Theatre Notes

Agnes Ayers & Jack Hot in "Bought and Paid For."
 Only a door between her and her drink-cracked husband—only a thin panel of wood separating her from her dearest possession—and every moment the fiend in the man was triumphing. What was she to do? What could she do? What was to be the end?

Also "The Japanese Disaster" taken during the earthquake.
Sunday & Monday—
 Hoot Gibson in "A Gentleman from America."
 The people of this Carolinian town had insisted on this American dough boy being their duke. They thought—well, never mind—but if he was going to be duke, he was going to see that everything was run right. So he started right in on the toughest character for miles around. If you want to see what the real American spirit can accomplish, come around and watch an honest-to-goodness doughboy get into action with some of the would-be tough ones in his dukedom.

Tuesday—
 "The Silver Girl."
 Our Gaud comedy, "The Big Show."
 "Hamlet Valley."
 Family Night.

Thursday & Friday—
 Madge Bellamy in "The Soul of a Beast."
 Every youngster from seven to seventy-seven will get a "kick" out of Thomas H. Ince's masterly production of "The Soul of the Beast." This Metro picture is the greatest human-interest story ever screened. A wail of the circus and for elephant run away into the Canadian backwoods where marvellous adventures befall them.
 Madge Bellamy is the quaint little elephant girl while "Oscar" himself shows such remarkable intel- ligence that he has been pronounced one of the screen's greatest animal actors.
 Also L. P. "When Kame met Able."
 Our Prescription Dept. Service and Accuracy our slogan. Prices right at Prochaska's. READ THE ADS

Conquering Time

THE WORTH of a man is measured by his usefulness.
 When many men are grouped to perform a common task for the common good they become an institution.
 The same measuring rod applies to the institution as to the individual.
 The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an institution—a big institution.
 It is big in size because it renders a big service. Perhaps there is no phase of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service which is more significant or more far-reaching in its benefits to man than the means it furnishes for the conservation of time.
 It enables men to do the work of the world easier and in fewer hours.
 It speeds up every phase of industry.
 The manufacturer can produce more merchandise because Standard Oil products enable him to run his machinery at higher speed.
 The farmer can cultivate more land and raise greater crops because Standard Oil products enable him to use power-driven farm machinery.
 The doctor can see more patients because Standard Oil products have enabled him to substitute the automobile for the horse.
 The salesman can display his wares to twice as many buyers by utilizing Standard Oil products and the automobile.
 Standard Oil Company (Indiana) service lengthens man's three score and ten by increasing his capacity for accomplishment.
 The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of the part it has taken in furnishing the means for men to annihilate time and distance through controlled and directed effort.
 It is proud of the fact that it has been able to benefit so many industries by taking so many products, varied and useful, from the single base—crude petroleum.
 The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of the leadership it has earned in the petroleum industry.
 It is proud of its organization of 27,000 men and women through whose loyal, earnest efforts it is able to render such a superior service as to have earned the respect and confidence of the thirty million people of the Middle West.

The Gophers played a wonderful game and their playing amply repaid the thousands of fans who came from all parts of the state to attend the Home-coming game.

Dick Ruby who is working in Duluth was home to spend the week end with his family here.

The Sam Hays family moved to Cloverton last week where they will make their home this winter.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Olson were called to the Twin cities the first of the week by the death of a relative of Mrs. Olson.

A 7 pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Thompson of Meadow Lawn last Sunday. Mrs. Thompson is at the John Atkinson home. The father extends a welcome to the little man.

One hundred people attended the Japanese party held at the Presbyterian church by the Sunday school last Friday evening. The entertainment included a musical program and a Japanese playlet. The church was decorated with Jap lanterns and colored lights and an exhibit of Japanese articles occupying one corner. Refreshments were served following the program.

Albert S. Edwards arrived from Chicago, Ill., last Saturday for a visit with his brother Morris Edwards, and was entertained at the J. Adam Bede home over the week end. Mr. Edwards is a travelling salesman and covers practically the entire country in the course of a year. When at home in Chicago he devotes his spare time in the organization of boy movements and is one of the leaders in that work in Chicago.

There was a large attendance at the Odd Fellow lodge basket social held in the K. P. Hall last Tuesday evening. The baskets were auctioned to the highest bidder, the netting the lodge over $50 for their relief fund. The forepart of the evening was taken up with card playing and visiting and the evening's entertainment included an excellent program of readings, violin and piano selections. Following supper many of those present enjoyed some of the old time dances. The lodge plans on holding a number of such parties during the winter and those present Tuesday evening voted the pathfinding a big success.

The Family Theatre was crowded to capacity, with standing room being used and many were turned away last Monday evening for the special program in observance of National Picture Day. The program was an excellent one with music by the hand, vocal selections by Mrs. Ell Haber and F. P. Gottry and a violin duet by Misses Melba and Geraldine Wiley in addition to the pictures. M. E. Hurley made an interesting address in which he traced the moving picture business in Pine City from the first play house up to the present successful business housed by Mr. Turner in his magnificent theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cranton entertained at a card party at their home last Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Cunningham of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham jr. are home for a visit at the home of his parents at Sturgeon Lake and were down to Pine City renewing acquaintanceship. George has been a pitcher on the Chattanooga baseball team the past few years. He attended the Pine City high school about eleven years ago and started his baseball career as a pitcher on the high school and town teams while here. Former friends were glad to see Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham and greatly enjoyed the party at the Cranton home. The evening was taken up with card playing and refreshments were served following the playing.

HELP FOR GIRLS WHO WORK

Mrs. Lydia Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Tyrone, Pa.—"A friend told my husband how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped his wife, so my husband bought me a bottle because I was so run-down, had no strength in my body and pains in my left side, and had that I could hardly do my work. Before I used it I had pains just the same then as I have had since I have done my housework. I would not be without a bottle in the house now. It has stopped the pains all right and I have found out it is a wonderful body builder, as it has made me well and strong. It is going to be the 'old reliable' with me hereafter, and I am always willing to tell other women how it has helped me. You can use this letter as you wish, as it honestly says that my words are true."—Mrs. M. Lewis, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 40, Tyrone, Pa.

Letters like this bring out the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

RECIPE FOR MAKING DILL PICKLES

Preparing the Brine for Dill Pickles.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Dill pickles are made from fresh or salted cucumbers (the former are chosen) by the United States Department of Agriculture, but the latter have better keeping qualities. Empty pickled dill seed or herb and "dill spice" composed of allspice, black pepper, coriander seed and bay leaves, in addition to the brine.

Soak 100 cucumbers in a 30-degree brine (about 15 ounces of salt to 9 quarts of water) until the brine will give an acid test, i. e., turns red on tests with litmus paper (which may be bought at a drug store). Drain and arrange in layers in a crock, putting in a layer of cherry or grape leaves first, then the cucumbers, then a few cloves, the dill, a few small pieces of red pepper and then the leaves. Continue until the crock is full. Cover with the brine which was drained off and to which has been added one-half cupful of must seed, one-half cupful of horse-radish and one-half cupful of salt. Cover with a light weight and seal airtight with paraffin for winter use.

APPLE PECTIN SIRUP MAKES GOOD JELLIES

Concentrated Product Useful at Any Time of Year.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) The up-to-date home jelly maker knows that fruit jellies must contain acid, sugar, and pectin in the right proportions in order to make good jellies. Lemon or other sour fruit juices, she has found, can be added to give acid if needed, and the right proportion of sugar is fairly easy to determine. But how to supply pectin is often a serious difficulty. Yet it is frequently the case that failures in jelly making are the result of too low a proportion of pectin in the fruit juice.

Some fruits and vegetables are very rich in pectin, particularly when slightly underripe, while others contain only a trace or none at all. Yet some of the juices lacking in pectin, such as strawberries, cherry, rhubarb, and peach, are otherwise ideal for jelly making. Apples and currants are among the pectin-rich fruits, and housekeepers discovered long ago that the juice of various other fruits would make good jelly if combined with either of these. But for several reasons this practice is not always desirable. The United States Department of Agriculture has therefore perfected a home method of making concentrated pectin sirups that can be kept on hand for use at any time and added in small quantities to many kinds of fruit juices to insure success in jelly making.

Firm, hard, tart apples, underripe rather than overripe, have been found excellent for making this pectin sirup. Even apples of insipid flavor such as Ben Davis, may be used, and the fruits need not be perfect if sound and unrotted.

Wash and scrub the apples thoroughly, and remove peeling or coring them, cut them in this size.

Recipe for Apple Pectin Sirup. 4 1/2 pounds of apples. 4 1/2 pints of water. Slice the apples thin; this is better than passing them through a meat grinder, since finely ground apples drain very quickly, and large pieces of unattractive color to the pectin extract. Place in a granite saucepan large enough so that the whole mass can be brought quickly to boiling. Cover the pan and boil the mixture rapidly for twenty minutes. Rapid boiling is recommended because it assists in preserving color and flavor better than long, slow boiling, and extracts the pectin with less danger of decomposing it through overboiling.

When the boiling is finished, strain the mass through four thicknesses of Freshening Hells. When it is necessary to serve rolls which are not quite fresh, put them in a paper bag and sprinkle it slightly with water. Let them stay for a few minutes in a hot oven and they will be just as delicious as when freshly baked.

Salt to Delay Freezing. On winter wash days try putting a handful of salt in the rinsing water; this prevents the clothes from freezing before they are on the lines.

Of Interest to the Housewife. Desserts can be made more attractive if served in a glass dish on a small-dish.

Floor spots should be washed out once every two weeks in strong soda water and put in the open air to dry.

Kerosene oil spots can be removed easily with fuller's earth. Cover the spots thickly with a layer of the hot earth and let it remain on 24 hours.

A very nice way to serve eggs and toast is to cut the toast in conventional-size slices, lay them in the shape of the whole piece of bread, and then put the eggs on them. This is a good plan when serving an invalid or child.

Highly enameled surfaces should be wiped off with a soft cloth wrung out of tepid water. A small quantity of neutral white soap solution in the water can be used. If there are finger marks or grease spots, do not use a strong soap, for an alkali is ruinous

One Young Woman Fights Six Railroads

MASON CITY, IA.—Just imagine it! Six full-grown railroads pouncing with all their might on one young woman, and not very big at that. It's a pathetic story—unless you know the young woman.

She happens to be Miss Helen Schultz of this city. She is active manager of the largest intercity bus line in the Middle West. The fleet of 16 motorbuses, ranging in capacity from 14 to 24 passengers, covers a total of 2,000 miles, well over half way across the continent, with terminals spread from Des Moines on the south to Minneapolis and St. Paul on the north, from Waterloo on the east to Algona on the west.

And the six railroads—Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Chicago Great Western, Minneapolis & St. Louis, Fort Dodge, Des Moines & Southern and Mason City & Clear Lake—have turned loose their legal powers to show Miss Schultz' lines are not essential to the public good. They would have the railroad commission force down any certificate for operation.

Hawaiian Islands a Snakeless Paradise

HONOLULU, T. H.—When Mrs. Ichi Kurihara stepped out of the front door of her hotel here a few days ago she saw a small snake crawling across the walk. Her scream aroused the neighborhood, and soon a crowd collected in the yard and street.

It was the first snake ever seen in the Hawaiian Islands, and, naturally, not only the natives but hundreds of others who had never seen a reptile, were excited. The snake basked in sunlight, but came through the fenders of the coconut trees, seemingly quite unconscious of the great stir it had created. In the crowd were James Ching, Chinese consul, and Portuguese, Filipino, Samoan, Hawaiian and a few white people.

Soon the news of the discovery had spread and the throng of people grew larger rapidly. Suggestions were made that the snake should be sent for to kill the polio, and the war against the disease was stepped forward. He had a sharp stick in his hand.

"I will kill he-e-m," he announced. Barcellos then walked up to the Goddess Nintu, Zugidda, and the Flood

PHILADELPHIA—Visitors to the University of Pennsylvania museum are now privileged to see the tablet, 4,000 years old, from which Prof. Stephen H. Langdon some years ago deciphered the Sumerian story of the creation of mankind by a goddess.

This story of the beginning of the world, which dates back before the time the Bible's narrative was written, is contained in a broken tablet seven inches square, part of a collection made by the university expedition to Nippur a few years ago.

Since that time Assyriologists and scholars at the university have been busy deciphering the tablet. According to this story, which was written centuries before the Christian era, the world was created by a black-haired goddess, Nintu, who had a special aversion to snakes. Hence when she was about the task of creating the tablet says, she made her creatures dark-skinned.

The broken tablet, which is credited to the Sumerians, who lived neighbors

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IT is but a step from those immediate results of constipation—headache, heaviness, loss of appetite—to serious disease. Such minor ailments are a warning that poisons from food waste are flooding your body. Keep clean internally.

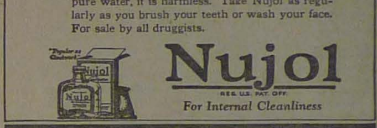

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives Aggravate Constipation

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury. Medical science, through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation, has found at last in Lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body. Thus Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a laxative and cannot gripe. Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

Don't give disease a start. Adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. Nujol is not a medicine. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.
