HOTHOUSE PLANTS

Some fond parents make the great mistake of bringing up their children as if they were hothouse plants.

They are continually kept indoors, are seldom allowed to enjoy the companionship of other children and are denied the life in the open that puts root and into human veins.

Years later, when they develop weak or abnormal minds, and show a lack of capacity for success in the world of affairs, their delinquent behavior comes a handicap to them and a source of grief to their parents, who could have prevented such a condition if they had adopted the right course in the beginning.

The sun shines for little children as well as grownups. Permit them to enjoy it to the fullest if you would have them justify the love and devotion you bestow upon them.

THE VALUE OF A BOOST

A Boston capitalist once met a man from a small city some miles away and soon found that he was so thoroughly convinced that his home town was the best on earth, that the capitalist investigated.

The capitalist wired the home town newspaper: "Just met one of your boosters; he is a wonder, and if your city is anything like him, I want to know more about it."

This led to an arrangement that was of mutual benefit to the capitalist and the city as well.

It merely shows that a community will advance only when it is composed of boosters instead of those who pull back in the harness.

Every resident of Pine City can be a real asset by saying something good about Pine City every time they are away from home.

You never know when your word may fall on fertile soil. If you are not enthusiastic about the advantages here, you can not expect on living elsewhere to be.

We must have a wholesome enthusiasm for the whole community and the opportunities it offers others who may be lured to locate here, before we can hope for beautiful growth and industrial development.

OUR NATIONAL GREATNESS

With the appointment of a commission to study the needs of farmers and recommend legislation for their benefit, many of us are inclined to wonder whether any good is going to be accomplished.

With wheat, corn and cotton prices advancing, the farmers of the nation are well along the highway that leads to a return of normal conditions.

If the farmer is in such a fix that legislation only can save him, there is little use for the American people to make any further effort towards national greatness.

The farmer has his fat and lean periods, but there was a time when a farmer was justified in being discouraged. Some farmers have a mass of farming just as manufacturers and retailers are failures. But the business can't be blamed for misdeeds who attempt to make a living from it.

No farmer will ever be saved by legislation or government loans. His success or failure depends in large measure upon himself, his industry, his thrift and his frugality. The farmer who starts from the bottom can rely upon himself. He can study his business and by good management make money. There are plenty of examples to prove this.

HOME INTERESTS FIRST

Another Christmas is near at hand and gift lists are being prepared for the shopping list that everyone will make.

And when you buy, will you remember the claims of the home merchant and give him a chance to share in your trade?

We cannot expect to prosper as a community by dividing our patronage with business men who contribute nothing to the upbuilding of our local institutions.

It is to the best interest of those who buy, to trade a home town just as it is to the best interest of those who sell.

Unless we "pat each other on the back" nothing constructive can ever be accomplished and Pine City will go backward instead of forward.

The logic of trading at home is incontestable. There is no other way of reasoning if you desire to keep money away from home, you have no hope of ever bringing it in your pocket again, but if you keep your money in circulation at home, you may get the chance to see it again. Pine City merchants propose for Christmas will large and extensive stocks and endeavor to serve the people as this trading season has been their main goal should be patronized, not done from the standpoint of home patronage.

but because they have Christmas merchandise of quality that no one will be ashamed to give.

AN OUTSTANDING SERVICE

The case is reported in the press of a letter, written by a soldier during the Civil War, which was delivered a few days ago to a relative of the one to whom it was addressed.

Such instances are unusual. The postoffice department (functions with great precision and provides splendid service for the people.

The circumstances which were given widespread publicity, because it was rare, might be contrasted with the thousands and thousands of cases these mail is delivered promptly.

The postoffice department is in receipt of frequent utter commending the mail service, but none quite equals the record which a Utah woman reports.

For ten years she has been maintaining a weekly correspondence with her sister in England, and up to August 1 of this year, each woman had sent 130 letters to each other, not one of which had been lost.

This record reveals a state of perfection that is seldom reached and which indicates that the postal service is a very efficient branch of the government.

During the holiday season it is put to the supreme test and every one who can do anything to relieve the burden will be performing a worthwhile service. Mailing gifts early is one way in which every person can help.

Sunday & Monday—
From the book "The Virginian" Everybody knows "The Virginian"—the world-famed romance of the West.

BATTERY NEWS

Members of the Battery extend a vote of thanks to A. M. Challen for the big chicken and turkey "boon law" he provided for the men last Friday evening. The feed was given after the drill and consisted of all the houlton one could eat, and it was real hot, chock full of chicken and turkey. There was also crackers and apples and coffee. Mr. Challen gave stands each with the battery and they will make him an honorary member any time he wishes to join.

Last Friday night was pay day for the quarter ending October 1st. Captain Boe distributed $1121 amongst the personnel of the battery as their pay for attending drill.

Starting last Tuesday evening, drill will be held on Tuesday evening of every week. The change was made from Friday to Tuesday evening so as not to interfere with the high school basketball games. Friday evening is the best evening during the week for high school athletics and it was for this reason that the drill night was changed.

Thursday & Friday—
Anna I. Nelson in "Half A Dollar Bill"

"Half-a-Dollar-Bill" is the name given the founding by captain McVeague, when he finds the baby with the torn half of a dollar bill pinned to it, its mother having kept the other half in order to identify her son when she is able to claim him. McVeague brings the child up as his own, so that when he is several years older Bill is mascot of the ship, Grampus Ben Turpin in "Where's My Wonderful Boy?"

Saturday—
Robert Ellis in "Lover's Lane"

To each of us "Lover's Lane" has a distinct meaning, but always it denotes the life we choose to live. Our Lover's Lane may be service and self-sacrifice—fame and notoriety—years of study in seclusion—a life of pleasure—or love.
