CREDIT PLANNED FOR FARMERS

Government May Establish System Independent of Reserve or Land Banks.

Washington—President Harding's recommendation to congress of legislation providing farmers with credit facilities as favorable as those enjoyed by commerce and industry must lead to the creation of a national credit system entirely independent of either the federal reserve system or the federal land banks.

A chain of banks which would link the world agricultural corporation in Washington to take the place of the war finance corporation is proposed. The system would be designed to furnish credit for agricultural production and livestock operations ranging from six months to three years which are not provided through the agencies already established by federal regulation.

Independent Banking System Urged.

The additional rural credit facilities needed was urged in the report of the joint committee of agriculture and commerce by Representative Andrew J. Small of Minnesota. The bill introduced by Representative Anderson in the house and by Senator L. L. Leinen of Wisconsin for credits "out of nature" through the Federal Land Bank is made with criticism. Object is made in confusing this new type of agricultural credit with the long term loans on land which are available through the Federal Land Bank.

A strong movement seems to be developing for the establishment of an entirely independent system.

Schemes for the creation of a new banking system are also in evidence. It is introduced in the Senate by Senator E. M. Stimson of North Carolina and also in another bill which has just been passed which was presented to the Senate by Senator John Noland of South Dakota, and will be introduced in the house by Representative E. J. King of Illinois.

PUT RUSSIA ON SOUND BASIS

Trying to Put Their Own Financial Affairs in Better Shape.

Moscow—While its delegation at Genoa is trying to reach an agreement with the European powers for economic aid for Soviet Russia, the Bolsheviks are trying to work out a sound financial and other basis for a government on the other basis by work at home.

The all-Russian Communist party congress has been the preliminary stage in the long and difficult struggle to bring order out of chaos in Russia's finances has been fought.

Against the now rambling members of the Comintern who still cling to the old, that socialism is to be promoted by the majority, assistant to the commissar of finance, suppressed by the majority, he pointed that a sound financial basis must be built if Russia can be gotten out by curtailing the issue of paper money, on one hand, and by collecting taxes, to bring the money back to the government, on the other.

RECORD YEAR FOR GOOD ROADS

The Bobrocks good roads plan adopted under Amendment No. 1 to the Minnesota state budget for the first time in eight years has been a high-water mark in highway development.

In the first year of the program a new highway legislation was made festive April 25, 1921, after Gov. J. A. O. Preus signed the new highway legislation and re-appointed Charles M. Baldwin as state highway director.

John H. Miller, chief engineer, was named first assistant commissioneer and the highway engineers and engineers were bettered and increased at the zero mark.

Within 60 days nearly 1,000 patronage, one for each 5-mile average section, was put at work and hundreds of miles of new construction was placed under contract.

A bulletin from the state highway department contains the following summary of progress during the first 22 months of the work:

Gravel surfacing completed on 3,855 miles and contracted for 623 additional miles, and re-surfacing done on 1,800 miles of the 3,371 miles listed by counties as graded at the start.

Graveling completed on 116 miles and contracted on 123 miles, combining 312 miles of pavement.

Maintenances provided on 4,885 miles of designated trunk routes and equipped patrol service on each county street and road.

Contracts awarded at low record prices which afford big savings over costs in past years, but it is not expected that this figure will be reached.

ALIEN STRIKERS DENIED CITIZENSHIP.

Washington—Charges that Federal Judge Orr of Pittsburgh had released alien miners applying for naturalization to their papers because they joined the strike against the coal operators were made before the House immigration committee by John Internack, an interpreter employed by the Mine Workers in the Pittsburgh district.

Forced to Rise Early.

Washington—D. W. Smith, president of the Senate and of the Senate in the post-senatorial session for a time, was recently committed. Carl Paepke, aged 62, was granted an unconditional pardon.

Youngstown, Ohio—For the first time since the beginning of business depression "Help Wanted" signs are again appearing in the windows in the Youngstown district. Local employers explained that the shortage of semi-skilled labor for rolling mills has caused them to start their day by 4 a.m. when swept the top floor of the 10 story gravestones structure.

INNOCENT—Served 5 Years.

Colombia—Five men, members of the Senate and House of Representatives and many other persons prominent in politics, were condemned to death in a more or less hasty session of the new Willard hotel who were roared out of their beds at an early hour by a fire which swept the top floor of the 10 story gravestones structure.

MARSHAL BADLY BEATEN IN RAID

Wm. Percy, recently appointed marshal of Sandstone, was badly beaten up, last Thursday evening, while searching a residence in that village.

Percy had a search warrant for there was moonshine on the premises. He went to the house about 7 o'clock in the evening, and was admitted by the Sukkols, who made no objection to his searching to have peace and appeared willing to have him do so.

The marshal went through the house, upstairs and down, and was entering a shed adjacent when he heard the noise of a truck over the rear, and he knew that was about an hour later, when he came to, about a block from the house.

Sukkols had preceded the marshal into the shed. Mrs. Sukkols was away in town in the evening, but she knew that she was the one who hit him, although that is not known to be a fact. After the blow on the head, the marshal was badly beaten up, his left arm was cut, shoulder, bruised and torn, face badly cut, and his left ear was almost severed from his head. He was found on the street and a doctor called. The doctor took him to the hospital, where an examination was made, and a bullet was found in his left ear.

Mr. and Mrs. Sukkols were arrested and given a hearing. They waved a examination and were bound over to the grand jury, which brought the case to Pine City by Sheriff Hawley on Friday and went to Stillwater. His wife was released on her own recognizance, as they have 3 small children. They would give no information and were held in custody.

Mr. and Mrs. Sukkols said the man grabbed his revolver when he was hit and fired twice, and thought he had shot himself.

TWENTY-INCH CAR TRAVELS MILE IN 22 SECONDS AT PABLO BEACH

Here's a modern speed buggy, but 20 inches at the widest part of the body, that has covered a mile in the phenomenal time of 22.5 seconds. This was done at Pablo beach course, Fla., by Sig Haugdahl, noted speed driver, who is preparing for further assaults at Father Time at the Daytona beach course. The speedwagen is a specially constructed machine, having 250 horsepower, with a motor that was intended for use in a government biplane. Haugdahl claims he can travel 175 miles an hour in his car.

MAKING SPRINGS RIDE VERY EASY

Most of Them Are Either Too Stiff or Too Soft and Either Is Uncomfortable.

LUBRICATION OFTEN BLAMED

Indiscriminate Advice May Be Worse Than Useless as No Two Sets Are Alike—Intelligent Attention Is Big Need.

Automobiles may be divided into two classes, those with springs that are too stiff and those that are too soft. Both can be very uncomfortable. "Here and there, of course, there is a car with springs that really spring without springing—the occupants of the car against the top," writes H. H. Knight.

Automobile instruction books, car experts and all the wisecracks of the fraternity advise one to lubricate the springs regularly. If the springs need it, that is very good advice, but it seems to me that the last thing the springs need is to be greased. It is the very last thing that the springs need. If you could work a little rust or gummed oil between the spring leaves and then retard the spring action, it might be all that is needed. This is the case when the springs are too soft and spring too much. Indiscriminate advice as to what the care of springs may be would be useless. So far as springs require the same medicine, therefore before following anyone's advice to lubricate the springs it well were to discover whether they need it.

Soft Springs Yield Easily.

Soft springs are so flexible that they easily yield under pressure until they drop into a hole or hit a bump. They fly back into normal position, run down again, and after a while settle again. When this happens, however, around like a rubber ball. Now to get such a spring merely intensifies all this. You do not need the exercise, aches and pains that result in the car without it. Such a spring needs friction between the leaves rather than lubrication. Friction slows the motion of the spring and steadies the car.

Now, almost every one will tell you that friction between the leaves makes the car ride hard. Probably the first time you heard anything like this, you will get all you need riding in the car without it. Such a spring needs friction between the leaves rather than lubrication. Friction slows the motion of the spring and steadies the car.

SOW THISTLE ERADICATION AND CONTROL NECESSARY

Cannot Live Without Leaves—Burn Plants After Cutting—Fall Shallow Plowing Recommended.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure in the control against the sow thistle which is rapidly moving south, according to R. S. Dunham, agronomist at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston. No half way solution will do, says Dunham. He must be relentless and continuous if it is to be successful. The sow thistle has as many new lives as are plant parts from its rootstocks, so burning before it sends out new growing roots, propagates both by seeds and underground root stocks, the sow thistle is in its weakest condition when preparing to blossom. It cannot live without leaves.

Complete eradication and subsequent control are necessary if a campaign is to be successful, says Dr. Dunham. "The plant should not be allowed to produce seed and it should be plowed free from the soil where it should be planted.

The sow thistle should be cut as near to blossoming time as can be done without danger of damage to other plants.

Since the sow thistle may mature seed when it is still green, it should be burned immediately after cutting.

To burn the sow thistle must be cut as near to blossoming time as can be done without danger of damaging other plants.

Complete eradication and subsequent control are necessary if a campaign is to be successful," says Dr. Dunham. "The plant should not be allowed to produce seed and it should be plowed free from the soil where it should be planted.

"If you haven't got what you want strike. If striking means dead babies, suffering, venereal diseases, loss of property and general demoralization to industry, never mind. You may get better wages!"

If that isn't the argument of those who believe that a strike is the best strike in the one best bet when it comes to getting more money for less work, what is?

"The right to strike is granted. But it doesn't stand alone; it can only be real existence when coupled with 'the right to work.' But strikers want not only to stop work themselves, but to stop other from working, not only to cut off the flow of coal from their mines, but to prevent by sympathetic strikes of others, the inflow of coal from foreign ports to our own unions—non-union miners. In other words, it is not to be the justice of striking demands, but the suffering, the loss, and the general damage of two classes which is to get those demands granted."

We are a patient people. We have extreme tolerance for anything done in the name of liberty even if it means war. We like to exercise liberty ourselves.

But some day these United States of our will realize that the 3.3 per cent of who mince and the 8.6 per cent of who age engage in strikes—have no right call it by what name you will, to injure the 96.7 per cent of who don't mine, or the 91.4 per cent we don't transport in order to get what they want for themselves.

When we do realize, a strike in any industry essential to health will be a crime against the United States.

Speed the day!

On, the man from the city indulges in vice.

Or scornfully scoffs at the ways of the lowly suburban or places less urban.

Where lots of us put in our days.

Our main street is ugly, he says and dirty.

Depicts our village in fun;

But I'm willing, forsooth, (if we could learn the truth)

To bet it was brought up in one!

Oh, there's ugliness here and at times it seems near.

Am not too transport to view;

But the things to despise, in the city man's eyes

You will find in the Big City too.

Yes, you'll find it all there on the main thoroughfare

Of the cities also and so cold.

All the unclean dirt, and the ills that hurt

Are multiplied one thousand fold.

So it's main street for me where the children I see

As are wholesome as any you find.

And they folks that I greet as I pass down the street

Are simple and loving and kind.

MEET Mrs. CLAYTON came softly into the room. She looked with apprehensive eyes upon a little old man in the rocking chair. "How 'be ye, dearie? Yer hain't waled for nothin', now, have ye?" she asked.

"Not a thing, Harriet," he returned cheerfully. "I 'feelin' real port, too. Was there somethin' else?" said Parson Dugay, the man's first thoughts.

Mrs. Clayton dropped into a chair and pulled listlessly at the black strings of her bonnet.

"I 'ave a beautiful funeral, Thaddeus—beautiful funeral, I—most wished it was mine."

"Harriet?" She gave a shamed-faced laugh.

"Yes, I did—then Jehiel and Hannah Jane would 'a' come, an' I could see 'em."

The horrified look on the old man's face gave way to a broad smile and a hearty laugh. "Harriet—Harriet, I heeched, "how could ye 'seen' 'em if you was dead?"

"Well, I—Well,—"Thaddeus" her voice trembled as she stammered.

"Come, I 'a' fearted you'd 'ear me on 'em," Thaddeus—"Mrs. Clayton rose to her feet and stretched out two gaunt hands longingly—"Thaddeus, I get so many 'omen' for Jehiel and Hannah Jane, seems as though I just couldn't stand it!"

"I know—I know, dearie," quavered the old man, vigorously polishing his glasses.

"But, Harriet," demurred the old man, "you 'ouldn't bring them boys over to see their father's funeral."

THE FRAMEUP.

SYNOPSIS—Occupying a dilapidated shack in the Silent City, a country settlement near Hibba, New York, Polly Hopkins, along with her father, small Jerry, and an old man named Gramps, is an adroit farm hand. Oscar Bennett, a prosperous farmer, is a neighbor. His son, Robert, is Robertson, supposedly wealthy girl of the neighborhood. Marcus MacKenzie, who owns the land where the squatters occupy, is their distant relative. Evelyn, a young woman, has a conversation between MacKenzie and a stranger, in which the former avows his desire to evict the squatters from his land. The stranger is the same with the squatters over there. Robertson discovers from her mother that Evelyn is in love with him, but is really living on the flocks of Robert's Percival, Evelyn's cousin. Polly has taken in Evelyn, and the sympathetic stranger is Robert. Evelyn charges Harry with a master plan to keep him from helping him to leave no more money than he can get for his marriage to the ignorant farmer. Polly conveys her message and Oscar, who is in love with Evelyn, meets him that night. Polly has taken in Larry Bishop, a squat little man, who is in love with Evelyn, and she has no income. Evelyn uses some of the money from her mother with which she can buy from Bennett and induce him to leave the country. Evelyn and Larry Bishop, and MacKenzie, have their meeting at the arranged meeting that night. At the arranged meeting that night, Evelyn snatches up the gun and shoots the gun, and they are mutually attracted. Polly's feeling being adoration. Oscar, Larry, and Percival thrash Oscar. MacKenzie, Larry, the squatters, to leave. Evelyn, Larry, MacKenzie, Percival and Polly confess their love.

Then while Robert was telling her of his hopes and plans, rechristening her for her and his desire to help her read and study, they walked slowly back along the rugged rocks in the vicinity of the shack.

They were alone at Polly's home before he left her. She watched him stride up the hill, and after he had disappeared, lay down herself flat upon the earth, and listened with the birds' song in the winter trees, and the rippling of the waves upon the shore, came her cry:

"Oh, God! I can't marry Oscar, I can't! You'll have to help the squatters some other way."

The days that followed, bringing with the spring flowers flocks of summer birds, seemed an eternity to Polly Hopkins, who went about her chores in a daze. In spite of Robert's efforts, several of the fishermen had been sent to the Ithaca Hall for pretty crimes.

Those men had been trapped in the Ithaca Hall, and taken off to jail without so much as a farewell to their families. Polly had grieved with them, women and wept over their babies. She was quite sure Robert was doing every possible good, except sometimes the thought of Evelyn's demand intruded on her mind, and she wondered if she were doing right in refusing it.

One morning at daybreak Polly saw her father hit his car from the hill and sit down to clean it. Now, why was he doing that, when he knew very well he could not use it? She stood looking down upon him, her heart beating rapidly.

"You ain't goin' to hunt yet, honey," she protested, squatting down beside him.

"Yep," returned Hopkins glancing up. "There ain't no one astir so early,

ANCIENT WRITERS AS MODELS

Moderns May Learn Much From Authors Whose Works Are the Greatest in Literature.

Whatever our conjecture may be, we cannot doubt that the best modern writers can afford us as good models as the ancients; we cannot be certain that they will live through the revolutions of the world, and continue to please the even climatic changes of the species of government, through every stage of civilization.

We may still harbor despicable power from Thetis, dimpled, perspicuous from Livy; simply frank, Caesar, and from the great portion of that lighted heat which disperses into 30,000 channels, has filled the world with bright images and illustrious thoughts. Let the cultivator of modern literature follow the path of the purest models of taste while France, Italy, and England could supply, he might still learn from Virgil to be majestic, and from Thibault to be tenacious, but without grub.

"Daddy," she said passionately, "Aw! I'll bring back something, mebbe a woodchuck or a skunk. We ain't had enough to keep us honest if we ain't got nothin' to eat."

That was true! No one knew better than Polyp how they had missed the little she had received from Bennett. Sick at heart, she snatched his hand, "I ain't goin' to without grub."

"Nope, I'm goin'," interrupted Hopkins.

"'Nope, I'm goin,'" interrupted Hopkins.

MADE BRAVE FIGHT

Handicapped Wolf Almost Succumbed in Escaping.

Running on Three Legs and Dragging Trap Which Had Been Hung Around His Neck, Animal Was Almost in Safety.

"In the summer of 1882," says a westerner, "my parents and I were hunting the prairie around Hill City, South Dakota. The railroads had been completed as far as Pierre, but there were few stations, and the Red Heights were the only way off the trail, these being the most reliable places to stop at night, and a box car in which the agent lived. The last of the buffalo had been killed or driven off, and the prairie was covered with the skeletons of dead animals."

"The country was alive with wolves and coyotes; they were nearly as common as the animals are now, and almost any morning from the dozen could be seen from the door of our little 'chain shanty.'

"My father bought six wolf traps about the first of December, and in that month we caught more than forty coyotes within a short distance of our home, many of them within a few yards of the house. One morning we had a hard time of finding any grown coyote in one of the traps, caught by the tail.

"Another morning we came back and reported that the coyote had been captured, and was still alive. The traps indicated that something larger than a coyote had been taken. When father had finished the chores that morning he mounted Roger, our old grey horse, and rode over to town, and taking the shotgun and old Sheep with him, started out on the trail, believing that it would not be hard to overtake a wolf carrying a trap.

"Roger was a good horse, but fast or because he feared he would be followed made direct for a range of hills a mile or so to the south.

"As soon as they were near enough to the hills, the wolf was in the chase. Shep was a big black shepherd dog that had fought many a battle, but he was too wise to risk a battle with the fierce-looking beast that was carrying his master's gun. The wolf was a fine rase wolf, an animal that could kill an ordinary dog in a few moments.

"The wolf had to run on three legs holding up one of its front legs to catch the trap. Shep would run up and attack him from behind, and when the wolf turned to give battle the dog would retreat. They kept up this running fight for more than a minute.

"The wolf knew that a crisis had arrived and ran for his life. With both horses and wolf running at their level best, pursued by other animals, the two live foes again after fired the only load he had from his old single-barreled muzzle-loading shotgun, and the wolf fell. A few shots having passed through his body, the animal crawled to a nearby sandbank, which might have meant safety for him, was reached."

First to establish the $10⁹⁰ price "Usco"

THE makers of U. S. Tires made this announcement last November—

"Hereafter the price of the 30 x 3½ 'Usco' is $10.90."

The lowest price ever quoted on a tire of quality reputation and standard performance.

• • •

And now, with the opening of Spring, there seem to be quite a number of "New and Special tires" coming into the market in the $10.90 price range.

Perhaps you are wondering just what there can be either "new" or "special" about these tires.

"It can't be the $10.90 price—'Usco' established that five months ago.

Now quality reputation and standard performance—for it takes more than one full season for any new tire to demonstrate what it stands in quality and value

With so many tires rushing into this $10.90 price field (now that the season promises business from the American car-owner), it is worth remembering that "Usco" showed its good faith by announcing this price last fall.

The same intent to serve that has made "Usco" a standard value for years.

The "Usco" Tire was never better than it is today—with its established quality, its timed-tested performance, and its price closely agreeing in tune with the times.

Perhaps you are wondering just what there can be either "new" or "special" about these tires.
