy spells. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills completely rid me of the trouble and I therefore consider it a pleasure to tell others of this remedy." (Statement given August 30, 1907.)

On October 30, 1908, Mrs. Glasow said: "I gladly confirm the testimony I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1907. I have not felt a symp on of kidney trouble for over a year and do not hesitate to again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

An Artist's Wooing

By LOUISE DEEMING

"I must confess, Harry," said Norman Langford, "that I have found the south very agreeable."

"From an article or personal point of view?" inquired his friend, Harry Stanway.

"From both," responded the young artist. "The scenery is full of restful beauty and the inhabitants invariably courteous and very hospitable." Stanway smiled.

"And not the least agreeable of the inhabitants is pretty Dora Mantion?" he queried.

Langford colored, but made no reply. He had taken the southern trip principally for his health, and from the first time that his eyes had rested upon Dora Mantion the girl's soft, dreamy eyes, sweet face and gentle manner had made a deep impression upon him. Stanway had noticed this and was well pleased. He liked the struggling young New York artist, who was some ten years his junior, and he had known Dora Mantion from her earliest childhood. The two men sat and smoked in silence. Stanway was reflecting upon the happy days he had spent on his father's old plantation, a spot of which comprised the little village in which he now lived, in the "good old days before the war." Langford was intently planning his means for success in his profession, mapping out possible roads by which he hoped to travel through the present trials of his troupe.

His conversation and then in the role of newspaper correspondent, and occa-tionally sold a few of his pictures. But the thing for which his heart yearned, the one ambition of his life, was success and fame as an artist, success that would free him from the monotonous grind of newspaper toil, fame that would make his name remembered among men.

He wanted to own a pretty cottage, nestled upon some sunny hillside, with the birds singing around, the vines climbing over the porch and the flowers shedding their delicious fragrance everywhere. Also he added to this mental picture of a modern Arcadia, being built by 24 and impressionable, a charming woman, heretofore a creature of his own imagination, who should preside over the home in question. And singularly enough, this sweetheart of his fancy was transforming herself into a close resemblance to Dora Mantion.

"Norman," said Stanway, arousing himself from his reverie, "why don't you try for that $5,000 prize at the Interstate art exhibit this year?"

"I am thinking of doing so," replied Langford, "but so far I haven't been able to hit upon a proper subject."

"Ask Miss Mantion to sit for you," suggested Stanway, "and call your picture 'A Southern Beauty.' That will give you a chance to unite business with pleasure. Old man Mantion is worth a lot of money, and Dora is his only heir. Besides," added Stanway, laughing, "you've seen that pretty little cottage he is building yonder on the hill—Mr. Mantion informed me that it was for his future son-in-law."

Langford shook his head reprovingly, but made no reply to his merry comrade. The subject was too serious for jesting, in his estimation. Norman did not see Miss Mantion for several days, and even tried to avoid his jovial room-mate as much as possible. He had made up his mind to show his southern friends that he was no fortune hunter. However, now that he had asked Miss Mantion's permission to visit her at her home, common courtesy demanded that he make at least one call. He put off his visit as long as possible, and even announced his intention of returning to the north. His health, he felt, was fully restored. Meanwhile, however, he had not been idle. He had written several newspaper articles, done all kinds of artistic back work, and had secretly sent to the Interstate exhibit what he considered the best work he had ever executed. It was called "At Twilight," and represented a scene in North Carolina.

The sun had set behind the hills, the skies were purple and gold and the very hills themselves were more shadowy outlines of dusk. A little white town lay dreaming among the hills on either side of a broad road that sloped away and vanished to the southward were visible here and there, distant farm houses. Down the road a team of oxen waded slowly, and on the dilapidated wagon which they drew, a lay, happy-go-lucky negro sat singing. There was not a light to be seen in the picture, but despite the general dimness of the scene, every thing was distinctly shown and every feature of the girl's jolly face was perceptible.

While the members of the examining committee passed upon the picture they awarded Langford the much coveted $5,000 prize, and one of the critics made him a handsome offer for something more from his brush. All this Norman told his friend Stanway, but Dora was to be kept strict at all times in the matter. Three days before his intended return to the north, Langford visited Miss Mantion. If the girl had appeared beautiful in his eyes before, she seemed now to be doubly fascinating. He had never before seen a face so dainty and sweet, and yet so expressive of noble womanhood. He doubted if he should ever see another like her. Of course this enthusiasm was purely from an artist's standpoint, but he assured himself. Business was business. He determined to postpone his northern trip, and call on the morrow, about noon, on his father's plantation, and, if possible, to sit for her portrait to him. Stanway had been right when he said she was a "good subject."

Norman told Stanway of his change of mind, and was not exactly pleased when his friend first intimated that he was suffering from. However, he called upon Miss Mantion next day, secured her consent to his plan, and the portrait was begun. For two weeks Norman worked industriously, with voice and smile, as with brush. He informed Stanway that the work was making admirable progress with the portrait, whereupon his friend remarked that the new cottage on the hill was also nearly completed. And he was obliged to admit to himself that the original of the shy, pretty face that looked upon him with wistful eyes from the canvas was becoming short of intimacy he and the girl had been drawn very closely together by invisible bonds.

The thought of parting from her stung him with exquisite pain; he was feeling a crisis that filled him with fear and trembling. Meanwhile a letter, which his friend arrived, and with it a letter summoning him to Boston on important business. He realized that he must work hard if the picture was to be finished. At last the day arrived when he put the finishing touches to the portrait, and Dora's wide, wistful eyes smiled gratefully at him from the canvas. The girl herself stood beside him, and together they regarded the canvas attentively. Norman drew a deep breath and turned to his companion.

"Well," he queried, "what do you think of it?"

"It's just splendid," said a sweet, low voice, "and I'm awfully proud of you. There was no artist prouder of you than your southern ones."

There was a faint undercurrent of sadness in her accents and Norman's heart beat anxiously.

"Tell me," he burst out, impulsively, "are you really sorry I am going—Dora?"

It was the first time that he had ventured to address her by her first name, and she did not answer, but stood before him with heaving breast and drooping head. He caught her hands in his and spoke in a hurried whisper:

"You are not angry, Dora?"

Her dark eyes shone upon him with a world of love and tenderness in their depths.

"No Norman," she said, shyly—"I am not angry!"

Langford drew the slender, unresisting figure to him and kissed her with tender reverence.

"I have won the greatest prize I ever worked for, dear," he said, and they stood for several moments without speaking, as if by silent joy of their new found happiness, while the purple shadows of the evening crept slowly into the studio.

Waste of Oak Trees.

There is no more striking example on the Pacific coast of the ruthless destruction of timber than that which follows the gathering of oak tanbark in the counties of Humboldt and Mendocino in California. The industry of securing oak tanbark has attained considerable proportions. Oak trees 18 inches to 24 feet in diameter, up to 16 feet in height, are not uncommon. To secure this bark the trees are felled and the bark is stripped. The timber is left untouched on the ground to rot. Last fall railroad transportation can be furnished this year, but will probably continue. The bark in many instances is secured from individual plants, taken up by homesteaders, and the timber, being used for fuel, is left to rot. It is estimated that only 100,000 cords of oak timber were secured each year to the bark gutters.—From the Timberman.

HARVESTING OF SOY BEANS
More Difficult Than That of Cow Peas—In Thrashing Common Wheat Thresher May Be Used.

Harvesting of soy beans is in some respects more difficult than that of cow peas. The latter are generally allowed to mature much of their seed, so that they are harvested at a rather late stage of growth.

Soy beans should be harvested at an earlier and more succulent stage, in order to save as much of the foliage as possible. An additional reason for this at maturity the seed shatters badly. Various methods in common use for cow peas have been tried at the Tennessee station, but with poor results, especially in wet or cool weather. Trials have also been made with both corn and wheat harvesters, but the bundles when tied are apt to mold, and Ordinary precautions have to be taken to prevent the destruction of the crops by the little animals. Sneak thieves of the natives must also be provided against. Corn and wheat bins of ordinary construction, such as are used in the United States, would not serve the purpose of protecting the grain.

Instead of wooden structures, the granaries are built of stone and brick. Most of them are of conical shape and vary in capacity from five hundred to five thousand bushels. The foundation of these granaries are sunk deep into the ground. At the top of the structure is a close-fitting lid which covers the hole through which the grain is emptied into the granary. The ordinary method of filling the storehouse is to have the grain carried to the top in sacks upon the backs of men or steep ladders. At the bottom of the granary is a door which leads into a narrow chamber which is separated from the grain room by a wall of brick or stone, containing a slatted opening through which the grain is emptied when required.

SAWS TREES TO THE GROUND
Machine invented by Minneapolis Man That Will Cut Trees Rapidly Without Any Waste.

Horticulturists will doubtless exult freely in the saving machine invented by a Minneapolis man, for it not only has the advantage of doing its work more rapidly than hand labor can accomplish it, but it saves waste in chips and cuts the trees at any height from the ground that may be desired. The machine consists of a pedestal at one end of which is an upright. The saw is attached to this upright and can be moved up and down to the height required. Where a large number of trees are felled by means of axes the amount of wood lost in chips is considerable. This loss is saved by the saving machine. Most important, however, is the saving of the expense of dynamiting stumps to clear the ground if it is to be used for building purposes. Usually when a forest has been cleared down the space is marked by a sea of stumps, which must be removed before the ground can be used for any other purpose. With the saving machine the trees can be cut level with the ground.

Dwarf Apple Trees.
The culture of dwarf apple trees has been recommended from time to time during the past 75 years, but dwarf orchards do not seem to increase very rapidly in numbers, and their advocates have been mostly nurserymen or horticultural specialists who have grown the trees only in a very limited way. During the past two or three years discussion has been given to a position on the part of many leading fruit growers that dwarfs are not to be recommended for general planting. It is well enough for novelty and to supply fruit in small gardens and city yards, but even as fillers in large orchards they are probably less desirable than some of the earlier bearing varieties on standard rootstocks.

Shaping a Tree.
The culture of dwarf apple trees should be done when it is young. The practice of allowing useless limbs to grow only to be sawed or chopped off when the tree is large is a mistake, as every undesirable branch deprives the tree of a large amount of food and nourishment. Begin with the first year and train the tree to the shape desired, leaving only such branches as will be retained later on.

Orchard Notes.
Stop cultivation now to allow the wood to harden for winter. Train the apple trees just enough to let the air and sunlight in to ripen the fruit. On a tree that is properly pruned most of the fruit will be found on the inside branches. A tree that is infested with insects will not thrive any better than a pig covered with lice. In breaking up the orchard and if you cannot use a disk use a plow with a narrow share and use a short single-tree.

Plowed manure is the best fertilizer for an orchard, but on old neglected soils the ground should be plowed before the manure is applied. A dust mulch would prevent the evaporation of the moisture in the orchard just the same as in the open field. Then why not use it? Some men do not put a knife or saw into their orchard for four or five years, then in a fit of enthusiasm they cut and slash, doing more harm than good.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT VICTORY FOR THE CARTER MEDICINE COMPANY IN THE UNITED STATES COURT.

The United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York—sitting in New York City—has just awarded to the Carter Medicine Company a decree which again sustains the company's exclusive right to use the red package for liver pills.

By the terms of the decree, it is, among other things,

Adjudged that the Carter Medicine Company is the owner of the sole and exclusive right to the use of red color and wrappers or labels upon said small, round packages of liver pills of the style described in the bill of complaint; said right having been acquired by the prior adoption of said style and color of package for liver pills by the complainant predecessor more than thirty years ago, and established by the continuous and exclusive use of the same in constantly increasing quantities by said predecessor and by the complainant, the Carter Medicine Company, itself, from the time of their said adoption until the present day.

The decision just announced is perhaps the most important and far-reaching of all, by reason of the character of the tripartite which rendered it. No Court in the country stands higher.

TO SUPREME COURT

CASES INVOLVING MINNESOTA GROSS EARNINGS LAW FINALLY ARE CONSIDERED.

GREAT NORTHERN IS THE FIRST

Validity of Contract of Territory of Minnesota With Predecessor—of Great Northern Is Involved.

Washington, D. C. — After waiting the entire week for an opportunity, Minnesota attorneys were able to present the Minnesota gross earnings taxes case to the United States supreme court. The Great Northern case was argued by Chief Justice Fuller for about 15 minutes before lunch for Attorney General Simpson and Geo. W. Peterson, assistant, will divide the time for the state when Mr. Begg has concluded his argument. The court exhibited a keen interest in the case when it was brought up. Mr. Begg stated the position of the Great Northern to be substantially this: That the company operates the road built under the contract made by the territory of Minnesota in 1857 with the Minnesota and Pacific. The provided for a 3 per cent tax, and the company has refused to comply with the 4 per cent law passed in Minnesota in 1903. The case now before the court involves only the taxes for 1905, the one per cent in dispute amounting to $120,000. The state of Minnesota has a total of over $400,000 of state in the case, however, representing the disputed taxes for 1905 and succeeding years in the Great Northern and Chicago Great Western cases.

Definite Ruling Expected.

The United States supreme court, when it finally passes upon the Minnesota gross-earnings tax cases, will decide definitely, it is believed, whether or not the charters issued for the Territory of Minnesota to the Great Northern and Great Western must be construed away the state's right to levy future taxes. Although these charters have been the object of former decisions in the Minnesota courts, the attorneys for the state declare that the real question of contractual rights has never been passed upon. The territory of Minnesota granted charters to the Minnesota and Pacific railroad in 1857. The rights given by this charter are supposed to have descended through many foreclosures and assignments to the St. Paul and Pacific and later to the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway Company, from which the Great Northern now leases its main line. The Great Northern claims that the territory bound the future state to a 3 per cent gross-earnings tax on this line, and to pay the 4 per cent tax 20 years in effect. The state of Minnesota claims that the Great Northern has no contract that prohibits the state from exercising its full taxing powers. The gross-earnings tax cases are brought to the United States supreme court by the railroads from the Minnesota supreme court, where the rights of the state were upheld. In the original action of the district court of Ramsey county, the right of the Great Northern to a 3 per cent tax and the state's right to a 4 per cent tax were declared valid, and these decisions were reversed by the state supreme court. The Great Western claims a charter granted to the Minnesota and Northwestern roads in 1854, and amended in 1856 providing for a 2 per cent tax. This case is subsidiary to the United States supreme court on briefs and will probably not be argued.

ELECTION CLERKS ARRESTED.

Three Charged With Perjury by Officers of St. Louis County. Duluth.—Louis M. Hooper, Charles Charles Stark and Frank Schultz, election clerks last November in the Sand Lake precinct, St. Louis county, were arrested by order of County Attorney Price on a charge of perjury.

The arrest came about through their testimony in the case of a government seller named Charles Dahlgren, charged with illegal voting. Dahlgren was said to have voted at Sand Lake under the name of Frank Hies. The election clerks testified that they did not know Dahlgren, whereas, it is asserted, they testified in the sheriff contest in Isasca county last fall that Dahlgren voted under the name of Hies.

MINNEAPOLIS TAGS 'EM.

Mill City Raises $19,000 by Popular Method. Minneapolis.—The day receipts here were close to $19,000. This, a little short of the $20,000 aimed at by the promoters, is considered by them as satisfactory from many viewpoints.

A change of the collection this year is far in excess of that of last year's Tag day, when $14,367.33 was raised to carry on the work of the Visiting Nurses.

Davidson Looks Over Harbor. Duluth.—James A. Davidson, of Wisconsin, congressman and member of the rivers and harbors committee, made a tour of the Duluth and Superior harbor. The trip was made in the launch Vidette, and Congressman Davidson was accompanied by Lieut. Col. Graham D. Pitch, in charge of the government work in the harbor. A number of Duluth citizens were in a party. The need of further appropriations for the carrying on of work of harbor improvement was

FOUR CENTS ON DOLLAR.

Report of the Lund Executor Shows $21,799 to Meet $500,000.

Minneapolis.—Jesse Van Valkenburg, executor of the estate of the late John G. Lund, filed his report in the probate court, showing that only $21,799 is available to meet debts amounting to more than $500,000. This is about 4 cents on the dollar.

Although the report contains $700 claims, aggregating nearly $700,000. Of this amount $157,888.62 has been paid out on a basis of 20 cents to the dollar.

Of the remaining assets of the estate the Security National bank of Minneapolis has on deposit $21,799 and the First National bank of Hopkins, Minn., $2,500.

The report contains a statement showing that Lund had owned real estate in Minneapolis valued at $44,057.50 and property in the following counties: Yellow Medicine, Lincoln, Lac Qui Parle, Sherburne, Marshall, Aitkin, Otter Tail, Morrison, Stearns and Houston and in the states of Wisconsin and North and South Dakota.

DON'T GIVE UP THE FIGHT.

Citizens of Mankato Will Vote Again on Commission Plan.

Mankato.—The charter commission held a meeting and decided to remodel the new charter recently defeated by 28 votes and to submit it again. The changes are not expected to be radical, as the commission voted unanimously to retain the commission form, which is considered the strong point in the charter. A sub-committee will draft the amendments and report at a meeting to be held later. Last week the commission held an open meeting and listened to suggestions of citizens who were not satisfied with the last plan with modifications. The city council Monday night sold $40,000 of waterworks refunding bonds, to mature in twenty years, and to draw 4 1/2 per cent interest. A 60-cent or more bid was submitted, but the bonds went to Coffin & Crawford, of Chicago, for $41,708.

TO PRISON FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Cambridge Young Man Given 15 Years in Stillwater.

Cambridge.—Alfred Anderson was sentenced to sixteen years in Stillwater for manslaughter in the first degree by Judge Giddings at an adjourned session of the September term of the district court. Last January Ethel Grant, Anderson's fiance, died under peculiar circumstances. The authorities showed death to be due to phosphorus poisoning. Last April the grand jury indicted Anderson for manslaughter on the specific charge being, that he had procured the poison and administered it to the girl. Since that time he has been under $75,000 bail furnished by his father, a wealthy retired farmer, during which time he has been in Minneapolis. Anderson is 24 years old and Mrs. Grant was 17 at the time of her death.

COPPER STOCK BROKER ACCUSED.

Duluth Man Charged With Withholding Shares.

Duluth.—W. J. Holman, the local copper stock broker, was arraigned before Judge Dibble in district court on an indictment charging grand larceny in the second degree. He waived the reading of the indictment and was held for trial, with bonds in the sum of $1,000. He was immediately released on a bond, which was signed by Alfred Merritt, Thomas Merritt, Le Roy Merritt, Nicholas E. Lugoff, Martin Rosenthal and Lee W. Farmer.

Holman is charged with withholding from Mrs. Wolanin, with the intention of appropriating to his own use, 150 shares of Butte and Superior and 100 shares of Chief Consolidated, valued at $284.75.

CORN CARNIVAL FOR LE ROY.

Superintendent A. D. Wilson to Deliver Address to Farmers.

Le Roy.—Charles C. Palmer, a merchant, has arranged to repeat, on Nov. 11, the corn carnival which proved a success last year, and has offered prizes for the best ten ears of yellow corn brought in by farmers and raised within fifteen miles of Le Roy. After the prizes have been awarded the visitors will be given a free lunch, and Superintendent A. D. Wilson, of the Minnesota Farmers' Institute, will deliver an address, he also will be selected to judge the entries. The corn carnival is helping to stimulate interest among the farmers in the county.

Davidson Looks Over Harbor. Duluth.—James A. Davidson, of Wisconsin, congressman and member of the rivers and harbors committee, made a tour of the Duluth and Superior harbor. The trip was made in the launch Vidette, and Congressman Davidson was accompanied by Lieut. Col. Graham D. Pitch, in charge of the government work in the harbor. RIOG COURT

SPECTATORS AT STEINHEIL TRIAL BREAK OUT INTO WILD DISORDER.

MAN MAKES A CONFESSION

Arises in Audience and Declares He, Not Mme. Steinhil, Committed Murders—Defendant Makes Wonderful Fight for Life.

Paris, Nov. 5.—While Mrs. Marguerite Steinhil, who is on trial for the murder of her husband and her step-mother, Mme. Jazy, was in the midst of the agonizing ordeal of her grueling examination, and when she broke out in angry denunciation of Presiding Judge de Valles, the courtroom burst into an uproar and before the municipal guards could grasp the situation the spectators were rioting. The riot of the hubbub was caused by the tense crowds filling the streets outside the Palais de Justice and there, too, pandemonium broke loose. Extra police were rushed to the scene, but it was many minutes before the violence was quelled.

The outbreak came when Mme. Steinhil, hysterical under the attack of the court, which had finally become a torture, raised her hands and cried out angrily that the attack on her story of the murder of her husband and her step-mother, Mme. Jazy, was without warrant. "I have told the truth! I swear my story is the truth!" she cried in a frenzy of anger at the taunts cast at her by the presiding magistrate, M. de Valles.

Man Makes Confession. A second scene of wild disorder was created when a man, who gave his name as Lefebvre, arose from his place in the audience and loudly proclaimed that he, and not Mme. Steinhil, was the slayer of M. Steinhil.

M. Steinhil, who had been confronted Lefebvre, but said that she was unable to recognize him as one of the murderers whom she had described. Judge de Valles ordered that Lefebvre be placed under arrest and an investigation of his statement be made.

Fights for Her Life. Mrs. Steinhil's examination was concluded in the assize court. She made a wonderful single-handed fight for her life. She displayed as much skill in confounding the judge as she had in baffling the police.

The beautiful defendant presented a dramatic figure in the dock, her black mourning gown accentuating the pallor of her face. When caught in the network of conflicting stories previously told she had recourse to tears, with uplifted eyes and arms extended made fervent appeals to the jury.

Faure Scandal is Revived. The scandal which broke out of the fatal illness of Felix Faure, president of France, at the prisoner's home and which a section of the press is endeavoring to revive, was mentioned at the trial, although Judge de Valles announced that it was not intended to shield anyone.

At one point in her testimony, however, the accused woman referred significantly to "a high political personage who had been my friend." She added that she did not desire to involve in this affair one who had been kind to her.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO RIVER

Four Unknown Persons, Perhaps Six, Including One Woman, Drowned—Bodies Not Recovered.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Four persons, perhaps six, including at least one woman, lost their lives in the Chicago river last night when an automobile in which they were riding, plunged through an open draw of the Jackson boulevard bridge and sank. One of the men passengers, in a desperate effort to save himself and a woman companion, availed himself of a rope and swung over the side of the bridge and his arms around his neck.

Persons who saw the heavy touring car fall into the water believe it held six passengers, including several women. The high speed at which the car was running and the failure of the chauffeur to repeat the danger signals are responsible for the catastrophe. The watchman on the bridge and occupants of two automobiles at the spot where the touring car was overturned agreed that the red danger signals were displayed and that the warning gong was ringing.

Police officers who were on duty at the time searched in vain following the accident to recover the bodies of the victims. When the accident happened it was raining heavily and the asphalt of the boulevard was slippery. The fated car drove down Jackson boulevard from the east at a speed of 30 miles an hour. The draw had opened to allow the passage of two steamships.

Oldest Engineer is Dead. Camden, N. J., Nov. 6.—Tatem Parsons, the first engineer of the famous locomotive John Bull, died here aged 90 years. Parsons had been the first man to handle the throttle of the famous engine, now in the national museum at Washington, Parsons was the oldest locomotive engineer in this country.

Resension Official is Dead. Washington, D. C., Nov. 6.—W. W. Coleman, principal examiner and assistant chief of the board of review of the United States pension office is dead at his home here.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passed down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her best and loveliest. Why isn't it so? The general health of women is so continually associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and rosy form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

La Follettes WEEKLY MAGAZINE A GREAT PROGRESSIVE WEEKLY

There are many reasons why you should read what it says 52 times each year. It is free to tell the truth. It will oppose the encroachment of special privileges upon the people's rights. It will call the roll on public men and measure and inform you how your congressmen work and vote. It will criticize the executive branch of government from the highest to the lowest. If, in its judgment, the people's interests are not protected. It will spread the gospel of ideal home life, thru the Woman's Department. It will be conservative, when good things are to be conserved and radical when bad things are to be exposed.

CORNELL

The potato warehouse is at present filled to the brim. Ed. Lewis was up from the cities over Sunday hunting.

An extra gang consisting of fifteen men are employed here now. Mr. J. F. Anderson, of Abraham, spent Sunday with the E. Peterson family.

Mrs. Butler arrived home last Saturday from a visit to her parents in Wisconsin.

It is understood that Mr. Johnson has traded his farm for a house and lot in Stillwater.

Mr. Oscar Thorson is home for a short visit, having spent the summer at Mohall, North Dakota.

Robert Dyson returned to St. Paul Monday morning after a couple of weeks visit with the Dysons.

We are glad to see Leon Bacon back to our community after a weeks' absence at Butler, Minnesota.

The dance given at De Frang's hall Saturday evening was well attended and a good time was had until a late hour.

Mrs. Hans Olson and family left Wednesday for Canada, where she will join her husband, who has a claim out there.

Miss Ellen Peterson, who has been visiting her brother, Edward for a week, returned to her home at Grass-on Monday.

Mrs. Edward Peterson entertained the Ladies' H. M. Society last Thursday afternoon. There was a splendid attendance.

Mrs. Edward Peterson, her son and oldest daughter went to Minneapolis Wednesday morning, where they will visit the rest of the week.

Rev. Parkins, of Brook Park, held services in the school house at 3:00 p. m. last Sunday. Services will be held next Sunday at the same hour.

The Misses Ruth Gustafson, of Grantburg, Wisconsin, and Anna Anderson, of Abraham, visited with Edward Peterson's family between trains Tuesday.

MEADOW LAWN (Specials)

Mrs. Gust Johnson did shopping in Pine City Monday.

Fred Spencer arrived Saturday and is visiting friends here.

Guy Chaffee is spending the week with his son Pearl and family.

Chas. Dile attended the sale Saturday at Lee Haberman's place near Beroun.

Miss Anna Neehan and children are here making an extended visit with relatives.

DEER VALLEY

Dick Caroon sold five or six head of cattle Saturday and delivered them at Rock Creek. He also delivered cattle at Rush City in order to fill a car.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce are on their way driving to Deer Valley with cattle, where they purchased 240 acres of land of Messrs. Gillig and Heine-man. That's the kind of people to sell to; those who move at once and stay.

The birthday party given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Heine-man last Sunday was certainly a surprise to the old couple, as they were totally ignorant of it. They received many handsome and valuable gifts. The dining table was heaped with the best things to eat the country could afford and everyone did justice to the meal before they. Everybody left late in the day feeling happy and wishing the old people many more such birthdays.

There being no further business appearing before the Board, same on motion adjourned to meet at the next regular meeting.
