

Kills Wife With an Ax

Joseph Chranex, a farmer living near Danham, killed his wife, Francis Chranex, with an ax last Friday morning. He was brought to Pine City by Sheriff Hawley and held until Monday, when he was given a hearing before Justice Stearns and committed to the jail.

Upon examination by the neighbor, he discovered she still lived and sent for a doctor and notified the sheriff. She died a few minutes later however. Two cuts had been made with the ax, one on the skull and the other on the neck cutting the bone in the rear of the neck and nearly severing the head from the shoulders.

Chranex was arrested at Danham, when he had assaulted his wife with an ax. He was given a hearing before Justice Alkinson at Pine City and bound over to the district court, remaining in jail at Stillwater until brought to Pine City for trial last week. The grand jury returned an indictment of assault in the second degree to which he pleaded guilty.

He was sentenced to Stillwater for one year, the sentence being suspended pending good behavior and he was put under probation. His wife was present at the hearing and said that he is not afraid of him and he said he was ready at home to provide for the family.

The suspension of the sentence was revoked by Justice Stearns Monday, and he was sent to jail to await action by the next grand jury. Sheriff Hawley took him down Tuesday.

The Chranex case in America from Galicia ten years ago, when they settled on the farm near Danham and have lived there since that time. There are five or six children, the oldest being a boy about 14 years of age.

Buyers Cambridge Mill

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Cambridge Milling Co., held at the city hall Saturday afternoon, the transfer of a majority of the stock to the Eastern Minnesota Power Co., of Pine City, was completed and the mill is now under the control of the new owners. More stock will be transferred in a day or two and it is expected that the entire issue will change hands within the next week or so.

There will be no change in the management of the local plant at the present time as it will continue under the direction of management of E. Erickson, who has been in charge several years. There will also be no interruption in the business of the local mill at the present time.

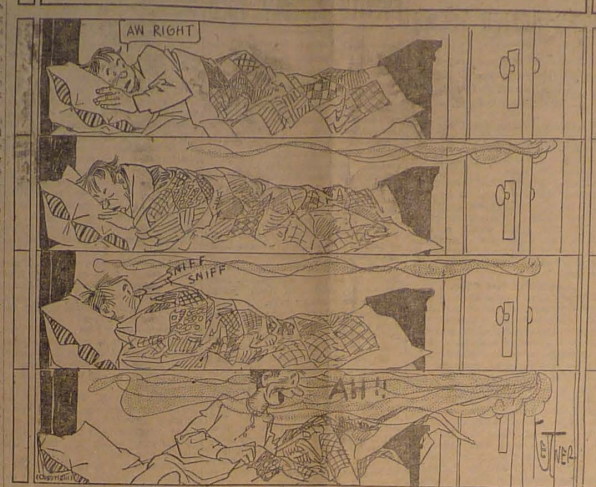

Work of improving the power and light service to some extent will be started at once. An arrangement will be made with the Pine City lines now running three quarters of a mile out of the city, and arrangements made for a 1,000 volt line to enter the city. A motor will be installed at the mill to take over part of the heavy load now carried by local steam power. Continuous service will also be given as soon as the new motor has been installed.

The direct current now carried to this city will be maintained until some time next year when the new owners expect to replace it with alternating current which is distributed by the Eastern Minnesota Power Co. Extensive repairs and considerable new building to the system in this city. It is also planned to also take the course of line - Cambridge North Star.

Accidentally Shoots Himself

A very peculiar accident happened at Brino Tuesday, that may cost the life of one of the progressive farmers of that locality. While working in the field, one of the men fired his gun on top of his rifle and the gun went off and the bullet passed through his hand and arm, they lodged in his neck, and he has since been in a very serious condition. It is not known why the gun discharged, but one report stated that one of the shells was not properly secured there, but was apparently touched it. Dr. Buehler was called to see for him.

Arrest Car Thieves

Paul Lynch and Raymond C. Wolf, who gave their residence as Duluth, were arrested by Marshal Zumbach at Hinckley, last night, made their escape after beating the marshal up, and were rearrested near Beroun, by a Ramsey county deputy sheriff, and brought to Pine City where they now repose in the local bastille.

They were traveling in a National car and had stopped at Moose Lake last night, when they purchased 5 gallons of gasoline. After receiving the gasoline, they sent the garage man for some oil and while he was gone, they took the car and fled. The garage man phoned down the line to have them stopped.

The Hinckley marshal stretched across the highway, and they went a short distance north. When the car appeared, he ordered them to stop. They ignored the order, but have gotten away, but they jumped into another car on the bridge.

Zumbach captured the men and started up town with them. When they were passing the school house, the men who were ahead of the marshal, turned on him, beating him up quite severely, and made their escape.

A deputy sheriff from Ramsey county, in company with another officer, happened to be eating lunch at the depot. They were on their way to Pine City with a stolen car, which they had gotten at Duluth. They were told of the affair and were on the look out for their way to Pine City a short distance north of Pine City. They were brought here and turned over to the local authorities.

They admitted taking the car, but stated they had gotten it at Carlton. Sheriff Hawley got in touch with Duluth officials, and was informed the car was the property of H. H. Peyton, a Duluth lawyer, and had been stolen from the street there about 8 o'clock last night.

Marshal Zumbach swore out a complaint for assault, and they are being held on that charge, pending the arrival of a Duluth officer.

Should File Report

Co-operated creameries in Minnesota can be exempted from paying an income tax and a capital stock tax according to a recent statement by Chris Henn, State dairy and food commissioner. He has issued letters of instructions to the Eastern Minnesota Power Co. Creameries have paid out thousands of dollars in income taxes which they could not have had to pay if they had complied with the law by filing reports to show that they were not profit-making organizations.

In order to establish their exemption, proper reports must be filed showing the purpose for which they were organized, the source of their income and expenditures. On filing the reports the internal revenue department will inform companies as to the right of exemption. Co-operative creameries which had an income tax for 1918 and 1919 may also be eligible for refunds and also for refunds for capital stock tax paid.

Meeting at Henriette

Editorials by Our Readers

Believing that a newspaper should be a medium, not only to give the news of the community, but should always strive for the best interests of that community, we have added a new department to The Pine Piker under the head of "Editorials by Our Readers."

In this department we will print letters received dealing with any subject that has to do with the business, social or moral welfare of this community or county. All we ask is fair treatment of the subject discussed. Personalities will not be allowed.

Everyone is entitled to their own opinion. We hear many ideas that are worthy of publication. We will appreciate it if our readers will take advantage of this offer.

Just Write a letter and mail to The Pine Piker, Sixty seven name. If you don't want your name printed, make a note to that effect and we will leave it off.

Thanksgiving Services

Amid handshakes and penny allusions, unobscured by the Pilgrim Fathers celebrated the First Thanksgiving day. They recognized Gustafson and leadership in their lives and in honor of this great day of Thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty. Since that time, it has been the custom of the People of this country to observe an annual Thanksgiving Day, and it should be something more than a mere time of feasting, it should be a day of praise and thanksgiving in the highest possible sense.

That it may be possible for the people of Pine City and vicinity to properly observe the day, and they were met by the personal and community life there will be a Thanksgiving service held in the Methodist church Thursday morning, Nov. 24th, at 10:30. Rev. Buckton will preach the sermon. All are urged to attend.

Want Co. Nurse?

Shall we retain a Pine county nurse? The Board of Directors of the Pine county Chapter of the American Red Cross gives notice of a meeting to be held in the office of the County Agent at Hinckley, on Saturday, Nov. 19th at two o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of considering ways and means of retaining our county nurse.

It is proposed that for this purpose a county association of some sort be formed at that meeting. In anticipation of such action and so as to leave the way clear for the chairman of the necessary funds, the chairman of the chapter has with him a Red Cross notepad for the 19th Annual Roll Call but suggests that concurrently with any campaign for Pine County Health, one should be made for the Red Cross.

The suggestion measure is made because of each one dollar subscription to the Red Cross must be sent to headquarters for national and foreign work. We have also a duty to the children of Pine county.

Statistics say that our nation spend an amount equal to a per capita of $174 for the prevention of hog cholera as against 22 cent per capita for public health.

The Red Cross reports that earlier in the present year there were only five counties in the entire state that had no county nurse.

Pine county is in awful shape some respects, such as its lack of provision for tuberculosis and the tubercular and so on.

If you are interested try to be present at the coming meeting, and if not possible to be present advise by letter as to your attitude in the matter.

This meeting is an important one concerning the welfare of many Pine county children.

Reverse Movie Decision

In a decision made last week the Supreme Court reversed the ruling of the District Court in the case of C. E. Powers vs. the Village of North Branch and holds that the ordinance prohibiting the operation of moving picture shows on Sunday is valid, and settles a much mooted question as to what a village has power to regulate. The decision is of great importance to all villages inasmuch as it shows a village has a right to regulate the business within its corporate limits. The text and substance of the decision is as follows:

North Branch has had self government. If its people want an ordinance of this kind they may have it, and it is not necessary that they can have it repealed.

The syllabus of the decision is as follows: Although a lawful business, the exhibition of motion pictures may be licensed and regulated by the state and the political subdivisions thereof, in the exercise of its police power.

In the exercise of the discretion delegated to village councils by Secs. 1235, 1239 & 1241, they may ordain that there shall be no public exhibitions of motion pictures within the village on Sundays.

Such and ordinance is not an attempt to secure the observance of the Sabbath day but to regulate a business and is not in conflict with the general law or public policy of the state.

The Court further states: "Under a grant of police power to license and regulate a business the municipal authorities are empowered to determine where and within what limits the business may be conducted. They may impose reasonable restrictions on such business, and may prohibit exhibitions of motion picture exhibitions in a city in which the public interest is unduly to have them. An ordinance enacted under a grant of police power to license and regulate a business is not an attempt to secure the observance of the Sabbath day but to regulate a business and is not in conflict with the general law or public policy of the state."

Four Children Burned to Death

Four children were burned to death at a farm house in Pine Lake town, 5 miles west of Emleyton, last Sunday evening. Those who perished were Bernard Dorsch age 2, Dorothy Dorsch age 3, Robert Dorsch age 4, and Elizabeth Meyer age 14. The Dorsch children were the second and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Dorsch of Duluth and Elizabeth was the daughter of Meyer Meyer of Duluth. Mr. Dorsch is a member of the Duluth fire department.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsch and the children, accompanied by Elizabeth Meyer, who was the children's nursemaid, were visiting at the home of Mrs. Dorsch's mother at Pine Lake. They had left the children asleep in bed, in charge of Elizabeth, about 7:30 Sunday evening, and came to visit at the home of some neighbors.

They Dorsch, a brother living near here, saw flames coming from the house about 8:45 and rushed to the scene of the fire. He broke open a window but flames and smoke poured out in such volume that he was unable to gain admission. Neighbors attracted by the flames were unable to rescue the children, and the building was a mass of flames. There was nothing they could do but stand and watch the fire.

It is said that the following day that the same could not be permitted the search for the remains of the children. From the position of the bodies, it looked as if the children had been thrown about in effort to escape. Funeral for the little ones was held at Emleyton Tuesday.

"MY GOD!"

Sheila looked at the man who had just spoken, and she saw that he was not a stranger to her. She had seen him before, in the days when she was a girl, and she had known him as a friend. She had seen him in the days when she was a girl, and she had known him as a friend. She had seen him in the days when she was a girl, and she had known him as a friend.

But this place in order and brought discipline and good living here. I shall stay here in Jamaica till I have done my duty. As for the Maroons, when the trouble comes, I shall not be unprepared," she smiled sadly. "The governor may take your advice, but I shall not. And remember that I come from a land not without its dangers. We had red Indians and black men there, and I can shoot."

He waved a hand abruptly and then made a gesture—was an assent, a command, a rebuff, a submission. "I shall remember every word you have said, and every word of your own will I will do to the letter. In ten years to come, Good-bye—but no, let me say this before I go: I did not know that Errol's father was your father until after he was dead. So if I killed him, it was in complete ignorance. Errol's father was your father until after he was dead. So if I killed him, it was in complete ignorance.

all; he has no noisy pride. But he doesn't drink much." "Modest enough to be a good republican," she smiled. "I must think you are just as it is. I don't suppose I'll see you again. I was not employed by you, I am."

Darius Boland had a gift of saying the first thing in the right way, and he had said it now. The governor was not so dense as to put this man and his wife for you, you were a republican. They often attach importance to the opinion of a faithful servant and he would not miss that. He had once lost a possible fortune by spurning a false order of the daughter of the earl of Shalton, and the man had sunk deep into his mind.

"I have nothing more than that in Virginia," she said. "I have a house in Virginia, but I take this to be in some ways like that state. Is it?" "Yes, in some ways only. We have not the same profusion of wild fruits and trees, but we have our share—and it is not so hot as here. It is a better country, though."

CHAPTER XVI.

Two months went by. In that time Sheila and Dyck did not meet, though Dyck saw her more than once in the distance at Kingston. Yet they had never met since that wonderful day in the garden. He had seen her in the distance at Kingston. Yet they had never met since that wonderful day in the garden.

"But yesterday, Boland, and he'll do to tell him in hand if he goes calling—where should he call?" "Gallivanting—here, in Jamaica? Does your honor remember where we were gallivanting—where should he call?"

"I have nothing more than that in Virginia," she said. "I have a house in Virginia, but I take this to be in some ways like that state. Is it?" "Yes, in some ways only. We have not the same profusion of wild fruits and trees, but we have our share—and it is not so hot as here. It is a better country, though."

Mrs. Lynn was playing a bold, indeed a reckless game. She wanted to show Dyck there were others who would interest themselves in Sheila even if he did not. She had been told that the girl could look high, if her mind turned toward marriage. Also she had been told that the girl was not without attractions of her own. She had been told that the girl was not without attractions of her own.

One day Boland brought word that the governor had more than once visited Selam with his wife, that he sat in judgment on a case in Kingston concerning the estate of Selam, and had given decision in its favor. He had been told that the girl was not without attractions of her own.

"I have nothing more than that in Virginia," she said. "I have a house in Virginia, but I take this to be in some ways like that state. Is it?" "Yes, in some ways only. "What has the governor to do with it?" she declared. "It is his own property, and she is free to hold or to part with it. There is no crown consent to act, no vice-regal approval needed."

"I have nothing more than that in Virginia," she said. "I have a house in Virginia, but I take this to be in some ways like that state. Is it?" "Yes, in some ways only. "It is wonderful," she said quietly, "that which you have done, yet you do not tell it. It does not say that you did not kill my father. You are published for the crime, and we must abide by it, even though I am a black girl. It is the law that has done it, and we cannot abate the law."

Editor The Pine POKER: In giving you some of my views and in this heading I assure you it is with no intention of being an intruder.

In Pine City there are some peculiar trade deals that I believe could be materially changed, to the benefit of all of us. I just wish to refer to one particular line. The Home Bakery.

Why do we as local taxpayers, pay St. Paul bread and a bakery here in the town. It makes no difference who runs this bakery, as long as he is turning out good goods and offering them for sale at reasonable prices. I believe I owe that bakery my trade. I believe in free open competition, but not in desperate trade deals. Any of the big packers might go into a little of business. But it would not be a fair trade, it would simply be a method of destruction.

The Home Bakery pays rent here for more and houses and pay taxes and insurance, taxes and rent here and keep his family and I understand has a very good baker and must pay him wages.

Contrast the Home Shop with the trucks selling bread. These St. Paul men have no interest here, pay no taxes, no insurance, hire no local men, are never out here to help out with our local problems. It's beyond me why we should pass them our money. I have no quarrel with the truck men. They show a spirit of enterprise. But that is not sufficient reason why we should split our selves loyally to boost a St. Paul bread line. If we persist in passing our trade out of town, we cannot expect the bakery to thrive.

I never knew Mr. Lesard before, and I do not know his baker at all. But I do know that this matter has been up in various ways before and I do know that we need a bakery here, and as a taxpayer I surely believe that it is to our own interest to support the Pine City Bakery. I have been told that a large retail grocer of St. Paul recently delivered goods to some homes in Rush City, and if the report is true, it's a pity but they pay at least as much for the goods as they could buy them of the local merchants for.

Library Notes

The Library Association now boasts of ninety paid-up members, but there is room in it for everyone in town and in the surrounding country. Just leave your dollar with N. Perkins the treasurer, he will take care of it.

Anyone who has books to donate may bring them to the library any time, or notify any of the officers, who will gladly get them.

Among the new books ordered is "The Next War" by Will Erwin, this book should be read by everyone.

Last Saturday nineteen new books were added to our library, some of the old standbys like "Pearl and Tom Sawyer" are in this collection, but there are also some of the latest books published. In the "Sword of the Cathedral" by Dantes, "The Arrow of Gold" by Conrad are among these.

The Public Library of Stillwater is going to send us some books which they have duplicated so our collection is growing in many ways.

Have you read "The Americanization of Edward Bok"? If not, better come in and see what it is.

School Notes

Alice and Marjell Daniels returned to high school last week. They have been attending school at St. Cloud since leaving here last spring.

Mr. Danberg issued a call for candidates for basketball and nearly all the boys in H. S. reported to him for duty. With the material that is out, Pine City should have a good team and carry off the district championship. All but one of the last year's team is back and with a good man to fill in his place, the team should have no trouble in winning the most of the scheduled games. In two weeks we have our first game, so the team will have to practice diligently to be in condition.

The first edition of the P. C. H. S. paper will be out Tuesday. This is the first paper attempted by the P. C. H. S. and we hope it will be successful. The paper is put out directly by the students and the financial part is offset by the sale of advertisements and subscriptions.

The program given by the grade on Armistice Day was very well given and was very appropriate. The spirit of military feeling was bro. out. The first graders especially were very humorous being very small and doing their parts well.

The program was attended by a goodly number of mothers of the participants. The football team met defeat at the hands of Cambridge last Friday, Nov. 11th. The Cambridge team defeated us by weight and also outplayed us. The P. C. H. S. team had two reason one in play and if they had a little more experience would have made lots more trouble than they did. The chief trouble of ground gaining used by the Cambridge players was line blocking and forward passes. A good number of passes were pulled over on our team in the first half. The end runs were stopped successfully by Babcock, Thorpe and Gougeon.

The second half was a lot better than the first. P. G. held Cambridge to only two touchdowns. The first score was Cambridge at Pine City 0. Taken all in all the Pine City team has no reason to feel discouraged over the outcome of the season. It was here first season, and they had practically nothing but green players.

Deer Hunters Returning

Last week automobiles were speeding north with expectant men hurrying to the hunters paradise in the northern part of the state. This week there is a steady stream of cars returning home, most all loaded with their full quota of deer.

Jack Webber, proprietor of the Webber service station, was the first Pine City man to return and reports getting a 2-spoke buck. John in company with his brother Charlie and the Nishak boys hunted at the forks of the Keale River. John succeeded in bagging his game the opening day and returned home so fortunate and remained longer.

Ben Haas and Ivo Heller returned home Sunday with a fine buck, weighing 202 pounds dressed, which they had shot in the Clover-leaf district.

Ole Brekke returned from the Cloverton region, last Sunday, back a deer with the state. This only one of the party, which included his brother Sig and Jim Wadel Jr, who had succeeded in getting a deer when he left. Ole will return next Saturday to get the other boys.

Ed Hakos and Gene Wilcox returned from their hunting trip on the St. Croix flats. Tuesday, Ed brought home a fine spike buck.

Rich Glasow returned to town with an 85 pound deer, Wednesday, which he got up north at Duluth.

W. Duppel returned from their hunting trip to the eastern part of the county, the first of the week. Neither of the boys brought any game back with them, and only sighted on deer, which was too far away to get.

Wendell and Eli Huber returned from Tanarack the first of the week. They brought back a deer which Eli had shot. This was the only deer seen by the boys on their trip.

Get Stolen Tires Back

Herb Baker of the A & B garage went to Duluth last Saturday where he identified the tires taken from their garage on Wednesday night of last week.

The tires were discovered in the brush near the D. M. & N. crossing on the Thompson hill by motorcycle policeman, George Bailey. The inner tubes taken were not found with the tires but it is probable that these also will be recovered.

The thieves had failed to tear all the wrappings off from the tires and the firms name was found on one which led to the identification and finding of the owners. It was reported to the Northern Pacific detective force, as it was thought they were stolen from a box car.

Detective Johnson of the N. P. force called Mr. Anderson and Mr. Baker went to Duluth to identify and claim the tires.

The total amount of the loot obtained from the garage amounted to $128.20, most of which has been recovered on the finding of the tires.

Getting Acquainted

In the issue of October 27, Mr. Ed. F. Summers, of the Advocate-Democrat of Marysville, Kans., says:

HAVE MADE FRIENDS

About three years ago the Standard Oil Company began a campaign of publicity which covered the whole country. Its attempt was made to pay any attention to what had been charged up against the organization in that distant past, but a plain statement was sent out showing the attitude of the company, the diversity of its ownership and its policy in dealing with the public. And that campaign has been effective. No longer do you hear "Rockefeller and the Standard Oil" continually roared by the general public. Other "goods" have been picked up and in every section you will hear the admission made that the Standard Oil Co. gives service and tries to profit by being content to work on a small margin and develop a bigger business.

The experience is well worth thinking over for it goes to show what we have always contended and that is that the average man is fair and only wants to be shown. Tell him into your confidence if your business is legitimate and you possess knowledge. The Standard Oil has won fame by its policy of publicity and the favor is deserved.

THE spontaneous response which the announcements of this Company have received from many of the newspapers of the country has been most gratifying. That such a response has come from a better understanding of the Company, its purposes and its policies goes without saying. It is purely a matter of getting acquainted.

Those we do not know we are apt to suspect. Those we do know we respect if respect is deserved.

The Board of Directors intend that this Company shall deserve the respect of its customers, its employees, its stockholders and its competitors by maintaining a policy of fair dealing.

The operations of this Company are carried on with a straightforward directness, and with the deep conviction that business is possible only through service; that through service comes volume, and through volume come profits.

Dave McGlaughlin wishes to inform his friends that after next Sunday he will be able to supply all rabbits wanted by anyone in the community. Dave has made quite a reputation as a duck hunter recently, but we are inclined to believe he is covering a little too much territory this week. Harry Patschel took first prize amateur night at the Family theatre last week. He has made fine progress, since taking up the saxophone and his selection demonstrated his ability on that instrument. Master Nick Peckins, 4 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Perkins, took second money. Master Nick is only about as big as a minute but he hopped onto the stage with the bearing and self confidence of a born orator of many years experience. Sitting at the rear of the theatre, it was hard to hear him but his recital had do with the burning of a church, and we made out a couple of lines--"Holy smoke, the preacher shouted, when the church caught on fire, and 'His hair resembled heaven cause there was no parting there." Amidst the burst of applause, he made a stately bow and calmly walked off the stage. The next day he was offered some candy by Mrs. Beezel, while in the store. "Oh no thank you, Mithis Beechel, I got a dollar for speaking in the theatre," he replied. Gertrude Wiley received third prize. She recited a comic piece in costume.

Deroulede Statue Unveiled in Metz

M. Barthou, French minister of war, recently unveiled a statue of Paul Deroulede, the great French patriot, at Metz. The big bell of the cathedral, which is seldom used, as no vibrations are believed to endanger the safety of the tower, was rung on this occasion. The statue stands on a pedestal built by the Germans for a monument to the Emperor Frederick III.

Centrifugal Gun Is a Wonder

Inventor Colonel Olindeau demonstrating to a party of government officials a new centrifugal gun at Beverly, N. J. Firing 1,200 shots a minute, the gun killed a steel target. The barrel of the gun is six inches in length, suitably reinforced for maximum resistance, with a bore of 50/100 of an inch. From the muzzle to the center of the barrel the barrel may be retracted and being like glass at from 1,000 to 10,000 revolutions per minute. This wide range of speed results in an equally wide range of penetrating power at any given distance.

In the Limelight

loss of life in Russia since 1914 from famine, execution and war at 20,000,000.

Stunning reports of conditions in Soviet Russia are given in a statement by Capt. Emmet Kilpatrick of Uniontown, Ala., who was captured by General Buleniy's cavalry command in October, 1920, while doing Red Cross relief work and suffered for more than nine months in Soviet prisons. Captain Kilpatrick, under twenty years' sentence at hard labor, was released August 7 last through efforts of American relief missions in Russia. He has returned to the United States.

Thousands of Austro-Hungarian prisoners of war, many of them taken by the Russian armies in 1914, still are held by the Soviets. Captain Kilpatrick declared, but their number is fast dwindling through death from starvation. From figures obtained from certain persons holding high offices in the Soviet government, he added, he conservatively estimated the number of prisoners of war at 20,000,000.

House Reprimands Blanton

Thomas Lindsay Blanton, who escaped expulsion from the house of representatives by a margin of eight votes and was then publicly reprimanded by Speaker Gillette in accordance with a resolution of censure passed by unanimous vote, representing the seventeenth congressional district of Texas. He was born in Houston in 1872 and was given the degree of D.B.S. by the State university. He practiced law in Albany until elected judge of the forty-second judicial district. He was elected to the sixty-fifth congress from the bench as a Democrat and re-elected in 1918 and 1920. He is married, has five children and lives in Abilene.

Monday of Wyoming, the majority leader, offered the resolution for expulsion, which charged that Blanton, under permission of the house to extend his remarks in the Congressional Record upon the improvements in the government printing office, caused to be printed "grossly indecent and obscene language, unworthy of a member of the house of representatives, contrary to the rules of the house, and in violation of its conduct." The language, as printed in the Record, is all that the resolution asserts. It is contained in an affidavit by a compositor in the government printing office which sets forth an alleged altercation between him and a corrector of proof over the Typographical Union. In this Blanton is referred to in foul language. Outside of the affidavit the "Extension" contains no objectionable language.

The affidavit was inserted to strengthen Blanton's claim that the Typographical union forces non-union men out of the government printing office.

Everyone Good to Marshall

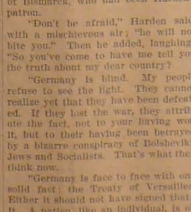

Thomas R. Marshall, the only living ex-vice-president, was around the capital the other day, for the first time since he left office last March, complaining that he was literally swamped with letters for home leave. "They must think I'm a dead game sport," he said. "Every time I go to somebody comes up to me, acts strange, then takes me to a restaurant and gives me a new recipe for 'foots'."

"No, I haven't tried any of them. I haven't had a drink in 30 years. I suppose I must have about 400 recipes by this time."

Mr. Marshall called on President Harding, describing himself as "a visitor without an ax to grind." The president seized him by the arm and pulled him into the cabinet room, where were Vice President Coolidge, Secretary of War Weeks, Postmaster General Hays, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. He received a hearty welcome.

Harden: "Germany Is Blind"

Maxmillian Harden, one of the most noted German publicists, was visited the other day, at his little cottage in Grunewald, by Jules Coty, a French journalist. The German said to the Frenchman under a portrait of Blanton, who had been Harden's patron. "Don't be afraid," Harden said, with a mischievous air. "He will not bite you." Then he added, laughing: "So you've come to have me tell you the truth about my dear country?" "Germany is blind," My people refuse to see the light. They cannot realize yet that they have been defeated. If they lost the war, they attribute the fact, not to your having won it, but to their having been betrayed by a bizarre conspiracy of Bolsheviks, Jews and Socialists. That's what they think now."

"Germany is face to face with one solid fact, the Treaty of Versailles. Either it should not have signed that treaty, or having signed it, should fulfill it. A nation, like an individual, is obligated by its honor in such cases."

Pennsylvania's New Senator

William E. Crow of Uniontown, appointed by Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania to succeed the late Philander Chase Knox in the senate, has taken his seat. He will serve by appointment until the election in November, 1922. Senator Knox's term would have expired March 4, 1923 and next year he would have been chosen for the remainder of the term and for the full term ending March 4, 1929.

Crow is a lawyer, fifty-one years old. He is married and has three sons. He has been directing head the Republican party in Pennsylvania since 1913. He has been a successful business man and was for several years publisher of a county newspaper and reporter on a Pittsburgh paper before he was admitted to the bar. Senator Crow is the president of the Union League of Philadelphia, one of the oldest political organizations of the country. He was a delegate to the Chicago Republican national convention and last year and supported Governor Sproul for the presidency as long as his name was before the convention.

Idea of Teaching Deaf and Dumb Had Its Inception in Brain of Spanish Monk. Search for the first man to conceive the idea of imparting knowledge to the deaf and dumb leads one into a cluster in the Middle ages. There, in his little cell in a Spanish village near Madrid, the Benedictine monk, Pedro de Ponce, pondered in 1570 over the problem of how to make useful citizens of those who had been denied both speech and hearing.

Two centuries passed before modern England took up this charity, the Detroit News states. George Cornwallis succeeded in establishing a deaf and dumb asylum in London in 1792, and in 1810 Thomas Bridwood indicated the city of Edinburgh to follow the example of the capital. America's first deaf and dumb institution was not founded until 1830, after the famous William Van Praeger had introduced the oral method of teaching both in this country and England.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are advertised in one drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has genuine curative value almost sells itself, as like an engine chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have used many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, so many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

Biggest Boy in the World. "Coincidentally, but that guy's long for this world," said a startled newspaper reporter the other morning in Chicago, as Jan Van Albert doubled up like a jackknife, squinted through the door of a Pullman car, straightened up to his full height of 9 feet 5 inches, gave the crowd of his enraptured fans and then hustled to a telephone to order his breakfast—a meal that would stagger five ordinary men.

Are You a Weak Woman? Health is Most Vital to Every Woman. Read What Mrs. Ross Says. Minneapolis, Minn.—"When my children were small, I had a sick spell that weakened me so I could not walk across the floor without the aid of a chair. Our druggist advised me to take Dr. Parke's Peppermint Cure and Golden Malted Food. I discovered immediately, according to directions, and six bottles completely restored me to health and strength. Since that time I have frequently recommended these two famous remedies to members of my own family and to my friends and have seen only the most satisfactory results from their use."—Mrs. Mary Ross, 2313 22nd Ave. S.

MOTHER! OPEN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP. Your little one will love the "fruity" taste of California Fig Syrup even if constipated, bilious, irritable, nervous, or full of cold. A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sore bits, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottles. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

John's last year teacher met his mother, Mrs. Elmhurst, on the street the other day. "And how does John like his new teacher?" she asked. SUFFERED SEVEN LONG YEARS

Finally Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ravenwood, W. Va.—"For seven long years I suffered from a female trouble and inflammation of the bowels. I consulted several doctors but they could not give me relief. I read in a paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I decided to try it. I bought the first bottle and was given a great relief. I had taken eight bottles. Now I am very well and can do my own housework. I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound to suffering women. Mrs. BEATRIX LITANO, R. F. D. Ravenwood, W. Va.

The ordinary day of most housewives is a constant treadmill of washing, cooking, cleaning, mending, sweeping, dusting and caring for little ones. How much harder the tasks when some derangement of the system causes headache, backache, beating-down pains and nervousness. Every such woman should profit by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's experience. Her own story for over forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring health.

If there are bottles to go in your bag or trunk and you fear the corks will come out, heat your bottles in wax to a flame and run the melted paraffin around the cork where it meets the glass. New Expanding Bullet

A new form of expanding bullet for big-game hunters has been designed. It is for rifles of .30 caliber. It supersees the old-fashioned bullets to which there were many objections. In a new bullet the core is made of tapered gilding metal, and upon impact in forest back into the cover, expanding the point of the bullet, which is slotted in such a manner that it retains its pointed shape until the impact occurs. This is unlike the old-fashioned bullets which from their nature, were liable to be deformed by hitting before they were loaded into a rifle. The weight of the new bullet is 180 grs. which is general. It considered about the best shooting.

Water and Health

"Seven gallons of water outside, and seven glasses inside every day," is the slogan of home doctors from various universities, who are cooperating with schools in the matter of health and nutrition instruction. Modern dietetic studies show that youngsters ought to drink at least four glasses of water a day, and seven glasses is not too much. The water should preferably be taken between meals.

Over-Education a Peril

Have you ever read the Roman tale of over-education? Well, here it is: "A great danger impends because the accumulation of knowledge and power is in itself, when the human intellect does not expand. There is reason to fear that the human brain may collapse under its own burden of health and nutrition instruction when its very progress spells its ultimate decadence. It will be like an equation that carries its limits within its own statements."—Los Angeles Times.

WAR TO ELIMINATE BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS

Demand for Inspections and Tests so Great That Officials Cannot Keep Up With Work.

(Prepared by Office of Publications, University Farm, St. Paul.)
According to information received at University Farm from offices of the United States Department of Agriculture, Minnesota has lost the lead which it held for some time in the number of fully accredited dairy herds and the number of cattle certified free of tuberculosis. A recent monthly report shows that the lead has gone to Wisconsin. When the report was made, Wisconsin had 1,309 accredited herds containing 25,001 head of cattle. Minnesota has 1,171 accredited herds with 23,893 cattle.

The accredited herd system, which was devised to help rid the country of bovine tuberculosis, is based upon federal supervision and the issuance of certificates by the United States Department of Agriculture. Steady progress has been made throughout the country in the war against cattle tuberculosis.

The total number of herds accredited in the United States is 9,963. The number of cattle in the country certified free of the disease is 239,704. There are 71,999 herds and 848,244 head of cattle that have been tested once and pronounced to be of a certain quantity by the accredited list. There are 1,548,814 cattle in 103,046 herds now under federal supervision.

The demand for inspections and tests under this tuberculosis cleanup plan is so great that the inspectors cannot keep up. At present there are 871 herds on the waiting list. These herds contain nearly a quarter of a million cattle. During September 153,742 cattle were tested in the various states. Of these 6,093, or 3.7 per cent, reacted.

REGULAR HOUSING AND BARN FEEDING NECESSARY

Dairy Cow Care Important to Keep Up Milk Production—Comfort for Cow Spells Profit.

(Prepared by Office of Publications, University Farm, St. Paul.)
The dairy cow should have the best of care in the transition period between the outdoor and pasture life and confinement in a stable. Regular housing and barn feeding should not be delayed too long, for unless the dairy cow gets plenty of food and is kept in comfortable quarters there is bound to be a slump in her milk production. A drop in production is known to all experienced dairymen to be a serious matter, for when a loss of milk yield occurs it is almost impossible to bring production up to a high level again later, even if the cow is given the best feed and care. Regarding winter feeding and housing, E. W. Gullickson of the dairy husbandry division at University Farm, says:

"The feed of the cow, always an important factor, is extremely so at this season. A plentiful supply of roughage is found in the feeds that are usually grown on every dairy farm. Clover or alfalfa hay with corn silage furnish a very satisfactory roughage combination for the ration. It is economical to use alfalfa hay, because as the cow will consume twenty to thirty-five pounds of silage, depending on the size of the animal, should be given from the first day of barn feeding, for it will aid greatly in making easy the transition from pasture to dry feeding."

In addition to the roughage the cow producing milk should receive some grain or concentrate feed. Corn is the best, forming an excellent basis for such a grain ration. It will usually, however, be found profitable to purchase other feeds to add to this. A combination of 300 pounds ground corn, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds bran and 100 pounds linseed oilmeal will give good results. One pound of this mixture to every three pounds of milk produced is about the proper ratio for a Jersey or Guernsey cow, while the lower testing Holstein should receive only one pound for every four pounds of milk she gives.

Chopped cooked beet, mixed with hay, makes a good ration for a cow in a cold winter. Green peppers filled with seasoned cream cheese and then stuffed, served on lettuce with a bit of onion served on slices of tomato makes a very acceptable combination.

A thick slice of tomato with a spoonful of chopped celery and onion mixed and heated on top, then topped with a handful of mayonnaise, served on lettuce.

Section of orange, grapefruit and a bright apple unpeeled, arranged in the form of a hemisphere on lettuce with salad dressing of any kind. Dried apple, dates, orange and celery on lettuce with a mayonnaise, adding whipped cream. Hearts of celery stalks, stuffed with cream cheese, garnished with walnuts on lettuce with French dressing.

REASONABLE GOOD THINGS

Sit separate programs for the man will furnish much variety that which divides can choose that in which he is most interested. Special attention will be paid to the problems of the home in which men and women have co-operative responsibilities.

Chicken Cooked in Milk—Cut up the chicken as for fricassee (parboil, if at all, doubtful of its tenderness); drain, roll in seasoned flour and immerse in butter or a mixture of butter and any sweet fat. Now lay the broiled and roasted chicken in a baking pan and pour over sweet milk to cover. Bake until the milk and flour have formed a gravy.

Oysters in Cucumber Cups—Cut large cucumbers into two parts, cross-section and fill with a cupful of small pieces from the rounded ends, so that the cups will stand upright. Fill with raw oysters or baked oysters. The oysters must be cooked, and even until the cucumbers are tender. Serve with a spoonful of tartar sauce in each cup. Minced fish or lobster may be used in place of the oysters.

Terrapin Chicken—Chop two hard-cooked eggs and two cooked chicken livers; mix with two cupfuls of cold-cooked chicken, cut in small pieces. Season with salt, pepper and a slight grating of nutmeg.

Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan; add two tablespoonfuls of flour and one cupful of a mixture of cream and chicken stock. Cook as for white sauce; add the chopped mixture, cover and simmer over gentle heat for ten minutes. Before serving, add the yolk of an egg, beaten with two tablespoonfuls of cream, one teaspoonful of lemon juice; stir into the hot mixture and pour into tinable cups, crustles, or into a pretty dish.

Onion Drop Apples—Select good baking apples, like the greening or pippin; wash and core and fill the centers with a hard foundation of cream and sugar. Bake until the apples crack open. Baste the apples with the syrup from the pan.

SALAD COMBINATIONS

Lettuce is always in the market and may be used as the main part of the salad or as a garnish. Lettuce may be served in hundreds of ways with a variety of salad dressings, making a really different salad every day.

A slice of tomato or corn, cut in small pieces, used in place of a salad, but lettuce is the stand-by for all occasions.

Ripe pears peeled, halved, cored and the pits filled with a ball of cream cheese on lettuce with salad dressing are a good combination.

The following are all good: Cooked sliced carrots and green peas with mayonnaise on lettuce. A small ball of cream or cottage cheese with a spoonful of barn deuce or any pretty jelly in the center of the salad, a garnish. Serve with French dressing.

Prunes stuffed with cream cheese on lettuce with French dressing. Dates may be used in place of prunes. Cream cheese made into balls and rolled in nuts. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

Presque fries with a ball of cream cheese in the center, garnished with narrow strips of canned pimento, and onion dressing.

Stuffed olives and sliced celery hearts on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

trades because they are liable to degenerate into nuisances and also because they require more public surveillance.

"Council for respondent say that objection of all conservative the ordinance is simply and solely Monday day legislation to block conflict with an attempt to cover risk the general character of the state. We do not regard it as legislation of that character. It is not the aim of the ordinance to compell the observance of the Sabbath day by the people of the Branch. Its only aim is regulate the normal recreation and kinds of business which it refers. It is no more Sunday legislation than Sec. 3141, G. S. 1913, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on Sundays or the same provision found in city and other ordinances regulating the liquor traffic."

"For the reasons stated above we are constrained to find that the learned trial judge erred in overruling the demurrer and therefore the order appealed from must be reversed."

The Supreme Court was not much more however. There was one dissenting opinion.

The story of the case is as follows: In October last year the village council was presented with a petition signed by a majority of the voters of the village, asking that the council pass an ordinance prohibiting the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday. The ordinance was duly passed and put in force. The manager of the local theatre—Mr. C. E. Power, took several steps to contest the validity of the ordinance and the District court ruled in his favor. The council was not content with the ruling of the lower court, contending that if the ruling of the lower court would hold in this case, then any and all ordinances passed could be null and void and the village had no power or authority whatever. The result was as above stated and a case which has attracted nationwide attention has been settled.

The decision of the supreme court is hereby regarded as an all omen by the film corporations as there was a delegation of four men, representing the leading theatres in the Twin cities, sent here Monday night in an effort to call a special election and take a referendum vote as to whether or not the people of North Branch were in favor of Sunday movies, and offered to pay the cost of the election and even offered to give $250.00 to any church or charitable organization in the village. The council declined their offer and refused to consider a referendum on the grounds that referendum had already been taken when the petition calling for the ordinance was presented, inasmuch as there had been no remonstrance and they were satisfied to let the matter rest until such a time as a council could be elected that might be induced to repeal the ordinance.

Mr. Power has not as yet made any public statement as to what course he will pursue. He has, of course, abided by the decision of the court and closed on Sunday, but he has not yet decided what he will do regarding the operation of his theatre on the secular days of the week. His contention is that it is not profitable for him to operate unless he can also operate on Sunday.—North Branch Review.

The Gathering of the Braves

In these days of striving to get back to normal, the gathering of sixty thousand representatives of The American Legion, with the great commanders of the world war, from France, England, Italy and our own country, is not only an inspiration testifying to the valor of American manhood, but is a guarantee of the safety of the republic for the next half a century.

The men went through the tragedy of war, who were ready to give their lives for their country and humanity, and who hold in reverence the memory of their comrades who made the supreme sacrifice, have too deep a love for the flag and for what it represents to fail in their duty towards it.

The American Legion is going to be the most potent force in this country for the next thirty-five years. It will come to the height of its power and influence in ten and fifteen years, but it will continue to be a beacon light of safety for a century or more.

We remember the big part the Grand Army of the Republic played in the affairs of government and good citizenship following the Civil War, even up to the present time. The American Legion will be even more potent, because of the greater membership.

It will therefore that chosen representatives should meet their buddies in convention once a year to renew the spirit of fervor and devotion that was their great passion when civilization was in danger. While the country is being continually disturbed by threats of strikes, strife between labor and capital, and the political intrigues of demagogues and radicals it is a mighty comforting thought that we have in this country the steady influence of millions of young men who have tested and found worthy, and who are not to be misled by the wiles of untrust and selfishness.—St. Cloud Journal
