Old "Leather Stocking" Charley Eaton Reported Lost in Woods North of Virginia

The Virginia Daily Enterprise, one of the most upright, truthful and fearless publications in the state, spins a long yarn about Charley Eaton, of that place, being lost in the woods in the northern part of the state while hunting this fall. Our mute respect for the Enterprise's veracity bars our telling it, straight out, what we think—nay, what all of Mr. Eaton's old-time friends in this county think of such an inglorious tale.

Think of Charley Eaton being lost in the woods—Charley Eaton, who used to live at Sandstone, from 1894 to 1905, and during all those dizzy years threaded, without a scratch, the uncharted ways of a Democratic boss and a municipal judge. Not was that, though the final touch of his training, all that, for Charley has fought the black bear and bobcat to a standstill in eastern Pine county, and every trip, come off the victor. He knows the paths of the forest like a book and can sing the whole song of Woodcraft from the siren of the worthy consort to the dirge of the outside guard.

Charley Eaton lost in the woods? Well, maybe it was so, but we cannot read the following from the columns of the Enterprise without wondering what on earth made Charley enter the realm of second childhood so soon. The Enterprise said:

"Al Shipley does not enjoy the distinction of being the only Virginia hunter to get lost in the great north woods during the hunting season just closed, for while the Central hotel clerk was answering numerous calls for C. L. Eaton, alias "Battle Ax," to get him to lead a party on the way to Virginia two men were on their way to Virginia to organize a posse to go in search of "Battle Ax," a veteran of twenty-six successive falls hunting big game in the northern wilds of Minnesota. "Old Battle Ax" was a guest of a jolly bunch of railroad boys from West Virginia at their camp 2 1/2 miles west of Arbutus and 14 miles north of Virginia on the D. W. and P. R. R. On Friday morning last all started out in quest of the wary deer. About 3 o'clock the party separated, "Old Battle Ax" taking to the woods by himself with honest intention of bagging the biggest buck in the woods and then to tantalize the rest of the bunch about their unsuccesses day's hunt. The weather was cloudy and storming and in vain he compassed; he searched in the hay for the coveted buck, and when the time came to return to camp he found there no one including himself, because lost in the storm. Camping out behind an upturned log inside a nice warm bed without any dinner or supper and breakfast breakfast very poor, was all that he had, but the bunch at the camp would have been much more preferable. In the morning, bright and early, Mr. Eaton started again in search of the "big one" and after a long search he met P. D.'s men, when he succeeded in landing himself at the home of James Wilson, where a nice warm meal was provided, the first taste of food he had had for 32 hours. After the meal had been devoured (none better was ever served in the Waldorf, Astoria), Mr. Eaton and Mr. Wilson journeyed to a telephone office and got a message to Virginia shore of the boys, who had found the original starting point.

It was the end of a pleasant day's outing, two days and Mr. Eaton's

Sandstone Wins From Hinckley
Sandstone won its third straight football ball victory at Hinckley, last Friday evening, when it defeated the Hinckley football ball team. At the game they played on the orange field, which was the site of Patsky's ball, were little men, who were made up of the most determined both the lead, and the team led 1-0, while the second period was spent the same way, but the Hinckley leading 6-0.

Well Known Pine Cityites Wed
John D. Wilcox and Miss Helen E. Ives were married at 1 o'clock last Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ives, by Rev. Young of the Methodist church, only relatives of the contracting parties being present. A wedding lunch was served. The happy couple at once took up the joys of honeymooning at John D.'s home and enjoy the very best wishes of everyone, for both are well known and have many friends.

HUNGER DRAWS THE MAP

A food map of Europe today shows not a single country in which the future does not hold the threat of serious difficulties and only a small part that is not rapidly approaching the famine point. With the exception of the Ukraine only those countries which have maintained marine commerce have sufficient food supplies to meet actual needs until next harvest, and even in the Ukraine, there is famine in the large centers of population. Belgium and northern France, as well as Serbia, appear on the hunger map distinct from the rest of Europe because they stand in a different relation to the other nations to the people of the United States. America has for four years maintained the small war ration of Belgium and northern France and is already making special efforts to care for their increased after-war needs, which, with those of Serbia, must be included in the plan, are urgent in the extreme and must have immediate relief.

The gratitude of the Belgian nation for the help America has extended to her during the war constitutes the strongest appeal for us to continue our work there. The moment the German armies withdrew from her soil and she was established once more in her own sovereignty, the little nation's first thought was to express her gratitude to the Commission for Relief in Belgium for preserving the lives of millions of her citizens. Germany, on the other hand, need not figure in such a way for America because there is no present indication that she will be called on at all to take thought for the food needs of Germany. Germany probably can care for her own food problem if she is given access to shipping and is enabled to distribute food to the cities with those populations, which are the trouble centers.

England, France, the Netherlands and Portugal, all of which have been maintained from American supplies, have sufficient food to meet immediate needs, but their future presents serious difficulties. The same is true of Spain and the northern neutral countries—Norway, Sweden and Denmark—whose ports have been open and who have been able to draw to some degree upon foreign supplies.

Most of Russia is already in the throes of famine, and 40,000,000 people there are beyond the possibility of help before another spring. Thousands of them inevitably must die. This applies as well to Poland and practically throughout the Baltic regions, with conditions most serious in Finland, Bohemia, Serbia, Rumania and Montenegro have already reached the famine point and are suffering a heavy toll of death. The Armenian population is falling each week as hunger takes its toll, and in Greece, Albania and Romania as serious as the food shortages that famine has wrought, although starvation is not yet imminent. Italy, Switzerland, Bulgaria and Turkey are in the throes of serious straits.

In order to fulfil America's pledge in world relief we will have to export every ton of food which can be handled through our ports. This means at the very least a minimum of 20,000,000 tons compared with 6,000,000 tons pre-war exports and 11,820,000 tons exported last year, when we were bound by the ties of war to the European allies.

If we fail to lighten the black spots on the hunger map or if we allow any portions to become darker the first week of the year we will be faced with the threat of a European repetition of the Russian debacle and our fight for world peace will have been in vain.

Good Schools Recognized

National Aid Given to Sandstone School and Pine City Is Listed for Same

We quote the following from the Assoc American:

B. M. Giles, of the Federal Vocational department, called and inspected the Agricultural department of the Sandstone High school last week. Mr. Giles found everything in first-class shape under the able management of their local agricultural instructor, H. H. Anson, and that department came up to the requirements of the Smith-Hughes act, a federal law which was passed about two years ago. This means that the Agricultural department of the Sandstone school will receive an additional bill of about $1,000 this year from the Federal Government.

"The Sandstone school is one of few in the state to receive this aid, there being only about ten all told, and it is a feather in their cap. The requirements of the Smith-Hughes act are quite stringent. The purpose is to teach the students to become good farmers—not look farmers, teachers of agriculture, professors and the like—but actual farmers. They have to visit farms, study and test soil, crops, live stock, etc. Their instructions are not merely from the books, recently the students from the Agricultural department of the Sandstone school were on an inspection tour of the June De Lath farm at Elk River, Minn. There is a certain Federal aid set aside for each state under the Smith-Hughes act, and the limit of schools which can come under this act in Minnesota is 25. As abbreviated, their first year's aid will be about $1,000, but this amount will be increased each year for several years.

Sandstone has an excellent high school, and this success of their Agricultural department will not only be a help financially, but will be the means of good advertisement for the state, and will be an assistance in securing more out-of-town students."

The Pine City and Sandstone schools were two of the 23 schools in Minnesota originally slated to receive this aid if they complied with all the requirements, and Mr. Giles has also inspected the Pine City school, but no report has yet been received as to whether the aid will come here or not.

Marquerite Clark Presents Pet Theory
Marquerite Clark, who is appearing at the Family theatre on Thursday, Jan. 3, in "The Seven Swans," has a pet theory that no one ever really grows up. "You see," she said, "I proved it last year by appearing in 'Snow White,' an out-of-door fairy tale. The grown-ups were not prepared, and all came to see it and stayed. This year I have made 'The Seven Swans,' with the expert assistance of Director J. Serle Dawley and a cast including many very popular playlets. The story deals with witches and fairies of all sorts, and is as fantastic and appealing as little 'Snow White' of last year—and even more beautiful."

"Bringing Back" Victims of Shell Shock

Strenuous Training Adopted at Fort Sheridan Hospital to Return Sanity of Men Afflicted on Battlefields

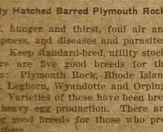

The medical department of the army is entering into one of the biggest reconstruction problems that ever has confronted it. It is the problem of reclaiming "shell shocked" victims of physical training and development.

The first exercise the men are put through is rope skipping. Then comes handball. This is strenuous. After that comes light work in basket ball, boxing and the like.

It is some cases recovery is effected in as short a time as ten days. This has been the fact in a number of cases at the new base. The men are then sent home on a furlough to rest up.

Conservation of Fuel May Be Made by Using Furnace Fire to Cook Some Dishes

An easy way to conserve fuel in cooking is by utilizing the furnace fire. Dishes that can be cooked in a casserole are becoming more and more popular and the furnace offers an economical way of preparing them.

When the first began to be realized that the number of domesticated rabbits ordinarily used for food was not equal to the demand, various other sources might be tapped to help supplement the regular supply.

The rabbit associations in California and Nebraska are making special offers to boys and girl club members who will enable a youngster to start a warren at a moderate cost with good stock.

Half a Century Ago

Half a Century Ago, every community could be supplied to some extent with locally dressed meat, drawing on live stock raised nearby. Now two-thirds of the consuming centers, with millions of people, are one to two thousand miles away from the principal live-stock producing sections, which are sparsely settled.

The American meat packing industry of today is the development of the best way to perform a national service. The function of providing meat had to develop accordingly. Those men who first grasped the elements of the changing problem created the best facilities to meet it—large packing plants and branch houses at strategic points.

There are no salt ponds anywhere in the world possess so many natural advantages as the Great Salt Lake, says Stanley W. Todd in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Lying as it does in the center of the Great Basin of the West, the lake extends north and south for 75 miles, while its width varies from 30 to 50 miles. It has an average depth of 20 feet and a 4218 feet above the sea level. There is little rainfall throughout the year, and the evaporation, together with the shrinkage of the lake, has created the conditions of summer operation.

Alaska College Will Train Its Graduates to Develop Agriculture and Mining

The new Alaska Agricultural College and School of Mines under construction at Fairbanks, Alaska, will train its graduates to help develop Alaska along its two main lines—agriculture and mining.

Both United States government and Alaska territorial funds are being used for the school. Congress, in 1915, designated a site for the school and set aside agricultural and mining lands in the Tanana valley for the support of the institution.

The Fairbanks United States government agricultural station, established on the college site, will become part of the new institution and will continue to draw revenue or support from the federal government.

Better Dairying in Forest Fire Area
The dairy industry of the region recently treated over by forest fires in northwestern Minnesota is to be made over with the assistance of the Forest fire relief committee and the county agents. After providing had been made for the immediate needs of the dairymen, Mr. E. J. Miller, John Swanson, Mrs. L. A. Swanson and County Agents E. P. Gillson, of Duluth district, and C. E. Johnson, of Moose Lake, are about making plans for the fire sufferers. The relief committee announced that it would furnish steel rods and feed for the stock. Much of the stock, however, is without owners, and will not be fed or cared for. Consequently, it is being killed one by one and the thousands and thousands of pounds of manure is being scattered over the country. The county agents are now in the process of distributing the manure from all parts of the state, and entries will close Jan. 31. For entry blank forms, etc., write to Carl J. Peterson, county secretary, Rush City, Minn.

These Have Joined Red Cross
The Christmas drive for members of the Red Cross in the Pine City district is turning out most satisfactorily, and the prospects are that about 1,000 memberships will be sold for 1919, which is very gratifying to all. A list of those joining will be published in The Pine POKER by school districts.

We are able to give the results in four of the school districts in this territory this week, and the policy of publishing the list will be continued next week. Also, any new names in the districts already published will be given.

Mrs. Nina Anderson, of Minneapolis, formerly Miss Nina Taylor of this place, passed away at her home in that city last Friday, aged about 28 years. She leaves her husband and two little boys.

J. F. Cassidy moved his family down, last Thursday, from the farm on the west side of Pokegama, where he has rented, and they are settled in the Kowalko house on 8th street, recently vacated by Mrs. Wm. Lambert. Mr. Cassidy expects to be employed at the cut after the holidays.

Schools closed last Friday for the holiday vacation of two weeks, nearly all the teachers going to their homes to spend the time. Most all of our home teachers who were engaged elsewhere are also home for the holidays.

The remains of Mrs. John P. Klovasd were laid at rest in the cemetery here, last Sunday afternoon, with services at 1 o'clock in the Presbyterian church by Rev. Miller, of the Methodist church. Besides the mother and husband of the deceased, there were present from outside the village, Mr. and Mrs. Omer Ellstrom of Grandburg and Mr. Klovasd's brother and mother from Duluth.

W. A. Sauser has purchased the property occupied by his hardware business from Wm. Albert Ellison was severely injured on the grade at the north end of the new wagon bridge, last Friday, when a large car struck him in passing, and threw Mr. Ellison from his seat, while the horse was frightened and ran across the bridge, throwing its driver to the ground and causing severe injuries for which friends fear gravely for Mr. Ellison is about 70 years of age. The car which did the damage—a large one—continued its way north without the least apparent concern for the damage that it had caused.

Pine County Poultry Show Coming A meeting of all interested in poultry raising who are members of the Pine County Poultry association will be held at Pine City on Dec. 28 at 1 p. m., to elect officers to handle the county poultry show for this winter and arrange during the coming year.

The time and place for the show will be announced later, as these matters will be settled at the meeting. In the meantime, everybody interested in the poultry business should make it their business to look for the Pine county show. The state contributes about $400 per year toward the premiums.

The value of poultry breeding is well shown by the experience of the farmers about Barnum, just north of us. There the egg check of the people more than equal their cream checks—and they have some good dairy herds there, too. The right feed and care goes a tremendous way with a cow.
