VETERAN'S LAST ROLL CALL

Old Soldier Passes Away at His Home Sunday Night

On Sunday evening Oct. 20th, 1912, at about 9:00 o'clock, John D. Wilcox, sr. passed away at his home in the southeastern part of the village after an illness of several months.

John D. Wilcox was born in Erie county, New York, May 7, 1829. He received his early education in the Griffith Academy and taught school for five years at Springville that county. In 1840 he went to California as engineer for a mining firm and remained until 1852. He returned to his native state and in 1853 came to Minnesota settling at Taylors Falls where he built the first saw mill. In 1862 he joined the army at St. Paul, enlisting in Company M, First Minnesota Mounted Rangers. After being mustered out at Fort Snelling in the spring of 1863 he went out on the plains remaining eighteen months, being quartermaster sergeant. Col. Sibly appointed him Indian scout and in that capacity had many interesting adventures. From this service he was discharged at Fort Snelling in 1864, and took up teaching at Sunrise until 1869, when he came to Chengwatana teaching there until 1872. He then came to Pine City and purchased seventeen acres of land in the village limits and 100 in the township carrying on general farming.

Aside from his military service Mr. Wilcox has done service to the county. He was County Supt. of Schools six years, Judge of Probate six years, County Attorney twelve years, Register of Deeds five years and County Surveyor ten years.

He was married April 15, 1860, to Miss Sarah Clover, of Sunrise, to this union eight children were born; Horace, Florence, Grace, Eugene, John, Isabella, Louis, and Lee the latter of whom was drowned about seventeen years ago. Mrs. Wilcox died December 21, 1903.

Mr. Wilcox was a gentleman in every sense of the word, was a bright intellectual man to talk to and was a friend to all that knew him, especially the younger people with whom he was always on the best of terms, and never so happy as when surrounded by their telling stories and anecdotes of his early life.

The funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the remains were followed to Birchwood cemetery by a large concourse of citizens including members of the G. A. R., of which he was a worthy member, and laid to rest by the side of his wife and son. H. H. Parish, of the M. E. church, officiating.

The Pioneer extends its sympathy to the afflicted ones.

THE BRUNO ATTRACTIONS ALWAYS MAKE GOOD.

On tomorrow (Saturday) evening at the Pine City Opera House "The Family" a beautiful comedy-drama of the home will be presented under the management of Chatterton and Bruno. Resplendent with sparkling, witty lines and lively, laughing comedy blended with the most beautiful story of mother love ever told, "The Family" cannot but appeal to those who are lovers of high-class theatrical productions. It was written by Mr. Robert H. Davies, Editor of the Munsey Magazine and proved to be one of New York's greatest successes when produced under the management of Messrs. Shubert. New York hasn't sold many of these lands at from $2.50 to $5.00 per acre, to actual settlers, through whose labor and improvements these lands have increased in value, and that they, the actual settlers, derive the benefit of this increased value, and not I.

The production at the Opera House is one of the Bruno attractions, and the people of Pine City and vicinity know from past experience "The Bruno Attractions" always make good. Seats on sale at the Drug Store.

James Hurley Answers Attacks of Herald and Defends Action in Regard to State Land Sales.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HINGKLEY HERALD

Sir:— You have circulated, through the columns of your paper, wilfully, or through ignorance, statements which tend to besmirch the character of certain pioneers of this county, who spent their time and energy in building up the county.

Pine County was organized in the year 1854, and from the early 50's to the early 60's nearly all the land that was entered in the territory comprising Pine County was entered for the pine timber that was on it. No entries were made in those days for agricultural purposes, it being generally believed that this land was not agricultural land. As soon as the pine timber was cut, the owners ceased to pay taxes, and the consequence was a large proportion of the lands in Pine County were permitted to become delinquent and no taxes paid. This was also true all over northern Minnesota. These taxes in a few years, amounted to a great deal more than the land was worth.

Prior to 1881, the Legislature of this State passed a law providing for a sale of all lands that had become forfeited for the year 1879 and all previous years. This law was known as the Whitcomb Law. C. F. Whitcomb being at that time State Auditor. It provided, among other things, that these lands should be put up at public auction by County Auditors and sold to the highest bidder for not less than the amount of the state tax. This law was a general law that applied to the whole state.

Hon. Fred A. Hodge was Auditor of this county at that time, and conducted the sale. This sale was duly advertised and conducted according to the requirements of the law. Hundreds of people were present at this sale, and thousands of others could have been present had they so desired, as the sale was open to all. Every person who attended this sale was accorded the privilege of bidding on any of the lands which have become delinquent, and the land went to the highest bidder. This and all subsequent sales have been conducted by the County Auditor according to the laws which governed such sales at the time they were held.

At subsequent sales following the tax sale of 1881, I bid in some of my own lands which I had purposely allowed to become delinquent in order that I might get a tax certificate to the lands, and in this way perfect defective titles which I already possessed, and in all cases where I bid in my own lands, I was the highest bidder. Yet of all the people who attended these sales, and remember they were duly advertised and open to everyone, a few pioneers of this county, myself among the number, have been singled out by you, and placed before the people of this county as dishonest men. And it is a notable fact that the men so mentioned are candidates, or have relatives who are candidates for office at the fall election.

Oliver Wilcox, at one time County Treasurer of this County, now dead, has been raked from the grave by you and held up before the voters of this county, as a dishonest man because he attended one of these sales and because his son happens to be a candidate for a county office. Oliver Wilcox of all of the old settlers of this county was honored and respected for his uprightness, kindheartedness and fidelity to any trust.

You state that some of these lands which were bought in at these sales are now worth from $40.00 to $50.00 per acre, but you do not state that during the past twenty years, I have sold many of these lands at from $2.50 to $5.00 per acre, to actual settlers, through whose labor and improvements these lands have increased in value, and that they, the actual settlers, derive the benefit of this increased value, and not I.

JAMES HURLEY

BULLET DEFINITELY LOCATED

Ex-President in Weak, Nervous Condition and Physically Demanded Absolute Quiet for Patient, Though There is No Cause to Worry.

Mercy Hospital, Chicago, Oct. 21.—Colonel Roosevelt, despite his weak and nervous condition, left the hospital at 7:30 o'clock this morning and on the Pennsylvania railroad train over the Pennsylvania railroad.

A consultation of his staff physicians last night definitely decided this move, although they were not hostile to the cause for serious misgivings if the colonel were to remain at the hospital until Thursday at least.

It became known last night for the first time since the shooting the exact location of the bullet fired by John Schrank in Milwaukee last Monday.

BIG DRY FARMING MEET WILL BE INTERESTING

Sessions at Lethbridge, Alberta, Are Attended by Distinguished Men From Many Lands.

Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, Oct. 19.—The International Dry Farming congress, which opened here today, promises to be one of the most notable deliberations on agricultural subjects ever held on the American continent. Lethbridge is crowded to its capacity by distinguished men and women from all parts of the world, some of the delegates having come from India.

In this gathering may be seen a score or more of governors of western and southern states; representatives from many of the leading educational institutions of America, Canada and other countries, distinguished diplomats, including Premier Borden, and eminent men of finance such as James J. Hill, who is a native Canadian.

The sessions of the congress will last seven days, during which time President Taft, Premier Borden, Senator Burrell, minister of agriculture, Canada; Dr. Liberty H. Bailey, dean of the college of agriculture of Cornell university; James J. Hill, former president of the Great Northern railroad; W. A. Brown, president of the New York Central; Duncan Macpherson, minister of agriculture of Alberta; George Lawrence, minister of agriculture of Manitoba; Percy Elliott, minister of agriculture and finance of British Columbia; W. H. McPherson, minister of agriculture of Saskatchewan; Sir Ins. Lauro Vidale, secretary of agriculture of Mexico; Leslie C. Colman, director of agriculture of the state of Mysore, India; Edmund Miklos, former minister of state and of agriculture, Hungary; Zoltan Szalay, president of the National Union of Hungarian Farmers; Dr. E. E. Ison, ambassador to the United States from the Argentine Republic; George E. L. Morris of Montana; G. M. E. Hay of Washington; Gov. T. James H. Haxley of Idaho; Gov. T. C. Odde of Nevada; Gov. George W. Hunt of Arizona and many others.

In conjunction with the congress there is an exhibition of farm products, such as was never seen before on this continent. These samples include wheat, corn, alfalfa, and other products are worth several hundred thousand dollars.

SISTER IS ATTACKED

MARY GARVEY ASSAULTED WITH AX—NAMES BROTHER TONY AS HER ASSAILANT.

POSSIBLY IS A SUICIDE

Police Think Man Who Jumped Off River Bridge May Be Relative—Woman May Recover.

Minneapolis, Oct. 23.—Suspecting Anton Garvey, having attempted to murder his sister Mary at the latter's home, 2238 Seventh street south, and that he later attempted to take his own life by leaping from the Franklin avenue bridge, police are searching high and low for the man, not feeling positive that he succeeded in his attempt at self destruction.

Police officers at Washington in her home, with two gas jets in her head and the gas jets in the house turned on, but unlighted. She is now in the City hospital in a precarious condition, but may recover.

The discovery was made by Mrs. J. E. Moriarty, a cousin, who called at Miss Garvey's residence. After knocking on the door for a long time she entered and saw the body of her cousin all covered with blood lying in a room on the second floor. She hurried out and notified the police and the injured woman was taken to the hospital.

She was unconscious at the time, but later revived and made a statement at the City hospital, say the police, accusing her younger brother of the assault.

At about 7:30 in the morning, a man answering the description of the brother of the Franklin avenue bridge, dropped into the river, 100 feet below. The body disappeared almost immediately, but the police dragged for it all day in the hope of recovering it. They were unsuccessful, but have renewed the search. It is still a matter of doubt whether the man drowned or saved himself by swimming.

Daniel Garvey, an older brother, admitted that he, his brother and his sister quarreled Sunday night. It was over a guardian who had been appointed for Tony Garvey, who was about 35 years old, resented the idea of being hampered in enjoying his share of the estate left by his parents, is said to have been in a peculiar manner. Daniel also said that his brother was mentally unbalanced and was notoriously a spendthrift, which made a nomination of a guardian a necessary precaution.

Daniel told the police that when he left home for work on the government job, his sister was asleep. He knew nothing of the tragedy until notified by the police.

An ax that had been used as the weapon in the assault on Miss Garvey was found by Patrolman J. H. Thompson of the South Side station in a summer kitchen. He was led to the place by a trail of blood. The back of the ax was found in the wound in Miss Garvey's skull, and it was undoubtedly the weapon used.

Anthony Garvey is described as being 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighing about 180 pounds, smooth face and of dark complexion. He was dressed in a dark suit of clothes and wore a black hat of the same material as the one on the bridge and the police feel positive that he is the same man.

STATUE OF JOHN A. JOHNSON IS UNVEILED

Speakers Praise Life of Former Governor.

Eberhart Says Memory Will Endure As Long As Time—Other Tributes Paid.

St. Paul.—In the presence of 10,000 Minnesotans who had been his friends and admirers, the bronze presentation of John Albert Johnson, third governor of Minnesota, raised before the main entrance of the state capitol in St. Paul was unveiled late Saturday with simple ceremony. Gathered about the monument to which 100,000 persons had contributed were the high men of church and state and the life-governor's lifelong friends in all walks of life. His loyal widow, still attired in somber black as in the days at Rochester when Governor Johnson was fighting his battle with death, was an important though a modest figure in the events of the day.

Andrew O'Connor, the sculptor who designed the monument and supervised its erection, was not present when his great work was unveiled. He was confined to his bed in the Saint Paul hotel suffering from a slight attack of appendicitis.

Second Monument at St. Peter. The erection of this monument is to be followed by that of another to be raised in St. Peter, probably in the cemetery where lies the body. The monument commission in that meeting after the unveiling exercises voted to publish 1,000 copies of its proceedings, to appropriate $400 for bound volumes of newspaper clippings on Governor Johnson now owned by Carleton college and to turn the reof the state officials, the governor's military staff, the officers of the national guard and a delegation of old soldiers, headed by A. L. Larpen, looking at the memorial statue of Governor John A. Johnson and rolled a piece of art, Andrew O'Connor, the sculptor, whose genius was complimented on all sides, was suffering from an attack of appendicitis in his rooms at the Saint Paul.

The sculptor was stricken Friday, but had been making every effort to ward off the attack which he felt was that Andrew O'Connor, "to whose genius, artistic imagination and skill of hand we are indebted for this monument," was ill and would not be able to attend. Mr. O'Connor was taken sick early yesterday with an attack of appendicitis. It is not believed the attack is serious, but physicians said he must remain in bed. He is at the Saint Paul.

The man in the Capitol building, as a memorial to Governor Johnson, as of the commission, formally presented the statue to Governor Eberhart, who received it on behalf of the people of the state.

Governor Voices Appreciation. "I accept it," said the Governor, "knowing that today Governor Johnson lives in the hearts of the people of Minnesota. It is in that office when the body was lying in state and saw 62,000 men, women and children file through with bowed heads to take their last view of his remains. It is there was a proof that the people of Minnesota appreciate noble services it was at that time.

"The men in the Capitol building who were loyal to him have been loyal to me, and his memory will serve to inspire them to a service like to that which he gave. He was typical of the West and of this state." Governor Eberhart quoted a poem with the lines "Out where the skies are a trifle bluer,

HIS MIND UP IN THE CLOUDS

Professor Imagined Appeal Was From Pluto, and the Situation Became Embarrassing.

A great lover of animals, Professor Dryadust was much given to having his pet dog sitting beside him at meal times eating tidbits from his own little plate.

The other evening he was at a dinner party, and his partner was a very great lady, who was proud of her title.

But the professor paid absolutely no attention to her. His mind had switched off on to some abstract point and he was lost to the world over the problem.

The duchess did not approve of this, and presently to attract his attention, she pulled him gently by the sleeve.

Then the professor woke up. Grabbing a half-pickled chicken bone from his plate, he thrust it under her startled nose.

"Don't bother just now, Eldo!" he said curtly. "Here, take this and go and eat it on the mat, like a good dog!"

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eaten doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA MURRY, 608 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (consultant) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

mainder of the fund, amounting to about $2,500, to St. Peter. This city has raised $1,000 for a Johnson monument and as Mr. O'Connor has offered to produce a replica in bronze for $3,000, the way is opened for another Johnson monument.

A Woman's Tribute.

Unheeded except by a few persons occurred a touching incident of the exercise. Shortly before the exercises began a middle-aged woman, rather plainly dressed, made her way through the throng about the statue and proceeded to the granite pedestal, placed at its feet a handful of roses and autumn leaves. John McCormack, who presided the pedestal, hastened to the woman's side and as a recognition of her delicate tribute, invited her to a place on the stand among the invited guests, at the same time asking her name. The woman in a half-frightened manner and in a foreign tongue, declined the honor and hurriedly disappeared from the crowd.

As a preliminary to the exercises, Governor O. A. Eberhart, with his entire staff in full dress uniform and the guests invited by the monument commission, marched out from the main entrance of the capitol to the stand, prepared for the day.

In the train from the capitol were C. D. O'Brien, chairman of the commission; Bishop J. J. Lawler, B. F. Nelson, A. C. Weiss, H. V. Jones, D. M. Neill, A. E. Rice, J. T. Schain, Arthur Sobner, president of the Minneapolis committee; Frank A. Day, Chief Justice C. M. Start, Justice C. L. Brown, G. W. Dunn, P. E. Brown and Andrew Hok of the supreme court; Congressman W. S. Hammond, former Justice Thomas D. O'Brien, Fred B. Lynch, Senator George P. Wilson, most coming, until after the unveiling of the statue, so that he might be present. He was unable to do so, however, and Doctors H. T. O'Brien and Herbert Davis were called in consultation over Mr. O'Connor at about the time the statue was uncovered.

Mr. O'Connor was able to talk. "I did not want to be laid up just at this time," he said, "but I was compelled to forego the pleasure of seeing how the statue was received. It was a piece of work in which I was deeply interested, and I did so want to get close to those who knew your Governor, to hear just how the work appeared—and here I am laid up!"

Mr. O'Connor was anxious to know what had been said about the monument, and when told that the work was the subject of enthusiastic comment, he expressed satisfaction. It is not expected he will be compelled to undergo an operation. He expressed the hope last night that he would be able to be about in a few days. The physicians are watching his case closely, however.

"We erect this monument," said Bishop Lawler in pronouncing the inscription, "to an illustrious son of our state in the hope that it will perpetuate his memory and serve to stimulate us all to try and emulate the highest and noblest type of citizenship which he exemplified." He invoked the blessings of God upon the state and upon the officers who are doing the work that Johnson did.

Miss Lynch was introduced by C. W. Ames, chairman of the commission, and, standing upon the platform, just as she had opened with the first bars of "America" she pulled the cord and the covering fell from the statue. Mr. Ames announced with regret out where the friends are a trifle true, that's where the memory of John A. Johnson lives."

"Therefore," he concluded, "on behalf of every boy and girl in Minnesota and every man and woman to whom this will be an inspiration and a benediction. I accept this statue that we may build up the state to its true destiny." He ended with a word of thanks to the commission for its successful work.

Tribute of Great State to Great Men. When Congressman Hammond was presented he looked out over the faces and up at the brilliant sky and exclaimed: "What a magnificent spectacle—the tribute of a great state to a great man and every man and woman to whom this will be an inspiration and a benediction. I accept this statue that we may build up the state to its true destiny." He ended with a word of thanks to the commission for its successful work.

It was Congressman Hammond who nominated Governor Johnson for the gubernatorial candidacy, twice in the state, and who also presented his name to the national Democratic convention for the nomination for presidency; so it was especially fitting that he should nominate him for a high place in the memory of the people of the state and the nomination was heartily and unanimously accepted.

Youthful Robber Dying.

Minneapolis.—Finally realizing that death is near, Lloyd P. Foster, who was shot and mortally wounded by Patrolman Martin Johnson of the East Side station early Sunday morning when he attempted to make his escape after having been caught in the act of burkularizing a drug store, asked the head nurse at the City hospital to summon a priest. The burkularizer who had been arrested received absolution and was baptized in the Catholic faith.

$1,600,000 to Be Asked.

St. Paul.—While addressing a group of social workers, Dr. Christopher Easton, secretary of the State Tuberculosis association, said that the next session of the legislature would be asked to appropriate $1,600,000 to fight the white plague in Minnesota. This sum, he declared, would be sufficient for a period of years. Mr. Easton said that the state tuberculosis hospital at Wadena was inadequate and could not handle advanced cases of the disease.

NORTH SOUTH EAST AND WEST

The popularity of "Bull" Durham is not confined to any one section. It is smoked everywhere—and, whether smoked in a pipe or rolled into a cigarette, it is the favorite everywhere.

Not a rich man's tobacco—not a poor man's tobacco. It is the tobacco for every man who wants a pure, mild, sweet smoke—regardless of price or package.

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO

Forty "rollings" in each 5-cent muslin sack

This famous old tobacco is packed in a plain, homely, muslin sack that has become familiar to smokers all over the world. It is not handsome or showy, but its cheapness permits just that much more goodness to go into the tobacco itself.

The Purest Form of Tobacco

"Bull" Durham is simply the granulated leaves of bright golden Virginia and North Carolina tobacco. The purest form of tobacco human skill can produce.

Try a sack of this grand old tobacco today. See why more men smoke "Bull" Durham than all other big-grade brands combined. See why for three generations men have gone on smoking this glorious tobacco year after year, and will not be satisfied with anything else.
