SAYS HUGHES PLAN BEST ADVANCED

Expresses Gratitude for Canada's Part in War in Montreal Speech.

Montreal—Secretary Hughes' proposal made nearly two years ago, for the appointment of a commission of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay reparations, was declared by David Lloyd George to be "absolutely the best hope for the settlement of reparations."

The former British premier made this assertion when shown press dispatches from Washington which stated that high American administration officials believed it was not too late for acceptance of the plan. His statement came after he had delivered his first public address in Canada, in which he expressed his gratitude for the resolute and unhesitating part which the Dominion played in the World War.

Commenting on Secretary Hughes' plan, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"In my opinion this plan is not too late for consideration and it is absolutely the best hope of the settlement of reparations. Of course, since this plan was first broached the ability of Germany to pay is much less. The greater the delay the closer the situation approaches bankruptcy. But serious consideration of Mr. Hughes' plan may be taken up at this late date and I trust that it is the best hope of a successful settlement."

SIX MINERS ARE KILLED

Only Other Man in Start to Hurt, But Crawls Nearly Mile to Safety.

Grand Junction, Colo.—An explosion of gas in the middle coal mine at Palisades, Colo., killed six of the seven men working in the mine.

The government mine rescue crew that was fighting the fire in the Blackcliffe mine went to the scene and located four bodies.

Jim Banta, the other miner in the workings at the time of the explosion, was badly burned. He crawled three quarters of a mile through the smoke and gas to safety. It is said that he will recover.

A usual fire at the Midwest mine is the 4th mine, but only a short time ago a crew working in that mine entered the mine on an inspection trip.

The explosion wrecked the mine badly, it is said.

DR. PIROUET ARRIVES HERE

Child Specialist From Vienna Arrives to Head "U" Medical School.

Minneapolis—Bringing a report of an investigation of conditions in various European child hospitals, Dr. Clemens Piouret, celebrated Viennese child specialist, reported at the University of Minnesota to become head of the department of pediatrics in the college of medicine.

"The results of my study of European hospitals will be available for the Board of Regents," he said. "I do not think it would be wise to discuss them much until I know more about the conditions here."

NOTORIOUS BANDIT IS FREED

Masked Gunmen Hold Up Jay Institution and Take Bank Robber.

Jay, Okla.—Five unmasked men held up the county jail here and released Ed Lockhart, notorious bandit, after they had locked Jack Carey, father and Percy Arthur, a Jay merchant, visiting in the jail, in a cell.

The bandit fled in an automobile. The actual holding was committed by a boy not more than 18 years old, while the other three stationed themselves about the jail.

"Get your clothes on, Ed. We've come after you," the youthful bandit called to Lockhart as Carey began opening his cell.

"I'm dressed and ready," was Lockhart's reply.

TALK ON WHAT MARKETING

Myer and Mandell Conduct Conference at Chicago.

Chicago—Eugene Meyer, managing director of the War Finance Corporation, left here for Chicago, where he will address a conference on wheat marketing, sponsored by the President's Council.

The first of a series of talks with Eugene Meyer, managing director of the War Finance Corporation, will be given by Mr. Meyer at the University of Minnesota, at the University of Wisconsin, and at the University of Illinois, during the coming week.

Mr. Meyer will also be in Chicago, where he will address a conference on wheat marketing, sponsored by the President's Council.

Senator Johnson Visits Washington

George D. Brewer of Minneapolis, who accompanied Senator Magnus Johnson on his recent "swing around the eastern circuit," is pleased with the impression which Senator Johnson made, he said today.

"Wherever we went," Mr. Brewer said, "Senator Johnson received a splendid reception from his audiences and from the newspapers."

"When we arrived at the White House grounds, Senator Johnson had to face an imposing battery of photographers and moving picture men. In the White House reception room the largest number of newspaper reporters I have ever seen gathered under one canvas awning around him and began to shoot questions at him. The senator met them like a veteran, exchanging jokes with them and answering their bombardment accurately and astutely."

Afterwards I talked with some of the press boys and they expressed their surprise that he had parried the queries of some of the star Washington correspondents so cleverly. As some of them admirably expressed it: "That man Johnson's one's foot"—which is quite quite a concession for those who quote a senator, especially from the west.

"Senator Johnson was just as much at home with President Coolidge as he is considered here."

As he is considered proper state etiquette to quote the president, but suffice it to say that Magnus pulled his chair up and started in to tell the chief executive about the farm crisis in the northwest. The president listened with very evident interest, and after Minnesota's senator had talked for 10 minutes and then asked if the Coolidge had any questions, Mr. Coolidge showed how closely he had followed the senator's statement by his queries, asking with much interest regarding the National Producer's alliance which Senator Johnson spoke often throughout his trip.

One of the funniest things occurring at the meeting of the Chicago Executives' club, at which he spoke on Friday, is in composed of the big business executives of the packing city and represents its business brains and wealth. Senator Johnson had invited J. Adm. Bede as his guest on his trip, and Bede was called upon and made a speech along much the lines which would be expected of a Minnesota stand-pat republican. When Magnus introduced him, he said that he had invited Mr. Bede as his guest because he thought there ought to be a little someone scattered through the program and because he wanted Chicago business men to see the last surviving specimen of the extinct species of Minnesota stand-pat republicans. The business men assembled howled with enjoyment."

Two Deaths Are Reported

John Dahlstrom, living northeast of Rock Creek passed away at his home last evening. Death resulted from heart trouble from which he has suffered for some time.

Funeral services will be held from the Pine Grove Lutheran church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Funeral services were held for Joseph Kub by Father Leo from the St. Joseph church at Beroun last Monday morning and the deceased was laid to rest in the Beroun cemetery.

Joseph Kub passed away at his home southeast of Beroun last Saturday. Death resulting from stomach trouble for which he has been under doctor's care for some time. The obituary will be in next week's issue of the POKER.

LIBRARY NOTES

Patrons of the library will be notified to know that this library is again open to the public on Saturday afternoons, the other times of opening are as usual.

The library board books that everyone who is much interested in the history of the town should have in their homes. The board has purchased a number of new books, just let Mrs. Engel as the library, and Mrs. P. D. Probst as the librarian.

The committee in charge of the membership drive will also be glad to get any books you might wish to donate to the library. We have found this book shows a valuable aid of getting good reading material in the past. If you have any desire as to new books, just let Mrs. Engel as the library, and Mrs. P. D. ## Special Co. Board Meeting Today

A special meeting of the county board will be held today and tomorrow. The meeting is for the purpose of receiving bids for its road bonds that have been authorized by the board, the money to be used for the state highway department. This bond issue is being made under a law passed at the last session of the legislature which permits a county to bond for $250,000 for permanent improvement of Trunk roads lying within the county.

The money for the bonds to be refunded by the State and Federal money is added to that derived from the bonds which will give Pine county considerable paved road.

Brush Fire on St. Croix Flats

A bad brush fire was reported here this morning and a few volunteers of the local fire department left with the chemical truck for the scene of the fire which is burning near the McAllen farm east of Pine City on the St. Croix flats.

The report stated the fire was unable to be a serious one for if it should jump the road where it is burning it would endanger the Soderbeck and Whiting farms. While a strong wind was blowing this morning the heavy clouds indicated there would be rain today which would help materially in checking the flames.

Yanks and Giants Each Win Game

The first game of the World Series was won by the Giants at the Yankee stadium, New York by a score of 4 to 5. The game was won by the Yankees when Casey Stengel, centerfielder of the Giants cracked out the first home run of the series breaking a 4 to 4 tie and winning for the Giants. Hoyt and Schang were the battery of the Yanks at the start but Hoyt gave way to Bush in the third inning who finished the game for the Yanks.

The Giants started Watson and Groch to Kelly with two out and Snyder in the third.

In today's game the Giant battery was McQuillin and Snyder, McQuillin gave way to Bentley in the 4th. Bentley and Schang worked for the Yankees. Babe Ruth drove out the homeruns in today's game and Ward and Emil Messel one each. Both teams had a new game price.

Following is the detail play of today's game:

1st Inning
With Ruth on first and two out Messel hit into a double play, retiring the side. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants: Bancroft out. Scott to Pipp. Groh hit easy roller to Penneck and was thrown out at first. Frisch was out. Ward to Pipp. No runs, no hits, no errors.

2nd Inning
Yankees: Pipp was thrown out. Frisch to Kelly. With the count 2 to 1 against him Ward drove a homerun into the left field bleachers for the first run of the game. Schang was out on a pop fly to Snyder. Scott died. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants: Young out on pop fly to Dugan. Messel cracked 1st ball pitched to him into left field. Messelers for a home run, the hit being almost a duplicate of Wanda's smash. Cunningham fielded to Ruth, Kelly singled to center. Snyder flied out to Messel. 1 run, 2 hits, no errors.

3rd Inning
Yankees: Penneck was out. Frisch to Kelly. Witt out the same way. Dugan skied out to Messel. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants: McQuillin out. Dugan to Pipp. Dugan made a great stop and throw to make the put out. Bancroft, flied to Messel. Groh walked. Frisch singled. Groh going to second. Young fielded to Ruth, who made a great running catch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Trunk Highways National and State

Duluth Herald.—There is a "National Highway Association," which highway officials and others are invited to join. From state highway officials, including we understand, those of Minnesota, are not accepting. They are remaining out because the plans of this association look like something that would face Minnesota's apportionment of Federal highway aid; and that makes their attitude easy to understand.

Apparently the plan of this association is to have national highways built by a national board. It is important to have national highways, but it can easily be persuaded to the fact of other points that are more important.

It would be better it seems to us, to keep on with the present plan of giving Federal aid, contingent on local expenditures to state road systems, and to make national highways an outgrowth of this plan. That can be done easily enough under the present plan, whereby the United States requires the state officials to plan connections with the road systems of other states before they can get Federal aid. The state officials do not need even that urging for where state trunk lines approach the border of a state, they are sure to come in contact with demands from local interstate traffic that the highway be made continuous over the state boundaries.

And Minnesota, which seeks tourist traffic, would very naturally link its highways so that that traffic can get in. It would be absurd to have a state trunk highway come to a blind end at a state line, and probably it never happens.

A plan of definite national highways without regard to local needs would help transcendent automobile tourists, but it would overlook the primary factor in all rebuilding that roads are built first to accommodate local traffic, and mainly to accommodate the producer with his products headed to the nearest local market. Even though automobile pleasure touring has come to be a large if not dominant factor in the use of the highways, it is still second in importance to crops consigned to local markets. A system of national highways would be primarily for automobile pleasure touring, because the overwhelming bulk of highway traffic, whether by truck, bus or pleasure car, is local and will remain local.

If the proposal of a national system of highways would involve any appreciable disturbance of the present system of building up to a national highway system from the foundation of local needs, then the proposal would not be a desirable local support, but it would be a scheme that ought to be fought.

WHEAT RELIEF GROUP ARRIVES

National Co-operative Marketing Association, Headed By Lowden.

Chicago—Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the War Finance Corporation and other members of the committee appointed by President Coolidge to investigate the wheat situation in the northwest and aid the wheat growers, arrived in Minneapolis to confer with farmers, millers, and grain men.

A national co-operative marketing association headed by former Governor Frank O. Lowden, was provided for as the solution of the wheat problem at a conference attended by leading agricultural interests of the country, including all the executives in charge of the co-operative marketing movement.

Organization of the association will be commenced immediately to take care of the 100,000 bushels of surplus wheat in the country so that the machinery will be in smooth running order by the time the 1924 season starts coming in. It is the most ambitious and far reaching movement ever undertaken by the government as the one sound economic measure that can assist the wheat growers who, has suffered from low prices, and has been unable to meet the high cost of the goods he requires.

COOLIDGE OPPOSES PARLEY

U. S. Not to Offer New European Solution—Nation's Business.

Washington, Oct. 10.—President Coolidge has refused to entertain a proposal that the nations of Europe be organized into a committee to study the wheat situation in the United States. The president's refusal was announced today by the State Department.

The proposal, which was made by the nations of Europe, was that a committee be organized to study the wheat situation in the United States. The president's refusal was announced today by the State Department.

ST. PAUL AVIATOR KILLED
Mr. Eusebio, Examine Wreckage in Attempt to Fix Blame.

St. Paul, Oct. 10.—Experts at Curtis flying school today examined the wreckage of a biplane that crashed in a field here today, in an attempt to place blame for a crash in which Harry J. Eusebio, a St. Paul aviator, lost his life when a newly built monoplane crashed in air.

Eusebio had been warned not to make the flight. Ten minutes after he had taken off the field and took to the air, the biplane, the other wing collapsed under heavy air pressure, and the fuselage plunged into the ground.

The motor pinned the aviator's body to the ground, all most burning it.

It was the first time that a pilot had attempted a flight with the plane a biplane built over into a monoplane by Charles F. Doolittle, the aviator's associate at the Curtis flying school, and C. M. Macgregor.

STAR KILLED IN FOOTBALL

Body of Jack Trice, Ames Tackle, Is Sent to Cleveland.

Ames—The body of Jack Trice, star tackle on the Iowa state agricultural college football team, who died at Ames, 48 hours after he suffered a crushed abdomen in the Minnesota-Ames football game at Northern field, is on its way to his home at Cleveland, Ohio, for burial.

The injury which resulted in his death was suffered in the second period of the football game here. Trice, playing a defensive tackle position, dove into the interference of an Amos player, and was crushed.

SALES TAX BONUS OPPOSED

Treasury Department Says It Would Hit Consumer Too Hard.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The treasury department will oppose strenuously any attempt by congress to pass a sales tax bonus bill, it was announced today by treasury department.

The sales tax, suggested by Senator Sweet, republican of Utah, who has been chairman of the non-partisan tax commission, would hit the average consumer with higher sales tax on almost all classes of purchases and transactions and would practically double the present tax burden, the treasury department claims.

Moves for Ruhr Settlement.

Paris—The German charge d'affaire at Brussels today announced that M. Japar, the foreign minister requesting that France, Belgium and Great Britain take direct negotiations to restore normal industrial conditions in the Ruhr basin.

It is claimed that Germany must first restore the coal miners' returns to work and guarantee to reimburse German industrialists for reparations payments. It is also claimed that there can be no further reparations negotiations.

LAKE SHIPPERS AND THEIR TARIFFS

The Canadian government has demanded that American boat owners and shippers shall file a tariff of rates. This the shippers emphatically refuse to do. As a result it is claimed that nearly 170,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat is tied up at the head of the lakes and boat owners have light cargoes on the down trips. Shippers assert that the Canadian law demanding that they make public their tariff is not only unreasonable but might form a precedent for the Interstate Commerce Commission in the United States to make the same demand for rates on coal, iron ore and stone—and this they will never agree to.

The United States government has expended over a thousand millions of dollars paid in taxes by the people for the sole purpose of dredging and making harbors for these shippers and is spending many millions every year. The United States government therefore has an equity in the business. Shippers are supposed to be common carriers, just the same as railroads, and if the Interstate Commerce Commission demands publication of their tariffs as seems probable in the near future, it is safe betting that ways and means will be found to put the order in force.

THE FUEL PROBLEM

The report and recommendation of the United States Commission have been criticized and attacked from many angles—always depending on the personal interest of the critic. The final recommendation of the Commission is that the government exercise its regulatory power through licenses issued to operators and middlemen, that it can impose a graded excess profit tax upon the earnings of operators and the royalties of coal-land owners; that it can enforce publication of the profits of the business under all conditions in the industry, and that in emergencies it can take over the transportation and distribution of coal. This, of course applies to anthracite product.

Regarding the bituminous, or soft coal product, the Commission recommends that government agencies be given authority to prevent the opening of new mines in the public domain, forbid railroads to run sidings to new mines, and to permit and urge consolidation, grouping and pooling of mining companies to the end of obtaining steady production, less speculative prices and regular employment of workers in mines.

While the recommendations of the Commission will go far toward solving the fuel problem, the proposition is denounced by the group who are opposed to governmental interference in any manner and who fear a precedent of this character.

On the other hand the group who demand government ownership and control, assert that the recommendations provide but a temporary straddle and do not assure fuel for the great mass of people at a price consistent with the cost of production.

The railroads object to the plan because it involves such a radical advance in government control that ownership is an inevitable next step.

The whole question will be threshed out in Congress at the coming session, and it is safe to predict that legislation on this question will be along lines suggested by the commission until the plan has had a fair trial.

Meanwhile the anthracite that costs about $4.00 per ton for labor production will be delivered to the consumers' cellars for about $17 or $18 per ton—the difference being absorbed in freight, royalties, taxes and profits. The state of Pennsylvania imposes an export tax of 62 cents per ton which is now before the Supreme Court on a test of constitutionality.

In the natural evolution of human affairs these questions will be settled—and settled right. The way may be long and tortuous, but all history demonstrates that there comes a time when justice and right obtain.

Money Won't Buy Loyalty
Loyalty, vigilance, alertness and service are four elements which every business man would like to believe are inherent in all of his employees.
The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has abundant evidence to show that such qualities are common to all but a negligible portion of its employees.
This evidence comes in the form of unsolicited letters. As an example we quote one received from Mr. Wm. E. Small, of Fargo, North Dakota, written under date of September 11, in which he says:
"I wish to acknowledge the courtesy of your station attendant, Mr. Graefel, of Grafton. I am used to receiving the best treatment at the hands of your Fargo Service Station men but this young man has the idea of service and accommodation raised to the nth power.
"The soil around Grafton is about the simplest, roughest, blackest, and most all-round detestable stuff in the world to get snuffed up with but notwithstanding this and notwithstanding the fact that I was a total stranger to him and not one of his regular customers, when I drove into your station at Grafton after an unusually heavy down-pour of rain last week your agent at that point insisted that I remain in my car while he attached the chains over wheels and under fenders literally plastered with Grafton gumbo. When informed that I intended driving through to Grand Forks he not only put on the cholls but wired them on and made an expert job of it. When he had finished he was covered from head to foot with mud and slime but refused absolutely to accept a cent for the service rendered.
"I know of no other way to square accounts than to report the matter to headquarters. As I drove down to Grand Forks through a sea of mud but clean and comfortable, I swore eternal gratitude to my friends, the Standard Oil Company, for all time to come. You are giving an real service up here in the Red River Valley and I, for one, appreciate it."
It was loyalty to the Company's ideals of service that caused this service station attendant an extraordinary degree of service in an extraordinary situation—and he made another friend for the Company.
Such loyalty cannot be bought—it must be earned.
Skillful management is one thing—shrewd buying is another—scientific manufacturing processes constitute still another—but the employes is what has made the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) great—in size—in achievements—and in service—to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

STORY OF RUBBER FULL OF INTEREST

How Far East and Brazil Traded Their Industries.

Credit for the discovery of rubber is given to Christopher Columbus, who discovered many new things in the Western Hemisphere. It was in 1493, says Dr. Pitney, writing on the compass of rubber in Dunant's Standard. Columbus saw some Indian boys playing a game with a bouncing ball on the hard sand of the beach and the ball was made of rubber.

"To 1850," says Mr. Pitney, "Charles Goodyear accidentally dropped some rubber mixed with sulphur and white lead on the kitchen stove. So was discovered the process of vulcanizing, which made rubber a commercial article. Columbus was thrown into prison for bringing rubber instead of gold home from America. Charles Goodyear died in 1809 in debt because of his faith in rubber. Not a very encouraging start for a new industry which was destined to assume such an important industrial position.

"Many Plants Produce Rubber. It will doubtless surprise many persons to learn that nearly 500 plants, vines and trees produce rubber. They grow in a belt extending for 30 degrees north and south of the Equator. Only a small number of these plants provide rubber in sufficient quantity or quality to make it commercially available. The hevea tree is the best of all, and it so far surpasses all the rest that practically 100 per cent of the world's supply of crude rubber comes from hevea trees. The home of these valuable trees is in a belt extending 25 degrees on either side of the Equator, and this is known as the India rubber belt. The hevea tree is a native of Brazil and until 1890 nearly the entire world's supply of raw rubber came from the swamps and jungles which these trees flourish in.

"The story of the development of the rubber industry," says Mr. Pitney, "is the story of the discovery of the great American oil field, the invention of the automobile and the blight of the East Indies coffee plantations. The greatest factor was the invention of the pneumatic tire. After Goodyear's discovery the industry proceeded slowly, so that until 1870 it made the pneumatic tire a necessity. After Goodyear's discovery the industry proceeded slowly, so that until 1870 it made the pneumatic tire a necessity. After Goodyear's discovery the industry proceeded slowly, so that until 1870 it made the pneumatic tire a necessity.

BRITISH SCIENTIST SEES RADIO CONTROL OF WORLD

Tells of Directing Transportation by Use of Wireless.

London—Under the heading, "Coming of the Wireless Age," a British scientist contributes a striking article to a London newspaper, in which he predicts that wireless will be used in the near future for directing ships at sea, train and trolley services, traffic control on the road, desks of battleships and aircraft.

"It will be possible," he says, "to direct the path of everything moving on the surface of the earth, not even covering human beings, by means of wireless."

The initial step in harnessing this potent and little-known force was the establishment some weeks ago of a wireless lighthouse on Forthick Island in the Firth of Forth. By means of this "lightship" ships can be directed through the dangerous channels of the Firth by wireless, so there is no possibility of their running aground or being wrecked even on the darkest night or in the densest fog.

Steps are being taken in conjunction with the British board of trade and the meteorological office, to internationalize wireless direction of ships at sea. At the present moment there is lying in the port of London a ship that has been specially fitted with powerful wireless receiving sets to give demonstrations of this new method of navigation in all the principal ports of the world.

Setting out from London, this missionary ship will sail for China, via the Mediterranean, Indian ocean and the Straits, and thence on to North and South America, and back across the Atlantic to Europe and South Africa, giving demonstrations at every big port en route.

The most ambitious effort, however, will be a cross-Atlantic airplane flight which is to be made late in the summer. The machine will carry both pilot and observer, but their attentions will be confined to the actual flying itself.

Setting out from Newfoundland, the first 600 miles of its flight the airplane will be directed by the Glace Bay wireless station. Then it will be picked up and navigated by a "lightship," cruising in mid-ocean, to a point where control will be transmitted to Omeex, the big operating station in this country.

The whole 2,000 miles of flight will be directed by wireless.

Time and Trees.
A consideration not given much thought at the time of selecting trees for planting in the matter of permanency, says the American Tree association of Washington, D. C. The association welcomes you to the tree-planting army and asks you to report your tree planting. Entire streets, sometimes a whole town, are planted with short-lived and inferior trees, when a little additional forethought and patience would have brought about an equally desirable and more lasting effect. It is, therefore, much more profitable to plant carefully long-lived trees, such as the oak and sycamore.

A MAN WHO BECAME FAMOUS
Doctor R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears above, was not only a successful physician, but also a profound student of the medicinal qualities of Nature's remedies, roots and herbs, and by close observation of the methods used by the Indians, he discovered their great remedial qualities, especially for weaknesses of women, and after careful preparation succeeded in giving to the world a remedy which has been used by women with the best results for half a century. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is still in great demand, while many other so-called "cure-alls" have come and gone. The reason for its phenomenal success is because of its absolute purity, and Dr. Pierce's high standing as the honored citizen of Buffalo is a guarantee of all that is claimed for the Favorite Prescription as a regulator for the peculiar to women.

The Secret Adversary

The stoutest chic, but as day succeeded day, they were no nearer to discovering Tuppence's whereabouts. So well had the abduction been planned that it seemed literally to have vanished into thin air.

And another precaution was taking on Tommy's mind.
"Do you know how long we've been here?" he asked one morning as they sat facing each other at breakfast.
"A week! We're no nearer to finding Tuppence, and next Sunday is St. John's Day, and then we're getting short. If we've got to get to hold of her at all, we must do it before the 29th—her life won't be worth an hour's purchase afterward. The best-kept game will be played out by then. We've wasted time and we're no fonder."

"In with you there. We've been a couple of months who've taken off a bigger bit than you can chew. I'm going right back to London to put the case in the hands of your British police. Scotland Yard for me! I'm giving the professional advantages over the amateur in the end. Are you coming along with me?"

Tommy shook his head.
"What's the good? I'm not as fit as I used to be. I can't stay here and nose round a bit longer. Something might turn up. One never knows."

"Sure thing. Well, so long. I'll be back in a couple of shakes with a few inspectors along. I shall tell them to pick out their brightest and best." But the course of events was not to follow the plan which had been laid down. Later in the day Tommy received a wire.

"To me Manchester Midland hotel, important news—Julius."
At 7.30 that night Tommy alighted from a slow country train. Julius was on the platform.
Tommy grasped him by the arm. "What is it? Is Tuppence found?" Julius shook his head.
"No. But I found this waiting in London. Just arrived."

"It sounds like the telegraph form to the other. My eyes are opened as well as the brain. Julius had been in Midland hotel immediately—Peel Edgerton."
Julius took the form back and looked at it.
"Quer," he said thoughtfully. "I thought that lawyer chab had quit."

CHAPTER XII
Julius said "My train got in half an hour ago," explained Julius, as he led the way out of the station. "I reckoned you'd come by this time. I got a London wire, accordingly to Sir James. He's booked rooms for us, and will be round to dine at eight."

Sir James arrived punctually at eight o'clock, and Julius introduced Tommy. Sir James shook hands with him warmly.
"Immediately the first greetings were over Julius broke out into a flood of eager questions. How had Sir James managed to track the girl? Why had he not let them know that he was still working on the case? Julius began to answer, but Sir James cut him off.
"Sir James stroked his chin and smiled. At last he said:
"Just so, just so. Well, she's found. And that's the great thing isn't it? Eh! Come now, that's the great thing!"

"But just how did you strike her trail? Miss Tuppence and I thought you'd quit for good and all. But I guess I can take it we were wrong."
"Well, I don't know that I should go so far as to say that. But it's certainly fortunate for all parties that we managed to find the young lady. But where is she?" demanded Julius, his thoughts flying off on an air that he thought you'd be sure to bring her along."

"That would hardly be possible," said Sir James gravely.
"Because the young lady was knocked down in a street accident, and she sustained a slight injury to the head. She was taken to the infirmary, and on recovering consciousness gave her name as Jane Finn."
"She's not seriously hurt?"
"Oh, a bruise and a cut or two. Her state is probably to be attributed to the momentary consequence on recovering her memory."
"It's come back," cried Julius excitedly.

"Undoubtedly, Mr. Hereshelmer, since she was able to give her real name. I thought you had appreciated that point?"
"Yes, but just happened to be on my mind."

"The girl looked from one to the other with large wondering eyes. Sir James spoke first.
"Miss Finn," he said, "this is your cousin Mr. Julius P. Hereshelmer."
A faint flush colored over the girl's face, as Julius stepped forward and took her hand.
"How do, Cousin Jane?" he said lightly.

But Tommy caught the tremor in his voice.
"Are you really Uncle Hiram's son?" he asked, wondering.
Her voice seemed vaguely familiar to Tommy, but he thrust the impression aside as impossible.
"Sure thing."
A shadow passed over the girl's face. "They've been telling me things—dreadful things—that my memory went, and that there are years I shall never know—years lost out of my life. It seems to me as though it were no time since we were being hustled into those boats. I can see it all now." She closed her eyes with a shudder.

Julius looked across at Sir James, who nodded.
"Don't worry me. It isn't worth it. Now, see here, Jane, there's something I've wanted to know about. There was a man aboard that boat with some mighty important papers on him, and the big question in this country have got a notion that he passed on the goods to you. Is that so?"

The girl hesitated, her glance shifting to the other two. Julius understood.
"Mr. Hereshelmer is commissioned by the British government to get those papers back. Sir James Peel Edgerton is an English member of parliament, and might be a big gun in the cabinet if he liked. It's owing to him that we've turned you out at last, so you can go right ahead and tell us the whole story. Did Danvers give you the papers?"

"Yes," she said, they gave a better price with me, because they would save the women and children first."
"Just as we thought," said Sir James. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Essential to Profitable Farming
The Utility Express Truck $550 Chassis Only F.o.b. Flint, Mich.
Fits any Standard Truck Body

No business can succeed unless its product is profitably sold. Most farms have a fine production department but no sales department. They grow crops and stock bought by buyers who set the price.

One of the chief reasons for this unprofitable situation is the average farmer's poor facilities for moving his crops or stock to the place where he can sell at the best advantage. Because of the time and expense of horse delivery millions of dollars worth of produce spoils annually on American farms. The saving of this waste would, in many cases, change a losing farm to a money-maker.

This low-priced, high-grade, reliable truck was designed as a money-saver and money-maker for farmers and business houses needing fast low-cost haulage of heavy or bulky goods. It fits any standard type of truck body. Ask any Chevrolet dealer for price, the style of body you require.

TIMBER LANDS YIELD REVENUE

Form a Valuable Source for Taxation Purposes, Says U. S. Forest Service.

Washington—Starting that the continuing use of forest lands will afford permanent development and property for local communities and regions, a report of the United States Forest Service points out that one of the chief benefits of standing forests and forest industries lies in their wealth for purposes of taxation.

In the state of Washington, the report states, data obtained by the forest reserve service in 1922 show the several valuable timber lands of about 1,000,000 acres and on the timber industry, aside from timber, of about $2,000,000, a total of $1,000,000 out of a grand total for all property in 1922 of about $1,000,000,000. The total for timber and the timber industry was under the total amount for improved agricultural land in the state by about one-fourth.

Timber land alone made up about 8 percent of the total levied for 1922 for all purposes, and the property invested in timber manufacture about 3 percent, making a total of approximately 11 percent, or in excess of $7,000,000, in sum of the heavily timbered western states the contribution of timber lands alone reached 50 percent of the total. Additional taxes, it is stated, are paid by dependent wood-using industries, and by the large number of people whose livelihood depends directly and indirectly on the forest.

Similar conditions obtain in Oregon, the report declares.

In 1920, the lumber industry in Washington and Oregon paid in taxes about $180 for each thousand feet, board measure, of lumber cut. This was about 100,000,000 feet, but under intensive forestry it would be possible to grow and harvest the 1,000,000 board feet or more per year, or nearly twice the 1920 cut. This, the report points out, means an enormous taxable resource which can be judiciously managed.

Denuded and Timbered Lands. The report cites examples from widely scattered regions to illustrate the contrast from the standpoint of public revenues between timbered lands and nearby denuded areas of similar character. The average assessment in the western part of Washington on standing timber is in the neighborhood of $20 per acre, or logged-off lands $2.25. One timbered section assessed at approximately $30 per acre yields an estimated average assessed at $250 per acre. In New Jersey, the State Forest Park Commission estimated a forest of 2,000,000 acres was assessed at $4,000,000, but under timber-use production might be made to return taxes on an assessed valuation of $20,000,000.

The average assessed value of standing pine timber in Louisiana in 1921 was estimated at about $40 per acre, says the report, contrasting this with the figure of $7.25 for cut-over lands. In Mississippi it is reported that cut-over land is assessed at $3 to $4 an acre, while standing pine timber is assessed at $5 to $8 per thousand feet, with stands running from 8,000 to 10,000 feet per acre—an equivalent from $30 to $80 per acre assessed value.

In New Hampshire, says the Forest Service, the contrast is between the tax value of standing land and that of recent growth. Cut-over timber lands, if fairly well located, is generally assessed at about $1 per acre, while the new growth, cut-over timber lands, is assessed at $50,000. On $1 valuation, it is pointed out, this land would pay a little under 10 cents per acre, or taxes if cut over it would pay $1.95, or over three-and-a-half times as much.

Large Employment to Labor. "Abundant standing timber affords a large employment to labor. In 1919 the Industrial Insurance commission of Washington reported that the timber industry paid over $100,000,000 in the total pay roll of the state for hazardous occupations, aggregating $227,000,000. It is estimated that in revenue of 15,000 men were employed on the railroads to handle the lumber output of Washington and Oregon. It is also estimated that upward of 100,000 men and others were employed in the water transportation of lumber. A total of 900,000 additional persons are engaged in the lumber industry. A large percentage of the state's total population of about 1,500,000 was directly or indirectly dependent on the forests for a livelihood in 1919.

"Timber is also an important source of railroad traffic. The annual reports of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Oregon & Washington, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads for the year 1920, on file with the Public Service commission at Olympia, show that of the slightly less than 21,000,000 tons of traffic originating in Washington nearly 15,000,000 were products of the forest. The intensive timber cropping Washington could grow on its present forest area from 1,000,000 acres of timber, one board foot per year more than its sawmills cut in 1920.

Triumphs of Labor Noted. Portland, Ore.—Forty-two years ago a young man of 20 opened the first convention of the American Federation of Labor in Pittsburgh. Today, the same man, Samuel Gompers, worn under Thru's score of winters, opens the forty-third annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. At Pittsburgh he addressed possibly 60 delegates representing 40,000 workers. In the Portland Municipal auditorium, more than 500 delegates listened to him in the name of 4,000,000 workers.

Giants and Yanks Each Win Game

Yankees Babe Ruth hit a terrific drive over the right field bleachers for his 1st at home run of the series and was given a grand haul by the crowd; Meusel struck out Pipp singled to Kelly; Pipp taking third when Young let the ball get away from him; Scott singled over Bancroft home; Pipp scoring on the hit; Mr. McGraw then sent in Bently to pitch instead of McQuillan; On 1st ball he pitched Penock was hit in side arm; Pipp scored he could resume play. With flowed out to Cunningham. 2 runs, 3 hits, 1 error.

Giants: Meusel was out on a grounder to Ward; Ward to Pipp; Cunningham sent a long fly to Kelly which he managed after a hard run; Kelley struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees: Dugan out Bancroft to Kelly; With the count 2 to 2 Ruth cracked out his second consecutive homer of the game over the right field bleachers; Meusel hit a screaming line drive down the 1st base line for a double; Pipp was out on a grounder to Kelley; Meusel advancing to third; Ward was out on a foul fly to Kelley. 1 run, 2 hits, no errors.

Giants: Snyder dial to Meusel, who made a great running catch with his head back, while running with his back to the ball. This was by far the greatest catch of the series to date; Bently hit a screamer to Kelly; Bancroft out Scott to Pipp; No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees: Schang out Bancroft to Kelly; Scott struck out; Schang for his 2nd hit of the game; Scott was caught napping off first; Snyder to Kelly; Penock out Bancroft to Kelly; No runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Giants: The Giants were unable to get a man around in their half of the seventh.

The eighth and ninth innings went scoreless for both teams. Yankees winning by a score of 4 to 2.
