MAJORITY

Two File for Legislature

John J. Adam Bede and Rudolph Wosmek of P. C. Will Contest With Larson

The legislative contest has taken on two new colors since Representative Larson filed for re-election about three weeks ago—Hon. J. Adam Bede of Pine City and Rudolph Wosmek of Pine City filed on Monday of this week. The three will contest in the primaries on June 19 and the two highest in that contest will go to the mat to fight it out in the November election.

It hardly seems likely that anyone else will get into the contest because the field looks so badly split that there doesn't seem much of any room for a new entry to stand on. In this case it seems reasonable to presume that this long range that Larson and Wosmek or Bede will be worth looking on.

Hon. J. Adam Bede is so well known to the people of the county that he needs no introduction. All the way from that far date when he took off his birch bark pants to cut out a strip on which to indite his memorable note to President Cleveland resigning the U. S. Marshalship for Minnesota in order that he might go out untrammelled to campaign for his old friend Major Baldwin, the then Democratic congressman from Duluth—from that far date to the present "Adam" has been known to everyone in this neck of the woods. His long service in Congress made him a national figure. That he would be a strong representative on the floor none will deny for he has excellent capacity of expression and his long work with the leaders of congress has given him an experience that would make him a formidable antagonist in any maneuvering. Pine City has been his home for a score of years and he has taken an active part in all public movements and work though his official duties and lecture engagements have kept him many a day from home. His friends say that he should be elected because he is experienced in the game and would make Pine County talked of from Pembina to Prepost. They say that he knows the political strings and can twang them so sweetly that Old Pine County, where the milky way shines bright, will be known as it ought to be—the most deserving in the state.

Rudolph J. Wosmek, was born at Silver Lake, Minnesota, and came to Pine County with his parents when a lad of seven years. Here he has grown to manhood. He was a leader in the debating strength of our high school days of '07-'08 and graduated in 1909 as valedictorian of his class. That year he was offered the appointment to the Annapolis naval academy, which he refused because of his determination to adopt the law as his profession. He entered Hamilton university where he was again a leader in college debating and twice represented his school at the state intercollegiate oratorical contests. Graduating from Hamline in 1913, he began the study of law at the State University and will graduate this spring.

Our Hinckley neighbors put up a cracking exhibition of political management. That they were able to carry four precincts without a vote against them, while five more gave only one vote apiece against removal is some evidence of the efficient work they did. The great Sherman, looking up on his battles, said, "war is hell." And he expressed the greatest happiness and satisfaction of his life in beholding a reunited country.

Court House Stays Here

Hinckleyites Made Brave Fight But Lacked Votes in the Final Count

There are a lot of disappointed ones in Pine County over the outcome of the county seat removal election Tuesday.

Reports from Hinckley before the election depicted the people there as expecting a thousand majority in the total vote. Judging from personal knowledge and reports that came in, general feeling in Pine City was that we would at least get a majority. The truth is that Hinckley got away with a majority in the total vote of 4125 but did not have enough to overcome the handicap and capture the county seat.

The matter is settled for five years however as the question of removal can not be brought up again within that time. In the meantime it is presumed that the commissioners will probably erect the much-talked-of vaults as the records are in such shape that they require the additional room. So far as the building itself is concerned, Pine City feeling is that necessary repairs on it would not amount to a great deal.

The campaign just closed has been strenuously contested from both sides and, while one side loses and another escapes defeat, the closeness of the final votes leaves no taint of folly on the position of those who contended that the matter should be put before the voters. Where there is such a close division of opinion neither side can rightfully deny the other opportunity to test the strength of its position.

The contest was rather warm in spots—particularly during the closing days. But men often do things in the heat of a contest that they would from upon could they give them less impassioned consideration. Then, too, it is mighty easy to misunderstand the other fellow's intention—everything looks red sometimes, you know. With a paper at Brook Park and a paper at Pine City, The Poker man is particularly conversant with this phase of the situation.

But there are very, very few who will treasure any animosities as a result of the contest. Everybody in Pine County is interested in the whole county's development. Everyone knows that the development of any one part of the county is an advantage to every other part. No one can question that the strength of a county united for development will get things that a divided people can never reach.

Our Hinckley neighbors put up a cracking exhibition of political management. That they were able to carry four precincts without a vote against them, while five more gave only one vote apiece against removal is some evidence of the efficient work they did. The great Sherman, looking up on his battles, said, "war is hell." And he expressed the greatest happiness and satisfaction of his life in beholding a reunited country.

ACLAND, PROBLEM AHEAD

(FROM THE PEORIA JOURNAL.) The Nebraska State Journal calls attention to the fact that the Peoria... opening of a 4,000-acre tract in the North Platte irrigation district for settlement practically winds up the "free land" distribution of the nation. It adds:

"Free or cheap land has been the American safety valve. A population... government has had its own remedy—to go west and grow up with the country. With the expansion reduced to advertising, the opening of forty-three farms, the safety valve may be considered forever closed. The expansive energy for more exerted outward, must hereafter work itself out intensively, increasing land speculation with rapidly rising prices of land and proportionately increasing disinvestment among the landless who seem inevitable. The time of our politics and the intensity of our social problems cannot but be vitally changed under the new dealing internally with a social pressure which hitherto has had no will to the westward."

"Land hunger" will be a reality in this rapidly growing country and the constant pressure of population, increasingly higher than the ratio of production, is bound to bring us face to face with economic problems that we have heretofore considered remote. The far-sighted statesman and publicist must devote his thought earnestly to the coming years, the questions if we are to escape the tremors which curse the older nations of the world."

The above will be found one of the reasons that the Canada Government is offering 100 acres of land free to the actual settler. There is no dearth of homesteads in this state, and the land is of the best quality, being such as produces yields of from 30 to 60 bushels of wheat per acre, while oats run from fifty to over hundred bushels per acre. The land is a matter of free grants, but in Western Canada where there are to be had other lands at prices ranging from $12 to $30 per acre, the difference is a matter of distance from railway. If one takes into consideration the fact that free grants land in the United States it is not difficult to understand why there has been most marked advances in the price of farm lands.

A few years ago, land that now sells for two hundred dollars an acre in Iowa, could have been bought for seventy-five dollars an acre. The increased price is warranted by the increased value of the product raised on these farms. The land that is sold can be had in Western Canada at the low prices quoted will in a less time than that taken for the Iowa lands, and increase, have a profit of 100 per cent. In Nebraska the lands that sold for sixteen to twenty dollars per acre seven years ago, are now selling for one hundred and seventy-five dollars an acre, for the same reason given for the increase in Iowa lands. Values in these two States, as well as in others that might be mentioned, show that Western Canada lands are going at a song at the present time. In many cases in Western Canada today, there are American settlers, who real "set" their land, and are getting a value of sixty and seventy dollars an acre on their improved farms, but would sell only because they can purchase improved land at such a low price in another few years they would have equally as good farms as they left or such as their friends have in the United States.

The worth of the crops grown in Western Canada is of higher value than those of the States named, and why should the land not be worth fully as much. Any Canadian Government Agent will be glad to give you information as to how to get there or where you can buy—Advertisement.

WHEN WAS HOG-BITE?

MATTER SEEMED TO CALL FOR SOME EXPLANATION.

Editorial Comment That "Hog-bite" Had Been a Public Refectory Somewhat on Public-Grubbed Watcher on Duty.

Montreal whys was being made by someone somewhere in the neighborhood of Twin Forks of the town of Twin Forks in the Cumberland mountains in Kentucky, but there was no more definite knowledge than that—someone somewhere in the neighborhood of Twin Forks was exceedingly good whiskey liquor which had been aged in charred barrels until it has changed color. It was what the mountaineer calls "mountain white" while in color as clear as spring water. And according to mountain standards, it was old. The man who discovered the first jug of it tasted it, and that night the liquor was had in at least one jug.

The first jug had been found in a hollow tree. Then the next day a hollow tree was a bright silver dollar. The finder did not disturb either the tree or the liquor. He took the jug and beneath it was a bright silver dollar. The finder did not disturb either the tree or the liquor. He took the jug and beneath it was a bright silver dollar.

A Pine City citizen tells of his experience. You have a right to doubt statements of people living far away but can you doubt Pine City endorsement? Read it. Isaac Wickstrom, plumber, Pine City, says: "I contracted kidney and bladder complaint from too much work and bending at my trade. My kidneys acted badly and the kidney excretions were painful in passage. I had aches through my loins and hips and often became languid and weak. For two weeks, I was laid up and couldn't work at all. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved me. I feel much better now." Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Wickstrom had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Our Debt to the Pioneers.

I love to think of the bold, adventurous men who blazed the pathway of civilization across the continent to the shores of the peaceful ocean. They and not the politicians of this era, made this a better power. We owe them a debt of gratitude which we can never repay except by being model citizens. They had none of the ordinary incentives of the high bidder. They sold their parts in a rude age, upon an obscure stage, far from the leading centers of population and civilization, with no laurel to crown their brows, with no medals to record their words, with no newspaper correspondents to laud their deeds. No trumpet of fame sounded in their ears, cheering them on in their onerous, hazardous, self-appointed task, but they wrought nobly for their country and their kind—Champ Clark.

Some Exercise.

Walking is the best exercise. Do some of it every day. Next to walking comes bowing. You can't throw a bowling ball without striking clear to the floor, and every step stimulates the liver and exercises the intestines. Fifty per cent of the sickness in the world would be eliminated if everybody bowled. Walk or bowl every day. And at night lie flat on your back and raise your legs about a foot above your head as many times as you can without fatigue. Then, another way to raise your legs is to get up on your hands and knees and raise your legs under a weight of some kind. This is a good exercise. It is repeated fifteen or twenty times. Eight and morning will do a lot for you. And you'll be surprised to find how quickly you develop endurance. Start with five times and increase each day or two until you reach twenty—Woman's Home Companion.

Something to Step On.

We don't get any higher in the world unless we have something to step on. That is why we put runners in our shoes and runners in rollers. When we were boys it was easier to ask our mother to give us a cork in the back of a shoe. It is even so shallow we could slip up to the top all right. When we got to the lowest branch we were all right. After that we could pull ourselves up easier, but it did seem a long way to the lower limbs sometimes. That is the story of all life—getting the feet on something and then putting up. Life is fine, or it is a travesty, just according to whether you see the meaning of the experiences which come to you and use them to climb up by.—Farm Life.

The Consumption of Drugs

During the past year a number of statements have been published concerning the sale of drugs. Many writers have contended that not more than twenty or thirty per cent of all drugs and medicines consumed are sold by pharmacists. It is also stated on good authority, that over fifty per cent of the medicine consumed are sold by retail stores other than drug stores, or by peddlers and medicine vendors. State laws require that pharmacists be especially trained to qualify to sell drugs and this should be sufficient evidence that the sale of drugs is supposed to be in their hands.

In a recent article on drug intoxication, by Wilbert, it was pointed out that the consumption of drugs in the United States has increased out of all proportion to the increase in population. In the same paper that drugs are consumed in quantities far in excess of real needs. For example the amount of quinine imported into the United States in 1913 amounted to 2,065,000,000 average doses, enough to provide every man, woman and child with from twenty-five to thirty doses each year. About one million pounds of Aloo were imported the same year and more than two and a half million pounds of Senna Leaves.

That a large number of American people have the habit of taking medicine whether they need it or not is a well known fact to those who have studied the consumption of drugs. One of the greatest factors which has encouraged self-medication during recent years is the stocking of homes by vendors and peddlers of medicinal compounds. These sellers have been able to largely increase the sale of their wares by making a practice of leaving goods and calling later to collect for what may have been used. The continual taking of small amounts of drugs which are ordinarily considered harmless, has in many cases been followed by disastrous results.

It has come to our attention a number of times that pharmacists not infrequently advise customers not to take certain medicines. We believe that pharmacists as a rule have the welfare of the public in mind when selling medicinal preparations, but we have never heard of a medicine peddler or vendor giving advice which would tend to influence prospective customers against their wares. Peddlers seldom possess a knowledge of the inauspicious results which may follow the continual use of even small quantities of many commonly used drugs and preparations. Their proposition is purely a commercial one. The habitual use of many of the so-called household remedies is claimed by good authority as increasing the mortality rate from degenerate diseases.

Many consider the medicine peddler a menace to the public health in that he is continually urging people to purchase and use the preparations which he has to sell, some of which, to say the least do not aid in the conservation of life. The sooner the public comes to realize the importance of restricting the sale of drugs and medicine to those who are required by law to possess a knowledge of their character, the better it will be for all concerned.

Two File for Legislature (Continued from first page). During these trips he made many friends in various parts of the county who will doubtless aid him in his campaign. Mr. Wosmek is a clean, energetic, able young man of excellent address and possesses the kind of fibre from which able legislators are made. If the Piker's supposition that everything points to Larson's victory as one of the two nominees is correct, then the real contest will be between Wosmek and Bede for the other place in the general election. But if the people of one third of the county should vote slyly for Bede and Wosmek, the contest would be between Larson and Wosmek, the contest might be pretty close and after all, nominate Wosmek and Bede. In that case there ought to be a stirring oratorical finish.
