HOW TO HANDLE SHEEP IN WINTER

Dean W. C. Coffey Says Ewes Should Have Best of Care at This Time.

Edited by the Agricultural Extension Department of Massachusetts.

W. C. Coffey was a professor of sheep husbandry at the University of Illinois before he came to Minnesota to be dean of the university department of agriculture, has prepared the following notes for winter management of sheep:

Feed that otherwise would be wasted should be eaten by the flock in the fall and winter. Ewes should not be made to eat more feed altogether when the supply begins to run low, because pregnant ewes should be kept in good condition when they lamb. A pregnant ewe should eat two pounds or more by the time her lamb is born. She can not do this if she does not get enough good food to satisfy her daily needs.

Clover, sweet clover, and alfalfa hay are splendid feeds for pregnant ewes. If ewes can feed in fields where there is no danger of damaging crops and have access to any feed they have to satisfy the appetite, they will ordinarily need little grain before lambing time. If ewes have a chance to eat clean straw, particularly oat straw or that from sweet clover, red clover or soybeans, they will not need so much hay.

Ewes can not be expected to eat the stems of clover, sweet clover, or soybeans when the leaves of corn stover, but not the stalks. These should not be fed in such a way as to cause waste. Ewes do better when not allowed to waste feed.

A half-pound per head daily of oats, corn, or barley, or a little less than a pound of screenings, should be fed during the last six or eight weeks of pregnancy. If the ewes should be thin, a pound or more of these can be used.

Pregnant ewes need water every day; it should not be icecold. They should have salt whenever they want it.

Late in pregnancy, ewes often become so heavy, they do not care to eat. They feel too full. If a ewe can be stored in a sheltered area, ewes will get the exercise they need in picking it up. violent exercise, such as rapid driving or chasing by dogs, is likely to cause abortion or other injuries.

Pregnant ewes should not stand, wade or lie in deep mud.

Pregnant ewes should not be out in weather below 20° F., unless they can get into the sunshine. A cold frame, roofs, roofed and sited with deep layers of straw, makes as good a place for lambing as is needed.

Even one lamb should have 10 square feet of floor space, but when a lamb is a few days old, it can be moved to less protected quarters. Leave no small cracks or holes near lambing pens, as the young lamb may creep out into the cold.

Continue to get acquainted with the members of your flock. If the ram is inclined to be cross with the ewes, keep him away from them.

WHEAT IN PIG RATION

By-Products Keep Pigs Thrifty and Can Be Fed Profitably at Times.

Wheat by-products, such as standard middlings, flour middlings, and red dog flour, are produced in large quantities by mills. Four mills are known to be in large quantities in the aggregate to hog farms over the state.

To determine if mill feeds of this and can be used profitably as substitutes for part of the high protein corn in the hog ration, animal husbandry men at University Farm have been carrying on feeding experiments with hogs for two years, checking out results regularly and with great accuracy. Their findings, reported on Swiss Farmers' Day at University Farm, indicate that substitution of approximately one-third of the corn and one-half of the tankage in a corn and tankage ration for growing pigs with a wheat by-product slightly increased the daily gain.

This substitution materially reduced the amount of corn required to produce 100 pounds of gain, but resulted in a slight increase in total amount of feed consumed per 100 pounds of gain.

The use of a wheat by-product in the ration for growing pigs seemed to keep them in slightly better physical condition in both trials.

With the exception of raising the numbers of 1923 and 1924, the cost of gains was a little cheaper when a wheat by-product was fed with corn and tankage than pasture when it was not. When the wheat by-product was fed, except the 100 pounds of grain and the corn, the gain was greater.

Grit feeding will be continued after the fourth month if desirable or it may be discontinued at three months of age and the car put on a hay and grain ration.

All of the precautions to be observed when using corn and grain are followed.

SECRETARY MELLON ON THE OUTLOOK

Secretary Mellon draws a pleasant picture of the present and the outlook in the material affairs of the United States. He is careful, however, not to count too much in any part of his forecast. In other words, while he wishes to convey that good feelings and confidence are amply justified, he does not wish to inspire over-confidence in the people. He adds that it is too much for granted.

In the report of the Treasury department we are told that federal taxation has been reduced in the last four years from $51 to $27 per capita, or just half. That banking and business conditions are in a thoroughly sound condition; that interest and discount rates as a rule have been reduced more than half; that bank deposits have increased $6,000,000,000 since 1921; that reserves are mostly high; that frozen loans have been almost completely liquidated; that banking and credit structures never were in better position; that commercial, business and industrial expansion, and that the farmer is nearly restored to his proper status in the economic system.

From all this and from the fact that the country is profiting perceptibly by the operation of the Dawes plan, Secretary Mellon deduces that the future is bright and pleasant positive. He is quick to caution, however, to say that this future must be approached with intelligence, and that there must be a sane, logical working out of the accomplishments for which we have a good point of departure.

This is wholesome counsel, informed by conservative bankers and business men the country over. It is counsel against recklessness, against over-committments, which successful men avoid at all times as essential features of settled policies.

Periods of recovery from such conditions as we have had in the last few years are always dangerous by temptations to over-reach. Particularity is that when prices of stocks are in the ascendency, when money is available for investment, and general credit conditions loosen up, it is in order to warn against these temptations, while stating basic reasons for a forecast like that of Secretary Mellon who looks for "prosperous and healthy" conditions such as succeeded the election of 1896." He interprets the result of the recent election as an evidence that the people generally are fit to make up their minds to pursue a course guided by experience, and to move safely forward in the further process of casting off in a steadily improving situation.

Secretary Mellon himself is an example of the business of going about understanding in the shaping of governmental affairs. The policy he follows as a public official is a good one to simulate in private life. It embodies optimism, but keeps it within bounds—Minneapolis Tribune.

RED CROSS YEAR'S COST $21,366,255

Nearly $12,000,000 Devoted to Helping Victims of Great Japanese Earthquake.

OVER 3,000 BUSY CHAPTERS

Aid to Disabled War Veterans Paramount and Reaches Near $4,000,000.

Washington—More than $21,000,000 was the total of funds expended by all activities of the American Red Cross during the last fiscal year, ended June 30, says a statement issued by the National organization. This expenditure was almost one-half the amount of money disbursed by the Red Cross in the war year, July, 1917, to June, 1918. Of this extraordinary sum $11,231,303 was America's contribution to the Red Cross relief of the Japanese earthquake victims. This was increased to $11,768,383 by appropriations from general funds of the Red Cross, and it represented probably the largest spontaneous outpouring of beneficence of a single nation in the history of the world.

Over 3,000 active Chapters expended during the year $4,883,000, and the national organization expended $16,077,255.35, making the total $21,366,255.35—all for humanitarian work which reached practically around the world. In announcing the year's record of American Red Cross work, the executive officials at Washington emphasize the fact that the extensive and never-ending work of the Red Cross depends almost wholly upon the nationwide support of the organization from the memberships enrolled during the annual roll call which this year will be in its 27th year. Nov. 15 to 27 when everyone is asked to join or renew their membership in the American Red Cross.

Soldier Service Paramount

Services in behalf of the disabled veterans of the World War and families of the参军配偶 and children of the Red Cross. The organization, through its Chapters, is constantly in touch with this duty in 2,619 communities throughout the United States. The Chapter also has a program of spending in service for veterans about $2,000,000. The National organization expended $1,735,325—a total of $3,735,325 applied to assisting war sufferers toward recovery from disability and distress.

This work is constant in hospitals, rest homes, convalescent centers, in the community. For example, in helping disabled men and women in places where they were transient residents $173,076 from national funds alone was expended to relieve their problems. Every Red Cross service is ever at hand ready to meet the individual need of these men and women.

The enlisted men in the Regular Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps, with their home ties, mean a never-ending Red Cross service which demands full interpret. In this work a total of $1,000,000 was spent in meeting an obligation under the Red Cross charter which has been fulfilled for over 20 years.

Domestic Operations Extensive

In the regular Red Cross operations almost equally divided to continental United States and the insular possessions. Relief work following disasters called for immediate activities in 1920 included a total of $23,157.57 was spent in this service alone. In 23 major disasters trained workers were kept at the work of rehabilitation for many months.

In carrying on the health activities a total of $44,836.65 from Red Cross national funds, and $808,000 from Chapter treasuries—approximately $1,212,614—was spent giving some idea of the extent of Red Cross service in the fields of public health, nursing, nutrition, instruction, and spreading knowledge of personal hygiene and other subjects in the field.

For advancing the cause of human safety, the First Aid Instruction, locally by Chapters and over extensive national territory by the Red Cross Instruction, covering roads and railroads, and in teaching water-safety and increasing the membership of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps the total cost was $1,171, of which $16,234.71 came out of national funds.

Army of Over 5,500,000

The Junior Red Cross in the schools—with over 5,500,000 in its "I Serve" ranks—is aided with $23,078 to which is added the Clubbers' $27,000—a total of $50,576.78. In various other domestic activities the Red Cross spent $23,473.19, and the Chapter and local voluntary services expended an additional $1,048,000 during the year.

Foreign obligations, aside from Japan, were met with national funds as follows: India, $1,000; Turkey, $1,000; Greece, $200,837.19; Junior Red Cross projects, $93,578.75; League of Red Cross Societies, $105,000; other similar and foreign $1,000,000, $121,553.40. The American Red Cross budget for 1924-25 is $4,647,790.85, or $863,286.96 less than the budget for the year ended last June 30.

In good deeds for all peoples in time of distress the American Red Cross needs funds. Help this work with your membership dollar—join on Armistice Day Saturday.

Earliest Accounts of Trade Among Nations

Rawlinson Was Peeved

From the time that men began to live in cities and in some shape, man has been compelled to exchange with the town-dwellers with necessaries; but it is also clear that international trade must have existed, and affected to some extent even the pastoral nomadic races, for we find that Arab tribesmen, for instance, bartered silver, gold, and gold and silver plate and ornaments (Gen. 13:21-22; Gen. 33). Among trading nations mentioned in Scripture, Egypt was very early in a prominent position, though her external trade was carried on, not by her own citizens, but by foreigners—chiefly of the nomadic races. The internal trade of the Jews, as well as the external, was carried on, not by the citizens, but in Egypt, by the festivals, which brought large numbers of people to Jerusalem, and caused great outlays for victims for sacrifice, and for those victims for sacrifice, and for those who came to buy. The houses of public market were, then as now, chiefly the open spaces near the gates, to which goods were brought for sale by those who came from the country (Lev. 18:25; Gen. 28:19).

The traders were allowed to enter into the temple in the outer courts of which victims were publicly sold for the sacrifices (Zech. 14:21; Matt. 21:12; John 2:14).

Janet's husband was a simple old fellow.

One day the good laundress wanted her husband to paint the mangle.

On her return she could see no sign of her husband in the cellar.

"Upstairs!" replied Joe from above.

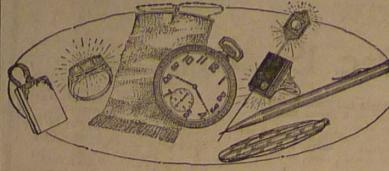

"What are you doing up there?"

"Painting the mangle."

"What are you painting up there for?"

"Well, the paint was up here!" re-

UPON CLASS PLAY

The Seniors are endeavoring to find a suitable play to be staged by this class next spring. They held a meeting at which a number of plays were considered and discussed. A number of plays were sent for and the students are engaged at present in reading them over.

The Senior class has a good cast as indicated by the success of the play "The Dream that Came True," which they put on last year, and there are no reasons why they should not be as successful this year. They will have decided upon a suitable play before the holiday vacation and possibly participants will have been chosen.

HAVE YOU A BAD BACK

Then the Advice of This Pine City Resident will Interest You.

Does your back ache night and day?

Does your back ache when you rest? Are you tortured with stabbing pains when you stoop, lift or bend? Then likely your kidneys are weak. More trouble may soon appear. Headache, dizziness, nervousness. Or uric acid and its like. Help your weak kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Don's Pills.

Read this Pine City testimony:

Mrs. C. L. Johnson, says I had sharp pain in the kidney of my body and when I stopped, these pains dug in deeper making it a task to straighten. After a doctor helps to act off so I began using Don's Pills.

Two boxes relieved me. My kidneys became strong again after a short time.

My doctor said after a short time I am pleased to recommend Don's as they did all they claim to do in my case."

60c, at drs. Foster-Milburn Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

An Interpretation

Civilization is just a business of doing your toothpick work in private—Duglin Herald.

PAINTED LEGS

A new and striking full-painted legs has taken the country by storm!

And all because Gladys Swanson Paramount star, had to have her leggy design painted in scenes in her picture, "Her Glided Cage," intact, when the studio insisted on some editing because more scenes were to be timed next day requiring the same makeup.

Miss Swanson plays the role of "Fleur d'Armeur" a bizarre actress and cabaret dancer, in this new picture, which will be seen at the Community theatre Thursday and thus the reason for the painted limbs, which are adorned for the negligence scene in a bobbin episode.
