

ADMITS U.S. RIGHT TO BREAK SEALS

Declares Great Britain Does the Same Thing Whenever Necessity Arises

London—Premier Baldwin announced in the House of Commons that the British government will not protest against the British customs seals being broken by United States customs officers within American territorial waters, as the United States is absolutely within its rights in breaking them.

"Foreign customs seals are habitually broken within British territorial waters whenever the necessity arises," said the premier. Notwithstanding this declaration by the premier, the resentment against the seizure on British ships in New York continues to grow. Practically the whole press, inspired no doubt, by shipping interests, are united on the demand that the government act to prevent what a foreign office official phrased as "America's attack on the individual rights and life-long habits of Britishers and other foreigners."

GALES SWEEP STATE—13 DIE

Damage to Farm Buildings and of Crops Runs High

Mississippi—Billions of persons lost their lives and hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage to farm buildings, crops and telephones and telegraph equipment was caused in epidemic storms which swept portions of Minnesota, North and South Dakota. No estimate of the amount of damage done is possible, but the destruction of silos, barns and crops reported over wide areas indicates that it will run into large amounts.

Central Minnesota and districts along the Minnesota-North Dakota boundary appeared to have suffered the most. High winds uprooted trees, destroyed farm buildings, leveled telephone poles, and caused considerable crop damage.

DEFTY U. S. LIQUOR RULES

Fleet of Atlantic Steamers With Seized Stocks Docks at New York

New York—Two more "wet" liners steamed into port while United States government officials were preparing to move on six other vessels which had docked with liquor transported over the transatlantic line in defiance of the Treasury department's dry ruling. The latest arrivals were the Anchor Line Tuscania and the French liner Suffren.

Six trans-Atlantic liners which docked were waiting at their piers for the next action on the part of the government authorities toward the seizure of the supplies above the amount to a allotted for medicinal use on their outward voyages.

Oil Man Falls Dead at Foot of Bridge Over Blaine, Ex-Husband

Credit Men See Good Trade

Mississippi—Confidence in the good business and optimistic outlook in general, a group of Mississippi business men was back from the annual convention of the National Credit Men's association in Birmingham. The sentiment of all the speakers at the convention was that business conditions generally are improving. It generally was agreed that there will be a slight slackening, but that by fall business will be getting good again.

Storm Sweeps Pine County

Pine City and community escaped lightly compared to other regions in the violent storm which swept across the state last Sunday afternoon and evening. Practically the only damage resulting in the village was done to trees.

Heavy damage was reported from the north however. Around Hinckley, Sandstone, Barnum and other towns north a number of barns were destroyed and a few silos.

The John Blomquist house in West Rock was struck by lightning about four o'clock in the afternoon and the house and all its contents were completely destroyed by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Blomquist were in the house at the time but escaped without any injury.

The big barn on the J. B. Kuzel farm near Beroun was almost completely wrecked by the storm. The west end was blown in and the main building was pushed over at the top. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

The Ole Solberg barn on the state road near the Mission Creek bridge was razed to the ground by the storm.

One death at Mora and one at Sturgeon Lake due to the storm has been reported.

Twenty-six telegraph poles on the N. P. railway were torn down and the poles were blown over.

Seventy-six telephone poles between Pine City and Finland were down and James Ward, Jr., manager of the phone company at Pine City, has three crews at work this week repairing the damage.

Others will travel to the places where celebrations are planned.

The program includes free vaudeville and acrobatic numbers which will be held on platforms to be erected down town. A special attraction has been prepared by the committee for the entertainment of the residents and the visitors.

Accident Fatal to Rock Creek Girl

A sad accident occurred near Rock Creek last Sunday morning which resulted in the death of Frances O'Donnell, 9 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Donnell of Rock Creek.

The family had been to Rush City to attend church in the morning and had stopped their car at their home on the state road south of the Creek. The little girl got out and started across the road when she was struck by a car coming from the north. The car was driven by A. P. Earlberg of Scranton, Wis. and was traveling about 40 miles an hour. It is stated.

The little girl was carried about 100 feet and was badly injured. She passed away about five o'clock in the afternoon without regaining consciousness, death resulting from a fractured skull.

Funeral services were held by Father Wyle at the Rush City Catholic church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and the little one was laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery at that place.

Francis O'Donnell was born July 29, 1914 at Maple Lake, Minn., and came to Rock Creek community about three years ago. She leaves her mother and father and one brother and two sisters.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family at the tragedy which took the life of their little daughter and sister.

She has been an invalid since childhood which resulted from a battle parapneumonia in Chugwater, where the body was shipped to the old home in Minneapolis Tuesday and the remains will be laid to rest in the Lakewood cemetery at that place.

Carley Speaks Here Tuesday

State Senator James A. Carley of Plainville, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, will speak in Pine City next Tuesday evening, July 3rd. The meeting will be held in the park.

There will be a short band concert beginning at 7:30. Mr. Carley will deliver his address following the band concert. Local Democrats are making elaborate plans for his reception and are anxious that a large crowd be out to hear his address.

Mr. Carley is one of the best orators in the state senate and earned considerable publicity over the state during the last session of the legislature, when he charged the Republican party with spending money recklessly during the last two campaigns. His charges led to a senate committee investigation which did a lot of investigating and the main result therefrom was to bring Mr. Carley to the front in the Democratic ranks of the state.

A Thrilling Picture. Do you recall the amazement you felt when your parents first took you to the circus and you gazed with wonder at the "Big Four" elephants? Well, if they thrilled you, you are in for more thrills and a great surprise when you see the elephants in the feature Universal production "Hunting Big Game in Africa" which was photographed by A. A. Snow and Sidney Snow. It comes to the Family theatre on Thursday and Friday July 5 and 6.

Elephants supply the thrill of the picture. They are far removed from the circus or zoo animal that we are all accustomed with. The African elephant, Mr. Snow states, is the most dangerous of all wild animals and the elephants found in the bed of an extinct crater, three miles in width, compare with captive animals as the proud ranging in the wild compare with a Sheldahl lion. The African elephant towers thirty feet high, their tusks measuring more than six feet. The ears are great fans fifteen feet wide and in addition they know their power and how to make use of it.

GIFT FROM YALE GRADUATES

Sun Dial That Belonged to the Founder of the University Presented to College.

The Ellhu Yale sun dial, accepted by the corporation at its meeting in September, has been presented to the university by the following graduates, who have succeeded in purchasing this interesting memento of the founder of Yale: Ganson G. Dewey, 1919; Clarence W. Brown, The Henry H. Smith, '23 and E. Byrne Hackett, '24 Hon. and R. Eden Dickson, Esq., of Eden Lodge, Woodbridge, Suffolk, England.

The sundial, originally owned by Ellhu Yale, has his coat of arms and the date 1708 on it. It is a bronze figure of a West Indian man, modelled in lead, standing in a half-kneeling position with arms upraised carrying the bronze dial. The dial has never been out of the possession of the descendants of Ellhu Yale until purchased this summer by E. Byrne Hackett in cooperation with George B. MacLean of the American Universities union in Europe for the group of graduates who have just presented it to Yale.

This purchase is the culmination of efforts made during the last 15 years by Yale men. The final location of the dial on some suitable site is now being determined by Ganson G. Dewey, representing the donors, and the consulting architect of the university, when approved by the corporation committee. An architectural plan—Yale Daily News.

The Human Element in Industry

IN BUSINESS there is no such thing as independence. Business is part of the social fabric where every individual is, directly or indirectly, dependent upon every other individual. The stockholder is dependent upon the employe, and the employe on the stockholder, while both are dependent upon the public who buy and consume the products they manufacture.

Stockholders and employes also are consumers. In the case of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) more than eight thousand of the employes are part owners in the business.

With a keen realization of this interdependence, the company, the management and the employes practice that sound Yankee fairness in dealing with one another, which makes for better understanding and industrial harmony.

The individual employe is a citizen just as the individual stockholder is a citizen. Whether or not he is a good citizen often depends upon whether he is busy, happy and successful in the business which engages his attention.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of its employes; they are good citizens, law-respecting, thrifty, industrious and happy in their industry. Experience has proved that this type of citizen makes the best employe. The employe who is zealous in the performance of his duty, who strives to give the public as well as the Company good service, is a citizen worthy of the name.

It is a policy of this Company to pay its workmen a good wage. Also it is the policy of this Company to promote and encourage "personal contact" between the employes and the management.

This open-door policy of fair dealing has resulted in uniform enthusiasm and loyalty on the part of the employes, and because of it the Company is better able to fulfill, in a satisfactory manner, its obligations to the people of the Middle West.

What to Do When "Cut Off"

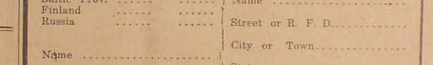

There is but one correct thing to do when accidentally "cut off" while talking over the telephone.

The person who was called should immediately hang up the receiver.

The person who made the call should ask the operator to re-establish the connection, saying, "I was talking to Number _____ and was cut off."

If the person who was called does not hang up after being "cut off," his line will test "busy" and might be so reported by the operator when the calling party is trying to reach him again.

A "cut off" may be due to an error of the swift moving fingers of an operator or temporary disarrangement of signal mechanism at the switchboard.

Talking Crow Killed by Negro Fearing 'Spell'

Georgetown, Del.—Councilman Andrew Marvel's pet crow, a bird with a vocabulary, suffered an untimely death because of its education.

A negro shot the pet as it was roosting on a porch entertaining a crowd with some of its choicest language.

The crow had been a pet of the town for three years. It flew everywhere, but returned to the Marvel home every night. The colored man said he thought the bird was bewitched and killed it to break the "spell."

Most men like to hear that sort of talk. Most cars earn such talk if they are given a chance. One thing, above all others, brings out power: pure oil, distilled oil.

SUNOCO
THE DISTILLED OIL

was selected by us from all other oils because of its supreme purity. Just as distilled water is best for your battery, distilled oil is best for your motor. The oil and the motor both last longer.

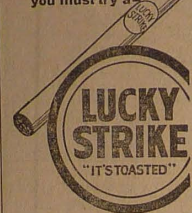

We know Sunoco will prove best for your car. It comes in six types—a type correct for every motor. Know the joy of a "sweet" motor. Use Sunoco, the real lubricant. You'll take a new pride in driving.

The regular meeting of the ladies of the G. A. R., which was held Tuesday will not be held that day owing to a number of the members being out of town. The Fourth will be held on July 10th at the home of Mrs. R. J. Hawley.

Mrs. J. A. Sobotta and children are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hallata. She attended the wedding of her sister-in-law in St. Paul last week.

Her husband is expected this week and will accompany them back to their home in Galloway. Miss Flynn is here with Mrs. Sobotta.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buchan and Miss Estella Rice motored to St. Croix Falls last Sunday, where they spent the day visiting relatives.

Master Gordon Buchan, who has been visiting his grandparents there returned home with them. Miss Rice is also expected to be here and is spending her summer vacation here.

Ernest Wilcox, son of Judge and Mrs. Robert Wilcox, will take a physical examination at Great Lakes tomorrow, which it passed successfully will allow him to attend the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. He is to report at Annapolis on July 19th.

The children's day program given on by the members of Duluth Sunday morning was an excellent one and the little folks deserve considerable praise for the way it was given as do the ladies who trained the children. The program consisted of songs, recitations, drills, and numbers by the girls choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vilcox visited a short time in the village last Monday. Mr. Vilcox met his wife at Hineley. She was on her way home from Superior where she had been working in Duluth since school let out the first of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kaehle returned home last Monday. He has been in the hospital in the Twin cities for the past few weeks. His health is much improved. It was thought at first that he would have to undergo an operation, but that wasn't necessary. He is now free from the intense pain he was suffering and is much stronger.

A HOT WEATHER Necessity!

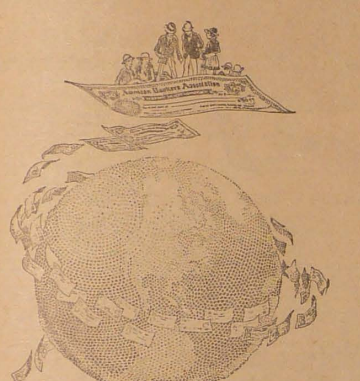

The Red Star is an oil-burning stove which can be relied upon for ALL kinds of cooking. It matters not whether you are toasting bread, roasting fowl and baking pastry; this wonderful stove will do the job to a turn and do it with far less attention than a coal or wood stove, for the burners may be set to maintain an even, low heat, or regulated to produce a UNIFORM INTENSE HEAT.

THE RED STAR is a MARVELOUS ADVANCEMENT for homes without gas. It gives to these homes the same SMOKELESS and ODORLESS heat as does the city gas range. It is WICKLESS, ASHLESS and DIRTLESS, because it generates its own gas from cheap kerosene, gasoline or distillate—concentrating a double ring of heat directly beneath the cooking utensil and saving at least one-fourth of the fuel bill. Operates NINETEEN HOURS ON A GALLON OF FUEL.

A. B. Adams New Colorado Senator

Adams in the state, was three times elected governor and was one of Colorado's most distinguished citizens.

Baldwin, Britain's New Prime Minister

There is a new government in Great Britain and Andrew Bonar Law has been succeeded as prime minister by Stanley Baldwin. It is a surprising development, which indicates another change in Mr. Baldwin's personal popularity, as the cheerful, good-humored and straightforward business man who negotiated at Washington the funding of the British debt to America.

These facts stand out in the selection. The capture of the premiership by a business man. Another blow to the prestige of the house of lords in the selection of Earl Curzon. The growing power of labor as shown by the part it played in the decision.

In steel, shipping, banking and railways Baldwin has had lifelong experience. He is brisk, alert, up-to-date. During the war, when he could not himself fight, he surrendered one-fourth of his large fortune to the state.

Uncle Sam Wins Diplomatic Triumph

Eliot Washburn, assistant secretary of the treasury, appears to have won a clean-cut diplomatic victory for the United States. Anyway, representatives of the United States, France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium have signed an agreement on the American armaments occupation costs, amounting to $250,000,000 at Paris.

The United States wins every article which has been the object of contention in the last three months, gains a concession on priority, and succeeds in imposing the objectionable codit tacked on by the British and French which denied America's right to collect interest claims.

Parker Succeeds Day as Claims Umpire

Partial reorganization of the mixed claims commission, constituted to adjudicate war claims totaling $1,473,000,000 of the United States government and American citizens against Germany, was caused by the retirement of former Justice Day of the Supreme court as umpire of the commission. Judge Edwin B. Parker of Texas (portrait below), American member of the commission, was appointed by President Harding to succeed Mr. Day as umpire, leaving the post of American commissioner temporarily vacant.

The resignation of Mr. Day, who told the President he believed a younger and stronger man should serve as umpire came as the commission was beginning to consider the 12,616 claims filed.

Crowder Evidently Quite Busy in Cuba

Gen. Joseph H. Crowder, whose name is a household word in America, has evidently been doing good work in Cuba as United States commissioner. Within the past two months the Cuban government has been able to effect remarkable improvement in national affairs. This has made possible for his name these who have lost their easy days.

For reports that he will either resign or be withdrawn.

Paved Yards Save Feed and Labor

Floor Is Sanitary and Does Away With Unightly Mud Holes in Barnyards.

No farm is complete without its equipped feeding floor as part of its equipment. It is hard to estimate the amount of mud that has been lost and wasted through being fed in the mud.

Concrete barnyard pavements, as shown in the illustration, are easy to build, and the man who has never had experience with concrete can acquire what is necessary in a short time by carefully following a few instructions. Not all of the pavement need be built at one time. A strip 20 feet wide is enough for a beginning. Additional strips can be added as desired.

In paving a feeding yard with concrete, first grade the site so that it is practically level. If the drainage is not good, drain the hole should be laid. A sub-base of several inches of gravel or cinders is sometimes advantageous.

The concrete should be mixed in the proportion of 1 part of cement, 2 parts of sand and 3 of pebbles or broken stone. A thickness four inches is the allowable minimum and five or six inches is safer, especially where heavy loads are likely to be put on the floor.

The concrete has been laid, it should be sloped toward one corner, with a pitch of not more than one-fourth inch per foot, and it should be finished with a wood float, which leaves a gritty surface that can be easily cleaned.

After the concrete has been laid, it should not be used for at least two or three weeks.

The following table shows the amount of materials required to build pavements of various areas, using one-two-three mix and a thickness of four inches.

Sweet Corn Is Superior for Feeding in Summer

In making plans for summer feeding, the value of sugar corn should not be overlooked. In certain dairy sections where its variety is recognized, it is not unusual to find almost every dairyman planting a moderate-sized patch with which to meet the milk-summer period when pasturage is short and green feed at a premium.

In the choice of the variety to plant it is well to choose the later maturing sorts such as Country Gentleman and Evergreen. The earlier varieties will mature as early as the first of July and be ready for them in July feeding. The earlier varieties of sweet corn are lacking in stalks and cobs compared with the larger and later sorts.

Fowls in Orchard Kill Many Injurious Insects

Any fruit which grows high enough to be out of reach of the hens is bound to be attacked by insects. Better crops are produced and greater growth is in evidence. Some years ago Cornell university made a study of the matter and showed very conclusively that the presence of chickens in an orchard did more good toward killing injurious insects than all the liquid sprays that could be applied.

Little Improvement in Quality of Seed Helps

It has been estimated that more than 15,000,000 bushels of seeds, exclusive of seed potatoes, seed sugar corns, and other vegetable planting stocks, are now produced annually in this country. Even a small improvement in the quality of seed planting would result in larger crops at little or no additional expense or in the same production on a smaller acreage.

Ducks and Geese Are Not Susceptible to Cholera

Cholera is a disease which attacks turkeys, ducks, geese and chickens, and it is the same specific germ in each case. However, ducks and geese are not very susceptible to this disease, and it is not likely that they will become affected. A few hours of sunshine will destroy the germs and thus diminish the possibility of infection.

Consider Farmer First in Establishing Routes

When establishing routes for good roads, the interest of the farmers is the first thing that should be taken into account. As it is over them that all the good roads should be built, the heavy ungrateful world must be transported, let the slogan of roads be "Farmers First."

Cucumber Beetle Will Injure Garden Crops

Peas Make Their Appearance Suddenly.

The striped cucumber beetle attacks and injures seedling cucumbers, melons and related crops, but especially the cucumber, as soon as they appear. They even burrow down to meet them before they are above ground.

They devour the tender stems and leaflets before the plant is fully started, gnaw the older stems and ripen and rot at a certain stage.

The control measures which have given the greatest promise of success are preventive, repulsive, farm practice, and the use of insecticides. The slender white worm-like larvae injure the plants later in the season by tunneling the roots and underground parts of the stems.

In suggesting control measures, the department commends that young and choice plants in small gardens be protected with light coverings. If an infestation of seedlings is planned, the attack will be distributed, and some of the plants will escape the beetles.

Neeloo dust should be applied directly, and rows of leafy plants sprayed, or other alone or in combination, with bordeaux mixture. Care should be taken to cover every portion of infested plants, both surface of leaves, vines and stems. Clean culture with trap plants is an aid. Active cooperation of neighboring growers of cucurbits in these methods is desirable.

Community effort in observing these methods will undoubtedly lessen the degree of losses from this pest in the course of time.

"Yellowing" Cuts Deeply Into Alfalfa Production

"Yellowing" is one of the most serious troubles of the alfalfa grower. In the East, says the United States Department of Agriculture, it has caused a loss for a greater reduction in yield every year than any of the diseases or insects. In the past few years it has been observed in the West, and in the rest of the country it has been known almost as long as the crop has been grown on a commercial scale.

Although the cause of "yellowing" has never been definitely determined, it has been attributed to a number of unfavorable conditions. In some cases it has been thought that soil conditions were responsible, as the same symptoms occur in the absence of sufficient lime and phosphorus, and in some cases also occurs where all these conditions are favorable, as is shown by the quick recovery of the plants after the old growth has been cut and the new crop is laid over time, feed, or drainage the plants die soon after cutting.

The treatment recommended for "yellowing" is cutting of the fields regardless of the stage of development of the plants. The new growth generally comes along normally.

Fall Calving Desirable on Many Dairy Farms

Under most conditions on the dairy farm, says the Department of Agriculture, fall calving is desirable. The calf receives milk for the first few months of its life, and when it is ready to be weaned from this food succulent pasture is available. During the winter it has learned to eat grass and roughage while it has been getting whole milk, skim milk, or milk substitutes, and when grass comes it can make the change without getting a setback. There is another advantage in fall calving, as the cow gives the largest flow of milk at the season when prices are usually the highest. Also calves are at the right age so that if weaned they may be bred to calve in the fall. From the standpoint of profits on milk, local conditions, such as cost of feed and price of milk at different seasons, should have consideration.

Without Good Pasture Hogs Are Unprofitable

All through the summer season hogs should have access to pasture. Rows with pigs cannot do their best in small dry enclosures, and they will not be profitable when so confined.

It is natural for hogs to exercise in fields, root in the ground and choose their ration from the variety of plants to which they have access," says R. W. Clark, of the Colorado Agricultural college. "Man cannot furnish a ration comparable to pasture in any other respect. A pasture is the first thing that should be provided in pig production and pigs should have constant access to it, even at times they are born until disposed of."

Horses' Shoulders Need Bathing in Salt Water

Since the collar of a horse is applied through the collar, it is of utmost importance that the collar should fit the neck and shoulders. Carelessness in using bathing-the collars not only causes soreness and skin cracks, but many times causes horses to become balky. Horses' shoulders should be bathed in salt water every evening, in order to soothe them.

Odd Crop Repellent

Somebody has found a tobacco dust on larva-corn as a crop repellent. It surely ought to dry the seed. The first loss of tobacco will be the first loss of corn. Would the crows come back for another—as humans do?

Tired Thinning Bees

The tired sitters are used effectively with the plump of hives. It is becoming full or short figures, as the bees are so actively arranged that they do not cut the height.

EMPHASIZE LONG LINES; KNITTED BATHING SUITS

Long lines, and the parallel slenderness are guaranteed rights and wraps are doing their utmost to see that women enjoy them. They take their direct, unswerving course from head to foot in a straight line, resorting to undergarments if necessary, to make that line seem longer than the distance from cloak to ankle.

Ample collars, many of them of summer furs, capacious sleeves and unusual decorations distinguish the season's modes. In colors, black, beige, gray, sand and brown prevail by day.

Coat for General Wear and Cape for Evening.

and black is also a favorite for evening, but it is rivaled by many colors. Black and gold, or brown and gold brocade hold their own with more vivid shades in cases that dominate the evening styles, and they also affect fur in their collars. An example of a coat for general wear and a cape for evening appear in the illustration. Although the coat is the sort of wrap that will answer for many purposes, it is unusually simple and graceful. It is made of a gray wool twill, but ermine might be used, and it has a collar of Hudson seal. Graduated tracks at the back and front and on the sleeves, and include knickers which come below the knee, are fitted and sometimes button at the sides.

Popular selection trends to choice of heavy knitted silk bathing suits, either black or dark blue, banded in vivid colors. Black-blue with black is a favorite combination.

The fad for matching accessories to footwear has reached the bathing beaches. The idea is carried out charmingly with a black or dark blue knit suit bordered in striking color. If light red then the shoes are the same striking hue, and the color climax is attained in a scarlet knit beach cape, these long woolen wraps being in special favor this season.

With the knitted bathing costume, accessories play a decorative part. Caps, especially, have grown an ornate, they are worthy of classification as ocean military. Note the whimsical caps shown in the inset, designed in marine blue with brilliant green trimmings. Lately the better shops are supplying beach sets consisting of wide rubber wafers and cap elaborately fashioned in riotous colors.

Turkish Designs

Turkish rugs show the equilateral triangle in many combinations. Even the loveliest borders under close examination prove to be made up of a series of triangles or squares so arranged as to produce the floral effect.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are advertised as being the best, are not? It is not because they are not good, but because they are not the best. The best medicine is the one that does the most good for the least money. It is the one that is the most reliable, the most effective, and the most economical. It is the one that is the most popular, the most trusted, and the most widely used. It is the one that is the best.

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of hundreds who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Boat is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it actually does more good than any other medicine. PLAN TO FIGHT CORN BORER

Canada is to import French Wasps With the Idea of Exterminating That Costly Pest.

Domestic bug experts will import from the United States this summer a horde of parasitic wasps which they will turn loose in the Canadian corn belt to destroy and fatten upon their hereditary enemy, the corn-borer worm.

The campaign will be waged along lines drawn by W. B. Watson, superintendent of the insect department of the United States Bureau of entomology, who offered his aid at a recent meeting of grain growers.

Wherever corn is grown in America there lives the corn borer, taking his toll of millions of dollars from the value of crops each year. He makes his home within the green husk of the tender plant, and eats his way over destruction long before the crop matures.

Otto Kain, the New York financier, was talking about Deauville at a dinner party.

"Deauville is the most famous summer resort in the world," he said. "Kilmer took it to the king of Spain, the king of the Belgians, the king of Rumania, ex-King Manuel."

"They dress in Deauville rather remarkably of course. A beautiful young lady traveling Deauvilleward was having her luggage examined by a custom officer at a frontier."

"What is in this pocketbook, madam?" he said. "My clothing," said the young lady. "Three bathing costumes, eight dresses, ten evening gowns and 25 sets of lingerie."

"And in the large trunk?" "My cosmetics," she answered. "Six sticks, creams, rouge and so on."
