M. E. CHURCH LOCALS.

BY REV. FARISH

The beginning of the school year has brought a number of strangers to our city. To attend a home-like church is one of the best ways to get acquainted in a strange place. Our's is one of those home-like churches, and we will welcome you gladly to any and all of our services. Just make our church your church home while in town, you will enjoy it and so will we.

Our Sunday school, with us is a feature in our church work, so you should begin going to our Sunday school the first Sunday you are in town. If you are bashful or do not know the way just telephone the pastor or superintendent and some one will call for you the first Sunday. We have only four more Sundays until our annual conference meets, lets make each Sunday a great day in our church work.

The pastor will consider it a kindness, if any one who knows of any sick or in need of sympathy or help of any sort, will notify him of the same in case his services are wanted.

Sunday school 9:45 a. m., preaching services 11:00 a. m., and Epworth League and preaching in the evening at 7:00 and 8:00 o'clock.

Attend the Kennedy Business College, St. Cloud, Minn., for good results. (3)

Mr. and Mrs. Collette, of Bustleton, were Fair visitors this week.

PINE CITY TRIMS NORTH BRANCH

On Sunday last the North Branch ball team drove up from that place in autos, arriving here about 2:30, and at once went to the base ball park on the north side of the river, where the local team were waiting for them, and for nearly an hour they tried to down the Barringtons.

Space will not permit us to go into detail in regard to the game but by reading the box-score and summary which follows one can about tell the kind of a game that was played.

The Barringtons started in from the beginning to do things and kept it up during the whole of the struggle. The visitors were out-classed, as has been every team that the locals have played with this year. Pine City certainly has a fast ball team this year.

The following is the box score, game by innings and the summary:

BOOTH LAID TO REST

THOUSANDS OF MOURNERS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO SALVATION ARMY'S LEADER.

PROCESSION IS A MILE LONG

Thrones and Republics Represented at Last Rites for the General in London—Many Walk to the Cemetery.

London, Aug. 30.—Following the funeral services held in the great Olympia, the body of the late General William Booth, founder and leader of the Salvation Army, was interred in Abney Park cemetery with befitting ceremony.

In accordance with the traditions of the organization, the services were without pomp or splendor, but were but were carried out with moving fervor and impressiveness.

34,000 Attend Funeral.

Thirty-four thousand persons participated in the function. Nearly half of them wore blue coats and red jerseys or bonnets with the red ribbons so familiar on the streets of the cities of the world where the army is established.

The body of the late general, in a plain pine coffin, rested high upon a white catafalque in front of the big platform across the end of the hall, where all the chief officers of the organization were seated and where 40 bands of music were massed.

The organ, the band of fire and blood, which the general unfurled on Mount Calvary, was planted above the coffin. A bank of flowers, composed of the brightly sent by members of royalty and many societies, was behind it.

Flags of various nations in which the commander-in-chief had waged campaigns and standards of the older divisions of the army were arrayed in front of the platform.

Bands Play as Coffin is Lowered.

Ten thousand tickets of admission to Abney Park cemetery had been issued, but hundreds of others asked for passes into the burial ground.

The scenes at the graveyard attending the interment were solemnly impressive. Before the final services at the cemetery were begun the coffin was placed upon the platform. After a hymn Colonel Damon, representing the United States, and other leaders spoke, eulogizing the life and work of the dead evangelist.

When the hands played "Serrano of God," one of General Booth's favorite hymns, the coffin was lowered into the grave.

REPORTED KILLING OF 50 U. S. MARINES UNTRUE

Situation in Nicaragua Much Improved—Cruiser California Placed Off Corinto as Wireless Station.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Information received from Panama and from Corinto, via San Juan del Sur, by the United States government indicates that the report of the killing of fifty American marines in Nicaragua was a mistake.

The report was discredited at both the state and navy departments, where it was added that the situation in Nicaragua was considered to be improving.

Strength in this belief was evidenced when President Taft recalled the cruiser California, which, after a loading 600 marines at Corinto, had started for Panama to take the 1,200 men of the Tenth Infantry to Nicaragua.

The marines landed at Corinto immediately took charge of the policing of the port and began stretching a thin brown line along the railroad from Corinto to Managua, which will be completed immediately.

Messages were received from Minister Wetzel in Managua and Consul Johnson in Corinto, saying that the situation had improved materially.

Francisco Vaca, demanded the surrender of Corinto Aug. 25, but was informed that the city was under the protection of the American forces, who would give battle to the rebels should they attempt to enter Corinto.

Johnson's message to this effect left Corinto Aug. 25 and is the latest information received from him.

The California has been stationed off Corinto as a wireless sending and receiving station.

SECTIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA AND VIRGINIA AND OHIO HIT BY HEAVY RAIN.

SCORES STILL MISSING

Many Towns Founded—Rivers Leave the Banks and Spread Over a Wide Territory.

Pittsburg, Penn.—As a result of terrific rains through West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, 36 are dead and scores missing.

Added to the list of fatalities are 19 foreigners at Colliers, W. Va., bringing the death list there up to 187; three at Burgettstown, Pa., bringing the list there up to four, and one at Woodlawn, Pa., near this city.

At all points the storm is over. People in the various lowlands caused by the flood, but are making little progress. Help is on the way and has arrived at some points, but the extent of the devastation in this city is believed the monetary damage will reach close to $1,500,000.

The stream was the most devastating in the history of the localities mentioned. All small streams left their banks spreading over a wide territory, while transportation facilities in all directions from this city were practically put out of commission.

After a 24-hour period of excessive rain, the storm broke. In addition to the excessive rainfall, the electrical features were most spectacular.

In a number of western Pennsylvania points people became panic-stricken. At New Castle, Pa., churches were dismissed by ministers when announcements were made that a flood was headed for the town.

At Ford City, Pa., a dozen houses were washed from their foundations. Lightning struck a score of houses, while McGrawham, a suburb, was under three to five feet of water last night.

At Colliers, W. Va., a cloudburst devastated the valley in which the town is situated. Harmon Creek overflowed its banks. The entire valley was deluged by the water, houses swept from foundations, railroad tracks torn up for long stretches.

At Washington, Pa., the storm was especially severe. Through that part of the state manufacturing plants were put out of commission and many homes were wrecked.

Family is Killed.

At Cherry Valley the flood waters caught the family of George Gillespie while asleep. Gillespie, his wife and two children were victims of the deluge, while water. Mother and father were found dead, free of their home, but the bodies of the children were recovered, drowned in their beds.

Town Under Water.

Cannonsburg is under three feet of water and three persons are dead. Prompt action on the part of the Pittsburgh and Erie company brought the lives of 400 miners out of the flood's path.

To the Voters of Pine County.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools. I am a graduate of the Academic and Teachers' courses of the University of Minnesota, holding a first grade professional certificate valid for life and having successfully taught for several years in the rural, graded and high schools of the state, where I have had practical experience in the supervision of teachers. If I am elected to this office of trust, I promise to work faithfully in the interests of the Pine County schools and will do my best to raise them to the highest possible standard of efficiency.

My opponents are stating throughout the county that I am tied down in the Courier print shop and could not properly handle the office of County Superintendent of schools. Therefore, I wish to state that, if elected, I will have competent help to do all of the work in the printing office, and it will take practically none of my time to give advice and see that the paper follows out the policies which I deem best. Instead of a hindrance, I consider that my paper will aid me in the work as it will be a medium through which I can reach the people with school news and new ideas, and the school officers can call for blanks, supplies, etc., at any time as the manager of the paper can act as my assistant for me when I am away. Having regular office days both at Pine City and Sandstone will also be a great convenience to many school patrons in the county.

If elected to this important office, I promise to faithfully devote my time to the best interests of the Pine County schools. I respectfully solicit your support at the primaries to be held September 17th.

Sincerely yours,
C. W. COLBY.

I hereby announce myself to the voters of Pine County as a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools. I hold a First Grade State Certificate, have had considerable training at the State Normal and have taught in the rural and semi-graded schools of Pine County for fourteen years. I feel that my close association (as a teacher) with the people in different parts of the county has given me an insight into the conditions and needs of the rural schools and I believe that the principal need at the present time is for agricultural training and a thorough mastery of the common branches. I also believe in co-operation of rural and high schools, and if elected will endeavor to give you a good administration and to help you to make each dollar spent bring a dollar's worth of good results.

Yours for Education,
EDITH M. ROBINSON.

It has been with the educational interests of the boys and girls in view, that I have tried to keep in touch with the latest methods and progressive ideas in school work. Should I be nominated and re-elected, I promise to do all in my power to further the interests of education in Pine County.

I wish to thank you for your past support. May I not ask for your kind support at the coming primaries which are to be held September 17th.

No other plow is so simple, so rigid, or has such great strength in proportion to weight. There is not an unnecessary piece of material used in the Stag Plow—examine the picture.

There are no fancy fixings—nothing that adds extra joints, journals or movable parts to get loose, give trouble and wear out. From the farmer's standpoint the Stag is the

Victoric Cross Stories

By Allen Stephens

It is simply a bit of bronze, cast in the shape of a Maltese cross, one and one-half inches in diameter, and worth about nine cents or money—ribbon included. And yet up to date, five hundred and fifty British subjects have counted what seemed to be certain and sudden death in order that they might wear one of these bits of bronze and become privileged to append the letters "V. C." to their names; and of these, fifteen never lived to enjoy their honors—they died to win.

When Queen Victoria instituted the Order of the Victoria Cross by her Royal Warrant on January 29, 1856, it is more than likely that she was inspired by the immortal Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava some two years before. At any rate, she particularly signified themselves during the Crimean war.

Nothing save "the merit of conspicuous bravery" give claim for the decoration, and it must be earned by some signal act of devotion or valor in the presence of the enemy. It would be an impossible task to decide which particular deed out of the five hundred and twenty-two was the noblest. In fact, in some instances the cross was awarded for a series of gallant actions on the part of a single individual, each act worthy of a V. C. itself. This fact tends to complicate the difficult if not impossible task of making a selection. True, some of the deeds which won a cross have been more spectacular than others. Thus the heroes, hunters, and dragons who earned a V. C. during the brief but memorable Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava will, in all probability, be better known in posterity than the civilian clerk "Lucknow" Kavanagh, the brave Irishman who earned a Victoria Cross by his wonderful daring in leaving Lucknow with dispatches and plans, picking his way through a country infested by 60,000 vigilant, murderous Sepoy troops, that might be summoned to the besieged city.

The Indian mutiny was in full swing. Early in 1857 the mysterious chaplains of unweaned boys had been passed from village to village, together with the sinister message, "Everything will become red." Misted by treacherous and designing native princes, the Sepoys had turned upon the English.

Fresh from Hongkong after the news of the outbreak at Meerut, H. M. S. Shannon dispatched a body of bluejackets at Calcutta and all haste was made to the relief of the English garrison at Cawnpore. Sir William Peel, who had gained distinction as a V. C. during the Crimean war, was in command of the bluejackets; and among the latter was one William Hall, a negro canvaser of the fort who had seen service in the Crimea.

Pulling their 24-pounders over the rough roads, the naval brigade joined Havelock's relieving column, and an artery nerve was strained to reach Cawnpore in time. For it was known that about six hundred Europeans were cooped up in the city, including many English women and children.

lugged, but living and dead were re-membered as they lay in the pit. The horror of it! With Havelock buried a score of miles away!

Scattered like chaff before the wind, the followers of Nana dispersed before the onslaught of the avengers; and upon the afternoon following the battle, the negro Hall and a group of his bluejacket shipmates heard the horrible story as related above, from the lips of a half-caste woman convert who spoke English fluently. Hall and his friends gazed upon the floor of the death-chamber, fully two inches deep with blood and gore and tuffs of hair. The small tulwar gashes in the walls the height of a woman's neck. Then they turned away, sick at heart, but avowed to be avenged.

Forty-five miles away another desperate siege was being conducted. At Lucknow, one of the most beautiful cities in India, a handful of Englishmen were holding out against the fierce hordes of Sepoys who hemmed them in on every side. Havelock set out for Lucknow with the greater part of his force, leaving Cawnpore in charge of Colonel Neill. Among others left behind under Neill were Hall and James M. Simpson. Quite naturally they were furious at not being permitted to accompany the best relief, but it was necessary to leave guns and men to hold Cawnpore.

They relived the monotony of their situation and vented a part of their pent-up vengeance by forcing a number of high-caste Brahmin prisoners to clean up the blood-stained death-chamber. Men were set over them with whips to see that they did not shirk their task. The Brahmins, thus ceremoniously defiled, were then hanged and buried in a ditch.

As the world knows, General Havelock and his command reached the Residency at Lucknow in due time, after having been obliged to fall back upon Cawnpore by reason of the extreme heat and the dreaded cholera. The gallant Neill was with him when he finally succeeded in cutting his way into Lucknow, but the negro Hall and other bluejackets were not present. Their opportunity was to come later. Havelock and his men, though strong enough to reinforce the beleaguered troops in Lucknow and save the English garrison from destruction, were not strong enough to cut their way to the beleaguered women and children and wounded amounting to 1,500 souls. Thus the siege continued upon a larger scale.

Meanwhile, Sir Colin Campbell had arrived in India. He was to assume the chief command of the forces in India, and his first task was to rescue the garrison at Lucknow. Upon the 9th of November he led an army of five thousand men and thirty guns out of Cawnpore, and among these was the naval brigade under William Peel.

The Sikandarbagh, a formidable-looking structure about 130 yards square and surrounded by a thick brick wall about twenty feet high, was the first spot to crack before Lucknow could be relieved. It sheltered upward of two thousand well-armed Sepoys, who poured a galling fire into the English from the flat roof of a pavilion on top of the structure. Little could be done until a breach had been made in the wall, so the infantry lay down and sheltered themselves as best they could while the men of the naval brigade crossed their guns up under the wall. Across the deadly zone of bare ground the negro and his shipmates ranged their guns as coolly as if laying alongside an enemy's frigate. Man after man dropped under the cruel fire until such gun was abandoned.

Once up under the wall, the gallant men were in a measure protected, but as the 24-pounders kicked back after each discharge, it became necessary for the garrison to enter the breach to drag them back into position. At each recoil the Sepoys concentrated their fire upon the little detachment, and each discharge cost a human life. Encouraging his shipmates by his fearless example, the negro was always the first man to dash out of the shattered angle to drag back his gun. He called upon them to remember the bloody room at Cawnpore. He seemed to bear a charmed life.

After an hour's perilous work during which the details of bluejackets was all but wiped out, the 24-pounders succeeded in hammering a hole in the wall about three feet square. A bugle call sounded. The infantrymen sprang to their feet and rushed at the little hole in spite of the fact that certain death awaited the foremost.

The enemy, having been driven out of the courtyard by the intrepid English aided by the loyal native troops, made for the gateway of the main structure. As they attempted to close the heavy doors behind them, a Punjabi Mohammedan, Mukarrab Khan by name, thrust his left arm between them. As a tulwar nearly severed his hand at the wrist, he withdrew the wounded arm and immediately thrust in the other!

By this time, other men had reached the spot and torn the doors open. For this brave act, Mukarrab Khan was decorated with the Order of Merit, the Indian equivalent of the Victoria Cross. Meanwhile other serious work had been cut out for William Hall and the other bluejackets for a thousand yards away, in the direction of the Residency, loomed the frowning outlines of the Shah Najaf, a white-domed tomb, surrounded by high walls of solid masonry. While the Highlanders tore off the roofs of the surrounding huts and drove the Sepoys before them like sheep, other troops were "remembering Cawnpore" while attending to the enemy in the Sikandarbagh, and the naval detachment dragged their guns into position before the Shah Najaf.

A solid shot from the enemy struck a naval ammunition wagon, exploding his contents. Hall, with the blood streaming down his face where a piece of shell had grazed him, stood by his gun and urged his fellow bluejackets on by word and deed.

Throughout the long afternoon the men hammered away at the twenty-foot wall. Gun after gun was abandoned as their crews were shot down, but the negro was the last to give up. Shortly before dark the commander gave the order to collect the killed and wounded and retire for the night, but Hall had to be personally ordered to retire by his superior before he obeyed.

Meanwhile, Lieutenant Salmon of the naval brigade had climbed a tree and discovered a small aperture in the wall. The enemy saw him and volleyed at him. Badly wounded, he fell into the arms of his men and reported what he had seen. For this brave act he was rewarded with a Victoria Cross. The English were quick to take advantage of the information, and among the first men to rush the breach was William Hall, wounded, but hacking right and left with his cutlass. Early upon the following morning, the Residency was relieved and a second massacre averted.

weeks before her death. When the German Emperor came to London to attend the funeral he was pleased to decorate Lord Roberts with the Order of the Black Eagle. The gallant Irish soldier of Indian nativity has also received the thanks of the British Parliament together with a grant of 10,000 pounds sterling, and is entitled to the letters K. C. B., G. C. B., G. C. I., B. C. C. B., and R. F.

Best of all, he is affectionately known to every soldier in the British army as "Bobs". He is also the proud wearer of a Victoria Cross, and the possessor of a second cross for which his only son stained the South African soil with his life-blood.

The idol of the British army was but a lieutenant when he won his cross in the bloody days of the Indian Mutiny, and at the time he was serving on the staff of Sir Colin Campbell, the commander-in-chief of the British forces in India. He had already been mentioned in dispatches, had been wounded, and also knocked over by the "windage" of a round shot.

A column was moving upon Fatehgarh Sahib, and through a strip of disordered territory, so that communication might be opened up between the Punjab and Bengal. Fighting with the horse artillery and cavalry, "Bobs" came upon a large body of the enemy occupying the village of Khundran. It became necessary to dislodge and destroy this force if possible, as it was understood that in the ranks of this particular body of Sepoys were many who had taken more or less prominent part in the Cawnpore slaughter.

These guns were pushed across a path, and the explosion of the shells over a stream. They engaged the enemy while planks were laid across the stringers for the passage of the main body of the British. The British were many who had taken more or less prominent part in the Cawnpore slaughter.

Fearful lest Sir Colin Campbell should favor the Highlanders by ordering them to lead the 53d regiment, "Bobs" was the first to order the men, charged the village without waiting for orders. Nothing remained but to support them.

As the retreating troops advanced upon the village calling upon another to "Remember Cawnpore!" the Sepoys wavered, then hastily limbered up their guns and retired. This gave the mounted troops an opportunity to follow up the retreat and inflict a summary punishment. The "left—troop—march!" came the order.

A Distinction With a Difference

YOU may not always get what you pay for. It takes a good judge of values to do that, but there is one sure rule in business it is—you pay for all you get. You may not be able to see the difference between engines of similar appearance at different prices, but if you buy from a reputable firm you may be sure the difference in quality is there.

I H C Oil and Gasoline Engines

cost more than some others because they are more carefully made, and more thoroughly tested. Skilled designing, better material, better workmanship, more careful assembling, and more thorough testing, tell in the long run. Given equal care an I H C engine costs less per year of service than any other engine you can buy. If an I H C engine is given all the work it will do, pumping, sawing wood, running the griststone, feed grinder, hay press, silage cutter, repair shop machines, cream separator, churn, washing machine, etc., etc., it will pay for itself in a very short time in money and labor saved.
I H C engines are made in every style—horizontal, vertical, air and water-cooled, stationary, portable and mounted on skids, to operate on gas, gasoline, kerosene, naphtha, distillate or alcohol, in sizes from 1 to 50 H. P. Kerosene-gasoline tractors, 12, 15, 20, 25 and 45 H. P.
