FOREWORD

In this, the first issue of "The Chengwatana," it has been our aim to portray for you, the happiest memories of the high school life of 1927. We have aimed to make this publication a prototype for future productions and we hope it will prove its worth.

The Editors.

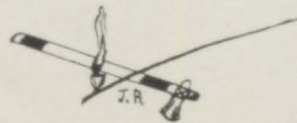

DEDICATION

To You - -

Margaret K. Bingenheimer, who have been our staunch and faithful adviser, do we dedicate "The Chengwatana" of 1927, as a mark of appreciation of your loyal support which has carried us to the success we have attained.

"MADAME'S HAIRPINS"

FROM an orderly row on a nearby shelf in her tiny room on the roof where windows faced in every direction, Madame selected a box labeled: "1927." Unlocking it, she disclosed nearly two dozen golden objects, each tucked carefully into individual pockets among the folds of the velvet lining. She counted them; twenty-two golden hairpins.

"Ah, that is well; none has melted or vanished," she noticed with pleasure.

(Bear with me, gentle reader, Madame was not old-fashioned, quite the contrary. Listen, while I relate a wondrous story of Madame's Hairpins. Hairpins fashioned from a rare earth mixed with gold, and possessing the power to clearly transmit distant scenes and the human voice to Madame if she should hold them to the sunlight.)

I paid my annual visit to Madame on June 3rd. In the course of conversation, I asked if she had heard from the Class of '27. For reply she paged for several seconds through her book of "Hairpinograms," then handed it to me and this is what I read:

"June 1, 1937. Opened case No. 1927. All are present and exceedingly illustrious. The members are so widely scattered that it took several hours to hear and see them all.

"I first glanced into the progress of my studio in New York. It is depressingly silent, but in the office everyone works. Rose is busy taking care that each manuscript shall be duly processed. I remember with gratitude and satisfaction that Rose was one of the commercial sharks in high school days.

"A well-known debating team is touring the country giving daily presentations, pro and con, of the subject: 'Resolved, that our next President should be a woman.' I see Marie Buckley as the capable leader of the affirmatives, while Joseph Plessel is ardently supporting the negative version.

"The sun is setting over the Sahara. Out on the plains north of Goa several dark objects are springing, running, jumping high into the air, endeavoring to get their hands on a large ball. I hear a whistle. From the sidelines a tall, tanned, young man dashes in, recovers the ball and starts it to play again from the center.

"Presently, from a spacious mansion a youthful figure approaches the scrimmage; a low voice calls out a word of greeting. Instantly, Royal collects the balls, the boys cease playing and quickly disappear toward the dressing tents. Smiling, he hastens to stroll back to the house with the dark-haired, blue-eyed Vivian.

"I learn that Royal is successfully developing an indomitable team called the 'Pride of the Desert.' Upon further questioning, I find that he is planning to tour the world with his men.

"In Sunny Italy, I behold an agile person rapidly contorting himself before a large assemblage. Edwin is fondly called by the world in general and art-lovers in particular, the 'Mussolini of Orchestration.' He intends to travel en-tourage with Royal and will be scheduled to appear at each game; thus, offering the public a double attraction.

"A bevy of waved and 'complexioned' damsels catches my attention at a picturesque spot on one of the Canary Islands.

"Gert and Gladys have won much fame in their establishment and are noted for their unique methods of face-lifting, scalp-treating, and weight-reducing.

THE CHENGWATANA

"I find Elizabeth subduing the 'heathen inhabitants,' as she calls them, of Pine City. It seems that there are two opposing factions in the old home town; namely, the wives and their husbands. Every man in town has taken up golfing and seized all the available space in which to 'tee off.' It has been absolutely unsafe for women and children to venture out on the streets. Elizabeth advocates giving the men a wide range for a year and exporting the women to Palm Beach.

"Out on the high seas a ship is tossing about in the storm. A cheerful captain is giving orders, which will bring the crew and cargo into port safe and sound. For seven years Ben has been in command of this merchant vessel. With a sly wink he tells me that he has a sweetheart in every port.

"In Moscow I see a great critic who, according to present day journals, is rivaling the late Bernard Shaw. Many of his published works are said to parallel those of Thackeray in depth of subject matter. At present John is gathering information concerning the recently established 'Tenth Republic of Russia.'

"I couldn't help but laugh after I picked up the next hairpin. A crowd is jamming the doorway of a forty by fifty igloo in northern Alaska. A dark-haired, bright-eyed woman is upon the platform jabbering fluently in a tongue foreign to me—Eskimo dialect, I presume. I gather from Mil's gestures that she is giving one of her well-known humorous selections.

"From an adjoining booth swings a sign, 'Pop on Ice.' I am told that her husband is making quite a fortune.

"I encountered some difficulty in locating the person for whom I am searching in the next picture. Finally, after vainly scrutinizing the downtown sections of San Francisco I find her enjoying a social chat over teacups at the Governor's home. Farther up the avenue in another large brick edifice, Buster is voicing his opinions of society as he munches a cold ham sandwich from the icebox. Peggy has recently been elected president of the 'Women's Apricot Growers Association' of California.

"Also in California, at Hollywood, I behold a successful actress. Mary is known as 'Mary Pickford II.' Her conquests in the movie world are as manifold as were those of Mary I.

"Helen Beery is carrying on her life's work in a hospital—'St. Helene.' She is an honored nurse in charge of the Red Cross in South Africa. She tells me she has never refused to give what aid she can.

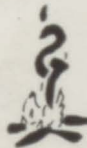

"My visions again travel back to New York. There, in a large, magnificent theatre, a tall, dreamy-eyed, young man constitutes the audience. On the stage a group of several men and women are rehearsing words and gestures; stopping and repeating at the command of the lone observer. Lloyd is putting a promising cast 'thru its paces.'

"France is an interesting country and I must see if any of my old friends are within its borders. Sure enough, after a careful survey, I find one of them. When I first discover him in the American Embassy at Paris, Wes is delivering a short speech to the group of foreign statesmen assembled around the banquet table. His words are impressive and direct.

"In Chicago, a violent battle is being waged against disgusting corruptness. Libbie, as chairman of the 'United Women's Club Workers,' is defeating the prevailing vices of the city.

"Across the Bad Lands of Dakota, Bernard is practicing. Near the foot of some steep slope he stands and hurls the discus, which lands on an adjacent hill. No one can quite equal him in discus or shot put. He has been asked to be present as a guest of honor during the Olympic Games in Washington, D. C., this year.

"On the glistening ballroom floor of Windsor Castle, two women stand near a piano bowing to the applauding audience. One of the entertainers quickly slips into a seat at the piano and a group of mirthful duets, accompanied by piano and violin follow. The King, who, as the Prince of Wales, was commonly termed an unemotional sort, is on the verge of hysterics, and an attendant is called to bring him a stick of gum. Such are the powers of the Wiley Sisters.

"At last I discover a noted scientist at work in his laboratory. He has made considerable research in the fields of chemistry and physics, giving the world a host of new ideas. Most of the high school science texts are 'Wiseman's.' It is by a simplified method that the students now learn their lessons for the material in the book has been written in blank verse. I remember that George, was, as a boy, poetically inclined."

"Immensely interesting, Madame," I exclaimed as I closed the book.

"Yes, I find it more than that to me."

"It would make a fine serial; how much do you want for it?"

"I'm sorry, my friend, but this is not for sale."

Class Will

WE, THE Senior Class of 1927, having completed our four years' course of study, and emerging in full possession of our mental faculties, do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the beloved faculty we bequeath all our chemistry and shorthand notebooks which they may place in the library, for the use of our successors.

The Senior classmen do now bestow some of their individual traits to their fellow schoolmates:

Helen Beery wills her complete accuracy to Louise Tesch.

Ben Cummings bequeaths his exceptional ability to chew gum and grammar before the faculty to Pedro Johnson.

John Holmberg gives his vocabulary to Lynn Buirge, hoping that he may use it as fluently as the predecessor.

Mary O'Donnell wills her one eccentric trait, her long hair, to Myrtie Hunt.

Joseph Plessel bestows his graceful carriage upon Byrd Roberts, expecting her, of course, to use it every day.

Eliabeth Engler wills her voluminous voice to Mattie Peterson.

Bernard Trollen bequeaths his highly elevated mind, which he carries at six feet three inches, to George Roberts.

Edwin Borchers leaves his dear little grin to Carl Kick.

Helen Carlson gives her baby name and ways to Lorena Wilcox.

Wesley Flaten bequeaths his hypnotic powers over pedagogues, especially the fairer sex, to Robert Clark.

Marie Buckley wills her punctuality to Dorothy Christopher.

Rose Mack bestows her stenographic efficiency upon Helen Engler, for next year's use only.

Vivian MacAdam leaves her knowledge of Modern History to the enterprising Ralph Silesky.

Gladys Smith gives a few of her numerous dates to Olga Holetz.

Gertrude Cummings bequeaths her "SIGH" to Pearl Hagen.

Lloyd Greenly wills his sweet disposition to Grace Therrien.

George Wiseman leaves his teething ring to Richard Kadous.

Mildred Therrien leaves to Alice Shuey permission to spend all her assembly study periods in writing notes; as well as her experience in that line.

Royal Hoefler leaves his girlish blush to Gerald Collins.

Libbie Polivka wills a little of her seriousness to George Phares.

Melba Wiley bestows the remnants of her chemical equipment to next year's chemistry class.

Geraldine Wiley wills her energy as a correspondent to Ione Sobotka.

THE CHENGWATANA

Class History

WE, who for twelve long years have journeyed through school together, have at last come to a time when even we must part. There are six of us, Edwin Borchers, Helen Carlson, George Wiseman, Geraldine Wiley, Royal Hoefler and Melba Wiley, who can most truly say that we are schoolmates for we began together our new school life, and now together, we finish.

Our memories of Miss Bede, our first teacher, have always been most lovely. We loved her then, and in our hearts we love her now. She began us in our new world, and we shall ever thank her, who made our "beginning" so happy.

Miss Arneson piloted us through the second grade and gave us safely into the hands of Miss Linderman, who labored daily to enlighten our young minds concerning the great task of multiplying. It was in this grade that Rose Mack joined us.

At last we knew sufficient multiplication to merit our trying something new, so early in the fall of our fourth school year, we found ourselves under the guidance of Miss Schultz. Here we met Mil Therrien, and together we worked over long division.

The fifth grade we found to be less of play than the previous years. Miss Knudson found it a little difficult, no doubt, to impress firmly upon us the exact location of Chicago and that Columbus discovered America. Helen Beery and Wes Flaten were added to our number here and together we passed on.

Miss Spink, our beloved teacher of the sixth grade, was to us a true example of an ideal teacher. Her dainty charm and her quiet way won for her the hearts of us all.

The next year we met Libbie Polivka and Marie Buckley. Our hearts rejoiced at having advanced to the place where we could "go upstairs to school." Miss Joyce at last succeeded in putting enough geography into our heads to enable us to pass the geography state exam.

The eighth grade was full of disquietude. Miss Ross had a hard time to keep us down for we were anxious for something new; we were at a stage where "I" was rather important and "you" didn't count.

But the next year all such ideas were taken from our heads. With Ben and Gertrude Cummings, Elizabeth Engler, Gladys Smith and Bernard Trolen added to our number, we were admitted into the first year of high school as "freshmen." But even as Frosh we were a class that the Seniors and Juniors soon learned to watch with interest. Our name led in contests, on the honor roll, and in a great many activities. We were Freshmen and proud of it.

As Sophomores we were joined by Joe Plessel and during our second year of high school we again made progress both in studies and activities. Our girls learned to cook, our boys to labor with the saw, and together we learned geometry.

The next year John Holmberg joined us and Lloyd Greenly returned to school to be with us as Juniors. We learned a little acting and became expert athletes, thus raising our name high in our school. We translated Latin and studied history together; and when play time came, we played together.

Seniors! This is our last year of high school, with the same class, and two others, Mary O'Donnell and Vivian MacAdam. There has been much to remember in the past twelve years, and as we recall, we cannot help growing a little sad, to think that as Seniors, we must soon part. Yet in the heart of each one there will always be found memories that only our beloved school could bring.

THE CHENGWATANA

Paradise Lost

Adieu! Adieu! old brick schoolhouse,
It's hard to part from you.
We Seniors sigh when we think it o'er
And realize we're thru.

We've left our prints upon you,
On many a desk we've scratched,
But the mark of knowledge left on us
Will not be stained or patched.

We cannot all be Lincolns;
But that honor we almost pass,
When finally we reach the goal
And belong to the senior class.

Come hither, hither, little frosh,
Why do you weep and wail?
Is it from wishing you were thru
You have grown so thin and pale?

A few short years, a few short days,
Will give the morrow birth.
And then will be your turn to rise
And take your place on earth.

We hope the seniors always
Will let the freshmen be;
And not be tough, and not be rough,
But treat them tenderly.

The seniors are not able
To handle the world alone,
We need your help, oh, freshmen,
And the loyal spirit you've shown.

For many years we labored
To obtain this high degree;
Look forward to the time, oh, frosh,
When seniors you will be.

From teachers kind and schoolmates dear
The seniors now depart,
But time and distance never shall
Keep our thoughts apart.

"Once a senior, always one"—
Was not said in vain:
Though old: in memory we'll live
As seniors once again.

Students of this department have been convinced of the continuity of education, a series of accomplishments throughout life, rather than a program limited to a few years. Academic activities have been balanced with the professional activities of practice teaching in the graded schools, in the rural schools of the county, and finally in the Spring Primary school.

The Literary Club, which was organized this year, has been using "The Modern Drama" as a topic of discussion at its meetings.

The club also sponsored the Krazy Kat Karnival, which was held on October 9. The Karnival, in which the majority of the students participated, was one of the largest events—as well as one of the largest successes—of the year; and the proceeds added materially to the general fund.

THE Noweta Camp Fire Girls are the first group of this kind to be organized in Pine City. We have devoted most of our time to first aid work but as one knows "all work and no play makes a dull Camp Fire Girl," so we have taken the time to have two Council Fires, and a hike. We expect to have a number of hikes and out-door suppers before the term is over. We have also earned money for our camping trip. If we haven't been heard of much this year, it has been due to the fact that we have had so few members that we were unable to carry out all of the plans which we had made. We promise you, though, that we are going to try to do something which will make the people of Pine City long remember and appreciate the Noweta Camp Fire Girls.

A Maiden's Wish

One day as I was wandering
About a fragrant glen,
I met a courtly gentleman;
If I'm a judge of men.

He tipped his hat politely,
And asked where I was bound.
I courtesied just as daintily,
And said, "Oh, just around."

"May I request the pleasure
Of walking 'round with you?"
At this I blushed quite readily,
Which girls are apt to do.

We walked around enchantedly,
A brief hour or two,
I, as a graceful wood nymph,
And he, an elfin true.

Then coming out of my reverie,
Said I, in enthused tone,
"Oh, had you heard the latest news,
The arrival of Prince Fontone?"

"They say he's very handsome,
And doesn't carry airs.
They say he sits and concentrates
On people's deeds and cares.

"I wish that I could see him,
But Dad can't take me down,
And Mother cannot drive the car,
And Jerry stays in town."

With a grin of humorous source,
He looked down at me and laughed,
Making fun of my remorse,
Till my skin felt sore and chafed.

"My pretty little country miss,"
Said he, in softest tones,
"I can but grant your little whim,
The Prince Fontone, I am him."

THE CHENGWATANA

The Squall

AFTER a hard day's work on a grain farm of the prairie, I saddled my horse and started home. As it was quite early, I stopped at the river to bathe. When I had dressed I went home. I arrived just after sunset. I rode up to the porch and went in the house, where I found no one. I took my horse to the barn and looked for dad, but he was not around.

On my way back to the house I was startled by a flash in the western sky. I stopped to observe it. Again it flashed. This time I observed that it was lightning. Taking for granted that it was heat lightning, because of the hot day, I went up to the house.

Before going into the house I stopped to listen if there was any sound of the folks coming home, but instead I heard the rushing of wind through the woods about a half a mile away. A storm was approaching. I ran to the barn and closed the doors, then ran to the house. I took two sticks of wood along to start a fire in the fireplace.

The storm was an electrical one, and was evolving ear-splitting blasts at times. By now it was dark, the lightning lighted the road a long way but the folks were not in sight. I lit the kerosene lamp to comfort myself. As I stood by the window watching, drops of rain began to fall on the pane. In a minute it was pouring.

I was imagining the folks out in the storm, but where could they be? Why would they be out in the storm so late at night? Something must have happened.

I sat on the sofa in front of the fireplace. I crossed my legs, put my hand under my chin, and tried to reason out the circumstances. When I had been seated for about five minutes, the lamp-light began to die. I noticed that it was out of oil. The can had been emptied in starting the fire, so I had no light excepting the fire and the lightning.

By now the thunder had eased up a bit and the rain ceased for minutes at a time. After a few "far between" patches of silence, I was chilled to the bone by a long drawn-out howl. At the first sound I thought of a wolf. I took my "forty-five" from the shelf and went to the window, then another howl was heard, this time louder than before.

As I pushed the curtain aside I noticed that it was Scotty, our dog. I went to the door and let him in. He was wet and his lower half was muddy. Now, I thought, he must have come from where the folks were. Something must have happened so that he was left alone and had come home.

By now it was ten o'clock and there was nothing for me to do but go in search of the folks. I put on a slicker and a rain cap and went out. I went to the barn and took my horse and started out for town. I looked all over for them, but no trace was found. I went all the way to town and inquired at the doctor's and every other possible place; last, I went to the depot to see if they had bought a ticket. As I entered the depot, I noticed that the night agent was receiving a telegram. When he had finished receiving he turned to me and handed it to me before I had a chance to say anything. I read it in a hurry; put it in my pocket. Then I ran outside, mounted my horse and rode home as fast as Montevideo could go.

When I reached home, I tied up the horse and gave him some hay, then carried him dry. I felt so happy, and acted so foolish because of it, that Monte thought I was crazy and started to neigh. When I was through I gave him a little extra oats and went to the house. That night I slept for joy.

The next morning Montevideo took me to the ten o'clock train and I was off for the cities.

THE CHENGWATANA

At one o'clock I reached the cities. Dad met me at the station; he wore a wicked grin but would not explain, and only said, "Come along, son." In a few minutes we arrived at a little bungalow at the outskirts of town. As I entered the living room, my ears responded to a cheerful "squall" from the bedroom, of dad's first grandchild.

PEN-PICTURES OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

AS I study the great life of Abraham Lincoln four pictures stand out vividly in my mind.

The first picture is a boy of five, in a log cabin on a little pioneer farm in Kentucky, learning to read by the light of the pine logs on the hearth, with his mother as a teacher and the Bible for his schoolbook. The mother was noted because she could read and write and even "cipher", and the boy inherited from her a love of knowledge, good nature, and sympathy with all suffering. From the Bible he learned the strong sentences and great ideas that later made him a master when he came to address juries or audiences, and that enabled him to one day write that most perfect of all writings, "The Gettysburg Address". From his father the boy got a powerful body, and in that simple home were good health, fear of God, and kindness to neighbor.

He was taken to Indiana at seven, motherless at nine years but later with a step-mother, who taught him that the greatest thing in the world was to be a pure-hearted, honest, manly man.

The second picture shows us a young man of twenty-one, six feet four inches tall, cutting down trees to get logs for another cabin, for the family had decided to make one more emigration from the fever swamps of Indiana to the prairies of Illinois.

Lincoln was a very angular, awkward young fellow, and gained the reputation of being a rail-splitter. He was liked by everybody, and while clerking in a grocery store he earned the name of Honest Abe. He was very proud of this name, and put to himself the question, "Could he be a businessman or a lawyer or a politician, and keep honest and good?" He decided that he could, in any conditions, maintain good habits, be temperate, industrious, and tell the truth.

The next picture shows Lincoln as a popular young lawyer, forty-five years old, residing at Springfield. A leader was now wanted in the cause of human freedom. The future of the Union was at stake. If Lincoln kept still on the subject of slavery it meant he would be United States Senator from Illinois, but his conscience would not let him, so he made his famous speech in which he declared that this country could not be half slave and half free. That sentence cost him the senatorship, but won him the Presidency and fame.

In the last picture he is the President of the United States. It is war time, but the same simple, kindly, honest, little Abe of the Kentucky cabin is alive in the President, who is going to do his duty whatever happens. He directs his cabinet, counsels his generals, goes among the soldiers in the camps, listening to the troubles of all, but quickly saying that the Union must and shall be preserved.

His gladness is great when the war is over but his heart is sad for the conquered. Then the assassin fires, the great leader falls, and the nation and the world mourn a martyr President.

THE CHENGWATANA

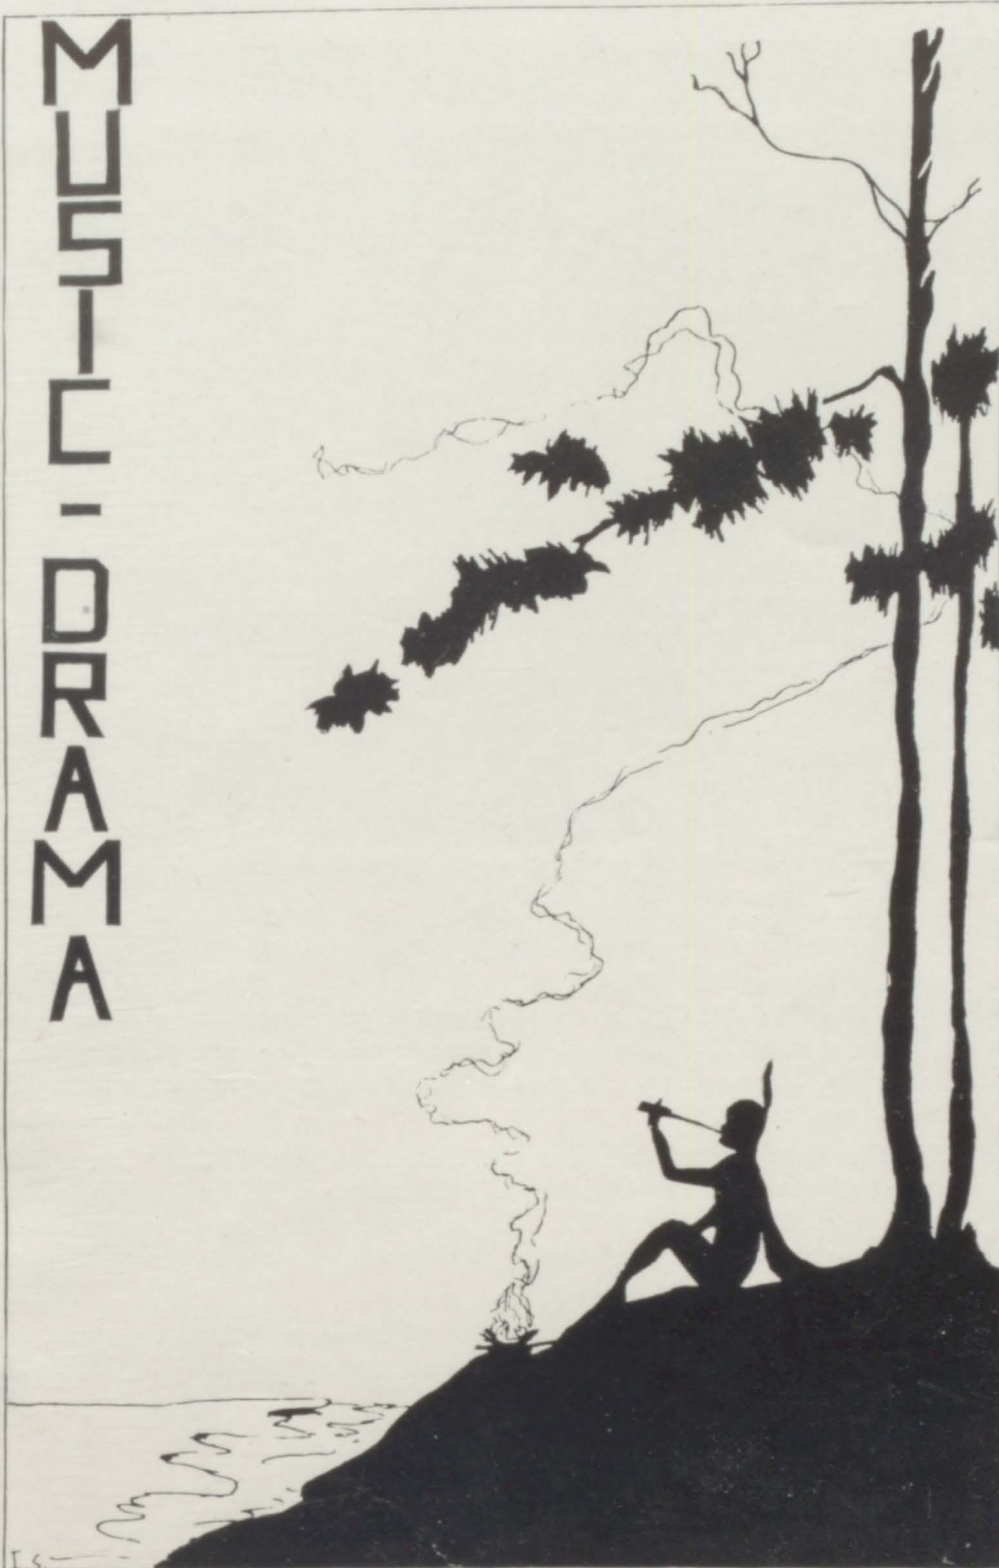

An Ode to the Teachers

As we think of the past school year,
Of all the fun we've had,
Thoughts come of all our teachers dear
Whose leaving makes us sad.
To Mr. Jones our thoughts we turn,
The booster of our school,
And Miss McCoy from whom we learn
Our English. She's a jewel
At writing tests. And then comes back
Our days in history:
How Miss Bruce could learn such a stack
Of dates 'sa mystery.
Then Mr. Schweiger's Basketball
Team who have brought back fame,
Glory and honor to us all
By their splendid game.
Miss Bates is leader of Dramatic,
Can't help but love her too;
Miss Bingenheimer's so emphatic
In whatever she may do:
And she's the Senior class advisor.
Then Mr. Johnson comes.
Concerning science we're much wiser;
Before, we were so dumb.
Miss Johnson's coach of our girls' team,
And teaches Freshies green.
Miss Geister high in our esteem
It's very easily seen
Why we all think so much of her.
And now again we hear
Loud pounding and a noisy whirr
That seems to be quite near.
Oh yes, that's Mr. Healy's class
Below in manual training.
How can they work in such a mass
Of hammering, sawing, planing!
Of all our teachers we are fond,
We hate to see them go.
Between us has grown the bond
Of friendship true. And so
For all that you have done for us
For help, advice and time,
Spent in working over us,
We write this little rhyme
To thank each one, to thank you all,
And say good-bye to you,
And so we part until next fall
With wishes kind and true.

THE Girls' Glee Club was organized last year, and under the very able direction of Miss Bruce, it has become one of the most popular of our school organizations. Its membership is limited to sixteen, selected by "try-outs".

The Glee Club entered the Minnesota State High School Music Contest last spring and won first place in Division "C", District 5, at the district meet, which was held in St. Paul on April 30. This gave them the right to represent our school and district at the State Meet, which was held in the Music Building at the University of Minnesota on May 14.

The girls have also furnished music for all of our plays and programs, including Commencement, and have produced two operettas, "Windmills of Holland", and "Lady Frances".

First Orchestra

THE orchestra of our high school was begun last year. It has furnished all the music for our assemblies, plays and some of our social functions. Under the careful direction of Miss Bruce, the orchestra has developed into a good musical organization. We enjoy their music very much.

THE Girls' Chorus is another new organization this year. The fifteen girls, who compose this chorus are chosen by "try-outs". They are directed by Miss Coe, of the sixth grade; and Miss O'Gorman is their accompanist. The chorus has done some very good work this year and sang at the program, given by the grade school, at the Family Theater.

Second Orchestra

 THE members of the second orchestra are Florence Kunz, first violin; Hawley Christopher, first violin; Winnie Martinson, second violin; George Lones, saxophone; Ralph Atkinson, cornet; Adele Carlson, piano; and Miss Stull, director. While second orchestras have been started before, this is the first time one has been kept up throughout the entire year. This is good training for the students in it, because when the members of the first orchestra graduate, they will be prepared to take their place. By the time they are seniors, they should be able to have as good a first orchestra as the present one.

CHORUS OF GIRLS.

The plot of "Windmills of Holland" is built around the lives and happenings at the mill of a rich Dutch farmer, Mynheer Hertogenbosch. He has two daughters, Wilhelmina and Hilda. Wilhelmina is discontented with life at the mill and the attentions of her lover, Hans. Hilda, too, has a petty quarrel with Franz, her lover.

Bob Yankee from America enters upon the scene trying to persuade Mynheer Hertogenbosch to install modern machinery in his mill. Mynheer has almost decided to buy it, but, when the workhands learn of this they strike and he is forced to change his plans.

Lady Frances

Five college girls return to their sorority house to make ready for the arrival of the rest of their sorority sisters. They are greatly dissatisfied with the maid, Frances, and are extremely interested in the rumor that a certain Lady Frances, masquerading under the name of Bridget O'Harrigan, is working as a maid in College City. In answer to their advertisement, Bridget O'Harrigan comes to apply for the position as cook; and the girls, thinking her Lady Frances, are overjoyed. They treat her as a guest rather than a servant and Bridget, who really is a servant, leaves the house. While the girls are wondering how they could have offended Lady Frances, their maid enters and announces that she is Lady Frances. Explanations follow and after a lecture on the folly of being snobbish, Lady Frances leaves.

Classmates

PINE City High School students presented "Classmates," a one-act play, and "Lady Frances," an operetta, at the Family Theater on December 8. The evening's entertainment was given as a benefit to the general school fund.

"Classmates" deals with college life. Barbara, a freshman, is being initiated into a sorority at the home of Professor Pratt. Gilbert Thomas, also a freshman, is being initiated into a fraternity and must pretend to be a burglar at the professor's house. Professor Pratt and his friend, Judge Hobart, interrupt the initiations and upon the discovery of Gilbert each of the girls claims him as her brother. The unexpected return of Mrs. Pratt and the curiosity of the amateur detective, George Ballantine, complicate matters, which are easily explained by Judge Hobart, a fraternity brother of Gilbert, and Elizabeth Thomas, Gilbert's "real" sister.

The Mummy and the Mumps

This three-act farce was given by the Juniors on March 17.

The first act reveals a number of complications at Fenella, a girls' school. Dulcie Dumbell (Ione Sobotka) has mysteriously lost her jewels. In the search for them, her love for William Laidlaw (Albert Gardner) is discovered and frowned upon by his aunt, Agatha Laidlaw (Byrd Roberts). Racker (Eddie Benda) is the man "with three men's work to do and who does none of it." Sir Hector Fish (Delmer Chase), who has recently landed in America with his famous mummy, is expected to teach languages at Fenella. He is detained because of having the mumps, and Brisky Biscow (Everett Johnson), a friend of Bill, impersonates Sir Hector in order to see more of Maud Mullen (Pearl Hagen). When the mummy arrives, Ann Hampton (Florence Wilcox) opens the box and finds—not the mummy—but Sir Hector, who has broken quarantine and arrived by express. Ann decides to hide Sir Hector until the imposter shall be punished for breaking quarantine. The rest find the empty mummy case and there is great excitement. The second act is a search for the thief of the jewels and the mummy, and Sir Hector, also. Phoebe Beebe (Grace Therrien) is a persistent reporter. In the third act Sheriff Perkins (Mr. Johnson) is foiled in his attempt to arrest Sir Hector and the discovery is made that Dulcie, walking in her sleep, has disposed of her jewels.

THE CHENGWATANA

Adam and Eva

ADAM and Eva is a bright and amusing play on the American businessman, who has a genius for making money, but not a trace of talent for managing his own family. In comes the father's young business manager, Adam, who tells his employer how he would love a family and a home. The exasperated father suggests that they change places and puts him in command of the household, while he, himself, goes to his rubber plantations on the upper Amazon. As a desperate remedy, Adam deludes the family into thinking that father's big rubber business is ruined. In many humorous manners they meet the emergency. Of course, it does them all good and brings out the best in them.

Declamation and Oratory

THIRTEEN girls and five boys entered the declamatory and oratorical work this year. After a great many hours of strenuous work on the part of all the contestants and their coaches, Miss Bates and Miss Geister, the first elimination contest was held and three representatives from each of the three groups—oratory, dramatic and humorous—were chosen.

The annual contest for final elimination was held in the Assembly on Feb. 2.

This is the first year that the Sub-District Declamatory Contest has been held in Pine City. On March 2, the four high schools belonging to this Sub-District, Lindstrom-Center City, North Branch, Rush City and Pine City, held their contest at the Family Theater. North Branch won first place in all three groups; while Wesley and Mildred were placed second, in oratory and humorous, respectively.

Basket-ball

EVERYTHING considered, the boys' basketball squad made a very creditable showing during the past season, winning 13 of their 22 games. A great deal of this success is due to Coach Schwieger. Royal Hoefler was elected captain of the 1926-27 squad.

The boys won their opening game of the season when they defeated Willow River in a fast game. Not until the last quarter did Pine break away from their opponents with an eight-point lead.

In the second game of the season Pine nosed out Braham on the latter's floor, 19 to 18. Evenly matched teams and one over-time period made it one of the most exciting games of the year.

The Grantsburg team was not as strong as had been expected, and so proved an easy victory for the local boys, who forged steadily ahead throughout the game, which ended in a score of 18 to 7.

The return game of Willow River on the local floor was marked by good playing by both teams. At the half, Willow River led with a score of 8 to 6. Our boys took the lead in the third quarter, which ended 12 to 10. With but a short time to play, the score was tied at 15 points but Pine City made another field goal and the game was theirs.

The game with Lindstrom-Center City was a much better game than the score would indicate. Although the score was very one-sided, 18 to 5, the Lindstrom boys played a good game and kept the Green and Gray working hard.

In a hard fought game on the Chi-Hi floor, the Pine City team emerged victorious to the tune of 12 to 10.

Although other high schools had been unable to defeat the Green and Gray so far this season, the Alumni took them into camp on December 29. The high school had the long end of the score for three quarters of the game, but during the last quarter the former stars piled up 12 points, making the final score 22 to 17.

Pine added the seventh victory to their record when they defeated the Sandstone team by a score of 22-8. Each team was short one of its best men, but the game was one of the best seen this year despite the one-sided score. James Smith of Sandstone was able to play but one quarter, owing to his physical condition; and Wes Flaten of Pine City played a like time for a similar reason.

Still undefeated, the Green and Gray took another scalp when they held Braham to a 14-25 score on January 21. The game was a fast one, the visitors putting up a good scrap.

The game with Stillwater on the local floor was the fastest game seen here this season. Neither team had been defeated and both maintained a neck-breaking speed until the final whistle, when the Green and Gray, crippled but happy, were on the long end of the 16-24 score.

Forest Lake on the Pine City floor, proved the most exciting game of the season. The boys held the lead through the first three quarters but during the last quarter, when some of our crippled veterans appeared on the floor, Pine made nine scores and held the visitors to a tie at the final whistle. During the first over-time period neither team scored. The second ended in another tie and during the third Pine made a field goal and the visitors made a free throw, making the final score 23-22.

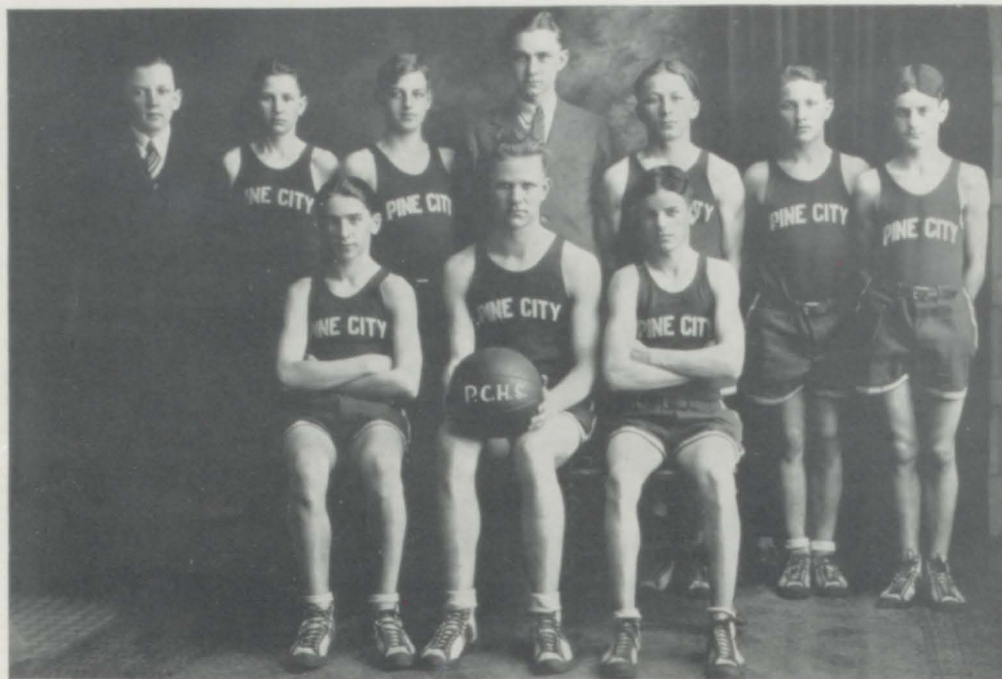

Both of the games with Rush City proved easy victories for Pine City.

Pine City lost its first game of the season to Forest Lake on the latter's floor. Hard fought, the battle was a nip and tuck affair until the very end, when Forest Lake spurted ahead with a lead of 4 points.

In probably the best game played here this season, Duluth Cathedral handed Pine the second defeat of the year. The Green and Gray also lost a game to Stillwater and another to Sandstone, as well as their initial tournament game.

Girls' Basket-ball

ANOTHER basketball season has passed, and our basketball girls have made a record to be admired. In a schedule consisting of nine games, the Pine City girls emerged with five victories, one tie game and three defeats. Under the careful coaching of Miss Johnson, the girls developed into a good team of basketeers, whose sportsmanship and clean play marked every game.

Following a few weeks of earnest practicing, the team met the Braham six, November 24, on the opponent's floor. This marked the first win for the girls, defeating their opponents by a score of 16 to 9. The game was somewhat slow during the first half.

On December 10, the girls "chalked up" another victory by defeating the Chi-Hi girls 18 to 15 in a game, which was not a win until the end. The girls played good ball, finally coming through victorious, after series of tied scores throughout the game.

The following week December 17, Chi-Hi went down to their second defeat at the hands of the Pine City girls.

During the Christmas vacation the local girls scheduled a game with the Alumnae, December 29. Though defeated by a score 24 to 8, the Alumnae put up a brave fight.

Braham and Pine City played a tie game, 25 to 25, on the home floor January 14. This game proved to the local girls that steady practice was necessary to make a successful team.

The next game with the Stillwater girls on January 21 proved the fastest and best game played on the home floor. Although the Stillwater cagers were the stiffest opponents of the season, the girls came within close range of the Stillwater score by a series of long shots, the final score being 19 to 15.

At the hands of Forest Lake on January 24, Pine City met their second defeat by a score of 20 to 17, due to poor team work. Only in the last few minutes of play did they succeed in running the score to a close margin of the Lakers.

On February 8, however, the tide turned, when the Pine girls took Forest Lake down to a glorious defeat by a 13 to 12 score. It was no one's game till the last minutes of play, when the speedy forwards of the Pine City team sunk basket on basket.

The last game was the greatest defeat the local girls received, when they went down the second time to the Stillwater six by a 31 to 20 score. The first half the girls played real ball, keeping the opponents from securing a lead.

At a meeting held on March 7, Pearl Hagen was chosen captain for 1928.

THE CHENGWATANA

Track

THE 1926 Track Teams were some of the best that have ever represented Pine City High School. Harold Truesdell was captain of the boys' team and Melba Wiley, captain of the girls.

We were represented in the Hamline Relays, which were held on May 8. It was the first track meet of the season, in which the boys had taken part. They made a good showing, although they did not bring home any firsts.

The Pine City boys' and girls' teams had little difficulty in bringing home all the honors from the County Track and Field Meet held at Sandstone, May 15. We placed first in every event except the shot put, in which Pine placed second. The county grade school meet was also included in this and our grade teams did their share to make the day a success.

For the first time in the history of the Little Eight, Pine City triumphed in every branch of competition, taking first in baseball, boys' track and girls' track; and consequently winning the Grand All Events trophy, in addition to the other three cups. Pine City placed in every event in the boys' meet, making 6 firsts, 8 seconds and 1 third—a total of 55 points. North Branch was second with a total of 25 points. A new event, the 440-yard dash, was added this year, taking the place of the 50-yard dash. Pine City placed second in this, its entrant finishing a few inches behind Mora's entry.

The girls also did their share to make the meet a winning one, although they had much closer competition. When the points were totaled, it was found that the Pine girls had amassed 23 points, while North Branch had 21.

Pine finished the season by placing second in the Hutchinson High School Invitation Meet. Pine City pressed Arlington, the winners, all through the meet: the final score being Arlington 34½, Pine City 26. Thirteen high schools were represented in this meet.

Wes Flaten and Florence Wilcox were elected 1927 captains.

Tennis

Last year we introduced a tennis tournament, which was "ushered in" with great interest. Ione Sobotka, Vivian Buchan, Helen Carlson and Clara Korb formed the girls' tournament while the boys included Royal Hoefler, Donald Spickler, Edward Woehrle, Leonard Melsha, Edwin Borchers, Ralph Silesky, Lynn Buirge, Joseph Reinhardt, Earl Jordan and Joseph Engel. The winners were Helen Carlson and Royal Hoefler.

HAROLD, THE INVINCIBLE

After four years of careful training and persistent practice Harold Truesdell, star weight man of our school, succeeded in breaking the record in the discus throw at the Carleton Invitation Meet, May 15, 1926, hurling the discus 123 feet 5 inches. This sets a new record in the event for high school athletes, the former mark being 123 feet 1½ inches. Harold added 3 feet 3 inches to his record at Cambridge in the "Little Eight" meet but the mark was unofficial.

Baseball

PINE City started their baseball season by defeating Grantsburg by a score of 21 to 13, May 5, on the home diamond. During the first part of the game Grantsburg was in the lead, but in the end Captain Hoeffler's pitching proved too much for the Grantsburg nine.

The boys played Sandstone High at Sandstone on May 12. Hoeffler's side-arm delivery was too much for the Sandstone team, holding them to no hits or runs for three innings. In the fourth, however, Sandstone garnered three hits resulting in three runs. Hoeffler tightened up and held them down for the remaining innings. Engel should have had a home run to his credit but for the ground rule, which made a ball, hit into the brush, a two-bagger. The score was 7 to 3 in favor of Pine.

Pine City defeated Hinckley High at Hinckley on May 17. Pine started strong, putting across eleven runs the first three innings. In the third, Therrien placed a two-sacker to the right field fence and Spickler added two more, both deep into center field. The game was called after the seventh inning by agreement of the coaches. The winning of this game permitted Pine City to play North Branch for the Little Eight Championship at Cambridge.

The best baseball game of the season was the one played with North Branch at Cambridge for the Little Eight Championship on May 22, in which Pine defeated North Branch by a score of 6 to 5. Pine City scored first, but the game was a see-saw affair until the last half of the final inning.

The game with Elk River was the only game in which Pine City was defeated. It was played at Elk River after the Little Eight game on May 28. The teams were well matched, the score being 2 to 1, in favor of Elk River, although they collected only 3 hits to our 6.

Royal Hoeffler was elected Captain for the 1927 season.

NOVEMBER

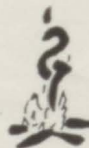

- 4-5—The faculty, realizing that we need a holiday, go to M. E. A.
9—Alas! Some of us didn't have the mumps.
12—Senior party. What happened to all the nabiscoes?
19—Played basketball with Willow River. Who won? We did.
24—Boys' and girls' teams win basketball games at Braham. The rest of us go home.
25—Thanksgiving vacation. JOY!

DECEMBER

- 3—Basketball games with Willow River and Grantsburg. We win.
6—Some girls' compacts mysteriously appear in some boys' coat pockets.
8—"Classmates" and "Lady Frances" given at the Family Theater. A Senior boy takes home one of our new Senior girls.
10—Lindstrom teams play here. Scores: Boys 18-5. Girls 18-15.
12—Some of our Seniors return from Chemistry the worse for wear. They have discovered that magnesium and sodium do not make a good combination.
17—Basketball boys and girls win from Chi-Hi on their own floor.
18—Vacation. Nothing to do but sit around and wait for Santa Claus.
19—Alumni games. A spread at the school afterwards.

JANUARY

- 3—Back at the old grind. No one missing.
7—Sandstone here. Score: 22-8. Sophomore girls win from Freshies.
13—Monthly tests get worse and worse. "They" expect us to know EVERYTHING.
14—Boys won from Braham. Girls game with Braham a tie.
21—Stillwater boys and girls and Ogilvie boys play here. First girls' declamatory elimination contest.
24—Boys' oratory elimination contest.
25—Girls' elimination contest—humorous. "Nearly died laffin'". Junior, describing silverware in Home Ec, "The long flowing lines of sterling silver are as graceful as a bride's veil". Well, Mildred ought to know. Senior English learns that Milton couldn't marry a third time because he died.
28—Rush City and Hinckley in basketball. There. Beat Rush! Hurrah! Mr. Jones demonstrates the newest thing in hair-cuts.

THE CHENGWATANA

Calendar--Continued

FEBRUARY

- 2—Final elimination oratory and declamatory contests.
- 4—Rush City and Hinckley played basketball here. Oh, of course, we won.
- 8—Forest Lake boys and girls come up to play basketball. SOME GAMES!
- 10—Miss Bingenheimer hands in her annual handkerchief bill to the basketball squad.
- 11—Boys lose to Duluth Cathedral. Junior girls champions.
WinEllen McEachern wins the Lincoln Medal.
- 14—Beecher Barnum is able to recite in every class today.
- 16—Everyone wears their best clothes to school. "Picture-taking" day for the Annual.
- 18—Basketball games with Stillwater and Ogilvie, there. The girls who were at Stillwater, almost didn't get home.
- 22—The last basketball game of the season at Sandstone. Some of the freshmen stayed at home today, thinking it a holiday.
- 23—Grades give a program at the theater.
- 25—Dorothy Christopher isn't tardy.
Seniors assert their superiority by having a class meeting all afternoon.

MARCH

- 1—Royal Hoefler and Edward Benda add several handkerchiefs to their already large collections.
- 2—Sub-District Declamatory Contest. Wes and Mil win seconds. North Branch "cops" all the firsts.
- 3-4-5—Basketball tournament.
- 8—A mouse tries to acquire a little knowledge by visiting the assembly.
- 9—Mr. Johnson: "I don't think I will have the rest of the class make a fire extinguisher. I'm afraid we'd all have to come to school in barrels."
- 12—Mothers of the basketball teams entertain. When we saw the food we were glad we weren't in training.
- 15—Edwin's idea of evolution is that man sprang from a monkey but that women didn't spring far enough.
- 16—Faculty supply of red ink completely exhausted.
- 17—Juniors give The Mummy and The Mumps. "What happened to Dooley?"
- 22—Miss Bruce forgot to spring a test in Social Science.
- 26—Ben Cummings isn't asked to put his gum into the waste paper basket—he's absent.

APRIL

- 1—The faculty are obliged to Beecher for the notes.
- 4—Senior honors announced.
- 5—Tryouts for Senior Play, Adam and Eva. No Shorthand II class today.
Seniors in tears.
