Observe Defense Day With Program

There was a large gathering of patriotic citizens at the army, last Friday evening, to attend the once yearly observance of Defense Day.

The program followed by the invocation by Father Leo. The first speaker to be introduced was Judge Long, Civil War veteran, who took his subject Carry On. In the course of his remarks, the judge emphasized the danger of loss which inheres with the constitution and spoke of the civil war days and the need of being prepared.

Judge Long was followed by another band selection and Ottocar Sobotka was introduced by the singing of the national anthem. The subject of his address was the history of the Spanish American war, speaking from actual experience as he saw service in that war.

Frank A. Pangerl Takes Own Life

Frank A. Pangerl, living in the town of Royalton, ended his life late Sunday afternoon by shooting himself with a rifle. The body was found by a son of Mike Pangerl, a neighbor, shortly after supper.

The body was lying on a bed fully dressed, with the exception of the shoes and stockings which had been removed. A rifle had been used, the bullet entering under the chin and coming out on the upper side of the face.

Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery yesterday morning the pall bearers being John C. Pangerl, Adolph Pangerl, Joe Youngbauer, Albrecht Pangerl, Louis Pangerl and Joe Berntson.

Frank A. Pangerl was born in Bohemia September 25, 1858 and came to the United States in 1886. He was united in marriage to Elizabeth Youngbauer, who died in 1911.

12 Survivors Walk From Mouth of Shaft as Timbers Are Wrecked.

Kemmerer, Wyo.—Forty-seven men were entombed in Sublet Mine No. 5 of the Kemmerer Coal company, seven miles north of here by a terrific explosion. Reports indicated that 11 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion but a later check reduced this number to 47.

The disaster is expected to reach 35, since it is not believed that any of the 22 men remaining in the mine are alive. Company officials said that rescue work at the scene of the disaster was progressing slowly.

As soon as a clearing large enough to admit a man had been opened rescuing parties attempted to enter the mine, but were forced to withdraw because of the gas. Orders were sent at once to the Frontier mines, at Diamondville, Cumberland and Rock Springs for rescue workers.

The disaster at Sublet is the first mining explosion that has taken a heavy toll of life among its residents since 1881. On August 14, 1892, however, a blast entombed 114 men in the Frontier mine, of the Kemmerer Coal company, near Kemmerer. Only 15 men were rescued, 100 were others who were caught in the mine at the time later were rescued from the mine.

LEGION STAGES PARADE

Woman Rides Horse Into Hall While Other Thousands Make Streets Playground.

St. Paul—In a thunder of cheers and songs and a cloud of confetti the sixth national convention of the American Legion opened in the St. Paul auditorium.

The first session of the Legion's greatest gathering, struck both keynote of the convention—sports fun and serious business—and struck them hard.

The convention started 10 minutes late, because it had to wait for shouting delegations to parade into the arena. Colored bands, a band of a war regiment, rode a gray mare up the aisle at the head of the Texas legion.

150,000 or more residents of the Twin Cities gathered and thrilled to the ranks of the veterans as they swung jauntily along over the four-mile parade route.

LONG SLEEVES

Radical Changes Meet With Disfavor—Fringe Trimming Favored.

By Placing Binding Posts as Shown, One or Both R. F. Stages Can Be Eliminated.

With the average neutrodyne receiver, local stations, as a rule, come in with tremendous volume, and one or more stages of radio frequency amplification could be dispensed with and good results still obtained. Regularly, it is not good practice to use any arrangement in a radio frequency circuit to control the separate stages, but in a neutrodyne circuit this can be done without loss of efficiency. The accompanying diagram shows the method used. Two extra binding posts are employed and are connected to the middle tap on the secondary of the neutroformer, as shown. These binding posts may be placed on a separate

Parts Needed for Flexible Coupler

Specifications for Construction of Attachment for Experimental Work.

BY PETER MOMBELLO

Most variometers on the market today are not very flexible and their degree of selectivity cannot be varied to obtain the best results from every hookup. The variometer described

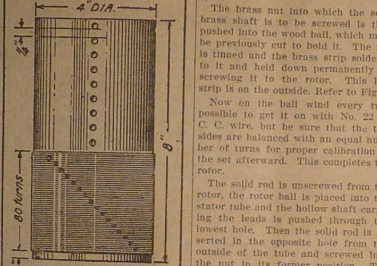

Fig. 1. Below is the best that can be made to date. Purchase the following parts: One-half pound of No. 22 D. C. wire.

One hard rubber tube 8 inches long and 4 inches in diameter.

One 3-inch rotor ball (this should be in the form of a sphere and not a tube).

One hollow brass strip 3/4-inch in diameter, 1 1/2 inches long.

Two small brass springs 1/4-inch long to fit shafts.

Four small hard wood screws.

Two brass strips with small holes at ends.

Fig. 2.

each end and large hole in middle to fit shafts.

The above specifications must be followed or it will be impossible to construct the variometer.

On the 2-inch tube wind 80 turns of No. 22 D. C. wire, taking off a tap every 8 turns for 64 turns, and then tap off every second turn for 16 turns, starting 1/4-inch away from one end of the tube.

A quarter of an inch away from this

When everything you try to listen to goes into your ears, there are all sorts of interfering noises, at once you ask yourself, "What's the trouble?" It may be anything of a dozen things, but just what this is better the radio fan unless he has had considerable experience with set troubles.

In the first place, it is a wise thing to inspect thoroughly the transformer. It is not a good idea to be constructing the set, use a cheap make of transformer, not thinking of what would be the result. Transformers are such as those, being improperly designed and composed of inferior materials, give many persons a headache.

As a matter of fact, the transformer can be a much more important part of the set than the radio fan thinks. It is a reliable make of transformer.

As a point of testing and repairing, it will be found in the set during wet weather. This may be attributed to the fact that the transformer is not receiving out and fault to locate, trouble the whole fault may lie in the atmosphere.

Long Sleeves and Tunic for Autumn

have a little wider; the straight line of the diletante critics, lamenting bitterly over the evil days which have come to a mode which in their eyes shows no change, sets aside upon the blouse efforts of a few seasons' artists whose creations will never grace anything more than the innumerable shoulders of the mannequin.

The mistake of these too casual observers is that they consider the means and not the end. It is true that the tools of the designer have not greatly changed, that plait and flounce, slenderness and simplicity, and scarf, are just as potent factors in the new mode as they were in the old. But it is equally patent that the creative genius of the French couturier has brought a grace and dignity into its latest fashions which will have a deeper significance than any of the so-called revolutionary changes which have been sponsored by the lesser lights of the mode. The inauguration of a new style cycle is not necessarily indicated by these artistic changes but there has been unquestionably added an atmosphere of maturity which has been lacking in recent seasons.

The logical progression of the new autumn tendencies toward the straight, short, slender simplicity of their predecessors in the mode, but they have added a touch of femininity which quickly distinguishes them from the garcon styles of last season. They are not the wilting, withering, blizzards, different but not radical.

The long tunic is the most outstanding characteristic of these frocks, which are simple, neat, the dapper and vivid colorations. The basic for all is the simple silhouette, now more firmly encoined than ever before.

Long Sleeves in the Mode.

A distinguishing feature of the late season is the long sleeve. While many of the dressers are still sleeveless, the really new style is the long perfect sleeve adjusted to a small shaped armhole.

The sleeve follows the outline of the upper arm fitting snugly and sometimes even tightly. From the elbow down the sleeve may be of the dressmaker's straight, or it may be a shirtwaist, with a little cuff; again it is straight in Chinese style and trimmed with a band of contrasting material. In all instances being corded. But it has always a neat trim appearance.

These fitting sleeves have below the elbow one or two plaited flounces or decorations of hand-embroidered fringes, made of cord or ribbon, a small number of cord dressmakers are now using for semi-in and embroidered fringes. The occasional fringes of cord that forms the fringe is straight, or it may be a half-dozen or more.

Color featured this season in fringes in the early spring, and it is one of the decorative themes that has become prominent in the season has undoubtedly transformed the adornment into one of quiet elegance. The fringes are of various lengths, and in all its various fashions keeps to the very straight line.

Skirts Are Much Shorter

Skirts are distinctly shorter than they were at the February meeting. Just as the straight line has prevailed over the circular cut, so also has there been a definite movement in favor of the shorter skirt as against the longer one. This today the fashionable skirt is both short and retains its slender outline. The occasional wideness that is being introduced at the autumn openings does not materially disturb the straight silhouette.

The tunic form is in evidence everywhere, and so is the double volume with the upper flounce a bit lower than the lower. Often the tunic is flowered, embroidered or printed in high colors. The Paris modistes are making a carefully prepared revolution against the perennial cloche which for the last season has crowded out every other shape out of the picture, and from early indications, their new efforts will result in a more successful. Which does not mean that the cloche is about to fade into a quick oblivion, but rather that it will now be compelled to share the spotlight with hats of different types.

The hat of the coming fall, because of its social importance, has come to be one of the most significant fashion accessories of the season. The millinery world has definitely forecast the styles which will eventually be adopted for fall and winter. The recent jockey matches of medium large hats were noted in sailor and cloche forms. These hats can only be called large in comparison with the extremely small ones that have been so much worn—really they are not excessively large. Numerous Suzanne Talbot models were in evidence, some of them made of ribbon, anticipating definitely the autumn season. Talbot is also having great success with her straw-embroidered tulle hats, the straw being applied in the feather-like motifs that are so familiar to the hat maker. This is a medium large cloche with a pronounced droop to the brim, suggesting in a way the poke bonnet, as the brim is narrow at the back.

Small Little Miss Muffet. All the girls in the world. It is so good of the color. It is so good of the color. It is so good of the color.

As a daily health drink for the children, which is nothing like any other. It is so good of the color. It is so good of the color. It is so good of the color.

Have House Dress That Will Save Much Washing

A house dress is always getting dirty in front before the remainder of the dress is soiled, so it is a good idea to make a detachable apron, which is adjustable front and back. If one makes one's own frocks several sets of aprons will be a most successful. Which does not mean that the cloche is about to fade into a quick oblivion, but rather that it will now

DEFENSE DAY

Defense Day has come and gone, and so far, we have not heard of the observance of the day having started any warlike inclinations on the part of any who took part in observing the day.

But there has been columns written by those who were opposed to such a day, their contention being in the main that it was too militaristic and would make folks think of war instead of peace.

If that argument holds good, then one might also argue that it is foolish to have a fire department because it makes folks think of a fire. Also one might hold that it is foolish to have fire drill in the schools, because it makes the children think of there possibly being a fire in the school some day. And there are many other parallel cases that might be cited.

We have a fire department, to fight fires in case there is one, but we don't want a fire. The same is true with fire drill in the school. Goodness knows that nobody wants a fire in the school, but if there is one, we want the students to know how to get out in an orderly and quick way for their own protection.

And America certainly doesn't want another war, but if one does come its mighty size to be prepared and know just what our strength is. Unpreparedness cost Uncle Sam billions of extra dollars in the last war. Money spent wisely and efficiently now in rearmament, will be well worth the cost if we are ever dragged into another war.

AIR LINER HAILED BY THROG
65 Passengers Carried as Ship Stoops Above Germany.
Friedrichshafen, Germany—Accompanied by cheering and waving hailed by a thousand radio messages and speeches wishing good luck, and accompanied by an escort of air planes, the ZB-3, first American passenger air liner, successfully completed her first passenger flight, to the satisfaction of her builders, her officers and crew.

It is planned to start the ZB-3 on her journey to the United States. The trip initiated a new era in traveling de luxe, with all the comforts of the best appointed railways, but with far more ease and speed. Without ever going above a comfortable cruising speed, but jogging along at a rate of around 70 miles an hour, she covered the distance which was figured would have required 50 hours, in exactly nine hours, flying various tests and extra circuits along the way.

MURPHY KILLED AT SYRACUSE

Syracuse, N. Y.—Jimmie Murphy of Vernon, Calif., favored to win the national racing championship of the American Automobile association for 1924, and veteran of many an automobile speed classic in this country and abroad, met his death on the state fair grounds when the car he was piloting crashed through a wooden fence on a curve during the 133th lap of the 150-mile race.

Murphy survived the accident only a few minutes, long enough to be taken to a hospital in this city, six miles away, but he never regained consciousness. He was the only victim of the accident, which happened on the inside of the track.

U. S. Army Advances to Meet Manchurian War Lord at Mukden.
Tientsin—The war outlook in northern China is blacker than ever. The Chill troops of Wu Pei Fu, ruling military power in Peking, continued to move toward the eastern end of the great wall at Shanshaiwan, while reliable reports were received here that the Peking-Mukden railway had been cut on the Manchurian side of the wall.

Peking—General Wu Pei Fu, most powerful of the Chillill leaders, was expected to return to Peking to a conference with President Zhao Kun, concerning defense of the capital against Tso Lin.

The Manchurian war lord announced from Mukden that he had captured Chao Yang Fu, an important city of 25,000, 20 miles from the Manchou border.

BELIEVE MECCA'S FALL NEAR

Sultan of Nejd Reported in Position to Take Holy City.
London—Mecca, holy of holies of the Islamic world, is about to fall into the hands of the Sultan of Nejd, according to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Cairo.

The sultan, Ibn Saud, defeated King Hussein, his rival at Taif, Arabia, and now is in a position to capture the holy city if he wishes. The Moslem world is vastly disturbed by the news.

If Mecca falls, Hussein is expected to take refuge in Jeddah, seeking security under the shelter of guns of the British navy.

Although reports from Constantinople state that the French general Veyrand, had ordered Syrians to facilitate the passage of British troops to Palestine, it was believed that Britain would not intervene beyond offering protection to Hussein.

FOUR KILLED IN OIL FIRE

Lightning Hits Storage Tank—Blasts Spread Blazing Liquid.
Monterey, Calif.—Four soldiers of the 20th Infantry, stationed at the Provost of Monterey, were killed, many persons, most of them soldiers, were slightly injured, hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property, including five homes, was damaged, and the entire countryside menaced for a while by a fire which started when lightning struck a 55,000 barrel tank of oil here belonging to the Associated Oil Company.

Nearly 40 officers and men were treated for minor burns and injuries at the camp hospital. Two of the men killed were identified as A. B. Boles and L. P. Peterson. The others were not identified.

Increase to Legal Limit Declared Necessary to Give Fair Return.
Minneapolis—The bitter tariff fight will be raised the legal limit of 4 cents a pound if dairy farmers are to get a fair return for their labor and their feed, federal investigators will tell the tariff commission as a result of their study of production costs on 200 Minnesota farms.

The study, one of a series made by investigators on orders from the tariff commission, ended with the return to the University Farm of George A. Pond, associate professor in farm management, who worked with the aid of the only institution of higher education in the world which is devoted exclusively to the deaf.

Who Is the Standard Oil Company?

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a corporation, organized under the laws of Indiana, composed of 49,451 stockholders—of whom 11,000 are women—not one of whom owns as much as 6% of the total stock.

It is managed by a Board of Directors of ten men—

- R. W. Stewart Chairman
- W. M. Burton President
- W. E. Warwick, Vice-Pres., Gen. Mgr. Mfg. E. Parks, Vice-Pres., Asst. Gen. Mgr. Mfg. E. G. Saubert, Vice-Pres., Secy-Treasurer
- Allan Jackson Vice-President
- R. H. McElroy Traffic Manager
- E. J. Bullock Director of Purchases
- T. J. Thompson, General Manager, Sales
- John D. Clark Vice-President (Assistant to Chairman)

Every man on the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has come up from the ranks and earned his place by sheer ability.

Every director of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) lives in Chicago and devotes his entire time to the affairs of this Company and to no other.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) acknowledges no allegiance to any other organization. It stands on its own bottom.

The outstanding characteristic of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is its ideals of service.

Its management—its stockholders—its 27,160 employees—all are imbued with the single idea, that enduring success is achieved through service; that through service comes profit.

It is by strict adherence to this idea and to the every day practice of the principles of fairness, equity and justice to all—customers and competitors alike—that has made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) one of the truly great institutions of service in America.

AGE MELLOWS JOHN MCGRAW OF GIANTS

Manager Now Says It's Foolish to Protest Decision of Umpire in a Game.

It is foolish to protest an umpire's judgment, writes Jim McGraw. Age has certainly mellowed Java's temper, though he will still do battle if anyone calls him "Springer's lightning."

As a baseball leader McGraw ranks with the great managers of the game. He has uncanny judgment in picking players, and though they may take three seasons to "arrive" they are usually stars when they finally reach their prime.

Last season, when his veteran pitchers started to crack, it was predicted that unless he went out and spent a fortune for hurlers the Giants would not figure in the pennant scrap this year.

Today the youngsters are pitching the Giants to a pennant and they are so far out in front that they can't be seen with the naked eye.

"I think Barnes is ready," McGraw said at Saratoga in March. "I had thought he was not ready for the job. I have always figured it that way."

JUST A BREATH OF ADVENTURE

By NELLE EDERHART

Copyright, 1924, by N. Ederhart

JACYNTH SMITH was singing the little ditty "Springer's lightning" as she sat at the piano.

For Jacynth was but superficially flirtatious; what seemed cozy, indeed, was the index of an unspoken war; there would be no dalliance once she was sure of herself.

Jim was the new assistant cashier in the Brownsville bank. She had met him the winter before she had studied music in New York.

Unexpectedly the breath, the faintest of circumstances blew out of the quiet summer sky.

"Do let's stop and go in awhile—it's so cool and refreshing. Looks old, too. Over in England last night, I read some of the quaintest epigrams; perhaps some of these will be as interesting as those you have written."

There was a latent agreement from her companions. Edith led the way, and she continued to sing the old lines.

"Somebody's beloved mother," he read, "she slipped her hand in his three months later she signed her name happily, Jacynth Smith Jones."

predicted at least in the home. One Frank who recognized but one song that he "admired" fully recognized that he loved her voice no matter what she sang.

"That's not appreciation," the girl had expatiated in exasperation, "you don't know 'Moulin Rouge' from the 'Hollars'."

Recalling this untidly speech as she drove, the girl had a spasm of regret. She remembered that her mother had had her that Frank had suddenly attended Brownsville's Lyceum course all winter while she was away.

Red Smith Revisited

Warbling of Byron

"I wonder," mused Jimmy Caveney of Reds the other day, "how Red Smith and Umpire Byron are getting along in the Coast League."

"Next afternoon, Byron came out, advanced to the front of the grandstand, doffed his cap, and spoke to the audience."

"Ladies and gentlemen," said he, "I wish to express my regret for what happened yesterday, and to give you my assurance that it will not occur again."

"And Red Smith, arising before the bench, explained, 'Ladies and gentlemen, if Mr. Byron starts to yell again, it's going to all happen over again. I don't like his voice.'

Daubert as Trapsooter

While Jake Daubert, the popular Cincinnati Red who was temporarily put out of the diamond game a short time back by an injury received during a game, is known far and wide as a ball player, not so many fans are aware that he is also an expert trapsooter.

Mays Beat Athletics

In the nine seasons that Carl Mays pitched in the American League he faced the Athletics 38 times in the games that counted in the won and lost columns for him.

Oddity in Baseball Game

During the game of Sunday, May 4, between Sacramento and Portland, the Portland team scored two runs in one inning without having a man on base.

Manager John McGraw

Jim would be a winner when properly seasoned.

And McGraw had the correct hunch, for Barnes is pitching like a ball this season.

He had the same faith in Bentley and also Larry Denny. Denny would make good. But a sore arm and an inclination to balk at bat.
