JOINED IN WEDLOCK.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Wencel Lorence, of Minneapolis, and Miss Mary Besta were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. Father Leo. The bride was attended by Misses Rose Besta, her sister, for this place; Agnes Lorence, a sister of the groom; Anna and Kate Feltl, of Hopkins, and the groom by Messrs. Stephen Feltl, of Minneapolis; Michael Vojta, of this place; J. F. and Fred Fuxa. Mr. J. J. Lorence, a brother of the groom, wife and daughter, of Minneapolis, were also of the wedding party. The party left the Besta home at about 9 o'clock and drove by teams to the church, where solemn High Mass was said by Father Leo, at the end of which the two were made one. Following the ceremony the bridal party went to Richardson Gray's photo studio and had their pictures taken and then drove out to the home of the bride's parents, who reside four and one-half miles east of this place, where a wedding dinner was served. The afternoon and evening were spent in dancing and merry-making. The happy young couple departed on the noon train Wednesday for Hopkins, where they will make their future home.

The bride is quite well known in this place and vicinity, she having lived with her parents near this place ever since she was a small girl. She received her education at the Stephan school house on the Government road and is a bright young lady.

The groom is not known in this place, having been brought up in Hopkins and Minneapolis. Those who know him respect him most, which is as good a recommend as any one can have.

The Pioneer joins with the friends of the young couple in wishing them a pleasant journey down life's tempestuous sea.

ROCK CREEK

Mr. Bruce at Deer Valley had the misfortune of having his horse burned to the ground Saturday night. He lost almost everything. Not being insured makes it very hard.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dugan closed up house and went to Okaloosa, Iowa, to stay until the first of March, 1913, when Mr. Dugan will again be employed by the Rock Creek Co-operative Creamery Company as assistant. May they enjoy their visit.

The committee that was appointed to see about getting up an entertainment of M. W. A. Camp, of Rock Creek, have made arrangements with Mr. E. Johnson to have their play and dance in Mr. Johnson's new hall Saturday evening, Nov. 30. The Royal Neighbors will give their supper on this occasion. Everybody come and help to dedicate the new hall and enjoy a good play and dance, with a good lunch.

The M. W. A. Rock Creek Camp held their camp meeting Saturday evening at the hall. We were glad to see so many Rock Creek Camp neighbors present. They had an enjoyable time and a whole large boiler full of oyster stew were served, so that each member present was having all they could possibly devour, and went home happy. Consul George Lernerth certainly worked hard to make it pleasant for all.

The Royal Neighbor Camp of Rock Creek will have their next camp meeting Thanksgiving. The Pine City team are invited to officiate that evening and we expect to initiate several new members. Lunch will be served after the ceremony. All Royal Neighbors are respectfully asked to attend, and don't forget your cakes, sandwiches, salad or other good things to make the evening a pleasant one. Don't miss the fun.

Mr. Hyland, who came from Rosemont, Minn., as a bricklayer, for Mr. E. Johnson on his new store, has completed his work and returned to his home on Thursday, the 14th. The gentleman had been working on the building five weeks. He likes this town and county very much; is greatly surprised to see the amount of business that is done at Rock Creek. He says he enjoyed the healthy air around Rock Creek very much.

NOTICE.

There is to be a meeting of the Pine County Development Association in Hinckley Friday, Nov. 29, at 7:30. Every one interested in the welfare of Pine county should attend.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

At the Presbyterian church in this place Monday, was held the first regular meeting of the newly organized Ministerial Association, for the ministers of all denominations of this county and the neighboring towns outside the county.

A committee consisting of Rev. Rhodes and McKane, of this place, and Rev. F. J. Smith, of Hinckley, were appointed by the Chair to formulate a basis of organization and report the same at the next meeting of the Association, which will be held in the M. E. church in this place on Monday the 2nd day of December.

It is probable that the Association will meet every two weeks in the future, at which time problems that confront the ministers will be discussed.

The following officers were elected: Rev. Holttainger, of Hinckley, Pres.; Rev. F. L. McKane, of this place, V. Pres.; Rev. H. H. Parish, of this place also, Sect. and Treas.

Must Move the Depot--Judge Stolberg Finds For Brook Park In Railroad Case.

Judge Stolberg filed a decision on November 8th in the appeal of the Great Northern railroad from the decision of the State Railroad and Warehouse commission upholding the commission and in favor of Brook Park.

Under this decision the railroad company is ordered to move its depot to the place asked by the citizens of Brook Park and ordered to stop all its trains at the junction.

The text of the decision follows: "It is hereby ordered and adjudged and decreed that within sixty days after the service of this order on the Great Northern Railway company the said Great Northern Railway company remove the station building in Brook Park from its present location to that certain point or location marked 'x' shown on respondent's said exhibit 'e' being near and on the east side of the intersection of Second avenue with the main tracks of said railway company, and that said railway company bring all trains to full stop before reaching the said railroad junction and that respondent recover costs and disbursements of this action."

This is one more advance in towards giving Brook Park the service it is entitled to but the village will probably have to wait still longer before it receives justice, as the case will in all likelihood be appealed to the Supreme Court. (Hinckley Enterprise)

Let Us Reason Together

That is what we want to do when you are thinking of building.

Our experience in the lumber business covers many years, and our bashfulness almost prevents us from saying that we can offer you the best advice when it comes to planning your house or barn. If you are undecided as to just what you want let us assist you out of your difficulty. It will cost you nothing and it will be a pleasure to us. If you think it is going to be too expensive to build now, come in anyway and let us talk it over. NOW, surely, is the very best time.

MARCH ON CAPITAL

BULGARIAN TROOPS ARE NOW WITHIN FIVE MILES OF CONSTANTINOPE.

CHOLERA AIDS THE ALLIES

Five Hundred Cases of Dread Disease Are Reported Daily Among the Hard Pressed Moslems, and Total Is Said to Exceed 6,000.

Constantinople, Turkey, Nov. 16.—Bulgarian troops have reached the vicinity of Killoos, on the Black sea coast, at the entrance to the Bosphorus and within a few miles of the capital. The men belonging to the Turkish lifeboat station have left.

Reports 6,000 Cholera Cases.

Constantinople, by way of Kustendje, Nov. 16.—The cholera epidemic among the Turkish troops is adding the line of fortifications at Tehtalia, in front of Constantinople is rapidly becoming worse. More than 500 cases are reported daily, and the total number already exceeds 6,000.

Whatever hopes the Turks may have had of maintaining the line of defense at Tehtalia have been dashed by this outbreak of cholera. An eyewitness declares that he saw 263 corpses buried in one big trench at Hadimkent, headquarters of the Turkish command, on Tuesday. The bodies were dragged to the spot on hooks and dropped into the trench, which was not nearly deep enough for the purpose, the covering of earth being shallow.

It is said on good authority that cholera already has appeared among the Bulgarian troops. This would not be surprising, as they occupy the positions where the disease claimed its first Turkish victims.

Bulgaria to Consult Allies.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 16.—The Turkish request for an armistice, addressed by Kiamli Pasha, the grand vizier, to King Ferdinand, was discussed by the Bulgarian council of ministers. It was decided to reply that the Bulgarian government would inform the other nations of the Balkan alliance of the step taken by Turkey and would give its answer as soon as possible after coming to an agreement with them.

After the allies have consulted, it is believed, the negotiations for an armistice will be carried on by the command in the field, and the Turkish armies purely from a military point of view. The negotiations can begin only after the Turks have accepted the conditions proposed by the Bulgarians, and meanwhile no further reinforcements of Turkish troops may be brought in to the field of operations.

Surrender to Serbian Cavalry.

Belgrade, Serbia, Nov. 16.—Another Turkish force hounded the white flag and surrendered to the Serbian cavalry yesterday. The Bulgarians attacked the Ottoman troops at Debromira, about five miles northeast of Monastir, and in spite of a gallant fight succeeded in driving the Turkish advance posts from their strongly entrenched positions. The Turks retreated and were pursued as far as the village of Moravia, in the mountains.

The Bulgarians, who surrounded them there and poured in such a heavy fire that the Turkish officer in command decided it was useless to continue fighting and ordered his men to throw down their arms. The advance of the Serbian army has been temporarily stopped by floods.

Adrianople a Rearing Inferno.

London, England, Nov. 16.—Bennett Burleigh in a dispatch from Mustraha Pasha to the Daily Telegraph describes the fighting around Adrianople. He says:

"Fort Arthur produced no grander or more terrible effects than Monday's Turkish bombardment. Hundreds of shells burst at the same instant over and around Adrianople. Guns of all calibers and kinds made a deafening roar, and the air was filled with the rearing inferno, which must have reverberated for miles along the Balkan mountains and reached and rattled the houses in distant Mustraha. The Turks attempted to reply, but were soon overpowered by the tremendous strength, energy and accuracy of the besieger's artillery."

Mr. Burleigh describes the storming of the forts on the north and east the same night. He says:

"The Bulgarian storming battalions first attended divine worship. They stripped off and piled their superfluous coats and baggage in the trenches. The Turkish riflemen snatched at attempting to sally, little knowing what was in store for them. There was a tornado of artillery fire, rifle fire on both sides, then the Bulgarians ran in with bayonet. There was wild and terrible work, with no hope to ask or give quarter. Such Turks as could be seen lay left an awful trail of dead and dying on the field. The battle continued for many hours in a heavy rainstorm."

EX-GOV. LARRABEE DIES

AT HOME IN IOWA

For Sixty Years He Had Been a Large Factor in the Development of the Commonwealth.

Clemont, Ia., Nov. 15.—Former Gov. William Larrabee died at his home near here at the age of eighty, a illness early at LeRoy, Iowa. The former governor had been suffering from rheumatism, and under the care of a nurse. With remarkable will power he bent every energy to live to cast his vote for Theodore Roosevelt, and his wish was fulfilled. Two months ago he refused longer to take medicine. His wife, all the living children and grandchildren were at his deathbed. Funeral services were held this afternoon.

Resident of Iowa for 60 years, Mr. Larrabee had been a large factor in the development of the state. He was born January 29, 1832, the son of a soldier of 1812, at LeRoy, Iowa. The former governor got a common school education and had two months at a private academy, but his father gave him a good business education. Coming to Iowa in 1853, he taught school, then was a farm hand, and in 1856 became a miller here. He remained in the milling business until 1873 and later engaged in farming and banking.

Mr. Larrabee's public career began in 1868, when he was elected to the state senate. He remained a member of that body until 1885, when he was elected governor of Iowa. He served four years, giving the state a thorough business administration.

The most important legislation of his term was that of providing for railway regulation in Iowa, which remains practically unaltered.

Mr. Larrabee married Anna M. Appleman in 1861. They had seven children—Charles, Augusta, Julia, Anna, William, Frederick and Helen. William, Jr., has just been elected to a third term in the Iowa house, and Frederick has been elected to a second term in the state senate.

BIG RIOT IN PARLIAMENT

Winston Churchill Smashed in Face by Heavy Blow—Home Rule Wins Big Victory.

London, Nov. 14.—As the house of commons was temporarily adjourned here after scenes of wild confusion following the attempt of Premier Asquith to bring the vote on the Home Rule bill to an amendment to the home rule bill by which the government sustained a defeat, a book thrown by one of the opposition members struck Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, full in the face. Mr. Churchill was slightly stunned, but otherwise unhurt.

It was perhaps the stormiest session the house has ever known. From the moment the premier made his motion to rescind the vote, the uproar continued almost unintermittently. Liberal speakers were shouted down by the Unionists; Premier Asquith was denounced as a traitor; the government was declared to smell in the nostrils of financial London; and several members were ordered from the house when the parliamentary language grew particularly violent.

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 15.—Governor James H. Hawley will resign office for the purpose of accepting appointment as United States senator to complete the late Senator Heyburn's term. # SINGS "SWAN SONG"

OFFERS A TOAST TO WILSON

Declares Cabinet Members Should Sit in Congress—Suggests Chloroform at Retirement—Taft Method Easier Than Colonel Bryan's.

New York, Nov. 18.—President Taft sang his "swan song" as chief executive of the nation when as the guest of the Lotus club, the president responded to the toast, "The President," in a speech which many of his hearers considered the most remarkable he has ever made.

The president earnestly advocated the admission to the halls of congress of members of a president's cabinet, and declared a six-year term in the presidency was enough for any man. He advocated the placing under civil service of practically every official, and said that congress should provide for ex-presidents so that they need not lower the dignity of the office when they enter into private life.

Offers Toast to Wilson.

"The president closed his speech with a toast to the president-elect, Woodrow Wilson, and to the able, distinguished and patriotic gentleman who is to be"—and he raised his glass while his hearers applauded.

Sings His "Swan Song."

"I saw in the name of your club the president of the Lotus club to these about to give me.

"You have given me the toast of the president-elect, Mr. Bryan, and the president of the Lotus club, and I am bound to say that what chiefly staves the president in the face of his own life is the limitation upon the power and not its extent.

"Of course there are happy incidents which are to be regretted, but I ignore such as the miller here. He remained in the milling business until 1873 and later engaged in farming and banking.

Urges Six-Year Term.

"In these days of progress, reform, uplift and improvement, a man does not show himself abreast of the age unless he has some changes to suggest. It is contrary to my own long practice, and as to then the result may be different.

Urges Six-Year Term.

"What are we to do with our experiment? I am not sure Dr. Osler's method of dealing with elderly men would not properly apply to the treatment of presidents. A dose of chloroform or of the fruit of the lotus tree might make a fitting end to the life of one who has held the office so long, and at the same time would secure the country from the troubles that fear that the occupant could ever come back.

Big Fire at Hoopston, Ill.

Hoopston, Ill., Nov. 15.—Five persons had narrow escapes from burning to death in a fire which destroyed the Evening Herald building at Hoopston and damaged four other business houses. The fire had been burning for some time and the town was awakened by the falling of the spines and the falling of the roof.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The strike of 2,000 members of the Chicago Teamsters' union lasted less than twenty-four hours. The teamsters demanded an increase of $1.50 a week in wages of every member of the union and after an all night and day conference at the Hotel LaSalle the teaming companies voted to make new contracts providing for the increase.

He has been stationed in Teheran, St. Petersburg, Cairo, Tokyo, Berlin and Constantinople. He married in 1904 Florence Lascelles, daughter of Rt. Hon. Sir Frank Lascelles.

PARTY BURIED BY MINE

CAVEIN FINALLY RESCUED

Number of Sightseers and Guide Are Caught in Famous Horn Silver Property in Utah.

Price, Utah, Nov. 16.—After being entombed twenty hours in the famous Horn silver mine a party of seven, including two girls, were rescued. The party went into the mine on a sight-seeing tour. There were in the party Daisy Alexander, nineteen; Hazel Alexander, sixteen; David Banks, Harold Robinson, James Riley, mine boss, John White, miner, and a Greek miner, name unknown. Short ly after the party had reached the 200-foot level, there came a great crash, and a terrific tearing sound. Riley instantly knew there was a big cave-in. He had to dig his way out the narrowest end of the level workings. Their lights were extinguished and the dust choked them. The girls became greatly excited and were calmed with difficulty. The party remained away from the shaft and it was feared they were safe. Meanwhile the rescuers had been at work all night digging a little rescue tunnel. Only a few men could work at a time, and the earth slipped in almost as fast as it was taken out. Finally at 1:45 in the afternoon the party was reached and quickly brought to the surface, exhausted, but unharmed.

Farms for Children

Perhaps the smallest farms in the world, each four by eight feet, have been devised by Mrs. Henry Parsons for the International Children's School Farm league, and demonstrated in New York. Each child becomes owner of his diminutive farm, in which he grows and harvests seven different kinds of vegetables, and these are borne by him in triumph to his family. About each farm is a 16-inch path, which he keeps in order, under his instructor it becomes a tiny object lesson in good roads.

If you have advertising or posting of fine job printing or literature, don't forget the Pioneer is for business.

—Mrs. Hobart Lee entertained the Methodist Ladies' Aid at her home south of town on Wednesday afternoon. The day was ideal and the ride home. The day was much enjoyed by the goodly number who attended.

—The fore part of the week we received a communication from Rev. Mr. Houlgate, stating that because of the death of one of his members at Olivia, he would not be able to be here Tuesday, Nov. 19th. However he will hold services here Tuesday evening, Nov. 20th.

—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pine County Agricultural Society will be held at the Town Hall, Pine City, on Tuesday, Dec. 5, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. All stockholders and others who are interested in the County Fair should be present.

H. W. HARTE, Secretary.

—The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held with Mrs. J. D. Boyle next Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 26th. These meetings take the form of mothers' meetings, which are very interesting. You are urged to attend, whether members or not. Do not forget the place and date.

Mrs. GOTTRY, Secretary.

—The following list of letters remain uncalled for at the local post-office for the week ending Nov. 18th: Mrs. Pearl Duery, M. Elkins, F. W. House, S. P. Hedges, Thea Oren, Jos. Sullivan, A. J. Svenson, Rev. Mrs. O. M. Wangensteen. These letters will be sent to the Dead Letter office Nov. 25th 1912.

—H. W. Harte and wife autoped to Hinckley Sunday afternoon, returning in the evening. They were accompanied by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. R. G. Harte, who spent Sunday night and Monday until limited time, when she returned home, accompanied by Mrs. H. W. Harte, Mr. Harte taking the south bound limited for the Twin Cities on business.

—All the young, middle-aged and old men in town should join the Men's Club, which meets every Monday evening in K. of P. Hall. If you want to hear the latest topics of the day discussed attend the club. If you have any topic that you would like to have discussed, join the club, read a paper on the subject and it will surely be discussed. You are invited.

—James E. Netser procured a hunting license last week and on Friday went to the camp of his son Ed, near Cloquet. Sunday morning he sallied forth and ere the sun had started on its journey across the clear November sky, had bagged a splendid deer. Owing to the fact that "Uncle Jim" served in the Civil war and in the four years of service became thoroughly acquainted with the science of shooting, no one dare doubt the veracity of his assertions. He returned to his home here on the limited Monday.

—Ab. Dunham is voted the luckiest man in Pine county. On the 7th of November he secured a hunting license and on the 9th started for the woods. In crossing Pokegama Creek he fell in and on getting out discovered that he had eleven large sunfish in his pockets. He also had some salt in his coat pocket and on reaching camp hung the coat containing the salt on a windfall to dry. Shortly afterwards a slight rattle in the leaves attracted his attention and on looking around he was surprised to see a large buck licking at his coat. Well, he sure got the buck.

OF THANKSGIVING DAY

BY DR. JOHN WILLIAM PERRIN

THE FLOCK OF TURKEYS

THE idea is prevalent in the United States that our Thanksgiving festival is peculiarly an American custom of New England origin. This is true in part only. The general observance through many years of a set day on which to give thanks to Almighty God for his blessings has made the custom distinctively American; but its origin long antedates the settlement of this western continent, and we must look elsewhere for its source.

The idea of Thanksgiving day goes back to remotest antiquity. It is a part of natural religion, and is probably as old as the human race. In written records we have ample evidence that the festival was celebrated in connection with "the fruits of the earth" by the ancient Egyptians, the Jews, the Greeks, and the Romans. Long before Luther's revolt from Rome in the sixteenth century it had been observed by the Christians, and after the reformation, thanksgiving days were in frequent use by the Protestants, especially those of England.

In old Egypt, when the harvest had been gathered, it was the custom to observe a day of feasting, and to pay offerings upon the altars of Isis, the goddess of agriculture. The Jewish festival was the "Ingathering," or the "feast of the tabernacle" mentioned in Exodus and other parts of the Old Testament. This was more particularly a thanksgiving for the fruit harvest, and as it came at the close of the entire harvest, it probably was intended also as a general thanksgiving "for the bounty of nature" in the year that had passed.

This festival appears early in Jewish history, and as it was connected with the land and its possession, may have had a Canaanitish prototype. Its celebration was annual and each festival continued through seven days. At the beginning two vessels of silver were carried in a ceremonious manner to the temple, one full of water, the other of wine, which were placed at the foot of the altar of burnt offerings, always on the seventh day of the festival.

Plutarch describes this ceremonial which he believed was a feast to Bacchus. He says: "The Jews celebrated two feasts to Bacchus, in the midst of the vintage they spread tables, spread with all manner of fruits, and live in tabernacles made especially of palms and ivy wreaths together. A few days later they kept another festival which was openly dedicated to Bacchus, for they carried bouquets of palms in their hands, with which they went into the temple, the Levites going before with instruments of music."

Analogous to the Jewish festival and possibly borrowed from it was that of the old Greeks, the Thesmophoria. This was a feast to Demeter, the goddess of the harvest. It lasted nine days and consisted of sacrifices of the products of the soil with oblations of "wine, milk and honey." Theocritus refers to it in the Seventh Idyll, where Salmicidas says: "Now, this is our way to the Thalsia, for our friends, in sooth, are making a feast to Demeter of the beautiful robe, offering the first fruits of the harvest, and in bounteous manner the goddess has plied the thrashing floor with barley."

The goddess of the Roman harvest was Ceres. Her festival was usually called Cerialia, and was a day for worship and rustic sports. Men and women formed processions and went to the fields with music. Virgil refers to this festival. He mentions the sacrifices that were offered in the temples and alludes to the joyousness of the occasion.

In one way or another, Thanksgiving day had been observed in Christian Europe for centuries before its celebration in New England. On the continent, and for a time in England, it occurred at Martinmas, which was a day of feasting and drinking. Occasionally, too, civil authorities recommended the observance of some fixed day. To celebrate the victory of King Henry V. of England at Agincourt, Oct. 25, 1415, a public thanksgiving was held on Sunday, the day of St. Martin, the king and confessor. Such a day, too, was observed in Leyden, Holland, Oct. 3, 1575, the first anniversary of that city from the siege by the Spaniards.

Many instances of thanksgiving days can be pointed out in England during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. In 1553, the second year of Elizabeth's reign, Thanksgiving day entered Rhode Island. It had been described by Nicol in his "Progress of Queen Elizabeth," by Stowe, and by some other contemporary writers. We are told that "the day was kept holy throughout the realm, with sermons, singing of psalms, benedictions, etc., for joy and thanksgiving unto God for the overthrow of the Spaniards, our enemies, on the sea; and the citizens of London in their hierarchy that day had a sermon at St. Paul's cross treading to that end."

One legal and annual thanksgiving day because of the long time it was such deserves special mention. After the traitors in the gunpowder plot had been tried and punished in 1605 it was ordered that because of their deliverance the English people should keep the 5th of November every year "as a public thanksgiving to Almighty God, that unforgotten benefactor may never be forgotten and that all ages to come may yield praise to God's divine majesty for the same." The "5th of November" constituted a legal thanksgiving day for more than two centuries, but in later years it fell into disuse, and in 1853 was abolished by parliament.

Long before the advent of the pilgrims in Massachusetts, all rituals contained expressions of gratitude to God for his mercies. In that of the Church of England special prayers were provided for the Sunday service. This service, however, must be carefully distinguished from the Thanksgiving day of the pilgrim fathers. Failure to make this distinction has led to the groundless claim that the Pilgrim colonists "were the first to keep Thanksgiving day" in America. The service at Monhegan on which this claim is based was the regular Sunday service of the Church of England, and while it had an element of thanksgiving the day can in no wise be regarded as a Thanksgiving day as that term is understood. Contemporary evidence refutes all claim to the contrary.

From "A Relation of Voyage to Sagadahoc" we read as follows: "Sunday being the 9th of August, in the morning the most part of our hull company of both shipes landed on this land, where the cross standeth; and there we heard a sermon dayned unto us by our preacher, eyeing God thanks for our happy meetings and safe arrival into the country, and so returned aboard again." (Massachusetts Historical society proceedings, xiv, 102.)

The record made in his "Breches Bible" by William White, who came over in the Mayflower, has far more significance in determining the origin of our American Thanksgiving day than the event at Monhegan. The record reads: "William White married on the 30 day of March, 1620, to Susannah Tilly, Pergrine White, born on board ye Mayflower in Cape Cod harbor, some. Born to Susannah White December 19th, ye six o'clock morning. Next day we met for prayer and thanksgiving." This meeting for "prayer and thanksgiving" was not on Sunday, but on Tuesday. The fact that it was not a part of the regular Sunday service makes it more nearly accord with our idea of Thanksgiving day than does the Monhegan event. But this similarity is not sufficient to warrant our regarding it as the origin of the American custom.

The prototype of our present Thanksgiving day is found in the harvest festival at Plymouth in 1621. The long winter that followed the establishment of the colony had been one of great mortality and suffering. Scarcely half of the colony had survived it. "At one time during the winter only Brewster, Standish and five other hardy ones were well enough to get about." In the spring and summer that followed their fortunes improved, and by autumn they had cleared twenty-six acres and made it ready for cultivation. This industry, too, had been rewarded by a bounteous harvest. "Now food and fuel sufficed for the needs of the approaching winter were laid in. Then Governor Bradford ordered a Thanksgiving—the first in America.

England, Edward Winslow has given us a brief account of the festivities. This letter bears the date of Dec. 11, 1621, and in it Winslow wrote: "Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling that so we might after special manner rejoice together after we had gathered the fruits of our labors. They four killed as much fowl as with a little help beside served the company about a week. At which times, among other recreations, we exercised our arms, many of the Indians coming amongst us and among the rest their greatest King, Massasoit, with some ninety men, whom for three days we entertained and feasted, and they went out and killed five deer, which they brought and bestowed on our governor and upon the captains and others."

From other sources we know that there were athletic contests besides the exercises of arms which Winslow mentioned. No doubt they played at "stooball," an old form of cricket, and "pitch ye bar," which Bradford mentions in his journals. There were no special religious services—at least there is no evidence of any. The pilgrims kept their daily prayers before breakfast. In this service, and in the joyous spirit that seems to have dominated the occasion as well, there was, no doubt, a devout thanksgiving to God for all the blessings he had vouchsafed them.

It has been repeatedly asserted that the "Thanksgiving festival was suggested to the pilgrims by the Jewish 'feast of Ingathering.'" This is not probable, as the differences between them are more striking than the likenesses. They were of the same duration, each lasting a week; and in common with all other harvest festivals they had the same intent. But in the Jewish festival sacrifice and worship were the prevailing characteristics, while in that of the pilgrims they were entirely wanting.

If the Plymouth festival has immediate kinship with similar events in the past, it has analogies with the harvest home of England which may relate them. The pilgrims were familiar with the English celebration and many of them, no doubt, had participated in it. The dominant mark of each was the joy over the ingathering harvest. In some districts in England, too, the festival had continued a week. Richard Carver in his "Society's weat" or "corn baby" and in many places the last load of the harvest was drawn to the barn in a wagon called the "hoop cart." In front went the plow and labor, and around it gathered the reap proceeded. At Plymouth there was no ceremony. The last shock of corn was not brought in "arrayed in brilliant finery." Neither was there any "bleating of the cart" or "kissing of the sheaves." There was no harvest song so familiar in the fatherland:

"Here's health to the barley mow;
Here's a health to the man
Who very well can
Both harrow and plow and sow."

MADE A CLEAN JOB OF IT

A jolly old boy, from the Midlands entered into one of the hotels at the seaside, and, seeing on the slab on the right a crab dressed on the shell with legs, claws and parsley laid round, said to his waiter:

"What d'ye call that?"

"Crab" was the answer.

"Looking good, I'll have 'un, and give us a pint o' ale."

Bread and butter was added and the diner left to his dinner. In about an hour the genial landlord entered the dining-room to see if his guest was getting on all right. He found him chawing up the last claw, the chawer red in the face but beaming.

"Like the crab, sir?"

"Yes; he was capital. I never tasted one afore. But I think you baked 'n little too long; the crab was hard. Let's have another pint."

He had eaten the lot—shell, claws and all complete—London T. D. B.

ROYALTY WELCOMES THE AMERICAN SETTLER

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS, THE DUKE OF CORNAUGHT, WELCOMES AMERICANS TO CANADA.

It was a happy speech, that on that beautiful October day, the Duke of Cornwall, Devon, Cornwall and Canada, made at Montreal, Alberta. It was an opportune speech, heartfelt and resonant with good fellowship. And so it was, especially intended for American ears, the audience, comprised largely of so many American settlers in Canada, the time and place could not have been better chosen.

It was in reply to an address of welcome tendered to him at the pretty city of Montreal, with the foothills of the Rockies as a setting, and the great wheat fields between, and in fact all around the place as the foreground, that the Duke, in a few words, touched the hearts of the men and the interests of the country and to those of the Americans who choose to make Canada their home, said in part:

"I am well aware that among those whom I am now addressing, there are a very great proportion who were not born under the British flag. Most of these will have realized by now that residence under that flag implies no disabilities. All we ask is that the laws of Canada should be obeyed.

"With this provision every one is free to come and go, to marry, to live and to die as seems best to him, and as it pleases Providence to ordain.

"We bring to pleasure to bear on anyone to adopt the Canadian nationality, for we do not value citizenship which is obtained under compulsion.

"Our American cousins are welcome from over the border. Thrice we welcome our Canadian and British brothers, who return to the Union, back either living under the Stars and Stripes.

"History is repeating itself. For many years hundreds of young Englishmen have sought their fortunes in the western States. Time has brought about a change, and the tide has set in the other direction, bringing across the frontier numbers of our neighbors to whom we are glad to return hospitality.

"One of the chief dispensers of such hospitality in proportion to its population has, as we have said, changed its character from an important cattle town to a thriving wheat producing area.

"What has I have lost from the picturesque point of view, it has gained in the material sense, and I wish, in conclusion, to express the hope that the prosperity which has evinced itself here for the past few years, may continue unabated for the future."

There is no reason why at a hundred places on this educative, instructive and interesting trip of His Royal Highness, the Duke, has not expressed himself in the same terms, and on each occasion, addressed large gatherings of Americans who are now settled on the prairie of Western Canada.—Advertisement.

Edmund, no Miss Antiqua is going to get married at last. Who is the lucky man?

"No—the clergyman. He's going to give 'em for it and assumes no responsibility."

RASH SPREAD TO ARMS

759 Roach Ave., Indianapolis, Ind.—

"At first I noticed small eruptions on my face. The trouble began as a rash. It looked like red pimples. In a few days they spread to my arms and back. They itched and burned so badly that I scratched them and of course the result was blood and matter. The eruptions festered, broke, opened and dried up, leaving the skin dry and scaly. I spent many sleepless nights, my back, arms and face burning and itching; sleep was purely and simply out of the question. The trouble also caused disfigurement. My clothing irritated the breaking out.

"By this time I had used several different remedies without success. The trouble continued. Then I began to use the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Within seven or eight days I noticed gratifying results. I purchased a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in about eighteen or twenty days my cure was complete." (Signed) Miss Katherine McCallister, Apr. 12, 1912.

Stretching It Out.

The men were boasting about their rich kin. Said one: "My father has a big farm in Connecticut. It is so big that when he goes to the barn on Monday morning to milk the cows he knows it at good and he doesn't get back till the following Saturday."

"Why does it take him so long?" the other asked.

"Because the barn is so far away from the house."

"Well, that may be a pretty big farm, but compared to my father's farm in Pennsylvania your father's farm ain't no bigger than a city lot!"

"Why, how big is your father's farm?"

"Well, it's so big that my father sends young married couples out to the barn to milk the cows, and the milk is brought back by their grandchildren."

A Tender Point.

"What got you into trouble with this poltergeist" demanded the New York judge.

"Just trying to ask him a civil question, your honor," said the visitor, "foolish more."

"What was the question?"

"I just asked him when the next official murder would be dragged off."

Very Humble.

Mrs. Stiles—How do you like my new gown?

Mr. Stiles—Reminds me of a crowd of theater.

Mrs. Stiles—Crowded theater? How so?

Mr. Stiles—There seems to be standing room only.—Judge.
