Killed at Rush Lake

Duck Hunter Receives Charge of Shot in Head and Dies in St. Paul Hospital

While hunting at Rush lake last Sunday, John G. Blechinger of St. Paul received a charge of buckshot in the back of his head. The injured man was rushed to Rush City where he was given emergency treatment by Dr. A. J. Stowe who accompanied him to St. Paul. The police ambulance met the train there and took him to St. Joseph's hospital. As we understand it, Mr. Blechinger, with two companions, was ambushed in a rice field, at the lake, waiting for ducks to pass. When a flock was directly overhead, all three fired but Blechinger becoming excited sprang to his feet and stepped in front of one of his companions receiving the shot in the back of his head. Dr. Stowe turned the case over to Dr. H. P. Kitchie of St. Paul who immediately operated and succeeded in removing part of the skull which had entered the brain. The young man is in a serious condition but his recovery is hoped for.

Rural Teachers Draw Same Salary. The raise in salary asked for by the teachers of the Pine County rural schools, while attending the teachers' institute held at Hinckley last month, is still unsettled. The matter of granting more pay to the teachers is up to the different school boards, and while a raise has been granted a few, the majority are still drawing the same salary as at the beginning of the fall term.

It is hoped to be able to put the increase asked for in a united form before school officials at the annual school officers meeting. The date for this meeting has not been set, yet, as those in charge are desirous of having a state official for the department of education present, but The Pine Piker is informed that this will be arranged and the meeting held in the very near future.

There are still six or seven schools in the county without teachers or immediate assurance of securing any. It is felt that a general increase in salaries will remedy this to a certain extent.

"Fatty" knocks 'em dead in this, his biggest, and best burlesque, "The Desert Hero," Family theatre, Sundays.

If you miss the Sunday show with "Fatty" Arbuckle you will miss one of the best the Family theatre has had this year.

If the street cars don't run take the jitney and come to the American Legion dance, Nov. 15.

"It's a promise." What? A good time at the Legion dance, Nov. 15. Success makes any organization strong, so why not make the American Legion dance a success and the organization stronger, Nov. 15.

And at the zero hour they started to put over a barrage. Oh man! You never saw anything like it. Even the spotted started to fox trot and two hundred and fifty happy couples sprung onto the floor to the strains of Dudley's Military Band. I was there, I danced, and I ate of the big feed, now I can't find words to tell about the big time I had at the Legion dance, Nov. 15th.

Pine County's Soldiers' Monument. A number of people from various parts of the county met in the Club rooms Tuesday afternoon to consider the proposition of the memorial monument for all of the Pine county soldiers of the late war.

When the meeting was called to order, Chairman Miller announced that the monument had already been selected and ordered, and that work on the foundation had been started on the court house grounds at the county seat, but that one of the most important things, the raising of the funds, was the only thing left to be considered.

It seems that the recent legislature passed a law that county commissioners could levy 70¢ to $20,000 for the erection of such monuments at the county seats. Some of the Pine City boosters at once took up the matter with the county commissioners. They had no available funds that could be used for this purpose, but decided to back up the undertaking and pay the balance that the school children of the county could not raise the contracted price of the monument being $4,800. As there are 4,800 school children in the county, it was decided at the meeting here to have the commission take up the matter with the various schools and to have each undertake and pay the balance of $1 per pupil, and then the building addition.

The Henderson district has some 600 pupils or one-eighth of the pupils of the county and had already decided to raise money to put a bronze tablet with the names of its soldier pupils. Whether they can handle both propositions of not remains to be seen.—Sandstone Courier

The commissioners, while in session this week, authorized the construction of the monument and work has already begun on the foundation. The monument will be placed on the court house grounds in the northeast corner and will be set 10 feet back from north side and 10 feet from the east side. The monument will be made of Vermont granite.

John Hurley Died at Oklahoma. John Hurley, youngest son of James Hurley of this place, died at Oklahoma City, Okla., Monday of this week. His father was announcing it was received by his father Tuesday morning. Details regarding his sickness are entirely lacking at this time though a letter from him, dated a week prior, mentioned sickness that morning resulting from something he had eaten the evening before and it is feared that ptomaine poisoning resulted causing death.

Michael R. Hurley, his brother, left at once for Oklahoma City to investigate the conditions and bring the body home but at this writing the time of the funeral cannot be given.

John was a small child at the time of his mother's death and he was raised by his aunt, Miss Kate Egan, at Hinckley. Later he attended high school and completed the mining engineering course at the state university, which he supplemented with a year's special work, eight years ago at Cornell university at Ithica, N. Y., since which time he has been engaged in general construction work in various parts of the country. After returning from his army service, he went to Oklahoma City about two months ago for a Chicago construction company but was expecting to leave there about November 1st and return to Sioux City, Ia., to begin business for himself. He was a capable young man with every promise of success before him. He is survived by his parents and six brothers and sisters while everyone who knew him was his friend.

Examination for Census Takers. Examinations are being conducted in Pine county today by Rev. G. Wahlund, district supervisor, for census enumerators for the county for next year's national census. This forenoon an examination was conducted in the court house at Pine City. The following being interested: Albert Anderson of Hinckley, S. H. Palmer of Dell Grove town, Roy Filzen, Wm. G. Amundson and Mrs. Lou O'Daniels of Pokegama town, Ira C. Holt and Andrew Carlson of Chenoweth town and John Y. Brockendrick of Pine City. An examination will also be held at Sandstone this afternoon.

There will be 48 enumerators named for the county.

Mrs. Peter Felten Passes Away. Mrs. Peter Felten of Pokegama town, who has been sick for a short time, was taken on Monday noon to St. Paul where she passed away in a hospital at midnight from convulsions. The remains were brought home yesterday and will be interred in the Catholic cemetery with mass in the church by Father Leo Friday forenoon. Obituary will be given next week.

Pokegama Young Folks Wed. Thomas France and Florence Hady were wedded by Rev. Young at the Methodist church at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hady, at 11 a. m. Monday. The home was decorated for the occasion and only close relatives were present.

Folks were carrying out a bounteous dinner was served and in the evening the newlyweds and hosts of friends enjoyed a dance in the Niabing school house—478—in celebration of the happy event.

They will make their home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe France, whether the best wishes of many friends go to them.

Health Tournament This Fall. Plans are under way for another health tournament to be held in the rural schools of Pine county during the present school year, following the general plan of the one held last fall. The contest will last for fifteen weeks and it is hoped to have prizes for the five schools scoring the highest points. We understand the tournament will be conducted in conjunction with the activities of the Pine County Health Assn., although this has not been definitely decided upon.

Each pupil receives a "chore" sheet which they must fill out each day, the teacher keeping a record sheet for the school. The chores outlined for the pupils, consist of brushing the teeth, keeping the nails clean, washing face and hands, taking a bath every week and general health rules of the kind. In conjunction with this was a preliminary of a tournament that was held in the east not long ago. A young boy was being run over by a car, his father, by his being the cause of a poor showing made by the class because he had neglected taking a bath for several weeks. So to bring the class record up to date by unexcusingly looking into this in one day, and was looked upon as a hero by the other boys of the school.

Mrs. F. J. Jeppson of Ironwood, Mich., is visiting at the home of her father, Julius Doerz, here.

County Dads Hold Meet

Act on Pokegama Bridge and Also Commencement Work on Monument

The county commissioners opened their regular session at the court house last Monday at 1 p. m. Numerous petitions were presented for consideration, some of which were granted.

There was a delegation of 40 or 50 farmers and others from west of Pokegama lake who are interested in the bridge at the north end of that lake. They had to urge some action regarding it and the board spent a large part of Tuesday going over the matter on the ground, finally deciding to put new railings on the bridge and fix the floor and otherwise repair it so as to make it safe until the new bridge is completed in the spring. The location of the new bridge, which will be six feet lower than the old one, was moved to the south about 1/4 mile west bank at the south side of the old bridge. This will do away with the present sharp turn at the east end of the bridge and make the bridge itself very little longer, only requiring a small fill at the east end.

The petitions of Wilhelm Person and C. A. Fletcher living near Bremen asking that they be set off with their lands—the former from district 65 to 64 and the latter from district 64 to 63—were granted. C. W. Blomberg, living in Pokegama town petitioned to be set off from district 94 to 95, and Jos. Frachon living near Willow River asked to be set off from district 40 to 21. These petitions were laid over until the next meeting.

A new petition was presented asking for a new school district to be created out of district 26 in Bremen and part of Birch Creek townships. There have been numerous petitions presented the past few months all pertaining to this same district 26 and the board is undecided as to what they will do with this new petition but will consider it at their next meeting.

Another petition for a bridge over the St. Croix was received from those favoring one on the line of the St. Croix road, east of Pine City. This was also laid on the table for future action. In this connection, The board is informed that there is already a road in Wisconsin from the east side of the river at that point to Grantsburg.

An increase in salary was granted for the clerk in the County School Superintendent's office. The clerk has been receiving $35 per month but hereafter the salary will be $50 a month.

On recommendation of the County Engineer, the board accepted the bid, fifth—county ditch No. 12 on the east end of Burn, as the work has been completed.

A number of contracts for the construction of new bridges in the county were awarded as follows: A bridge over Kettle river in Kettle River town between sec. 23 and 30 was awarded to E. Fenelly at a cost of $5,980; bridge in Birch Creek town near Denham over Birch creek awarded to E. Fenelly at a cost of $5,350; bridge in town of Kerrick between sec. 25 and 26 awarded to the Iowa Bridge Co. at a cost of $1,645; contract for gravel for the road running from West Hook to Rock Creek in sec. 19, 20 and 21 at $2.25 per yard.

The Pine City Poul and Ice Co. received a contract to furnish Hooking Valley lump coal for the court house at $8.50 per ton. Matt Puffer, manager of the Pine county exhibit at the state fair, presented a report. The county board had appropriated $250.00 for the exhibit. The price received at the fair amounted to $100, received from sale of grass, grain and vegetables used in the exhibit $20. The total cost of the exhibit was $597.06 leaving $112.04 to be turned back to the county.

Other business transacted by the commissioners will be given in The Pine Piker next week.

Fire Farm Bldgs. Near Hinckley. The thicket crop with a number of chickens in it and the woodshed containing the winter's wood were destroyed by fire on the Wm. Smith farm southeast of town, last Friday night.

Fire went out a disturbance outside. Mr. Smith went out to find its cause and found the coop in flames with a fire on top of it. He dropped the building the man got out and ran toward the wood shed with a lighted match in one hand. He dropped the match in a pile of chips near the shed and made tracks for the wood shed. He was running to assist the other buildings on the place. The identity of the man is not known.—Hinsley Enterprises

All the members are urged to be present as final arrangements will be made for the big Legion dance to be given in the armory, Saturday evening, Nov. 1st. The boys are promising the dancing public an enjoyable night with the best of music and an extra fine supper. Let's not disappoint them, but everybody get in and boot and give them the biggest crowd that the armory has ever held. The money made will be used for their local organization, so folks, let's make the "zero" hour on that night a memorable one, one that will put sorrow and care to flight just as these legion boys put our enemies to flight over there.

Everything points towards a capacity crowd for the big band dance in the armory, Saturday evening, Nov. 1st. Dudley's orchestra of St. Paul has been hired for the occasion, a fine supper is promised by Mr. Cassidy and the committee will have the armory in gala attire for the first band dance of the season. Those in charge are maintaining a deep secrecy as to the plans for the evening but they promise a big time for everyone there. A Practical, Efficient Method of Heating Without Pipes, Through Only One Register

What It Does

The CALORIC, the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace, heats your entire home, new or old, three rooms to eighteen, through one register.

The CALORIC heats uniformly and thoroughly. Whether your house be of the bungalow type, with all rooms on one floor, or two or three stories high—all the rooms will be warm and comfortable.

The CALORIC saves from one-third to one-half of your fuel. The same amount of coal, coke or wood which will heat two or three rooms with stoves, will heat the entire house through the CALORIC. Or, if you are now heating your entire house, the CALORIC will do the same work better with one-half to two-thirds as much fuel.

The CALORIC is easily and quickly installed in any house, new or old, and without interfering with your present heating system. Where there is no collar, a pit can be dug large enough to hold the furnace and the fuel supply.

The CALORIC reduces fire risk, as all the heat comes up through the center of the register, while the cool air is constantly passing down through the outer part of the register, where it comes in contact with the floor.

Over fifty thousand enthusiastic owners from Portland, Maine to Portland, Oregon, testify that the CALORIC is and does all and more than we claim. The CALORIC is also giving splendid results in stores, factories, churches and halls. Can you afford not to investigate?

- and How It Does It

The CALORIC is not a pipe furnace with the pipes left off, and neither is it an experiment hastily put together for the purpose of meeting a demand. It is specially designed and built from the ground up to heat buildings more uniformly, economically and satisfactorily than they have ever been heated by other systems.

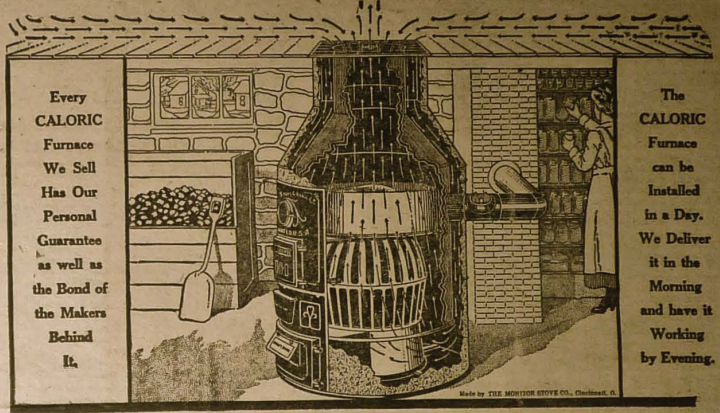

The CALORIC works through Nature's own laws of circulation by the movement of air currents. Warm air rises naturally. Cold air falls. Warm air and cold air cannot occupy the same space at the same time, any more than cold water and warm water can do so.

In the same volume that the warm air is distributed into the house, an equal amount of cold air is drawn into the furnace, where it is heated, moistened by the vapor from the two gallon water pan, and then recirculated through the register. This process continues as long as the fire is kept burning.

Thus there is created a constant circulation of properly moistened warm air. Just as running water purifies itself, so this circulating warm air, passing constantly through heat from three hundred to eight hundred degrees, in which no germs can live, is kept pure and healthful.

Now this is merely an outline of the principles of operation of the CALORIC. A full description is given in an interesting and instructive manner in our CALORIC Catalog. Call at our store, phone or write us for a copy.

The CALORIC is manufactured and guaranteed by The Major Stove Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, makers of heating appliances for 59 years.

Every CALORIC Furnace We Sell Has Our Personal Guarantee as well as the Bond of the Makers Behind It.

The CALORIC Furnace can be Installed in a Day. We Deliver it in the Morning and have it Working by Evening.

Overheard in Arcady

By CHARLES C. ABBOTT

"Ah, well—day, what eye may see The forest tops of Arcady? I I have seen daily not only the forest tops of my Arcady, but have known the way since childhood. My own feet have worn the path thither, and whatever the season, whether the dog was raised or winter rose the words
It is always Arcady under the old oak.
My sense of hearing distinctly gains by lending to others to its assistance.
Blind to all about me, not a sound but is more distinct and few escape recognition.
So, comfortably seated, I close my eyes and listen. Then it is that charming tunes are overheard in Arcady, and only then do those whistling notes reach the ear that are not infused for other detection than that of the whistler. There are the songs of birds free to all the world, and these meditative melodies on so low a key that only a favored few have overheard them.

Probably the first time my attention was called to the whistler songs of birds was forty years ago, when one bird sang March morning. I recorded of a foxglove sparrow that "it was whistling to a willow oak leaf." As I look now at the tattered and stained page of the old notebook I vividly recall the day.

But a trace to comparison, the same birds of probable meditation and of accurate description. The simple fact was, a foxglove sparrow very near me began singing in so low a tone that was in doubt whether it were a bird or a musical vesper mouse sitting in the doorway of his bark nest. I had to look long to make sure of my first impression. It was a sparrow, and as I then wrote, it "was whistling to an oak leaf." So it seemed, that is; but let that pass. It was singing to itself. Surely not. It was whistling enough to be heard half a rod away.
There was little variation in the sound as I heard it: it was a humming rather than singing, and bore no resemblance to that delightful sunset hymn so characteristic of the bird. My single impression of it was that of personal gratification. The bird was in a meditative mood. Its thoughts ran to music, as we should say, it was recalling the words of some familiar song. As this is no uncommon trait among mankind, I do not think the same habit should not be indulged in by birds.

Twice I have witnessed under most favorable circumstances the movements of a cardinal grosbeak when uttering what I venture to call his meditations, or whistler songs. The same counts for little, because all descriptions must fall in accurately portraying this feature of bird life.

In the early summer of 1880 I had a disabled rose-breasted grosbeak in a cage. It soon became contented with its surroundings and was not started by the near approach of any of the family. Every morning commencing soon after sunrise, it sang "vigorously and loudly" as this of its kind flying about the yard; and this with us a common bird, nesting on the hillside and in the orchard. Again at evening the bird was seen to sing in its matches way, and I could detect no difference between its song and that of those about the premises. Besides this ordinary song of the rose breast, I was frequently treated to a quite different one, heard only when all was quiet.
It was truly a whispered song. It bore little resemblance to any I had ever heard of, but was of a most melodious and of melody interspersed with all the world to hear. It can be described best, I think, by calling it the echo of a distant note. That the bird was intensely absorbed by its own music appeared evident from the swaying motion of the body at the time and an occasional trembling, accompanied by a ruffling of the feathers and nervous twitching of the tail. No "good notes what" I have ever heard or compared to this wonderful whispered song of the rose breast.

All observers are familiar with the incessant chirping of migrating birds, and many are the sweet songs when the red wings throng the meadows and plains of grackles sweep across the meadows. These birds are each a very nice, now-a-days, but they have not the same accent, and they have not the October landscape to a lively tune.
At times among the trees we hear countless voices of some passing bird, perhaps of purple finches, the warblers, wax wings, cow-pen birds, or larks.
These are forever coming and going during delightful autumn days and add to every hour of the mellow sunshine. Not one of these birds that I have named is ever mute or mood, and now, if we are alert and quick of ear, it will be found that they often utter in so low a tone that it can be only intended for self-gratification.
It is not whispering to a neighbor, for single birds separated from the flock are constantly chirping in that quiet way so suggestive of meditation. The when we have the wax wings passing over, the cow-pen bird is more voluble and not unamusing to especially if we give it credit for good intentions.
—Among the cow-pen bird, the abundant "crankies" among mankind, in addition to the strange, discursive adjectives that are for which the world would become "stale, flat, and unprofitable." The cow-pen bird has its place in nature and fills it quite as creditably as some who have set up to be its judges. Aside from

In the sun of not turning its own young, it is a bird worth noting, particularly in winter—it is always common here at this season—when, standing with its wings raised and its beak in the bright sunlight of a January day, it adds its quota to the fun of a winter holiday. As has been well said, his "fortiori, broken-winged whistler" is at least "amusing" much more so than the silliness uttered about the bird.

There is no instance when the whisper song is so readily overheard as in the case of the white-throated sparrow. Indeed, for days together, as these birds linger on a hill's south side and scarcely move from the thicket they frequent, there is little else heard but the meditative, self-gratificating notes. As all are singing at short intervals, it would seem as if no one individual were in time or inclination to listen to the others.

Now, the white-throated sparrow is not with us an active bird. It is incessant at times, but not given to violent exertion. With a full stomach, the sight of its amiable existence becomes a period of restful meditation, and it is little wonder that with nothing else to do these birds are so ready to sing.

Not like the cardinal, clear and loud, or mandatory, as the Carolina wren, shouting "Tee-hee-hee-hee," but like the weary man who is at last at his ease, and hums a few notes or whistles a bar or two as an expression of relief.

"Easy, easy, let me be!" warbles the white throat; occasionally so distinctly that the woods are filled with the sound, more often set at so low a pitch that you must be very near to determine that it is this, or, indeed, any, bird that you hear.

I think both the tree sparrow and the snow bird, have the whistler songs. Certainly they twitter without ceasing except when asleep, and they are here during those months when your efforts may be classed as necessary rather than voluntary or not musical for the music's sake. But there is one variation from this. If you peer carefully into a thicket and wait until your presence ceases to cause anxiety, the chances are that you will hear a few low notes of the typical nesting-day song. Observing the bird's manner at such a time, it reminds one of a person trying to recall a song whistling in an undertone. This surely the bird is not doing, but singing in a whispering way to please its passing whim.

Two birds very familiar to the personal rambler are the tree creeper and winter wren. Weeks may pass and you will hear nothing but a chirp, and often the wren will sing so much as twitter when alarmed, but patience will probably be rewarded at least once in a winter by hearing a few sweet notes, perhaps several times repeated, and then the old mite manage resumes.

In the case of the tree creeper, the petulant squeak is not always uttered even when you go quite near and except the bird's progress about the trunk of a tree. The same is true of the winter wren. It is swift and silent as a mouse at times, and rarely chirps while here, in winter, except as I have mentioned. It can scarcely be denied that when these two birds do give way to song there must be some strong incentive, and the few warbled notes have no reference to night-birding themselves.

The woodpeckers are a noisy race mechanically and vocally, but no note of theirs can be called musical, nor has any the significance of a thrush's song. The golden-winged woodpecker, however, is an interesting, chattering, and such gives to exclamations of surprise, occasionally also thinks aloud, and I have often surprised it, when for a while it has been silent, as if itself, as I have known some very old women to do.

The surroundings tell the true story.
The bird is meditating. Possibly what I have heard is analogous to the grunt of satisfaction after a full meal. The song of the English robin has been stated to lack in autumn "the joyous-ness of spring, and the bird, in sympathy with the departing season, seems to breathe a plaintive and melancholy strain." I prefer after such observations to use the instances of our own birds the term "meditative" rather than "melancholy."

In wondrous contrast to the woodpecker are the yellow throats, which sing in January as in June. These are the Carolina wren, and I have heard it on a still, clear day; yet I have surprised both these birds in the familiar songs of parts of them, in so low a key that it was by mere chance that I heard them at all. These birds clearly indicate that "whistler" songs are not an evidence of any peculiar physical condition. The moment following their utterance they may cause the woods to ring with their exulta-tions, for no songs in the Jersey woods are more suggestive of victory—not over a fallen foe, but over the efforts of winter to dislodge them—not even those of the host of summer songsters.
The Carolina wren and created it nearly reach the highest ideals in the bird world.

But one conclusion can be drawn. I think from the study of these trifles of melody that scarcely break the element of melody that we usually credit birds with possessing. They point to an appreciation of leisure, of a relief from the many cares that enter their lives.
As the tired laborer goes homeward from his work at close of day he is inclined to express his pleasure in that he has leisure. Alas! to this is the meditative undertone of many a bird when contented and safe. It expresses its feelings in a whistled song.

RED TAPE AMONG ALLIES AT VLADIVOSTOK

Receiving allied supplies at Vladivostok, Siberia, is truly a matter of "red tape." This is a specific example. A Japanese soldier guards the lead, a British soldier guards the horse, another examines the way bill, while the Chinese coolie stands by ready to do the work of unloading.

America's Store of Radium. The total production of radium to this point in the United States up to this time is estimated at 155 grams. It was first produced in 1913, in which year 2.1 grams resulted; in 1916 the production was 134 grams.

Fruits of Old. Many of the fruits and vegetables now eaten in England were almost unknown to our forefathers. Not until the latter part of the eighteenth century did they get a regular supply in this country, and we do not find the turnip, cauliflower and quince being cultivated before the sixteenth century.

An Inward Rest. Rob Wagner, the world's greatest, said in a Los Angeles paper:

"I have been called upon yesterday. She was pretty, but she didn't seem to have any individuality, any temperamental, no quinine—based upon Paper's—Adv."
"What can you do? I asked her."
"I've got you some special talent or inclination—some bird."
"The girl blushed a little."
"Well, Mr. Wagner," she said, "I'm a little bit knocked out."
BOSCHEE'S SYRUP.

In these days of unsettled weather look out for colds. Take every precaution against the dreaded influenza and at the first unwise remember that Boschée's Syrup has been used for fifty-three years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis and colds, throat irritation and especially for lung troubles, giving the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning. Made in America and kept as a household expedient in the homes of thousands of families all over the civilized world. Try one bottle and accept no substitutes.—Adv.

Evening the Score. "When you are presented to the king don't forget to make your obeisance." "I'll remember that," said the American captain of industry, "but after we get a little better acquainted I'm going to try to get back my self-respect by slapping him on the shoulder."

Crooked Golf. Suzanne Lemont, the world's tennis champion, was talking to a group of American correspondents at Wimbledon.
"I don't care for golf," she said. "I think golf is queer."
"How queer?" said a golfer.
"It lets you cheat so easily if you're inclined that way. My father plays golf one day at Nice with a German. As he holds out on the first green the German said to him:
"How many strokes did you do the hole in?"
"Seven," said father.
"It's my hole, then," said the German. "I did it in five."
"Father didn't say anything, but when the German asked him at the second green how many strokes he had to get back to the hole."
"No, you don't, Herr Surenker," he said. "This time it's my turn to ask first."
What She Wanted. "I want a pair of the best gloves you have," said Mrs. Neurich at the glove counter.
"Yes, ma'am," replied the polite salesman. "How long do you want them?"
"I don't buy 'em, cultivate 'em."
It is easier to cultivate a girl's imagination than her love.

When Boy Scouts Camp

HUNDREDS of thousands of Boy Scouts of America this summer and fall have enjoyed their camps over the country. They had wonderful experiences and some of these will be remembered all their lives. For the time these boys forget all about cities and civilization in the joys of swimming, boating, mountaineering and athletics of all kinds. Instruction in scouting was, of course, mingled with these sports. At all of these camps the scouts had a good time while gaining in health, self-reliance and everything that helps to prepare them for the unselfish patriotic service which is the heroic dream of every true scout in khaki.

How far can the summer camp serve the ambitious scout who wishes to advance in his tests? How can the routine work of the camp be made an interesting matter of service to the camp community? On the trail of these and many related questions, several hundred camp directors are working. It is clear that the best way to teach camping is to let the boy actually camp. The presence or proximity of an experienced camper will help him to learn the best way to move readily, and with less hazard, but the best lesson is that of the apprentice rather than the book student. The habit of self-reliance and of common sense can best be developed in a camp where the boys are combined with hours and days that throw the boys on their own resources.

Must Next Be Feared?

Repeated warnings are being sent out by Scout Executive George W. Ehler of Pittsburgh, Pa., to scouts undertaking life-saving ventures on foolhardy ventures, not to make useless sacrifices. Scouts are likely unnecessarily to endanger their own lives. It must be made clear to the scout that every person must be well as well as swim if he would save others from drowning. No one will be considered a coward who is not able to swim and who refuses to go to the aid of another in danger. Mr. Ehler advises that every scout in the troop be made a swimmer.

It is directed that each troop in camping where there is water enough to practice rightly, be divided into victims and rescuers. The boys must be taught to practice life-saving in the mountains, for carrying a person through the water. Especial practice should be emphasized for breaking the "strange hold." If the boys learn quickly they will be ready for the lesson in resuscitation.

What a variety of experiences these camps had! The camp of the scouts from North Dana, Mass., was on Lake Neponsetta. Near this lake Daniel Shays rebelled with 2,000 men in the famous Shays' rebellion of 1787-87, so that it is historic soil. Here also came the famous Redoubt Falls. Wheeler, a counterfeiter, and here he had a cave where he turned out spurious coin.

What upon further exploration and development into one of the wonder caves of Arkansas was discovered near Glenwood by Boy Scouts. It is high up the rocky face of the Burbank Mountain cliff. The entrance is small, but opens into a furnished room, from which a fissure extends downward to a series of spacious chambers. The arsenic caves, 25 miles apart, and the cave at Mountain Mountain, five miles northwest, have long been points of interest for visitors, but this seems to be the mother cavern of them all.

Forty scouts from Salt Lake City made the trip to Wonder Mountain. The trail leads up Provo canyon, under forests of aspens, along rugged precipices, skirting along the mountain streams, through miles of alpine flowers. Camp was made at Emerald Lake, which is covered with ice.

Ceremonies of Initiation.

The ceremonies should begin dusk and, with the fasting, etc., should last about 20 hours. The first thing being the ceremony is given to an Indian "sweet house" for purification, then to build a large fire some distance east of its entrance and to heat 12 stones varying from the size of a coconut to that of a man's skull. Two forked green sticks should be provided to roll the hot stones into the sweat house; also two large earthen jars of water should be placed at the back of the sweat house opposite the door, together with about a peck of cedar twigs about six inches long. When all is ready the chief, wearing only a breechcloth, stands at the door of the sweat house and addresses the candidates, lined up stark naked before him. He makes a speech, and says something like this:

Boy scouts, along into it, large mound near Dark River, N. D., unearthed the skulls and the buried there long ago, as the mound was there when the earliest pioneers came to that section of the state. It is believed that further excavating will yield some interesting relics of aboriginal Indian days.

INSURED FACTS

PURE-BRED POULTRY IS BEST

Growers Everywhere Are Coming to Realize That There Is Money in Standard Breeds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The story of Houban Lowe of North Shagbirk, Me., illustrates the possible profits from poultry raising when careful management is practiced. During 1918 his postman, who delivers only part of his time to chicken raising, kept 250 birds, which paid him a profit over feed cost of more than $1,000 equivalent to $4 a bird. Included in this amount are the sales of a few eggs for hatching, about 30 chickens sold for breeding purposes at $3.50 to $5 each, as well as the market eggs, which were disposed of in large quantity. Mr. Lowe keeps Maine Poultryman Realizes $4 a Bird From His White Wyandottes.

White Wyandottes of a strain that will lay about nine eggs weekly according to either the standard of perfection or a utility standard.

One pen of 50 pullets owned by this Maine poultry raiser produced, 625 eggs as follows: November, 1918, 413; December, 1918, 415; January, 1919, 389; February, 1919, 321; March, 1919, 459; a total of 1,998 eggs, averaging 99.03 eggs per bird in five months.

It pays to keep poultry of this kind, and growers everywhere are coming to realize that there is more money in keeping better fowl and feeding them properly balanced rations than in wasting time with inferior birds.

OHIO LICE POWDER FORMULA

Mixture of Gasoline, Carbolic Acid and Plaster of Paris is Inexpensive and Efficient.

One of the cheapest home-made lice powders for poultry is made by mixing three parts of gasoline and one part of crude carbolic acid with as much plaster of paris as the liquid will moisten, as determined by the Ohio experiment station. The powder is allowed to dry before using; it may be kept in an airtight container where it retains its strength for a long period. The powder is inflammable and must be kept away from fire.

Infested fowls when thoroughly dusted are soon relieved from the annoyance of lice; about 125 birds may be dusted in one hour, one pound of the mixture being needed to dust ten mature fowls.

For head lice on chickens the use of blue ointment or mineral oil is the best and has been found effective. One part of the ointment is mixed with two parts of vaseline and a lump of the mixture about the size of a pea is rubbed thoroughly at the base of the feathers about the head.

MARK ALL PULLETS AND HENS

Easiest Way Is to Punch Hole in Web Between Toes When Little Chick Is Hatched.

Where the pullets and hens are allowed to flock together they should be marked in order to tell the different flocks apart. The easiest way is to punch a hole in the web between the toes when the chicks are hatched. This is easily and quickly done with a punch which may be purchased from any poultry supply house for 25 to 50 cents.

WHEN FOWLS BEGIN TO MOLT

Plenty of Good Food in Considerable Variety is Essential to Maintain Good Health.

When the fowls begin to shed their feathers be sure that they have plenty of good food, in considerable variety, so they can maintain their health and strength and at the same time grow a perfect new set of feathers.

TRY NOTES

Brain is a good regulator for poultry of all ages.

Purchase well-matured pullets rather than hens.

Having movable, separate nest boxes makes it easier to clean them as well as the house.

Don't expect great success in hatching and raising chicks unless you have had some experience.

Chicks that get too warm in coops do not grow well and therefore do not make the best use of their feed and opportunities.

If the wing feathers of little chicks grow too rapidly and make the wings sag down they should be cut off so that they will not sap the vitality of the chicks.

HOW THE SQUIRREL HELPS

Uncle Sam Needs Seeds of Douglas Fir and Knows Where to Find Them.

Tree seed can't be bought in large quantities in the market. To restore the huge forests which are denuded every year, Uncle Sam needs the seeds of the Douglas fir, western yellow pine, Engelmann spruce, lodge pole pine, etc. by the pound, but literally by the ton.

The government needs men, from two to six weeks every fall, to gather seeds, collect men, hoboes and former convicts drift into the camps and work side by side, gathering huge stores of the precious seeds. Through experience they have found that their rich sources are the eminently handy squirrel hoards. The squirrel is cunning; he always picks the very best of cones for his winter store.—The Nation's Business.

Garden of Eden in Mexico?

A prehistoric race that lived in Mexico centuries before Christ even aspired to crush the power of the Aztec kingdom, was a civilized people who were flooded out of existence by a deluge that swept the valley of Mexico, as relics picked up near the capital city prove, and some writers assert that Mexico was the site of the beginning of man and that it was in this valley that Noah set forth for his 40-day tour of the flooded world.

Biologists have divided the entire surface of the earth into life zones, each zone having much the same flora and fauna wherever found. The life zone to which locality depends upon both latitude and elevation. Thus the Canadian life zone, which has everywhere plants and animals similar to those of Canada, is found in the high Rocky Mountains as far south as southern Colorado and northern New Mexico.

SCOUTS HALT A FIRE PANIC.

The ready wit and steady nerve of a group of Boy Scouts prevented a fire panic at the Strand Theater, San Francisco.

A moving picture had exploded, and the spectators, believing themselves in danger from a fire, started a rush for the exits.

Scout Louis Merardo and Scout George Houdeshall quickly began to sing the "Star-Spangled Banner" getting the attention of the crowd, and other scouts went about quieting the frightened operators.

One woman fainted and was transported to the hospital, but was revived by Scouts Wakeman, King and McKeate.

When quiet was restored the manager took the stage, thanking the scouts, and the audience applauded his praise of them.

The college will open in the autumn of 1918. A preparatory school was opened two years ago. It is expected that the whole establishment, including a new hospital, will be running by the end of 1920. RED CROSS GIVES FULL ACCOUNTING

War Council Tells How Millions Contributed by Public Were Used For Relief.

BIG TASK IS DESCRIBED

In Twenty Months $184,000,000 Was Spent Overseas and $116,000,000 in the United States.

Washington, (Special).—Through a complete report of the work of the American Red Cross in the war by Chairman Henry P. Davison, on behalf of the war council, the organization on the eve of its annual enrollment of members during the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11, has rendered an accounting of the many millions given by the many people to help our fighting men and our allies. The statement is, in part, as follows:—

"The war council of the American Red Cross is now prepared to make a complete accounting to the American people of money contributed and expended, as well as the work done by the American Red Cross during the period in which the war council was in control of its affairs. The war council was appointed May 19, 1918, and went out of existence February 28, 1919.

"It was the practice of the war council to give complete publicity to its policies and finances, but it is only now that a picture of the war period as a whole can be presented. It is the feeling of the war council that a report in this summarized form should be made directly to the public which provided the money and gave the effort which made the American Red Cross a success.

"A statement of the American Red Cross effort and finances since the war council relinquished its control will be made to the public through the executive committee, and it is important, therefore, that the fact that this report covers the period only until March 1, should be carefully noted."

Following are certain round figures covering American Red Cross participation in the war, as revealed by the war council's report:

"The Mean Man." Everybody knows the story about poor Tom Sharkey, who electrified the loungers in his saloon one day by saying heartily, "Well, boys, what are we going to have?" And then, as the loungers gathered round the bar, he added, "Rain or shine?" Representative Gordon Lee of Chickamauga told a story of a similar kind about a mean man at Atlantic City. Some friends visited him on a hot evening and after they had sweated a while in the sitting room he said: "Well, friends, could you stand some refreshments?" "We certainly could," the visitors replied, and they moistened their dry lips in pleasant anticipation. "Then," said the mean man, rising, "we'll open this window. There's promise of a breeze."
