BRITAIN STOPS 3-MILE LIMIT

Reply Said to Block Possibility of Extending Dry Navy Powers.

Washington—Great Britain, in a communication delivered to the State department, is understood to have declined to agree to the suggestion of Secretary Hughes, for a reciprocal agreement for the extension of the right of search and seizure so as to give the American prohibition law jurisdiction outside of the three-mile limit.

At the same time, the British foreign office assured the American government that every precaution would be taken to prevent violation of the American prohibition law by rum smugglers under the British flag. It was said that Canadian and other port officials had been instructed to prevent so far as possible the issuance of transit clearance papers and other improper practices complained of in Secretary Hughes' prohibition message.

The British communication, in reply to the one sent to London by the State department several weeks ago, was presented to Secretary Hughes by the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes. Although department officials would not discuss the message, there were indications that the refusal to accord a reciprocal right of search outside the three-mile limit of territorial waters would be considered as finally blocking any extension of such authority to prohibition officers.

Deeds already are in effect directing the prohibition navy not to operate outside the three-mile limit except in the case of vessels in communication with the shore by means of their own small boats.

LEGION MEETS AT ORLEANS

Buddies Make Merry Amid New Orleans Historic Scenes.

New Orleans, La.—The American Legion opened its national convention within a title shot of the historic squares where Andrew Jackson mustered a shamboling army of volunteers and Gulf pirates to fight British veterans of the Napoleonic wars, more than a century ago.

New Orleans, product of three civilizations—Spanish, French and American—made its guests welcome and in the narrow streets brought from balconies of the old French quarter was more than a hint of the city's former glory.

The Legion "buddies" are a bit rougher around the waist, some of them, but they were four years ago, when the fighting in the Argonne was drawing to a close, and they are distinctly more comfortable now than they were in those far-off days. French towns, but they were the same old L. E. F. sang the same hurrah and note, the same spirit, and "Lads' GO" prevailed their 1922 assemblage.

PERMITS TO EXTEND WEST

Lineation to Issue $600,000 Bonds Sought of L. C. C.

Washington—The Electric Short Line Railway company of Minnesota filed with the Interstate Commerce commission an application for authority to issue $600,000 in 15-year 5 per cent bonds which, with other funds, will enable the road to build 44 miles of new line extending west from Hutchinson, Minn., toward Clara City, Minn., and to extend its existing line from Clara City to the west.

The Electric Short Line Railway has the right of way from Hutchinson to Clara City at the present time. A great part of the grading already has been done on that section of the proposed line from Hutchinson to Lake Lillian. Future plans of the company include construction of the line as far west as Brookings, S. D.

3-Mile Zone Seizes Upset

New York—The government's contention that a rum runner may be seized outside the three-mile limit but within four leagues of the coast if he can be shown to have been carrying on illegal traffic with the American shore was upheld by Federal Judge Harold in a case against the British seaman Henry L. Marshall.

Judge Hays granted an application for condemnation and forfeiture of the schooner and its cargo of 12,000 cases of liquor, said by Assistant United States Attorney Clark, testimony showed the schooner was off of Little City but landed part of her cargo at Manhattan Point, N. Y., and Atlantic City by means of small boats.

No Speeches at This Convention

Chicago—A convention without speeches opened at the Bradley Hotel, Friday, and ran well into session. The meeting is given over to farm machinery and devices of interest to the dairy men.

Miss. Fall Suit Dismissed

Washington—Three suits filed by Minnesota to test the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce commission to authorize a railroad to raise passenger fares and excess baggage charges on strictly state transportation were dismissed by the Supreme court for want of jurisdiction.

Pedersen Replies To Therrien's Letter

Askov, Minn., Oct. 16 1922
Editor The Pine Poker,
Dear Sir:

I am enclosing my answer to Therrien's challenge which appeared in The Pine Poker of Oct. 12th. Will you kindly give it space in your valuable paper. I am sure that a copy will be sent to every one of the public both sides to a question.

Yours very truly,
L. C. Pedersen.

Mr. J. E. Therrien,
Pine City, Minn.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of October 9th 1922 published in The Pine Poker and the Hinckley News and of which a copy was mailed me, has been duly received.

Before explaining why I reject your "challenge" for a public debate at Hinckley I will state certain facts, viz: that I have never in the past been compelled to make a personal attack on any of my opponents in the campaign for the Pine County Seat in the State Legislature. This has been due to the fact that all of my opponents have been men of honor, and in all respects gentlemen, for which fact I shall always remain thankful. I am sorry that you, Mr. Therrien, have not taken the same attitude as they did.

In your letter of October 9th you are complaining of an unjust reply to your Askov speech in the Askov American which you call my "jargon." As far as your statement about the Askov American being "jargon" is concerned it is absolutely incorrect. I have not now, and never had, as much as one cent interest in the Askov American. If you have received unjust treatment from the American it is the only responsible party, and you should go after them.

I am sure it will be glad to "ave its statements in the paper; even do not try to revenge yourself on me for the wrongs imagined or real, that other parties have done you.

If I should agree to meet you in a public debate I am much inclined to think that it would be another "laughable affair" that would not be a credit to Pine County at all. It has not been my custom to furnish amusement for you nor anyone else.

I intend to do so in the future. I would rather use my time to better advantage in the present political situation. If I were I could depend on you for a debate on strictly political issues of the day—for example, the cause of high taxes which you are harping so much on in your campaign work and where I think you are (Continued on last page)

Musical numbers were given by the Brahm quartet. The remains will be taken to Ontario, Can., for interment.

Duke Wellington Cowan was born in Charlottsville, Ontario, Can., Nov. 18th 1861 where he spent his boyhood days. He studied medicine at Sandstone and came to Minnesota in 1887 when he opened an office at Sandstone.

S. G. L. Roberts Not a Candidate

The Shrine minstrels of Oman Temple, St. Paul, will give a show in the Family theatre on Saturday evening of next week. All seats will be reserved and tickets will be on sale Saturday of this week at the Acres Hotel, Prochaska's Pharmacy and Challeens store.

It is seldom that Pine City has the opportunity of having a show like this one. There are 35 men in the troupe, which is composed of an excellent orchestra, and a real live troupe of colored impersonators. The audience will be treated to about three hours of real fun. Their show reminds one of the troupe that toured the country with his never-to-be-forgotten minstrel troupe. Real old southern melodies sung by professionals, jokes, fun and close-up magic will be a big draw.

There will be a political meeting at the Pockema town hall on Saturday evening, Nov. 4th. All are invited to attend.

A big Halloween dance will be held in the army at Pine City on Saturday eve, Oct. 28th. The Shrine minstrel orchestra plays from 11 o'clock on Good music.

The county fair in the army last Friday and Saturday evening was a big financial success, as well as a very enjoyable entertainment.

The big vaudeville show consisted of local acts that were worthy of being shown in a theatre. The fortune telling booth and the beauty parlor were extremely popular. The big musical entertainment was the radio concert. The Keno-roo court was a source of income and those who were held in court were fined without mercy.

The walls were lined with booths where one could buy anything in the way of establish. There was an international cafeteria presided over by girls dressed in costumes representing the different countries and serving the national dishes.

The contest for the carnival created considerable interest and excitement, waxed hot just before the show closed on Saturday night. Miss Alice Patsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Patsch, was the winner and was crowned "queen" receiving a beautiful set of silver.

The kids had a big time throwing confetti and worked the noise-making devices overtime. Duff's band, dressed in carnival attire, kept things livened up with their merry music. It was a big affair and the committee in charge is to be congratulated on the way it was handled.

and head ought to furnish a bit for the judge spectator. The Acres ranch, a cattle grazing kind of great acreage near University City, California, was the scene of the stampede. The fenceless acre around Henry, Arizona, furnished a location for other thrilling scenes.

"Manto Man" is the promising title of the Universal-Jewel attraction coming to the Family theatre soon.

It is the starring vehicle for Harry Carey, filmed with elaborate attention to the thrill qualities. Western story should provide. A cattle stampede of five thousand

Married in Pine City Armory

Bride and Groom Line Up to Determine Authority of U. S. on Water.

Bro. Carlson of Pine City and Miss Ida Gulickson of Grass Lake were married in the Pine City armory last Saturday evening at the fair, which was held under the auspices of the Presbyterian church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gulickson of Grass Lake—between Graston and Brunswick—where they have lived for the past thirty years or so. The groom came to Pine City about a year ago and operates a shoe repair shop across the street from Challeens store.

The wedding was a very pretty affair. The bride and groom were decorated with evergreen trees and the ceremony was performed under a large wedding bell. An aisle was cleared through the large gathering leading from the door to the platform. Chairs were placed at the side of the aisle in front of the platform, which were occupied by relatives during the ceremony.

The ceremony was opened with a solo by Miss Nora Wilcox, who sang "Oh Promise Me." Then to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. W. S. McEachern, the wedding party advanced up the aisle to the front of the armory, where they were met by Rev. Buckton, who presided over the marriage by Rev. Buckton, who spoke in a clear ringing voice that was plainly heard throughout the entire armory.

Following the benediction, Rev. Buckton presented the bride couple with more than $50 worth of presents that had been given by the Pine City businessmen. The bride and party then left the armory, before the fair entertainment was resumed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Berg of Grass Lake attended the bridal couple as bridesmaid and best man. Mrs. Berg is a sister of the bride.

Mr. Carlson wishes to take this opportunity of thanking, through the columns of The Pine Poker, the large crowd for their attention during the ceremony.

The wedding was an event that the young couple can always remember as a real happy occasion. It was the largest number of guests that has attended a wedding here for years. The ceremony was performed before a crowd of adults and children that entered into the spirit of the occasion, and gave the same attention and respect that would have been found at any church wedding.

The Pine Poker joins with other friends in congratulations and best wishes for a happy and prosperous life for the newlyweds.

BITTER FIGHT ON DRY ZONE RULING

Wet and Dry Forces Line Up to Determine Authority of U. S. on Water.

New York—Wet and dry forces face each other before Federal Judge Learned Hand in the fight between federal prohibition enforcement authorities and American and Canadian steamship lines over the validity of Attorney General Daugherty's liquor ruling.

The calendar of Judge Hand's court was cleared for the hearing on temporary injunctions, restraining the enforcement of authority, by putting into effect the ruling forbidding American and foreign ships leaving port under seal into or out of American ports.

A distinguished array of counsel was present, representing the American prohibition supporters, the Treasury department and the Canada, America, White Star, French, Holland, American, American Red Star and United American lines, and the international Navigation company.

Millions of dollars in property, trade rights and good will are said to be at stake while counsel for foreign lines have claimed that infringement of the laws between American and foreign countries and violation of the foreign laws are points involved.

THRACE IS DESERTED LAND

Railroads and Roads Jammed With Refugees Leaving Country.

Atlanole—Thirty thousand Greeks and Armenians have fled from their city to the west since Saturday, and the road between here and the Macedonia river is an unbroken line of men, women and children with carts, cattle and camels.

Through a steady downpour of rain they are plodding doggedly toward their unknown destinations, driven forward by the nameless fear which has gripped the whole populace of Eastern Thrace since the governmental bulletin were posted, announcing the terms of the Mydiana armistice, which provides for evacuation of the province by the Turks within 45 days.

The members of the Allied missions stationed here declare the extent of the Thrace exodus indicates the Turks upon their entry will find Eastern Thrace almost uninhabited.

The procession has been orderly, but the misery of the refugees is already evident, the pneumonia which claim many victims if the present inclement weather continues.

They escaped with but a few scratches and several were injured. The dirigible had an arm broken. The big dirigible was completely destroyed by the flames.

"HORSE-POWER" UNIT WRONG Mistake That Can Be Definitely Traced to James Watt Was Never Officially Corrected.

"H. P." as you know, stands for "horse power," and if, therefore, your motorcycle is a four and one-half horse, you know that what is meant is that the engine has a power which is equivalent to that of four and a half horses.

Not so! You would be incorrect to the extent of no less than 40000 pounds, remarks a London Answers writer.

The h. p. unit of power is a fraud, and the late James Watt of engine fame is responsible. He was a very careful engineer, in theory and practice, and he discovered, by many experiments, that the raising of 33,000 pounds one foot per minute was a good average horse-power.

But "horse-power" today is reckoned at 33,200 lbs. per foot per minute—11,000 pounds in excess! This is due to the fact that Watt, in his anxiety to encourage business, offered to sell engines which would develop 33,000 pounds per foot as a horse-power—a third more than the actual.

It would seem that he meant ultimately to be honest, but he died before that happened, and so bequeathed to the world, which has accepted it, a false unit measurement of horse-power.

Engineers, of course, know of the error, and make the allowance for it; but the average individual does not. Your 10 h. p. car is, therefore, in fact, but a 6-2-3 one, and its power is equal to raising 22,000 pounds a foot in a minute, and not 33,000.

IMMENSE ROCKERY IN LAKE Birds Find Sanctuary on Island on Which Hunters Are Forbidden to Set Foot.

Set in the middle of Great Salt Lake is Hat Island, 12 acres in area, one of the most densely populated rockeries in the world. Its official name is due to the legend that it is a miniature known to westerners as Bird Island.

Saguails and pelicans live there. The island is literally covered with them, and since hunters are not permitted to disturb the fowls, visitors experience no difficulty in walking about among them and observing their habits.

The birds have established their roosts among the rocky formations of the island, which is surrounded by salt water more than half that of the ocean. The highest point is about 100 feet above the surface of the lake.

The strangest sight on the island is the flock of young pelicans. They walk in a line a drove of sheep. One acts as leader and the rest follow. Large bodied, chubby birds they are, secretly able to waddle out of the way when one approaches.

As evening approaches one may look out over the lake, far to the north east, and see a cloud of tiny specks. It is the adult pelicans returning home from the mouth of the Jordan river, or from the Great Salt river, 50 to 70 miles away. They are laden with fish for their young ones. The pouches under their beaks are filled with freshwater fish.

Never Saw Their Faces. The young woman was looking at a child's book, "The Sunbonnet Babies." Those Sunbonnet babies were my delight and my despair when I was little," she said, "because I never could get their faces." If you look carefully at every picture you'll notice the faces of those babies are never revealed. Other characters in the illustration show their faces, but never the sunbonnet babies.

The only face you can get of what sort of little girls they were is their posture. And I used to peer and peep at those sunbonnets. I used to turn over the pages and look through from the back side; I used even to tear the pages a bit to see if I could get inside of those sunbonnets. But I never saw their faces.

"Some day I'm going to write to that sunbonnet artist and ask if he won't send me, in confidence, one picture of those babies with their bonnets off," Springfield Union.

Eagles Change Color. The young eagle is clothed in three kinds of garments before it reaches maturity. During the first year it is black, the second year slate-colored, the third year brown and white. It might be said that the bald-headed eagle is not bald. It is so called from the white ruff feathers about its head. The three different appearances of the young eagle one time provoked a strange misunderstanding among bird observers. It was thought that they were three different species—the black, the George Washington and the bald. The eagle is one of the Palomares, which includes hawks and all similar birds of prey.

Great Authors Write Badly. All great authors write badly. That is well known. At least the poet has said so. Great writers are impatient. The vigor of their vocabulary, the intensity of their style, the daring of their phrases discount the politeness. To the point of good writing apparently means writing accounts before the pen. Writers make their own rules, or rather make none. They change their minds at every moment, as inspiration dictates; sometimes they are hurried on, sometimes roused, sometimes silent and sometimes spiteful. So, according to the common notion, they cannot write well.—Amateur France.

Don't be disappointed

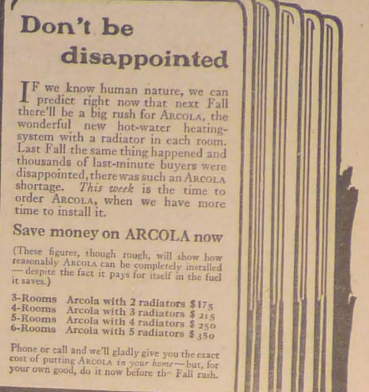

If we know human nature, we can predict right now that next Fall there'll be a big rush for ARCOLA, the wonderful new hot-water heating system with a radiator in each room. Last Fall the same thing happened and thousands of last-minute buyers were disappointed, there was such an ARCOLA shortage. This week is the time to order ARCOLA, when we have more time to install it.

Save money on ARCOLA now

(These figures, though rough, will show how reasonably Arcola can be completely installed—despite the fact it pays for itself in the fuel it saves.)

- 3-Rooms Arcola with 2 radiators $175
- 4-Rooms Arcola with 3 radiators $215
- 5-Rooms Arcola with 4 radiators $255
- 6-Rooms Arcola with 5 radiators $350

Phone or call and we'll gladly give you the exact cost of putting Arcola in your home, but if you own your own, do it now before the Fall rush.

We sell the Monarch because we know it is built right. If you will come in, we will be glad to show you exactly what we mean. Pertinent Pointers for Practical Farmers

Prepared by the Agricultural Department, University of Minnesota

RUST-RESISTANT MID-SEASON OATS

Propagation With a Large Number of Strains Carried On.

Plant breeding specialists of the University of Minnesota believe they will be successful in their efforts to develop rust-resistant, high-yielding mid-season oats. The oat nursery at University Farm this year contains more than 1,000 plots (two rows in the plot), each of which was planted

In a recent radiophone address G. A. Pond, who is in charge of the farming costs section of the university, urged upon farmers the many advantages to be secured in keeping accurate cost accounts.

Prof. Pond argued that farming is really the "big business" of the country rather than railroading, flour manufacturing, meat packing, or oil producing and selling.

The total value of all farm property in 1919, he said, was 30 billions of dollars more than the combined values of all lines of manufacturing and mining taken together.

The United States Department of Agriculture and the Minnesota Agricultural College are cooperating in assisting farmers to study costs. A group of 25 farmers near Owatonna in Steele county and a similar group near Winona in Cottonwood and Jackson counties are being coached by the university men in keeping records of all farming business transacted.

Some of the reasons why farmers should keep careful accounts and "know where they stand" are thus enumerated by Professor Pond:

Farmers should know the facts about their business in order to compare the returns from different crops and different classes of livestock.

Careful accounting will make it possible for farmers to know where they made their money or where they lost money.

For example, one farmer by keeping cost accounts found that in 1920 and 1921 his hogs returned good profits, but his cattle failed to show their board and keep. He is now raising more hogs.

Cost accounts are valuable also because they advise the farmers how to grow their crops and raise their live stock in the most economical manner.

With cost account figures available the farmer is in a position to compare his costs with those of other farmers.

He can study the methods of feed and care practiced by the low cost producers and increase his own economy of production.

Cost accounts reveal the amount of feed, labor, and other cost factors that are required for a given amount of production.

By applying current prices to these amounts, the production cost can be closely estimated at any time.

Cost account figures furnish the general public with reliable and accurate information about the financial status of farming.

BIG RETURNS FROM POULTRY

Income From Eggs Near That of Poultry Produced.

Just how the "business biddy boosts business," as N. E. Chapman, University poultry specialist, would say, is shown in figures gathered by university men from a farm on the east of Owatonna.

A production route near Owatonna. A flock of 205 hens gave a return of $307.81 from eggs and $38.55 from poultry, a total of $346.36.

The cost of feed was $20.69 and labor, miscellaneous cash, interest and depreciation, $170.11, leaving the net sum of $245.56 as return from the farm flock.

The principal income was from eggs produced and not from poultry raised.

In the Windsor community the return for $1.00 in feed was $6.44 and the return for labor was 25 cents per hour. One flock of 200 hens averaging 76 eggs per hen gave a net profit of $1.92 per hen with the average price of eggs at 24 cents and poultry at 157 cents per pound.

The return from eggs was $307.81 and from poultry $38.55, a total of $346.36. Food, labor, shelter and interest on investment totaled $170.90, showing a net profit of $245.56, a sum which exceeded the rather large family expense for groceries by $65.31.

These figures demonstrate that a farm flock will pay the store bill.

"One must breed, feed, and house the flock so as to secure maximum production," says Mr. Chapman. "The increasing consumption of eggs is favorable for the maintenance of a fair price, and the abundant grain harvest points to a cheap, or cheapening, cost for the farm flocks that has been known for several years."

Manure is a by-product and should be used wherever possible.

Mike Holm, Secretary of State
One of the most popular officials at the state capital is Mike Holm, secretary of state. He always appreciates a visit from folks from any part of the state, and regards less of how busy he may be, he always has time to give any information regarding matters of his department that is at his disposal. His popularity and recognized ability as secretary of state was demonstrated last June in the primaries, when he came very close to leading the Republican ticket with a vote of 249,170, receiving more than twice as many votes as his opponent.

Shortly after taking office in 1920, he was confronted by the gigantic problem of licensing automobiles of the state under the new Babcock law. The expeditious way in which this was done speaks volumes for Mr. Holm's ability as an organizer and as an efficient expert. Applications came into the secretary of state's office by the thousand, and the forces of clerks, in view of the personal supervision of Mr. Holm, handled the work without any confusion whatsoever, and with the minimum of mistakes. It is worth a trip to the state capitol when the applications are coming just to see the system used in the registration of cars. Mr. Holm will enjoy talking you through his department.

When a public official has the ability, and gets the results in his office, he should be returned to that office, and we predict Mr. Holm's reelection as secretary of state in a majority as he had in the primaries.

ists will see some of the high spots of a big speed classic at the famous Beverly Hills Speedway near Los Angeles, when they see Wallace Roid's Paramount picture, "Too Much Speed." One of the features of this picture is the race in which Wallace Roid in the role of Dusty Rhodes is supposed to participate, and the big speed match referred to was used as a background for the story. Many of the most thrilling moments of the big race were filmed and will appear among the scenes of the picture.

Also a comedy "Crowning Torchy."

Petroleum and Independence

SAYS the Chicago Tribune, "The automobile has increased the ability of people to take care of themselves—America's streets and roads are filled with motor cars because—the American in his own car feels the independence of going where he pleases and when he pleases."

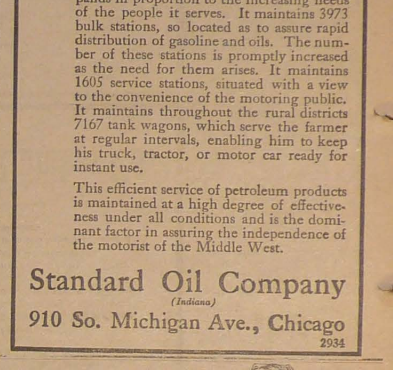

The effective use of automotive power depends upon an adequate supply and efficient distribution of gasoline and other petroleum products. The users of automobiles and motor trucks of the Middle West would find themselves seriously handicapped were it not for the practically universal distribution of gasoline and oils, maintained by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). This distribution system is continually growing, expanding, and penetrating new corners of the 10 states served by the Company.

The number of automobiles in the United States increased 13% during the first six months of 1922 over 1921. The increase in the states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) during the past two years was over 36%. These figures give a fair idea of the rate of increase of distribution facilities required of this Company.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) expands in proportion to the increasing needs of the people it serves. It maintains 3973 bulk stations, so located as to assure rapid distribution of gasoline and oils. The number of these stations is promptly increased as the need for them arises. It maintains 1605 service stations, situated with a view to the convenience of the motoring public. It maintains throughout the rural districts 7167 tank wagons, which serve the farmer at regular intervals, enabling him to keep his truck, tractor, or motor car ready for instant use.

This efficient service of petroleum products is maintained at a high degree of effectiveness under all conditions and is the dominant factor in assuring the independence of the motorist of the Middle West.
