Guess Who?

Hi. Yes it's me. Got a letter from Don and he said something about you wanted me to write. Well I sure was suprised to hear that. I'm glad to see that you remember me! After all its been over a year since I came in the army. And then I can't remember the last time I gave you a ride home. Tell me about all the boy friends you have had since then? Are your folks still watching over you like a hawk or are they starting to give up?

Remember how you used to skip school and I and Don would pick you up and we would go to Braham or someplace. But then you were always with Don. Thats one reason why I never wrote. I have thought of you ounce in awhile ~~off~~ off and on that is. Sure hope you can put up with this scribbling and spelling.

Well I'm in Germany now you know so all I can do is dream about all the girls back home going to wast. HA HA! I'm going to try and make it up to them when I get home. Would you consider having a date with me about a year from now. By then you mit be married or something like that. Right?

Do you see Don very often. I understand he is still drinking just as much or maybe more.

Have you been going to the topic dancing very often. That's something else I'm going to have to learn when I get home. I'm not latching about drinking, or necking. I've got those two down pat. All though I'm going to need some practice on that necking when I get home so keep it in mind will you?

Now I'm not trying to get fresh. But blame it on the letter will you and not me.

Here is something I'm going to be very serious about. I would like a picture of you. Cause as I say its been a year and its kind of hard to remember what you look like. But what I do remember "I like it." and if I don't get it I don't think I can write again. As I can't write to someone I can't remember. Well Donna guess I'll quite as think I have said to much all ready. Hope I don't make you blush or anything
