HARDING ORDERS MINES OPENED

Action Follows Offer to Producers to Turn Properties Over to U. S. for Federal Control.

Washington—Bituminous coal mines were "reopened" by President Harding at the White House to return to their mine proprietors and resume operations after they had replied to the President's tender of arbitration for settling the national coal strike with a collective offer to put their properties and their services at the disposal of the government "in this crisis."

Speaking as chairman of the group of operators after the White House conference, Alfred M. Ogilvie said the employers would make the attempt to resume operations.

Meanwhile the miners' union, through an adjournment sine die of its controlling policy committee, made certain its refusal to accept the President's arbitration proposal and many of its officials immediately left Washington.

The bituminous operators were likewise not a unit in accepting the government arbitration proposals, but the President said that "a large majority" of them, by unqualified acceptance, had given him occasion to express his own and the public's gratitude.

There were intimations in official circles that all the implications of the decision to ask the mines be opened had been fully considered by the government and that there was a possibility that the production of troops and the American flag would be furnished in districts where men were willing to work, falling sufficient local safeguarding.

Employers generally held the view that some coal production would result in union fields in Pennsylvania and Ohio. It nowhere else, even though executives of the non-union mines south of the Ohio river reported that the output was being cut sharply through lack of transportation, due to the rail road strike.

THOUSAND MEN TO QUIT JOBS

Shopmen Stand Firm—Majority of Applicants Inexperienced.

Mississippi—Forces of striking railroad shopmen in the Twin Cities were augmented by nearly 1,000 strikers from other shops and others who joined the strike of the federated shop crafts, according to T. A. Hennings, chief of the shop crafts for the Northwest.

The strike of the new group, Mr. Hennings said, was in sympathy with the shop crafts strike. Albert Brown, chairman of the stationary fitters and others' union, conferred with Mr. Hennings and plans were discussed for the support of the shop crafts strike by the stationary fitters and others.

Northwest railroads, having failed to establish a separate peace with striking shopmen, set about to replace the strikers with new help and resigned to the task of keeping operations moving as best they could, pending the settlement of the shop crafts strike nationally.

Members of the shop crafts federate union advised by their strike leaders in Chicago that a separate Northwest settlement would not be tolerated, continue to stand firm as they did before, and in spite of the retaliation of several roads that the men will lose their seniority rights unless they return to work, the strikers refused to return.

DYNAMITE KINGS-DALE HOTEL

Action Follows Offer to Producers to Turn Properties Over to U. S. for Federal Control.

The Kingsdale hotel, owned by C. R. Grace, was dynamited last Monday night about midnight. The explosive had been placed a few feet in front of the building. The explosion shattered all the plate glass windows in the front of the hotel, and did considerable damage. Fortunately no one was hurt, only one man receiving a few minor cuts.

There were nine people asleep in the hotel at the time—Mr. and Mrs. Grace and 4 children, and 3 others.

A telegram was dispatched to Sheriff Hawley, County Attorney Roberts. The sheriff made a trip up there, Tuesday morning. Mr. Roberts was unable to go, as Judge Scarles was here holding court. No trace of the perpetrators has been found, although the authorities have a pretty good idea who the guilty parties are.

Mr. Grace drove to Duluth where he tried to seek bloodhounds, but there were none there. He then tried St. Cloud, but without success.

According to all rumors, Kingsdale seems to be a town divided. A small percentage of the community is being strong prohibitionists, and the balance, anti pros. Rumor lays the blame of the dynamiting to one party, or party, or believe Mr. Grace has taken too active a part in trying to rid the community of moonshiners. No one will admit knowing anything about the affair or who did it however, if anyone has any suspicions, they are keeping mighty mum about it.

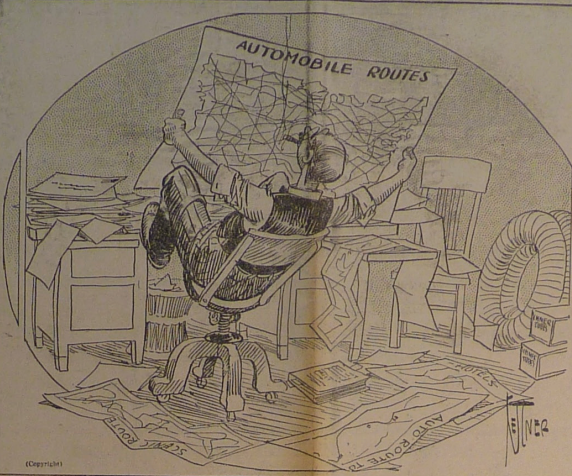

Mr. Grace has been expecting something of this kind to happen. He had a building, a car sent to any town, being a building and the service and accommodations are of the best. He has three daughters and one son.

It was a miracle that no one was injured. The possibility of that happening is an exceptionally good musical number.

The program this year is in the evening only. Five nights with a good show each evening. The committee has put the price of season tickets at only $1 each for adults and 50c for children. This low price for the season tickets admits adults for 20c per show, and children for 10c.

Most of the numbers are each easily worth what it will cost for the entire week. Look over the program on another page of this paper, and you will want a ticket. The program starts at 8 o'clock every evening.

YOU AUTO KNOW

That a light-colored bluish smoke emanating from the exhaust pipe is a signal that too much lubricating oil is being used, either because an excess of oil is being fed to the engine or because the engine is being run too far with the throttle nearly closed. In the case of a super-abundance of oil, some of this is vaporized by the engine and is forced out through the exhaust in the form of the bluish smoke, thus subjecting the driver to the probability of police action and, at the same time causing him to think that his car is using more oil than it ought to.

Depleting Gasoline Reserves

"It is a matter of common knowledge that this year will see a revival of (gasoline) consumption which will tax the physical reserves of the oil industry to the utmost," says Petroleum Age in its issue of April 15, 1922.

Present conditions indicate that the prediction of April 15 will be fulfilled. The estimated increase of automobile registrations in the states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) for 1922 will approximate 500,000, making a total probable registration of 3,850,000 cars.

Reports show that during the spring of 1922 large stocks of gasoline were accumulated, due to two principal factors, both transitory, first, the sensational production of the Mexia and Haynesville fields, a production which, however, has already fallen below half its peak and is diminishing rapidly; and second, the heavy and prolonged rains which made touring almost impossible.

These reserves of gasoline have served to keep the market steady. Nevertheless, the vast increase in the number of automotive vehicles and the extraordinary average mileage per car are depleting the reserve stocks rapidly.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), following its established practice of anticipating the needs of the people in the territory it serves, has increased its facilities to an extent which enables it to guarantee that it will be in position to supply its patrons wherever they may be located.

The entire organization, realizing that it is dealing in a commodity essential to the happiness and well-being of all the people is bending every effort to keep the supply ahead of demand, that the obligation of the Company to the consuming public may be discharged completely.

A flapper is defined as a young bird which is flapping its wings before it has learned to fly, and this slang phrase rather aptly describes the first movements of the young woman about to take her place in the business and social world. If the opinion of many critics were accepted, it would seem as if she were prepared to fly into dangerous and forbidden fields.

Many are shocked by the shortness of her skirts. They may remember the hero in a popular novel describing the German who was shocked because his wife wore a skirt that displayed nearly the whole other leg. Things have changed in the few years since that time.

These flappers do look very winsome as they march along in abbreviated dresses. Their stride seems to have lengthened out, suggesting that their new freedom is improving their physical ability, removing a handicap in normal motion, helping them compete on even terms with men. If so, it is not a daring eccentricity, but one of the most sensible things that women ever did.

As he looks back 15 years ago, and sees the long dresses that women used to wear while playing lawn tennis and other games, how tremendously they were burdened in those times. It was impossible for them to get the same benefit from sports that their brothers enjoyed.

For many years women have been regarded as a weaker sex. It has been generally assumed that this condition resulted from the child bearing function. But the women of savage races have been equally able physically with men. Perhaps it was merely that civilized women were so entangled with swathing clothing that they could not get normal physical development. The modern flapper may sometimes cut her gowns so she seems to appeal rather coarsely to the sex instinct. But as far as her shorts skirts go, she is helping to remove an age long burden that has hindered the progress of womanhood.

It is well to rise to the occasion, but not to go up in the air.

One trouble with matrimony to a lot of people is that it sounds so much like alimony.

These girls who roll down their stockings to parade the streets, might better roll up their sleeves to work at the washbowl.

Formerly American people were all tilters of the soil, but these dishonest times a lot of them are solers of the till.

Formerly the Monday morning newspapers printed long reports of sermons, but now their space is filled with automobile accidents.

Som, folks would be more hopeful for the future of the United States if they had less trouble in getting their customary refreshment.

Theatre Notes

Thursday and Friday—John Barrymore in 'The Lotus Eater'; and 'Kicking the Boat Comedy.'

Saturday—Alice Lake in 'The Hole in the Wall'; Madame Mystra She Was Called, because none of the fashionable clients who had seen her psychic parlors ever had seen her face and so they did not know that the information they so freely gave her was used against them. Also Movie Chats.

Sunday and Monday—Mas Murray in 'Peacock Alley'—A shining story of true love, outlining in new color against the vermillion velvet background of Parisian and New York night life. Fox News.

Tuesday—Herbert Rawlinson in 'Black Bag'—Does it take a thief to catch a thief? Herbert Rawlinson in 'The Black Bag' catches four of them and then is arrested himself. The film is crammed with thrills. Also Geo. Walsh in 'With Stanley in Africa.'

Thursday—Katherine McDonald in 'Beau Gamin'—All her life this little steno longed to be a star. One day the chance came—she stuck her gum on the bottom of the chair, closed up her desk and—Presto!—so a comedy 'Nonense.'

CATHOLIC CHURCH NEWS—Father Leo, pastor. Services at Pine City next Sun.

day morning at 9 o'clock and at 10:30. Father Leo is expected home from Winnipeg today, where he has been assisting the past couple of weeks, with church work.

METHODIST CHURCH NEWS—James A. Orrock, pastor.

Services Sunday July 23rd, will be held both morning and evening in the Methodist church. Better let your own feet carry you to church now, than to let somebody else carry you in after you are gone. Just think it over. Right living saves you money, lends to your own self respect, betests the respect of others, and assures you the best of whatever is possible for the present, and will surely not spoil any prospects that you may have for the future.

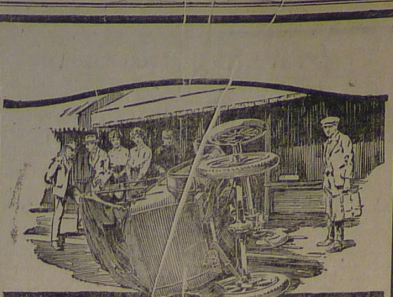

However pleasant wrong may seem for the present, there is certainly pain and sorrow somewhere in the end of that sort of life, and it surely will not improve any prospects you may have beyond that period we call life. Think it over, maybe you will come to church, we will try to help you more than we hurt you. We'll kind of look for you Sunday, at 11 and 8 o'clock.

The rooster is a lusty bird; in all the land his voice is heard, a proud and haughty bird by heek who flaps his wings and curves his neck. From east to west, from perch to pole, his morning bugle echoes roll, arousing man from morning deep and madden from their beauty sleep. He hunts for worms with main and might, and finding one, with huge delight, to which his harem's appetite, he calls his wives with trill and hum, then, humor great but manners bun, he eats it up before they come. Now whether Red or Plymouth Rock one half is, of, of all the flock, any chickens mostly favor dad in qualities both good and bad. But when the hatching season's over we must restrain this gallant rover, must that him up in lonely state and keep the layers calmate. Their eggs will thus repay our toil when the fertile ones would quickly spoil. The man who'd be a fresh egg booster must segregate that old rooster.

The UNIVERSITY FARM

Pertinent Pointers for Practical Farmers
Prepared by the Agricultural Department, University of Minnesota
The Minihard Variety Stands Up Well.

More than 20 years ago Minnesota Experiment station men started breeding work with winter wheat with the object of developing varieties that would stand up through the coldest of Minnesota winters and be there in the spring. This undertaking has been accomplished in large degree. The picture of the winter wheat nursery at University Farm shows some of the red rows in the spring of 1922. The grains are grown in three-row plots. In the foreground, from right to left appear three-row plots of Minihard which was not injured last winter. Washington Hybrid which was about all killed out, and Red Rock which was totally destroyed. In the second series of red rows are two plots which show no winter killing. These are also the Minihard variety.

Mites, those little red devils that suck the blood from hens, can be eliminated by painting roosts and nests with a coal tar disinfectant.

When anything boils over on the stove, cover it at once with salt; the odor will be killed, and the spilled food can be cleaned up easily.

Becker county farmers have made progress this year in alfalfa growing. The increase amounts to nearly 1,000 acre, says County Agent E. C. Johnson.

IS QUITE WINTER HARDY
This Red Chaffed Winter Wheat Was Obtained From Russia.

Registered seed of Minihard, Minn., No. 1567, winter wheat, will be available in quantity for seeding in the fall of 1922. This important announcement is made in special bulletin No. 53, entitled "Approved Varieties of Grain and Corn for Minnesota," of which Prof. A. C. Arny, Dr. H. H. Hayes and T. E. Olland are joint authors.

Minihard is a bearded, white-chaffed winter wheat and is a result of a definite attempt made by the Minnesota station to produce a hardy winter wheat. The new bulletin states:

Minihard was produced by crossing Turkey and Odessa. The Turkey winter wheat was found to excel under test in seed characters, but was frequently injured under severe winter conditions. Odessa is a red chaffed, beardless winter wheat obtained from Russia. It matures later than Turkey, produces moderate yields and is quite winter hardy. The original cross with Turkey was made in 1902 and the new variety, Minihard, was first increased in 1919.

Minihard, Minn., No. 1565, was also developed at University Farm from a cross of Odessa and Turkey. At University Farm it has yielded about as well as Minihard, but according to the station men, does not seem so widely adapted to Minnesota conditions as Minihard, and produces grain of somewhat less desirable quality.

Special Bulletin No. 53 can be had without cost by applying to the Office of Publications, University Farm, St. Paul.

200 pounds, the cost per pound was 35 cents or less. High production per cow is a prerequisite to economical production. It is interesting to note that on three farms where the butterfat production per cow was more than 200 pounds the farmer's income including house rent and farm products was over $1,000.

"All things considered these figures are not discouraging. It is, in fact, gratifying to know that during one of the most unfavorable years that the farmer has faced, when the prices of farm products were deflated far out of proportion to the prices of these things the farmer must buy, the average dairy farmer has succeeded in making a very fair living."

GOLF TITLEHOLDERS FACE SEVERE TESTS

Competition of Stars This Year Expected to Be Keen.

Possession of Championship Crown is Something of Uncertainty These Days—Jesse Guilford's Chances Believed Promising.

Although the important golf fixtures of the season are some distance away, the performance during the winter and spring season in the South indicate that the competition is going to be keener than ever in the title events. A golf crown is something of an uncertain possession these days. For instance not one of the champions of 1920 retained title honors in last summer's swift competition.

In England, Dunlop gave way to Jack Hutchinson in the British open; Jim Barnes took the title held by Ted Ray in the open here; Jesse Guilford dethroned Chick Evans in the amateur; Marion Hollins took the honors so often held by Alex. Strling in the British amateur. While Hunter displaced Cyril Tolley.

How many of these title holders will be able to retain their high places during the coming season?

Jesse Guilford.

Not since 1912-1913, when Jerome Travers took the amateur title two seasons in a row, has any amateur champion been able to repeat Guilford's chances of accomplishing this feat are promising.

With the hitting power of a Babe Ruth on the tee and the sure, light touch of a Jake Schaefer on the green, he will be a difficult man to stop at Brookline. Quiet looms up as a strong possibility this season, as he will be playing on the same course in 1923 he made golf history by defeating Varion and Ray.

INTERESTING SPORT NOTES

Gordon Pohlman of Ames has been elected track captain of the Iowa State college track team for 1923.

Carnegie Tech Athletic council, at a recent meeting, decided unanimously to adopt the freshmen rule next year.

Myron E. Fuller has been chosen assistant coach to J. D. Jones as the final member of the Yale university football staff for next fall.

The gross receipts of the Bill Brennan-Jim Tracey bout are reported at $18,433.70. Brennan was paid $4,755.74 and Tracey received $2,987.87.

Miss Cecel Letch, former English golf champion, will be unable to compete in the American women's championship owing to an injured arm.

E. O. Wilson, 23, has been elected track captain; B. M. Barrett, 24, has been ball captain, and Wayland Hicks, 23, basketball captain for next year at the University of Iowa.

Harold B. Lever of Ithaca, N. Y., a member of the junior class, has been elected captain of the University of Pennsylvania track team for next year.

The Association of College Track Coaches of America has gone on record in its favor of prohibiting freshmen competition in the annual intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championship games.

Boxing is growing very popular in Japan and a number of Pacific coast boxers are promising to go to that country. But only small men are well come, as the Japs don't care to see the big fellows bump each other off.

Tommy Ring, an amateur boxer with the Boston Red Sox and the Toronto Internationals, has joined the Pittsburgh team.
