Electric Light Draws Trade

THERE'S no excuse for the small shop to lose business because of poor lighting.

Poorly illuminated counters oblige customers to seek daylight either at the entrance or at a back window of the store to enable them to examine the texture of goods. This is a nuisance which most customers will not tolerate.

Intelligent customers—the class really worth cultivating, invariably trade at shops where they can see clearly the goods they wish to purchase.

Edison Mazda Lamps afford an abundance of electric light at minimum cost. "Light up" your place of business. Our Lamp Experts will gladly help you on the path to profit.

MEN'S CLUB BANQUET.

Last Monday evening as had been advertised for some the Men's Club of this place gave their first banquet in K. of P. hall.

The Northern Pacific officials special car came up on the 11 o'clock train Monday morning and was switched on to the side track near the water tank. The officials themselves, consisting of Geo. A. Godell, Gen. Mgr., C. L. Nichols, Gen. Supt. and J. B. Baird, Gen. Freight Agt. of St. Paul, T. B. Quinn, Train-master and A. V. Brown, Div. Supt. of Duluth, accompanied by C. Schulz, State Supt. of Schools of St. Paul, and J. Adam Bede arrived on the limited, they were met by a committee from the Club at the depot and taken at once to Ingelston's boat livery where they boarded a launch and were taken around Cross lake. They all expressed themselves as being surprised at the size and beauty of the lake, as they had always supposed that it was nothing more or less than a good sized mill pond. After the trip around the lake they were given an auto ride around town, and then taken to the banquet hall where dinner was served at 7:30.

Covers were laid for 92 guests and about 80 partook of the banquet prepared by Mrs. Jos. Petschel and able corps of assistants and served by six members of the Club dressed in white. After all had partaken of the good things to eat cigars were passed around. Prof. W. J. McAdam, president of the Club arose, and in a brief manner told the object of the Club. He said that the Club was organized so as to bring our citizens together to discuss ways and means for advancing the best interests of the village, and that the present meeting was gotten up and the railroad officials invited to be present, to see if some arrangement could not be made so as to have a car from this place run to Wyoming every Monday morning to connect with the train from Taylors Falls so as people from the cities could come up here and stay over Sunday and get back to their business Monday morning at 8:30 without having to get up in the middle of the night to catch a train. He then appointed J. Adam Bede as toastmaster.

Mr. Bede as every one knows is a past master in that position. After telling a couple of stories and getting everyone good natured, he introduced Mr. Godell, who spoke for about an hour, and made a very fine address. He started in by saying that it would take time for the company that he represented to decide whether they could grant the request of the citizens, but if that could not possibly be done, he thought that probably some other arrangements might be made to give us better facilities for tourists and pleasure seekers to reach the cities Monday morning. One thing he spoke of was to have a sidelpet leave the cities on the night train Saturdays and remain until the early trains Monday morning. He said at the present time he could not say if this would be possible, but that they would look the matter up and do the very best that it was in their power to do. He then told of the trials and tribulations of railroad companies, and showed conclusively that it was utterly impossible to please all sections of the country through which their lines ran. It was a great speech and all who heard it expressed themselves as being sorry that a reporter had not been on hand so as to have the speech in full.

Mr. Bede said at the close of Mr. Godell's remarks, that the results of the meeting was not so bad, as we had asked for any old car, and were likely to have a Pullman sleeper. He then introduced Mr. Schulz, who made a good talk on the schools of the state, dwelling particularly on the consolidated district problem and the agricultural and manual training departments of our high schools.

Northfield, April 30th.—For the third consecutive time, Carleton won both of its annual intercollegiate debates last week, defeating Dakota Wesleyan University at Northfield by a unanimous decision and winning from Ripon College at Ripon, Wisconsin by a vote of two to one. The question of the debate was, "Resolved, That all corporations engaged in interstate commerce be required to take out a federal charter on such terms as Congress may by law prescribe. Constitutionality granted." W. Park Dougherty of Glenwood, leader, Oscar E. Ashton of Pipestone, and Park Carpenter of Northfield upheld the affirmative of the question for Carleton against Dakota Wesleyan, and Leslie H. Morse of Mankato, leader, Elmer R. Peterson of Pine City, and Arthur H. Larson of Granada defended the negative position against Ripon. Out of a total of eighteen intercollegiate debates, Carleton has won fifteen contests. THE ARMORY ASSURED

Wednesday evening a meeting of the citizens was held in Stekl's hall to take steps toward the building of an armory for the Division of the Naval Militia at this place.

J. Adam Bede, R. J. Hawley and J. M. Collins were appointed a committee to wait on the citizens and see what could be done toward securing a site and the necessary thousand dollars required by the state in order to get the fifteen thousand appropriated by the state.

The committee started out Thursday morning and Fred A. Hodge kindly donated three lots on the east side of the railroad track opposite the residence of R. P. Allen, they then visited the merchants and citizens and this morning as we go to press we are informed that the abstract of the title to the land is in the hands of Lieutenant R. Wilcox, and the check for the thousand dollars ready for him.

It is expected that by the time you read this the abstract will be in the hands of the armory board and the building pushed as fast as possible so as to have it completed by fall.

Officials were called on, but said they had nothing to say, as they thought the ground from the railroad standpoint had been gone over pretty thoroughly by their Gen. Mgr., Mr. Godell.

Several of the local citizens and farmers were then called on, and each responded with a short speech, they were: W. W. Clark, who resides about two miles north, Max Hoffman, who resides about the same distance south, Rev. H. H. Parish, of the Methodist church and Rev. Father Leo, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

During the evening the male quartette of the Club sang several selections, which were all well received.

At the close of Father Leo's remarks the toastmaster said their were quite a number of other speakers that we would all like to hear from, but as the hour was getting late we would be obliged to bring the meeting to an end by all rising and singing two verses of America, led by the male quartette. And thus ended the best banquet ever held in this place.

MR. BRYAN SUBMITS FOUR ALTERNATIVES

PASSAGE OF ANTI-ALIEN LEGISLATION DISCUSSED BY SECRETARY OF STATE.

Second, Asks Inquiry and Co-operation With President, and Third and Fourth Asks Moderate Measures.

Washington, April 25.—A day of conference between Secretary of State Bryan and Governor Johnson and the members of the California legislature over proposed anti-alien bills ended with the conference adjourned to await replies to messages sent to Washington last night by Mr. Bryan.

The impression prevailed here, when the conference adjourned, that the resolve of the majority leaders, previously announced, to enact a bill specifically debarbing "aliens ineligible to citizenship" from owning land in California remained unchanged, although Mr. Bryan, as the personal representative of President Wilson, advised strongly against such action.

Governor Johnson indicated this in a brief, intense address to the conference. He declared California's right to follow the lead of other states in framing the land bill was unquestionable and said such action was deemed assured.

Johnson's Position. Stating his position to the conference, Governor Johnson said, in part: "The bill proposed for passage by the California legislature can call forth no just criticism from the national administration, nor from foreign nations. Here in California it is not a question of whether the Japanese government takes offense at our exclusion of aliens, but whether we give that government just cause for offense. Do not believe that the proposed law prohibiting land ownership by aliens who are ineligible to citizenship gives the Japanese just cause for taking offense."

"If their dignity is threatened, they should have protested when Washington and America passed laws similar to that which we now propose to pass."

Secretary Bryan reaffirmed the United States' position to the conference, but suggested several alternatives to the passage of a bill restricting aliens "ineligible to citizenship," basing his reason on the broad foundation of public opinion. Briefly, these alternatives in the order in which they were suggested are as follows:

1.—Delay immediate action and allow the state department to try to accomplish the ends desired by means of a new test of Japanese.

2.—Delay immediate action and appoint a commission to investigate the subject of alien land ownership and report to the president in securing relief.

3.—Enact a law similar to the statute on which the present alien law is based, but which permits aliens to hold land for a period not exceeding six years and apply alike to all aliens.

4.—Enact a law similar to the federal statute governing land ownership in the District of Columbia, which is a general law applying to those of all nations. It may be said, according to leaders in the legislature, that the last two are out of the question. Many Democrats favor turning the matter over to the state department, while the Progressive Republican majority apparently remains unchanged in its support of a bill that would apply its restrictions to orientals alone.

The conference with Secretary Bryan served to show the breadth of the sentiment in favor of an alien land law that shall be effective in checking Japanese and Chinese immigration.

A dozen or more senators and assemblymen declared the people of the state were almost a unit in demanding such a law and it was threatened that unless the legislature act at this time, the matter would be taken up through the initiative by the people.

Flood Inundates Towns. New Orleans, April 30.—Mississippi flood waters, pouring through a break in the dike near Gibson's landing, flooded a lake of 100 acres, and many miles wide in sections of Texas and in Concordia parishes in Louisiana. Its depth ranged from two to three feet over an area of twenty feet at the crevasse. The water spread over the towns of Goldmine, Gibson, Waterproof and Anacapa, and is rapidly approaching Ferriday and Clayton. Railroad trucks have been washed away.

Mrs. Borden Meets Daughter. New York, April 30.—Mrs. Helen W. Borden, wife of the late John D. Borden, who recently died, the condensed milk manufacturer, arrived in New York and was given the custody of her daughter, Robinson, who left a will leaving her New York property to two women about a week ago. Mr. Borden and his daughter had a short time previous from Boston. The meeting between Mrs. Borden and daughter was said to have been very affectionate as they had not seen each other for two years.

AUSTRIAS DENIED

WAR APPEARS INEVITABLE

Hungarian Government Tells Nations "to Turn Inhabitants Out of City, or They Will—Primer Says, "Only Over Our Bodies."

Gettlinge, April 25.—"Scutari is from today Montenegro," was the defiant reply of King Nicholas to the European invitation to surrender the hard won Turkish citadel.

Austria Bonds an Ultimatum. London, England, April 25.—"Take immediate combined action to turn the Montenegro out of Scutari, or we shall do it alone," declares a circular note sent by the Austro-Hungarian government to the powers. The note is virtually an ultimatum.

Austria-Hungary declares she cannot permit the Montenegro to flout the decision of the great powers. The prestige of the European nations has been violated, says the note, and Austria-Hungary demands that the powers decide promptly on the steps to be taken to restore that prestige, adding that if they should be unable to reach a prompt decision, that she will see to it herself that the will of Europe is respected and that the Montenegro viscus Scutari.

Austria is Ready for Action. Berlin, Germany, April 25.—Austria-Hungary telegraphed to all the other powers on Wednesday demanding that they send an ultimatum to Montenegro to evacuate Scutari within 48 hours, according to an unconfirmed dispatch from Vienna to the Zeitung-Am-Mittag. Otherwise, Austria declares, she and her allies will take steps to protect her political interests.

There are many indications here that the German government and public regard the European situation as critical. A high diplomatic official said: "Europe has entered another crisis as grave as that which preceded the Austro-Russian demobilization."

"Only Over Our Dead Bodies." Paris, April 25.—In an interview published in the Matin, the Montenegro minister, Lazar Mityakovich, who has just arrived from before Scutari, said:

"We are now told that Austria intends to evacuate Scutari from us. If Europe permits this, Austria will have to take it over the dead bodies of all our male population."

It would not be possible for King Nicholas, even if he were willing, to bow before the declaration of the powers, the Montenegro people and army would oppose such a course to one man.

"Let the public opinion of Europe judge between the attitude of our poor little country and that of the six great European powers."

MANY MORE BODIES LOCATED

Thirty-three Additional Corpses Recovered From the Ruined Cincinnati Coal Mine Shaft.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 26.—Rescue parties, working in the ruined Cincinnati mine of the Pittsburgh Coal company, brought thirty-three additional bodies to the mouth of the slope.

These were placed on a special train and taken to Monongahela City, where the dignitaries recovered. There, where they were prepared for burial. Ten additional names were added to the missing, and while no official statement of the death had been given out by the company, the loss of life is placed by those at the mine at 43.

Identification of bodies proceeded at the temporary morgue in Monongahela City to which all bodies were taken when removed from the workings. Many of them were identified, that it was feared they could never be identified.

Preparations for the care of widows and orphans, made so by the explosion, are under way, and for the present they are being looked after by agents of the coal company.

DEMOCRATS SAY TARIFF MEASURE IS A FAILURE

Solons of Congress Declare the Consumer Will Derive No Benefit From Reductions.

Washington, April 25.—So far as reducing the cost of living, Democrats in congress declare that the tariff bill is a failure. They will be called upon to defend the bill, and are warning League Underwood and friends of the measure that it will become unpopular. They argue that the Underwood-Wilson economy as applied to the tariff hits only the government in its revenue, and will not afford relief to the taxpayer. The cuts made in the tariff reduction will be absorbed by the manufacturer, stricken off in wages and salaries or deducted from investment incomes, which the new tax will seek to reach.

Illustrating this, Democratic congressmen urge that placing of leather on the free list may result in the reduction of cost of boots and shoes two or three cents per pair.

"Lowering of duty on sugar by 25 cents will affect the consumer one mill a day, and he can save about 40 cents a year if he is allowed to do so by reduction in the price of sugar."

What was reduced from 25 cents a bushel to ten cents a bushel. Mr. Underwood does not hold out the promise that four is to be cheaper to the American market the four of Canadian mills and makes free all Canadian dairy products without any compensatory benefits from the products of Canada desired by this country.

SHIP THOUGHT LOST, SAFE

Liner Rio Jano Believed to Have Gone Down With 25, Is in Havana Harbor.

Liverpool, England, April 26.—The liner Rio Jano, which it was feared had gone down at sea in a gale with her eighty-five passengers and crew of fifty-five, was safe here in the Havana harbor, according to a cable gram received by her owners, John Glynn & Son. The liner Jano was reported to have arrived at Havana, ten days overdue, owing to a break in her machinery. The mishap occurred after the vessel had sailed from Havana on April 2. She encountered heavy weather. The Rio Jano left Vigo, Spain, for Cuban and Brazilian ports March 29.

BRYAN'S COAST

ENTERTAINED BY GOVERNOR

Cabinet Head Will Be Permitted to Make Own Plans for Meeting Members of Legislature to Discuss Land Law Act.

Sacramento, Cal., April 25.—Secretary of State William J. Bryan reached Sacramento today. He was allowed to make his own plans for meeting members of the legislature to lay before them the importance he may have why the importance and not have a law prohibiting the ownership of land by aliens.

Secretary Bryan arrived at six o'clock in the morning. He was met at the depot by Governor Johnson and taken to the gubernatorial mansion for breakfast. This was entirely a family affair, no others besides the secretary, Governor and Mrs. Johnson and their two sons being present.

Eagerly Await Bryan's Message. Governor Johnson and his immediate advisers are eagerly awaiting the message which he is believed to have brought from Washington. All realize the importance and the gravity of the situation and are keenly anxious to hear what he has to say. As evidence of this anxiety on the part of the legislature the conference held in the governor's office, which the bill was discussed in all its phases. The final draft of the bill was gone over and dissected in details, so that those present might be prepared to discuss with Secretary Bryan, should he care to do so.

There were present at the conference Senators Thompson, Gates, Strubbe, Kehoe and others; Speaker Underwood, Assemblymen Bohnett, Chandler, Benedict, Smith and Sutherland; Lieutenant Governor Wallace and Attorney General Wells. The conference lasted for about two hours and a half, and at its conclusion Governor Johnson made this statement:

Gov. Johnson in Statement. "We talked about the matter generally and agreed that we would all be glad to see the secretary here. We will listen to him thoughtfully and give him our closest attention."

From members who attended the conference it was learned that the bill as now cast in its final form holds the words "ineligible to citizenship," which seemed to be the cause of so much alarm, by substituting the phrase "and shall not be held out by those capable of becoming citizens." The bill has also been changed so as to allow land to be leased by Japanese for three years.

So far as the settlement among the Progressives goes, this bill stands a fair chance to be passed unless Secretary Bryan can show strong and urgent reasons why it should not be. To do this, he will either have to deny what President Wilson has already conceded—that the state has the right to enact such a law if it sees fit—or plead the certainty of international difference should the bill be passed. And if, because of the latter, the bill is dropped, the Progressives will insist upon a strong guarantee that the national government will, by treaty or otherwise, bring about the result which is aimed at in the bill.

Insist on Rapping Japan. One of the Progressive leaders who attended the conference with Governor Johnson said that he is still strongly in favor of passing a bill directed particularly against the Japanese.

"What argument Secretary Bryan would cause you to change?" was asked.

"Well, the word from him that the situation is not serious than we now know it to be. He may have inside knowledge which we know nothing of, and if he has and will lay this information before us, I believe any of us would be willing to do anything to make matters worse."

There is still talk of more telegrams from Roosevelt advising against the passage of the bill, but California is completed, but Governor Johnson declined to discuss this matter or say whether any such messages have come.

House Committee Recommends That Banker, Who Assaulted Member, Be Arrested.

TARIFF BILL TO SENATE

FIRST WEEK OF MAY

Underwood Gives Notice That General Debate on Measure Will Close Monday.

Washington, April 26.—With only two more days left for general debate on the Underwood tariff bill in the house, the prospect is that the measure would pass the house and go to the senate the first week of May.

Majority Leader Underwood has given notice that general debate on the bill will close when the house adjourns Monday night. Tuesday the bill will be called up under the five-minute rule for reading and amendment. At that time it is the purpose of the majority to fix some limitation on amendments to hasten the bill along, this to guard against filibuster.

Representative J. Hampton Moore for the Republicans and Representative A. Mitchell Palmer for the Democrats were leaders in the debate.

Representative Moore introduced a novelty, and for the first time in the history of congress, so far as known, a speech on tariff was delivered by the reading of questions from the speaker's rostrum and the delivery of replies from the floor.

Mr. Moore's speech was a "line of primer" following in form the lines of Plato's "Republic." He sent to the desk a set of queries which the clerk propounded to him, and Mr. Moore, in his answers, ran the gamut of tariff legislation and tariff dogma.

"The bill introduced by Chairman Underwood, the exponent in the house of the theories of President Wilson," was the reply.

And so the questions and answers ran on.

Representative Palmer declared the Underwood bill, if enacted into law, would remain in the statute books for years to come, a happy application of a long-veiled question.

"Business may take notice," he said, "that, as to such enterprises as cannot meet the new conditions, by reason of neglect, refusal or inability to employ that efficiency and economy which will permit industry to stand upon its own feet, a less support from the government, the people refuse to be longer taxed to accomplish the survival of the unfit."

Louise is a very capable girl and she gives a very good account of her work.

"Of course, I might have been mistaken, but the Duc d'Aubigny is not easily forgotten. He has a peculiar way—"

"Yes, I know," I interrupted. "A rather cut."

"He's a handsome devil," she mused. "Saturday he seemed a bit shabby, and his hair was cropped close, as if he hadn't been out of prison long, and still he was handsome. I had leisure to observe him, and I am absolutely sure of him. We were caught in a mattress crush, and the Duc d'Aubigny was standing at the curb not six feet away from me. He had leisure to look at me just as one glances at a stranger, but he knew me! I started to speak to him, but I never act on impulse, and there was a bare chance that I had made a mistake. But if he wasn't the Duc d'Aubigny it was his ghost!"

"But how could the Duc d'Aubigny have taken the rby?"

"Oh-bah!" she whispered. "I haven't dared think that far. He couldn't possibly have been connected in any way—"

"She did not finish. "You won't mention this to a soul, will you, Miss Godman?" It's rather absurd."

"But if Winthrop should need—"

"You said his arrest was not serious," she interrupted.

"No, it isn't. Do you think Mr. Abbott is a thief? I asked her plainly.

"I did think so. I'm sure now he isn't."

"Why?" I wanted to know. "Have you a reason?"

"Yes. I've come to my senses," she smiled.

Just how that red-headed reporter managed to come back up the driveway in a noisy way, either by her own self seeing him was an unexplained mystery. We both were with in earshot on the tennis courts, and I was not playing. If only Hap had a strictured Burrows not to take the card to Natalie! But he never thought of that.

Natalie, at first, sent back word that she was not there, but on the back of a card which bore the name "Mr. Samuel Dick, Evening Columbian," the reporter wrote something sufficiently magical to bring Natalie downstairs, and the conversation followed was exceedingly magical to send Natalie to her room to don a hat. She climbed in the car with the red-headed reporter, and was driven away. Two hours later she returned to say to Mrs. Hazard that she had a slight headache and didn't wish to be disturbed.

The Evening Columbian felt like a bomb into our midst at Lane Oak just before dinner. I remember one awful line in that glaring heading:

"Miss Agaziz Positively Identifies Emerald Bracelet."

Poor old Winthrop!

CHAPTER XIX.

The Arrival of Jo.

There's something so self-reliant about Jo. She drove up under the porte cochere late Wednesday afternoon, jammed on the emergency, pushed up her goggles and alighted, totally oblivious of the surprised and good-looking I'll stay tonight and go home tomorrow, since you are no longer suspected."

Poor old beautiful Jo! But she always looked lovely in anything she put on. I rang for her to be summoned. She looked a beautiful woman when she sees one, and she never disguises the fact that she thinks up. She looked into a very simple black gown that I had never seen before—and paused to wonder where she got it—then sat back on her heels on the floor and sang French songs over the record, as if she were entirely responsible for it.

"Ah, mademoiselle is most charming and beautiful! Oh, oh, and out!" Jo knew enough French to understand that. "Mademoiselle has the grand air, mademoiselle is exquisite!"

Mademoiselle's name was Jo. But I stood by with the most beautiful gown Mrs. Hazard had provided for me hanging upon my shoulders unhooked and unbuttoned.

"Well, Celia," I remarked, "you might get scrambling around on your knees and give me a little attention. Mademoiselle's name was Jo. But I stood by with the most beautiful gown Mrs. Hazard had provided for me hanging upon my shoulders unhooked and unbuttoned."

"Where's the garage?" Jo asked as I came to meet her.

"Vincent will take the car around for you," I told her.

I sounded the buzz for Vincent and took her upstairs. It was good to see her again. I felt that she was going to be a strong, firm prop in a sagging house-party still suffering from the shock of that awful damaging evidence against Winthrop. When we reached my sitting room she took me in her arms, kissed me and went straight to the point.

"Now, what's the matter?" she asked.

"You look pale and droopy."

"Matter?" I echoed. "Everything's the matter. Haven't you seen the papers about Mr. Abbott?"

"Yes, but I mean, what's the matter with you? You don't suppose I think I was sent for about a man I've never seen?"

"Oh, it's all over about me now, too," she said.

"Natalie lost a very valuable ruby and accused me of taking it. The circumstances were against me, but after we had telephoned for you she told me she knew I hadn't. I am grateful, exactly like you, to Natalie."

"And is that all?" asked Jo, with that same unerring penetration.

I shook my head and tried to swallow a tiny lump in my throat.

"He loves me," I said.

"Is it Mr. Hazard—of course? Oh, Louise! Louise!"

She caught me in her arms and drew me close, and I cried on her motherly bosom while she kissed my hair.

"Jo, it had to happen," I sobbed. "It's so perfectly dear."

"You always are," Jo replied with a sigh. "And you love him! And of course you've got to break your heart and give him up!"

"What else could I do, Jo?" I asked.

"Why, I haven't a penny, I'm practically a servant. I couldn't do anything else, could I?"

"You could!" replied Jo. "But you won't. My poor little cry!"

After I had finished my grief and doctored my nose I told her all the queer things that had happened in connection with those lost jewels. She had seen Winthrop's part of it in the newspapers. I even told her of that midnight chase where Hap suddenly had found himself in my bedroom, and what Natalie had told me of being sure she had seen the Duc d'Aubigny in town. It wasn't violating confidences, for Jo is Jo.

"Absolutely. It put Winthrop in an awful hole, and Jo, Winthrop never took that bracelet. He's not a thief; he's a dear, and there's a horrible mistake somewhere!"

"When we came into the drawing-room Hap was lounging near the door waiting for me, quizzically regarding the animated circle of which His Grace was the center. Jo was all the way across the room, sitting near one of the open windows, but when she saw us she stared, got up, nearly upsetting a table, and, upon my soul, she would not readily have interrupted the duke's involved speech over Jo's hand if I hadn't interfered."

"My sister, Miss Godman, Mr. Crowninshield, I said in a hurry, for fear he would actually kiss her before I got them introduced. Jo, who never looked twice at a woman in his life, gave him her hand and smiled.

"Mr. Crowninshield," she murmured in the most approved tone. Jo was never cut out for a dressmaker.

"Why didn't you tell me?" John complained, and somehow our duke drifted into the background.

"Jo's answer I didn't catch. I wondered what on earth John was talking about, what he meant by his question. He tried to maneuver her to a seat, but I came forward quickly.

"I want you to meet Miss Abercrombie, dear," I said, and drew her toward Lydia, and all the while I was wishing to get her to herself and ask her a few plain questions.

I was terribly upset. I didn't intend to have John falling in love with her, and he was doing it, for he was looking at her just as money as Hap always looks at me. She couldn't marry him any more than I could marry Hap, especially now, with this dressing-making nonsense, and I wasn't going to have those gorgeous eyes spoiled; it was all right for me to cry, but not Jo.

It was a horrid dinner party. Laura didn't come, which, of course, rendered every body of Winthrop; Natalie was late. Mrs. Hazard was plainly worried, and Natalie's vacant chat added another pucker to her brow. Hap was longer about trying to hold my hand under the table; and I was cross and didn't dare show it.

Natalie was shocking late. She didn't come in until after the fish, but she was not in the least disturbed. She drifted to her place, all agitter with her jewels, which was most unusual; jewels were saved for occasions. Everybody noticed them, but

Natalie chose to be unostentatious of the stir her late, dazzling entrance had caused. Hap spoke across the table to her when she sat down.

"Good morning," he said, laughing. "Everybody was rather shocked and still except for the chatter of the duke, and silver as the course was changed, and everybody heard it. Everybody heard—everybody but the duke, who didn't understand it, and Jo, who was never so undisturbed as to litter."

He had rather wear than those less than those. Natalie drew in her answer to a question Lydia snuggled at her when she laughed subdued. "Who knows when our North Shore thieves will descend upon Lane Oak?"

"Don't worry, my dear," Mrs. Hazard assured her. "There will be a detective here tomorrow to look after us all!"

"Detective!" shrieked Lydia. "How interesting!"

"Detective!" repeated His Grace, struggling with his pronunciation. "For why have we so detective-overs?"

"For precaution, Your Grace," Mrs. Hazard answered him. "We Americans believe in looking the stable before the horse is stolen."

His Grace gazed at her amazed. Poor little duke! I wished that I could have been near to explain it in French. I don't know how he interpreted it.

"How do you like my gown?" she asked.

"Oh, lovely. Where did you get it?"

"Made it."

I looked at her tolerantly, the way she was looking at me.

"I'm not that glib," I retorted. "It looks like a model."

"It is a model," Jo said calmly. "And indeed Paris, but it never saw Paris."

"What are you driving at?" I demanded.

I looked at her as if she had taken leave of her senses, then gradually the truth dawned upon me.

"You mean you're not studying botany?"

"No, dear, I'm learning a business. I'm already designing. I expect to have my own establishment next year."

I just wanted to sit down and weep. I felt that I could never forgive her, never, never! She caught me to her and kissed me on the cheek against mine.

"Don't be angry, dear. I couldn't let you do all the work, and Louise, I simply couldn't bear the idea of teaching."

"Teaching! Fiddlesticks!" I snapped. "Dressmaking! More fiddlesticks! I wanted you to have your course in botany, and I'm so disappointed I'll never get over it."

She calmly turned and picked up my list of entries without trying to console me. She knew I'd get over it. She ran her fingers down the page.

"Knew the duke abroad," she read. "Which duke? The Duc d'Aubigny, or the Duc de Trouville?"

"Why, the Duc de Trouville," I answered truthfully. "Whatever made you think it was the Duc d'Aubigny?"

"Oh, I think of silly things like that sometimes," she replied. She stood and waited for so very long, while her eyelashes swept her cheeks, that I began to fidget. "Did Miss Agaziz absolutely identify the emerald bracelet as her own?" she asked finally.

"Absolutely. It put Winthrop in an awful hole, and Jo, Winthrop never took that bracelet. He's not a thief; he's a dear, and there's a horrible mistake somewhere!"

"You win!" Hap exclaimed, and he tossed her an olive. I think from his expression that His Grace was a bit shocked by the proceeding.

"I'm trying to devise a method of protecting what I have left," Natalie drawled, "but—she paused for a moment, effectively—I shall not tell you."

"He refused," was accepted good naturedly, but the conversation about thieves and jewels ended, at least so far as the women were concerned, when Mrs. Cutter remarked:

"It came on the last express!" And everybody wanted to know the color, and what it looked like.

CHAPTER XX.

The Picture Gallery.

I thought I knew Jo. I don't. She had either changed since we separated, or there were latent qualities in her that I never suspected. She had never been curious, especially about things that were none of her business, but she went toward the drawing-room after dinner.

"Who is the duke in love with?" she wanted to know.

"Natalie," I replied.

"Not wants to marry," she qualified, "but cares for—loves!"

"If you mean anything, brother, claudette—why, about to know anything about it? I don't think you have any business thinking such things."

She merely smiled at my outburst. "Is there a picture gallery here?" she asked presently.

"Oh, no reason particularly. There always is in these houses, isn't it?"

"No. There are none here, isn't it?"

"Louise, what was the name of the German count who took you to the Spring Exhibition?" I asked.

"Polix von Brunner," I answered promptly.

"Of course!" she exclaimed. "I've racked my brain for an hour trying to remember his name!"

I turned about and faced her.

"Now look here, Jo, you are making me crazy with curiosity. You've asked me three questions for no reason on earth that I can see, and I want to know why."

The Stopping Bishop.

Nat C. Goodwin was detouring a clergyman who had gone wrong, a mind I don't mention his offense, mind you," said Mr. Goodwin. "But I want you to be sorry for him. Don't cackle and rejoice over his downfall. We are all human."

Then, in his musical and thrilling voice, the famous comedian resumed: "I know a very beautiful evening at who dined on a Sunday evening at he helped her to put on her cloak, stooped—stooped in more ways than one—and imprinted a kiss on my cheek."

"He turned and, looking at him disdainfully, she said:

"Remember, sir, if I am an actress I am a lady, and I am not a hum bug."

"And will you please remember," he said, "if I am a bishop, I am also a man!"

Illustration of a man and a woman.

"When you have no far-vest control of your nerves, you say 'My to please' over the head, the motion of excitement, it is high time to give your nerves a rest and to build up your blood. The drawn look, the shifty eyes, the desperate lines about the mouth and forehead, the loss in weight, are plain signs that the nerves and body are being poorly nourished."

"Don't put off taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. You may never recover a collapse than you think."

Heartless Man.

"Now, what are you feeling bad about?"

"Oh, I'm utterly wretched! He doesn't love me as I love him!"

"How do you know?"

"I know! I know! Last evening that the day we have fixed for our wedding day is the day of the opening of the cricket season, and also there's a bargain sale on at one of the big shops."

"And he wanted to change the date of the wedding?"

"Yes, he wanted to change it. He couldn't miss the opening game, and I couldn't afford of missing those bargains."

"Well, then, I—"

"But he wanted to have the wedding a day later, while it was I who suggested having it a day sooner."

New Use for the Ibox.

Teacher asked Lucy the definition of several words in the lesson and the child answered correctly. She was about to sit down very well satisfied with her knowledge of things when the teacher, smiling sweetly, said:

"Just one more question, Lucy. What is an Ibox?"

Lucy thought a moment then answered: "An Ibox is what you look for in the back of a book to find what is printed in the front part."

PINE COUNTY PIONEER

ED. C. GOTTRY, Editor and Prop

Entered in the Postoffice at Pine City as Second Class Matter

Pine City, Minnesota, May 2, 1913

Twenty Five Years Ago.

H. B. Hoffman has moved his family from this village to Sandstone.

Harry Willard is doing the cooking for the crew at work on the steamer "Kate R."

Warren Axtell has moved his family into the house formerly occupied by Mr. Hoffman.

Julius Neubauer has recently received a neat new fence which he will put around his residence in this village.

Misses Libbie and Flora Conger of Mora, came over the first of the week and spent a few days visiting with friends in this place.

A. J. Elmer has bought the D. E. Whitton house formerly occupied by J. W. Axtell and will move his family thither in a few days.

Mrs. A. Pennington and A. J. Conger of Mora, returned to Pine City Thursday from Stillwater, where they had been for a few days past.

Boarding cars for the accommodation of the crew of men who are working on the new grade between this village and Rock Creek, have been in town for the past few days.

The Snake river is up to high water mark, but is not high enough to do any damage. All of the streams in this vicinity are at a good driving stage, but are not uncommonly high.

Miss Grace Wilcox of this village, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. M. Gray, and attending the St. Croix Dallas Institute at Taylors Falls, returned home on Tuesday morning's train.

Mrs. A. Pennington was called to Stillwater last Monday morning by a telegram announcing the seriousness of her mother, Mrs. L. W. Eldred, Mrs. Eldred's many friends here hope that her illness will not prove fatal and that she will speedily recover.

Trains passing through town have of late been carrying considerable ore from the Vermilion Iron Range to the Union Steel and Iron Company of Chicago. The St. Paul & Duluth company are transporting upwards of 1,000 car loads for the above named company.

An order from the St. Paul & Duluth Railroad company was received this week changing the name of the station at the Kettle river sandstone quarries from Sandstone to Mineral Springs. This is due to the fact that the mineral springs in that vicinity are beginning to attract considerable attention.

D. F. Stephan who for some years past has resided a few miles south-east of this village, left this (Friday) morning on the early train for Valley Falls, Kansas, where he will work this summer. Dan has not sold out, and does not go away with the intention of remaining permanently, but will doubtless be back again in a year or two.

Death of Joseph Youngbower.

Joseph Youngbower of this village died at his residence on 5th street at 8 o'clock, a. m., of rheumatism of the heart and stomach.

Mr. Youngbower was born in Germany, in the year 1835, and consequently at the time of his death was fifty-three years of age. He came to this country in 1861 and in October of the same year moved to Pine City and has resided here ever since, where he was respected by all who knew him. He has always been an honest, industrious citizen and his death is a sad blow to his family consisting of his wife, and two children, Miss Anna and Mrs. Mary Micka, both of this place. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Joseph Yofel of this place, and also had two brothers and three sisters residing in the old country.

The funeral services were held from the Catholic church in this village Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Fr. Lynch officiating, and was largely attended. His remains were laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery.

BURIALS.

M. Currie spent last Saturday at the county seat on business.

Joe. Hurley of Pine City, was in town on Thursday of last week.

John Concannon of Sandstone, was in town on business Monday.

A. G. Perkins of Pine City, was in town for a few hours Thursday while on his way home from Cambridge and Mora.

Wm. Ginder has moved his family out to his farm a few miles east of this place, and is now settled down to the life of a granger in earnest.

Royal Knight of Rock Creek, was in town Thursday looking for a house to move his family into, he having been engaged to run the edger in Thomas Brennan's mill on the night crew.

The water in Grindstone river is about as high as was ever known here and dryers are consequently happy. There is about all the water the dam will hold and it is feared if the water continues to raise, it will be washed out.

Brennan & Durkan have recently received a fine new covered buggy together with a harness and everything complete. When their new driving team are hitched to this new buggy they will be able to flash out with the best of them, and will have by all odds the best turn out in town.

LUTHERAN NOTES.

Confirmation services will be conducted in the Lutheran church next Sunday at 10 a. m. This service will be conducted in English. A good attendance is desired for this meeting.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

By The Local Organization.

The W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Piper Tuesday afternoon. The topic for discussion was Sabbath Observance.

The County Convention will be held at Mora in June. A large delegation is hoped for from this place. The exact dates will be given later.

THE BAR.

The saloon is sometimes called a bar. It is well named.

Whoever named it, named it well.
A bar to manliness and wealth,
A door to want, and broken health.
A bar to honor, pride and fame,
A door to sin and grief and shame.
A bar to hope, a bar to prayer.
A door to darkness and despair.
A bar to honored useful life,
A door to brawling senseless strife.
A bar to all that is true and brave,
A door to woe and a pauper's grave.
A bar to joys that home imparts,
A door to tears and aching hearts.
A bar to heaven, a door to hell,
Whoever named it, named it well.

POTATO PLANTER

You can plant your crop faster and better with a EUREKA PLANTER than in any other way.

ACCURACY The dropping mechanism of the Eureka is very simple, with a positive movement, and is unusually accurate. Frequent tests have shown it to be more than 95 per cent. correct. Some users report 97 to 99 per cent. A planter with this high average satisfies growers and entirely offsets the old time argument made to sell planters that require driver and an extra man to watch the seed dropper and supply the skips. The Eureka with one man is guaranteed to equal, if not surpass, the results obtained from any other style.

UNIFORM DEPTH Instead of being two feet or more ahead of the main axle, our furrow opening plow is placed directly under the axle. It is therefore, carried in a relative position with the wheels over uneven ground, absolutely insuring planting at an even depth under all conditions. Other makes of planters do not have this construction, and this feature has caused many growers to purchase the Eureka. The crops come through the ground uniformly and make an even stand.

Good Looking Men

ARE ALWAYS SUCCESSFUL IN BUSINESS

Usually Admired by the Fair Sex

HERE IS THE SECRET

The men of Chicago have suddenly acquired an attractive complexion. The reason for this is, that they are now shaving their faces with the new process, called "The Velvet-Edge Safety Razor Blade Sharpener," which gives that velvety smooth skin to the constant shaver.

You men who use safety razors and want a velvety skin, shaved with the delicate softness so much desired, with a clean cutting edge, send your dull safety razor blades at once to Chicago, and have them sharpened by the new electrical process, which makes the dull blade cut better than the new, and your old blades are returned to you a perfect new blade.

Don't throw away your old safety razor blades, but send them today, well wrapped, and do not delay it until tomorrow.

Price 30c per dozen for all safety razor blades, which include Gillette's, Eye-Ready Gem, Auto-Strip, Enders, Keen-Kutter, and all other makes. Your blades will be returned to you in a few days, charges prepaid. Send coin or money order. No orders accepted under 30c.

Wrap blades securely in a card board box. Do not send them in an ordinary envelope, the blades may cut through and be lost. Include your name and P. O. address on the package.

G. SHERWOOD, Prop.

"Yes, our new wagon's a Studebaker — the only kind we KNOW"

"The Studebaker idea has been in our family for sixty years. We have never thought of buying any other kind of a wagon."

"It's true, we've continually been offered other wagons costing a little less, with lots of promises as to what they will do. But we know in our family what a Studebaker will do. A few dollars difference in price doesn't mean much. It's the service a wagon gives that we consider most."

"Long service for a fair price means more every time than short service for a few dollars less."

"That's why we stick to Studebaker—and 'Stick to Studebaker' is a pretty good motto for a man who uses wagons."

"Studebaker wagons are built of good stuff. They're made right by people who've had years and years of experience in making them right—people who are trusted the world over."

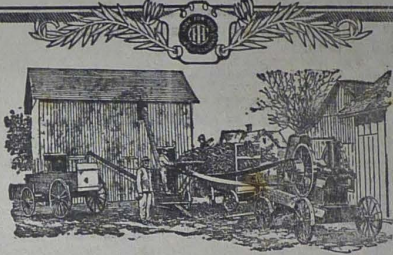

"Studebaker wagons last, because they're made to last."

"Look out for the dealer who tells you his wagon is just as good as a Studebaker. That's my advice after a good deal of experience—and the experience of all of my people. You get a Studebaker and you've got a safe investment."

The Best Bargain You Ever Made

HOW do you measure the value of a bargain? Suppose you bought an engine that did practically all of your hardest work for you, saving, pumping, grinding, etc., and that saved so much money that it soon paid for itself. Would you call that a good bargain?

An IHC engine will do all that, and more. After year paid for itself, it works steadily year after year until, like our Clay County friend who has used an IHC engine for six years, you will say, "My IHC engine is the best bargain I ever made."

IHC Oil and Gas Engines

are thoroughly dependable, and unusually durable. The fine-grained, grey iron cylinders and pistons are worked together to a perfect fit. Ground piston rings insure maximum power from the explosion. The fuel mixer is the most effective known. Bearings are large and carefully fitted. No part is too heavy to be efficient, yet every part is amply strong.

IHC engines are made in all styles—vertical and horizontal; portable and stationary; air and water-cooled; in sizes from 1 to 50-horse power, to operate on gas, gasoline, naphtha, distillate, kerosene or alcohol. Oil tractors, 12 to 60-horse power, for plowing, threshing, etc.; grinding, sawing, pumping and spraying outfits, complete the line.

The IHC local dealer will show you all the good points of the IHC engine. Get catalogue from him, or write
