DIFFERENT BREEDS OF GOOSE

Toulouse, Embden, Chinese and African Are Easily the Most Popular in This Country.

(Excerpted by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The breeds of geese have been subdivided in the American standard of perfection, namely: Toulouse, Embden, Chinese, African, Wild or Canadian, and Egyptian. In addition to the standard breeds there is a hybrid made by crossing one of the varieties or the common geese with wild geese, Crosses of the varieties of geese, especially of the Toulouse and Embden, are occasionally made, but without any apparent gain.

The Elmer Triangle. Governor McKeever said in a Lincoln luncheon that he had been asked "The matrimonial shipwrecked couple about, I've been told, are occasionally used for culinary purposes on the farm there is no demand for them for food purposes in the market."

Toulouse Gander. Toulouse, Embden, Chinese, and African are easily the most popular breeds of geese in this country, the first two greatly leading the other breeds. All economic breeds of geese are derived mainly from the production of flesh and feathers, and although their uses are occasionally used for culinary purposes on the farm there is no demand for them for food purposes in the market.

The Toulouse, the largest of the standard breeds of geese, is a good layer, producing from 20 to 35 eggs a year. It docile, grows rapidly, and makes a good market bird. However, its dark pinfeathers make it a slightly less attractive market goose than the Embden.

The Embden, a large, white goose, slightly smaller and with somewhat longer legs than the Toulouse, is only a fair layer and is usually less profitable than the Toulouse. This breed has white pinfeathers, is a rapid grower, and matures early.

The African, a gray goose with a distinct brown shade, about the size of the Embden, is a good layer and makes a good market goose, although it has the objectionable dark pinfeathers. It is a rapid grower and matures early.

There are two standard varieties of Chinese geese, the brown and the white. Both varieties mature early and are said to be prolific layers and rapid growers, but shy and difficult to handle.

The wild geese is bred to some extent in captivity, and the young are sent to hunters to use as decoys. The wild gander is used to cross with either the common or the prepared to produce the so-called Mongrel goose. This Mongrel goose is highly prized as a market goose, but is sterile and cannot be bred.

The Egyptian goose kept for ornamental purposes and rarely seen in this country. It resembles the wild geese in shape and weighs two pounds less in each class.

ERADICATE LICE AND MITES. Means land a change now, it will never be cured. The lice and mites are prepared to transfer from their present position to a new one. We have nothing to offer to money to the farmer, but we have a remedy to help with reference to learn about it, write to the nearest State Department, U. S. National Administration, Room 20, Washington, D. C.—4181.

POULTRY NOTES. Poultry can endure warm weather just as well as they can freezing weather.

Turkey hens usually lay about fifteen eggs before beginning to get broody.

Settable eggs are often caused by the fowls being confined, becoming overfat, and from lack of mineral matter.

In rainy cold weather young chicks should be kept where it is dry and warm.

Put the brooder for early little chicks in a dry, sunny clean place where there are no lice or mites.

It pays to use coffee cans and bird balls that may be accumulated during the year to use as sanitary fountains for small chicks.

Be sure that the windows in the south end of the poultry house are kept open on all bright, sunny days to let in the health-giving pure air.

Many poultrymen claim that freshly sown or clovered hills help to ward off disease troubles and grower troubles in young chicks, pullets, goslings and ducklings.

With the advent of warm spring weather, lice and mites are apt to be on the increase. They are not only pests but also the cause of people who do not tolerate the presence of vermin.

CALAMITY BOARD TO MEET TO AUTHORIZE EMERGENCY EXPENDITURES—LIST OF DEAD REMAINS AT 54—SERIOUSLY INJURED ARE RECOVERING.

Reconstruction is going forward at Fergus Falls. With the task of removing debris well on the way to completion.

Many of those whose recovery seemed in doubt have passed the critical stage. The state calamity board will be called shortly. Governor J. A. Burns quickly announced 25 authorized emergency expenditures for the relief and benefit of sufferers in the tornado.

The amount to be authorized remains to be considered and passed, but probably will be proportionate to that of $20,000 allowed for the benefit of Tyler tornado sufferers last fall.

Dispersed by the tornado, Henry Mair, of the firm of Mair & Hank hardware dealers, committed suicide. Mr. Mair's home was partially wrecked by the storm, but he and his brother remained there while the rest of the family went to another home.

Mair went to bed late at night. When his brother arose in the morning he found the bed empty. At 3:30 a. m. Mair failed to appear and anxiety began to be felt. Guards, called in and questioned, reported they had heard a sound shortly after midnight, in the neighborhood of the Mair home. Two hundred National Guardsmen were sent to make a thorough search. The body of Carl Redlund, of Badger, was hit by a Great Northern train, probably fatally injuring Redlund, who was rushed to a hospital in Duluth. His automobile was demolished.

The Explosion of An Ancient Legend

A LETTER received last week from one who signs himself "Constant User" asks why the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) insists that the gravity test for gasoline is a fallacy.

Not having his address we are answering the inquiry here.

When the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) began manufacturing gasoline the surest, safest, most practical method known for determining the quality of the product was by testing it with a hydrometer.

In those days all of the crude oil used came from a single locality. It was of the same base always and the products refined from it were uniform.

As the industry grew and oil wells were found in widely separated localities it was discovered that the crude varied so greatly even when taken from wells in the same locality that the hydrometer no longer could be depended upon to indicate the quality of the refined product with satisfactory exactness. Some other system of measurement had to be used.

The chemical engineers employed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), who were asked to solve the problem, suggested that the boiling points of the several fractions, which go to make gasoline, would give the desired result. They would be constant and the usefulness of the product would not vary so long as the range of boiling point fractions remained unchanged.

The practical usefulness of the suggestion was instantly recognized, and the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) immediately adopted it as the basis of their manufacturing practice.

By making its product conform to the boiling point standard, it was possible to guarantee uniform results at all times, even though the hydrometer might show variation in gravity.

We know uniformity is of the most vital importance to the ultimate consumer. That is why we insist that gravity is of no value in determining the value of gasoline as a fuel, because it can not indicate the same.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is steadfast in its endeavor to render the greatest service possible to the motoring public and it is constantly trying to do so by improving the fuel and oils it sells to you by its patrons a greater value for the money they spend with it.

The McCormick Binder Saves Down and Tangled Grain

WHEN it comes to cutting extremely short grain, or grain that is down, tangled, and lodged, as yours often is, the binder saves an exceptionally rigid reel with a wide range of adjustment.

The reel on the McCormick binder can be adjusted very close to the guards, so that the operator can force short grain, or grain that is lodged and tangled, on to the platform canvas. These days never any accumulation of grain in front of the other bar. No matter how badly the grain is down, the McCormick binder picks it up and binds it all.

It is the unfavorable season that tries the worth of a binder. The McCormick stands the test. Come in and let's talk it over.

I can make deliveries on a few McCormick and Deering Mowers. Buy McCormick Binder Twine and save trouble in harvest time.

COAL NOW

Order Your Bituminous Soft and Anthracite Hard Coal

June 10th, 1919.

The Federal Fuel Administration has sounded an earnest warning to buy your next winter's supply of Bituminous coal now. The coming of peace has naturally put people off their guard against a coal shortage, but figures prepared by the Government Geological Survey show that the production of Bituminous coal for the first five months of the present year, has been lower than for the same period of any year since 1915, the present weekly average production being approximately 27 per cent lower than the previous year. The storage capacity is limited and it is the duty of the consumers to buy their coal now so as to relieve this condition and create work for men when work is needed.

Coal now on the docks at the Head of the Lakes must be moved, in order to make room for the present season's receipts, as it is a physical impossibility to store enough coal at the docks to take care of the coal requirements of the Northwestern states for the winter of 1919-1920.

Scattering reports from the Anthracite regions in Pennsylvania, indicate there will be a shortage of labor in the mines this winter, particularly if the weather should be severe. Estimates have also been made by the National Coal Association, which indicate about 35,000 workers in Bituminous and Anthracite mines (mostly foreign born) are preparing to return to Europe as soon as they can secure passage.

The Commission would feel ramified in its duty if it did not call the attention of the consumers of coal in Minnesota, to this statement of facts, and feels sure that if coal is ordered now, especially as cars are available to move the commodity, that considerable hardship and suffering can be avoided during the coming winter.

The Commission most emphatically urges the buying of coal NOW by both dealers and consumers.

Eyes tested, glasses fitted, Prochaska's optical parlor. E. Prochaska, graduate registered optometrist. If Mrs. Leslie Watson returned on last Friday from Galesburg, Ill., where she was called a week prior by the death of her father.

A dance was given in the John Roubine barn, east of town, last Saturday evening, and a good time had though the attendance was not large.

Mrs. McEweny from St. Paul and Mrs. C. W. Neuss from Camp Devina, N. J., are spending a couple of weeks at the home of their parent, the John Neus.

Wm. Challen came home last Friday from the naval operating base at Hampton Roads, where he was stationed, with his discharge. On Monday A. M. Challen went to St. Paul for a few days' treatment at St. Luke's hospital.

Andrew Anderson came up from Minneapolis Monday for a few days' visit with friends. Notwithstanding the sale of his farm north of town, he thinks this region the best ever.

His. Kopack and his father and mother are expected back today from a week's drive to Ohio, where they visited relatives and friends. Miss Minnie Meyer returned to her home at Echo with them, after a two weeks' visit at the Kopack home here.

John M. Beechel was up the first of the week from his home at Arnold's Park, Iowa, as witness in a couple of cases in district court. He reports a wonderful land boom in Iowa, but says that the crops in this region beat anything he has seen.

J. J. Greenley and family returned last Sunday from a two weeks' auto trip to their old home in the southern Iowa region, where they visited at his father's home at Centerville and with other relatives. Mr. Greenley reports the crops good every where, but best of anywhere in Pine county.

Mrs. H. W. Hartie is confined in the hospital at Branh, after a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eddy at Brook Park, whither she was taken last Saturday, when her health was found to require the best attention.

Mrs. Hartie is one of the best women on earth who has had friends here, who hope for her complete recovery soon.

Dr. and Mrs. Wiseman left last Friday for a drive along the north shore of Lake Superior, expecting to be gone about a week. He has been waiting for this opportunity for many months and is only permitted the absence now by the recent coming of Dr. McDonald to Pine City, whose presence enables him to care for their combined practices during the time.

Dr. Bruce E. Warwick, veterinarian, arrived with Mrs. Warwick last Saturday and they are located for the summer in one of the Bede cottages while he is officing in part of the front of Al Oman's plumbing shop. Dr. Warwick is a graduate of the Iowa Agricultural College at Ames and was called into the service before the close of the war in the medical department. He is greatly pleased with the appearance of this region and his presence will certainly be appreciated.

The village is doing an excellent work on the road at the west of the south end of Cross Lake, widening it from the top of the hill to the culvert, rounding it up in good shape, with a good waterway along the west side and graveling the lower part of the hill, besides putting in a culvert in place of the old bridge. The lower end of the hill, east on the culvert will also be shaped up some, to prevent water from that side again running down the road and washing out the fill over the culvert. Sometime when monies available the entire hill east of the culvert will be treated as the west side has been and put in the shape that will greatly improve the north end of the lake at that point.

Assistant Division Supt. Driscoll of the N. P. was here Tuesday noon, when he met a number of men to talk over in the medical department. He is on First avenue, west from the Rosander and Pine City Produce Co. warehouses. The village had requested him to come to the depot, for convenience to the large farm trade coming over the new bridge in reaching the warehouses and farmers' sheds, and to look into the general business crossing north of the depot in a section little blocked by standing trains, when those to the south were impassable. There has excellent service on the part of the part of the railroad company, however, why this need not be done, and after a fair consideration on both sides, Mr. Driscoll agreed to recommend grade care in keeping the other two crossings open during the busy hours and for the installation of a warning bell system at the crossing south of the depot, where there have been several narrow escapes the past couple of years. If this bill proves satisfactory in warning the public of the approaching trains, it may later be duplicated at the north crossing.

The River When the Colorado Burst Its Banks Flooded the Imperial Valley of California

RICKARD'S VIEWS DO NOT COINCIDE WITH THOSE OF HARDIN, AND THE INEVITABLE COMES TO PASS.

Synopsis.—K. C. Rickard, an engineer of the Overland Pacific road... Rickard declines because he foresees embarrassing results...

The door opened and Rickard came in. Almost simultaneously the outer door opened to admit Hardin...

"Nice offices," remarked Hardin, his legs outstretched, his hands in his pockets... "Ogilvie is satisfied with them. The men rather enjoyed the laugh..."

The newcomer, evidently a favorite, walked into the office... "Good morning, Edna," said Hardin, with the same business smile...

"The son of the general?" The new manager held out his hand... "That makes me a brother of the valley," Estrada's smile was sensitive and sweet...

"I'll take orders from him, but not from you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"Do you do think that it will be an impossibility to complete the gate as soon as the water is turned off?"

"I should have to assemble them again," admitted Hardin sadly... "I think we've covered everything. Now I want to propose the laying of a new track from Hamilton's Junction to the head of the river..."

"It was just that. A case of Hardin luck again. He stomped off in London to interest some capital that followed up a lead developed on the steamer..."

"I want you to do something for me, not at all generous," Estrada said... "I'll have a letter for you at the hotel at six. Be on time. I want to catch Hardin before he leaves for Los Angeles..."

"What do you know of the interests at stake?" Rickard asked... "I know that you've got into a fix, God do, that's all I know..."

"I'm not a man to be trifled with," Estrada said... "I'll see him in five minutes. He'll be here at six. He'll be here at six. He'll be here at six..."

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"The meeting had already adjourned," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

Hardin Turned Away With an Ugly Countenance.

CHAPTER VI.

Red Tape. At ten o'clock the next morning Hardin, entering the office, again the general manager found at his desk George MacLean, the new director, and Percy Babcock, the treasurer...

"What do you know of the interests at stake?" Rickard asked... "I know that you've got into a fix, God do, that's all I know..."

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

"I don't like you," said Hardin... "I don't like you. He's a fancy dude... He's not the kind you know him before?"

Beroun News
Vladimir Vasinok of Springville, N. Y., visited relatives and friends here and about Pine City several days the past week, he being called by the illness of his father, who remains very ill at the Frank Cerny home. Mr. Vasinok sold his farm of 133 acres on the government road, while here, to his brother-in-law, Ernest Hult, who has conducted it the past four years, the consideration being $10,000. It is all under cultivation and is one of the best places in this region. Mr. Vasinok has not lost his faith in Old Pine county but he has found much better health in his New York farm home and likes conditions there greatly. He sells his milk at $3.16 now to the condensery at Springville and truck his produce and meats to Buffalo, a distance of 30 miles over paved roads, which he covers in a couple of hours. There he sells to the markets and was getting, when he left, $22.10 for hogs, $19.50 for veal, 52-3c for eggs, 22-3c for strawberries. He has been there four years and has 100 acres in his farm. Old friends here were much pleased to see him and were sorry he was not bringing his family back to stay.

The Bennetts auction northeast of town, Tuesday, was well attended and everything sold well. The Bennetts will move soon to Atkin where he will engage in business. Their place of 120 acres was sold at $40 per acre to Ernest Sanger and comes from Hestman Grand Forks, and he has already taken possession. The Bennetts have many friends, whose best wishes go with them.

Rudolph L. Baal is doing a fine job on cutting down the bad hill by the Schofield farm, east of town, taking about five or six feet off of the hill and making a hill at the bottom of about the same height. He gets $250 from Munch town for the job and expects to finish it about the first of next week.

Emil Broz has sold his farm southwest of town to Joe Blazek, who formerly lived in that locality but has resided in South Dakota the past few years. Emil has purchased the Huttel farm, east of Pine City, and will move about Nov. 1. The old Broz place has also been sold.

Anton Mikyska came up from Bloomington, Prairie last Saturday, remaining until Monday at the home of his son, Postmaster Mikyska. Miss Liddie Mikyska accompanied her grandfather home to spend the summer.

President Manderfelt of our bank was up from St. Paul on business the latter part of last week. The Beroun bank is one of the busiest in this whole region and that means much for Beroun.

Henry Frost "shone the window" and John Smetans and Frank Kadavy assisted at the plastering of Frank's new house in town, the first of the week.

A dance was given in Mr. Wood's new barn, west of town, last Saturday evening, a good crowd being present and a fine time had.

Peter Carlsson of Rock Creek spent Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Neil Hawkins, west of town.

Miss Lillian Vaek came home from St. Paul last Saturday for a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Ole Erickson of Mora, spent the week-end at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chas. F. Peterson.

Mrs. Henry Frost went to St. Paul Tuesday for a couple of days' visit.

Thos. Huttel has sold his farm east of town to Emil Broz, from northwest of here, and will give possession about November 1st. The price was $100 per acre. Miss Harriette Huttel is up from Minneapolis to spend the week at home.

Sargeant Al Nelson of St. Paul arrived last Friday and spent the balance of the week at the Woodhead home. The sargeant and John Woodhead departed the same time, about 14 months ago, and spent eleven months of this time on French and German soil.

The W. O. Torry, north of town, enjoyed an auto trip to their old home at Grand Rapids and to Brainerd and other cities in that region from Friday to Monday. Mrs. Calvet, who had been a week's guest at the home of her sister Mrs. Torry, accompanied them on the trip and left for her home at Fargo on Tuesday.

A. W. Piper spent the latter part of last week at Minneapolis in attendance at the undertaking "short-course," which is yearly attended by the most up-to-date undertakers and which only the very latest discoveries in the work are discussed. Steele Had to Quit Work Owing to Bad Health—Gains 15 Pounds Taking Tanlac

"If I could speak with everybody personally who has stomach trouble and rheumatism, I would tell them to take Tanlac for I have tried it myself and have never seen anything like it," was the statement made by J. T. Steele of Shirley, Ill. recently. Mr. Steele, who is now employed in a general store in Shirley, was formerly a conductor on the L and N railroad, which position he states he had to give up on account of bad health.

"A number of years ago, while railroading," he continued, "I began suffering from stomach trouble and rheumatism, and kept getting worse in spite of all I could do. My appetite left me and I would suffer terribly from indigestion and gas on the stomach after every meal. My head ached a great deal of the time, I also suffered agonies from rheumatism and felt tired, worn out and no account all the time. I simply got to where I had to be as careful as a baby about my eating, was very pale, and finally became so thin and weak I was forced to give up railroading altogether."

"About this time I began to see Tanlac recommended very highly and decided to see if it would help me as others said it had them. My stomach soon got in shape to where I could eat cabbage, beans, meats, potatoes and just anything else I wanted without the slightest trouble afterwards. So I kept on taking Tanlac and when I finished my fifth bottle my rheumatism and all my other troubles had disappeared and I had gained fifteen pounds in weight besides. That was nearly three years ago, but I have held my weight and felt fine to this good day. So I can testify to both the immediate and lasting results that come from the use of Tanlac, and I firmly believe if I had known about it in time I would have continued my railroad work. No doubt there are lots of people today suffering like I did before I took Tanlac and if I can show them a good to health I think it is nothing but right that I should do so."
