J. H. HUBER CALLED TO FINAL REST

John H. Huber, since 1905 a resident of Pine City, died at his home here Friday the 25th of the month. Funeral services were conducted at the home of deceased on the Saturday following, and the remains on the same day removed to North Branch where they were interred beside the grave of his father and his daughter, Helen. The remains were taken charge of by the North Branch lodge of Masons and the services at the grave were conducted by that lodge, the local order of the Eastern Star also attending in a body. Although the deceased had been a sufferer for nearly a year, his death, none the less, came as a surprise and shock to this community and to his friends and acquaintances elsewhere.

Mr. Huber was born at Sharon Pennsylvania, August 29th, 1838. Moving to Bismark, N. Dak. in the year 1883, he there engaged in the newspaper and printing business. In 1892, he moved to North Branch, and, with Henry Palmer, his partner, established the North Branch Review. Shortly afterwards he purchased his partner's interest in the paper and soon made it one of the leading newspapers between the twin cities and Duluth. In the fall of 1905 he sold the Review to Albert Bode, and returned to Pine City, where for two years he edited and published The Pine Poker. Since relinquishing the publication of the Poker he has been a travelling salesman for the McCaskey Cash System Co.

As a newspaper man Mr. Huber earned the reputation of being a skilled and able journalist. The profession brought him into contact with men from all parts of the country, and his genial and companionable nature won him the fast friendship of many men throughout the country prominent in the various walks of life. He leaves surviving, a widow, four children and two brothers to mourn his death.

The Pioneer wishes to express its sincere sorrow for the bereavement that his family and many friends sustain in his death.

WE GLACIDLY WITHDRAW.

Owing to a technicality in filing our petition as an independent nominee for this legislative district we have found that we will be unable to make the run. A sufficient number of signatures were secured and the petition bearing the signatures was filed according to law "in proper time with the auditor of the county where the candidate resides," but we failed to make certified copies of the original petition for the local auditor to certify to with the auditors of Chisago and Kenesaw counties. Those copies should have been in the hands of the two auditors by 12 o'clock on the night of the third Tuesday preceding the day of general election.

This is, of course, to be deplored, for we entered the race as an independent with fair chances to secure at least the second largest number of votes, which would have been equivalent to election as there are two representatives to be elected from this district.

It was not a misunderstanding, but an oversight which our friends, as well as we, have just occasion for regret.

However, we filed in Pine county, paid the necessary $10 filing fee, and our name will appear upon the blue ballot in Pine county. But in order to make the run in Chisago and Kenesaw counties it would be necessary to have "stickers" placed upon the ballots by the voters in those two counties. In order to live up to the letter of the law as prescribed in Section 549 of the recently passed Corrupt Practices Act this method of running would be utterly folly if the candidate hoped for success, as the act limits a candidate's expenditures, and the cost of a successful "sticker" run would be far in excess of the amount limited by that section. So, after very deliberate consideration, we have decided to withdraw.

In making this statement we do so in fairness to those other candidates who remain in the field, and for the information of the voting public. Trusting that the best men will win, we beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
A. R. W. OLSEN.

TO THE VOTERS

Something for the Voters of Pine County to Ponder Over and See Who is the Honest Man.

The following article may be of interest to the voters of Pine county, as an example of what took place at the 1881 tax sale, of which the Hinckley Herald is making such a bugaboo.

There was, at this sale, upwards of 100,000 acres of land in this county put up for bids, upon which no one bid high enough to cover the state tax, and which was, therefore, not sold at this sale.

At the 1881 Tax Sale the following tract of land was bid in by Hodge & Hurley; E 1/2 of NW 1/4, E 1/2 of SW 1/4 and W 1/2 of SE 1/4 Sec. 10, T. 42, R. 20.

On page 298 in Book "M" of Mortgages, we find that this same tract of land was sold by them to Wm. H. Grant for $335.00, which amounts to a price less than $1.50 per acre.

This transaction took place July 1st 1885, four years after the tax sale.

This tract of land comprises the Sandstone Quarries and has since been sold for over One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Now, Mr. Voter, would you say that Messrs. Hodge & Hurley defrauded the county out of nearly One Hundred Thousand Dollars by not bidding that amount for the land when it was put up for auction at the 1881 sale; or, judging from the fact that the land sold for less than $1.50 per acre, four years after the sale, would you say that they paid as much for the land as it was worth at the time it was purchased?

Inasmuch as the author of these tales, which have been printed in the Hinckley Herald, has attempted to blacken the character of Mr. Hurley, would it not be well to go into the matter a little more closely and see who and what the author is.

In the issue of the Hinckley Herald dated Oct. 2nd 1912, an article appeared, viz. J. T. Mider's name, which implied that James Hurley, with the co-operation of certain attorneys of Pine City has been collecting money, unjustly, from the sale of certain lands around Red Crook.

Mr. Mider later admitted to Attorney S. G. L. Roberts that the statement was incorrect, and further stated that he had gotten his information from J. E. Therien, producing at the same time the typewritten statement which he said Mr. Therien had given him.

Mr. Therien himself admitted to Attorney Sobotka that he had written articles concerning Mr. Hurley which were published in the Hinckley Herald, and further stated that "he could set the county afire if he wanted to."

Therefore it seems reasonable to suppose that Mr. Therien is the author of the statements published in the Hinckley Herald under the heading of "Honest Taxpayer vs. Dishonest Landshark."

Now let us look over Mr. Therien's record since he has been in Pine county.

He came here in the summer of 1909. The first few weeks he was here he stayed at the Hotel Argosy. Mr. Hurley holds a judgment against him for his board bill, but has never received one penny of it as yet.

We find that the Power Company were compelled to disconnect his lights because they were unable to collect their bills against him.

Going a little deeper into his affairs we find that he was one of Mr. Rybak's tenants; that he moved his office fixtures into the court house at night, unknown to Mr. Rybak, and that a large portion of the rent remains unpaid.

Following him into the court house, we find that for several months past he has been getting office space, heat and light from Pine county, and that up to the present writing he has paid not one cent of rent.

Yet this is the man who attempts to blacken the character, by so-called revelations, of men who have always been honest and upright in their dealings with their fellow men.

Kindly consider well these facts before casting your ballot.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER XXII.—
Through a Tunnel.
Mrs. Jimmie Wellington, who had traveled much abroad and learned in England the habit of smoking in the corridors of expensive hotels, had acquired also the habit, as travelers do, of calling England freer than America. She determined to do her share toward the education of her native country, and chose, for her topic, tobacco as a feminine accomplishment. She had grown indifferent to staves and audible comment and she could fight a protesting head waiter to a standstill. If moments and tablets are ever erected to the first woman who smoked in a restaurant, she would like Mrs. Jimmie Wellington who was variously remembered and occupy a large place in historical record. The current comment of the woman's room on the sleeping car soon passed on her, and she objected to smoking there except when she felt the added luxury of keeping some other woman outside, but not smoking. And now Mrs. Jimmie had staked out a claim on the observation platform. CHAPTER XXII.—(Continued).
He felt that he was the greatest sinner on earth, but worst of all was the fact that when he had fallen, the man hidden below was not avowed. He was inexperienced enough to slip it and it was like foaming urine on his palate. But he kept it from others, and his luxurious transgression was his own punishment. The delightful Malloy was on his way to join the "club." Crossing the tracks he had met the conductor, and had ventured to quit him along the old line.

The prim little missionary toppled into the nearest chair. "Oh, Irs, what will you do with that?"
"She can't think," Irs grumbled. "In a little while she'll know."
"Don't you think we'd better tell everybody before they begin to talk?" Irs glared with pride at the thought and murmured with all the ardor of a senile Romeo: "I suppose so, ducky darling. I'll break it—I mean, I'll tell it to the men, and you tell the women."
"All right, dear, I'll obey you," she answered, meekly.

"I wish you hadn't taken any changes on board this train yet," said a one.
"Well, I never carry any preachers on this road."
"Daddy we get one or two. Last trip we carried a whole Methodist convention."
"A whole convention last trip! Just my luck!"
The unannounced conductor turned to call back: "Say, up in the forward car we got a couple of undertakers. They're by you as you go!"

The power attracted Snodgrass in and disappeared with him into the buffet. Malloy calling after him: "Don't let the conductor see him!"
By Temple advanced on the die-castable youth with an effort at cheer: "How is our bridegroom this beautiful afternoon?"
The youth glanced at his costume: "I feel like a rainbow gone wrong. Just my luck to have to borrow from everybody. Look at me! This collar of Mr. Wellington's was so faded like a peasant in a rubber tire." He turned to Foadick.

HARD TIMES PERIL

COUNTRY'S INDUSTRIES EASILY INJURED BY LEGISLATION OF DEMOCRATS.

FARMERS ALSO CONCERNED

Plain Explanation of Reason Why Cause of New Tariff Laws Will Cause Condition of Uncertainty and Business Paralysis.

Because you are healthy today you can be sure that you will be well a year from now!

No.

And because a country is prosperous today it is certain that all will be well a year hence?

The reason for this uncertainty is the danger of the election of a Democratic candidate for the presidency and a Democratic Congress.

In this campaign this country is too big and too prosperous to be affected by a change of administration. Nothing declares in its platform that Democratic victory can easily result in destruction of the present prosperity.

The fact can be easily demonstrated. If it should be known on the morning of November 6 that Woodrow Wilson has been elected president of the United States, every American manufacturer would know that in the course of time there would be a radical change in every schedule of tariffs. The Democratic party declares in its platform that protection is unconstitutional. Woodrow Wilson is a free trader, and of the 224 Democratic members of the House of Representatives, 125 are from the south, a section which has always been in favor of free trade. These free trade southern Democrats would dominate the House caucus and outvote the northern and western Democrats who honestly believe in some measure of protection to American industry.

But the trouble is that the change would not come immediately. First and foremost, the Democrats would be unable until after the 6th of March. Every tariff act now on file would still be consumed in debating and enacting a new schedule, so that nearly a year would pass before the American manufacturer would be made acquainted with the conditions under which they would have to conduct their business. During all these months the manufacturer would be hand to mouth, purchasing no supplies and employing no more workmen than absolutely necessary to fill existing orders.

And then, when the law had been passed, American manufacturers would find that the doors of the United States had been opened to foreign importations. Manufacturing which should have been done in the United States will be done by laborers in England, Germany, France, America and even in Japan.

Before long, American gold would go across the sea to pay for these foreign-made products. As in Cleveland, when the Democrats took the bank reserve, compelling loans to be called in and securities to be sacrificed at a low price in order to obtain the reserve, the result was in Cleveland's time, would have sold bonds to maintain its gold reserve, and those bonds would have been the American gold which had gone into the hands of foreigners.

Strong Tide Toward Taft.

There is a strong tide of public sentiment setting in toward President Taft. It comes from all sections of the country and is not confined to Republicans.

The situation at the present time very much resembles the conditions in 1892. At that time the country was menaced by the authority of free coinage of silver, but was saved by the action of many Democrats who voted the Republican ticket. This

NERVOUS HEADACHE

And Numbness in the Hands and Arms.

This Iowa Woman Was in a Serious Condition and Her Cure Will Interest Many.

A cure of unusual interest and importance is related by Mrs. J. H. Morgan, of Correctionville, Iowa. After a hopeless sufferer from sick headache, she is now entirely free from attacks. She tells of her cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"Some years ago I was in a terribly nervous and run-down condition and suffered greatly from nervous headaches. I was treated for three months by a specialist in Chicago, who said he would cure me, but he did not help me. My head seemed as though it would burst, and I had relieved myself until I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I bought a box and since then I have used them as a family medicine."

"Before the birth of my last child I suffered untold agony with pain and numbness in my hands and arms. My hair was so swollen and the muscles so sore that I could hardly dress myself. For some time I could not close my left hand. During the day if I kept moving the pain did not seem to be so bad, but my hands were always numb. I again read Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and found them good for this trouble also, as they entirely relieved my hands. Unless properly treated sick headache is a disease of many years duration, as it occurs before the onset of the disease with more or less regularity until the blood is purified. It is probably directly caused by a defect in the process which changes the food into the blood. Most sufferers are troubled with obstinate constipation, which makes it necessary to use a laxative. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and the new laxative, PINKETTES, the little laxative pills, in a little booklet, 'The Treatment of Sick Headache,' which is free on request, together with a sample of PINKETTES, the little laxative pills."

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale all drug stores, or will be mailed to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. J. C. Williams, Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., U.S.A."

their countries to pay for foreign-made goods.

It is thus easy to understand how Democratic tariff legislation will upset prosperity. The matter is one of vital interest to the farmer because in the Democratic tariff bills passed by the house and voted by the president, cereals were placed on the free producing countries in the world, and especially our neighbor on the northern border, would send in wheat and corn and deprive the American farmer of his market.

In 1892, when there was prosperity under a Republican administration, a majority of the people voted in favor of a change and elected Grover Cleveland president. What happened then will happen again. There will come anxiety and distress, with many thousands of factories closed, and men and women out of employment and the farmer suffering under low prices and decreased value of his farm lands.

The way to avoid this result is to vote for Taft and Sherman and the entire Republican ticket.

Choosing a Wife.
An old Virginia gentleman who said he knew the way to pick a wife was willing to recommend to you to pick one. His advice is: See how she looks in the morning! The old Virginia gentleman, when getting married himself, sent his valet across to buy one in the morning. One looked well and one didn't. One found a husband. One didn't. So, ladies beware! (A note: Men are important, but find and true they are as sure as you are women. Men hate a woman who looks trovzy in the morning.)

FACE ALMOST COVERED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Atchison, Kan.—"For a number of years I suffered with a face covered with eruptions. My face was very red and irritated, being almost covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over the face and neck, with a few large pimples on my forehead and chin. My face burned and looked soiled. It was not only unsightly but very uncomfortable. I tried several remedies but couldn't get any relief. I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I applied the Cuticura Ointment in the evening, leaving it for about five minutes, then washing it off with soap and hot water. I used it with the Cuticura Soap and hot water also several times during the day. After about four months of this application my face was cleared of the pimples. I still use the Cuticura Soap (Signed) Miss Elsie Nielson, Dec. 29, 1913."

BAD BACKS DO MAKE WORK HARD

Backache makes the daily toil for thousands, an agony hard to endure. Many of these poor sufferers have kidney trouble and don't know it. Swollen, aching kidneys usually go hand in hand with liver trouble, backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness and despondency. When suffering, say Dr. Dean's Kidney Pills, the best recommended kidney remedy.

Here's an Oregon Case

L. Munger, Proctor, Oregon, writes: "I have used Doan's Backache Kidney Pills for a long time and have found them to be a steady and sure remedy for all my troubles. I have used many other pills but they do not seem to do me any good."

To THE VOTERS OF PINE COUNTY:

I desire to thank you for your votes at the Primary Election, in which I received the democratic nomination for the office of Clerk of District Court. I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the coming election, November 5th.

The office of Clerk of Court is an office that all the people of the county are vitally interested in and which closely affects the affairs of all of us. It is necessary and very essential for the proper administration of the affairs of this very important office that a man be honest, efficient, alert to the duties of the office and willing to devote his time to the work of the office as a servant of the people who place him there.

I feel that I am qualified to fill this important place, that I fully realize its magnitude and believe that I am broad enough in my views to clearly grasp the situation and use it for the welfare of the whole county.

Before you determine your choice for this office, I ask that you make a careful investigation of my reputation, scholarship, and general business ability and if you can then give me your support I can truthfully promise you that I fully realize the importance of such, and will do my best to hold the confidence and respect of the people.

Yours very truly,

WM. F. BUSCHMEIER.

To THE VOTERS OF PINE COUNTY:

I respectfully solicit your votes for re-election as Sheriff of Pine County. I stand for re-election on my record and solicit your support, unless you believe some act of mine as incumbent of this office has rendered me unfit for such re-election. On this point I rely upon my public record. No complaint for wrong or inefficiency has ever been made against me. I have neither done nor left undone anything which was not required by my oath of office to do or not to do, and any criticism against me for any act or omission must necessarily be a criticism against me for failure to violate my oath of office. That I have neither done and never will do.

In every matter which has come before me for decision or action the sole consideration which has influenced my conduct has been the requirements of law which guide and regulate the discharge of the duties of Sheriff, and which no man can disregard without committing a breach of faith towards the people he represents, and stultifying himself. The efficiency and economy of my administration cannot be successfully questioned, and if I am re-elected I will faithfully and impartially do my duty to the best of my ability. I am for law and order and will protect the lives and property of the people.

Respectfully submitted,

R. J. HAWLEY.

NEXT Tuesday will tell the tale and we will then know who's who and why. The polls will be open from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m., single time to enable voters to vote.

Excursion, in one of his public addresses, once gave his definition of "man of the world," and the men we read of in newspapers and novels, men of stocks and oranges, men who were deep in the mysteries of the wine glass, men of fines, politics and rotten business methods—not these last men who's sympathies were with all that was good and noble—which were they and wide and related to every right thought and every good work going on in the universe—these were Emerson's men of the world. "Shakespeare, Scott, Bunyon, Dickens and Cervantes are among the stars which shine for all of us to admire," said he, "and others, so numerous that they never get included in any peevish, nor even named in any newspaper."

In our opinion The Hineckley Herald has sung its little song, and really it has not been much of a song either. In the articles relative to the tax sales held in previous years, no conclusive proof is cited. The editor of The Herald in his reply to Mr. Hureley's article of last week states that he has never questioned the legality of any of the sales mentioned. Taking for granted that anything that is legal is honest, we suppose that the men who framed the laws of this state were all wrong and that the only way to rectify this wrong would be to dismiss the men we have sent down to St. Paul and let Mr. Newman, of The Herald, the slush slinger and smircher, make the laws to suit his own sweet will. The voter is told that on going over the records he might find such and such a transaction recorded, knowing meanwhile that the voters of this county can't drop their folk work, and all rush to the court house, there to search over the record books. It don't listen good to us at all. That kind of bluff may get some of the voters, but how about the balance of them. We wonder if the writer of the tax articles published in the Herald thinks for a minute that the fair-minded thinking men of this county are going to cast their ballots in accordance with the line of "stuff" he has been handing out? If they do, we miss our guess.

THE DEAD CITY OF CAJAMARQUILLA

Charles Warren Currier, Ph. D.

For the thousands of people who inhabit Lima, or of the many who, in the winter months, take a run up to Chicla, on the Oroya railway, there is probably not one in a hundred who knows anything of Cajamarca. I was about to leave the capital of Peru without dreaming that, within a stone's throw, there were slumbering the ruins of a prehistoric civilization that had not yet passed away when Pisarro laid the foundation of the City of the Sovereign.

The sacred city of Pachacamac is known to, and mentioned by every traveler who touches Lima within the limits of his itinerary. It has been visited and described from the days of the Conquistadores with more or less accuracy, until Dr. Max Müller made a special study of it and published his monumental work. If these ruins of the Larín valley are world famous, it is not thus with those of the valley of the Rimac, and if Pachacamac is part of the city it buried would indicate remote antiquity, and a possible destruction of the place long before the advent of the Europeans, were it not for what Estete tells us. Miguel Estete accompanied Hernando Pisarro from Caxamarca to Pachacamac at the time when Atahualpa's people were scouring the country to collect sufficient gold for the ransom of their unfortunate chief. He gives us the itinerary of Hernando day by day, until the return to Caxamarca. Wherever he goes he finds the country thickly populated with towns and villages, surrounded by cultivated fields of maize and orchards, with flocks of a kind of sheep. He judges that Pachacamac is of considerable antiquity and he finds within it a certain number of ruins. No mention is made of Cajamarca, yet it is probable that his journey lay through the valley of the Rimac, and Markham even supposes that he passed over the present site of Lima.

According to Midden-dorf, who infers his statement from Estete's narrative, the valley was at that time thickly populated, having beside many small places a three large towns, Huacra, now Huacra, Armatambo, and Cajamarca. Huacra, it is said, was the principal town of the district. Its ruins still exist between Lima and the village of Magdalena, but they seem to be even less known than those of Cajamarca.

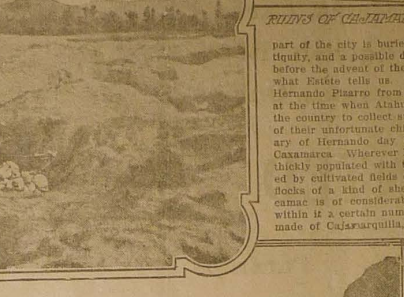

The valley, together with the entire coast, was overrun and conquered by the Spaniards at the arrival of the Spaniards about the time that these lords of the Peruvian uplands imposed their rule on the Grand Chimú farther north and on Pachacamac. Though there is little or nothing to indicate any Inca occupation at Cajamarca, it is quite likely that after the conquest its population more or less mingled with the conquerors. To judge from the names of places in the conquered districts, the Spaniards gradually supplanted the original tongue of the valleys and coastlands. Cajamarca is a Quechua name meaning "rock on the summit of the hill." The city in the Rimac valley was thus called Lima, Cajamarca to distinguish it, no doubt, from that other Cajamarca to the north, so intimately connected with the soil history of Atahualpa.

Among old writers who have treated of the coast people that preceded the Incas, Don Francisco de Ayala, priest in the principal village of Huarochiri, may be profitably consulted. His work was translated and published by Sir Clements Markham, in the forty-eight volume of the Hakluyt series. Unfortunately, Cajamarca furnishes little data to the archaeologist. It contains no inscriptions, no works of art, and its pits have been opened and searched, probably by treasure hunters, only to show that they carried off any objects of value they may have contained.

Yet the ruins are of the greatest interest for the beauty of their situation, their general plan, and their adobe architecture. Cajamarca must rank as one of the finest remains of that mysterious pre-Inca civilization which extended to the coast between the Pacific ocean and the mighty Andean ranges. Unlike the massive ruins on Lake Titicaca, or the oft-mentioned Pachacamac, it has attracted little scientific and its part either of tourist or scientist, and its history does not exist. Yet a careful study of its houses, with their apartments, of its streets, and of its burial places may, I think, throw some light on the mode of life of the primitive people that once dwelt within it. The ethnologist may also find some material in the skulls that he scattered throughout the ruined city, or buried in its pits.

As you wander through the Rimac valley and contemplate its vast solitudes and crumbling ruins, you ask yourself what has become of the population of the West Indies, and where are our Indians of the United States? They have melted away before the advance of civilization. Some day a patient explorer and archaeologist may pitch his tent among the ruins of Cajamarca, to study them in detail and foretell to posterity some of their secrets. At least he may reveal some of their secrets. He would draw up a plan of the city, and reconstruct it, drawing some order from its confusion.

For the present, Cajamarca is a mystery to us. Its ruins are the subject of legend, not of fact. Its existence is ignored, no legends cluster around it; its existence is ignored, no legends cluster around it; its existence is ignored, no legends cluster around it. It is, in every truth, a dead city of the desert.

STREET SCENE IN CAJAMARQUILLA

is now quite safe to visit Cajamarca. In fact, the thought of robbers was not connected in my mind with Cajamarca until I read Squier's work.

During our brief stay among the ruins it was impossible to make anything like measurements, except with the eye, but as far as the vision extended towards the mountain we saw nothing but ruins which stretched to a great distance to right and left. Toward the river they seemed to form an area of nearly a square league, and Midden-dorf estimates their extent at four square kilometers. From my observations, the ruins consist of houses built of immense adobe blocks, closely adjoining each other, and there separated by streets. Some of the houses consist of several apartments. Admission is gained through a low doorway, but nowhere is there a sign of a window. As in Pompeii, the roofs, whatever may have been the material of their construction, have long since fallen in. Outside the buildings, the soil has risen to a great height, sometimes nearly to the top of the wall, but inside the walls the depth gives an idea of the original height of perhaps 10 feet or more. To ward the mountain, a large portion of the city is almost completely buried in the sand, which in the course of ages has come drifting down from the hills. There are within the city a few elevations or small hills, which may have been occupied by temples or forts. Pits are everywhere within and without the houses, with a width of from two to four and a depth ranging from six to twenty feet or more. Human remains in the shape of skulls and bones are found within the pits or scattered over the ground, together with bits of pottery and other articles, such as earthen cobs, which were probably interred with the dead. Some of these pits are said to have served the purposes of storerooms or granaries, while others were certainly graves. The inhabitants of the city buried their dead within or in the immediate vicinity of their houses, although the mass of the people must have used the necropolis, of these pits, excavated in the hard soil, are in the form of a jar or urn, while others are square.

Squier thus describes the ruins as he saw them. "These consist of three great groups of buildings and around the central mass, with streets passing between them. It would be impossible to describe this complicated mass of massive adobe walls, most of them still standing, albeit much shattered by earthquakes, or to convey an idea of the pyramidal edifices, rising stage on stage, with terraces and broad flights of steps leading to their summits."

He adds that the history of the place has been lost to tradition. As standing on an eminence, surrounded by the ruins, with the silence of death upon you, you look down upon what was once a city, capable of containing a population of ten or twelve thousand, you wonder what people dwelt there. The accumulation of soil and the fact that a large known to all, solitary Cajamarca is buried in an obscurity as deep as the sand that covers it, while few, very few, authors even make mention of it.

I said that I was about to leave Lima. It was the eve of my departure when I learned from Professor Saville of New York, the well-known Ecuadorian explorer, that he had visited the ruins that very day. How I wished that I could have accompanied him! I concluded that regrets were needless, and I was about to relinquish all hope of ever seeing the old Peruvian city, when I learned that the departure from Callao of the Ironclad had been postponed for a day. Communicating this fact to Doctor Saville, he most graciously volunteered to accompany me on the morrow. It was an opportunity I readily grasped.

Thus it happened that we met by appointment at the Lima station of the Oroya railroad at 8:30 on a morning early in July. Gray clouds, as usually, hung heavily over the city when we boarded the train, which soon pulled out of the station, to begin the steep journey up the Andean slopes. A little way outside of Lima the sun was shining in a cloudless sky, scattering its rays through an atmosphere as transparent as any you could wish to see in Castle or Aragon. Here and there on the route the adobe ruins of pre-Inca civilization might be observed, for the Rimac valley is richer in such ruins than any other part of the coast.

The morning was bright and exhilarating when we arrived at Santa Clara railway station. Leaving Mrs. Saville to precede to Chicla, the professor, his young son, and myself alighted. A little male car, run on tracks, awaited us. It might accommodate about nine persons. We sprang to the seats, the driver whipped up his mules, and off we were on the long, sandy road between fields of sugar cane. Poor mules, cut and bleeding, how we pitied them! But in these countries animals are handled without mercy. A run of a couple of miles or more, passing on the way the little train that is used to haul the cane, or carry the laborers, we arrived near the dwelling of the hacienda, now leased, I understand, by Chinese. Some distance from the house we alighted, to continue the journey on foot in the direction of the mountains. For a while we had a good, though dusty road, but the greater part of the journey had to be made through sandy plains, which did not improve our personal appearance, so that we appeared more like a bunch of wild geese than the Hotel Maury in Lima. Our way was now and then obstructed by adobe walls, or by the canals used for irrigation. It was not long before we caught sight of the ruins, solitary and abandoned. With the exception of a herd of cattle and the occasional herdsman, besides an occasional llama-mountain herdman, no living being was in sight. Cajamarca lies about 23 miles from Lima, as you ascend the valley of the Rimac, but in a side valley, in a plain among the ruins of the Andes. The valley is watered by a canal, dug, probably, at a period antedating the advent of the Spaniards. In the vicinity are several haciendas, such as Hacienda de La Rivera, and candelas, such as Hacienda de La Rivera, and an occasional "tambo" or rural inn, where, if you care to, some kind of refreshment may be had. These, however, are hardly visible from the ruins, near which one solitary hut is to be seen. Years ago, when Squier visited the place, the ruins were the haunt of robbers that gave no little trouble to the Peruvian authorities, but the railroad has driven them out of business, and it

Police Lack Descriptions. Despite their efforts, the police had nothing to work on except a cashed check, and a dozen pieces of crinkled green paper, for which the robbers had been paid face value.

The $100 checks, Minneapolis and the police department, in fact, soon after the robbery, in notifying downtown business places of the missing checks. The notifications, in many cases, came too late.

Turning abruptly to the other extreme, after knowledge of the robbery had become general, business men caused an endless stream of troubles to more than 2,000 $100 line employees with good checks they desired cashed.

At police headquarters several officials were kept busy answering telephone queries of anxious business men who had had the matter of cashing a $100 check put up to them.

ONLY MATTER OF CONJECTURE HOW LONG THE PATIENT CAN SURVIVE.

KIDNEYS ARE AFFECTED.

Partly Leaders Face Problem in Having to Name Successor to James B. Sherman at a Late Hour.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 29.—At a late hour a son of the vice president made public this statement, signed by the attending physicians:

"After a consultation in the case of Vice President Sherman, the diagnosis of weakened heart muscles, the result of overwork, with some kidney involvement is confirmed.

"F. H. PECK, "HENRY L. EISENBERG," James Schoeller, Sherman, vice president of the United States, is seriously ill and steadily failing in a critical condition. While his physicians, Dr. Fayette H. Peck, believes there is no immediate danger of death, yet the patient's condition is such that it is a matter of conjecture how much longer he can withstand the ravages of the disease with which he is afflicted.

Leaders Facing Problem. Washington.—The illness of Vice President Sherman and speculation over the question of his resignation has given the Republican ticket because of the precarious condition of his health, aroused discussion here over the probable method of filling his place.

EXPERIENCES OF A BRITISH IMMIGRANT IN CANADA—WEST.

The following straightforward statement needs no comment to add to its force and effect. It appears in a recent issue of the Liverpool Mercury.

H. Patterson, of Nutana, Bainsborough, Canada, when he arrived from Liverpool, had $10 of his to support, to use his own phraseology, and his funds were getting low. He secured a homestead 32 miles east from St. James, and started living on it April 15, 1907. The previous fall he had put his money, $137, into a shack and lot, making sure of a home.

Mrs. Bethune, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered from a severe case of rheumatism. I was bedridden for five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I tried many doctors and had bad results and had to leave my home. I was told Mrs. E. F. Pincham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for her wife, I was inclined to take it. Now I look the part of health and feel like I do. I can do my own housework, my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I wish, and walk as far as I wish. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. Lydia E. Pincham, St. Louis, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pincham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but I don't know how I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was cured from the operation."—Mrs. Callista Moore, N. B. Co., Murrayville, Ill.

"In October, 1908, I secured my present land, so took a few days' holiday to Elizabeth to locate a piece of land from the Government. Instead of getting the purchased homestead, I secured a half section (320 acres) of the State of New York for $25 per acre on easy terms, nine years' payments with a cash payment of $4,000. I mortgaged my first home on my stock, and on December 21st, 1905, took possession; on June 10, 1910, I sold out again for $20 per acre. I also sold my first home (140 acres), clearing $1,800 and two Sashamans (1,000 each) today. We placed all our capital in another farm (river front) and some trackage lots (40) also purchased homestead (river front). I remained as Manager of the Farm I had sold on a three years' contract at the salary and house, garden, and numerous privileges.
