Poultry Show Next Week

Feathered Aristocracy of Pine and Chisago Counties at the Armory Feb. 4, 5 and 6

The Pine County Poultry show which will be held at the armory at Pine City, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 4, 5 and 6, promises to be one of the largest and best shows ever held in Pine county and should enlist the interest of every person who raises or Cash sweepstakes specials are offered for the champion Leghorn, Wyandotte, Plymouth Rock, Orpington and Rhode Island, all varieties of game breeds competing. Special ribbons will be awarded champion cock, hen, cockerel and pullet of show, all classes competing, as well as a ribbon for grand champion of show, regardless of sex.

On Wednesday, a culling demonstration will be put on by one of the state poultry experts as well as a poultry talk each day by County Agent Berlin. These demonstrations will be of practical interest to everyone who keeps laying hens, and are a fortunate addition to any poultry exhibit, being of value not only to breeders of fancy poultry, but to anyone producing poultry for market.

Premium lists and entry blanks will be furnished on application to Secretary J. M. Beechler, Pine City. On Wednesday noon an informal get-together dinner will be planned at the Agnes hotel to which all poultry raisers are invited. Reservations will be made at 50 cents per plate. Entries close January 31st. A large exhibit and a good variety of birds are expected from Chisago county, as well as a number of visitors from there.

Among the many educational features of the show, none will probably be of more general interest and value than the talks by W. E. Stanchfield, the government poultry expert, who will lecture in the armory at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening and 10 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on general poultry topics. On Thursday afternoon, also, the association hopes to have "Uncle Norman" Chapman, the well known poultry expert from the University farm at St. Anthony here and, if he comes, his many old friends and any new ones will enjoy and profit from his visit.

Collect Your Interest Have you collected the interest due on your Liberty bond? Cutting coupons is pretty soft, especially when it means reversing the usual process and getting money back from the government instead of paying money to the government. Liberty bond coupons are collectible as follows:

First loan, 15th of June and December; second loan, 15th of May and November; third loan, 15th of March and September; fourth loan, 15th of April and October. The man who has bought regularly of each Liberty loan will from now on have an interest income at least eight times a year.

Clverton Strictly American The Askov American gives a full three-column article on why the county printing should be done by them, including a full description of their wonderful print shop. It makes us feel pretty small and insignificant but then we haven't a community of foreign-born suckers to stand for us like they have. We are Americans by reason of birth and they by choice, but we wish to say right here we don't believe the "American" has greater per centage of the settlers on their list than we have right here in Clverton on our list. Clverton Union Enterprise.

New Bridge Near Markville In the Markville items mention in order of being done on the bridge across the St. Croix river near that town. This is of more than passing importance as this will be of great convenience to everyone in this section. The terms of Arns, Minn. and Wines, Wis. are put out in it. The settlers on both sides are donating the work and part of the material. We believe the estimate of Markville is wise in putting the job just through. Clverton Union Enterprise.

"SYMPATHY" Sincerely expressed by Sandstone Physician Returns Dr. and Mrs. B. B. Bohling and Mrs. Berr arrived here Sunday noon from Chicago and will again make their home here. The doctor spent about three months of his service with the army in France and is well pleased with his experience with the U. S. forces. He looks to be in good condition, more to include anything. All are glad to welcome them home. Sandstone Courier.

Bank Clerks Demand Raise. Berlin, Jan. 29.—The clerical force of the Middle German Credit bank has submitted an ultimatum to the directors demanding a new list of 2,000 marks for married employees and 1,000 marks for unmarried employees who have been in the service of the bank since the beginning of the war. The clerks also ask an increase in wages amounting to 100 per cent over the wages paid before the war and the retention of married substitutes who were engaged during the progress of the war.

AIMED AT BOLSHEVSKI

House Receives Bill to Regulate Immigration.

Committee Report Says Measure Will Protect Labor From Unfair Competition.

Washington, Jan. 29.—America as a melting pot has proved to a great extent a delusion and a snare," declared the House immigration committee in its report on the bill to prevent general immigration for four years after the signing of the peace treaty.

The report said that the legislation not only would protect American workingmen from unfair competition during the period of international adjustment, but would prevent the Bolsheviki from coming to America to spread their influence.

"If the Bolsheviki in Russia are suppressed," said the report, "they will be the ones to come here to join their brothers, both foreign and native, in hanting the red flag and teaching death to individuals and destruction of property."

"It is impossible to keep out revolutionists and Bolsheviki without keeping out practically everybody," the report said. "The fact that we have thousands of them in our midst."

In presenting the report, Chairman Barnett announced that he would offer a resolution asking for a vote to give the legislation right of way in the house.

YANKEES CANNOT BUY GUNS

Five German Cannon Worth $150,000 Each Are Sent to Coblenz.

TAKES STEPS TO REBUILD TRADE

Great Britain Stops Importation of Long List of Goods on March 1.

ACTION IS TEMPORARY

Restrictions are Not of Permanent Nature and are Intended to Bring British Manufacturers to State of Stability.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The British government for the protection of its industries during the period of reconstruction, has promulgated drastic import regulations covering a wide range of commodities and effective March 1.

The restricted list was made public here by the War Trade board in a document issued by the British government.

Commodities not on the list may be imported without special British import licenses until July 1, the announcement said, and restrictions on the importation of dyes, molasses and other articles of like nature will be removed Feb. 24. Raw hides of all kinds also will be admitted.

Commodities which may not be imported into Great Britain after March 1 without special licenses range all the way from casanats to ironing and include machine tools and machinery for working in both metal and wood, stoves, manufactures of aluminum and wearing apparel not water-proofed, baskets and basket ware, metal baths, carriages, cement, fatty acids, fire extinguishers, guns, carbines and rifles, hats and bonnets, lawn mowers, linen yarns and manufactures thereof, mats, matting, coats, oilcloth, perfume, and toilet preparations, photographic apparatus, pictures, prints, engravings and photographs, plated and gilt wares, revolvers and pistols, salt, sewing machines, manufactures of china and terra cotta, spectacles and eyeglasses not containing gold, time-recording instruments of all kinds, and movements and parts thereof, of watches and watches, weighing machines, scales and balances of all descriptions and vacuum cleaners.

On the list prohibited until July 1 are works of art, apples, bananas, casings and sausage skins, cocoa, coffee, fruit from all sources, canned goods or preserved, hides wet and dry, vegetables, tory, mangle, onions, plimets, raw sugar, coffee and tobacco, unmanufactured and manufactured, including cigars and cigarettes.

The War Trade board's announcement says the restrictions were not intended as a permanent nature and that they were necessary in order that Great Britain might "bring her own manufactures to a state of stability approaching that of pre-war days."

COAL SCARCE IN GERMANY

Reserve Stocks Are Exhausted and Many Factories Close.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—The coal shortage throughout Germany is so threatening that for the moment all other questions are overlooked. The coal reserves are already closed and it will be necessary to shut down many of the most important industries if the situation does not improve within a fortnight. The reserves are virtually exhausted.

MINES OUTLINES PLANS

Intends to Spend $300,000,000 on Railways This Year.

Individual Companies Will Be Given Chance to Pass on All Improvements.

Washington, Jan. 29.—About $300,000,000 will be spent by railroads this year for extensions and improvements and $200,000,000 for new cars and locomotives, according to preliminary plans of the Railroad administration announced by Director General Hines.

Stock market capital expenditures will be authorized, but individual companies will be authorized to pass on all improvements that the better program cannot be carried out before the end of the year.

Director General Hines has approved expenditures for extensions and improvements amounting to $300,000,000 subject to the orders for new cars and locomotives. These orders are in the amount of $200,000,000 of equipment ordered last year.

Improvements ordered last year were completed last year, but were deferred in the light of more capital and will be completed this year. In 1918 $200,000,000 was spent for additions and betterment and $20,000,000 for equipment.

WHERE THE WORLD PEACE TREATY WILL BE SIGNED

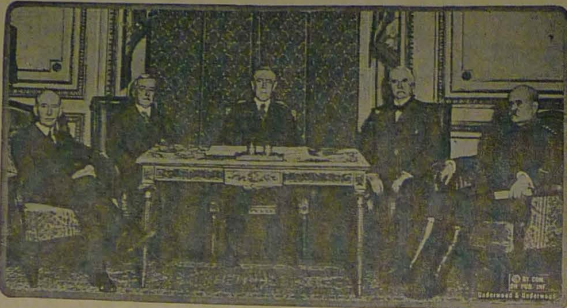

In this beautiful palace of Versailles, just outside of Paris, the treaty that is expected to bring peace to all the world will be signed.

VERSAILLES PALACE FROM THE ORANGERY

View of the palace of Versailles, taken from the orangery. This is where the formal sessions of the peace congress will be held and the treaty signed.

AMERICA'S DELEGATES TO THE PEACE CONGRESS

WHERE THE AMERICAN DELEGATES ARE RESIDING

The handsome Hotel Crillon on the Place de la Concorde, Paris, where the American delegates to the peace congress are housed.

HENRY WHITE

Of the American delegation to the peace congress, Henry White is the most familiar with diplomacy, having been long connected with the American embassy in London and afterward ambassador to Italy and France.

RECEPTION ROOM OF LOUIS PHILIPPE

This beautiful reception room of Louis Philippe is in the Grand Trianon, which is a part of the palace of Versailles. It is used as a reception room by the delegates to the peace conference.

ARTHUR J. BALFOUR

Arthur J. Balfour, British minister of foreign affairs, is one of the leading members of the peace delegation to his country.

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU

Georges Clemenceau, premier of the French republic, is the president of the peace congress, having been chosen for that place not only in compliment to France but also in recognition of his great ability. Long known as the "tiger," Mr. Clemenceau has always been a sturdy fighter for democracy.

JULES CAMBON

Jules Cambon is considered an especially valuable member of the French peace delegation, as he has been French ambassador to both America and Germany. His appointment was especially pleasing to the American delegation.

HALL OF MIRRORS, VERSAILLES

The magnificence of the palace of Versailles, where the peace treaty will be signed, may be judged from this view of the Hall of Mirrors.

PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON

President Woodrow Wilson is head of the American delegation to the peace conference.

PRINCE GEORGE LVOFF

Prince George Lvoff is chairman of the delegation that represents Russia in the conferences of the peace delegates.

SECRETARY LANSING

Next to the president in the American peace delegation comes Secretary of State Robert Lansing.

DAVID LI OYN GEORGE

At the head of Great Britain's peace delegation is David Lloyd George, the British premier.

CONFERENCE WILL BE LONG

Unreasonable to Expect That Matters of So Much Importance Can Be Quickly Settled.

The London Times in an editorial on the peace conference says the magnitude, number and character of the questions to be determined make a hasty solution impracticable.

Next to the president in the American peace delegation comes Secretary of State Robert Lansing. "It will be a long time before the enemy for acceptance. Germany may be expected to protest and haggle over them, as she did with those of the armistice, but it will not be to her interest to waste much time in a vain show of knowledge in the inevitable. "Some Germany has agreed to and the preliminary, the allies will have to consider and discuss the definite peace, and this again will have to be accepted and ratified by the people. As they meet, it is plain, must elapse before all these steps can be taken and a definite plan finally concluded.

DETERMINATION TO LESSEN THE PROBABILITIES OF WAR

Delegates Are Firm in Their Resolution to Make Armed Conflicts in the Future Difficult.

American international lawyers are convinced that the great battle of wit at the peace conference will come in the discussion of whatever machinery is proposed to lessen the probability of war. Not all of them believe that the results of the peace congress will make war impossible, but they are sanguine that it will make armed conflicts more difficult. Their principal concern is that the structure of the agreement shall not be framed, like the Hague conventions, in qualifying phrases—"so long as," "so far as," "in agreement with peace principles." It was reported some time ago that the most that was hoped for before Mr. Wilson's return to the United States is a general agreement on broad principles. There is no reason now to change that forecast.

variations which have begun to find a common ground upon which all can unite for such a purpose. Upon the further details the United States is said to be unconcerned rather than to expect a fulfillment of covenants and that details of the work shall be in agreement with peace principles. It was reported some time ago that the most that was hoped for before Mr. Wilson's return to the United States is a general agreement on broad principles. There is no reason now to change that forecast.

MUST PROVIDE FOOD

Only Devoting an Farmers of This Continent.

Western Canada Will Proceed to Meet the Needs of the Old World—The Earth is a Machine Which Will Almost Instantly Service to Every Application.—Emerson.

Working with one of the common sense applied to make a survey of the food situation in the hinterland sections of Europe the writer was told that the production and shipment of food was far greater than anybody had expected. With the investigations which at that time had merely started, it would had been thought to have that had only been started. Herds of five which were completely wiped out. Fields that had been growing potatoes, peas, roots and vegetables were trampled and trampled by hordes and shells, many of them being unaccounted for and dangerous. That this had not been done over and played out in the way of civilization can be seen in the fact that even where that is done the work of leveling and getting under cultivation will take a long time.

Much more development open the farmers on this side of the Atlantic than was at first supposed. Herds of live stock will have to be reorganized, and this will take years; the production of the people in the meantime is the task the farmers here will be asked to undertake. Producing countries will be taxed to their utmost to meet this demand; all that can be provided will be needed. This need will continue for some time, and during this period prices will be high. The opinion of those who have given the question most careful thought and study is that food security will be greater than ever before. The Allies will have to feed Germany, Austria, Turkey and Russia and this in addition to the requirements of European armies for increased supplies now that there is no submarine menace.

To the Canadian and American farmer this means a demand for his grain fully as great as at any time in the past. Wheat will be needed more than ever. The slogan "don't stop saving food" is an necessary today as ever. The purpose of this article is to direct attention to the fact that hundreds of thousands of acres of land in Western Canada are well equipped, and this land is capable of producing enough to supply all needs. On its rich grasses are easily raised—and cheaply too—the cattle that will be sought; in its soil lies the nutrient that makes easy the production of the grain that will be needed, and in both the farmer will be assured of a good profit on his investment. The land can be purchased at low prices, on easy terms and with the abundance of returns that it will give. It does not mean a matter of speculation. The facts as set out are known, and certainly are guaranteed.

These facts, the low cost of the land, its great productivity, combined with the admirable marketing and transport facilities at the disposal of the farmer make farming in Western Canada an attractive proposition.—Advertisement.

A Time-Saver. "Misses—I want a maid who will be faithful and not a time-waster. Can you promise that?" "Bright—indeed I can. I'm that scrupulous, ma'am, about wastin' time that I make one job of prayin' and scrubbin'—Life.

An Attack of Influenza Often Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of influenza which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of this disease are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition. Almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected. As these things gradually come on, it is dangerous kidney trouble. Druggists sell a little bottle of Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root which so many people say has cured their troubles. It is a natural remedy and strengthens the kidneys and cleanses the system. It is a natural remedy and strengthens the kidneys and cleanses the system. You Never Can Tell. "You can't believe everything you see in a newspaper, can you?" suggested the chap who never advanced with the rest of civilization. "No," answered the politician. "I pitched a fellow once because he had a suspicious-looking bottle wrapped up in a daily paper, and it proved to be a bottle of horse liniment."

People who are at all interested in state affairs have been more or less interested in the contest of ex-State Senator George H. Sullivan of Stillwater for the seat in the state senate for Washington county for which W. W. Wilcox holds the election certificate. To the right of the seat is supposed to involve the right of a candidate to apply his fingers at the election laws and still be declared legally elected if he can, by hook or by crook, get votes enough to have a majority on the face of the returns. The matter, as we understand it, is of great importance to the voters of the state and one on which they have a right to know the fullest details and the position of every member of the senate. The senate elections committee has been discussing the matter behind closed doors and we don't believe that policy will meet with very general approval from the people. The law should be upheld, regardless of who is hit.

Of course the Askov paper turns, in a fit alarm and issued an attack in a fire alarm and named an attack on the editor of this paper when we exposed the county printing deal. The trick is an old one—possibly learned by the editor of the Askov paper at Chicago. But the people of Pine City are not so much interested in the editor of The Pine Poker as they are in what is being done with county funds and why taxes continue to get higher every year.

Catholic Church Notes
On Sunday, services will be held in Immaculate Conception church here, at 9 a. m. and in St. Joseph's church at Hannan at 11 o'clock. Father Lee expects to leave next Monday for West Baden, Ind., where he will spend a month in rest and recuperating his health, a priest from the Oblate Fathers at Duluth taking up the work here during his absence.

Methodist Church Notes
Dr. Jordan of Minneapolis preached in the church last Sunday morning but the pulpit was vacant in the evening owing to the illness of the pastor, and the congregation worshipped at the Presbyterian church at that time. Rev. Young hopes to be able to fill the pulpit at the usual services next Sunday, however.

The Qlen Esthers will meet with Miss Florence Gardner at her home at 4 p. m. next Monday.
The ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. Chas. Beechel yesterday afternoon, being entertained by the North Star division. Two weeks later they will meet at Mrs. Long's.

Presbyterian Church Notes
There were unusually large congregations at both services, last Sunday—a matter of congratulation to everyone. We were specially pleased to greet the friend of the M. E. congregation who worshipped with us in the evening, owing to the illness of Rev. Young. It would be worth while for the church and the community if there were congregations of that size at every service.

The trustees of the church met Tuesday evening, to find a very satisfactory condition of the church affairs.

At the morning service on Sunday next, the pastor will preach on the subject, "The Path of Peace," and in the evening at 7:30 a five-verse message will be given. All are most welcome at these services. We delight to see the young people in attendance.

Handy school at 9:15 a. m. and C. E. will meet at 6:45 p. m. with Mrs. Mable Johnson as leader. It is hoped there will be a large attendance of young people.
The bible class will meet on Friday morning of the week at the house.

"I'm Not Constipated Now"

For the man at the desk Constipation is a common ailment. His habits of life are such that his bowels become sluggish and if neglected the result is serious.

Read the experience of J. H. Grosch of La Crosse, Wis. "For the past two years I have had stomach trouble and was badly constipated. My business was such that I was without physical exercise all day long. I tried many remedies, and recently tried DR. MILES' LAXATIVE TABLETS. I found them to be exactly what I needed. I never used any medicine that acted so naturally and without any griping or cramping."

Any man, woman or child suffering from constipation and its attendant ills, who will try DR. MILES' LAXATIVE TABLETS will find in them a safe and effective medicine. They are pleasant to take—taste like candy—no trouble to get children to take them—can be chewed. Costs only a few cents a box at any drug store.

The Assessor's To Blame, Slam 'em!

There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction about the high taxes. True, the taxes are high. Who is to blame? Why, the assessor, of course. We don't examine his work to see what he has done. We don't know what the board of review has done, also the county board—we will just cuss the assessor and let it go at that. Now that is about as far as it goes with the average tax payer. Instead of cussing the assessor find out first whether he deserves it and if he does, go to it if it is any satisfaction. An assessor is required to make an assessment according to law or a re-assessment is ordered by the state tax commission. All property must be valued at its full and true value and assessed at a certain percentage. It is the duty of the assessor to determine the full and true value to the best of his judgment. It is also the duty of the assessor to make an equitable valuation as possible, however, the law requires the fact that no matter how competent or conscientious an assessor may be, he is not infallible and like other men his judgment may therefore be faulty. The law has provided the board of review to adjust inequalities. But with the work of the assessor, also the board of review it can never be made entirely satisfactory between individuals. Uniformity and perfect equality of taxation in all the aspects in which the human mind can view it is a baseless dream. This is the view of the assessor. It was my aim to be just and fair to all alike—to give you an equal valuation to the best of my ability, and I think my assessment compares favorably with that of any of the previous assessments of this village and made according to the tax laws of the State.

The question is, why are taxes high? You know why. I know why. We are now called upon to pay up on the debts and expense that have been created in the past and to provide for the future. There are a great many who do not understand this tax business and for their benefit I will show what was done with the 1918 assessment.

With a slight raise in the tax rates and a raise of 25 per cent on real estate, counting structures made by the county board, there came the state with a 15 per cent raise on the total as left by the county board. All of this raise was made on the assessed value. As the valuation of your property stands today upon the tax book you are required to pay a little over $4.12 on every $100 of valuation more than you would have had under my assessment. Does that look as though I had put it on to you? If you can show me a piece of property in this village on which I have placed a valuation above its actual full and true value, I want to show you, claim my assessment placed the property in this village near its actual value than it has been for several years. For the last few years the village has been on the watered stock system. The sooner we get away from it the better it will be for the tax payer. You will find the tax book containing my assessments at the court house. Go and look it over and convince yourself whether you have a kick coming on the assessor or not. My opinion on high taxes is, we have been too extravagant—went beyond our means—paid on too heavy a load in too short a space of time, some of which probably was necessary, and some of which was absolutely unnecessary at the time. No matter, we got it, and it has to be paid for. The schools are an enormous expense. There are several departments. Those departments that are producing satisfactory results should be kept at a high standard and those that are not should be banished as an unnecessary expense. In my opinion we are squandering thousands of dollars yearly on this school. In the place the taxable resources of this village are not sufficient to maintain a school of this class with all other necessary expenses of the village without causing a heavy burden upon the tax payer. For a village of this size to have exempt property to the value of $120,000, which is all dead property to the village as far as taxation goes, all tends to throw a heavier load upon the taxable property. And then we have the professional tax dodgers who were never known to pay their just share of taxes. You may recognize them by their howls on the street corners, trying to throw the honest tax payer off the scent. Now Mr. Tax Payer, if you want to make your home here and do business here, it is up to you to see that your money isn't squandered and all unnecessary expense is cut out and every dollar expended does a dollar's worth of service. THIRTEENTH CHAPTER RUPERT HUGHES

DAPHNE, AIDED AND ABETTED BY HER SISTER-IN-LAW, SUCCUMBS TO LURE OF THE SHOPS.

Synopsis—Clay Winburn, a young New Yorker on a visit to Cleveland, meets pretty Daphne Kip, whose father has been with her brother in the street since they were engaged. Clay buys an engagement ring on credit and returns to New York. Daphne agrees to an early marriage, and from her mother's account to a father who she regards as a sufficient sum of money for the purpose she goes to New York with her mother and her brother. Daphne and her mother install themselves in Bayard's flat. Winburn introduces Daphne and her mother to luxurious New York life. Daphne meets Tom Duane, man-about-town who seems greatly attracted by her. Clay is penniless, except for his salary, Bayard and his wife return to New York unexpectedly.

Her sympathies would never have been with her brother in the dispute between him and his wife. But this was a dispute between Bayard and her. It was a dispute between a man and a woman. It was a dispute between a man and a woman. It was a dispute between a man and a woman.

stout man at the Goddard knot. "I can't wait to take me just as I am or take back his diamond ring as I wish on me!"

"Her defiance was not convincing her mother protested. "It's not Clay that you have to consider. He'll never know what you have on. It's the guests at the wedding—and your old friends and the neighbors. You don't want them to think you're poor and that your father is marrying you off cheap do you?"

"Daphne's face had turned ashen. She might feel to go and make yourself really poor in order to keep from seeming poor, especially when you never feel an anxiety except yours!"

"Lela, with the magnanimity of a native spendthrift, tried to soothe the fever of the rebel. "You're not going around, anyway. I may see something I want for myself. Bayard dragged me away from Paris before I had time to shop. There are several things I need desperately."

"The three women set forth in a procession of the petticoated army pouring from all the homes like a levee en masse, a force of pretty hussies. They reached the fitting place where the famous Dutch, like an amiable Memphis, offered to buy some in exchange for robes of ermine cloth."

"In the window, on a dummy, with no head or feet, and a white satin hat, lay a gown that seemed to cry aloud to Daphne. "I belong to you and you belong to me. I'll wear this gown. I'll wear it and I'll cover you up with an ermine!"

"The three women were understood the message. They looked at one another, then, without a word, entered the shop, doomed in advance. Lela was known to Daphne and he pointed her with an extravagant gesture that terrified Mrs. Kip. "Get right out of my theater. How dare you come here after letting somebody else build your trousers?"

"Lela explained and explained and pretended to be mollified as he pretended to have been insulted. Having thus made the field his own, he turned to Daphne and he frankly with narrowed eyes, as if she were asking to be a model, and signed: "Oh, what a marvelous ermine!"

Daphne jumped and gasped, "From what?" "That gown in the window, that Lela was born for you. You must have seen it—the afternoon one in parchment-toned tulle and tulle. Daphne nodded and breathed hard, terrified converts at a glance. He was referring to the one that belonged to Daphne and he ordered her to get into it at once.

"She demurred. "I'm afraid of the price. How much is it, please?" "Don't talk of money!" Daphne stormed. "I hate it! Let's see the gown!" "I'll show it to you. It's a marvelous ermine!"

"I'm not inviting you," said Duane. "I'm inviting the genuine Mrs. Kip. You may come along as my married companion. If you like." "But Mrs. Kip is engaged!"

"So I suspected. That's why I'm inviting her. I feel safe." "As they turned east into Forty-fourth street and entered DeWitt's, the carriage man, satiated, Daphne and Lela were called him by name, and seemed to be happier for seeing him. The doorman smiled and bowed. In his name, and Duane thanked him by name. The hatboys greeted him by name and did not give him a cent. The head waiter beamed as if a long-awaited guest of honor had come, and the captains bowed and bowed.

Duane did not ask his guests what they would have. The head waiter told him in a low voice what he ought to have. Daphne rejoiced. All luxury was made to her. Fine clothes, fine foods on the dishes, fine horses, motors, fine pictures, fine everything save her exaltation of soul like the thrill of a coat.

New York was heaven on earth. The new York were gold, the buildings of Jasper, and the people angelic—good angels or bad, as the case might be, but all angels. She wanted to be an angel.

Among the squires of men and women came out in a little table and she stole out Sheila Kemble again, in the case of elderly women of manifest importance. "That's Sheila Kemble?" Daphne asked. "Yes, that's Sheila," said Duane. "He turned back to Daphne. "Awfully nice girl. Like to meet her?"

"The party to which Daphne was invited was a grand dinner, but she was completely surrounded by grand dames. He named the women and Mrs. Kip gaped at them as if they were a group of Valkyries in Valhalla. It was a group of the most famous women of the city. She was the best friend, and Sheila had named her. She had named her. She had named her. She had named her.

stage after several years of nursing a small child. "I had one more question to ask you. Do you think I could succeed on the stage?" "Yes, my dear," answered. "You have your mother's permission—great beauty and magnetism, a delightful voice, and intelligence. Why don't you try it?"

Weekly Health Talks A Word About the Kidneys

BY DOCTOR WATSON. People are easily frightened when they think anything is the matter with their lungs or heart, and well they may be; but few people understand the danger of these organs. They have a duty of vital importance to perform, and if they are diseased, there is no telling how or where the symptoms may appear. The kidneys are the organs which filter the blood and purify it. When the kidneys are diseased, the poisons which are in the blood and purify it. When the kidneys are diseased, the poisons which are in the blood and purify it.

"Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in recent years, discovered that a certain combination of remedies would dissolve uric acid in the form of uric acid in the blood, and low to live so that more uric acid will not form in your system. Dr. Pierce will not charge for this advice."

"Never Heard of Mr. Synonym." "Have you ever seen the books in here?" "We have thousands of volumes, sir," replied the clerk. "I'm sure there is something in our stock to suit the most exacting taste. What do you require?"

"I need a book on synonyms." "Just a moment, sir, until I speak to the boss. I don't believe we have any of—Synonym's works."—Ellisburgh, Scotland.

"Quality and Quantity." "A British guardsman was surprised when he saw for the first time a very diminutive Tommy emerge from a tank. "Well, I'm blotted," he said, "I never saw such a little soldier in all my life." "Well, chumme," replied the warrior, "I see—'ere's your tank. It's like this. He did it. That's just like him. Let's see a lot of other women that he's so kind and considerate when he wouldn't make toast for me in the mornings if my head was itching."

"Recipe for Gray Hair." "To half pint of water add 1 c. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and a little of each. Any amount can be used. It will gradually darken the hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not dry off."

"Just Like Father." "How was the banquet?" "It was the toast to the ladies." "He did it. That's just like him. Let's see a lot of other women that he's so kind and considerate when he wouldn't make toast for me in the mornings if my head was itching."

"Figuring the Finances." "What's your opinion on the politics?" "Can't afford it," replied the cautious citizen. "It has become almost a custom for a statesman to leave of a poorer man than when he entered it. And I'm in debt now."

"Spanish Influenza can be prevented easier than it can be cured." "At the first sign of a shiver or sneeze, take
