SURELY AN AWFUL PREDICAMENT. ROCK CREEK MAN CUTS FOOT.

An article was read in last week's Pioneer in regard to "Tokens returned." This article was alright in a way, but happened to seriously affect the young gentleman for whose benefit it was written. He could not return the "tokens," they had accidentally been burned, and now this young gent wishes it to be distinctly understood that the author (authorship) of this article was "slamming" him (her) self more than the intended victim.

As this young gent is quite a star in the social set of Pine City, he considers the article a detriment to his untarnished character.

Not knowing who his writer of the article may be, and caring less, the young gentleman will say no more on the subject, but wishes his friends to pay no attention to such rot hereafter. The tokens were entirely useless, anyway.

Richard Caroon, who resides east of Rock Creek, had the misfortune to cut his right leg quite badly on Tuesday afternoon.

He was out with his brother, James, after a load of wood. After the wood was loaded, James drove a double-bitted ax into a log on the load. Dick was standing up driving the team and in going along the road the sled was thrown into a pitch hole, throwing him backward. He knowing that the ax was there, reached back and caught hold of the handle as he was falling, in order to save himself, but one blade of the ax cut a gash about four inches long in his right leg, between the knee and hip.

Mrs. Dr. Toffa was called to dress the wound, which required six stitches.

WHICH DAY?

Another Pioneer Reader Answers The Pointed Questions Asked Last Week.

Dear Pioneer:— Permit me, through the columns of your valuable paper, to answer the bold challenge of one who evidently "thanks God that he is not as other men are," who remember the LORD'S Day, to keep it holy.

But I must be brief and to the point. Are Christians justified in keeping Sunday, instead of the old Sabbath? In answer to this question your correspondent, who undoubtedly is a Seventh Day Adventist, tells your readers it is Wrong.

He does not hesitate to infer that we are the anti-Christ, that we are not the true church of God, because we are worshipping on Sunday instead of on the old Sabbath Day.

The great trouble is that he, and so many people in the church of God these days, do not know the difference between the civil, the ceremonial and the moral law, nor are they able to distinguish between the moral and the ceremonial law in the Ten Commandments.

It is a fact that a law must be obeyed forever; if there is no difference between ceremonial and moral law, then no doubt the Seventh Day Adventists are correct, and we are wrong for worshipping on the first day of the week instead of the seventh; for the Lord God created the heavens and the earth in six days and on the seventh day He rested from all His labors; and when He gave the law to Moses, on Mount Sinai, He put the word "Remember" in only one commandment and that was "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy."

If the ten commandments are wholly moral, that commandment stands today, and it is wrong that we should worship on Sunday.

But, I claim just the opposite, that the first day of the week is the day on which we should worship; that the "seventh day" was ceremonial. The ten commandments are partly ceremonial and essentially moral. The fact that the ten commandments speak of leading the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, is ceremonial; you and I were not led out of Egypt. The fact that they were to keep the "seventh day" was ceremonial. The morality of the Sabbath Day does not consist in its being the seventh day of the week, but in its being the seventh part of our time! The apostle tells us that we should not let any man judge us in respect of an holy day, or of the new moon or of Sabbath-Days which are a shadow of things to come, but the body is of Christ." Col. 2: 16-17.

The difference between the ceremonial and moral part of that law.—Consequently the Lord Jesus Christ made no difference between one day and the other, no difference whether He healed the sick on the Sabbath-Day or any other day; no difference whether He rubbed the ointment with His disciples on the Sabbath Day, or some other day; He was healing on all days alike and made them all Sabbaths, bringing forth the reflection of Himself from heaven.

There are some strange things about this Sabbath Day that ought not to be overlooked. Every day in the week is accepted by some portion of the human race as the day of rest. Christians worship on Sunday; Greeks, Monday; Persians, Tuesday; Assyrians, Wednesday; Egyptians, Thursday; Turks, Friday; Jews, Saturday.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving Day Was Observed in An Appropriate and Fitting Manner. Dance In Evening.

In accordance with the time honored custom, and in compliance with the Proclamations issued by President Taft and Governor Eberhardt the citizens of this place observed yesterday as a day of Thanksgiving.

In the morning Union Thanksgiving service was held in the Methodist church. Rev. Paddock, of the Presbyterian church, preaching the sermon. The service only lasted an hour, so the congregation had plenty of time to go home and get ready for their Thanksgiving turkey.

The young people spent the day in recreations of different sorts, and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

In the evening the Fire Department gave one of their enjoyable dances in Stekl's hall. The dance was well attended, and those present report having had a fine time.

The music, which consisted of a three piece orchestra from St. Paul, was exceedingly good.

The boys cleared a neat little sum that will be placed in their treasury.

Taking the day as a whole it was observed in a thankful manner by our citizens.

seventh day, when we find that the Lord Jesus Christ wanted a day of rest after redemption as well as He wanted one in the beginning after Creation.

The work of Creation was not as great a work, as the work of Redemption. The greatest work God ever did was when He redeemed the world, and while it is a fact that He finished Redemption on the cross, so far as suffering and death are concerned, it is not true that Redemption was finished for the world until He had slept in the grave and conquered death, and came forth the glorious Redeemer on Easter morning.

Just as the Sabbath followed the work of Creation, so there had to be a greater Sabbath follow the greater work of Redemption, and that greater Sabbath was the day called in the Book of Revelations "the Lord's Day," on which we find the apostle meeting, the first day; on which the risen Saviour the first two Sundays after His resurrection, stepped into the midst of His disciples and said: "Peace be unto you;" on which the Holy Ghost descended upon the apostles and touched their lips with fire, that they might preach the gospel to the world; on which we find the Christians "meeting at Troas, and Paul preaching to them and partaking of the Lord's Supper with them, Acts 20:7; on which Paul admonishes the churches to lay aside their contributions, 1 Cor. 16:2; on which after the days of the apostles the early church met, and if in the days of persecution they were asked the question, as a test of their religion, "hast thou kept the Lord's Day," they would answer, "I am a Christian, I cannot omit it." I do not say that the first day of the week is the only day to worship, but I do say of all the other six days there is no day so appropriate as that great memorial day of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

This justifies Christians in worshipping God on Sunday.

WHEN A COMET TELLS ON EARTH WHAT MIGHT TAKE PLACE IF HALLEY'S COMET WERE SHIPWRECKED AS BIELA'S WAS

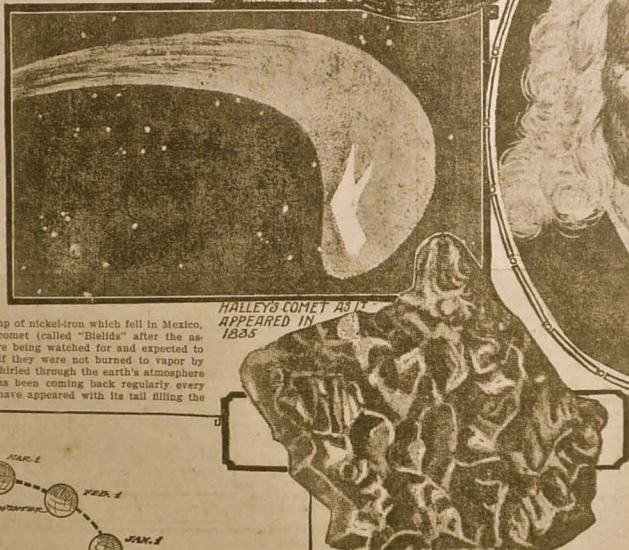

THE astronomers announce that Halley's comet is approaching the earth at the rate of a million miles a day. As Halley's is the most splendidly attractive (otherwise the most alarming) of all our regular comets, they add that we need not fear that it will strike the earth, because it will not come closer to us than 13,000,000 miles.

This is the scientific schedule, but that does not keep any one who wishes to be inspired with proper awe on the approach of our most remarkable comet, from asking what might take place if, for any reason it leaves the scientific schedule, as Biela's comet did when it did the most remarkable thing thus far known in the history of the solar system since men have begun to watch the sky. That is, after coming back over and over on schedule time, until it was supposed to be as regular as the earth itself, it split in two, underwent final shipwreck somewhere in the heavens, and according to the last supposed to be known of it, fell on earth several hundred miles southeast of El Paso, Tex.

The probability that this was the last of that comet is conceded by such cautious astronomers as Prof. Young of Princeton. It is an authentic record, valued because it is about as near the history of Biela's comet as we will ever get. It is certainly lost, and it is thought that we have the last trace of it on earth now in a lump of nickel-iron which fell in Mexico, when supposed fragments of the lost comet (called "Bielsids" after the astronomer, Biela, who discovered it) were being watched for and expected to fall in a shower somewhere on earth, if they were not burned to vapor by heat from friction as they were being whirled through the earth's atmosphere in falling. Although Halley's comet has been coming back regularly every 76 or 77 years since it is supposed to have appeared with its tail filling the sky before the fall of Jerusalem, it may end finally as Biela's comet did, falling in a star shower on earth, or on some other planet, or into the sun, or scattering through space around the sun in masses perhaps of nickel-iron, unless on earth, unless the earth captures them out of space and sets them blazing through the sky as they fall.

Suppose we were to capture Halley's comet and it were really to fall, what would become of the earth or of the comet?

That is a fair question for all who wish to learn a proper lesson from our finest regular comet. It may offer something to take the places of the unscientific awe which used to send thousands to their knees, remembering their sins and praying for pardon as soon as Halley's comet began to spread its magnificent tail across the sky. In other words, it made them try to think, which was no doubt, the best thing a comet could do for them.

Another important question is whether Halley's comet will bring its magnificent tail back with it, restored to its ancient and awful splendor. If it does not, the world, learned and unlearned, will be disappointed, for a comet without a tail is not a tail or sublime enough to be worth gazing with enthusiasm at its repeat over. We cannot talk about the tail. It may come back with the comet, reduced to per cent, or it may finally be lost altogether or torn back to awful magnificence, streaming across the sky in such a spectacle as can be hoped for in earth only once in a lifetime.

If it recovers its tail to its full historic splendor, Halley will be too magnificent a comet to be lost, according to the ways of looking at comets. It is not a within range of the earth and be captured and sent to the surface? If so, would it jar the earth in its orbit or set the planet on fire?

All we wish to know is the way of a final answer to these questions as they belong to the complete and final loss of Biela's comet is given officially now in the records of Mexico in the statement recorded by Senor Jose Bonilla, director of the astronomical observatory in the state of Zacatecas. In November, 1885, it was supposed that between the twenty-fourth and twenty-ninth of the month the earth would pass in space through or near the fragments left by Biela's comet. As they were then called "Bielsids" it had been concluded that they were a swarm of hundreds of thousands or perhaps of millions of small masses of meteoric matter, perhaps weighing from an ounce up to a ton or more. It was feared that if the earth passed through them and drew them to the surface in daylight they would not be seen at all, but would either burn up in gas or else fall in a few scattering stones on distant parts of the earth. This may have occurred in other places, but on a ranch near Mazquil, in the state of Zacatecas, one of them (or a mass of nickel-iron belonging to some group of the same kind) was seen to fall and recovered at once by the owner of the ranch, who made the deposition taken down in Spanish by Senor Bonilla and translated by William Earl Hilden, to close the last chapter in the story of Biela's lost comet.

"It was about 7 o'clock on the night of November 27 (1885)," said the ranchman in his deposition, "when I went out to the corral to feed the horses. Suddenly I heard a loud, ringing noise, exactly as though something red hot was being plunged into cold water and almost instantly there followed a somewhat loud thud. At once the corral was covered with a phosphorescent light, while sparks in the air were small, luminous showers as though from a rocket. I had not removed from my surprise before I saw this luminous air disappear and there remained on the ground only such a light as is made when a match is rubbed. A number of people came running towards me from the neighboring houses and they helped me to quiet the horses, which had become much excited. We were afraid of being burned. We all asked what could be the matter. In a few moments, when we had recovered from our fear, we saw the light disappear. Bringing lanterns, we found a hole in the ground and in it a ball of light. We retired to a little distance, fearing it would explode and harm us. Looking up to the sky, we saw exhalations or stars which went out without noise. We returned after a little and found in the hole a hot stone we could barely handle. This, on the next day, we saw looked like a piece of iron. All night it rained stars. We saw none fall to the ground, as they all seemed to be extinguished while yet high up."

"If this stone, the only one known to have reached the earth since the 'rain of stars,' in all that is left of Biela's comet, there is 10 1/2 pounds left of it in the shape of a mass of iron ore, showing such 'pits' from contraction after great heat as the telescope shows in a much larger way on the face of the moon.

As this was considered the most distinguished visitor that had ever reached the earth from infinite space it was presented as a mark of his distinguishing consideration by Prof. Bonilla to William Earl Hilden, as one of the most distinguished American mineralogists, who was also an authority on meteors and meteoric minerals. Analysis showed that it was 91.25 per cent iron, 7.84 per cent nickel, 65-100 per cent cobalt, 30-100 per cent phosphorus, with traces of sulphur, carbon and chlorine. Mr. Hilden wrote its history in the American Journal of Science in the century Magazine of August, 1885. He answered the question, "Is it a piece of a comet?" by summing up the evidence in connection with the known history of Biela's lost comet, since it split in 1846 and returned as two comets in 1852, to disappear finally in what were supposed to be a swarm of "Bielsids."

"At the time of the fall of this meteorite" (in Mexico), Hilden writes, "it was 10 hours after the maximum number of meteors was observed. The earth was meeting with only the stragglers of the train. It cannot be doubted that the comical dust proceeding from the disintegration of Biela's comet wholly enveloped the earth and was seen as meteors from every part of it. Such was the magnificence of the celestial phenomena in some parts of the eastern continent that some people believed there would be no more stars left in the sky."

Biela's comet had returned regularly in a period of a little less than seven years until it underwent complete shipwreck in the heavens. No one ever expects to see it again. The end, as far as known, is in this star shower in the night the Bonilla Biela was picked up in Mazquil, to give us the best knowledge we have of what may be expected when a comet falls.

Biela's lost comet does not compare with Biela's, which must have billions of stones or small and large masses of matter, probably nickel-iron, in its magnificent head. If it were shipwrecked by Jupiter, by the earth or by any other planet, these, if they were drawn close enough by the planet to break the hold the sun has on them, may do a number of interesting things.

They might revolve around the earth at a distance, collecting in such a ring as that of Saturn, which is supposed to be composed of an infinite number of such stones, or they might whirl closer and closer revolving around it until finally the largest of them which do not burn up in the atmosphere by friction, must fall as this Biela fell in Mexico. The hope of getting a beautiful earth ring, such as that of Saturn's, by capturing comets, is very small, if only because comets have not matter enough in them to make it

"Are you a woman suffragist?" asked the one who was not interested.

"Indeed, I am not," replied the other most emphatically.

"Oh, that's too bad, but just supposing you were, what would you support in the present campaign?"

"The same man I've always supported, of course," was the apt reply—"my husband."

SCHLICE BROTHERS.

In W. F. Glasow's Building.

DO YOU USE LINIMENT?

Of course you do and of course you would like to know how to get the best and the most for your money. Here is the proposition right at home. Simply buy a bottle of Holler's White Liniment. A bottle as large as any $1.00 bottle for only 50 cents, guaranteed to give satisfaction for any external use and you only have to use one-half as much of this to get the same results as of others, as there is no waste when using. Not only that, but it saves you the expense of buying salve for cuts, galls, sore necks on horses, sore teats on cows, or, in fact, any external ailments.

When your liniment bottle gets low don't get hasty and buy the first liniment you can get, but just stop to think how you can save some money and go into Ryback's store and ask for a bottle of Holler's White Liniment, or go to Holler's residence in Pine City. It is also for sale at Beroun, Rock Creek and the Mercantile Company's store at Rush City.

Made and sold by I. A. Holler, Pine City, Minnesota.

Many boys and girls who cannot keep bats have a little make up of wild birds and animals. Even fish in a pond will come to know you if you feed them regularly, and they will follow you round the edge of the pond and at last grow so tame as to take food out of the hand. They will even come into the shallow and allow themselves to be patted. You will find it easiest to make friends of fish of the carp family.

TELLS YOU TO MARRY.

Bishop Delaney Urges Early Unions and Advises Men Not to Delay Until 35.

Manchester, N. H.—In talking to his people at St. Joseph's cathedral, recently, Bishop Delaney said there were but 50 marriages at the cathedral during last year, ten of which were mixed—too many of the latter, he said, and enough of the former. Mixed marriages, he continued, are not to be encouraged, as the church is against them. They are performed, not because the church is willing, but because, in a majority of instances, the contracting parties would go to the city clerk or a justice of the peace to have the knot tied.

The bishop urged the young people to get married and to do so soon. Some men, he said, think it well enough to wait until they are 35 before getting married, but at this age a man has lived the best part of his life. He is an old bachelor and the wife he chooses is generally a prim old maid. Too long courtships are not advisable, said the bishop. He advised the fathers and mothers of young men to give the young man six months to call upon his lady love, and if in this time his intentions do not prove serious, to inform him that he had better go.

Many young people contend they cannot afford to get married, as they cannot get money enough to warrant it, said Bishop Delaney, but if they did not spend so much money on each other in presents and in going about, they could save sufficient money to buy a nice home and to live comfortably.

"You take dot, girl I broke your head," cried the little German, fiercely, as he made a sudden and determined rush forward with the rake he had been using.

But the young man only reached out and caught the rake handle in a firm grip, at the same time smiling down at his wrathful assailant.

"Let me explain, Hans," he urged.

"There ain't no explainin'," stormed the German. "You got off away, quick. My girl ain't for no college man dot want work dot play mit golf sticks and wear white clothes and safe no business. She better as dot. Her fader make rich money, and gif her everything to earn and to travel, and to wear. Dot all a mistake. I not going but to lay man round mit her."

"But I merely called to pay my respects and—"

"And make promise to call mit her some more, and talk, and talk, and pretty soon when we not looking there be run off for marry. But I got no use for college man who haf no strength for work."

The young man stretched out an arm suggestively.

"Pretty good specimen, that," he remarked. "It helped do some record-breaking in the college nine, and went with me into a good many football rubbles. Gif try the muscle."

Hans's face showed his disgust.

"Und maybe it fine to hold a golf stick," he sneered, "and swing a cane. You need to be ashamed."

The young man laughed.

"Look here, Mr. Strohm," he explained, "can't you and I manage to hit it off in some way? Haven't I heard Lena—Miss Strohm—say that you need more laborers in the hay-making?"

"I not need you," grimly, "I hire men who work."

"Well, try me," boldly. "You have some greenhorns who have to learn. I suppose you can rate wages accordingly."

"You want to fix to be mit Lena?"

"Does Miss Strohm go out to the hay fields or the laborers visit your parlor? I understand they eat with your farm manager. If I am not at work I shall very likely be loafing about with my golf sticks, and will be sure to meet your niece occasionally."

"Yes, dot he so," reluctantly. "If you be working you need not see Lena some more, and we make you just so hard dot you think more 'bout going when night come than 'bout going for walk. Yes, I think I do him dot way, Mr. Rayner, or whatever your name may be. I take you for my hired man, and I pay you maybe, 50 cents for day—more than you be worth."

"Very well, that will be perfectly satisfactory. You may fix wages according to my services. I shall come on this afternoon. But you needn't use the word 'mister'; just call me 'Bill.'"

Hans grunted.

"Ain't no need say dot," he answered. "We ain't haf no mister in our hay field. But we haf one Bill now, so we shall call you Billy."

The first day Billy did his work awkwardly, though his trained, knotted muscles enabled him to do a larger amount of it than most of the old hands. But before the end of the second day the same facilities which had brought him to the lead in college and other contests set him to taking the lead in the field. Hans looked on with wonder, a little disappointment, but finally with approval. Above all things in his estimation was a good workman.

"If you not dress so well, Billy," he remonstrated one day, "you be more like good workman. Everything you wear seems like it made right on you."

"Which, in a way, I suppose it was," laughed Billy. "But look here, Hans, I heard you tell Tommy Dodd yesterday that he ought to dress a little better, and there was Pete Dury right beside him. And whose clothing wasn't nearly so good. And yet you said nothing to Pete."

"Because Pete not able to buy more like Tommy and nobody to look out for ought to dress respectably."

"Yes, I think so. But the other workmen dress better than Tommy, and you dress better than the other workmen. How is that?"

"Shake Hands, Billy," He Said.

"I understand they eat with your farm manager. If I am not at work I shall very likely be loafing about with my golf sticks, and will be sure to meet your niece occasionally."

"Yes, dot he so," reluctantly. "If you be working you need not see Lena some more, and we make you just so hard dot you think more 'bout going when night come than 'bout going for walk. "Curtiss said that in motoring and in flying for many weeks," said he told me about a Kansas farmhand who'd have made a splendid flyer.

"Curtiss said he once came upon this farmhand at the top of a long, steep hangar here. He had an old-fashioned safety bicycle, and he knelt beside it, taking off the chain.

"'What's the matter?' Curtiss asked."

"'Nothin' drawn the farmhand, calmly. 'I'm jest takin' this here chain off to freezeeal down the bill.'"

HORTICULTURE

BULBS ARE EASILY GROWN

Timely Suggestions Regarding the Raising of Bulbs Either in Water or Soil.

(EVA HYMAN-GALLOD.)

Bulbs should be potted in fairly rich soil that has been pulverized until fine from lumps; be given a good watering, have the soil well firmed around them, but not packed hard under, and be kept in a cool, dark place until root growth is well established. Nothing is gained by bringing bulbs to the light too soon, and often the beauty of their flowers is sacrificed by so doing.

Leave them in their cool, dark quarters until the roots show at the opening in the bottom of the pot and the foliage is an inch or more high.

Narrow and Distant Planting.

This is not entirely a new industry, but it has never received an impetus until the government took hold of the matter recently.

The demand for this product is growing. There are a number of varieties of willows, but those adapted to basket making thrive best where they are not shaded. They do not necessarily require marshy lands, but because they need a good, rich soil and cannot tolerate shade, they are generally found where other trees do not exist.

Rods grown on moist, rich, well-drained bottom land are more flexible, tougher and less branchy than those grown on undrained marshy land. These trees will thrive on land that will produce a very poor quality of grass.

The closer planting of basket willows produces longer and more uniform rods.

Some think the wide planting gives more rods, but there is a question as to the total yield of good stock being greater.

In most cases the ground is prepared for willows exactly as for corn or wheat and the work is generally done in the fall. The sprouts are planted at varying distances in the rows and the rows are spaced 2 to 3 feet apart. With the rows planted this distance apart it is best to use a horse cultivator.

When the plants were from ordinary seed sown in the spring (March 1) in the open ground. The soil was rich and the plants had partial shade. They received frequent doses of water and liquid manure to increase the size and brilliancy of the flowers. No seed pods were allowed to ripen on the plants, as this would have shortened the blooming season. During part of the remarkably long flowering period, we had only scattering bloom because the plants were kept pruned in order to give the best results during the cool seasons. We gave the plants a protection of manure and straw from December to March.

At the end of the following May, after the plants had flowered for two months and the blossoms had begun to run small, we removed all branches as long as eight inches, and by June the plants were again in full flower. The next day they were picked clean and slightly pruned, but in less than a week they were once more covered with buds. They sent up buds promptly and continuously, but these were plucked off in order to keep the strength of the plants for fall bloom. On August 9 one plant had two dozen buds. The following week the plants came into full bloom, and in order to still hold them in check until cool weather it was necessary to prune back an again.

The size and number of the flowers were as surprising as their persistency. One, picked after several hot, dry days, had seven inches in circumference. We had only about a dozen plants, but they yielded thousands of flowers. At the height of the Trimming Fruit Trees.

Apple trees and other fruit trees that were trimmed last winter and spring will now begin to produce sprouts around the scars. Much future labor may be saved if the orchard is gone over every few weeks during the summer and these sprouts rubbed off or cut off. Not allowing them to grow will conserve the food supply of the tree and it will be used for growth in desired branches.

HAVE PANSIES YEAR ROUND

Seed Was Sown in March in Open Ground, Receiving Manure and Water Liberally.

Pansy plants blooming at midsummer, and being either in bud or full flower every month of the year with the exception of January and February, are almost unheard-of. Nevertheless, we succeeded in obtaining such results and without a coldframe, too, writes I. M. Angell in Garden Magazine.

The plants were from ordinary seed sown in the spring (March 1) in the open ground. The soil was rich and the plants had partial shade. They received frequent doses of water and liquid manure to increase the size and brilliancy of the flowers. No seed pods were allowed to ripen on the plants, as this would have shortened the blooming season. During part of the remarkably long flowering period, we had only scattering bloom because the plants were kept pruned in order to give the best results during the cool seasons. We gave the plants a protection of manure and straw from December to March.

At the end of the following May, after the plants had flowered for two months and the blossoms had begun to run small, we removed all branches as long as eight inches, and by June the plants were again in full flower. The next day they were picked clean and slightly pruned, but in less than a week they were once more covered with buds. They sent up buds promptly and continuously, but these were plucked off in order to keep the strength of the plants for fall bloom. On August 9 one plant had two dozen buds. The following week the plants came into full bloom, and in order to still hold them in check until cool weather it was necessary to prune back an again.

The size and number of the flowers were as surprising as their persistency. One, picked after several hot, dry days, had seven inches in circumference. We had only about a dozen plants, but they yielded thousands of flowers. At the height of the

When trees are affected with peach yellow they should be exterminated, root and branch.

A fortune is waiting the propagator of a hardy red raspberry. But quality must not be sacrificed for hardness.

No fruit should be allowed to go to waste as long as there is a possibility of making cider, vinegar and unfermented grape juice.

Very few pears are at their best if allowed to ripen on the tree. A good rule is to pick when the seeds have turned brown.

Our orchards are largely what we make them. Good cultivation, tender care and knowledge of conditions make for success in fruit growing.

Wood ashes are of use for fertilizer in the orchard. A combination of wood ashes and manure in the orchard is considered an excellent fertilizer for apple trees.

Apples keep best when allowed to hang on the trees until they reach maturity, but this does not mean soft and ripe. It is a common fallacy that green, immature fruit will keep the best.

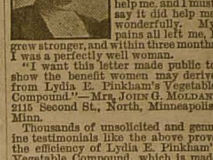

One packer is authority for the statement that the cost of picking apples varies from seven cents per barrel where the trees are low, to 20 cents per barrel where the trees are large and limbs high.

FAVORS STATE RULE

GOVERNOR EBERHART EXPRESSES HIS VIEW ON PUBLIC POLICIES.

WANTS MORE BUSINESS SPIRIT

Injected into the Methods of the Various Departments of State Government.

St. Paul.—I want the state oil and boiler inspection done in a businesslike manner, and when I advocate the abolition of those departments I do not advocate the abolition of the inspection. I think we could have better inspection at less cost.

This statement was made by Gov. A. O. Eberhart to supplement his speech at Minneapolis, in which he advocated a number of reforms which the state might bring about.

If the law were more strict and certain standards for oil established and then severe penalties provided for any company selling oil not up to standard, the state would not need to spend $60,000 a year for oil inspection," he explained.

"Boiler inspection could also be improved and made more businesslike. In some cases the fee is not large enough to cover the cost of the inspector's trip and in many cases the inspector gets big fees for doing little besides regular work. The inspection could be put on a business basis, paying the inspector for the work he does and not paying for political work."

WON'T SELL TO INDIANS. Prosecutions Will Start if Pledges are Violated.

While people in the northern part of the state have been led to believe that the department of the interior has stopped all attempts to get evidence against liquor dealers selling intoxicants to Indians, secretary of the Prohibition party has said that special officers have been at work steadily since the first prosecutions and information, sufficient to convict, has been obtained against five dealers at Grand Marais, one of the points at which the illegal trade is said to have centered.

Three officers arrived at that village, which is located on the north shore of Lake Superior in Cook county, about Nov. 1. Aided by residents of the town who had entered complete evidence against the places selling to Indians was quickly gathered. In accordance with the policy of the department of the interior, the saloonkeepers are called to the court house and confronted with the evidence.

Instead of starting the prosecution, the special officers presented a complete set of conditions, which bound the dealers not to sell intoxicants to the Indians or to allow Indians in their saloons or barrooms and to immediately give information against any person doing so.

The signatures of every saloonkeeper and bartender in Grand Marais was obtained to the document. This was then sent to headquarters, with the evidence which had been obtained.

Another Conviction at Virginia. Duluth.—Frank Sattler, a Minn. miner, was found guilty of murder in the first degree in the district court of Virginia. It took the jury twenty-five hours to agree. Sattler killed Lawrence Koppe at Ely, Aug. 9 last. He had quarreled with Tony Jenko, a companion. He saw Jenko enter Koppe's house and knock down the door, thinking Jenko would appear. Koppe responded instead and Sattler felled him with an ax. Koppe died a few days later. This is the second conviction for murder in the first degree in the county within a week.

Lad Kills His Sister. Bemidji.—Louise Gagnon, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vital Gagnon, living near Quilting postoffice, this county, was shot and instantly killed, the result of a mistake of her 10-year-old brother, who aimed a rifle at the little girl and pulled the trigger. The little fellow thought the gun was not loaded.

Dr. Boyd Dead. Alexandria.—Dr. Harlow James Boyd, one of the prominent surgeons of northern Minnesota, died suddenly, supposedly from a stroke of apoplexy. His death was not discovered by the family until a messenger went to his room to summon him to the telephone.

Three Injured in Crash. Duluth.—A coasting boat crashed into an auto. Duetta Rose, Tena Harvey, and Esther Ecklin, were injured. All three are reported in a critical condition. The auto was driven by Herbert Harold, 107 Minneapolis.

AKLEY SAWMILL IS BURNED. Loss Estimated at One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Akeley.—A fire completely destroyed the saw mill and sorting department of the Red Pine Lumber company here. The loss is estimated at well up to $100,000. The cause of the fire is unknown. The company is controlled by T. B. Walker of Minneapolis. The fire left the boiler house adjoining the main plant and did not touch the yards.

STATE CORN TO RUSSIA.

Finest Product Desired By European Government.

Minnesota corn will be taken to Russia, for the Russian government, as a sample of the best corn grown in the United States. Professor Michael, who has been appointed corn breeder for the Russian department of agriculture, will leave Dec. 1, taking the Minnesota product with him. A. F. Anundsen, president of the First National bank of Detroit, will obtain the corn. The following letter has been written to Mr. Anundsen by Professor P. G. Holden, the noted corn breeder of the Iowa State Agricultural College, Ames, Iowa:

"Professor Michael, whom I have recommended to the Russian government as a corn breeder, has received the appointment. The government has authorized Mr. Michael to bring with him to Russia some of our best varieties of corn. The best Northwestern dent I know of is grown at Detroit, so I am asking you to get a bushel for Mr. Michael. If you can get a bushel each of one or two of your best dent corns, I will appreciate it. The government has made a liberal allowance for the cost of the corn and will pay an extra price for extra selected corn showing breed type. Mr. Michael leaves Dec. 1, so if you could express five bushels of corn at the earliest convenience, it would be appreciated."

Minnesota this year produced 58,464,000 bushels of corn, compared with 57,000,000 bushels in 1913. The quality was the finest in the United States at 92 per cent, and the yield per acre the largest ever attained in this corn belt. The bushels of corn needed even the acreage production of the noted corn state, Iowa, which had 31.5 bushels.

MILLION FOR POSTOFFICES. U. S. Treasury Inspector Tells of New Buildings for Minnesota.

Minneapolis.—"The United States government has appropriated about $1,000,000 for new postoffices in the state of Minnesota," says Major W. Haverstick, general inspector for the United States treasury department. "Minneapolis will have a new building, Duluth, Fargo, and Grand Marais, and other Minnesota towns that will get new buildings are Austin, Alexandria, Brainerd, Crookston, Faribault, Moorhead, New Ulm, Red Wing, Rochester, Virginia and Willmar."

Major Haverstick is here to inspect the federal building, but is concerned only with the operation and equipment of the office. "Minneapolis is not getting a new postoffice any sooner than it needs one," he continued. "A tremendous amount of work is required for the construction of a government building. The plans are made in Washington and every lock and hinge eventually is accounted for. This all takes time and these outlying towns will not get their buildings for about two years."

EIGHT PERSONS POISONED. Children at Play Mixed Arsenic With Baking Powder.

Montgomery.—Joseph Edol, a farmer, and his seven children are sick from arsenic poisoning. Some of the children, in the absence of their parents, found a package of arsenic which had been placed behind a clock by Mr. Edol after he had used some of it for a horse. The children, thinking it baking powder, emptied it into the baking powder can in the pantry. On Wednesday, Mrs. Edol used it in making biscuits, of which Mr. Edol and the seven children ate freely. Mrs. Edol did not eat any of the biscuits, as she did not do with the rest of the family, but was waiting upon them and doing other work about the kitchen. Everything is being done to save the children, but yet the physician cannot tell what the outcome will be.

AMERICANS KILLED

PAY WITH LIVES FOR PARTICIPATION IN NICARAGUA REBELLION.

WARSHIPS SENT TO SCENE

Five Hundred Sympathizers With Revolution Are Summarily Shot by Order of Zelaya—Tact Cuts Off Intercourse with Enemy.

Washington, Nov. 19.—With two Americans believed to have been executed by order of President Zelaya, two American war vessels being rushed to Nicaragua and the new Nicaraguan minister's presentation to President Taft being held up, there is definitely a diplomatic tangle of great breadth and of almost endless possibilities has developed within a few hours.

Indications point to complications that may upset the peace of Central and South America. Should present reports receive full corroboration, the United States government will deal with this situation with an iron hand, according to intimations from a high source.

Unusual Gravity Exists. Unusual gravity, aside from the killing of Americans, rests in the attitude of the foreign governments. It will, of course, not be conceded by any official that ulterior motives of a foreign power are back of the disturbance in Nicaragua, but it is openly discussed. The name of Germany has often been mentioned.

An official dispatch received from the American vice-consul at Managua, announced that President Zelaya had directed the shooting of LeRoy Cannon and Leonard Groce, two American citizens, who had been in Nicaragua as members of the revolutionary forces, after a court-martial, and that he did so over the protest of the commander-in-chief of the Nicaraguan army and the minister general of the republic. The vice-consul said the execution was ordered by President Zelaya, undoubtedly through personal antagonism, and that lawyers he had consulted described it as "unwarrantable savagery."

The cruiser Vichare, which has been ordered to Corinto and the gunboat Des Moines will proceed at once to Port Limon to observe events there and report the situation by wireless telegraph.

Drastic measures will be adopted by the United States to obtain reparation from the government of Nicaragua. President Zelaya will be called upon to give immediate satisfaction for the outrage.

The demand will be couched in stern language, and will require a formal apology, a salute to the American flag, and perhaps the payment without delay of an indemnity for the deaths of the heirs of the deceased. Failure to make instant compliance will cause the government to consider the observance of one of the three following plans:

1. Recognition of the belligerency of the insurgents, now operating in and controlling the eastern half of Nicaragua. 2. Seizure of the custom house at Corinto, the single port of Nicaragua, which is held by the government. 3. Declaration of war.

It is possible the first two measures may be taken simultaneously. Temporarily by the Nicaraguan government will not be permitted.

DR. CLEMENSON IS GUILTY. Jury Quickly Reaches Verdict—Prison Sentence and Life Imprisonment for Wife Murder.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Dr. Halinao Clemenson of Chicago, who was the murderer of his wife, Nora Jane Clemenson, by a jury in Judge McSurely's court, and his punishment was fixed at imprisonment for life. Only one jurist stood between the accused physician and the gallows. The final verdict was reached after 12 men had deliberated less than three hours and four ballots had been taken.

When the verdict was read, Clemenson, who had looked for acquittal, merely gripped the arms of the chair in which he sat more tightly. His face wore the same calm expression that has characterized his appearance since his arrest.

Mrs. Clemenson was found dead in her bed at the family residence May 30. Her husband telephoned to Dr. Paul Hulbert and told him that burglars had entered his home, chloroformed him and his wife, and stolen a gold watch. Later Clemenson denied the burglar story, saying he had invented it to save the honor of his children and attributed his wife's death to suicide.

HE DISCOVERED THE CULPRIT

Announcement of School Principal Not at All Comforting to the Teacher.

One of the women teachers went to the principal of a school in Queen's borough the other day. "Mr. Mark," she said, "I think you had better go upstairs. A substitute teacher is on duty up there, and I am afraid she is having a terrible time. The noise is so terrific the children don't sleep scarcely on study."

The principal went up the stairs two steps at a time, and the noise soon ceased. When he returned to the lower room his face was grim. "Miss Henderson," he said, "if you hear any more of those noises let me know at once."

"Indeed I will," she replied. "It is simply outrageous that parents should bring their children up so they will behave that way. Did you find out who the children were?" "Yes, I found out," the principal said, scowling. "One is your nephew and the other is my son," he replied, and the woman teacher almost collapsed.—New York Press.

Eating for strength. The greatest pleasure to be derived from any diet is the pleasure one gets in the knowledge that his food is giving him greater strength and vitality.

Because of this fact there is a constant increase in the consumption of Quaker Oats; every time the strength making qualities of Quaker Oats have been tested by scientific investigation or by experiments in families it has been found to be a food without an equal.

It builds the muscles and brain without taxing the digestive organs; it costs so little anyone can afford it, and it is so carefully prepared and packed that it is absolutely pure and clean. A Quaker Oats eating family is always a healthy family.

Quaker Oats is packed in regular size packages and also in large size family packages. The latter very convenient for those not near the store.

Ready for the End. The rector and a farmer were discussing the subject of pork one day and the rector displayed considerable interest in a pen of good-sized Berkshire pigs. "Ah, sir, if we was all of us only as fit to die as they be, sir, we'd do"—London News.

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indecent. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's practice to give a great many women who have found a relief for modesty in his office of FREE consultation letters. All correspondence should be held in a strictly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

La Follettes WEEKLY MAGAZINE A GREAT PROGRESSIVE WEEKLY

There are many reasons why you should read what it says 52 times each year. It is free to tell the truth. It will oppose the encroachment of special privileges upon the people's rights. It will call the roll on public men and measure and inform you how your congressmen work and vote. It will criticize the executive branch of government from the highest to the lowest, if, in its judgment, the people's interests are not protected. It will spread the gospel of ideal home life, thru the Woman's Department. It will be conservative, when good things are to be conserved and radical when bad things are to be exposed.

THE TEST OF MERIT

Pine City People Are Given Convincing Proof

No better test of any article can be made than the test of time and this is particularly true of a kidney medicine. Doan's Kidney Pills have stood this test and stood it well. What better proof of the merits of this remedy could you demand, than the statement of a Pine City resident who has been cured and stayed cured?

Read the following:

Mrs. Albert Glasow, 3rd St. west of Main St., Pine City, Minnesota, says: "For ten years I suffered from kidney troubles and was unable to find relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. My back was weak and lame and when I stooped or did any hard work, I was caused a great deal of suffering. I was unable to rest and I arose in the morning feeling tired and languid. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells and any quick movement brought on severe pains in my back. My husband finally procured a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at Breckenridge's Pharmacy and in a short time after I began their use, I was completely cured." (Statement given August 20, 1907.)

CONFIRMED PROOF.

On October 30, 1908, Mrs. Glasow said: "I gladly confirm the public statement which I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1907. I have had no serious trouble for over a year."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

Youth's Companion Calendar For 1910

The publishers of the Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber whose subscription (1.75) is paid for 1910, a beautiful Calendar for the new year. The picture panel, which suggests the title, "Venetian," for the Calendar was painted by the famous marine artist, Thomas Moran. His Venetian scene, reproduced in the Calendar by thirteen color lithography, will be found well worth preserving, long after 1910 is gone by.

WILLOW RIVER

William Lofdale was a capital city visitor the fore part of the week on business.

William Hausuer, of White Pine, was a Willow River caller Saturday. Billie is always welcome in Willow.

T. D. Wells was a caller again this week. We wonder what the attraction is? What is he up to, anyway.

If you want to sell or trade anything, call on Jos. Sidlo. He will buy trade or sell anything and everything, even to a dead dog.

The boys who have been hunting are beginning to return, but are bringing very little game with them. What's the reason boys? Wasn't there any in the woods?

The Willow River Mercantile Company is buying all the logs they can get. They are paying the highest market price. Farmers, if you have any logs in this vicinity, they will be pleased to buy them.

S. L. Mottle made a business trip to Duluth and Superior Monday. He returned home on Tuesday morning. Our marshal is making trips to the Zenith City pretty often. We wonder if it is all strictly business that calls him?

Joe Sidlo purchased the John Purcell blacksmith shop last Saturday and is now prepared to do all kinds of blacksmithing on short notice and in a workman-like manner. Mr. Purcell departed for Sturgeon Lake where he will start another shop.

Last Friday there was a woman who came to town and complained about the too reckless shooting of deer hunters. While on her way to town, there were six rifle shots whizzed by her head. She reports that this is the third time that this has happened. Hunters should not shoot towards well travelled highways and should be more careful when they shoot at all times, and then there would not be so many accidents.
