PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

On Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in this city occurred the marriage of Miss Pearl V. Gereaux to Walter P. Lohmar. Rev. F. L. McKane, former pastor of the Presbyterian church, tied the nuptial knot.

Miss Louise Wilcox acted as bridesmaid and Blaine Rowe was best man. At the close of the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to the bridal party, after which the happy young couple left for Waupun, Wis., where they will visit for a few days with Mr. Lohmar's parents. They will be at home here to their friends after Dec. 1st in the Mrs. M. L. O'Brien cottage.

The bride is well and favorably known, having been born, reared and educated in this city. Her kindly disposition and ladylike manners have won for her a warm place in the hearts of those who know her best. The groom has been in this city about a year and a half. He is a tinner by trade, and is in the employ of W. A. Sauser. Walter has made many good friends since coming here, and they, together with The Pioneer, join in wishing him and the lady of his choice a long, happy and prosperous married life.

ROCK CREEK

There will be a vaudeville show here Tuesday evening.

John Tate and wife transacted business in Pine City Saturday.

Aug. Altman and wife took dinner at C. Heinen's Sunday.

The Ladies Sewing circle met with Mrs. Sorensen on Wednesday afternoon.

We now have a moving picture show every Monday evening at the Hendrickson hall.

Young Alexander is now the possessor of a new auto and we suppose the young ladies will soon know it.

Mr. Bjork expressed Tuesday 900 pounds of honey beside selling a hundred pounds to the stores here.

Nels Berlin, who has been up above Bemidji hunting, returned on Tuesday with his allotted number of deer.

Henry Schmahl and wife, of Tamarack visited with their relative, Fred Leaf and family for a few days last week.

Wm. Tate has moved onto his new farm about two miles from Rush City, and reports being well pleased with the change.

Mr. Alguire and friend who were up north hunting, returned home on Sunday morning's train, each of them bringing a fine deer with him.

"A gentleman going through here Tuesday with an auto hired a team to haul his machine to Pine City, as it took him three hours to go about two miles."

Miss Erickson, who has been in the cities for the past two weeks, having dental work done, has returned and can again be found clerking in the Farmers' store.

Rock Creek Camp M. W. A. held their regular meeting Saturday eve. After the meeting free chicken bouillon was served to those present. A free oyster supper will also be given by the Camp in the near future.

A petition is out to send to the R. R. company asking them to have the limited stop here on Sundays. This arrangement would be a fine thing and a great convenience for our citizens. The petition is at the bank, and should be signed by all.

A surprise party was given Mrs. J. Van Dyke last week Thursday, at which a large number of ladies of the Creek were present. They all came with something good to eat and a very pleasant time was had by all. Mrs. Van Dyke intends to leave in a short time on a visit to relatives and friends in Iowa and may be absent for some time.

POULTRY ITEMS OF INTEREST

Are your chicken houses clean? If not, why not? Better clean them out and whitewash them while the weather is warm.

If you think they are clean enough for chickens, suppose you sleep there yourself one night; your chicken house ought to be clean enough and sufficiently well ventilated so that a person might sleep there if it were necessary.

But some one says, "the lice and mites would get on me." Well, they ought to if there are such things on your chickens. Why should we object to them ourselves, and not think the chickens care. If you have ever had lice on you, you know how a chicken feels. If you haven't got out into your chicken house and you will probably have a new experience.

The trouble is we have come to think that we can't raise chickens without having them infested with lice. The fact is they are just as easy to get rid of as lice on people.

Some day we will consider it just as disgraceful to keep lousy chickens as any other kind of stock infested with them.

A man said to me a short time ago, while talking with him about keeping chickens in town as a side line: "It does not pay to keep chickens in town." To prove his point, he cited people he knew who were not making anything out of them. But I can tell him of many who are making from $1.00 to $1.50 per hen above their feed bill. It is a matter of feed and care entirely.

A full egg basket would be a fine thing to have this winter when eggs are worth from three to seven cents each. Why don't you have eggs to sell? You can have if you will take pains to have your hens comfortable and will furnish them the things to eat they need, such things as they get in the summer.

The sum and substance of the whole thing is this, comfort and feed.

Do you know we are going to have a Poultry Show in Pine City this winter that will mean as much for Pine City and vicinity as anything that ever came this way. The securing of the government building doesn't compare to it in importance. We are working for 500 birds at this show, and 100 exhibitors for the show next year. How many of you are going to help us?

BOOSTER.

A FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion of the I. Wickstrom family was held at the residence of Henry Buirge yesterday at which there were present Eror, wife babe and Fred Wickstrom, of Grantsburg, Wisconsin; Hugo Wickstrom and family, and Edwin Rodeen and family, of Sandstone; O. P. Larson and family, August Wickstrom and family, A. W. Asplund and family, Henry J. Buirge and family and I. Wickstrom and family, all of this place. The total number present was eighteen adults and nineteen children.

The interior of the Buirge home was beautifully decorated with ferns and hot house plants. In the afternoon Photographer Gray was called in and a group photograph was taken of all present. It was a pleasant social event, thoughts of which will not soon vanish from the minds of the happy assemblage.

CANADA WINS AGAIN

This Time at the International Soil Products in Oklahoma.

Last year and the year before, and the year before that, the farm products of Western Canada carried off first premiums, championships and honors, together with medals and diplomas, tests that were likely to give a swollen head to any other people that those who had so much more to be... At Columbus, Ohio, and then again at Columbia, North Carolina, a farmer of Saskatchewan carried off the highest prize for oats, and in another year, will become the possessor of the $1,000 Colorado Trophy; another farmer made two successful exhibits of wheat at the biggest show in the United States; another farmer of Manitoba won championships and sweepstakes at the Iowa stock show in Chicago, and this year expects to duplicate his successes of last year. These winnings are the more creditable as none of the cattle were ever fed any corn, but raised and fattened on native grasses and small grains.

At the Dry Farming Congress held at Lehighville in 1912, Alberta and Saskatchewan farmers carried off the principal prizes competing with the world. The most recent winnings of Canada have been made at Tulsa, Oklahoma, where seven of the eighty sweepstakes rewards at the International Soil Products Exposition were taken by Canada in competition with eleven states.

The chief prize, a thrashing machine, valued at $1,200 for the best bushel of hard wheat, went to Peter Gerlach of Allan, Saskatchewan. Montana took four of the sweepstakes, Oklahoma four, and Nebraska two. Russia sent one delegate, Spain had two, Belgium three, China four, Canada five, Mexico five, Norway one, Brazil three.

In the district in which the wheat was grown that won this prize, there were thousands of acres this year that would have done as well. Mr. Gerlach is to be congratulated as well as the Province of Saskatchewan, and Western Canada as a whole, for the great success that has been achieved in both grain and cattle—Advertisement.

Coffee a "Thirst" Cure.
At his own expense Capt. William Cavanaugh, of the police department, is going to supply all drinks before he turns them out in the morning with a cup of steaming hot coffee.

"When you turn a loose loa who has been drunk the night before the appetite for more whiskey is just as acute as when he started on the drunk" Cavanaugh says. "The idea in serving them hot coffee is to kill that appetite, and a cup of piping hot, strong coffee will do it."

"There is a craving in the part of a drunken man recovering from a spree for something, and he himself is not sure what it is that he wants, but just goes for the whiskey again, thinking it will do him good. Finally he is back here again inside of an hour."—Venice (Cal.) Dispatch to the New York Sun.

FULLY NOURISHED
Grape-Nuts a Perfectly Balanced Food.

No chemist's analysis of Grape-Nuts can begin to show the real value of the food—the practical value as shown by personal experience.

It is a food that is perfectly balanced, supplies the needed elements for both brain and body in all stages of life from the infant, through the strenuous times of active middle life, and is a comfort and support in old age.

"For two years I have used Grape-Nuts with milk and a little cream, for breakfast. I am comfortably hungry for my dinner at noon."

"I use little meat, plenty of vegetables and fruit, in evening, for the noon meal, and if tired at tea time, take Grape-Nuts alone and feel perfectly nourished."

"Nerve and brain power and memory are much improved since using Grape-Nuts. I am over sixty and weigh 155 lbs. My son and husband notice how I had improved and now using Grape-Nuts."

"My son, who is a traveling man, says nothing for breakfast but Grape-Nuts and a glass of milk. At 11:00 a.m. over 75, seems fully nourished on Grape-Nuts and cream." "There's a Bonus."

Passion Play on a South Sea Island

THE PASSION PLAY IN MILITARY COSTUME AND SILENT FILM. RUTH DELANEY, HARRY GIBBY, WHO PLAYS 'JUDAS', THEE MOTHER.

Laura wades over into the stream, seats herself on a smooth, brown boulder and as each Disciple comes out in turn he gives his feet a vigorous scrubbing with a block of cocconut-husk and a piece of yellow soap.

The scene of Christ healing the lepers, as presented at Hiva-oo, is, perhaps, the most realistic tableau in one particular at least that is staged in any of the passion plays. Real lepers appear on the stage.

In the early days of the play the parts of the lepers were taken by entirely whole and healthy people, but the missionaries were never able to make the lepers understand why, with so many genuine lepers ready at hand, any make believe in this particular need be indulged in.

Following the week of the play it is said that a very marked improvement was evident for several months in the condition of every one of the unfortunate that appeared upon the stage. Since then the missionaries have not had the heart to refuse the prayers of any of those who have come to them at Easter, until now it is necessary to divide the lepers into squads of a score or more each and allow a different squad to appear each night.

The governor at Hiva-oo has declared that there has been a marked decrease in the leper mortality of the island since this practice has been inaugurated.

One of the most interesting characters in the play is the Judas. From the first it has been the aim of the fathers to impress the natives as strongly as possible with the real goodness and badness of the various characters of the play.

The strange feat that seems to paralyze a rabbit when it is attacked by any of the weasel tribe has often been observed, writes F. S. St. Mars in the London Magazine. Apparently it cannot make the slightest effort at defense and submits to the fatal bite without a sign of resistance.

That there are exceptional rabbits, however, appears from an incident that the writer once saw. It thus describes it: "Something was creeping very quietly through the grass. You could tell this only by the waving of the grass blades. About twenty yards away, out in the field, a rabbit was sitting in the afternoon sunshine—a hunched, fat, comfortable looking gray brown figure. He had been there for half an hour, quite motionless."

The hidden creature that was creeping across was slowly and surely stalking the rabbit. At length the waving grass ceased to move. The stalker had got to within two yards of the rabbit, and was about to make its rush. The long grass it ceased here, and beyond the stalker had no cover.

Then, all of a sudden, the rabbit reversed its position. It did it so quickly and quietly that I scarcely saw it. Moreover, although the rabbit still sat as motionless as before, his nose was constantly "working" at the meat rabbit. He was smelling hard. The hidden foe had made the blunder of approaching the rabbit down wind.

Since there was no longer any need of concealment, the enemy stepped up and came forth—a beady-eyed sinister male stoat. He was really a pretty little chap, neat and spruce as a dandy, looking anything except the professional slayer that he was.

and to this end in the case of Judas the men who have played the role have been repeatedly taken on a temporary reprieve from the convict settlement. Judas has always been literally a bad man and it is recorded that no less than half a dozen of him have endeavored to steal the thirteenth piece of silver—in this case Mexican dollars—with which he has been bribed. Of late years the fathers have removed the temptation by binding the bargain with a bagful of broken crockery, which provides the necessary Jing at less risk.

The Judas of four years ago—One John Bascard, the half caste son of an Australian trader and his Marquesan wife, who was serving a term for robbing a peacemaker—turned out almost as badly as his original, for he looted the mission on the second night of the play, rowed off with the Magdalen to a trading cutter anchored in the bay, surprised and threw overboard the solitary watchman and sailed the little boat off Paumotu.

The part of Pontius Pilate has been played for nearly twenty years by an old chief—a former cannibal—named Rauga. His costume is a frogged military coat and a silk hat, the idea of the fathers being to effect a combination that will make the deepest impression on the natives as symbolized of constituted power. The missionary and the French soldier are the two most august personages known to the natives and the two most striking features of the costume of each, united upon one person, makes an impression more profound than would a Roman toga topped off with an eagle crowned helmet or any other of the combinations that the real Pilate is supposed to have worn.

Ruth Ingalls, who has played the part of Mary, the Mother, for the last three years, is a half white girl of unknown birth. She is about twenty-five years of age—fifteen years younger than Laura, whose mother she is in the play—and has been directly under the care of the missionaries since the time when, a child of ten, she was cast up on the beach of one of the Paumotu with the wreckage of a Tahitian trading schooner. Her interpretation of the part of the Madonna is a trifle naive, perhaps, but surprisingly effective, her work being the only thing in the play worthy of the name of acting.

WEAPONS A RABBIT USES

The next instant the stoat was lying on his back, with all the wind knocked out of him, and the rabbit was quietly sitting, hunched up and unexpected defeat. As the stoat reared to quickly jumped into the air and landed a full power kick with both his long, powerful hind legs on the stoat's chest.

A rabbit's hind legs are very long and strong and like the kangaroo's legs, they are a most effective weapon. Fortunately for their foes, useful weapon they possess. How this one found it out would be hard to say—possibly it once found it out other luck rabbit. The discovery once made, the inoffensive and timid bunny became a foe to reckon with.

As for the stoat, he got up, stared hard at the first rabbit he had ever met that showed fight and, turning, slowly galloped away.

GOT THE HAIT.
"The postcard habit got Wombat this summer," while on his vacation, when he was really a pretty little chap, neat and spruce as a dandy, looking anything except the professional slayer that he was.

BURE PROOF.
"How can a girl be sure that a young man loves her?"
"Oh, there are reliable signs. Now, my dear for an occasional touch."

DIZZY, HEADACHY, SICK, "CASCARETS"

Gently cleanse your liver and sluggish bowels while you sleep.

Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, illness, distress, coated tongue, foul taste and food breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or gas in the stomach. Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist cleans your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Adv.

Blessed is the man who doesn't give offense. Also unusual.

PINE COUNTY PIONEER

ED. C. COTTEY, Editor and Prop

Published in the Postoffice at Pine City as Second Class Matter

Pine City, Minnesota, Nov. 23, '13

Twenty Five Years Ago.

The following items are taken from the files of the Pioneer printed 25 years ago.

(From The Pioneer of Nov. 23, 1888)
Skates are in demand.

Mrs. H. Brandes left on Tuesday for Sandstone for a short visit.

J. J. Brennan of Hinckley was in town Wednesday.

J. F. Stone of the Pioneer Hotel spent a day in St. Paul this week.

Mike Connor of Hinckley was the guest of his parents here the first of the week.

Miss Lillie Stephan, who is teaching school at Harris, was home for a visit last week.

J. D. Markham, Rush City's popular lawyer, was in town Tuesday looking after his business interests.

Johnny Murphy, P. H. Kelly & Co's traveling missionary, spent Monday night at his mother's home here.

Frank Cort, one of Pine county's prosperous farmers, went down to the twin cities Tuesday on business.

Miss Lizzie Murphy left for Partridge Wednesday. It is a town on the Eastern Minnesota railroad.

A number of our young people enjoyed a social hop at the residence of Hugh Cox last Friday night, and all had a huge time.

F. J. Steinmetz, who has been exploring up in northern Minnesota, returned home the first of the week after a three-months absence.

This part of the state may not be the Garden of Eden, but it has experienced a fall this year that will eclipse anything yet on record in the whole northwest.

Burt Paquin arrived here Tuesday from Minneapolis to visit his parents. While here he will work on the repairs that are being made to the Presbyterian church.

Rev. O. W. Fisher and family of Casselton, N. D., arrived in this city last week and will visit with Mrs. Fisher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Weick. Mr. Fisher is an old-time Pine Cityite, having been pastor of the German Lutheran church here a few years ago.

THE BRADY-MURPHY NUPTIALS.

The marriage of Miss May Murphy of Pine City to Francis R. Brady of St. Paul was the event of the past week. The imposing ceremony which united these two lives in one took place in the Catholic church in this village on Wednesday morning, Nov. 21, 1888, at 9:30. Rev. D. W. Lynch of Hinckley officiating. Miss Maggie Murphy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and James A. Donahue of St. Paul acted as groomsmen. The ceremony was viewed by a large number of intimate friends of the contracting parties, the services being rendered much more impressive by the music furnished under the management of Prof. Houle. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride's mother on Third avenue, where a sumptuous repast was served, after which the happy couple departed for St. Paul, where they will make their future home at 557 Canada street.

Among those present from out of town were John Brady, brother of the groom; John Murphy, brother of the bride, and wife; J. A. Wheeler and J. A. Donahue, all of St. Paul.

The groom is traveling salesman for George Benz & Co. of St. Paul.

The bride was reared in Pine City, and her circle of friends include all who know her. She has long been one of the most prominent young ladies in Pine City society. She is every way qualified to enter the best society of her new home. All will join with us in wishing her and her husband a pleasant and blissful voyage over life's troubled seas.

HINCKLEY 25 YEARS AGO.

Our friend, Tom Burke, has resumed business at the depot after an absence of four weeks illness.

Mike Dean will leave in a day or two for a few months visit with friends in the eastern part of the state.

Maurice Ring and T. W. Finn, two of Sandstone's prosperous young men, were in town on business Wednesday.

J. Pannebaker and C. F. Rappe of St. Paul, Charlie Glander, Alex. Hanson, Geo. Turgeon and T. Turgeon left on Friday morning for a week's hunt.

Chas. Macomber, formerly of Hinckley, but now at the general office of the St. Paul & Duluth railway in St. Paul, was here over Sunday.

Justice in Hinckley is pretty raw. A fight occurred on an Eastern railroad train Monday morning in which a man had his head cut open by a cranky conductor. The injured man was arrested and fined $22.50.

Yesterday afternoon about 2:15 our village was startled by a report that S. K. Erwin had been shot by H. H. Scott at the pump house of the Eastern Minnesota railroad. Jealousy was the cause.

Plenty of room for a broom

"DEATH to dust" is the twentieth-century slogan of all women who are interested in the sanitation of their homes, especially so far as the kitchen is concerned. And hidden dust is even more obnoxious than the kind that collects in plain view.

The New Real Estate Steel Range means death to the dust that is bound to collect under the ordinary steel range, whose base rests almost on the floor. It's built the sanitary, sensible, scientific way—high and dry off the floor. The sturdy cast iron legs give it a solid foundation, yet leave plenty of room for a broom.

This new feature was the only thing left to be done that could add to the convenience and cleanliness of this splendid steel range. In all other respects, it's the same honest, handsome, reliable Real Estate, with its dozen distinct and important improvements, and its cooking conveniences that do away with all drudgery in cooking.

See the new Real Estate at our store; let us explain its splendid qualities; and we feel sure that you too, will decide to "Own an Estate."

Keep the Babies Warm And They'll be Healthy And Happy

Many children get sick and die every winter because of some poor heating appliance in the home. Come and see us and we will show you a Base Burner that will not only keep the children warm, healthy and happy, but will save one half on your fuel bills.

There is no other base burner like THE FIRST CLASS FAVORITE, with TRIPLE EXPOSED FLUES, because the features that make it such a wonderful heating stove, so economical in the use of fuel, are patented.

Don't put off the buying of your stove until the cold days come. Drop into our store any day, and we will be glad to show you this beautiful Base Burner. It is a Real Favorite. There are more of them sold than of any other base burner made, and we guarantee it to be the best made.

It's like opening a bank account to buy a Favorite Base Burner, because it saves you money every day it is in use, and brings such comfort and satisfaction, too.

Mary and Her Dad

Mary had a good old Dad, His hair was white as snow, And everything that Mary said, With Dad it had to go.

He planned to build a nice big barn, Cement his floor and sheds, And send away to buy his stuff, But Mary shook her head.

She followed him to town one day, Which was against his will, And brought him over to "our yard" To get figures on his bill.

And after telling him our price, Why, still he lingered near, And says to Mary (on the side) "We'll save money to buy here."

What makes dear Dad love Mary so? His neighbors oft would cry, 'Cause Mary put Dad next, you see, And told him where to buy.

WEDDING OF MISS JESSIE WILSON AND FRANCIS B. SAYRE. U. S. SAVES MADEROS

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre and East Room in Which They Were Wedded.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Jessie Woodrow Wilson, second of President Wilson's three daughters, was married to Francis Boves Sayre at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony took place in the east room of the White House, and was performed by Rev. Sylvester Beach of Princeton, N. J., the president's former pastor and the close friend of the Wilson family for many years.

The entire affair was very simple, as had been requested by the bride, and the number of guests was rather small—distressingly so to many persons in official and social circles of Washington who had expected to receive invitations but were disappointed.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of the three daughters, acted as maid of honor to her sister, and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, the youngest, was one of the bridesmaids. The three other bridesmaids were Miss Adeline Mitchell Scott of Princeton, daughter of Prof. William B. Scott; Miss Marjorie Brown of Atlanta, Pa., daughter of Mrs. Wilson's cousin, Col. E. T. Brown, and Miss Mary G. White of Baltimore, a college friend of the bride.

Dr. Grenfell is Best Man. Mr. Sayre was attended by his best man, Dr. Willard T. Grenfell, the famous medical missionary to the fishermen of the Labrador coast. The two men have long been fast friends and Mr. Sayre spent two summers helping Dr. Grenfell with his work.

The ushers were Charles B. Hughes, Jr., son of Justice Hughes of the Supreme court and a classmate of Mr. Sayre in the Harvard law school; Dr. Gilbert Horax of Montclair, N. J., who was a classmate of Wilson's college in 1909 and now at Johns Hopkins university; Benjamin Burton of New York city; and Dr. Beville Clark of Salem, Mass., who is Mr. Sayre's companion in Labrador and Newfoundland.

There was one disappointment for those who attended the wedding, for the gifts were not put on display. It is known that these included many beautiful and valuable articles sent by relatives and personal friends of the bride and groom and of their families and by admirers of President Wilson. Handsome presents were sent by both the senate and the house, that of the latter being a diamond necklace which Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, bought for the representatives in New York.

Those who were limited to witness the wedding were mostly personal friends and the number was kept down close to four hundred. The list was pared and revised several times, and as has been said, the operation resulted in many heartburnings. From the house of representatives' circle, for instance, the only guests were Speaker Champ Clark, Mrs. Clark and Miss Genevieve Clark, Marjorie Leader Underwood, Mrs. Underwood, and Minority Leader Mann and Mrs. Mann.

As might be expected, the streets outside the White House were as crowded as the police would permit with curious persons eager to watch the arrival and departure of the guests.

Francis Boves Sayre graduated from Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, N. J., in 1904, and from Williams college in 1909. He entered Harvard law school and graduated "cum laude." He was a member of the Sigma Phi fraternity, Gammae society, and the Phi Beta Kappa at Williams. For the past year he has been working in the office of District Attorney Whitman of New York. During the summer he was admitted to the bar of New York state.

Mr. Sayre's mother is Mrs. Martha Finlay Sayre, daughter of the late William Nevins, who was president of Franklin and Marshall college at Lancaster, Pa. She is a descendant of Hugh William of North Carolina, one of the framers of the Constitution of the United States, and is a sister of the late Robert Nevins, head of the American church at Rome, and a consanguine of Ethelbert Nevins, the composer.

The wedding of Jessie Wilson and Francis Sayre was the thirteenth to be solemnized in the White House. The first was that of Anna Todd, a niece of Dolly Madison's first husband, and John G. Jackson. Then Mrs. Madison's sister, Lucy, was married to Judge Todd of Kentucky. The third wedding, that of Maria Monroe, daughter of President Monroe, to Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur in 1820 marked the first social use of the east room. Eight years later John, the second son of President John Quincy Adams, married his cousin, Mary Helen, in the blue room. While General Jackson was president there were three weddings in the White House, those of Dolly, Lewis to Alphonse Joseph Yvon, Dagent of the French legation; Mary Eaton to Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin to Louis Randolph. Many years passed before there was another marriage ceremony in the president's mansion, the next being of Nellie Grant, and Algernon C. F. Sartorius, in 1876. Mrs. Grant's first husband, Hayes, was married in the blue room in 1852. This series of weddings was that of Frederick Cleveland to Frances Polson, and the twelfth that of President Roosevelt's daughter Alice, to Nicholas Longworth.

VILLA IS UMBILANT OVER HIS VICTORY

REBEL GENERAL EXPECTS TO HAVE FEDERAL ARMY BOTTLED UP VERY SOON.

HUERTA IS ALSO OPTIMISTIC

Mexican Dictator Wires French Paper That His Troops Have "Won in the North"—Declares "Situation Improved."

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 27.—According to latest reports received from the battle ground of the constitutionalists about Juarez, General Francisco Villa's 14-mile line is unbroken, and he has captured more than 100 prisoners and a few field pieces. Reports which cheered the constitutionalists in Juarez emanating from General Villa's headquarters, were to the effect that the federal forces were about to be caught between two forces of rebels, that 2,000 Sonora rebels were reported making for the rear of the federals and that General Manuel Chao's rebel command from south of Chihuahua had captured Chihuahua City and is advancing on the rear of the federals. It was reported that he already had taken possession of the federal lines of communication and transportation to Chihuahua City.

Rebels Are Jubilant. After issuing these reports, General Villa's chief of staff, Juan Medina, jubilantly declared the federals would be prisoners in Juarez before many hours. The result of the action about Zaragoza, where General Inez Salazar was generally reported to be surrounded by rebels and fighting an artillery engagement was not known. Previously in reports from the front General Villa, credited with driving the federals south to Samalayuta, 32 miles from Juarez on the front, while a battle for the possession of the water supply at Panco Flores, was being waged twelve miles from Juarez. Huerta Seems Satisfied.

Paris, Nov. 26.—President Huerta sent the following cablegram from Mexico City: "The situation of the country from an economic and military point of view has improved, because the government of the north possesses the funds necessary to supply its needs, and, moreover, because the national army came out victorious in the recent serious engagements fought against the rebels. The northern army. So far as our international relations are concerned we are at complete harmony with all powers except with the government of the United States, but the republic looks to the latter to do complete justice to the national cause. To sum up, the situation is notably improved for two chambers and the two other departments of the union are carrying out their functions in all regularity."

14,000 DEMONSTRATE POWER

Electric Workers Walk Out at Schenectady and Threaten Strike for Future. Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 27.—With more than 14,000 employees of the General Electric company voluntarily idle, this city faces an industrial crisis. Aside from meetings of workmen and about the labor union halls, there is no excitement resulting from the walkout of nearly all the forces of the largest manufacturing plant of its kind in the world.

Throughout the city there is an atmosphere of preparation. In a dozen or more labor headquarters, meetings were held and preparations begun for what may be a long struggle. Heads of local unions met and discussed ways and means of carrying on a strike should one be called. They explained the walkout as a demonstration of strength to show that the "General Electric company cannot crush unions."

"Ham and Eggs" 5 Cents More. New York, Nov. 26.—"Ham" and "lard" were sold at 5 cents more in order to the rate of a box chain of lunch rooms operated by a big restaurant. It was said at the executive office of the company today. If the meat market does not break soon, it will be necessary to advance egg orders 5 cents in all its restaurants the country.

Wilson Reads Message to Cabinet. Washington, Nov. 26.—President Wilson read his message to congress to the cabinet. It was stated that it was even more of a radical document than had been expected. The situation in Mexico was also discussed.

Negress Couldn't Maintain Digulias. Los Angeles, Nov. 26.—Charged with theft, Mrs. Tom Louie, negro wife of a Chinese, maintained a queue until John Alfonso, a black sergeant asked her nationality. She replied, "Ah's a Chin, Ah is."

HOLTON OF THE NAVY

A STORY OF THE FREEDING OF CURA

By Lawrence Perry

SYNOPSIS.
Lieutenant Holton is detached from his command in the navy at the outset of the Spanish-American war, and is assigned to important secret service duty.

CHAPTER II.

The man and the waiter.
At seven o'clock in immaculate evening attire, Holton set out from his club and sallied forth to the Willard. After studying the menu lovingly, and having devised a dinner suitable to the palate of one who had followed the lure of Epicurus in Vienna, Paris, and London, he turned from the card and lighting a cigarette and sipping a cocktail, he gazed about the room.

At one table he saw the French ambassador and a company of his Gallic friends. Near by young Pembroke, of the British embassy, was dining a girl Holton had met. To his left sat a dark-skinned, sleek-appearing man with close-cropped Vanduyke beard. He had been pointed out to Holton in Paris as a man who had plans of Germany for Kiel for sale. The young officer wondered what he was doing here.

Altogether the atmosphere, Holton decided, was just as it should be, just as the capital of a country should act when the government stands on the brink of international war. Holton had just dispatched his first oyster when his attention was attracted by a musical little laugh to a table about twenty feet away from him. A girl slightly above the medium height with slender, resilient figure, was standing with her back to him, talking to her escort, a well-built man of fifty odd, with iron-gray hair and beard, and the dark features of the Latin.

She was a beauty. Holton, connoisseur of femininity though he was, admitted that without hesitation. Her hair was not the coal-black hair of her race, but a shining, golden deep brown, which lay upon her head in thick, waving convolutions. Her eyes were blue-gray, set off by long, dark lashes, and fine brows, which with delicate arches to the straight, finely modeled nose. Her lips were colored by nature, pure coral, and her teeth flashed as she spoke.

"It's absurd, father, for you to mind. I can wait here as well as anywhere else—although I shouldn't promise not to occupy myself by dining."

The father shrugged.

"Well," he said at length, "it is quite necessary, Rance, and I shan't be gone long. But I mean I'll take you back to the hotel."

"Not at all, not at all," she protested. "It's so bright and interesting here, go on, father, and I'll eat"—she smiled radiantly—"very slowly until you return."

Her cheeks had flushed with animation, and the parity of her coloring, as well as the whiteness of her skin, her calling. There was a hidden something, passing phases of facial expression, a certain movement of the shoulders, and above all, a firm-footed but light tread, all of which seemed to Holton to indicate a man misplaced. He felt certain of this a moment later, when the girl again lifted the menu and the waiter stepped to the corner of the table, upon which the gold bag lay. With a quick snaillike movement his hand shot out and seized the bag. Then, hardly hitting his fingers from the table, he snatched his wrist upward, and the bag flew under the lapel of his jacket, which had been held open to receive it by the other hand. Another instant and he was in front of the girl receiving her order with the utmost sang froid.

Holton wasted no time in thought. Quickly springing up he approached the young woman's table, and nodding to her as to an old acquaintance, he placed his hand lightly upon the waiter's arm.

"Wait a moment," said Holton pleasantly, "the girl in the meantime had been staring at the young officer in wide-eyed wonderment.

"What—what does this mean?" she asked this time. "Why?"

"Your bag," said Holton quietly, "was on this table, was it not?"

The girl leaned forward with a gasp. "Why, yes," she said. "Why?"

"It's gone," she looked up at Holton with startled eyes. "It's gone," she repeated, her voice beginning to rise.

Holton smiled reassuringly and nodded. "Please don't be alarmed," he said, "it's all right."

"What do you mean, girl?" exclaimed the man, flushing.

Holton laughed and lightened his grip on the waiter's arm.

"Come, come," he said. "Take that bag out of your coat and put it on the table or I'll make a spread-eagle of you."

"Give me my bag," said the girl, her eyes flashing.

"Without a word the waiter reached his hand to the waiter's arm, and bringing forth the missing article, laid it on the table.

"There," he said, "I thought someone had the bag, and I was going to take it to the desk."

She regarded him in smiling silence, "But I'm afraid," she said then, "that your knowledge will be limited to this evening's wish, really wish, it would be otherwise."

"Yes, my home is near Santiago. We are outside Cuba's."

"Oh! Holton flushed for some reason or other.

"I am grateful to you—I am thankful. You have been very good. But now you must go really."

"May I not call?" asked Holton. "I recognize the informality of our meeting, and I do not wish you to think me forward, but I really—"

"I thank you, Mr. Appleton," she said, "but, no—these things cannot be."

"There was a note of finality in her voice and a trace of pathos, both of which Holton caught.

"Of course, Miss La Tosca, I shall do as you say. But I am sorry," he paused.

"And will you please remember this—if you ever need assistance in any way, and I am within reach, will you call upon me?"

"I thank you," she replied. "You are most kind, and I shall remember what you have said."

Holton drew a card-case from his pocket. "When I told you my name was Appleton," he said, "I acted upon impulse, but intended no insult. My real name and my address are contained here, and he placed a card in front of her."

"The girl glanced at the bit of paste-board, and then started. She looked up at Holton with a frightened expression.

"Lieutenant Holton," she said, "why, I thought—"

CITIES ON BAGDAD RAILWAY

Lines Will Enable One to Journey by Rail from Any European Center to Damascus.

London—Although much has been written upon the political significance of the great Bagdad railway, little attention has been paid about these old historical or sacred cities it will be the means of linking up with Europe by an iron road. Indeed, within the next two years one might be able to journey from any of the great railway centers of Europe, such as Paris, Berlin, or Vienna, to Damascus, the oldest city in the world, by rail over the Bagdad line, and also to the sacred cities of Palestine, to say nothing of taking a peep at the Euphrates valley.

In the Damascus Country, they, the alleged site of the Garden of Eden, and then on to Mosul, that flourishing little village that has sprung up upon the ruins of ancient Nineveh, while Bagdad, the engineers tell us, will be reached within three years, near which lie the remains of Babylon, that mighty city reared amid such splendor by Nebuchadnezzar.

This linking up of Syria, Palestine, and Mesopotamia with all their sacred and historical cities with Europe is one of the most interesting features of this great undertaking.

Before describing the progress which has been made during the past few years, some reference to the history of the undertaking is essential. Indeed, it is safe to say that no enterprise has caused European statesmen so much anxiety as the Bagdad project. Here it should be explained that the railway is being built by the Germans, with German material, and by German engineers on Turkish territory, with the sanction of the approval of the Ottoman government.

The money to carry on the work has been advanced by German banks upon guarantees being given by the Turkish government. So far about $210,000,000 has been sunk in the enterprise; but it is clear that another $210,000,000 will be needed to carry the rails into Bagdad, which, if the present rate of progress is maintained, should be reached within the next three years.

RATS FOOL VICTIM BY RUSE

One Leers at Engineer Until He Chases It, Then Companions Seize Food.

Cleveland—Three big wharf rats, grown gray in iniquity, stole John Gibbons' lunch from him in the basement at police headquarters after fooling their victim by a clever ruse. Each leered at Gibbons and deftly veiled the evidences of the repast from his white whiskers before disappearing into a hole.

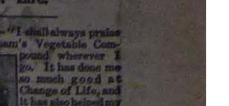

Gibbons is night engineer at headquarters, and when he opened his midnight lunch he saw a gray, disparted appearing old rat looking at him.

"Get out," yelled Gibbons, but the rat only looked malignantly toward him and shuffled toward the lunch.

Catching up a stick Gibbons started after the rat. He was not five feet away from his lunch when two more pests popped out of holes. While Gibbons was chasing one, the other two ate, and by the time he had convinced himself that he is not a rat catcher all the food was gone. The three rats seemed to bow a mocking farewell as they slipped back into their hiding places.

Better an Unkind Remark

Colonel Osborne of Kentucky Criticized With Witty Speech That Might Be Criticized.

Col. Thomas D. Osborne, who resigned from the board of managers, to become secretary of the hospital committee, was awarded a remark to escape him for which the good Baptists of this city may take him to task.

Colonel Osborne is an Confederate. He is also an ardent Baptist. Both come close to his heart.

A friend stopped Colonel Osborne and inquired whether he was going to the Confederate reunion at Chattanooga.

"I am sorry I cannot," said Colonel Osborne. "Gen. Bennett H. Young is urging me to attend the reunion to meet my old comrades because I may meet my ones again. But I have a Baptist convention to attend just at the time the reunion will be held. I told General Young I was sure to meet old Confederates in heaven, but I must meet my Baptist friends while I am here."

Some Job, Surely.

"Right enough," said Farmer Cortousel.

"Yes," replied his wife, as she dropped an armful of stovewood on the floor; "the quantity of wood is, how are you going to get any man to do that much work?"

What are Post Toasties?

Thin wafery bits of choice Indian Corn—perfectly cooked; delicately flavored; then toasted in an appetizing golden brown, and packed in tightly sealed packages without being touched by hand.

"Toasties" are for breakfast or any other meal—served direct from package with cream or milk, and a sprinkling of sugar.

Post Toasties are convenient, save a lot of time and please the palate immensely!

But after all, a trial is the best answer.

DAINTIEST OF BIRD'S NESTS

Maple Leaf of Ordinary Size Will Conceal the Home of the Humming Bird.

The most exquisitely dainty home built by the bill and feet of birds is that of the ruby throated hummingbird, says a writer in the Craftsman. When completed it is scarcely larger than an English walnut and is usually saddled on a small horizontal limb of tree or shrub frequently many feet from the ground. It is composed almost entirely of soft plant fibers, fragments of spiders' webs sometimes. The sides are thickly studded with bits of lichen, and practiced indeed is the eye of the man who can distinguish it from the also of quite fine nests.

Although the humming bird's nest is exceedingly frail, there appears to be nothing on record to show that it has ever failed to hold its own during the summer rains. It is, however, not called upon for a long tenure of occupancy. Within three weeks after the two little white eggs are laid the young have departed on their tiny pinions.

Servant Girl Educator.

The truth is, we never think of education in connection with babyhood, the term being in our minds usually limited to the schoolhouse, and books. When we do honestly admit it the plain fact that a child is being educated at every waking hour by the condition in which he is placed and the persons who are with him, we shall be ready to see the need of a higher class of educators than servants girls—concerning Children.

Salmon Industry Threatened.

Alaska says that indeterminate slaughter needs will drive the whales out of the north Pacific, and that this will result in the destruction of the salmon industry. Countless millions of herds are now being driven to shore by the whales, they declare, and the salmon, which live on the herds, will stay out in long water with their aspect in the spawning season.
