

COURT RULES ACT IS VOID

One of Three Cases in North Carolina Testing the Validity of This Law.

Washington—The child labor law was held by the Supreme Court to be unconstitutional and not valid.

The decision of the court was rendered in a case brought by the government against the Dressel Parature company of North Carolina and was one of three cases brought in that state testing the validity of the law and in all of which the United States district court decided against the government.

The law held unconstitutional by the court was enacted after the Supreme court had declared invalid an act of Congress which excluded from interstate commerce products in whose manufacture child labor had been used.

CO. BOARD HAS LIVELY SESSION

The county commissioners got away to a good start at their meeting last Monday afternoon, when Hancock and Stepan looked horns and horns to both sides.

Cap Hancock asked for an appropriation of $1,000 for road improvement and repair in his district. This met with disfavor from some of the members, which started the first work.

FRENCH MOTOR CAB IS ARTISTIC AND BECOMING POPULAR IN PARIS

A rather novel idea on the style of the old London hansom cab has been seen in Paris and is becoming very popular owing to its very handsome and artistic style. The occupants can enjoy absolute freedom of view. The steering of the vehicle is controlled from the top of the chauffeur's seat. Motor car manufacturers in Paris are quite interested in this first model, which is destined to change the design of Paris auto vehicles.

SELF-COMMENCER WON'T COMMENCE

One Human Characteristic of Engines Is That They Assume the Airs of Arrogance.

INSTRUCTION BOOK IS HELP

Many Ills May Be the Lot of a Self-Starter and a Careful Examination Should Be Made to Locate Source of Trouble

This is the age of push buttons. You push a button when you want to eat or drink. You push a button no bigger than a dime and a sixty horsepower engine roars into action. But—have you ever noticed the look of blank astonishment that registers on the face of a motorist who closes his sedan door, lights his cigar and with an air of "lets go!" pushes the magic button that doesn't "magically" make it ever happened to you?

Fortunately, however, the motorist whose self-commencement merely finds himself in the same position as a man who has missed the last train and then discovers he can reach his destination by "hooking it."

One human characteristic of motor car engines is that they assume the airs of aristocratic arrogance, writes H. W. Cooke, president of the Carpenters and Engineers' school, in an exchange. All this leads us to the interesting observation that when a starter—the electric kind—strutts strictly to business, it is a thing of beauty and a joy forever. When it balks it is everything frowned upon by the reformers.

GARAGE OWNERS DISREGARD LAW

Secretary Emmerson Says Cars Brought in for Repairs Are Not Registered.

INCREASING NUMBER OF CARS

Legislature Finds It Difficult to Keep Pace With Conditions—But Lets Would Assist in Finding Stolen Autos.

Few public garages are complying with the law requiring the registration of all automobiles brought in for storage or repairs. Secretary of State Emmerson (Illinois) declares.

The legislature, Secretary Emmerson asserted, is finding difficulty in keeping pace with conditions brought about by the increasing number of automobiles and the new registration law was passed as an intended aid to the recovery of stolen cars. Twenty five years ago, the secretary pointed out, there were four automobiles in the United States. Today the number is something like 10,000,000.

Pass Mark Last Year.

"In Illinois," he said, "our bond road years is predicted upon the expectation of a continued prosperity for the automobile trade. In 1921, when the $200,000,000 bond issue was sold, set, several estimates were made of a probable automobile figure. It was estimated that the entire period would be 900,000 cars and that this total would be reached in 1924. We passed this mark last year and will exceed it by 100,000 this year."

"Of all the automobile laws the one most generally ignored is that requiring garage owners to keep a register of the numbers of all automobiles brought into the garage. It is a good law it should be observed and if it is not a good law it should be repealed."

EMPLOYMENT FOR MILLIONS FROM PULVERIZED MOUNTAINS

Building Stimulates Local Prosperity—Materials Plentiful and Prices Down

Next to farming, local prosperity depends upon building activity. The country's second largest industry, it employs millions of workers and its influence on the materials for building and hundreds of thousands in building, quarrying and mining.

For every ton of cement, 14 1/2 tons of raw materials and coal must be mined, shipped, assembled, dried, ground, weighed, mixed and then fused at about 3,000 degrees in a hard "clinker." This "clinker" must then be ground again, this time to a powder so fine that 78% will pass through a sieve having 40,000 holes per square inch.

Appling Jeon's economic law, a simple illustration of cement competition will be cited. A. B. and C are cement makers. Each seeks business usually are the same.

Similar principles apply to other materials. Prices are not arbitrarily made. They are based upon supply and demand and upon the cost of transportation, raw materials and labor.
